The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

E. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1893. No 1.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising

Space	Weeks 1	Weeks 2	Weeks 3	Months 1	Months 2	Months 3	Months 6	Months 12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	1.50	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	2.50	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	3.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	3.50	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	4.50	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	7.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—[illegible]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box [illegible], Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. [illegible],
Dentist,
[illegible] West Front street. A new local anaesthetic applied for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—[illegible]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box [illegible], or left at Williams' music store, No. [illegible] Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence [illegible] E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
ALSO BOOK—Madison Avenue near Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 36 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap27

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 20 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, shampooing, etc. artistically performed.

GARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

[illegible]

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.
8-11-y

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18[illegible].
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
(Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
2-12-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables
Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct15y1
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers, Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
Gasoline Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St. 3-19-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables,
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
10 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Carey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—[illegible] W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. [illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes, and Tobacco always on hand.
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FIRE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
SEGARS!!
No. 10 PARK AVE., (near Corner of Second St.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from No. 6 W. Front street, to 42 West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. R. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
ARTISTS' SUPPLIES, 36 NORTH AVENUE.

C. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N.J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST,
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

CHRISTMAS SYMPOSIUM.

Literary Gems from Eminent Men and Women.

They All Regard the Day with Reverence—Memories of Years Gone By—Speaker Crisp's Early Life.

The Speaker of the House Tells How He Used to Spend Christmas Day When a Boy.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

THE happiest Christmas days man ever experiences are those on which his children are gathered around him enjoying the annual invitation of Santa Claus and the joys he brings to them in so many and such varied forms.

My own life has been particularly happy in this respect, and although shadows intervene now between me and the place where the stockings used to hang I can look back upon those times with the perfect conviction that at no period in my existence have I experienced such perfect joy as when I could hear the prattle of many childish voices at peep of day—voices that were impatiently awaiting sunrise, longing eagerly for the fire to be lighted in the nursery, that they might spring from their beds and hasten to see what St Nicholas had brought for their enjoyment.

There were six of those little folk born to us within ten years. As they stood in line, side by side, their little heads formed the stepladder to happiness over which any father's fancy might climb with that calm enjoyment which supersedes every other worldly pleasure.

Every Christmas eve was a gala time in our house then. It was a delight to contemplate their eagerness and innocence, to answer their multitudinous questions, to indulge them in their raptures of expectation, to administer to the fond fancies which are all in all to child life, all in all to the fathers and mothers of such children.

It was no small task to induce the little ones to retire Christmas eve, but when at last they were asleep the joys that I experienced in playing the part of Santa Claus and in filling each little stocking with longed for toys were greater, I know, than any that can ever come to me again.

Now, even though sadness is mixed with that precious season of the year, it will ever remain a glorious event to me, for with it comes the memory of the days that were. My own boyhood sinks to insignificance in the contemplation of the happy faces, rosy cheeks, eager voices and light footsteps I have seen and heard around my own fireside among my own children.

The father and mother of a family should be the happiest people in the world at Christmas time, even though some of the merry voices may have been stilled by the changes which time involves; but when the children are all there, laughing, dancing, shouting, singing, running, stamping, blowing horns and whistles and pounding drums, words utterly fail to depict the acme of happiness a parent feels; the heart falters and is dumb when joy such as this becomes its portion.

The happiest Christmas days I ever lived were with my own children, when I knew them to be happy.

CHARLES F. CRISP.

SECRETARY FOSTER ON PIE.

Especially the Christmas Pie His Mother Used to Make, the Like of Which No Woman Ever Made Without a Son to Appreciate It.

Christmas is the one day in the year which above all others should be the occasion of family reunions and general rejoicing. It is the midwinter festival when we should celebrate the fact that we are alive. I doubt if there be a man living to-day who, having attained the ripeness of middle age, does not look back upon the simple manner in which Christmas was celebrated thirty or forty years ago and compare it to the present decade very much to the disadvantage of the latter.

The pleasantest Christmas I ever passed was at my old home in Ohio when I was a boy, with no idea of the honors and responsibilities of life.

I remember one occasion when the sleighing was excellent—it was about the winter of '49-'50, I think—when we were all together at the old home. Nothing can ever efface the memory of that day from my mind, for to us it began on the evening before and ended the morning of December 26.

I can see the old kitchen now where we spent Christmas eve together, cracking nuts, pulling candy, with a pitcher of mulled cider on the table, while the smoke-begrimed walls and ceiling of the quaint old room rang with laughter and light-hearted frolic. There was, of course, the usual contingent of fiddles—we never called them violins in those days—and when the nuts were cracked and the candy pulled the floor was cleared and fun ran riot in that old house until nearly daylight. We danced, we sang, we told stories, we played the good old-fashioned kissing games like "Snap-and-Catch-'em," "The Needle's Eye," "Post Office" and a dozen others that I have forgotten, and the old folks enjoyed them just as much as the young ones.

It was nearly daylight when we went to bed, but we were up and at it again bright and early Christmas morning just the same.

I remember that there were a few simple presents exchanged, but in those days such things were given more as mementos than for the purpose of demonstrating the status of the donor's fortune, as seems to be the custom now. The presents that pleased me most on the occasion to which I refer were a pair of suspenders from my father and some soft, thick mittens from my mother.

The morning was spent in talking over the glorious time of the preceding night and in laughing, chatting, playing jokes and telling stories.

Then dinner!

What a gathering it was, to be sure! The table in ordinary use was not half large enough to seat the company or to accommodate the viands, and our ingenuity was put to the test to make it larger. What a dinner it was! There was wild turkey, 'coon, rabbit pie and [illegible], with vegetables galore, mulled cider, tea and coffee and such pies as only a man's mother ever succeeded in manufacturing. I don't think a woman ever learns to make a pie until she has a son who is old enough to appreciate it.

After dinner nobody wanted to move; everybody had eaten too much. Gradually, however, digestion got in its work and we came to life again.

In the middle of the afternoon we boys got the horses and sleighs ready. That consisted in filling the boxes with straw and buffalo robes, placing the boxes on traverse sleds and hitching four horses to each outfit. Then we went from house to house, picking up all the boys and girls in the neighborhood and piling them into the boxes pellmell.

I can hear those sleigh bells now—some of them were cow bells to be sure—I can hear the shouts of laughter, the singing, the witty sayings; I can feel the fun of that day to this hour.

What a ride we had, covering about twenty miles! One rig was overturned in a snow bank, and it looked for as long [illegible] as though a [illegible] barbers had begun business in that region. We dug the girls out, however, put them back in their sleigh and drove on, happy, merry, full of life and energy.

We reached our destination about dark. It was a large hall that had been warmed for us, and there, to the scraping of fiddles, the rattle of bones and the plunk of banjos, we danced and frolicked nearly all night. There was a supper, too, of baked beans, cold turkey, cold 'coon, bread and butter, pie—such pie—and hot coffee.

It was broad daylight when we got home. That Christmas was thirty-six hours long, and it was the happiest one I ever spent.

CHARLES FOSTER.

A RATHER SERIOUS TALE.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Writes a Christmas Story with a Serious Side.

Into something of a minor strain of thought I fall perforce when asked to contribute to this series of Christmas reminiscences. In all the long and lovely list of pleasant holidays which life has recorded for my undeserving sake I find not one which offers "a story" for a stranger's ear. "The happiest women, like the happiest nations, have no history," said George Eliot. So the happiest holiday tells no tales. One only out of all those Christmas days has crystallized into narrative material, and that one was, or seemed at the time of its passing to be, a dead and bankrupt loss.

We were in a city whose name is of no consequence, at a boarding house whose address I have long since forgotten—two young women, sufficiently familiar with dear and comfortable homes, and, fortunately or unfortunately, strangers to the miseries of boarding-house life. My friend was a medical student in a large university whose code of honor admitted women cordially and graduated them well trained. I was there for several reasons, not for the sake of the medical school, which I never visited except to accompany my student home, and of whose ghastly mysteries I had and have to this day an irrational horror. Personal friends on the faculty tried to lure me into the dissecting room upon the ground of its high value as special culture, but I would as soon have gone to a slaughter house or a prison, for such instincts for reformation of society as I may possess do not turn in the direction of the scalpel. My friend was made of braver and of tougher fiber and she shouldered her profession without a quaver. In brief, to put the matter in a word, her turn to dissect her portion of the "material" befell her at the holidays. We put the point to a vote between us—two girls, and our dog, the King Charles spaniel whose fate it was to share our exile—and decided by a majority of two against one to sacrifice our vacation, spend Christmas in the boarding house, and by working steadily through the recess finish the anatomical task which frowned before us. The dog pleaded for the country—for the great white house, the blazing open fires, the dear faces, the pure, fine air, the big garden, the sweep of snowlit fields, the glorious horizon, the reachings to Washusett and sleigh rides through the wooded roads and dipping hills of picturesque Andover. But we sternly took the hand of duty, or the thing which bore that aspect to our minds, and comforted the dog for his misfortune in belonging to such conscientious women, and promised him a Christmas dinner of fried liver, and tried to forget how it looked in Andover, and resolutely stayed by "the subject."

It was a poor little pauper Irish girl, I remember—lawful "material." Nobody had claimed her till the proper time was over, and now, by the mysterious law of sacrifice, it fell to her lot, as the last act of her unknown earthly story, to teach the solemn science of life and death to this more fortunate woman. Years afterward hundreds of suffering women called her blessed who possessed her rare power as a healer—I like to think—partly by the help of that Irish pauper girl and by the surrender of those lost holidays.

And here at last is one of the Christmas sides of this sober story; for it had more than one.

On Christmas eve we made the best of our luck, which was the least we could do, and gave the King Charles a new collar and rubber ball and took him to walk with a string at whose thither end he tugged, gasping audibly, and dragging us after him at a dog trot. And we sent off the Christmas packages and wished we, too, could be tied up and expressed home prepaid, and sighed or cried ourselves to sleep according to our nature, and woke: and it was Christmas morning, and the big boarding house was astir, tramping restlessly and homesickly up and down stairs—and where were the dear, the dearest voices, wishing that our Christmas might be merry and our souls at peace?

We came down to breakfast with aching hearts, but smiling faces, as in holy duty bound. All the boarders were up, as we say, by which we mean that they were down, all but one, an artist, not yet visible. He bore an ancient and distinguished family name, but he was not very popular in our boarding house, one could hardly say why.

Our landlady's daughter, a pretty, gentle girl, had ingeniously contrived to lay some little gift at every plate upon the long table. She was pleased with the flutter of kind words and thanks which greeted her thoughtful effort to give to so many exiled people a sense of home, and her young face flushed with pleasure.

As we sat there chatting and smiling and warming each other's homesick hearts and lives as well as we could for Christmas' sake, the late boarder came down.

"Merry Christmas, Mr.——!" cried the landlady's daughter. She turned her sweet face toward him with a happy, trustful look. He stood for an instant black as a cyclone. Then he broke forth—"Merry Christmas! I should think! Merry Christmas I should say! It's cold enough in my room to freeze out—"

He mentioned a place to which one is not in the habit of alluding on Christmas day and flung himself down to his breakfast amid a silence such as a man might recall with a pang upon his dying day.

That night when I drew the curtain I stood for awhile and looked with less than the usual shudder at the [illegible] roof where the Irish girl's heart, in a jar of alcohol, rested in the cold moonlight, painless and calm. And I said:

"Child of ignorance, sleep well. You have served a nobler end than any man who trains his hand to exquisite art while his uneducated soul is groveling in blasphemy!"

And from that day to this I have prayed a separate holiday prayer: "For all persons doomed to board at Christmas time!"

Then, now and forever it is by what we lose that we learn to value what we have. From that breakfast hour to this I have known how to add to my litany: "Bless God for home on Christmas day!" And thus ends the moral of this brief tale—Holiday Lore.

If you are in a home, stay there. If you have any to go to go there, and thank Heaven and pray pardon for your souls if, out of madness or of folly, or of that ignorance which is a compound of both, you obey not this sacred claim in life's long code.

ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS WARD.

A CHRISTMAS IN 1842.

English Victories at Khyber Pass Made Happy Hearts in the Old Country.

[illegible] the only [illegible] ver. It was a national one, derived from some event which at that time fills the public heart. On Christmas, 1842, I was at Brown hall, Northumberland, a girl of nine years old, precociously observant and sympathetic; therefore trembling and weeping to the great interest of the day—the sufferings and dangers of the women and children with the British army in Cabul. I had heard the thrilling story of the struggle through the frozen pass of Khoord-Cabul. I had followed in imagination the heroic death of the army who perished to a man there amid its hunger, cold and treachery, and of the women and children who as hostages and prisoners were hurried from fort to fort, while Gens. Sale and Pollock and Sir Richmond Shakespeare were forcing the Khyber Pass for their relief.

LET ME SEE YOUR FACE.

And just before this Christmas had come the news that they had been saved—that husbands and wives and children had met again, while soldiers cheered and the mountain train guns roared out royal salutes and the English flag was once more set blowing from the Bala Hissar of Cabul. All the talk was of these events and strange stories were told of dreams and omens and presentiments relating to them. And I liked this better than the old cumbrous ceremonies which were still kept intact in that lonely hall, and which indeed greatly wearied the squire, though he would not forbid them. But as soon as dinner was over he escaped to his private parlor, where he proposed to go comfortably to sleep as usual over his evening paper.

But this night something awakened his heart, and he could not shut his eyes and forget. Twelve years before his son Willy had left him in a passion. His mother had hoped and watched, and died calling him home, but Willy had never answered the call—and he had now been forgotten. At this day his father seldom remembered the face that had been so beloved, and his sisters sighed and spoke of something else.

This Christmas night, the squire told us afterward, he could not get Willy out of his mind. He kept reminding himself of the lad—how he could run and wrestle and ride and hunt, how the men envied him and the women loved him, and how proud he himself had been of his beauty and cleverness. He became nervous with the iteration of the same thought, and finally took the handkerchief off his face and stood up. The room had grown dark and the fire low. He rang for wood and a man entered with an armful of ash logs. The squire said: "Is that you, Baldy?" and the fellow answered: "My name is William. I be a new man, sir."

The logs began to blaze, the squire looked at the stranger, and when he raised himself from the hearth he said: "Who are you, William? Where do you come from?" Then the man looked at his master, looked straight into his eyes and the squire trembled and went closer. "Let me see you," he said, hoarsely. "Let me see your face!" And the new man said, softly:

"Father!"

And the squire told us that something within him laughed joyously, and that he felt as if it was growing dark, but that in the shadows he heard a voice saying: "Father, forgive me!" and that then he had to speak, and the words, the only words he could say were: "Forgive thee, Willy! I forgave thee many a year ago!" and with that he came to himself fully and he was sitting in his chair and a fine young cavalry officer was kneeling at his knee and the servant in the smock frock had disappeared; and he asked, quickly: "Where is my Willy?"

Then he found out that Willy had only put on the smock frock to see if Willy would be welcome for Willy's own sake; for he had become a great soldier, and had been with Sale and Pollock and had taken his full share in all the brave deeds that had been done that famous year in India.

The company were dancing "Money-musk" under the holly and mistletoe boughs when the squire and his handsome son came into their presence again. And all the lovely young girls looked at him, and some of the married women, remembering his face, broke the dance up with a glad cry, and surrounded both the father and the son with noisy joy. But I noticed that Willy very soon passed to the side of the beautiful Adalaide Plessy, and said something to her in a whisper, and she smiled at him for reply and gave him her hand. And after that Christmas really began, and the singing and dancing and feasting and frolicking that had been only a social necessity became something very much different and very much happier.

Then on one happy night when it was furiously stormy outside and delightfully peaceful and radiant inside Willy [illegible] told us all over again the glorious story of the taking of the passes—told it with such fire and passion that every man was feeling for his sword, and every woman was listening with flaming cheeks and tears like dew drops on them. And I know it was that night when this martial story was finished that Willy told another story to Adalaide Plessy, and the end of that story was the grandest wedding that had ever been seen by Fallowlees or Otterburn.

It is forty-nine years ago, and yet but a few months since I met a gray-haired woman who had been my companion at Brown, and she recalled with me every emotion and event, and added:

"Yes, they were married, Willy and Adalaide, and though some of us have been but poorly used since, as far as I know they lived happily ever afterward."

AMELIA E. BARR.

AN ACTOR'S CHRISTMAS.

How an Invitation to a Quiet Poker Game Saved De Wolf Hopper's Life.

About twelve years ago, Christmas time, when my only ambition in life was to see my name in big letters and my [illegible] face in [illegible] posters plastered over the country fences and city billboards, I was enjoying my first experience as a manager and the head of a great comedy company. It was a great show, but the public didn't seem to believe it, and I was enthusiastically sinking my good inherited dollars in trying to convince them. The play was called "One Hundred Wives," a western border, Mormon comedy drama. I had such clever people in the company as Georgie Drew Barrymore, Ada Gilman and others [illegible]. We were going the southern circuit. On the Saturday night before Christmas, which fell on Sunday, we played at Meridian, Miss., and were booked to play on the next night, which was Christmas, in New Orleans. The passenger train waited for us two hours after the performance in order to get us to the Crescent city in time. I expected to meet my partner and manager, Jacob Goshe, at Mobile—about two hours ride from Meridian. I thought I would enjoy a ride on the engine by night and obtained permission to do so. I already had my foot on the cab of the engine and was about to get on when William Harris, a member of my company, asked me to fill up a game of poker. Some bigoted people may consider such diversion inappropriate and opposed to the religious impressions and the sweet carolings of Christmas time, but my readiness to accept the invitation to enjoy a quiet game of "draw" saved my life. An hour later our train ran into a freight train on the state line between Mississippi and Louisiana. Two men on our engine and four others on the freight engine were killed. The scene of horror and excitement that followed baffles my powers of description. The engineer of the freight train was brought into our sleeper. He was supposed to be dead and was put on an improvised berth. One of the wounded was carried into the smoker. He was horribly burned and a call was made for some vaseline. I went into the sleeper to get the article from some of the girls in our company. Passing the berth of the supposed dead engineer I was startled by a cold vise like grasp on my wrist. A voice, filled with an agony of emotion and suffering, such as I hope never to hear again, cried out: "For God's sake, talk to me." The engineer was not yet dead. I could not move. For ten minutes he held me by the wrist. He uttered an awful strain of blasphemy. It was simply horrible. He raved of the terrible penalty which he and his associates on the freight train had paid for their reckless drunkenness. From what he said I gathered that he, the fireman, the feeder and the brakeman on the freight train had all been drunk. They had paid fearfully for their holiday conviviality. While all this was going on I could see through the window a crowd gathered outside about the burning cab of the engine. The darky feeder was pinned down in such a way that it was absolutely impossible to release him. He was slowly being burned to death, and, delirious with pain, he made the scene still more weird with the most mournful chanting of negro hymns. It made an impression upon me that I can never forget. My Christmas days since then have been a time of joy and feasting, but the day never passes by in recurring years but what the recollection of that awful night is always made manifest and vivid to me despite the presence of kind friends and all the happy surroundings so inseparably associated with Christmas.

DE WOLF HOPPER.

"ABE" HUMMEL'S CHRISTMAS.

While He Was at Work His Mother's Loving Hand Made His Room a Bower.

The pleasantest Christmas surprise of my life was given to me by my mother. The memory of it will linger forever in my mind, and to recall it from time to time forms the most pleasing reminiscence of any that I have in mind.

It happened on the day before Christmas. I left home as usual in the morning to attend to my law business which, unfortunately, is of such a nature that I hardly know what it is to have a vacation, and was busy all day—so busy that I scarcely thought of Christmas at all. When I went home that night it was very near midnight, and I toiled wearily upstairs too tired to notice anything. I opened the door of my room, walked half way across the floor, and then suddenly realized that I was standing in the midst of a most enchanting scene.

When I left my home in the morning I left behind me an ordinary bedroom, not unlike that which any bachelor might occupy. The room in which I found myself was simply gorgeous in its beauty. During the day my mother had by almost superhuman effort transformed the whole room until it might have been a niche in Aladdin's palace. On the floor there was a magnificent Smyrna carpet, which had been made to order in Europe, and was exactly the size of my room and of a design which just fitted.

MY MOTHER CAME IN.

The old marble mantel had been taken out, and in place of it there was a handsome tile shelf with a tile front and a fireplace large enough and inviting enough to delight the heart of any bachelor and keep him at home nights. My large collection of owls had all been gathered together and was stationed on top of the beautiful cabinets and bookcases with which my mother had lined my room. The top of the dresser was covered with red plush and on it were more silver trifles than I ever expect again to see on any other man's bureau. The bedstead had a black silk spread on it with Japanese figures in raised gold. There was a Japanese slumber coverlet so expensive that I dared not guess how much my mother had paid for it, and in place of the ordinary bedroom chairs there were beautiful plush affairs, very elegant, yet so comfortable in appearance that I saw they were for everyday use.

I rubbed my eyes and stared about me. Had I made a mistake and entered the wrong house? And was I in the room of perhaps some maiden fair who might return at any time and go into hysterics at finding a strange man in her room? Again I stared around the room. Surely I had made some mistake. Yet no; I was correct, for there on the walls hung my collection of old prints, and stationed about were familiar landmarks which told me that I was in my own room.

Just then my mother burst into the room to wish me a "Merry Christmas," for the clock had crept on to several minutes past twelve.

How I thanked my mother for such a joyful surprise, and how I feasted my eyes upon the handsome things which I had always longed to possess but which it had always seemed rank extravagance to buy.

And so, after all, my pleasantest Christmas reminiscence is the one on which my mother transformed my room from a plain everyday affair into an Aladdin bower.

A. H. HUMMEL.

Two-Living.

Justice O'Halloran—Have you any children, Mrs. Kelly?

Mrs. Kelly—I hov two living, an wan married.—Puck.

Notes Bad.

"Jimson, the new singer in the choir, is quite wealthy."

"Still his notes are no good."—Jury.

Did He Do That?

Mr. Staylate—I am aging rapidly!

She (yawning)—Yes, I've noticed a change since you came.—Town Topics.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

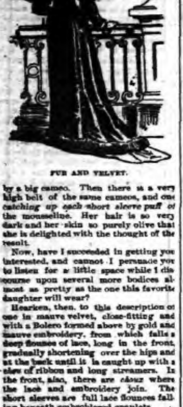
Some Pertinent Reflections for Christmas Day.

Pretty Bodices to Engage Our Attention—Fur in Its New Shapes and Forms—Seal Still the Favorite—Evening Gowns Again.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Surely we wouldn't think of fashions on such a day as this. Why, it's Christmas, the day we forget ourselves and think of others! We haven't any time to bother with styles and petty differences of fashion and trifling advance on the modes of a month ago.

No? Well, then, let me tell you of what a thoughtful parent has purchased for his pretty daughter. That will interest you, I know. It is one of the prettiest bodices you ever saw, and she is going to wear it to-night at the family gathering—just to please him, you know. It is a Josephine bodice, made of peau de soie, in a deep rich red draped softly across the front with rose-colored mousseline de soie, caught up by a big cameo. Then there is a very high belt of the same cameos, and one catching up each short sleeve puff of the mousseline. Her hair is so very dark and her skin so purely olive that she is delighted with the thought of the result.



FUR AND VELVET.

Now, have I succeeded in getting you interested, and cannot I persuade you to listen for a little space while I discourse upon several more bodices almost as pretty as the one this favorite daughter will wear?

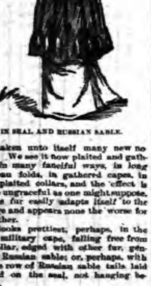
Hearken, then, to this description of one in mauve velvet, close-fitting and with a Bolero formed above by gold and mauve embroidery, from which falls a deep flounce of lace, long in the front, gradually shortening over the hips and at the back until it is caught up with a chou of ribbon and long streamers. In the front, also, there are choux where the lace and embroidery join. The short sleeves are full lace flounces falling beneath embroidered epaulets.

Another one with loosely falling lace effect is of serpent-green silk, shot with rose. The low cut corsage is bordered with pink feather trimming shading off into green, and, from this the lace flouncing falls. This time it is at the back that the lace hangs long into a deep slender point. Butterflies of lace are poised on the shoulders.

Two more are there—one of pink bengaline, the other of yellow brocade. The bengaline has a dull pink feather trimming and steel passementerie bands for adornment; the yellow brocade has flouncing of white chiffon across the pointed bodice, and a high crush belt of the brocade.

But there's another subject we may discuss even on Christmas day, and that is fur. It's a warm, comfortable subject, and seems to suit the glowing fire and family gathering, particularly that most comfortable and popular form of it—seal. Seal still reigns queen of all furs; no other has conquered it, although its overthrow has often been prophesied and threatened.

But though it is still supreme it has assumed a new guise. We see it no longer in severity of form, in straight, plain garment almost devoid of shape. It has dropped the old conservatism and taken unto itself many new notions. We see it now plaited and gathered in many fanciful ways, in long Watteau folds, in gathered capes, in short plaited collars, and the effect is not so ungraceful as one might suppose, for the fur easily adapts itself to the change and appears none the worse for it, either.



IN SEAL AND RUSSIAN SABLE.

It looks prettiest, perhaps, in the long military cape, falling free from the collar, edged with other fur, generally Russian sable; or, perhaps, with a close row of Russian sable tails laid around on the seal, not hanging below it.

In the short fur garments—the little capes and the Eton and Bolero jackets—however, other fur is just as popular. One always finds the mink, and there are also the gray krimmer, the Persian lamb or the moire Persian. Of course, the military cape is the latest, and often forms the only outer garment, even on cold days. But it is very deceptive, and while it looks warm and protecting, hanging far below the hips, the wind has a quiet way of working up under it and sending little chills through the person who was rash enough to come out so clad.

Much more sensible are the small sleeveless fur jackets over the cloth coats. These are Eton, generally, of round cut, Bolero, reaching to the waist line, or still shorter.

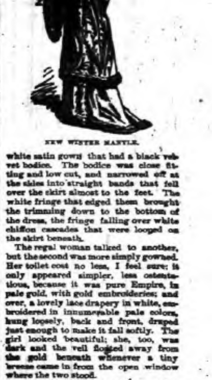
But possibly we're disposed to be more economical and deny ourselves one of the beautiful fur garments, which cost anywhere from $100 to $1,000, or even more, for one can easily pay $1,000 for a coat in that most expensive fur, Russian sable. But if we are disposed to practice economy we shall content ourselves with fur in trimming only, either on dress, cloak or hat. For dresses the narrower it is the better, when it appears in bands. For girdles it may be broader, and for sleeves it is allowed still more freedom. A cloth dress looks very handsome with such an addition of fur, and possibly a sleeveless jacket as well.

Then there are the fur collars, running down into a long point in front, even as far as the belt; or the high rolling collars, with short plaited flounces added; or the head and tail boas. These last appear very modest, and yet I saw one [illegible] of Russian sable marked twenty-five dollars.

Muffs are a little bigger this year, and the round ones are still popular. One sees plenty of the flat, fancy ones in velvet and fur, but there is no present danger of their taking the round muff's place. The most convenient muff is one that has a tiny spring concealed at the top, which flies open when pressed and reveals a deep, satin-lined pocket, so convenient to hold handkerchief, purse, card case, and a dozen other things women carry with them, pocket or no pocket.

But the fur has another vocation. It is sometimes content to hide itself beneath beautiful brocade, or pale-colored cloth evening cloaks. The white Mongolian is often found here, and only peeps out a little way at the edge.

That's the way I saw it in a beautiful military cape, worn by a most magnificent woman, tall and queenly, with wonderful black hair. The cape was of black velvet, full three-quarter length, and lined and bordered down the front with pure white ermine. The lower edge was bordered with wide white passementerie. It looked more startling, possibly, because it fell over a white satin gown that had a black velvet bodice. The bodice was close fitting and low cut, and narrowed off at the sides into straight bands that fell over the skirt almost to the feet. The white fringe that edged them brought the trimming down to the bottom of the dress, the fringe falling over white chiffon cascades that were looped on the skirt beneath.



NEW WINTER MANTLE.

The regal woman talked to another, but the second was more simply gowned. Her toilet cost no less, I feel sure; it only appeared simpler, less ostentatious, because it was pure Empire, in pale gold, with gold embroideries; and over, a lovely lace drapery in white, embroidered in innumerable pale colors, hung loosely, back and front, draped just enough to make it fall softly. The girl looked beautiful; she, too, was dark and the veil floated away from the gold beneath whenever a tiny breeze came in from the open window where the two stood.

As I walked the other day through a most fashionable establishment, I wondered what the crowd of women at the end were doing. There seemed to be more excitement than was usual in that great place. So I pushed my way through and discovered that they were buying, as fast as they could, dress lengths of the loveliest fine French cambric, in dainty colors. It didn't matter that the day was a bitterly cold one; all that the women knew then was that those goods were to be had at a wonderful bargain, and that this was the time to get them.

And after watching them for some time, and listening while they discussed the designs that would probably be fashionable next summer, I felt so interested and so sympathetic that I bought one myself.

EVA A. SCHUBERT.

A Well-Meant Suggestion.

Charlie—I asked Miss Manley to be my wife, and she declined.

Prunella—Ask her to be your husband, and see what she says.—Truth.

Their Destination.

He—Where did they go when they eloped?

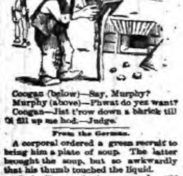
She—Back home. They had only carfares in their pockets.

Quite Different.

Holmes—By the way, Wander, where do you live now?

Wander—I don't; I board.—Life.

THE LAST BRICK.



Coogan (below)—Say, Murphy?

Murphy (above)—Phwat do yez want?

Coogan—Jist t'row down a bhrick till I fill up me hod.—Judge.

From the German.

A corporal ordered a green recruit to bring him a plate of soup. The latter brought the soup, but so awkwardly that his thumb touched the liquid.

"Swine!" roared the corporal. "If you want to wash yourself there is a horse trough, but you needn't wallow in my soup."

The Other Fellow.

Small Boy—Hurry up, doctor! A fellow 'round the corner fired loose with his fist and hit a book agent an awful lick on the cheek.

Doctor—Where is the book agent?

"It ain't the book agent that wants you. It's the fellow that hit him."—Life.

Had Heard It Before.

He—How charming you look, dear, in that dress! It becomes you admirably.

She—Oh, yes! That's an old story. When the season is changing you always discover how charming I am in my old clothes!—Demorest's Magazine.

Unseasonable.

Trivvet—Dicer, I wish you would lend me twenty-five dollars.

Dicer—This is an unseasonable time to try to borrow money.

Trivvet—How so?

Dicer—The days are getting so short, and time is money, you know.—Truth.

A Happy Outlook.

Newly-Made Bride—Mamma says she does not think we will ever quarrel as she and papa do.

Groom—Never, dearest.

Newly-Made Bride—No, she says you will be much easier to manage than papa was.—Harper's Bazar.

English as She Speaks It.

Miss Snobly—Why did you speak to that vulgar Miss Newcome?

Miss Van Million—I took her for Miss Uppish. If I had known who she was I shouldn't have known her, you know.—Puck.

Carrying It Too Far.

"This is carrying a joke too far," remarked Cupid, after he had visited seventeen newspaper offices, at all of which his joke had been declined.—Des Moines Argonaut.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

BENEFICENT RESULTS.

The recent Presidential election was fruitful in beneficent results.

By it the sovereign people emphatically passed judgment against the McKinley tariff, that odious measure concocted by individual interests for mercenary self gain, and adding its enormous expense upon the honest and industrious masses.

They justly condemned class legislation and special favoritism of every name and kind.

They indignantly rejected as infamous the Republican leaders Force bill, an artfully projected scheme to place State elections under the immediate control of a horde of partisan supervisors, counters and manipulating returners, backed by Federal bayonets.

They tore into tatters and buried out of sight the crimson flag of sectional hate, so long a cherished war-cry emblem of the Republican party.

They decreed that the wanton waste of public money must be stopped, and the extravagant cost of Government reduced to necessary requirements and the enforcement of practical economy.

They declared that the office of President was not and shall not be an article of corrupt bargain and sale.

They rebuked the re-nomination of a Presidential candidate by a convention purposely packed with subservient office-holders and clamorous office-seekers.

And finally—

They grandly vindicated the cause of good government and robust integrity, by casting a vast majority of votes in favor of a man who, as Chief Magistrate of the United States, will conscientiously discharge every duty for the public weal, and never sully his high position with acts of incapacity, dishonor or dishonesty.

Respect the mandate!

It was the people who issued it!

The people are sovereign!

LUCK AND CALCULATION.

1893 is here.

"There is luck in odd numbers" said Rory O'More.

May his prediction be realized on behalf of the present year.

Stephen Girard, the prominent Philadelphia merchant and financier of over sixty years ago, declared "there was no such thing as luck, it was all calculation," and his own successful business career evidently endorsed the assertion.

Therein Stephen differed from Rory. Calculation is certainly a safe basis for the securement of reliable prosperity. It separates fact from fiction, discerns honest principles from speculative theories, and stimulates individual exertion, thought and investigation.

Luck is wavering chance.

Calculation solid acquirement.

If all the American people possessed a free and equal opportunity to become rich and independent, totally discarding deceptive chance, and being content with the results of plodding industry in some legitimate calling, even numbered years would be as fully properous as those bearing odd figured titles.

May Health, Happiness, Peace and Plenty abound and multiply through out the length and breadth of this mighty ocean-fringed Union of States. That is our sincere wish.

ENTERTAINING HIS EMPLOYEES.

Annual Christmas Dinner Given by Amos H. Van Horn.

The question how to promote good-fellowship between employee and employer was solved many years ago by Amos H. Van Horn, the furniture dealer on Market street, Newark. Mr. Van Horn saw the necessity for some bond between himself and employees some time ago and started a Christmas supper, at which he presided, and to which all the men about the store were welcomed. Besides this Mr. Van Horn always made his guests doubly happy by not only satisfying the cravings of the inner man, but also by presenting to each one an envelope containing cash to certain amounts, according to the term of service of the recipient.

Last night saw a recurrence of one of their annual feasts, and it took place at Molter's. There were thirty-five employees at the table, besides two personal friends of the host, John Reagan and Opdike Cummings. The latter has been in Michigan for thirty-five years and for the time is visiting his old home.

After the cloth was removed Mr. Van Horn had a few words to say to the "boys" which were greeted with applause. Then the pleasure of the evening began. There were songs, recitations, music and speeches which lasted until long after midnight. Among the participants were J. W. Walpole, William Cunningham, Harvey Hopkins, W. J. Douglass, George Klein, John Reagan, Harry Hopkins, Charles E. Dean and Gus Hartman. The speech of the evening was made by Edward F. Clement as he presented each man with his little envelope. Mr. Van Horn did not forget his outside friends during this happy season. On Christmas Day he distributed cigars to the drivers and conductors of all the street railroad lines.

Governor Werts's Staff.

While as yet no official announcement has been made as to the staff of Governor George T. Werts, it is stated on good authority that the following named gentlemen have received notices of their appointment on the staff: Leon Abbett, jr., of Hoboken; Senator Michael T. Barrett, of Newark; Asa Dickinson, of Jersey City; Joseph D. Bedle, of Jersey City; Anthony R. Kuser, of Trenton; E. P. Meany, of Morristown, and Senator Robert Adrain, of New Brunswick.

The Governor is entitled to a personal staff of ten aides, and he may appoint two others. Colonel Harvey is mentioned as a possible addition. Each of the gentlemen named above have received notices to meet at the St. James Hotel next Saturday to complete arrangements for the inauguration of Governor Werts. —The American.

HOPE CHAPEL'S ANNIVERSARY.

Wet Weather Does Not Dampen the Ardor of These Earnest Workers.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the attendance at Hope chapel Sunday afternoon was not as large as was expected. Nevertheless, the programme which was published in these columns Friday was executed to the best advantage. The historical address which was read by the superintendent was very impressive, as it brought back tender recollections of five years ago, when the chapel was first opened. Next came the calling of the roll of 1888, and a good many answered to their names as they did of yore. Then followed the reading of the lesson for January, 1888, and a few remarks by F. H. Andrews, who took for his subject "God With Us", and stated that he hoped God would be with them in the future as He did with the few that gathered in the chapel five years before. "Looking Backward" was the subject taken by the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. He related the account of the chapel's organization. It so happened that Jan. 1, 1888, was a very wet day, like that of this year. Dr. Richards had to plough through the rain and mud, always thinking that afternoon if he would have to give up walking and take to the art of swimming, but luckily he had reached the chapel on foot.

The closing part of the programme was an address by the genial pastor, the Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who is ever ready to say a few words when called on. After all had finished speaking, the teachers, who had contributed for an elegant Bible, presented the volume to the superintendent, H. C. Squires. The presentation speech was made by F. H. Andrews, to which Mr. Squires responded thanking the teachers very highly for what they had done for him.

The attendance in the evening was very good, and there was an enjoyable meeting. H. R. Munger made a few remarks. He asked, Does Hope chapel do any good? Of course it does, he answered. He stated that looking over his books he found that in his class of men numbering 74 thirty had confessed themselves to be followers of the Saviour, and many had done the same in the rest of the classes in the chapel. "Oh, I tell you, brothers and sister,"—he continued—"that Hope chapel is doing a great work in the western part of the city."

"What has God done for me in Hope chapel?" This was a two-minute speech from members of the congregation, to which a goodly number responded, telling what God had done for them.

Corydon E. Tyler next spoke, taking for his text John III:16, which he dwelt on for a long time, relating a good many ways how a person can become a Christian, after which the meeting closed with an exhortation to those who had been attending the chapel five years to continue and bring souls to the Master who is always ready to welcome them to His fold.

HE CAN'T BE TRIED FOR BIGAMY.

Bullock's Wife Waited Too Long Before Bringing Action Against Him.

Thomas O. Bullock, a wholesale rice dealer at 125 Water street, New York, has escaped arrest for bigamy simply through the operation of the statute of limitations.

He had married Blanche Douglas who was tried and acquitted for complicity in the murder of Jennie Cramer.

He was married in 1879 to Mrs. Lydia E. Ridgeway, of this city. Previous to that he had another wife, whose attorney, Charles E. Hobbs, is now suing for a mortgage to secure the payment of alimony. As five years have elapsed since the alleged bigamy was committed, Bullock cannot be prosecuted, but civil actions will be brought.

Glowing Tribute to a Departing Townsman.

The removal of B. Loersen to Reading, Pa., whence he goes to fill an important position with the Reading Hardware company, will deprive the Democrats of North Plainfield of one of their most faithful and effective party associates. As a private in the ranks and as a member of the township and of the county executive committees, his wise counsels and his earnest devotion to party success will be greatly missed by the many who have learned to value his services.

To the people of Washingtonville Mr. Loersen's deeds as school trustee have been especially valuable in the uplifting of the school to a standard as high as that of the best district schools in the State, and to his persistent efforts are due many of the superior advantages which that school now enjoys.

The many friends of Mr. Loersen, both in this vicinity and in New York city, where he is well-known both in society and in business circles, will sincerely regret the loss of his congenial fellowship and the influence of his sterling, upright qualities. And while his removal to a new field of usefulness will leave a vacancy not easy to be filled, the qualities which have made him invaluable as a business associate and which have endeared him to his many friends, will command from those among whom he will cast his lot the recognition to which those qualities entitle him.

Mr. Tidden's First Morning Recital.

The first of Paul Tidden's piano recitals was given in the Casino of the Union County Country club, Monday morning. Mr. Tidden's programme was excellent, containing selections from Chopin, Schumann, Liszt and Wagner, and his execution of it was remarkably fine.

His playing is marked by an extreme delicacy of touch and conception, and a keen appreciation of the works which he interprets. A Toccata of Schumann's, the Fire Music, from the Walkurie, and Liszt's Hungarian rhapsody, op. 12, were given with peculiar fire and feeling, while a Berceuse of Chopin's, and a series of four Minuets, by Schubert, Raff, Mozart and Bizet, were played with a refinement of taste and sympathy as delightful as it is rare.

The second recital will be given on Tuesday, the 10th, when Mr. Tidden will play Beethoven's Sonata in F sharp major, and a series by Greig, as well as selections from Mendelssohn, Chopin and others.

Testimonial from His Co-Workers.

Superintendent E. W. Pepper of the Prudential Insurance company of this city returned from his New Year's vacation, Monday, and on entering his office found occupying the corner of the apartment a new and handsome solid roll-top oak desk, presented to him by the assistant superintendents and agents, with best wishes for a happy new year. The surprise was complete and gratifying.

Kept up the Frolic Till Almost Daybreak.

A party numbering sixty surprised Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, last Friday evening, at their new home, 254 West Fourth street. D. McInnes on behalf of the men presented to Mr. and Mrs. Jackson a beautiful hanging lamp. The women provided refreshments in abundance, and all took part in carrying out an extensive and varied programme, consisting of songs, recitations, dancing and games. The intervals were well filled with the comic antics of six of the men, who were dressed in fantastic costumes, representing Indians, brigands, dry-land sailors, etc. So heartily did the people enjoy the event that it was with great reluctance that at 3:30 a. m. they brought the proceedings to a close, by singing "Auld Lang Syne".

THE DUCKWORTH CHILDREN.

Catholic Mrs. Keating Awarded the Guardianship of Two, Protestant Mrs. Casner One, and Protestant Mr. Andrews None—The Contest Begun in February, 1891, Ended Yesterday.

It is pretty safe to say that there has been more time and money spent in litigation over the guardianship of the three minor children of John Duckworth, deceased, than in any similar contest in this State. The orphan children possess no property. Their parents did not leave over $100, and this consisted of tools and wearing apparel. Yet there has been litigation over their guardianship in four courts, and final decision was not rendered until yesterday, twenty-two months after the first paper was filed. The mother of these children was of the Roman Catholic faith, and their father was a Protestant. The father consented to the mother's request that the two older children be baptized in their mother's church. The youngest child received no baptism. The mother died several years before the father. The father at the time of his death was a member of a Protestant church choir and an attendant at Hope chapel. Amos Andrews, who had the custody of one of the children, first applied, through his counsel, Jackson & Codington, to the Somerset county surrogate, without notice to Mrs. Keating, an aunt of the children on the mother's side, and secured his own appointment as guardian of all three children. Mrs. Keating employed Craig A. Marsh to represent her and appealed the case. She succeeded in having the order annulled because the court decided that the legal residence of the children was in Union county, where the father died, instead of Somerset county, where the children happened to be living when Mr. Andrews applied. Nothing daunted, Mr. Andrews went before the Chancellor and obtained an order requiring Mrs. Keating and the other next of kin to show cause why the appointment of Mr. Andrews should not be made by the prerogative court. Mrs. Keating resisted this application and was again successful, the court refusing to make the order on the ground that the Union county court had jurisdiction and notice of intended application to that court had already been prepared. When the case came up in the Union county orphans' court, hundreds of pages of testimony were taken by the respective parties for the purpose of showing the wishes of the parents, the qualifications of the applicant, Mrs. Keating, etc. No similar case was ever more fully presented either in evidence or arguments of the respective counsel. The court is composed of three judges, two of whom are Protestants and one of whom is Catholic. The decision appoints Mrs. Keating (Catholic) guardian of the two eldest children, and Mrs. Casner (Protestant), an aunt on the father's side, guardian of the youngest child. Mr. Andrews will be required to surrender the child now in his possession to her aunt Mrs. Keating. Mrs. Casner, who is to have the youngest child, originally requested the court to appoint Mr. Andrews guardian of all three. Mr. Marsh's Elizabeth clients now think they made no mistake in coming to Plainfield for a lawyer. Jackson & Codington have announced their intention of taking an appeal.

A Dark Horse to Succeed Warden Dodd.

The Democratic majority of the Union county board of freeholders held an exciting caucus Monday night to oust the Republican warden of the county jail, Charles W. Dodd. The caucus lasted four hours, there being half a score of candidates for the place. John C. Biere of Rahway, a dark horse, finally captured it. The appointment is for five years. The compensation is $1,500 a year, with board and house rent for the warden and family. His wife gets $300 as matron of the jail. Mr. Biere will be elected at the board meeting to-morrow.

Out of the Forest Giant Came Forth Honey.

Walter Manning and George and Charles Blackford made a rich find in the woods near Samptown, a day or two ago. Their discovery was a bee tree. They dislodged the honey-makers from their winter quarters without getting stung, and removed 80 pounds of the luscious sweetness from the hollow, humanely leaving enough in store to keep the bees in provender till spring. A bee tree is a rarity in this part of the country nowadays.

Jerusalem's Officers.

At a regular communication of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., held Monday evening, the following officers were duly installed by P. M. John Ulrich to serve the lodge for the ensuing year:

W. M.—C. H. Rose.
S. W.—C. P. Leggett.
J. W.—D. C. Adams.
Treas.—S. R. Flower.
Secty—Chas. Yeager, P. M.
S. D.—W. R. Codington.
J. D.—E. E. Coriell.
M. of C. {M. L. Connelly. Stephen VanHorn.
Stewards {H. Liefke. L. R. Blackford.
Marshal—Wm. J. Ford, P. M.
Organist—H. Woodland, P. M.
Chaplain—D. L. Gulick.
Finance Committee—C. P. Leggett, L. S. Woolston, John T. Odam.

A pleasant time was enjoyed by all in the banquet room at the conclusion of the installation ceremonies.

Ladies' Night.

Thursday night next will be known as ladies' night at the Crescent rink, and every woman desiring a ticket can obtain one by looking in another column of THE PRESS, which they can cut out and use, as the same will be accepted for admission by the National Skate and Bicycle Syndicate if presented by one of the gentler sex Thursday night.

Robbery at New Market.

Lloyd Nelson was robbed of a hat, coat and vest, Monday, at New Market Hotel. The person who stole the goods is suspected of being a fellow employed by Mr. Nelson to put a new cover on his billiard table. He did the work and stayed over night. The stranger had disappeared Tuesday morning, and it is supposed he took the articles with him.

The Result of Merit.

When anything stands a test of fifty years among a discriminating people like Americans, it is pretty good evidence that there is merit somewhere. The value of a medicine is best proved by its continued use from year to year by the same persons and families, as well as by a steady increasing sale. Few, if any, medicines have met with such continued success and popularity as has marked the introduction and progress of BRANDRETH'S PILLS, which, after a trial of over fifty years, are conceded to be the safest and most effective purgative and blood purifier introduced to the public.

That this is the result of merit, and that BRANDRETH'S PILLS actually perform all that is claimed for them, is conclusively proved by the fact that those who regard them with the greatest favor are those who have used them the longest.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are sold in every drug store and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE LATE JAY GOULD.

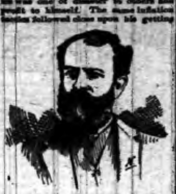
A Temperate Estimate of the Wizard's Character.

His Absence Will Not Be Lamented by Real and Warm Friends—The Greatest Accumulator of Wealth Ever Known.

Jay Gould is dead. The great multi-millionaire is no more. The richest man probably on the face of the earth at the close of last month, and but recently one of the most powerful for good or evil, is now only a common piece of "clay," such as the remains of ordinary mortals are made of.

The "Wizard" of Wall street may be mourned, but, says the Chicago Tribune, his absence will not be lamented, in the business world at least. He could not have had many real friends outside of his own family circle, to which he was devotedly attached, for his grasping desire for wealth made him utterly regardless of the welfare of those with whom he associated in business. He exercised no discrimination in that particular. All was fish that came to his net. He looked upon humanity as if it were an aggregation of sponges, and whenever he found one or a company that he thought contained enough moisture to make it worth his while to squeeze, thenceforth the squeezing process began. It was as merciless as the grip of the grim monster, death, and almost as sure.

Jay Gould did little good in the world. His immense wealth was accumulated by a smarter intelligence than that of other operators and by a leech-like fastening upon anything and everything that came within his reach. If he originated anything for the benefit of his fellow men it is not yet apparent. He built up no railroad system, except on paper. His mission was to wreck them by the process of inflation to the bursting point. His connection with Erie, Wabash and the Pacific lines was one of disaster to others and profit to himself. The same inflation tactics followed close upon his getting hold of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He was a systematic cornerer at every opportunity, from the tannery to the stock exchange, both inclusive, with a long list of intermediate stations. And when he could not corner a profit by making securities for a property artificially scarce he worked in the opposite direction by emitting them in such profusion as to break down values in the hands of original holders. He never created anything except shares and bonds, and those so plentifully as at times to amount to an inundation. He aimed not to increase the real value of any single thing he took hold of. He was simply a gigantic financial octopus, and woe to everything on which his tentacles fastened was the rule during the whole of his "business" career. He never let go till nothing was to be gained by longer adhesion. Unlike many other great absorbers, he retained to the last every dollar. One may look in vain for his name on the list of donors to funds for the building of universities, hospitals or monuments.



JAY GOULD.

In one particular Jay Gould's memory is entitled to respect. He was the reverse of an immoral man, in the ordinary sense of the term. So far as known he was continent, and a model of abstemiousness both in food and drink, and he was deeply attached to his family. It is eminently proper that as far as possible one should "say nothing but good of the dead." Yet there are exceptions, and the demise of Jay Gould is one of them. He did little to commend himself to the love of his fellow-mortals, and is all the more culpable as he had opportunities therefor which have been enjoyed by few if any. He might have built up for himself a name that would live through the ages as a great public benefactor. Instead of that his record, so long as it survives him, will be that of a wrecker who built up a colossal fortune out of the wrecking of thousands. It is to be regretted that his methods could not perish with him. It would be better for the business of the country. From the mere point of view of financial ability he towered above all those who came in contact with him, and to this extent he was the most conspicuous figure in the world of American business. As an accumulator of great wealth, starting with nothing and inheriting nothing, he was well-nigh exceptional, and to that extent he was a great man, but the methods by which he accumulated that wealth are not to be commended, nor is that kind of greatness the highest aim that can actuate a young man setting out for himself in life.

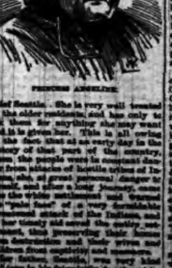
Tiger Skins.

The length of the longest tiger skin after drying is said to be 13 feet 6 inches; but it must be noted that skins expand considerably in the curing. The greatest length of a skin undressed is given as 10 feet 2½ inches. That goes far toward confirming what we have said as to the finest of these latter-day tigers falling far short of their predecessors. Mr. Inglis ("Maori,") whom we consider a most trustworthy authority, discusses the matter at length in his books on Indian wild sports. And he quotes examples, within the experiences of a hunting companion of his own, of various animals, killed in upper Bengal, which measured from 12 feet to 12 feet 7 inches.

PRINCESS ANGELINE.

Daughter of Chief Seattle, and Over One Hundred Years Old.

A notable personage, frequently pointed out to new-comers and strangers at Seattle, Wash., is a real, live American princess. She is often seen seated on the sidewalk, in an old, faded calico dress, and a common woolen shawl wrapped about her shoulders. Her skin, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, is brown and her hair hangs in long, straight lines down her back and around her shoulders. This is Princess Angeline, the daughter of



PRINCESS ANGELINE.

Chief Seattle. She is very well treated by the older residents, and has only to ask them for anything she may want and it is given her. This is all owing to the fact that at an early day in the history of that part of the country, when the people were in constant danger from attacks of hostile tribes of Indians, she, at great personal danger to herself, and after a long journey, came into the white settlement and warned the "pale face" of a very formidable threatened attack of the Indians, and by her timely aid saved the entire settlement, thus preserving their homes from destruction and their wives and children from captivity and massacre.

Her father, Seattle, was very kind and true in his friendship for the white men who had made their homes in the region of Puget sound, sheltered by the snowcapped mountain heights, and now the grateful people have erected a monument to his memory upon his grave.

Well may the "beneficiaries" of Seattle pay Princess Angeline all honor for the services she rendered, for she has become a part of the history of their country, even if, as she sits by the roadside, with her little short-stemmed black pipe held tight between her teeth, her old woolen shawl is her only "royal mantle" by day and her blanket by night.

It is not known just how old Princess Angeline is, but that she has passed the century mark seems beyond doubt. The accompanying portrait was made from a recent photograph.

EDWARD J. MURPHY.

The Man Who Wants to Succeed Mr. Hiscock in the Senate.

Edward J. Murphy, Jr., is a resident of Troy, N. Y., and has represented his state in both the senate and legislature. As chairman of the democratic state committee he had charge of Senator Hill's campaign, and issued the call for the famous February "snap" convention, the outcome of which was the opposition convention by the friends of Mr. Cleveland, which, it will be remembered, was held in Syracuse.

At the beginning of the campaign it was due largely to Mr. Murphy's efforts that the state committee went over to the side of Cleveland, and he had no more enthusiastic supporters than the state chairman and his friends.

EDWARD J. MURPHY, JR.

It is understood that Mr. Murphy has the support of President-elect Cleveland for admission into the United States senate. It is known that he is the choice of Senator Hill, and his election to the place now held by Senator Hiscock is certain.

There is some talk of Carl Schurz for the place, but as he has the support only of the so-called "anti-snappers," and as these have absolutely no strength in the legislature, it is pretty generally conceded that Mr. Murphy will be named.

He is a young man, not much over forty, and one of the most popular politicians in the state. He, together with Sheehan and Croker, form the most powerful trio the state of New York has known.

Capital and Labor.

A Chicago employer of labor, when questioned by a member of the special senate committee, which is now investigating the Pinkerton system, made the remark that "the employer owes more to his employes than the mere wages he pays them. They should be treated with justice and consideration." This gentleman, writes G. W. Weippiert in the Chicago Graphic, takes a correct view of the most important problem which confronts the world to-day. The mere payment of wages is considered by many employers the sole duty they owe to them who give them their best years and work. They do not recognize the fact that millionaire and pauper are dependent upon each other when it comes to the preservation of mutual rights and national liberty. Labor troubles will demoralize the industries of the United States until sentiment—or justice and consideration—governs the relation between capital and labor.

MISS HELEN GOULD.

The Favorite Daughter of the Late Wall Street Wizard.

She Is Now One of the Wealthiest Young Women in the United States—More Serious-Minded Than the Average Young Lady.

Miss Helen Gould, who only a little while ago made her social debut in long frocks, is to-day a social magnate—an envied American lady only 19 years old, with an income of $100,000 a year and one of the most magnificent houses in the country, says Nym Crinkle in the Sunday World. By the terms of her father's will she is, or will be, one of the wealthiest young women in the country. It is safe to say that 100,000 delicate fingers have been figuring out with tiny pencils just what Miss Gould's fortune will amount to in the next twenty years, and all kinds of hypothetical theories have been made of what could be done with $8,000 a month.

Of this family Miss Helen Gould is in many respects the most interesting member. Her youth, her intelligence, her unassuming grace and her attractive appearance, entirely aside from her wealth, make her, in spite of her modesty, conspicuous at this moment. Nature has her recompense and her revenge as a rule, in spite of man's selfishness. It has been thought and said recently that Jay Gould entirely evaded the law of equilibrium and gave nothing back to the world from which he had taken so much. The philosopher who came to this conclusion overlooked Miss Helen Gould.

Jay Gould has given her to the world, whether he would or not. It is just a year ago that this young woman stepped, one might say, out of the schoolroom into the parlor. Those who remember the petit figure in blue and brocade that received the compliments of a host of notables with a simple, unpretentious girlish winsomeness in which there was just a hint of reserve power, can hardly realize that now she is one of the wealthiest and may be one of the most influential women in America. There were many observant women at that debut who formed an instinctive judgment of the little miss. They may have been influenced in their conclusions by what they know of her life and habits, but the opinion arrived at took her out of the atmosphere of her father's life entirely. That is to say—out of that part of his life with which the public is acquainted.

MISS HELEN GOULD.

This is not, in a strict sense, a society girl. She does not live on parade. Obviously she is too serious-minded. Otherwise, why does she go to the asylum on Lexington avenue quietly and regularly and read to the poor people who are bedridden? Perhaps all girls have a weakness that way. But all girls don't think of it, and might want a brass band if they did. Just how far the father's character was operative in developing that girl's character it would be hard to say. To the mere onlooker it would appear that he was chiefly sedulous in not bringing his character to bear at all. Perhaps nature, if she said anything, merely remarked to him: "You keep your hands off and watch me."

And then we can imagine the father regarding this growth with reticent wonder and admiration. Nobody has said a word about the mother. And yet it is quite possible that the silent influence of the almost unknown factor has found a tongue in this girl's character. Those of us who remember her at Saratoga will recall a rather demure maiden, [illegible] and pretty, with dimples when she laughed, but who laughed not half enough for the dimples; a girl who would be called pretty anywhere, but who was singularly reserved and appeared to think more of her younger sister's company than of any other person's.

The Pomato.

"Pomato" is the name given a curious manufactured vegetable which owes its origin to Dr. B. C. Culver, of Atchison, Kan. For more than twenty years the doctor has been experimenting with a view of crossing the potato and tomato vines. It is claimed that this has at last been accomplished and that a species of vine has been thus literally manufactured, and that it will produce both potatoes and tomatoes, both of which grow in their natural elements.

They Live High.

The most lofty place in the world regularly inhabited by human beings is the Buddhist monastery of Haine in Thibet, which is about 17,000 feet above the sea level. The highest inhabited spot on the western hemisphere is Galera, a railway station in Peru, which is 15,635 feet above the Pacific's level at low tide.

The Longest Tunnel.

The Hoosac tunnel in Massachusetts, which is said to be the longest in this country, is four and three-quarter miles in length.

Mushroom Beverage.

The natives of Liberia prepare a singularly intoxicating beverage from a common mushroom.

Will There Be Bloodshed?

Trivvet—A good many people are demanding the abolition of walking delegates.

Dicer—True, and if the walking delegates follow their usual procedure there will be some duels.

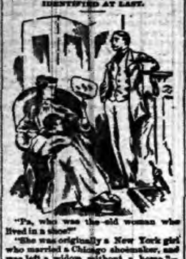
Trivvet—Why?

Dicer—Well, they are accustomed to call men out.—Judge.

The Stage Heroine.

The lover hugged her on the stage;
To her it was not funny;
He earned his salary, while she found
She was hard pressed for money.
—Brooklyn Life.

IDENTIFIED AT LAST.



"Pa, who was the old woman who lived in a shoe?"

"She was originally a New York girl who married a Chicago shoemaker, and was left a widow without a home."—Life.

SUMMER BREEZES.

"I'm going to write a book on 'How to live on nothing a year.'" "It can't be done." "It can, I have a recipe." "What is it?" "Marry a rich girl."—Dramatic Life.

"But why don't you send for Dr. Masher, Aunt Jane? He's the cleverest doctor in the whole country!" "Oh, my dear, I couldn't. He dresses so irreligiously."—London Punch.

SO IT WAS.—"This is a crazy sort of a safe," said one of the burglars, after they had blown it open. "Yes," replied the other, "I'll admit it's a little cracked."—Detroit Free Press.

CHOLLY (recounting his experience)—"Weally, that girl is awfully clevah, y' know. Why—aw—before I could—aw—get my mind made up to propose, y' know, she had aw—alweady declined me."—N. Y. Herald.

Hard Luck.

"What has happened to you? You look vexed."

"I should say so. This morning I was just going to be very angry about something when some one spoke to me, and I have been trying the whole day to think what I was going to be angry about, and I can't do it."—Texas Siftings.

Why He Came Early.

Mother (sitting down just as the train starts)—Oh, would you mind changing seats with me, sir? My baby wants to look out of the window.

Mr. Haven Hartford (with sarcastic politeness)—With pleasure, madam. I have been saving the seat for him for half an hour.—Life.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

UPRIGHT PIANO for sale. In perfect order. Price $175, one-half cash, approved note, payable at bank, for balance. Address PIANO, Care PRESS. p o-11 14tf.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun
is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year
Address THE SUN, New York.

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE
25 West Front Street,
Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,
it has added a full line of
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at
Reasonable Prices!
All goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH,

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.
I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell [illegible]
[illegible]
Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,
J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.
To Jane Swezey, Carman R. Hatfield and Mary E. Frazee:
By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein [illegible] is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainant, on or before the seventeenth day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.
[illegible]
Dated December 16th, A. D. 1892.
WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
12 16 6 70 Montgomery St., Jersey City, N. J.
Fees, $6 60

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
a5tf.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.
Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper G. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.
Dated November 28, 1892.
12 1 10 MARTIN E. WOODEN.

SALE OF LAND FOR TAXES
—IN—
Fanwood Township.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a warrant issued by the Township Committee of Fanwood Township, Union County, New Jersey, under their common seal signed by their chairman and attested by their Clerk, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided for the collection of taxes laid on certain lands in said township for the year 1891, the subscriber, special constable for the collection of delinquent taxes, of said township, will on Thursday, the 2d day of February, 1893, at the hour of two o'clock p. m., of said day, at Town rooms, Scotch Plains, in the Township of Fanwood, Union County, N. J., by public auction, sell the lands and premises hereinafter described, taxed, to the undernamed persons, to make the taxes with interest, costs, fees, charges and expenses thereon, to any person or persons who will take the same for the shortest time not exceeding thirty years, and pay the amount due thereon. The following is a correct list of those in arrears for taxes for the year 1891, and a description of the lands upon which said taxes have been laid, and that are to be sold, hereunder:
Wm. Thorn, est. 6 3-4 acres, dist. No. 7, tax $22.00.
Fanwood, N. J., Dec. 29, 1892.
HENRY COOK,
Fees, $2 40 Special Constable.
1 5 1

Scientific American
Agency for PATENTS
CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.
For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the
Scientific American
Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

LARGEST DRY AND FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN NEW JERSEY
NEWARK
BEE HIVE
MAIL-ORDERS
A Little Information and a Few Suggestions
To Assist You and to Help Us

All orders entrusted to us are filled upon day of receipt, if possible.

Should there be any cause for delay, patrons are notified.

We refund money when goods prove unsatisfactory, if returned to us in good condition.

When writing for samples, please state the price, style, color, or width of goods desired. Also send any information that may aid us in giving a speedy and satisfactory reply.

[illegible]

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad St., Newark, N. J.
MAIL ORDER DEPARTMENT.

STOCK-TAKING.
$80,000
Worth Of
Carpets & Furniture.

To reduce stock on account of stock-taking, I shall commence Tuesday, January 3, and sell at the following reductions:

BEDROOM SUITS.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug-coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

CARPETS.
25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.
Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

At Cost! At Cost!
In every department during stock-taking. If you are in need of goods do not miss this opportunity, as you can save about one-third in buying now.

Terms:—
$ 75 down and $ 75 weekly....on $10 00 worth
2 50 down and 75 weekly....on 25 00 worth
4 00 down and 1 00 weekly....on 50 00 worth
6 00 down and 1 25 weekly....on 75 00 worth
8 00 down and 1 25 weekly....on 100 00 worth
12 00 down and 1 50 weekly....on 150 00 worth
16 00 down and 2 00 weekly....on 200 00 worth

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!
Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!
FULL NAME
AMOS H. VAN HORN.
My only place of Business is at
73 Market Street,
Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
NO BRANCH STORES.
10-4-1y

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 17 3m

—ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head.
Apply into the Nostrils. — It is Quickly Absorbed.
50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,
Successors to Pierson Hardware Co. 7 11 tf 49 West Front Street.

To the Public!
Having secured the control of the city of Plainfield for Ballantine's Celebrated Bottled Beer,
Which is conceded by connoisseurs and brewers to be
The Best Beer in the United States,
I beg to inform the public that I will give all orders prompt attention, and serve the goods in fine condition. My established reputation for cleanliness will vouch for itself. All orders left with Mr. E. P. Thorn and Mr. Joseph A. Blatz will be promptly forwarded.
10 13 1m c 12 15 4
WM. H. CAWLEY.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The legislature convenes Tuesday next. The inauguration of the Governor will take place one week later.

—The favorite orchestra of Andrew G. Carpenter furnished the excellent music at the Hyde reception and All Souls' Christmas celebration.

—Garret C. Schenck had a hand badly hurt at the North Plainfield electric light station last week. He will not be able to work in one or two weeks.

—The copartnership of Tobin, Ensander & Co. is dissolved by the withdrawal of A. H. Ensander. The business will be conducted by Tobin & Addis.

—This being the week of prayer, Edsall's store, including the Doane & Edsall's shoe department, will close every evening at 7 except Saturday.

—The Citizens' Plainfield Band will furnish music at the rink Thursday night for the latter's complimentary party, which will be the first time they have played for the National Skate and Bicycle syndicate.

—W. W. Corbell has sold to D. L. Abbott, who has for three years been in his employ, his valuable butcher business, which in less than four years has amounted to one-fourth of a million of dollars in sales.

—James McGinley, of the corner of Richmond and Seventh streets, met with a painful accident at the Crescent rink, Monday evening. While skating he fell, striking his mouth and cutting a deep gash in his lower lip.

—The large handsome doll that has been on exhibition at William Ralston's candy store, 23½ Somerset street, was won by George Bolsterli, one of the faithful carriers of THE PRESS. The number of his winning ticket was 962.

—Don't fail to attend the free exhibit of the Armour Packing Co's famous "White Label" soups, now going on at the store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association. All are cordially invited to call and sample the goods.

—The services for the balance of the week of prayer in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church at 8 p. m. will be as follows: Wednesday, subject, "Nations and Their Rulers"; Thursday, "Foreign Missions"; Friday, "Home Missions".

—Reporter Thomas is back on the Courier again, temporarily, generously helping the unappreciative editor out of a hole, his "chief of staff" being considerably indisposed by the hard cider taken in exchange for subscriptions and ads.

—B. T. Barnes has leased the store now occupied by A. Vanderbeek on Park avenue next to the corner of North, and will occupy it from April 1 next. It is undoubtedly the best stand in the city for the confectionery and ice-cream business.

—It is said that Wetumpka lodge, Knights of Honor, which took its advertisement out of THE PRESS with a great flourish of trumpets because it thought it was unduly criticised, is going to dissolve. Its best members will be received into Easter lodge.

—Councilman Sebring denies the statement of the Courier that he agreed to haul the boiler to Music Hall Christmas night, and to furnish the coal to run it. Therefore he did not collect money under false pretenses nor break any contract by using the Music Hall coal.

I. O. O. F. Officers.

At a regular meeting of Plainfield lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., held Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

N. G.—John H. Staats.
V. G.—E. H. Cleveley.
Rec. Sec.—Rudolf Kersting.
Perm. Sec.—Elias H. Bird.
Treas.—Thomas Young.

The next meeting will be held Monday evening, Jan. 9, when D. D. G. M., Chas. W. Tallman and staff will be present and install the newly elected officers.

One of These Huntsmen Had a Close Shave.

(Westfield Standard.)

On Saturday of last week a large number of hunters passed through town going toward Fanwood, in regular English style, red coats and high boots, with high hat. On their return one of the huntsmen tried to cross the railroad at the depot in front of a fast train, and no doubt would have been killed had it not been for gateman Hannon, who saw his danger and stopped him.

The Boys' Club New Year's Day.

175 boys attended the regular entertainment held New Year's Monday at the Boys' club. Each member was given a bag containing cake, nuts, candy and oranges. The Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut spoke entertainingly. The rest of the programme was by members of the club, and included a recitation by Hugh Higgins, a mouth-organ solo by James Pangborn, a song by Wm. Vail, accompanied by ex-superintendent W. H. Miner, and an exhibition by Louis Johnson, song and dance artist.

Civil Engineer Dunham Entertains His Assistants.

F. A. Dunham, C. E., who usually entertains his employes with a theater party in New York at the holiday season, changed his tactics this year and invited his staff of able assistants to take dinner with him in his new residence on Madison avenue.

A. J. Gavett, David Bowden general superintendent of construction, F. J. Hubbard resident engineer of Olean, H. C. VanEmburgh resident engineer of Dunkirk, and Messrs. Vars, Smith, Vail and Pearson were among those who partook of the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Dunham.

J. L. Bauer, who is at present located in Sewickley, Pa., was unable to be present.

An Extraordinary Feat in Accounting.

The preparation of the cash statement of the city for the year 1892 as published elsewhere and the various balance sheets of the general fund, fire department, poor fund and library, was an extraordinary feat in accounting. Patterson & Corwin began the work at 8 a. m. Saturday and continued at it until the bells and whistles denounced the birth of the New Year. The work was renewed at 8 a. m., Monday, and completed at 7:30 p. m. At 8 p. m. the documents were in the council chamber. The figures embrace all of the transactions to the close of business of Saturday, Dec. 31, 1892.

Will Tell Tales for the Children's Sake.

Mrs. Kate Douglass Wiggin will give an entertainment in the Crescent Avenue chapel the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 10. The programme will consist entirely of selections from Mrs. Wiggins's own stories: "Scenes from 'Timothy's Quest'"; "A Cathedral Courtship"; "The Birds' Christmas Carol". The entertainment will be for the benefit of the Children's Home.

Popular Talks on Interesting Topics.

The Rev. Charles E. Herring will give short Sunday evening addresses this month as follows: Jan. 8, "Lions in the Way"; Jan. 15, "Winter of a Soul"; Jan. 22, "He Cut It With a Penknife"; Jan. 29, "A Young Man in the Wilderness". These meetings will begin at 7:30. Music will be a feature. Young men especially are invited.

PERSONALIA.

John Sharp of Newark spent New Year's Day at his old home in Plainfield.

Joseph [illegible] of this city left town Saturday evening for a visit to Maine.

Miss Ella Sebring of Division street is visiting friends in Brooklyn and New York.

Jacob Bauer is home for the winter from engineer Dunham's work in Pittsburgh.

Misses Sadie and Mattie Bayott, of South avenue, are viewing Niagara Falls in its icy splendor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Vanderbeek and family spent New Year's day in Hunterdon county.

Mrs. T. S. Harris of Philadelphia is visiting her sister, Mrs. Geo. F. Moeshutt, of 130 East Front street.

Willie Moore has returned to his home in Newark from a holiday visit to his parents in New street.

The Plainfield members of the grand grand jury this term are S. R. Flower, E. F. Dunn and Wm. Kirk.

Mrs. Andrew McCardell of West Front street has returned from a pleasant visit among friends in Worcester.

A charming afternoon tea was given by Miss Cooley at her home on Rockview Terrace, Thursday, from 4 to 6.

Miss May Collier, daughter of Asa Collier, received her friends on New Year's day in the good old fashioned way, Monday.

Harley B. Nichols, of East Sixth street, has engaged in business at Boston, and will remove his family to that city in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Williams, new comers to Plainfield, have leased Charles H. Davis's house on Ninth street opposite First place.

Gershom Frazee is at the home of his brother, A. M. Frazee, Peace street, corner of Second, very ill with inflammation of the bowels.

Mrs. E. W. Dower is very ill at the home of Miss Stoll, 11 Elm place, where she has been living for some time. She is not expected to live.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Dobbie, on LaGrande avenue, was made happy Monday by the advent of a daughter weighing eight pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edgar have removed to Atlanta, Ga., where Mr. Edgar's business interests called him. Mrs. Edgar was Miss Kate Potter of Mt. Pleasant.

The firm of Spicer & Hubbard gave another exhibition of their generosity to their workmen, last night, by presenting to each one a New Year's gift of a $2.50 gold piece.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arden of 337 West Third street have the sympathy of the entire community in the loss of their 20-months old child, which was taken away from them by diphtheria Saturday evening.

C. E. White, nephew of A. Vanderbeek, has been elected cashier of the Fidelity Trust and Savings bank at Everett, Washington. His father, F. A. White, Mr. Vanderbeek's brother-in-law, is president of the bank.

It is said that the price paid by John J. H. Pollion for the West Seventh street plot on which he intends building a new home, was $27,000. This is probably the highest price ever paid for a house site in the State.

Miss Marion Henderson, daughter of Joseph J. Henderson of Rockview avenue, gave a very pleasant party to her young friends, Thursday evening. Good music, smiling faces and tripping toes were features of the occasion.

Katie Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Powers, died at her home, 129 Somerset street, Thursday, in the 18th year of her age. Funeral services will be held at the house to-morrow morning at 9:30 and at St. Joseph's church at 10.

A. Venino announces that an art recital will be given Feb. 2, at the Casino, by himself and Miss Maude Agnes Bowers. Mr. Venino promises selections from Haydn, Schumann, Chopin, Paderewski and Schutt; and Miss Bowers will appear in Greek costume.

The Misses Boorman of Washington avenue, gave a delightful party to their guests, the Misses Boorman of Virginia and the Messrs. Strong of New Brunswick, Monday evening last. The entertainment consisted of progressive euchre followed by dancing.

A. T. Vegiard, traveling salesman for Brooks Bros. shoe manufacturers, of Rochester, with his wife and daughter, Miss Edith Vegiard, had a pleasant visit at the residence of J. T. Vegiard, 49 North avenue, New Year's Day, leaving Sunday afternoon for their home in Yonkers.

A number of the friends of the senior publisher and proprietor of THE PRESS and the Constitutionalist, were favored yesterday with a fine lot of fat quail from the wheat fields of Tennessee. Mr. Force writes that in spite of snow and cold weather, he and his guest, Elisha Shepherd, are bagging about 40 a day.

J. Barton Kline and Charles DeGraw gave a New Year's reception at the Sebring farm Monday evening. The happy guests numbered one hundred, and were from New York, Plainfield, Bound Brook and elsewhere. The house was brilliant with electricity for the occasion, and the fireplaces were cheerful with blazing logs and evergreen decorations.

Miss Edith G. Taylor, daughter of Morgan S. Taylor of Rockview avenue, gave a very pleasant afternoon tea to her young friends, Saturday, Dec. 31. Her boarding-schoolmate, Miss Eaton, was presented to her guests in the parlor, and Misses Grace Cooley, May Waring, Annie Stewart, Edith VanBoskerck and Carrie Vail, assisted in the dining room.

A delightful dancing party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Stewart 66 West Seventh street, Thursday night, in honor of their daughter's home-coming from college. The guests numbered nearly fifty, and included Larry Bliss the famous Yale half-back, who was quite a social lion of the evening. Westfield society was well represented by Messrs. Milton Ruggles and Harry Evans.

The Current Event club of North Plainfield, with a few other guests, were delightfully entertained at the hospitable home of Mrs. John Clapp, 24 Mercer avenue, Tuesday evening. The farce "Poor Pillicoddy" was rendered by Miss Keep of New York, the guest of H. P. Reynolds, and the Misses Henderson, Claude Henderson and Mr. Anderson of Philadelphia, the guests of J. P. Henderson of Rockview avenue. The amateurs performed their respective parts with marked ability, and won hearty and well merited applause from an appreciative audience.

Dr. Lewis's Bound Brook Pulpit.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says: "The Rev. Dr A. H. Lewis, of Plainfield, preached an excellent Christmas sermon at the Congregational church, Sunday morning, and the Sunday-school had a celebration Sunday night, when addresses were made by Revs. J. H. Cleaver and T. B. Davis. The Rev. Dr. Lewis will continue to supply the Congregational pulpit every Sunday morning for the present."

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. [illegible]

[illegible]

SOCIETY'S DOINGS.

Three Charming New Year's Events.

THE SECOND ASSEMBLY.

The second Assembly of the season was enjoyed Monday night at the Casino. The music, by Elliott, was divine, and the supper by the club steward Max Wertz was an inspiration and a delight. The patronesses were Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Pliny Fisk and Mrs. Henry G. Runkle.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mr and Mrs J. W. Reinhardt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kleinecke, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wharton, jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. William Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ginna, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ackerman, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. S. Huntington, Mrs. Munn, Mrs. J. B. Tracy, the Misses Murphy, Corliss, VanBoskerck, Underwood, Harte, Massett, Huntington, Depew, Erickson, Murray, Walz, Stewart, Yates, Sandford, Holly, the Misses Lockwood and McIntyre of Philadelphia, the Misses Stewart, Chaffee, Johnson, Allan and Ham of New York, and Messrs. Murray, Huntington, Shepard, Hyde, Runyon, West, Cox, VanBuren, Munn, Waring, Stewart, Murphy, Underwood, Munger, Leonard, Finch, VanBoskerck, Martin, Sandford, Walz and Tiffany, Messrs. Platt, Brundage, Billings and Jones of New York, and Mr. Beebe of Brooklyn.

THE MURRAY RECEPTION.

The home of John W. Murray was the scene Monday afternoon of a fashionable gathering. Mrs. Murray and daughters, Misses Murray and Mrs. Rushmore, received, and in the dining room were Mrs. Roger Murray, Mrs. Wharton, Mrs. DeGraff, Mrs. Squires, Miss Erickson, Miss Drake, Miss Walz, Miss Harte, Miss Yerkes and Miss Yates.

The people present included Mr. and Mrs. Schippel, Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Mager, Mr. and Mrs. Runkle, Mr. and Mrs. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. VanVliet, the Misses Martine, Corliss, Lockwood of Philadelphia, Massett, Mrs. Timpson, the Misses Holly, Yates, Kirkner, Potter, Rose, Depew, Harte and Huntington, Messrs. Sandford, Erickson, Tilney, Hallock, VanBuren, Jones of New York, Cox, Runyon, West, Beebe, Walz, Mager, Waring and Murphy.

THE HYDE RECEPTION.

A New Year's reception was given by Miss Edith and Frank D. Hyde, at the residence of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde, "Edgewood", last evening. The guests included a son of Elliott F. Shepard, H. F. Godfrey, Charles Garland, Mrs C. L. Hyde and Miss Stokes, all of New York, Messrs. Low, Miss Worthington, Miss Vail, Aug. Huntington, Miss Daisy Shepard, Rudolph M. Shepard, Miss Waring, Miss Taylor, Miss VanBoskerck, Mr. VanBoskerck, Mr. Corliss, and Mr. Dwight.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde will leave for California about the middle of this month, to return at Easter-tide.

WANTS $5,000 FOR HIS GOOD NAME.

A Clerk Sues His Former Employers for Defamation of Character.

James E. Totten has retained Jackson & Codington as his counsel to bring suit for $5,000 for defamation of character, against Fulper & Bingham of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association. The suit is the result of the charges of dishonesty made by the firm against Totten. The clerk says he will not only disprove their charges but threatens to disclose alleged discreditable business dealings of his accusers.

Here's a Juror Who Tells a Different Story.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I saw an article in your valuable paper of the 31st with regard to the Schorb jury not being allowed to have anything to eat by the judge, which was false. To the contrary he told the officer to get us what we wanted to eat. They also complained that the heat was turned off, which too was false. The article would have the public believe the two jurors had won two to their side, which is incorrect. On the first ballot they had five for the defendant, which in subsequent ballots dwindled down to two, so one can readily see they lost three instead of gaining two as their article claims. A JUROR.

Plain Talk From Mr. Harte.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The editor of the Courier in Friday night's issue of that ridiculous publication incorporated in his report of the Schorb case the statement that I had been employed as a special reporter on THE PRESS.

The editor of the Courier personally knew that the statement was false when he permitted it to appear in his paper. The editor of the Courier also personally knows that I made no affidavit in connection with my denial of the silly and idiotic lies which he published in the Courier regarding me. GRISWOLD HARTE.

More Obstructionists.

Of those objecting against the Madison avenue extension project, several North Plainfielders have filed protests with township clerk Horace J. Martin. The result will be the appointment of a new set of commissioners, a heavy unnecessary bill of costs; and in the end all will be assessed more to pay for the second set of commissioners. The new commissioners will be three members of the township committee and three members of the common council.

Plainfield Women and the World's Fair.

A meeting is to be called in Elizabeth for the purpose of organizing Union county for women's work for the Columbian exposition.

Miss Kean has consented to take the chairmanship of the county, and will hold a meeting Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 3 p. m., at her residence, "Ursino", Elizabeth, to arrange the work.

Those Plainfielders interested and who desire that New Jersey women shall make a creditable exhibit, are invited to be present at this meeting, when the work will be explained as clearly as possible by members of the board of women managers of New Jersey.

Extension of Fire Protection.

(From Chief Doane's Annual Report.)

There are in place in the city for fire protection 210 hydrants, giving a pressure of seventy-four pounds throughout the city, with the exception of a few hydrants on Netherwood heights, which will average about fifty pounds pressure.

This is a very satisfactory pressure for fire purposes. There are also twenty-one fire wells distributed through the central portion of the city. The southwestern portion of the city is entirely unprotected with either hydrants or wells. This should be remedied as soon as possible, as there are now a great many valuable buildings there that are entirely unprotected.

Plainfield Commuters Will Endorse This.

(Westfield Standard.)

The Newark bay draw-bridge is becoming more and more a means of detention to trains. It is a little tough on a train load of impatient business men to hold them in check for a small scow to pass. Navigation laws need looking after.

THE 1893 COUNCIL.

PRESIDENT GINNA AND CITY CLERK RUNYON BOTH RE-ELECTED.

Councilman Frazee Makes the Only Opposition—Worthy Janitor Mundy Continued in Office—Excellent Financial Showing—Standing Committees for the Year—New Year's Jokes in a Freezing Atmosphere.

(From The Press of January 4.)

The Plainfield common council for 1893 met and organized last night. Councilman Case was the only absentee. Councilmen Fisk and Erickson were in full evening dress in honor of the occasion.

Stephen A. Ginna was re-elected president by acclamation, and was conducted by councilmen Roe and Frazee to the chair. He thanked the members for the renewal of their evidence of regard, expressed his appreciation of the extension of honor, and said that feeling assured of their unanimous support made it especially pleasant.

The following standing committees were announced by Mr. Ginna:

Alms—Bird, Frazee, Weber.
Auditing—Millington, Weber, Frazee.
Fire and Buildings—Erickson, Bird, Marsh.
Finance—Fisk, Marsh, Johnston.
Law and Ordinance—Johnston, Roe, Fisk.
License—Weber, Case, Millington.
Police and Lights—Marsh, Johnston, Erickson.
Printing and Stationery—Frazee, Millington, Bird.
Streets—Roe, Fisk, Case.
Water and Sewerage—Case, Erickson, Roe.

Frank W. Runyon was re-elected city clerk, the only opposition vote being cast for Aaron W. Rand by councilman Frazee, on whose motion Mr. Runyon's election was subsequently made unanimous. The city clerk's father was a conspicuous figure among the councilmen before the meeting. His personal influence may have been a factor in changing the caucus opposition.

Janitor Wm. V. Mundy was re-elected, Mr. Frazee first voting for James Laing and then for Mr. Mundy.

The rules of '92 were adopted for '93, and the Courier, News and PRESS were continued official papers.

The clerk was authorized to procure printed roll calls and committee cards. The name of each chairman of the committees is to be printed in full, with his address. Mr. Bird of the alms committee tried to beg off from this.

The mayor's message as printed in full in another column was listened to with earnest interest. Its various suggestions and recommendations were referred to the proper committees.

Councilman Fisk of last year's finance committee presented a final report and complete balance sheet for the year. This gratifying result was secured through the personal effort of Mr. Fisk, who recently retained Patterson & Corwin, accountants, of this city, to reorganize the city accounts. The city has no bonded debt save $3,500 for the former fire department which it assumed upon the dissolution of that department in 1888. Of this sum $1,000 will mature next July; the balance July 1, 1894.

The city's floating debt amounts to only $176. Its bills payable discounted only in anticipation of taxes levied and unpaid amount to $18,300 and will be retired as they mature in January and February. The amount of outstanding taxes as per balance sheet, including city school taxes, is $60,014.12.

The city property, real and personal, in use by the fire department, has been appraised and shows an inventoried value of $34,542.25.

The assets over liabilities, including unpaid taxes, are as follows: General fund, $67,429.40; fire department fund, $42,250.40; poor, $4,498.30; library, $38,022.28.

On motion of Mr. Fisk the final reports of all the city departments, together with the mayor's message, were ordered printed in pamphlet form, instead of in the official papers where they would be read.

The final report of street commissioner Mosher for the year was read, showing a total expenditure of $17,000, of which $2,000 was paid by property-holders' contributions. 3,620 feet of roadway had been newly macadamized, and 15,890 repaired and dressed. The Liberty street flood nuisance had been abolished. Mr. Mosher recommended that the old railroad embankment be ploughed up and the earth used to fill the gravel-pits.

Councilman Marsh was in his usual facetious mood. He held up a yard of printed and written paper and said that though the room was cold he wished to make a few remarks. The paper was a new ordinance to amend the methods of paying city bills. It was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

The committee on fire and buildings were authorized to obtain bids for the new engine-house construction on architect Foegate's plans.

The room was cold as Greenland, and a resolution was adopted requesting owner Coward to provide a new thermometer for the chamber, as the present one could never be got to register higher than 58°, and now the bottom had dropped out of it altogether.

The finance committee was authorized to investigate the matter of putting all the city offices into the Coward building.

Council adjourned to Jan. 16.

THE SCHORB JURY DISAGREE.

The Court Criticised for Withholding Food and Heat—The Principle Involved.

The Schorb liquor case was tried before judge Codington and a jury Friday. The jury went out in the afternoon, and deliberated till 10 o'clock. They couldn't agree whether liquor had been sold illegally or not, and were discharged. The jury room was very cold, and juror P. T. B. Nevius was made ill.

The jurors at one time stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal. The two were manager Runyon of the telephone company and William Kirk. When discharged the two had won two others to their side.

Some of the jurors complain bitterly against the court for refusing to let them have anything to eat, and are incensed because the heat was cut off from their room. They claim this was done to hurry them up in reaching a verdict.

The principle involved in the case is whether or not a restaurant keeper can receive an order for drink at a customer's meal and supply it by buying the stuff for the patron at a neighboring bar. The city evidently thinks the restaurant keeper should pay a license as well as the saloon keeper—thus making double license for one sale.

Advice from a Postmaster-Editor.

[Bound Brook Chronicle.]

It is reported that the people of North Plainfield are about to make application to the authorities to secure a post office separate and distinct from the Plainfield office, through which they now get their mail. If they are wise they will do no such thing. Any act which tends to lessen the business of a post office will surely depreciate its efficiency. Aside from this a great amount of confusion will arise as many North Plainfield people, even with a post-office in their town, would continue to have their mail addressed to the Plainfield office, and correspondents would never be sure of sending their letters to the proper place. Such a state of affairs has existed to a certain extent in the Bound Brook office, since the post-office of Bloomington, or South Bound Brook, was established.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Last Night's Production of "The Veneered Savage" and "The Duchess of Dublin".

A number of new lights in the local histrionic firmament appeared on the Casino stage Thursday evening; stars of a magnitude some greater, some less. The hall was filled with an audience whose appreciation was warmly expressed at deserving parts, and whose kindly good nature graciously overlooked many of the less glaring of the faults.

The selection of "The Veneered Savage" was not an especially excellent one. There is an abundance of clever and entertaining short plays from which a more fortunate choice might have been made. The lack of plot and incident made it barren and tedious. Because of its native defects it was not the best thing in the world for untried players to attempt. The central idea was the threadbare joke that English people believe the streets of American cities to be infested with Indians and wild animals. The worn-out and impossible blunder of inclosing an insulting letter in the wrong envelope was responsible for the three Americans of the piece masquerading in London society as persons of cowboy stripe, "Veneered Savages".

Perhaps Clarence Murphy would have done better in a more familiar role. Certainly he was not at home in the disguise of Texas Jack costume, and he failed to develop the fire and spirit that should characterize a dashing young ranchman. He was disappointing as well in his real part as in his assumed one. As the genuine Dick Majoribanks he wore a faultless new suit of clothes and an abnormal mustache, and his inseparable cigarette was present. He recited his lines letter perfect, but he seemed to lack energy; his acting was forced. A great defect was his want of grace. He was only natural in his gait. It had been hoped that he would cure the awkwardness of his stride before he ventured ambitious stage appearance. But either that was impossible or he didn't deem it essential. He was a mar to the other players. He may possibly improve if ever given another chance. He is clearly more adapted to leadership of the german or in some similar social function than on the boards.

The most distinguished playing was that of Miss Maude VanBoskerck. She made a superb "Mashing Madge", and her vivid description of the imaginary but terrible buffalo hunt in the streets of Chicago was a most admirable bit of acting. She had all the vim and dash required by the part, and gave her London hostess a highly exciting and fiery time. It was a genuine treat to see such rare talent so well developed in a local amateur.

Miss Corliss was at times quite up to her part of the Chicago belle, and her faults were those of inexperience. She seemed a little afraid to trust her voice to its full strength. Her auditors forgave her the trifling blemishes of her acting for the privilege of feasting on her attractiveness of face and figure.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart made a stately Duchess of Diddlesex, and Mrs. Lewis Timpson did all that was required of her in her part of the haughty Lady Fanny. She had only to pose beautifully and say little. She should be given a more prominent part in the next theatricals, where she may display her talents as well as her personal beauty.

O. G. Waring had a stupid part in Lord Algernon, being compelled to look idiotic and occasionally interject "Bah Jove!" It is a compliment to say he was not suited to the role, though he strove manfully to assume its shallowness.

Roger Erickson made a perfectly proper and solemn butler, and as usual the audience went into hysterics over his every appearance.

The one-act farce "The Duchess of Dublin" was lively and enjoyable. Incident abounded, and the numerous absurdities were laughably rendered. William W. Runyon as Dr. Aconite scored a genuine triumph. He could not have been surpassed in his part. Miss Florence Huntington bravely resisted the usual temptation to overdo the brogue, and as Maggie Mullen, the "duchess", acquitted herself well. She was unaffected, and her simplicity helped greatly in making her a perfect gem of a pretty Irish domestic. Everyone agreed that Miss Jessamine Harte was "awfully good". She was a fervid, romantic "lone orphan", in search of the great and mysterious duchess's autograph. Her acting was excellent. She was everything that the part demanded, dashing, vivacious, emotional, rapturous. Laurence H. VanBuren was notable as Silas Sharpset. He could not have been spared from the part. The other characters were well taken as follows: Frank Friskey, Edward F. Bloodgood; Oliver Oldbuck, rich and gouty, Thos. B. VanBoskerck; Dennis Donlan, a widower, Howard Huntington; Peter Plumpface, with a graveyard cough, John P. Munn; Annie Aconite, the doctor's sister, Miss E. Massett; Lucy Linden, a milliner, Miss Frances B. Hawley.

The costumes of the various players in both plays were ravishing. The orchestral music by Mr. and Mrs. Pollock and Mr. Petrie was soft and classic. The players were deluged with the loveliest of floral tributes.

"THE PROMPTER'S BOX."

A Delightful Affair that All Plainfield Would Have Liked to See.

An excellent performance was given Thursday at the residence of Constantine P. Ralli, in Netherwood. The play selected was Henry J. Byron's comedy, "The Prompter's Box", which was enjoyed by an audience of about seventy-five invited guests.

A stage was erected in the dining room, with a full complement of scenery, and electric lights were brought in for the occasion. The audience was seated in the drawing room. The admirable cast was as follows:

Frank Bristowe..........John Reginald Blake
(A Retired Army Officer in reduced circumstances.)
Sir Michael Glendinning, (A Banker,)
J. H. Van Deventer
Ernest Glendinning, (His Son,)
James Stowell Anthony
Mr. Gladeby..........Harry S. Blake
(Manager of the Theater Royal, Snaggleton.)
Mr. Mandeville..........Charles Noe Daly
(Manager of the Polygon Theater, London.)
Captain Ruskett..........Albert A. [illegible]
(Of the British Army.)
Arthur, (A Call Boy)..Master Harry Ostermoor
DeLacy Fitzaltamont......Constantine P. Ralli
(A Poor Tragedian.)
Emily Mountsorrel....Mrs. M. Gascoigne Ralli
(A Popular Favorite.)
Florence Bristowe....Miss Geraldine Anthony
(A Rising Dramatic Star.)
Mrs. Guipin, (A Landlady.)......Miss Annie Ellis

Time—The Present.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY.

Acts I and II—Bristowe's Lodgings.
Act III. Scene I—Drawing Room at Miss Mountsorrel's.
Scene II—The Coulisses of the Polygon Theater.
Act IV. Scene I—Ernest's Rooms.
Scene II—Drawing Room at Miss Mountsorrel's.

The whole produced under the management of Charles Noe Daly.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer, Miss VanDeventer, Mr. and Mrs. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Miss Young, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, Miss Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Ostermoor, Miss Madeleine Ostermoor, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. Foot, Capt. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. W. Palmer Smith, Miss Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, Miss Marion Bowen, the Rev. and Mrs. S. P. Simpson, Maj. Robert L. Burnett, Mr. Green, Mr. Rice, Mr. Fisher.

The music, by Andrew G. Carpenter's orchestra, gave the people great delight.

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

CAN'T PAY THE PREMIUMS.

All the Receipts of the Somerville Fair Went to Pay Notes and Trotting Purses, So the Farmers Got no Cash Prizes for Their Pumpkins and Corn.

The farmers of Somerset are up in arms over the fact that the Somerset County Agricultural society is unable at present to pay the premiums offered and won in their annual exhibition held in Somerville last September. The date fixed for the payment of these premiums was early in the present month, but when the day came the funds in the hands of the treasurer were not more than half sufficient to pay the winners. In consequence, the farmers and others who took prizes on their exhibits were very angry and much exercised over what they thought was downright robbery.

Until the last two years under the presidency of A. A. Cortelyou the association made a little money each year, but under the new regime there has been a steady loss. The reason of this as explained by the secretary is that great and necessary improvements have been made which have used up what money the association has made. Last summer at a meeting of the directors it was decided to fit up the grounds in a manner which would add to the comfort and convenience of the patrons. To that end money was raised by giving notes, which came due about the time the fair was over and just when the treasurer had funds to meet them. This he did, and when the day for paying the premiums came, the "necessary" was gone.

It is impossible, so say the fair officials, to run a four-day's exhibition, as it is too expensive. Other fair associations in the State get fifty cents as an admission fee, while the Somerset county people will only pay thirty or thirty-five cents. This makes a large difference in the receipts. A three-day's fair can be run and some money made. The Hon. Jacob Klotz is a hustler as far as making the fair pleasing to the people, but some say he does not stop to consider the expense.

A meeting of the directors will be held soon after Jan. 1, at which time money will be raised to pay off in full all of the premiums. This is promised by the officers and will be carried out. All of the speed premiums were paid promptly, the only ones remaining unpaid are the ones which were offered to the farmers for the best exhibit of corn, apples, potatoes, etc.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Entertaining Red, White and Blue Tea, and What They Did There.

The red, white and blue tea, under the management of the "Children of Mary", held at the Young Men's lyceum, corner of Liberty and Sixth streets, for charitable objects, was a decided success. A pleasing and varied programme was given each evening. The feature of Tuesday (the first night) was a "Sailor Hornpipe", danced by little Elyda, daughter of Mrs. Richard Boyce, and ably accompanied on the piano by her brother, George Hughes. On Wednesday evening a chorus of children from St. Mary's school gave the well-known recitation "Barbara Fritchie" in a marvelously perfect manner, the sixteen girls speaking as with one voice and gesture. Little Clara Lanning gave a "Spanish dance", "Santaigo," very prettily, and was much applauded.

The Thursday evening programme was perhaps the most interesting of the series. The entertainment opened with the chorus "Happy and Light" by twenty of the children of St Mary's school, coached and accompanied by Mr. Lee, organist of the church. A recitation, "Paul Revere's Ride", was given by Miss Julia Day, who delighted her audience and proved herself a finished elocutionist.

George Davis, the instructor in dancing, of Newark, sang the character song "Velvet and Rags", and in reply to an encore gave "Molly and I and the Baby". Following this came the Columbia scarf dance, by sixteen children dressed in white and carrying scarfs of the national colors, which they used in many graceful and pretty evolutions. During the dance some pretty Spanish solo work, by little Elyda Boyce, dressed in Spanish costume, was given. The dance was arranged and taught by Mr. Davis, and was received with a storm of applause. The clever little child elocutionist and dancer, Lottie Noe, who is also a pupil of Mr. Davis, recited the "Gambler's Wife" and "How Jimmy Minded the Baby" and also danced a "Highland Fling" and "Irish Jig". Miss J. Shaffer sang the vocal solo "Waiting", receiving a bouquet of carnations. This concluded the first part of the programme, after which the floor was cleared for dancing as on previous evenings. The affair was a great success, and a good sum was realized.

She Was Bound to Run Away.

A little black mare belonging to Smalley Bros., the North avenue butchers, persisted in running away Friday. She turned the corner of Park avenue into West Fourth street after kicking a leg over the shaft. There she slipped down on the crosswalk and threw out her colored driver who for a few minutes was mixed up with broken shafts and flying heels.

Then she jumped up, turned clear around started down West Fourth at such a terrific gait that the wagon was swung against a tree, the Hon. Patrick Eagan who had remained aboard was thrown out, and the mare broke loose and was soon out of sight.

South Plainfield's New Industry.

Articles of incorporation of the American Lactose company, which proposes to manufacture sugar of milk and refine crude sugar at South Plainfield, Jersey City, and several places in the State of New York, were filed with the Middlesex county clerk Thursday. The corporators are Wm. E. Smith, of South Plainfield, John R. Smith, of Parkville, Kings county, N. Y., and Jeremiah North, of Brooklyn. Wm. F. Smith of South Plainfield is the principal stockholder, having 1,000 shares.

Plainfielders in the Tract Society.

At the recent session of the executive board of the American Sabbath Tract society, held in the Seventh-day church, Charles Potter presided. A committee, consisting of George H. Babcock, L. R. Livermore and A. H. Lewis, was appointed to take into consideration the filling of the editor's chair of the Sabbath Recorder to be made vacant Feb. 1, 1893, and also to consider and make recommendations concerning the re-organization, if necessary, of all their publishing interests.

By vote J. D. Spicer was recommended as local agent for the Recorder for Plainfield, H. M. Maxson, recommended at last meeting, being unable to serve.

ASLEEP AT HIS POST.

According to the Engineer's Own Statement This Was the Cause of the Wreck at White House Early Wednesday Morning.

The cause of the wreck of coal and freight cars at White House station, early Wednesday morning, as told in THE PRESS, by which the big engine 319 now lies at the bottom of a fifteen-foot embankment, is explained by the engineer himself, who acknowledges that at the time the smash occurred, he was asleep in his cab. He had nearly shut off just before rounding the deep curve and was running not over five or six miles an hour.

Just before engine 319 struck the caboose of the forward train, one of the brakemen threw a lighted lantern in through the cab window of engine 319 in order to awaken the engineer but his sweet sleep was not disturbed until he was aroused to find his engine plunging down the embankment. The reason of his fatigue was that he had been on duty for fully thirty hours and could not keep awake. He freely acknowledges his fault.

Engine 319 still remains at the bottom of the bank down which she plunged, and will do so until about five hundred feet of track can be built to run her gradually back. This can only be done at a great expense. The name of the engineer could not be learned.

Warren Mission's Entertainment.

Thursday afternoon the Warren Mission Christmas festival was held for the primary class and small scholars of the main school. After the programme each scholar received a large box of candy, and a bag containing fruit, nuts and cake, after which Santa Claus presented all of the girls with dolls and the boys with games. In the evening the building was filled with the scholars of the intermediate and adult classes. A programme entitled "Christmas Eve; or, Echoes From Bethlehem", was rendered with credit to all who took part, as well as to the committee in charge. Presentations were then made by the superintendent as follows: $16 in cash from Mr. Wilder's class, a very handsome picture to Mrs. M. M. Dunham, and a box to Henry Seader from their classes.

A general invitation was then extended to all present to remain and enjoy the cake, coffee and ice-cream provided for the occasion. A general social time prevailed throughout the evening. The programme was as follows:

Processional—by a chorus of children.
Recitation—"Looking Backward," By six children
Recitation—"Kris Kringle is Coming," Frankie Whitely
Song—A Christmas Waif.. {Ida Dunham / Lottie Springman}
Recitation—"The Tree I Love",.....Flora Mass
Recitation—Scales or Stockings, Tillie Coddington
Song—"Preparing for Santa", Irene Mair, Jessie Stiles, Rachel Blake, Aggie Morse.
Recitation—"The Little Christmas Tree," Lena Myers
Recitation—"A Little Mite".....Georgie Staats
Song—"Who is Santa?" By six little friends of Santa Claus
Recitation—"A Bud in His Garden," Aggie Morse
Song—Santa's Home.........Lottie Springman
Recitation—Maisy's Christmas..Mabel Stevens
Song—Welcome to Santa..........Chorus
Song—(by Santa.)

A Big Bible to Supt. Randolph.

The Third Street mission of the First Baptist church had a delightful Christmas entertainment Thursday. A song by the school "The Birthday of the Lord" and a prayer by Dr. D. J. Yerkes were followed by the address of welcome by superintendent L. W. Randolph. Then came an excellent piano solo by Mrs. F. M. Hulett, a jubilee song "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" by nine little girls. "Mother Goose" illustrated by 20 young people, "Santa Claus Song" by the primary class, and a recitation "Christmas Riddle" by Lucy May Scott. W. F. Richards on behalf of the Sunday-school presented a handsome large family Bible to superintendent Randolph. Nine little girls gave the jubilee song "Steal Away", Jennie Thorn recited "Baby's Stocking", five little girls gave three tableaux "Is There a Santa Claus", and then Santa Claus appeared and distributed gifts. Everybody enjoyed the refreshments that followed.

A New Building and Loan Branch.

A Plainfield branch of the New Jersey Building Loan and Investment company was organized in this city, Friday night with 35 shareholders on the list. The meeting was held in the City National bank building.

John D Runyon acted as temporary chairman and John Ulrich as temporary secretary. A board of directors was appointed by the chair as follows: J. D. Runyon, J. P Homar, F. S. Runyon, F. H. Martin, Elston M. French, J. D. Spicer, Mulford Estil, T. S. Davis, J. B. Mills, C. M. Ulrich, L. B. Woolston and A. L. Force.

The organization has already disposed of over 300 shares in this city, and it promises to be a very flourishing one. The meeting adjourned until next Wednesday evening when the permanent officers will be elected.

Councilor Brown.

At a regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held in their rooms last week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter:

Junior Past Councilor—Firman A. Long.
Councilor—Edward E. Brown.
Vice-councilor—Chas. L. Young.
Asst. Rec. Sec.—Willard R. Force.
Conductor—Lambert R. Bodine.
Warden—Augustus Wilson.
Inside Sentinel—Garret C. Schenck.
Outside Sentinel—John P. Reed.
Trustee for 18 months—Louis M. Dunavan.
Rep. to State Council for two years—David S. Dunavan.
Rep. to New Jersey Funeral Benefit Association—Horace G. Adams.

Advertising Him.

The following announcement appears in the Dunellen Call and Westfield Leader:

NOTICE.

James E. Totten is no longer in our employment, and has no authority to solicit orders or collect accounts for us from this date.

UNITED TEA & COFFEE GROWERS' ASS'N,
FULPER & BINGHAM, Props.,
29 West Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Dec. 9th, 1892.

Found His Wife Dying.

When William Totten of Fourth and New streets went home at 11 Wednesday morning he found his wife unconscious in an apoplectic fit. Drs. Long and Tomlinson were summoned, and labored over the stricken woman till 4:45, when she died without having regained sensibility. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2, at the First Church of Christ, of which she was a member.

The turning point in woman's life brings peculiar weaknesses and ailments. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription brings relief and cure. It is a powerful, invigorating, restorative tonic and nervine. It imparts strength to the whole system in general, and to the uterine organs and appendages in particular. [illegible]

[illegible] "The Change of Life."

THAT GREAT RECORD.

Here's the City's Model Financial Showing Referred to in These Columns Yesterday.

From The Press of January 4.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J., BALANCE, DEC. 31, 1892.

GENERAL FUND.

Assets—
Cash general			$7,069.79
" Peace street opening fund			1,104.69
" license trust fund			46.00
Uncollected taxes 1891-1892			20,324.65
" licenses			60.00
" assessments			707.37
" sewer rentals			148.00
A. Mabon			182.73
Sundry accounts receivable			188.00
Disbursements account—Peace St. opening			461.67
Board of Education			814.08
			$31,889.09
Liabilities—
Bills payable			$14,800.00
Unpaid bills			30.00
Peace street opening contributions			1,104.69
Overpaid hack and peddlers' licenses			60.00
Balance assets over liabilities			[illegible]
			$31,889.09

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Assets—
Cash			$4,602.07
Real estate—Engine house No 1	$8,200.00
Engine house No. 2	4,800.00
Second street	2,082.35		14,982.35
Equipment			12,685.00
Gamewell fire alarm system			4,885.00
Uncollected taxes 1891-1892			7,779.05
			$49,290.40
Liabilities—
Fire department bonds			$2,000.00
Bills payable			5,000.00
Balance resources over liabilities			42,290.40
			$49,290.40

POOR FUND.

Assets—
Cash			$2,999.71
Uncollected taxes 1891-92			1,559.59
			$4,558.30
Liabilities—
Unpaid bills			$60.00
Balance assets over liabilities			4,498.30
			$4,558.30

LIBRARY.

Assets—
Cash			$2,395.08
Uncollected taxes			1,227.28
			$3,622.36
Balance assets over liabilities			$3,622.36
			$3,622.36

Memorandum—

The above does not include library disbursements for December, as the library report has not yet been submitted.

CASH ACCOUNT, CITY OF PLAINFIELD, FOR YEAR 1892.

January 1 Balance in banks per Treasurer's report			$24,002.02
Less warrants outstanding issued in 1891			5,011.25
Actual Balance			$18,990.77
Distributed as follows, viz:
General fund	$7,324.14
Fire department	1,150.60
Assessment account	139.25
Poor fund	2,611.58
Library	2,864.22
Water-works	2,970.00		$18,990.77
Receipts—
State & county taxes	$61,343.96
City taxes	29,747.26
Fire taxes	12,750.28
Poor taxes	3,827.79
Library taxes	3,664.47
Penalties	1,398.82
Judgments	4.66
State railroad and canal tax	668.96		$113,180.90
Licenses, liquor	9,080.00
Licenses, hack and peddlers	1,367.25
Board of health	50.00		10,497.25
Subscriptions for street account	1,512.39
Subscriptions for sewer account	145.00		1,658.39
Fines from city court			1,397.50
B. Holmes, county superintendent of schools			663.84
Fire department, use of horses			96.25
Central Railroad of New Jersey police service			180.00
City clerk, licenses overpaid			60.00
Peace street opening assessment account			1,184.69
George H. Babcock, first payment on No. 2 engine house			2,500.00
Bills payable			40,000.00
			$172,082.12
			$191,152.89

DISBURSEMENTS.

Streets, paid by city	$15,206.06
Subscriptions and transfers	2,066.45		$17,272.51
Peace street opening			651.67
Fire department expenses	9,631.33
Bonds	1,000.00
Real estate	3,582.35
Two hose wagons	880.00
Four extinguishers	120.00
Four fire alarm boxes	500.00
Fire alarm wire	45.00
Hose	1,020.00
Bills 1891	461.18		17,439.78
Street lights			9,404.71
Police, regular and special			8,296.97
Salaries and commissions			20,049.43
Printing, advertising and stationery			2,378.81
Council room and rent of city offices			720.85
Election expenses			668.12
Bank discount			408.96
Tunis J. Carey, settlement			500.00
Legal services			290.62
Station house rent and care			267.77
Dog pound			202.50
Memorial Day expenses			100.00
Miscellaneous			251.27
Board of health			682.94
Poor fund	$3,055.76
Bills 1891	384.85		3,440.61
Library	$2,308.52
Bills 1891	180.15		2,488.67
Commissioners of appeal			30.00
A. Mabin, grading and sidewalk, secured by lien			161.78
State and county taxes			57,563.15
Board of education from B. Holmes superintendent			663.88
Unpaid bills, 1891 account			2,184.60
Bills payable			28,500.00
			$170,366.27
Balance			20,786.62
			$191,152.89

MR. WELLS AS SANTA CLAUS.

He Is Caught Napping on Park Avenue, with a Bag of Gifts for All Souls' Sunday-School and Another for the Children's Home—Mrs. W. J. Leonard's Clever Original Conception.

The last of the Christmas festivals enjoyed by the Sunday-schools of this city took place Saturday evening in All Souls' church. It was an occasion that will be long remembered by the school and the large company of friends present.

The entertainment consisted of an original juvenile play entitled, "Christmas Fairies; or, Santa Claus Caught Napping". The first scene was a beautiful illuminated tableau in which five fairies appeared in their glittering room in Wonderland at the North Pole, as helpers to Santa Claus, and talked over the plans for his last trip of the season. The fairies were named Peace, who was the queen on her throne, Hope, Love, Joy and Fun. The second scene represented the fairies still in their dainty, bespangled room, busy and happy in preparing Santa Claus for the journey, singing here, as elsewhere in the play, songs composed for their parts. In the third scene the old saint is seen on his way loaded with two generous-sized bags—one for the Unitarian school and the other for the Children's Home. Overcome with fatigue, he stops to rest and falls asleep. The fairies overtake him and a mischievous spirit prompts them to run off with the bag of presents for the school. When the weary traveler awakes and discovers his loss he feels humiliated, but resolves to face the fact and tell the Sunday-school the truth about his mishap. The fourth scene finds him in the presence of the school telling his tale of woe. The fairies, however, have been alive to his discomfiture, and intend to come to his relief. So while he is describing his adventure the five little sprites appear with the missing bag, and peace, hope, love, joy and fun reign again. Mrs. Santa Claus at this point was seen to approach with a smoking-hot plum pudding, about whose virtues she discoursed at length. It proved to be a stack of baskets filled with candy. Then followed the distribution of these and the gifts among the children and the spectators.

This is only an imperfect description of what was really a very ingenious conceit, that was worked out to the evident enjoyment of all present, though under unavoidable limitations, such as a lack of stage facilities and the like. To Mrs. Wm. J. Leonard is due the credit for this very unique adaptation of the old legend of Christmas-tide.

The festival merged into a church sociable, at which a very delightful collation was served under the auspices of the entertainment committee of the Women's Alliance of All Souls' church.

The fairies of the pretty little play were dressed in white gauze and tinsel. Red light enhanced the beauty of the scenes. Henry Wells impersonated Santa Claus, and Mrs. Philip Wells was Mrs. Santa. The fairies were: Peace and queen, Christine Nichols; Love, Margaret Harned; Fun, Roger Nichols; Joy, Horace Harned.

Twenty New Communicants on a Stormy Sunday.

The old First Presbyterian church, to which the popular pulpit orator, the Rev. Charles E. Herring, has been ordained pastor, has accredited to itself a re-animation of life. Although a stormy morning preceded the first communion service of the year, a large congregation witnessed the welcome of twenty new communicants who were called to the altar and for the first time to fellowship with the old congregation.

The pastor preached an animated discourse from Revelations IV, illustrating the attributes of Christ by the rainbow covenant and its significant colors of spiritual and mortal life. Mr. Herring has an original faculty of solemnizing this ancient feast of the church, and emphasizing the importance of realizing its practical significance. Under his administration this church cannot help being an important religious factor in the community.

They Paired Off in a Ghost Dance.

A New Year's "ghost dance" was given Monday evening at the home of George Rockfellow jr. Besides the light fantastic tripping there was abundant refreshment, and the event was greatly enjoyed. The guests included Miss Ella Gardener and George Rockfellow, Miss Cora Gardener and Joe Fuller, Miss Lessa Lucsey and George Fuller, Miss Adelaide Runyon and Ned Close of Bound Brook, Miss Nora Williams and Arthur Serrell, Miss Florence Smith and Walter Coriell, Miss Mabel Darling and Edward Randolph, Miss Lilla Lucsey and Gerald Otiff, Miss Clara Williams and Will Jessop, and Miss Nell Rockfellow and Frank Howland.

To Settle the Bowling Rivalry.

The Park club will have their deciding game between the married and the single men Saturday evening at 8. The record is:

First game—Bachelors, 1303; Benedicks, 1374.

Second game—Bachelors, 1426; Benedicks, 1387.

Dr. Davis President.

The board of directors of the Plainfield branch of the New Jersey Building Loan and Investment company met Monday and elected the following officers:

President—T. S. Davis.
Vice-president—L. B. Woolston.
Secretary and Treasurer—H. O. Newman.
Attorney—W. R. Codington.

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS. | From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.
} Correct in style, Perfect in fit, Well made and trimmed.

Each and every gaoment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and see your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S NEWARK, N. J.

9 17 tf

ALL THE WORLD OVER.

Christmas Day Is Celebrated Everywhere Nowadays.

How the Nations Keep It—English, Germans, French, Italian, Russian and Bulgarian—In Partibus Infidelium—Paris Dolls in the Far East.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Never did I feel so like a messenger of mercy and a herald of happy thoughts.

Wherever I went it was the same. Men with preoccupied faces turned from their business to hear but a sentence before they broke into a broad grin and called to each other across the desks, and others came up to see what it was all about.

At the British consulate, for instance, a sick seaman, an irate doctor and a disgusted clerk were having a triangular duel of words when I entered, but when I spoke the clerk looked relieved, the doctor and the seaman ambled off together, while I was shown into an inner room where sat Consul Gilbert Fraser, and his blonde-bearded face lighted up with a smile, too.

For it was of Christmas I spoke, and its observance in many lands varied, but always with a core of kindliness and home-feeling running through it.

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

"Christmas in England has not changed of late or grown in its observance," said Mr. Fraser. "It couldn't very well, for the British have always been famous at yule-tide merry making. Of course the lord of misrule and his twelve-day court have gone, for Englishmen are now too busy, though not so busy as you Americans, to give up so much time."

"Then you think we do work harder?"

"Oh, dear me! yes; twice as hard. One of the greatest things about the English Christmas is the way in which it has been carried round the world—yew and holly, mistletoe and bay, snapdragon, plum pudding and all—by English people. In Australia, New Zealand, or Madras, in spite of the burning heat, you will find the English Christmas. Shiploads of holly and mistletoe go out to the far colonies. Between America and Great Britain flow two unending streams of holiday gifts at this season of the year. With this we have, of course, no official connection, but the numberless queries we get about rates of duty and money orders tell the story."

CHRISTMAS IN THE FATHERLAND.

Herr Ferdinand Ritschl, vice consul of Germany at New York, has a broad and good-humored face, which grew an inch broader when I explained my errand. "As you see the German Christmas in America," he said, "so it is at home. On Christmas eve the tree is decked and lighted and everybody is at home. There is the first holiday and the second, for December 26 is a holiday, too, and the tree is kept decked until New Year's day. Your Santa Claus is our Kriss Kringle, you know. Oh, the German Christmas has gone round the world and is fast conquering this country. America is learning Christmas from its German citizens."

"The tree is universal, then, in Germany?"

"Yes, the spruce and the cedar."

"Und tannenbaum auch?"

"Yes, the tannenbaum (hemlock), too; that sounds good. Hundreds of thousands of young evergreens from the schwarzwald and from local forests are used every year."

CHRISTMAS IN FRANCE.

M. Maxime Durand, at the French consulate, assured me that France has a Christmas, too, of a somewhat different pattern—rather a church than a home festival, and without so much evergreen mixed up in it.

"And do the children hang up their stockings for Santa to fill?"

"No, not their stockings, but their boots or shoes. And not at Christmas, but at New Year's, which is the day sacred to gift giving, and not for Santa Claus, for we have nothing akin to him unless it be our Pere Noel. French children are rather too rational to care for such mystifications. But they appreciate the gifts and the home visits just as well without."

IN SCANDINAVIA.

Mr. Christopher Raun sat in his office at the consulate of Sweden and Norway puzzling over I don't know what astute problem when the mental conception of a Scandinavian yule-tide was substituted, and he straightway became eloquent and drew me an entrancing picture of a festival around the boughs of the big evergreen and of pretty girls from the saeters hard by, with long flaxen braids hanging down their backs, who dance all night with Axel, of Christiania, or Asmund, just back from Minnesota, with a pocket full of dollars. There is plenty of snow on roof and field, and the birds have scant provender. So, if it be a farm or hamlet—not in the city of course—up goes plump Johann and fixes a sheaf of wheat upon the ridge of the roof for all the wandering ones of the air to feast at and make merry, too, while the rafters ring with the dance and the laughter below.

CHRISTMAS IN EASTERN EUROPE.

At Arnautkeui, at the narrow entrance to the Black sea, every year the water is blessed by a priest in presence of as many Greeks, Bulgarians and Russians as can be present. After the blessing the priest flings his large, silver crucifix into the river. Strong swimmers plunge into the current amid the ice and snow, and the one who secures the crucifix is held fortunate above all his fellows.

CHRISTMAS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Consul Gustave H. Gossler, of Brazil, told me, when I plumped the question squarely at him, that in all the Latin-American countries Christmas is mainly observed as a religious or saints' day merely. "There is, however," he said, "a large and growing number of people who have traveled and seen Christmas days in America or northern Europe, or who have read of them in books, who reproduce the festival faithfully, usually after the German plan, with loaded, lighted tree and the hanging of stockings. But they are the minority; the wealthy people must have something different from the rest."

CHRISTMAS IN ITALY.

Sig. Cesare Poma, vice-consul of Italy, is an extremely handsome gentleman, courteous and kindly, who has some difficulty in managing our harsh Saxon consonants. The Italians, he assured me, have scarcely anything corresponding to our Christmas celebrations, with gifts and the like. "Of course," said he, "there is more or less giving of gifts, but not especially at Christmas. The child leaves his shoe on la cheminee—the mantel, you call it, and it is the good child, the Cambino Jesu, who fills it, not St. Nicholas."

IN PARTIBUS INFIDELIUM.

Rev. C. H. Daniels, district secretary of the American board of commissioners of foreign missions, said: "Christmas is universally celebrated at the missions in China, Japan, India and elsewhere, taking precisely the shape that it has with us, a mingled tone of religion and home cheer. It is even introduced into family life, though, of course, to a very slight extent as yet. A great many presents of toys, dolls, books and the like are sent from this country, so that at the same time that French children are playing with Japanese dolls, Japanese children may be gazing in speechless wonder at the kind that grows in Paris."

IN THE FIJI ISLANDS.

"Do they have any Christmas in the Fiji islands?" I asked Mr. William Churchill, the author of "A Princess of Fiji," one of the books of the season.

"Yes, indeed," replied Mr. Churchill, "and very much of a Christmas. You know the islands are Methodist now, dismally Methodist. Well, when midnight comes in a Fijian village—and it isn't a matter of guesswork, either, when it comes, for then the great Southern Cross constellation stands poised upright in the heavens; earlier or later it leans to right or left—when midnight comes, on Christmas eve, the girls gathered at one side of the long village green raise a song of joy. Perhaps it is this, which was written by a native and set to a native melody:

"[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Ko Jisu na Chastinu.'

"Which means, literally: 'Be is [illegible] Father, I am here! Ah [illegible] who [illegible] all out—Jesus the Christ.'

"Then from the other side of the green the boys take the antistrophe, and last of all the old men in the middle of the green roll in a thundering bass. The chief's house stands at one end of the sylvan theater, the church, or missionary house, at the other.

"There is universal gift giving. If the law didn't forbid it, they would give away everything they possess. So they are legally limited to trifles, and of these everybody gets one from everybody else, if it is no more than a cocoanut with the husk cut in fanciful patterns."

"And in Samoa?"

"I don't know much about Samoa," said Mr. Churchill. "Robert Louis Stevenson and I divided the South Pacific for literary purposes and Samoa came in his half."

And thus it is seen how Christmas encircles quite the whole world this day, and hundreds of millions join in its simple observance. Is any other holiday so universal?

OWEN LANGDON.

DO NOT CONFLICT.

Baseball and Football Will Never Crowd Each Other.

The armored knights of the gridiron field have had their day. The reign of the baseball stretches over half the year, but one-sixth is all that the football kickers ask. With Thanksgiving the last of the great college battles ended, but there are enthusiasts who keep up the sport all winter long, despite the fact that the mercury hugs the bulb in vain efforts to get down out of the cold. There have been some screeds written in which the assertion has been thoughtlessly made that football was supplanting baseball and was likely to become the national game. The truth is the sports do not conflict. One is essentially a sport that thrives in sunshine and warm weather, while the other is the chief of autumn and winter pastimes. It would be misery to play football with the temperature at summer heat. The exertion might, indeed, prove dangerous to the players. If a kind Providence bars out the scourge next year the pessimists who have been shedding crocodile tears over the decay of the diamond—blind to the truth and refusing to see the natural causes for the trouble—will be permitted to hang their harps on the willow trees and cease their mournful dirges, which cause only the ignorant to wonder at the whyfore of their sad sad lay.—Sporting Life.

Judge [illegible] Proverbs.

Nine men out of every ten think they could be statesmen.

'Tain't necessary to ask about a man's moral character when you are looking fer a hand in the pollitikle feeld.

Money is what give sparkle to campanes.

Pollitishans consider buyin' a vote an investment and not a crime.

Candidates air seldom jumped on when they air down.

Penshuns pays pollitishans.

'Twouldent be so bad, mebbe, ef a man could git a house and lot or a farm fer his vote.

It's a mighty pore sort ov a feller sitsen we've got that won't learn to rede and rite.—Detroit Free Press.

Fortunes of Stage Celebrities.

Jerome H. Eddy attempts to prove that there may be something besides fame in store for successful actors and actresses by the following statistics: Among the richest of American actors and actresses are Edwin Booth, worth $750,000; Joseph Jefferson, $1,000,000; Stuart Robson, $400,000; W. H. Crane, $400,000; Denman Thompson, $500,000; Joseph Murphy, $300,000; Roland Reed, $150,000; Oliver Byron, $150,000; Edwin Harrigan, $100,000; Clara Morris, $250,000; Fanny Davenport, $300,000; Lotta, $500,000; Maggie Mitchell, $250,000, and Sol Smith Russell, $500,000.

THREE CHRISTMAS STORIES.

George B. McClellan Presents Some Brief Reminiscences of Christmas in His Father's House.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Christmas! What a flood of memories the word revives. To tell of the happiest Christmas I ever experienced is almost an impossibility—there were so many happy ones when my father was alive to teach me how to enjoy them. The first Christmas that I remember seems now like a scene from a long forgotten comedy. I was a very little boy then, but the day is impressed upon my memory by a mishap never to be forgotten. Who has not some time been given a drum by his dearest friend and closest confidant—his father? The drum that I received then was almost as large as I, and the very first use to which I put it was that of a stepladder. My ambition at that moment was to reach the lofty altitude of an arm-chair. The drumhead, however, refused to sustain me and I fell through with a bang. How long I might have remained there it is impossible to say; for I never could have extricated myself alone. The hearty laugh in which my father indulged when he rescued me from my predicament is still a bright spot in my recollection.

I remember very distinctly a story that my father once told me about an incident of his own boyhood. I had climbed upon his knee one Christmas Eve and asked for it. "What is the first Christmas that you remember?" was my question.

"Oh, it is a very long time ago," answered my father. "Your grandfather gave a dinner to his old friend, Daniel Webster. Although I was scarcely out of dresses, I had been intrusted by the butler with the very responsible function of decanting the Madeira. The manner in which I performed that task was revealed later on, when the great statesman, after sipping his wine in evident dismay, suddenly said: 'McClellan, you were always noted for the excellence of your Madeira, but this is the most extraordinary wine I ever tasted.' I hope the spirit of Dan Webster has forgiven me. In my zeal I had mixed the sherry with his best Madeira."

Another incident which I have to recall, for it made a great impression upon me, occurred some years later. I had grown almost to manhood. My father, older in years, of course, was still the same bright, happy influence, filling the hours always with the consciousness of his presence and love. The chimes of a neighboring church were rung at midnight to welcome the anniversary of Christ's birth. I had been up very late enjoying the happiness of Christmas eve, and hearing the bells I opened the window to listen to them. Directly beneath me I espied my father, who was looking out of his window, too.

"Hello!" I cried. "What are you doing; trying to catch cold?" "Hello, boy!" he answered. "I always like to hear the Christmas bells, for I feel so grateful to our God that He made the day a possibility."

I have never forgotten that remark and the reverent manner in which it was uttered. The crisp night air and the ringing chimes impressed it vividly upon my memory. That dear, good friend, my father, speaks to me yet in those words, even though he has gone to be with Him who made Christmas a possibility.

GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN.

Henry Clews' Christmas Story.

Christmas should be observed in this country with the same enthusiastic spirit as it always has been and now is in England with the young folks. As soon as one Christmas season is over in England children at once begin to look forward to the next one, and so it goes on through their entire lives, and when they reach man's and woman's estate they then with their own little ones start life over again in their merry making whenever Christmas comes round. So it goes from generation to generation; all kinds of children's games are introduced in the evenings of Christmas week, neighbors drop in to participate and the servants are also expected to take part. It is a period of equality. All join in to do their share for the general amusement of the annual gathering. Some sing and all dance and romp with all the vim and hilarity they can muster. The mistletoe bough hangs over the door and makes lots of kissing for the little ones, and they not unfrequently drag the old people in besides in the merriment of all the rest. No family ever thinks of sitting down to the dinner table on Christmas day without having roast beef and plum pudding, and plenty of both to go around twice at least. The plum pudding is [illegible]. In that way they [illegible] it differ from the ordinary wedding cake such as we have in this country on bridal occasions, it then being cold and encased in small boxes instead of one huge dish. Otherwise both are made alike, having the same ingredients. I have tried both to my heart's content, and have become satisfied that none but a sturdy John Bull can eat extravagantly of either the hot or cold without being sure to get the nightmare and dreams of his grandmother or some other antique individual not particularly cheerful to dwell on in one's slumbers as compared to sweet repose. As I was born in England and spent my childhood there I speak from the book, so I cannot help noticing the great difference between the observance of Christmas in the old country as compared with the new. I wish the English Christmas merrymaking could be adopted here. Certainly families should at this festive season always come together under the parental roof. It is a season to revive youthful recollections and drive cares away. It prepares and guides the mind of both young and old to start the new year happily. There is nothing like making a cheerful start on the 1st of each January. If at that time one's life is made joyful it almost invariably insures a happy New Year, and this, repeated year after year, finally gladdens old age, as then all the occurrences of youth and middle age crowd the thoughts, and the older one gets the more vivid become the recollections of the incidents of early life.

HENRY CLEWS.

TOMMY THE SEAL.

He Would Shake Hands and Smoke His Master's Briar Pipe.

One day when Mr. Wise was out in his long Indian canoe fishing he saw a baby seal on a rock not far away.

He pushed his canoe over to the rock and picked up the seal. It was fast asleep and did not know there was a man near until he lifted it into the boat.

The poor little thing was very unhappy and cried to get back into the water. Mr. Wise wished to keep it, so he took it home to his wife and they fed and petted it until it became quite tame and would go about the house like a dog.

TOMMY SMOKING HIS MASTER'S PIPE.

After it had been with them a few weeks it became so fond of them that it would not leave the house for more than an hour at a time. Mrs. Wise would open the door and send it out.

Tommy—that is what they call it—would slide down the rocks into the sea and dive about for awhile catching fish. In about an hour he would climb up to the porch again and lie there crying like a child until Mrs. Wise opened the door. Then he would wag his tail and rub himself against her feet to show his joy. He liked nothing better than to have Mrs. Wise take him up in her arms or hold him on her lap.

One day Mrs. Wise put Tommy out of doors while she went to visit a neighbor. When he grew tired of playing, he went up to the door as usual, and called to get in. When no one came he cried just like a baby. When Mrs. Wise came home she found that he had cried himself sick, and he was sad all the evening.

Tommy learned a great many tricks. He was almost as quick at learning as a dog. He would shake hands, lie down and pretend to sleep, smoke a pipe, and cry when told to sing.

One day he went out to get his dinner in the sea, and that was the last Mrs. Wise ever saw of him. She thinks that he followed the tide far out into the ocean, and there met some of his old playmates, who persuaded him to stay with them.

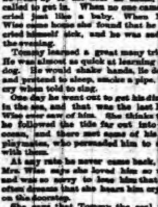
At any rate he never came back, and Mrs. Wise says she loved him so well and was so sorry to lose him that she often dreams that she hears him crying on the doorstep.

She says that Tommy the seal was the nicest baby she ever had; but then she never had any other babies, except cat and dog babies. She never had a sweet baby brother or sister, such as you and I have.—Kathie Moore, in Our Little Ones.

GOOD HUMMING TOP.

It Costs Absolutely Nothing But the Trouble of Making.

If you want a good humming top that will cost nothing but the trouble of making, get an empty baking powder box, or any box suitable, and cut a slit in the side of it, either round or square,



THE HUMMING TOP.

about half an inch long and half an inch wide. Next make a hole in the lid and bottom of the box for the spindle which you whittle out of a piece of pine to the shape shown in the sketch. The hole at bottom is square, and that at the top round, and care should be taken to make the spindle fit. Glue the lid and spindle in place. Now for a handle with which to spin it. A plain bit of wood with a hole at the end will do. When the glue is quite hard, wind the string around the spindle, passing it through the hole in the handle, and spin.—Harper's Young People.

Hard to Answer.

A question may look simple and yet present grave difficulties. "Am I on the road to Screamtown?" asked a lady who was making a tour of discovery from her summer home in a small New England town.

She addressed a man who was weeding a patch of ground near the road.

"You be, ma'am," he replied, surveying her with mild curiosity.

"Well, am I half-way there?" she asked.

"Why, as to that, ma'am, it would seem as ef 'twould make a diff'rence where you started from."

Lucy's Discovery.

Lucy—Mamma, the kettle just boiled over and put the kitchen fire out.

Mamma—Well, what of that?

Lucy—Why, I never knew that hot water would put a fire out before.—Harper's Young People.

A French Riddle.

Take away my first letter,
Take away my second letter,
Take away my third letter,
Take away all my letters,
And I remain what I was before—
The Postman.

The Same Symptoms.

Kenneth (aged three, very tired by a long walk)—Mamma! My shoes are getting [illegible] again!—Puck.

NAN'S HUMILIATION.

How a Naughty Little Girl Was Cured of Sugar Eating.

Nan was fond of sugar; she often helped herself without being asked.

"Dear me!" said mamma one day, "this must be stopped, or we shall have Nan ill," [illegible] calling her little girl to her, she said:

"Now, Nan—you must not take any more sugar without asking. Do you understand?"

"Y-e-s," answered Nan. But though she did understand very well, I am not at all sure that even then she intended to obey, for it was that very same evening that what I am going to tell you about happened.

[illegible] was [illegible] of whom she was very fond. He had been telling her a funny story, and had [illegible] everything to her, "just till I was grown up," said she to herself, but now he had turned away, and was talking to sister Kate. Just at that moment mamma passed Nan her "cambric tea." Nan tasted it, and looked as though she did not like it very well, and glanced longingly at the sugar bowl. But suddenly her face lighted up and she slipped her hand into her pocket. When it came out there was a lump of sugar between her finger and thumb. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven lumps went into the cambric tea.

NAN IS HUMILIATED.

"Why, Nan!" Nan looked up with a start, and blushed crimson. Everybody at the table was looking at her, her dear friend among them, and Nan thought he must feel very, very badly to put his handkerchief up to his face like that.

But that was not the end of it. The next morning mamma came to Nan with a large piece of cardboard, on which was printed: "Sugar thief."

"What's it for, mamma?" asked Nan, in rather a shaky voice.

"For this," and mamma turned Nan around and pinned it on her back.

"Now," she said, "you must wear this all day, unless," she added, "you forgot what I told you about taking sugar yesterday; did you?"

"No, mamma," said Nan, looking down, "I didn't forget."

"Very well, then; and now you may go out and play if you want to."

"Must I go out, mamma?"

"Not unless you want to," said her mother.

"May I stay in my room?"

"Certainly, if you choose."

And so all that long day Nan staid in her room, and when at night mamma came to take off the cardboard, Nan told her that she never, never would take sugar any more without asking.—Annie L. Hannah, in Our Little Men and Women.

Well Amended.

Undoubtedly one way of testifying a genuine affection is by helping a somewhat timid suitor. A member of the house of commons was once very grateful for a graceful and witty bit of encouragement from the lady of his choice.

For a long time he had been paying the lady attention, and had taken her to attend the house until she was well acquainted with the rules.

One day he brought her a bouquet of flowers, and said: "May I offer you my handful of flowers?"

She replied promptly: "I move to amend by omitting all after the word hand!"

He blushingly and happily accepted the amendment, and the motion was adopted unanimously.

A Feline Fire Patrol.

Among the servants of Uncle Sam are about three hundred cats, scattered among the government buildings in Washington and fifty large post-offices of the country. These cats are necessary to prevent rats and mice from chewing up mail-bags, letters and other documents; and several postmasters make regular quarterly requisitions upon the government for money to buy "cat meat." Twice the building of the war department has been set on fire by mice gnawing matches; and, to say nothing of possible damage to valuable papers through the teeth of hungry mice, the danger of a conflagration is great enough to make the cats a necessary fire patrol, and the cheapest possible sort of insurance.

Why This Distinction?

Everyone likes to be treated fairly, and so everyone will sympathise with a little girl whose saying is reported by the Chicago Post.

Five-year-old Mary had fretted and made herself generally disagreeable, and at night her older sister put her to bed with a feeling of relief.

"There, child," she said, as she kissed her good night, "I hope you won't be so cross to-morrow."

Mary had cuddled down under the blankets, but at this speech she sat upright again.

"I notice," said she, "that when it's me you say 'cross,' when it's you you say 'nervous.'"

His Respect for Age.

Mother—Donald, how did you get that lump on your forehead?

Donald—Douglas struck me.

Mother—Did you strike him back?

Donald—No, he's almost a year older than I am.—Harper's Young People.

FUNNY PRIZE FIGHTERS.

What an Ingenious Boy Can Do with Clothespins and Paper.

An enterprising boy may have a Corbett and Sullivan miniature prize fight. In this case the two illustrious gentlemen are made of clothespins and card board arms and legs and manipulated with a string, as suggested by the illustration. They perform curious antics, such as their illustrious prototypes never dreamed of.

SULLIVAN AND CORBETT SHAKE HANDS.

To manufacture these gentlemen, cut the clothespins half in two and after cutting out the cardboard legs and arms after the pattern in the picture fasten the members loosely to the wooden bodies with pins. The arms connect the combatants and a string through the middle of the arms completes the marionettes. Pull the string gently and watch the result.

A fakir sold this ingenious toy on the street recently. He had a crowd of admiring juvenile spectators about him constantly. He voiced the acrobatic performances in eloquent tones calculated to attract attention, in this wise: "De Sullivan and Corbett prize fighters, only 5 c'ts each. You can have more fun out of this toy in ten minutes den you can out of any odder toy in a week. They never git tired fighting, and they never git knocked out." Here he illustrates: "Now the great Corbett and Sullivan will shake hands. Now dem 'time and windup'—here a vigorous manipulation of the string produces an active encounter.

TIME AND WIND-UP.

Ingenious boys may make this interesting toy with little or no trouble.—N. Y. Recorder.

FOND OF PERFUME.

The Effect of Lavender Water on Two Ferocious Tigers.

All of the cat tribe are fond of [illegible] perfumes, and the ferocious tiger is equally amenable. A sister of the late Rev. J. G. Wood, the distinguished naturalist, relates of a certain visit she once paid to a traveling menagerie in company with her brother.

"No sooner," she states, "were we near the cages containing the lions and tigers, than they got restless and rubbed themselves against the bars, evidently recognizing a friend in my brother. They received his caresses with much pleasure, though apparently with the expectation of something more to come.

"Upon his taking a small bottle from one pocket and some pieces of thick brown paper from another, their excitement increased. He poured a little lavender water upon the paper, and calling each animal by name, presented it upon a stick to the favored one, who, on taking it, rubbed the paper upon paws, cheeks and back, and indulged in other antics, all expressive of extreme delight.

"When two animals were in one cage, the favored possessor of the scent would lie down upon the paper and roll over and over upon it to keep it from its disappointed mate.

"The strange part of the matter was that no other scent than lavender water had any attractions for these creatures."

Princelings Who Learn Trades.

It is the rule in Austria and Germany that all the members of the imperial family, boys and girls, shall learn a trade. On account of this the queen of Spain was enabled to do a little unpremeditated act of cleverness which greatly added to her popularity with working people. Visiting the other day the famous factory of mosaics at Orio, she stopped to watch one of the workmen for a few moments and then asked him to let her finish his job. Then taking his seat she completed in the most deft and workmanlike manner the mosaic he had commenced, according to the methods she learned when a little archduchess, with no idea of becoming a queen.

A Prayer That Was Heard.

When little Ruth Cleveland was born, a little girl living in a Catskill Mountain village wrote a childish letter of congratulation to Mrs. Cleveland. She expected no reply, and none came; but last Christmas there arrived for her a pretty Bible, with the girl's name and that of Mrs. Cleveland coupled on the fly leaf. The best part of the story is that the child had been praying faithfully for some weeks for a Bible "of her own" to carry to Sunday-school, so that she firmly believes this came in answer to her prayer.

She Was Supplied.

Young Housekeeper—Have you any boneless bacon?

Butcher—Yes'm.

Young Housekeeper—Well, send me some; and some boneless liver, also. I want to have liver and bacon for breakfast.—Puck.

His Chief Study.

Coralie—What is your favorite study, Mr. Belarny?

Belarny—Your face, Miss Coralie.—[illegible]

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after [illegible], 1892, trains leave [illegible] as follows:

8 50 A. M. Fast Line, with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for Toledo.

[illegible] P. M. Western Express, with Pullman Vestibule [illegible]

[illegible] P. M. Pacific Express, with Pullman [illegible]

[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY.

[illegible]

For further information, see time tables to be had at the ticket offices.

CHAS. E. PUGH, General Manager. J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect, NOV. 13, 1892.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Newark [illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Somerville [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Easton [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible]

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

[illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia [illegible]

[illegible]

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

[illegible] CONNECTIONS [illegible] SUBSCRIBERS—77 AND SUBURBS. [illegible] PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—36 North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 4th st
Amos, C. J.	139 Crescent ave
Allen Rose Co., No 1	Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. H.	32 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D G	40 Grove st
Brokaw, F W	[illegible]
Brokaw, Isaac T	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo H	9th and Union sts
Buckalew & Dunn	10 North ave.
Boice, W. C., M. D.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 8th st.
Beerbower, J B	Park av and 3d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	10 E 6th st
Board of Education—5th st. 6th and Union sts
Brown, R H	[illegible]
	cor. Liberty, 4th & Monroe
Clark, B B	3 Waywood place
Children's Home	Jackson ave.
Clawson, James T	Richmond and Front sts.
Constitutionalist Office	3 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro.	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J T	Manning and Watchung aves.
Cray, Rowland	[illegible]
Coleman, Mrs. F. A.	6 Third Place
Cruikshank, S. A.	139 Carlton Avenue
Carman, J H, M D	45 Somerset st
Chase, R F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (J H Leggett, Mgr)	Park ave and Front st
Daily Press	3 North ave.
[illegible], Mrs. E. N.	36 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	80 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, E M	Rockview ave
Demarest, P M	27 Park av
Dumont, John B	20 E 7th st
Decker, T—pay station	Westfield, N J
DeGraff, James	21 E 6th st
Doane, T O—Chief F F D	45 W 5th st
Dollner, S L	121 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park av. and 6th st.
Evening News, T. W. Morrison, Editor	[illegible] st.
Engine No 1	West 3d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st.
Evans, Geo C	37 Washington Ave
Fisk, Chas. J	38 West Seventh St
Fanwood; pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR. Depot
French, F H & Sons	Somerset st.
Fritts, Dr J T	79 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard	39 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, C Frank	40 Somerset st
Grant, Geo W, Chief of Police	10 W 6th st
Goddard, C M	17 Third Place
Griffen, A M	19 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New sts
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 6th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
[illegible], L	21 & 23 Somerset street
Hageman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	43 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas	141 Front street
Hedden, Albert	4th st. near Park ave
Higgins, M. A	75 East 4th st—35 North ave
Hetfield, John N	[illegible]—21 Park av
Harder, Francis O	133 Madison av
[illegible], O	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	10 North av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	66 W. Front st.
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	8th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T	48 W 4th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 6th st.
Lovell, L N	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice	[illegible] Broadway
Laire, J F & Co	3 W Front st
Linke, Frank	42 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	[illegible]
Myers, J K	[illegible] 7th st
[illegible], Henry A	Willow ave
[illegible], James	Willow ave.
Miller, J G	10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	30 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	[illegible]
Murray, Dr. Wm. H	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	43 Grove st
[illegible], E F	130 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	40 E Front st
[illegible], Lawrence	E Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood
[illegible], Henry B	16 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
[illegible], Jr., Thos B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	49 East Fourth St
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield [illegible] Co	3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	3 Park ave
Police Station	Park ave and RR.
Potter, C Jr	7th and Division sts.
[illegible], Press Works	South ave.
Probasco, Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave. and 9th st
Pope & Co. J. C	4 East Front st
[illegible], Thomas	124 Central av
Pond Mach Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
[illegible] Hardware Co	42 W Front st
[illegible], F W	[illegible]
[illegible], Chas A	27 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry C	Broadway
[illegible], L. A	30 Broadway
Reynolds, E F	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H. F	Washington avenue
Roberts, D S	17 North avenue.
Rockafellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	45 Madison ave.
[illegible], Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st.
[illegible], Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
Runkle, H. G	[illegible]
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, R. W. & Co	[illegible] cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L. W	Front st
Rogers, D W	45 W 2d st
Rogers, E F Jr	24 Watchung ave
[illegible], R W	20 east 9th st
[illegible], Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield ave
[illegible], G. J	40 Front street.
Shaw, E J	Front st. opp. Park ave.
[illegible], A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shepherd, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	13 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
Stelle, Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	[illegible]
Thompson, A. D	[illegible] North av
Talmadge, Henry P (Res)	Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jno A	Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	20 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and E B'dwy
Tobin & [illegible]	35 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	8th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	37 Somerset st
Tweedy, O. B	11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel	55 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Thorn, E	16 W Front st
United States Express Co	5 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
VanSickle W. J	10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
[illegible], C	West Second street
Wadsworth, W S	5th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
[illegible], J F	W 5th st., near Grand ave
[illegible], E, Ass't Chief	3d st. near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
[illegible], O B	145 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

[illegible]

TWENTY
Years experience in the business.
SECOND STREET, [illegible]

Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to [illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Park Avenue and [illegible]
Horses Boarded by Week or Month.

A Smart Young Man.

Mr. Gotham—So you sent your son to New York to earn his living.

Farmer Hayseed—You see, it was this way. He says: "Paw, I like th' city, and I'll go into the city and sell what you raise on the ole farm," says he. "You ship me all your truck, and I'll sell it on commission," says he.

Mr. Gotham—Ah, he became a commission merchant then.

Farmer Hayseed—In a small way, yes. You see, he doesn't get any goods to sell but mine. I farm, and he sells.

Mr. Gotham—I see. Well, how has he got along?

Farmer Hayseed—Fairly well, I should say. I'm still workin' th' farm, but he's got a mortgage on it.—Good News.

He Knew the Porter.

A gentleman went out of his house at eleven p. m. He was accompanied by a friend. Having closed the door behind him, he pulled the bell handle and walked away.

"What is that for?" inquired his friend.

"I know too well the habits of my porter. It takes him a full hour to make up his mind to come and open the door; that is why I have rung now against I come back."—La Tribuna di Roma.

A Reserved Seat.

"When I was once in danger from a lion," said an old African explorer, "I tried sitting down and staring at him, as I had no weapons."

"How did it work?" asked his companion.

"Perfectly; the lion didn't offer even to touch me."

"Strange! How do you account for it?"

"Well, sometimes I've thought it was because I sat down on a branch of a very tall tree."—Boston Globe.

Fishing and Religion.

Parson—I have heard, Mr. Pettijohn, that you would like to attend my church, but cannot afford to pay anything for a pew?

Pettijohn—Yes, sir; my expenses are large and my income is small.

Parson—But your wife tells me that it costs you a dollar and a half to go fishing every Sunday.

Pettijohn—Well, that's all she knows about it. It costs me at least two dollars.—Jury.

The Day the Ghost Walks.

She (gushingly)—There are days when we seem more in unison with nature than at other times; when our hearts seem to beat in accord with the sublime harmony of the universe. Have you never noticed?

He—Indeed I have. It is always that way with me on pay day.—N. Y. Herald.

Didn't Need Stretching.

"I think I'll get out and stretch my legs a little," said a tall man, as the train stopped at a station.

"Oh, don't," said a passenger who had been much embarrassed by the legs of his tall companion; "don't do that. They are too long already."—Demorest's Magazine.

Easily Cured.

Father—My son seems to be about as smart as other young men, but he no sooner gets settled in a position than he tires of it and resigns. He lacks staying powers.

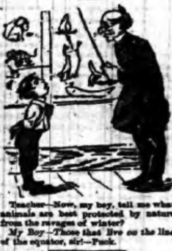
Friend—Oh, that's easily cured. Get him a political office.—Good News.

More Tender Than Her Heart.

Cora—What did Jessie say when Tom threw himself at her feet?

Dora—"Oh, murder! that's my favorite corn!"—Demorest's Magazine.

DECIDEDLY CORRECT.



Teacher—Now, my boy, tell me what animals are best protected by nature from the ravages of winter?

My Boy—Those that live on the line of the equator, sir!—Puck.

All Idiots.

Mrs. Maxwell—The paper says that an Iowa state board is trying to prevent the marriage of idiots.

Mr. Maxwell (crossly)—What nonsense! If they would do that there wouldn't be any marriages.—Des Moines Argonaut.

Nothing to Complain About.

Mr. Jawkins—Mrs. Henpeck is fearfully lonesome without her husband.

Mrs. Jawkins—Humph! I don't see what fault she has to find.

Mr. Jawkins—That is precisely what makes her unhappy.—Des Moines Argonaut.

Catering to the Public.

Friend—Why do you dump all that dirt into your soap kettles?

Soap Manufacturer—If folks don't find the water dirty after washin', they think the soap is no good.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Drawback.

"There is one thing about New Year's day that I think is demoralizing," said Mr. Fullobiz. "The fact that it is a legal holiday compels us all to begin the New Year by taking a day off."—Puck.

He Sleeps in Peace.

Cumso—How is your husband? Is he free from that trouble that used to keep him awake at nights?

Mrs. Nagley—I guess so. We were divorced last week.—Truth.

He Looked Funny.

Her Papa (who had taken his daughter's fiance out to lunch)—And you never drink, you say?

Her Fiance—No, sir; not even beer.

Her Papa (suspiciously)—Then may I ask you why you blew the whipped cream off the top of your coffee before drinking it?—Boston News.

Drawing Him Out.

Strawber—Well, I have made up my mind to propose to her.

Singerly—You are not going to do it in those trousers, are you?

Strawber—Why not?

Singerly—She won't be able to hear a word you say.—Truth.

Bothered, Probably.

Husband—Did you drive all these nails yourself?

Wife—Yes, I did.

"Let me see your hands."

"Here they are—not hurt a bit."

"Hum! Who held the nails?"—N. Y. Weekly.

No Harm Could Be Done.

Mrs. Parvenuah—I'm most afraid to wear more than four diamond necklaces to-night, for fear it will make me appear vulgar.

Mrs. Heighlife—Oh, you needn't be afraid on that score.—Chicago News Record.

Why He Cackled So Much.

"What's the matter with the baby?" asked a lady of a little girl, whose baby brother she had understood to be ailing.

"Oh, nothin' much," was the answer. "He's only hatchin' teeth."—Texas Siftings.

An Imitation.

Stranger—That's a very fine imitation of an old colonial residence.

Proud Owner—Imitation! That's genuine. Come in and I'll show you the roaches.—N. Y. Weekly.

His Specialty.

The Professor—What branch of anthropology would you prefer to take up first?

The New Student—Girls.—Chicago News Record.

[illegible]

You say that pleasure is rare,
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
—Judge.

MISCELLANEOUS. MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

He Yearned for the Unattainable.

Sarah Bernhardt loves to tell the following story about Ollivier, a famous French actor. The latter, it seems, possessed incredible power of mimicry. He could assume the voice, gestures and facial expression of any person he chanced to meet. One day he called on his tailor to ask him for a little more time on an account which had been running on for three years. At that moment he saw a customer enter the shop and pay for several articles of clothing, which were immediately delivered. Then the actor heaved a deep sigh of pain.

"What is the matter with you?" inquired the tailor.

"Alas!" replied Ollivier, "there is a man I shall never be able to imitate!"—Music and Drama.

A Nice, Broad Evening.

She—Did you have a pleasant evening at the Tollivers?

He—Yes. As soon as I put my right arm around Daisy's waist she put both hers around mine. Then she screamed. I let go, but she hung on. Her father came in and read the statutes referring to breach of promise—and—yes, I had a very nice time.—N. Y. Herald.

She Doesn't Play for Him Now.

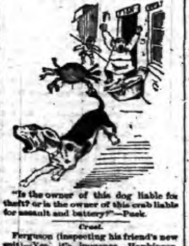
"I am afraid you do not love music, Mr. Keenear," she said, as she finished a selection at the piano.

"Oh, I do," he said, eagerly.

"I thought you looked bored," she said.

"I may have looked bored," he answered, "but I love music for all that."—Boston Globe.

A QUESTION OF LAW.



"Is the owner of this dog liable for theft? or is the owner of this crab liable for assault and battery?"—Puck.

Cruel.

Ferguson (inspecting his friend's new suit)—Yes, it's immense, Hankinson. Would you mind telling me who your tailor is?

Hankinson—Certainly not. Snipwell, No. 606 Waxem street. If you want anything in his line tell him I sent you.

Ferguson—Thanks. I want something for a masquerade. I think I'll go and order—hum—one of his ordinary suits, Hankinson.—Chicago Tribune.

Making a Good Start.

Wife—I think we ought to begin the New Year by turning over a new leaf, don't you?

Husband—I do; and I have a suggestion to make right here.

Wife—What is that?

Husband—Begin on a new turkey. That Christmas bird is getting a little tired.—Life.

Bright Expectations.

Dudeley Canesucker—We will be so happy. I will share all your joys and sorrows with you.

Esmeralda Longcoffin—But I haven't got any sorrows.

Dudeley—Don't let that worry you. You will have plenty of them after we are married.—Texas Siftings.

Applying Her Belief.

They were discussing the labor question.

"I believe in shorter hours," said Mr. Lingrr.

"So do I," replied Miss Keedick, earnestly. "I think an hour and a half is plenty long enough for an evening call."

As the young man had been there three hours, he began to look for his hat.—Jury.

Charity.

Farmer (emerging from shadow of hen house)—Hold on, there, you old rascal! I saw you coming, an' I just thought you wouldn't be able to go by that pullet.

'Rastus—Go by dat pullet? No, sah—reckon not, sah! I'se got some humanity in me, sah. Yo' didn't s'pose I could see a po' chicken roost out a freezin' night lak dis, did yo'?—Judge.

A True Philanthropist.

Mr. Goodman—You should tell our doctor to call on the washerwoman's family.

Mrs. G.—Dear me! What's the matter there?

"[illegible], I think."

[illegible] that only two of my handkerchiefs came back this week."—N. Y. Weekly.

On a Level.

Dorothy (aged three, to her older sister)—I'm as tall as you.

Marjorie—No, you're not. Stand up and see. There, you only come to my mouth.

Dorothy—Well, I don't care. I'm as tall the other way; my feet go down as far as yours!—Demorest's Magazine.

He Didn't Win.

Willis—What makes you so blue, Wallace?

Wallace—Why shouldn't I be blue? A fellow offered one hundred dollars for a case of catarrh he couldn't cure, and I let him try his hand on me.

"Well, what of it?"

"Why, he cured me, confound it."—Brooklyn Life.

Couldn't Affect Him.

Bright—She's a man-hater.

Cholly—Aw—er—is that so? I'm sorry to heah it, for I was going to twy to make up to her, dontcherknow.

B.—O, well, you're all right. The fact that she's a man-hater doesn't bar you from her favor.—N. Y. Herald.

A Request Ungratified.

Kitty—If I should marry you, Frank, you must give up your practice as a physician.

Frank—That would be impossible.

Kitty—Why so?

Frank—I never had any.—Des Moines Register.

His Obvious Use.

Cholly—I offered my services to Mr Hyson, but he wudely declined.

Fweddy—What did he say?

Cholly—Said he alweady had one cigarette-holder.—Chicago News Record.

She Was Complimentary.

Fogg—My wife is really getting complimentary.

Brown—Ah! How's that?

Fogg—Why, she came mighty near speaking of my raven locks.

Brown—How near, for instance?

Fogg—Why, she said my head looked like a crow's nest.—Brandon Banner.

Entitled to the Limit.

Miss Harlem (to Miss Livewayte, of Chicago)—Frankly, now, don't you think you have a very large foot?

Miss Livewayte—No, I don't. If you remember what you learned at school, you ought to know that every foot is entitled to twelve inches.—Truth.

The Proud Father.

"Ha, ha, ha!" roared Mr. Nupop, as he looked his baby in the eye.

"What are you laughing at?" asked Mrs. Nupop.

"At the bright things that boy would say if he could only talk," said Mr. Nupop.—Harper's Bazar.

Like an Old Hand.

Editor—The beginner you asked me to take on the reportorial staff goes at it like an old hand.

Spacer—What has he done?

Editor—He has killed off the oldest mason in the state three times this week.—Judge.

Very Few Can.

Algy—There goes the—aw—most intellectual fellah in ouah set.

Cholly—Ah!

Algy—He can distinguish the difference between this yeah's Derby hat and last yeah's Derby hat.—Good News.

In No Mood for Sympathy.

The milkman gathered himself up from the ruins of his demolished wagon, scraped the whitish-gray mud from his clothing, smoothed out the dents in his hat, wiped from his whiskers the dripping fluid that had drenched his face when the catastrophe came, gave one glance at the runaway horse disappearing down the street, surveyed the dirty-white puddles that represented his stock in trade, and turned to the crowd.

"All I've got to say," he observed, rolling up his coat-sleeves and speaking in the tone of a man accustomed to calling cattle, "is that the first son-of-a-gun that says a word about it's being no use crying over spilt milk is going to get his blamed head punched!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Envious Man.

"Small always looks sour and out of sorts. What's the matter with him?"

"O, he can't stand prosperity."

"Can't stand prosperity! Why, he is getting, getting all the time and never spends a cent."

"I mean he can't stand his neighbor's prosperity."—N. Y. Press.

Acute Hearing.

"John," said his mother, severely, "I hear you were very naughty in school this morning, and disturbed every one by making a noise."

"Yes'm," answered John; "but I didn't know I made loud enough noise for you to hear."—Harper's Young People.

Best Thing to Be.

"Presbyterian, are you, Effie," said the elderly relative. "United Presbyterian?"

"Not yet, auntie," whispered the blushing Effie, "but I'm engaged."

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 12, 1893. No. 2.

“Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities.”—Madison.

Rates of Advertising

Space	Weeks 1	Weeks 2	Weeks 3	Months 1	Months 2	Months 3	Months 6	Months 12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double-column [illegible] per cent. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jan9

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 198 Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEINS,
Dentist,
30 West Front street. A new local anæsthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jan9

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 156, or left at Willett's music store, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence [illegible] E. Front street, corner [illegible] street.

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, near Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to.

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed.

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware Mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 8.

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers' Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and [illegible]. I believe in every man running his own business. Call them and [illegible].
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

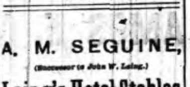
FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18[illegible].
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
(Successors to G. F. & C. B. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables



Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 96.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The “Accommodation Express” will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St.

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Carey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—24 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Terms reasonable. P. O. Box [illegible].

TOBACCO, CIGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The [illegible] cigar in the State and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA CIGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINK,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!!
No. 26 PARK AVE., (near corner of NORTH AVE.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
of every description.
The celebrated “Old Judge” Smoking Tobacco, with other popular and [illegible] brands.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from [illegible] W. Front street, to [illegible] West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALLPAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

J. B. WOOLSTON. [illegible] BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. [illegible] NORTH AVENUE.

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Aves
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.
WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST,
DAILY PRESS,
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

IN ROMANTIC DAYS.

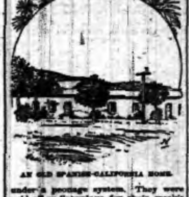
When California Was Ruled by Spanish Mexicans.

The Administration of a Great Ranch—The Peonage System—Social Customs of the Patricians and Their Followers—At a Baile.

(Special Los Angeles (Cal.) Letter.)

Those who have read the “Happy Valley of Rasselas” can form some idea of the pastoral beauty of California and the Arcadian happiness of the inhabitants, prior to the discovery of gold in 1848, and the consequent rush of the adventurers of the world to “these peaceful shores.” No country since the days of the Biblical patriarchs has presented such a scene of rural simplicity, peacefulness and general prosperity as California. The conquest by the Americans was almost bloodless, and of short duration. The hidalgos and priests who came from Spain and Mexico had selected the most fertile spots for their haciendas, and mission churches. The population, exclusive of Indians, was about thirty thousand, extending along the coast, the missions being San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Jose, Yerba Buena (San Francisco), and Sonoma, a stretch of country about seven hundred miles in extent.

The ranches ranged in extent from one to eleven leagues—or from 4,000 or 5,000 to 50,000 acres. The hidalgos, when they left their native land, had been given grants as an inducement to settle in this new country, and many of the ranches were baronial in their extent and surroundings, containing from 1,000 to 10,000 head of horned cattle and from 300 or 400 to 2,000 or 4,000 head of horses, and other stock in proportion. The proprietors were great dignitaries, “lords to the manor born,” maintaining large numbers of vassals, even greater than many of the feudal barons of old. These vassals were mainly Indians, who, under Mexican major domos, did all of the work on the ranches. They were good harvesters and the best horse breakers in the world. The Indians were very numerous, docile even to servility and incapable of “self-government,” and so the Mexicans practically enslaved them under a peonage system. They were paid off on Saturdays for their week's work, generally in aguardiente, when they would drink, gamble and fight, and generally find their way to the mission jail.

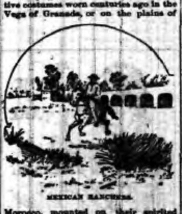


AN OLD SPANISH-CALIFORNIA HOME.

On the following Monday they were offered for sale for the following week for money due their employer or the prison keeper. The proprietor generally bought his men in at from $2 to $3 each. And from week to week these Indian peons were publicly offered for sale in the pueblos, as negro slaves were at the southern auction marts. These sales were generally made on village fair days, and during festivals. On these days the pueblo was both a slave mart and a beauty market—many purchasing wives.

These ranches had numerous major domos, or “bosses”—one for every department—like the court of royalty. The chief major domo had general supervision. Then there was a major domo for the unbroken horses, one for the broken horses; the major domo de la casa was the steward of the house; the major domo del campo had charge of the vaqueros, or mounted herders of the field; another had charge of the men who branded the cattle; another, of those who made riatas, or ropes—every department had its corps of men, over whom was a major-domo.

At daylight three men clad in the native costumes worn centuries ago in the Vega of Granada, or on the plains of Morocco, mounted on their spirited horses and on foot, report with hat in hand to the chief major domo for duty. As a general sending out detachments of troops, the major domo in chief gives orders to his sub-commanders, and they file off in detachments for their respective duties. They have all had their coffee, and perhaps a drink of aguardiente. At about nine o'clock all return for breakfast, the major domo of each detachment reporting what work has been done. The chief, hat in hand, in turn reports to the proprietor of the rancho. After the army has finished breakfast work is resumed. Dinner is called at twelve o'clock, and then the siesta, or sleep under the shady trees of the rancheria.



MEXICAN RANCHERS.

The siesta—sleeping, smoking and relating stories—lasts about two hours, and then to work until sundown. The night is passed in music, dancing, gambling, drinking, and sometimes varied with fighting. But, with the “American invasion” this Arcadian simplicity vanished.

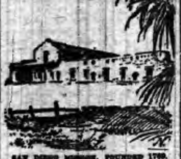
While these rancheros lived in baronial splendor, with the power of feudal lords, their hospitality was commensurately great. It was not for outward show, but was a general rule of the country, founded on a generous, hospitable spirit. A man could travel from San Diego to Sonoma without it costing him a dollar, even if he were a stranger. At each ranch where he stopped over night a fresh horse would be provided him on the morrow, he leaving his own until the return trip, which would be taken care of, and no charge. Perhaps he rode away a better horse than his own, and, if he did not return “muy bien (very well), horses are plentiful, and the [illegible] is welcome.” Religious fiestas were celebrated at the pueblos (villages) and missions with great pomp and ceremony, and afforded these isolated people great relief from the monotony of ranch life. When the daughter of a ranchero married, the family gave a grand fiesta at the rancho or a baile at the pueblo or mission, to which the entire country was invited—people coming a distance of 100 and even 150 miles, according to the prominence of the rancheros.

Families traveled in their elaborate carretas and the caballeros and senoritas rode their prancing steeds. These feasts lasted from one to three or four days as the spirit moved the revelers.

The baile, or ball, is a select gathering of the rancheros' friends. He had provided provisions ample for a siege of several days, and the guests had brought along their boxes or trunks of clothing. The costume of the ladies was a dress of red, green or yellow silk, or white lawn skirt, worn over a red petticoat—a pretty combination of colors—with red or white satin slippers, and wearing the jewels of past generations, handed down from grandmother to the mother and to the daughter for perhaps centuries.

The senors wore pantaloons of black cloth, open at the outer seams of the legs, the seams being laced with silken cords, fastened with tiny bell buttons, a close-fitting blue or black jacket, gold embroidered, a red sash around the waist and a “ruffled” bosom shirt.

The grand room, or sala, in which the baile takes place, has chair boards extending around the entire length on each side, where are seated the dancers and spectators. A favorite amusement, which afforded much flirtation, was the carnival of the cascarones. A cascarone is an egg shell filled with gilt paper of all colors, cut into infinitesimal parts and liberally saturated with cologne. A senorita breaks one of these over a senor's head, which gives it the appearance of being powdered with gold dust. This is a great compliment, and he is bound by all of the rules of courtesy to acknowledge it by breaking one over her head—perhaps he breaks a half dozen at once, and the effect is beautiful—spangles of red, blue, white, green, yellow and purple glistening in the senorita's head of coal black hair. When the amusement is at its height there is a battle of cascarones, and the young people's heads and dresses glisten with the radiant colors, and the floor is covered with the painted egg shells—a battle of beauty and gallantry.



SAN DIEGO MISSION, FOUNDED 1769.

But the happy days of the Spanish baile are gone, with other amusements and sports of romantic California before the days of the “invasion of the Americano.” The noisy fandango of the Mexican has succeeded the Spanish baile. The fandango is something like the French masquerade or the American “public grand ball”—everybody and anybody can go, and the best stay away.

The fandango is what the tourist and the native superficial observer sees, and they think they have seen something of ancient Spanish life. Very few of the customs of the ancient hidalgos are observed in these latter days, and there are very few of the old adobe ranch houses of those days now in existence. The modern adobe house is of different structure and construction—not built with a view to comfort, hospitality and pleasure, but merely to live in. The days of the baronial rancheros were the golden days of the romance of California.

J. M. SCANLAND.

Something Spoke.

“I don't see why you like young Basho Pfulle. He never says a word!”

“Money talks!”—Truth.

MINING FOR GOLD.

Operations Carried On in the Vicinity of Washington.

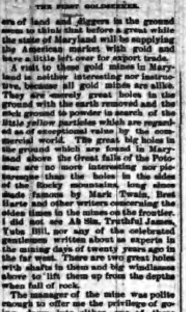
Senator Sawyer's Investment Not as Unproductive as the “I-Told-You-So's” Predicted—Underground Work That Pays Fair Dividends.

[Special Washington Letter.]

It may be a source of surprise to receive the information that there is a gold mine within ten miles of the dome of the capitol. Nevertheless, it is a fact that there is a paying gold mine just above the Great falls of the Potomac river. It has been known to a limited number for a great many years that gold existed in that section. The little stream that skirts the foothills and enters the Potomac river just above the Great falls contains a great deal of gold which it gathers as it washes over the gold-bearing quartz ledges of rock above it. For a hundred years or more it has been customary for the heads of families, in a rude and pristine manner, to pan out a handful of the golden sand whenever any young lady was about to be married. Just a little bit of gold would be brought into the city and made into a wedding ring for the occasion. Wedding rings from the little stream above the Great falls are scattered all over the state of Virginia to-day. They are kept as precious heirlooms in the families in which the young ladies have married. The people who have known that gold exists there, for at least a hundred years past, either did not know how to handle it or else they did not believe that it was to be found in sufficient quantities.

About eight years ago a big tunnel was made for our aqueduct from the Great falls of the Potomac to the city, and at that time it was noticed that, about a mile or two this side of the falls, the tunnel passed through several ledges of white and rose-colored quartz which appeared to contain gold in some uncertain quantity. This fact revived interest in the existence of quartz gold mines and the New Maryland mine was sunk. Gold, however, was not immediately found in paying quantities and the mine was eventually abandoned. It now appears that if those miners had only used a little more headwork in their search for gold, and sunk their shafting a little more to one side or run out tunnels in a slanting direction a little way from the bottom of the shaft, they would have been more successful and might have then found that mining in Maryland can be made profitable. Senator Sawyer, of Wisconsin, purchased a large tract of land in the vicinity of the forsaken Maryland mine and placed it in charge of Dr. Kempster, the celebrated scientist, who has been the family physician of Senator Sawyer for a great many years. Work was resumed in the neighborhood of the old mine and it has been demonstrated that gold can be found there in quantities sufficient to warrant a large expenditure of money. There are now some half dozen mines in the country to the south and east of the great falls, and it is current rumor that the owner of one of these has just been offered more than a quarter of a million dollars for his hole in the ground and the land around it.

And here we have been buying and selling town lots at so much per square foot, struggling to make a little more money every year by speculating on surface ground, when, as a matter of fact, right within our reach there are great quantities of gold-bearing quartz and we all should have been out in the mines instead of at work building a city. That is, if money is the chief end of man, and it seems that it is in the national capital. But the work of mining has commenced at last and activity and life are rife in the vicinity of the mines. Some of the more hopeful buyers of land and diggers in the ground seem to think that before a great while the state of Maryland will be supplying the American market with gold and have a little left over for export trade.

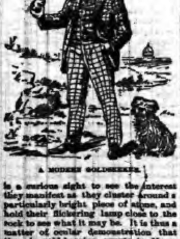


THE FIRST GOLDSEEKER.

A visit to these gold mines in Maryland is neither interesting nor instructive, because all gold mines are alike. They are merely great holes in the ground with the earth removed and the stick ground to powder in search of the little yellow particles which are regarded as of exceptional value by the commercial world. The great big holes in the ground which are found in Maryland above the Great falls of the Potomac are no more interesting nor picturesque than the holes in the sides of the Rocky mountains, long since made famous by Mark Twain, Bret Harte and other writers concerning the olden times in the mines on the frontier. I did not see Ah Sin, Truthful James, Yuba Bill, nor any of the celebrated gentlemen written about as experts in the mining days of twenty years ago in the far west. There are two great holes with shafts in them and big windlasses above to lift them up from the depths when full of rock.

The manager of the mine was polite enough to offer me the privilege of going down into either one of these holes in the big bucket; but a series of ladders runs down the side of one of the shafts, and I went down that way. The descent was about fifty feet, and at the bottom I found that a subterranean tunnel a couple of hundred feet in length, connecting the two shafts, had been made. The workmen were busily engaged in digging tunnels and following the veins of gold-bearing quartz in various directions. These miners have had no previous experience in gathering the precious metal. They have been, except one of them, engaged in mining coal in the mountains of West Virginia and Pennsylvania. They like this new work and are becoming very much interested in the study of the quartz. The manager of the mine is an old and experienced practical miner, who says that he never saw a better prospect for big paying work in all of his life. He intends to follow all of these gold-bearing shoots in every direction, even if they lead down to China. A great many tons of quartz have been taken out and carted to a stamp mill, where it has been joyfully apparent that the rock contains gold in paying quantities.

At either end of the tunnel connecting the two shafts a number of men are at work with the pick and shovel on a mass of quartz which has been blasted out. They handle the product more carefully than they used to do when they were quarrying coal, and are careful about the bits of pieces that promise a particularly rich yield. Nearly all of these miners are colored men, and it is a curious sight to see the interest they manifest as they cluster around a particularly bright piece of stone, and hold their flickering lamp close to the rock to see what it may be. It is thus a matter of ocular demonstration that there is gold-bearing quartz in Maryland. The question has been settled that the gold is there and in largely paying quantities. Several gold mines in Virginia right south and west of Fredericksburg are also being worked, and it is said that pay dirt is being found there also. If it can be demonstrated, as now seems likely, that the Appalachian range has dipped down here and sunken to the sea level with a bosom full of gold, the national capital might become a big mining camp after awhile.



A MODERN GOLDSEEKER.

When you make that trip to Washington, which you have been promising yourself for so many years, you should go to the mines near the Great falls. Even if you don't care about going down into the big shafts, the drive will prove a pleasant and invigorating one. A portion of the trip was recently described in a letter concerning Cabin John's bridge, and the fashionable turnouts to be seen on the road. It is an extension of Pennsylvania avenue, beyond ancient Georgetown, and is sometimes called the Aqueduct road, because for several miles beneath it run the tunnels which bring water to the city from the upper Potomac. But if you want to go down into the mines when you get there, you will have no trouble in getting permission to do so. The owners and managers are proud of their property and pleased with the developments. They like to have it known that they have achieved success, and they want people to see with their own eyes what has been done and is being done by them. When Senator Sawyer invested $60,000 in the property, his friends shook their heads, and said that the shrewd and successful old business man and statesman was getting into his dotage and losing his comprehensive grasp of affairs. They believed that he had simply thrown away that much money.

The old gentleman told me about it in his committee room at the capitol, and remarked: “I was called a very foolish fellow when I invested money in large tracts of land in Wisconsin, many years ago, because it was known that the land was a wilderness and could not be easily cultivated. But when they saw a railroad running through the land later on, and saw my woodmen cutting millions of feet of the best timber in the country from those lands, they concluded that the old man knew what he was about! I guess I have made no mistake in my gold mines.” And the sequel proves that he was as far-seeing in that matter as he has generally been throughout a long life of successful business enterprises. The gold is there, and the mine has paid for itself long ago. The other mines are rapidly developing and everybody seems more than satisfied with the present condition of the underground work.

SMITH D. FRY.

Delicate.

There is a class of super-refined young ladies, if common report is to be trusted, who think it a mark of superior cultivation to have small and delicate appetites. A Pennsylvania exchange has heard of one.

“Do you think you could eat a bit of the turkey?” said a gentleman to his cousin, a young woman from the city.

“Why, yes; but just a small piece, please,” she answered.

He started to trim off a delicate morsel, and asked: “Is there any part you especially like?”

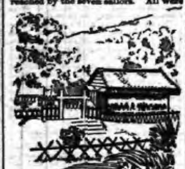
“Oh, no, I'm not particular,” and she looked demurely at her knife and fork. “Just give me a wing and a leg and a few slices off the breast, with a portion of the gizzard and a spoonful of dressing. I can reach the vegetables myself.”—Youth's Companion.

RESULT OF A WRECK.

How American Money Built Two Japanese Schoolhouses.

On a small island in the extreme south of the island empire of Japan, where a few thousand simple peasants and fishermen live in great isolation, are two pretty little villages, and in them are two schoolhouses with a pleasing and romantic history. They represent unselfish kindness, gratitude, international good will, a missionary spirit and practical sense in its manifestation.

In September, 1886, the American bark Cashmere was wrecked in a cyclone some two hundred miles off the Japanese coast. Seven sailors in the only ship's boat that was saved reached this island after great suffering, while three sailors and the captain's little son remained on the wreck. It drifted so near the coast that they escaped on a raft and got to a village near that reached by the seven sailors. All were nearly dead from exposure and famine, but the Japanese islanders treated them with such skill and kindness that all recovered, and on arriving at San Francisco were earnest in asking that something be done to reward their benefactors.



THE ISAKI SCHOOLHOUSE.

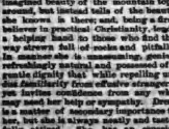
Mr. Horace F. Cutter, of San Francisco, prepared a memorial which was extensively signed and presented in congress by Senator Jones, of Nevada. The government sent medals to the principal rescuers, and five thousand dollars was voted to the two villages—Anjio and Isaki. By advice of Minister Swift the money was used to endow these two schools, and photographs, twelve by twenty inches in size, of the two buildings have recently been forwarded to Mr. Cutter. The island is Tanega-Sima, thirty miles from the main island of Kiu-Siu, and the native photographer had to travel seventy-five miles from Kagoshima to take the pictures. They are very fine, quite up to the standard of San Francisco art, and were paid for by the Japanese government.

In each village the people have set up a little monument by the schoolhouse “to commemorate the goodness of the people of the United States.” Although everything about these little frames is cheap and simple, the artistic sense of the Japanese appears in every detail. The Japanese flag flies over each building, as in some American states our own flag does, and the surroundings are all quite attractive. It is pleasant to conclude with the statement that boys and girls share alike in the school advantages.

AN ADMIRABLE WOMAN.

Mrs. Isabella M. Alden, Popularly Known as “Pansy.”

Mrs. Isabella M. Alden, best known to the general public as “Pansy,” the pen name under which she has written such admirable books for young people, is the wife of a clergyman, Rev. G. R. Alden, and lives in Washington. She is described as a woman of less than medium height, with brown eyes and dark brown hair. Personally she is just the sort of woman one would imagine her to be from reading her books. There is in and about her the same high standard of right and wrong; the same deeply rooted principles; the same unselfishness of life and loving sympathy; the same bright, happy Christianity, and, above all, the same entire consecration to the author of her faith and to his service which breathes through all her writings. With her they are not mere theories, existing only on paper and in the author's mind, but are the rules that govern her own daily life. Mrs. Alden is not one who, dwelling in the valley, tells of the imagined beauty of the mountain tops around, but instead tells of the beauty she knows is there; and, being a firm believer in practical Christianity, lends a helping hand to those who find the way strewn full of rocks and pitfalls. In manner she is unassuming, genial, refreshingly natural and possessed of a gentle dignity that while repelling undue familiarity from effusive strangers, yet invites confidence from any who may need her help or sympathy. Dress is a matter of secondary importance to her, but she is always neatly and tastefully attired. She has an especial preference for certain shades of gray.



MRS. ISABELLA M. ALDEN.

It would be difficult to find two people better suited to each other, more tenderly devoted or more thoroughly one in all their interests and aims than are Mrs. Alden and her husband.

“The Friend of Man.”

It has not been generally considered that in the various arctic expeditions which have been made the arctic dog has played an important part, relates the Indianapolis News. In the recent journey of Lieut. Peary 1,300 miles were made by sledges drawn by these faithful and useful animals, and they averaged, according to Mr. Peary's statement, about twenty-one miles a day. The dogs required about the same amount of food as one man and drew a load about one-fourth greater than would a man.

JAPANESE PUG DOGS.

A Famous Family Now Dwelling in San Francisco.

Defying All Precedent by Living—The Pretty Pets of Mrs. Kennison and the Misses Stone Described in a Few Words.

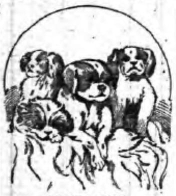
Japanese pugs rarely thrive in this country. The few born on American shores generally die very soon afterward. There is one family of this breed of dogs, however, in this city evidently destined to defy all precedents, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

The great-grandparents of this family were Romeo and Juliet, brought from Japan a few years ago. Romeo is still living, and is about ten years old. He is the property of Mrs. J. Gollin, of Taylor street, near Bush.

Japan, the son of Romeo and Juliet, belongs to Judge Gunnison, of 1404 Van Ness avenue. Judge Gunnison a year since brought from Japan another pug. Yum Yum. Kekko, Nikko, Tama, Chinli and Yum Yum II. were the family of Japan and Yum Yum I. Of these all died except Tama, thus it would seem sustaining the theory that Japanese pugs cannot live in this country.

With Tama's little doggies came a change. Out of five four lived, and these are over a year old. Tama and her babies passed into the hands of Misses Laura and Belle Stone, of 807 Leavenworth street. Tama's little ones were named on October 17, 1891. Miss Laura Stone, who is a well-known artist, held a regular christening party in her studio. Amid a company of assembled friends the five baby pugs were grouped upon a white fur rug. A young gentleman performed the ceremony of tying a name card around each neck with baby blue baby ribbon. As he did so Miss Belle Stone sprinkled each with cologne, emptying over all the contents of a whole bottle. The names given were Torii, a bird; Kekko, wonderfully beautiful; Kin, gold; Hanna, a flower, and Amida, an endearing name of Buddha. The last perished, not of the grandeur of his name, but of congestion of the lungs, to which Japanese pugs are peculiarly liable. It was this fell disease which carried off his interesting relations.

At present the Misses Stone have charge of Tama, or Sweetheart, and her daughters, Kin and Hanna. Mrs. Kennison, the sister of Judge Gunnison, has Tama's sons, Kekko and Torii, also Japan, the grandfather dog, still living. Every morning and evening Mrs. Kennison and one or the other of the Misses Stone meet each other and take out the whole crowd of dogs for an airing. There are six in all. Strange to relate, the old and the young and the males and the females all look about the same size and all very much alike. It is difficult to realize that they represent three generations. The little dogs seem like animated toys, with their long, silky hair in patches of black and white, their big eyes and peculiar turned-up noses.



A FAMOUS FAMILY.

With the pug family Miss Laura or Miss Belle Stone takes out Fannie, a little thoroughbred black and tan. She was a great pet of the young ladies' mother before the advent of the Japanese dogs. Little Fannie has never been allowed to feel that her nose is out of joint.

Japanese pugs are as delicate as babies. These dogs in particular have had more care and attention than often fall to the lot of many a poor child. They are combed and brushed twice a day and have clean ribbons tied to their collars every morning. They are fed on boiled meat and vegetables chopped up as if for hash, graham bread and fresh fruits, with the seeds and skins removed. They are never allowed cake or sweets. They have a pan of fresh water, changed twice every day. Once a week the pugs are dosed with powdered charcoal. Occasionally a little sulphur is mixed with their food. Their greatest danger is from overfeeding, and this is carefully avoided. The little dogs sleep on clean blankets in one of the family bedrooms. These blankets are changed every day. A dog doctor is constantly employed to look after the canine welfare.

When the dogs are taken out for their airings they are held by strings attached to their collars, which last are all ornamental, some plated with silver and adorned with bells. As might be expected, the little animals attract a great deal of attention. Already they are so famous that people come from far and near, begging for the privilege of seeing them. Fabulous sums have been offered for them, but their owners say: “We will never, never part with our dear babies.”

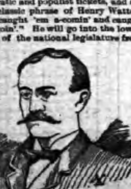
“You wouldn't believe how we love them!” exclaims Mrs. Stone, the mother of the two young ladies. “We can't help growing attached to them. They are so affectionate that we feel fully repaid for our care. And they are the best little watch dogs you ever saw. You should hear them bark. Nobody could get into the house without our knowing it. They're the sweetest little darlings in the world!”

Such, in brief, is the story of the family of Japanese pugs which seems destined to defy all precedent.

THE FIGHTING PARSON.

Rev. Myron W. Reed, Who Will Go to Congress from Colorado.

Rev. Myron W. Reed, pastor of the First Congregational church of Denver, is one of the brainy men who was borne into the house of representatives by the recent political tidal wave. Rev. Mr. Reed was a candidate on both the democratic and populist tickets, and so, in the classic phrase of Henry Watterson, “caught 'em a-comin' and caught 'em a-goin'.” He will go into the lower branch of the national legislature from the First congressional district of Colorado.



REV. MYRON REED.

He formerly resided at Hudson, Lenawee county, Mich., going into the army from that village in 1862 in Company A, Eighteenth Michigan infantry, of which he was chaplain. There was not fighting enough in that position to suit the parson, and at his request he was appointed by Gen. Thomas chief of scouts at Nashville, with the rank of captain, but the title usually given him was “the fighting parson.”

He is very popular in Denver and is in charge of one of the wealthiest and most fashionable congregations in the city. The salary is far in excess of that of a congressman, but Mr. Reed has always taken a great interest in politics, and the great ambition of his life seems to be to occupy a seat in the lower house. He ran in 1888 on the democratic ticket but was defeated by a small plurality. While favoring tariff reform the watchword of his campaign was “free silver.”

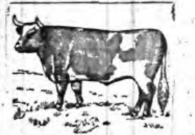
Rich Gifts to Royalty.

The emperor of Germany has consented to send to the world's fair what will be one of the most remarkable and attractive features to be seen at Chicago next year. It will consist of a collection of presents received by his grandfather, Emperor William, his father, Emperor Frederick, and himself from their fellow sovereigns in Europe, as well as from the people of Germany. The conditions under which it will be exhibited have not yet been announced. The presents consist of jewels and other personal ornaments, silver plate, decorations and an indefinite variety of other articles. The collection is worth millions of dollars.

A BOVINE MONSTER.

The Biggest Ox in the World Owned by a Pennsylvania Man.

Col. William M. Singerly, of Philadelphia, intends exhibiting at the world's fair the largest ox in the world. Just now, says the Illustrated American, his oxship is doing nothing but eating, drinking and sleeping, and is getting bigger every day at the colonel's stock farm at Gwynead, Pa. He is breaking all records in the growth of his kind as he waxes broad and heavy, keeping his trainers in a constant state of wonderment as to when he will quit growing. Already he has surpassed all other oxen on earth, which is saying a good deal when one considers how many of these beasts are browsing around in different parts of the world.



JUMBO.

He is under the immediate charge of Jason Sexton, the foreman of the big farm.

The big ox occupies a box stall about the size of an ordinary city house. The illustration shows what he looks like, but it gives little idea of his size. Yet, with all its development, the animal isn't abnormally fat. His growth has been about the same in every part, and he is a perfect picture of health and strength.

The last time the ox was measured he was twelve feet long from head to rump. It took an eleven-foot measure to go around his body, and he stood five feet three inches high. Then he weighed 2,840 pounds, but he has grown since, and by the time he boards a train for Chicago and the world's fair, it is freely predicted that he will tip the scales at even 4,000 pounds. This is the result which both Col. Singerly and Foreman Sexton aim at, and the big beast isn't stinted on food or drink.

His name is Jumbo. In his veins flow in equal parts the blood of the Holstein and the Durham stock—a combination which all breeders are fond of. He is six years old, and was calved in Michigan, where he lived up to eighteen months ago.

The ox is very gentle. In color he is black and white—mostly black—and his horns have a graceful turn.

County fair committees who have heard of Jumbo's blue-blooded existence have made bids for him, and many people have journeyed from considerable distances to view his mammoth proportions.

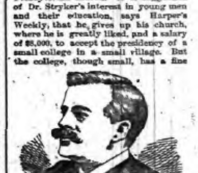
To all the varied inducements Col. Singerly has turned a deaf ear, preferring to exhibit him in all the glory of his greatest development in Chicago next year.

One reason for the colonel's sanguine expectations is that Jumbo's parents were both of tremendous size.

HAMILTON'S NEW HEAD.

Rev. Dr. M. W. Stryker, the Young President of an Old College.

Rev. Dr. Melancthon Woolsey Stryker, the new president of Hamilton college, is still a young man, even in these days of young college presidents. Though but forty years old, he has held prominent pastorates at Ithaca, Holyoke and at Chicago, where he succeeded Dr. Herrick Johnson in the strong Fourth Presbyterian church. It is suggestive of Dr. Stryker's interest in young men and their education, says Harper's Weekly, that he gives up his church, where he is greatly liked, and a salary of $8,000, to accept the presidency of a small college in a small village. But the college, though small, has a fine record, and seems to need nothing so much just now as the leadership of a strong and enthusiastic man. Such Dr. Stryker is—a worthy descendant of his grandfather, Commodore Melancthon Woolsey, of the United States navy. In appearance President Stryker is above medium height, well built, inclining to stoutness, with ruddy face, blue eyes and brown mustache. Indeed, he shows none of the outward and visible signs of the clergyman. Rather, he resembles most of all our very best type of New York business man. He is a fine orator, a poet of no mean rank, a scholar, a leader in the councils of the Presbyterian church and withal an ardent tennis player and fisherman.



REV. DR. M. W. STRYKER.

Time to Stop.

“You are working too hard,” said a policeman to a man who was drilling a hole in a safe at two o'clock in the morning.

“What's that?” asked the burglar in a discontented tone as he looked into the muzzle of the policeman's revolver.

“I say you need arrest.”—Judge.

Always at the Head.

Facetious Customer (paying for his “shampoo”)—Yours is the crowning work of all.

Dignified Barber—Yes, sir. Men in my profession stand at the head.—Demorest's Magazine.

Too Easy.

Kitty Winslow—I don't see why it should be so hard for a young man to say “No.”

Tom De Witt—No; you girls seem to find it easy enough.—Life.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

CYCLONIC.

The choice of Presidential electors has been officially ascertained and shows that Cleveland, Democrat, has of them 276, Harrison, Republican, 144, and Weaver, Populist, 24.

In the Electoral College Cleveland will have a clear majority of 108 over Harrison and Weaver combined, and 53 more than sufficient to decree his election as President.

Such a political cyclone has not swept the country since 1872.

It is not surprising that so many Republican brethren stand aghast and wonder if that much talked about comet did not really bump the earth and knock out of shape their sanguine expectations.

Be sedate, gentlemen, it was not any fiery courser in the sky, but an ardent public upheaval on land that dashed into fragments your partisan idols.

In turning over the leaves of political history some singular facts appear, one of which seems deserving of mention, and that is during the past sixty years every twentieth year has witnessed a surging flood of votes cast in favor of the successful Presidential candidate.

In 1832 Andrew Jackson was re-elected by a heavy popular and electoral majority.

Twenty years later, 1852, Franklin Pierce received 254 of the then 296 electoral votes, overwhelmingly defeating General Scott, the last Whig ever placed in national nomination.

Twenty years again rolled by when in 1872 General Grant eclipsed the political aspirations of Horace Greeley, formally and foolishly endorsed by the Democrats, obtaining 286 electoral votes to Greeley's 80.

And after another circuit of twenty years, 1892, Grover Cleveland, the President-elect, receives a like cyclonic popular support.

Twenty years more will end in 1912. May the victorious candidate of that distant period be worthy of the peoples' confidence and a bold defender of free representative government.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The last message of Governor Abbett is an admirable document and is well worth careful reading and study. He presents a fair and candid exhibit of every aspect of the State affairs. The exhibit of the State's finances is complete and fully as satisfactory. The State's receipts are sufficient for the State's necessities, and the disbursements are limited to the proprieties of decent government. The State levies no tax on property for the maintenance of the State, except a small tax on schools, which is returned to the counties which pay it. The only debt is the balance of a war debt, which cannot be paid off except by buying the bonds at a large premium, and for which there are ample securities at the command of the State.

All subjects pertaining to the State are treated in a clear and concise manner. Gov. Abbett has the esteem of the whole people of the State for the admirable manner in which he has conducted the affairs of his administration. In his retirement from the office of Governor the people have the satisfaction of knowing that he has served them faithfully and honestly.

STATE CHARITIES' AID.

Plainfield Officers Re-elected—Renewed Interest in the Work.

The annual meeting of the Union County Branch of the New Jersey State Charities' Aid society was held Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. Benjamin Williamson, Elizabeth.

A larger number of members were present than have been at the society's meetings for some time, and a renewed interest was taken in the work of the society.

The Rev. Dr. F. M. McAllister, vice-president of the Union county branch, presided. In the election of officers for the year the Rev. Dr. Kempshall declined to serve on account of his ill-health, and the Hon. Foster M. Voorhees was elected. The following officers were re-elected: The Rev. F. M. McAllister, vice-president; Miss Edith R. Leonard of Plainfield, secretary, and Mrs. J. K. Myers of Plainfield, treasurer.

Among other business transacted a committee was appointed to act with State secretary Mrs. Williamson to prepare for an exhibit at the World's fair.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Executive Committee—Howard Richards, Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Mrs. J. M. Watson, Mrs. Nelson Trimble, the Rev. James M. Nourse, the Rev. Robert Clark, David F. Hall, S. A. Blackwell, E. B. Clark.

Committee on Children—The Rev. James M. Nourse, Thomas More, Prof. J. M. Watson, Mrs. George Opdyke, Mrs. George Kline, S. A. Blackwell, Frederick C. Marsh.

Committee on Jails and Alms-houses—David F. Hall, E. B. Clark, the Rev. H. H. Sleeper, D. D., J. A. Dix, Mrs. Nelson Trimble, Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Mrs. J. M. Watson.

Committee on Poor-Laws—Frederick C. Marsh, E. V. Lindabury, Howard Richards.

The following committee was appointed to take measures to bring about charity organization in Elizabeth with authority to add to its number five other residents of Elizabeth who are not members of the association: Mrs. Benjamin Williamson, the Rev. Dr. Oberley, the Rev. Dr. Sleeper, J. A. Dix and Mrs. J. C. Rankin.

Mrs. Nelson Trimble, Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, Mrs. George Kline and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh were appointed a committee to arrange for the county exhibit at the Chicago fair.

By the new arrangement adopted Dec. 14, anyone who pays the dollar membership fee becomes a member not only of Union County branch, but also of the State association, which has direct relations with and is authorized by the Legislature of New Jersey.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

MURPHY'S NOMINATION

But Five Votes Against Him in the Caucus.

NEW JERSEY LAWMAKERS ORGANIZE

Gov. Abbett's Message—The State Congratulated on Its Financial Condition—The Suits Against the Reading System—Proclamation Against Corporations.

ALBANY, Jan. 11.—The Assembly Chamber was filled with Democrats of high and low degree from all quarters of the State when the Democratic members of the Senate and Assembly met in joint caucus to fix upon a candidate to succeed United States Senator Frank Hiscock.

At 8:11 p. m., Senator Plunkitt, chairman of the Senate Caucus committee, called the caucus to order, and Speaker Sulzer moved that Senator Parker act as chairman of the caucus.

As soon as Senator Parker took the chair Senator Cantor moved that Senator Bloodgood and Assemblyman Ryder act as secretaries. Carried.

The calling of the roll showed all the Democratic Senators and Assemblymen to be present, with the exception of Senator Hagan and Assemblyman Cooney.

Senator Cantor then rose and congratulated the members of the caucus on being in a position to elect a Democratic Senator, and formally presented the name of the Hon. Edward Murphy, jr., of Troy, for the Senatorial nomination.

At the mention of Mr. Murphy's name the large audience began clapping, but this soon gave way to cheering, which was kept up for several minutes.

At this point Mr. Hagan entered the Chamber. Mr. Cooney's absence was caused by illness.

Assemblyman William Kernan of the First Rensselaer District seconded the nomination.

Senator McClelland then made his protest in the course of which he said:

"The people of the United States in no uncertain sound declared at the last general election in favor of Grover Cleveland and Grover Cleveland's policy, and I believe the man to be selected as Senator from this State should be competent to aid and maintain him in carrying out the policies of which he is the especial champion. When I have an opportunity I shall cast my vote for Hon. W. Bourke Cockran, who, I believe is the choice of seven-tenths of the Democracy of the State of York. I say now and I say it with emphasis that if the representatives of the people had been allowed to come here without pressure that their choice would have been the gentleman whom I have named."

Senator Brown was then recognized by the chair. He said that he yielded to no man in his gratification at the success of the Democracy, and continued:

"I am in full accord with my associate fellow-Senator and Democrat, Mr. McClellan. I have no animosities or asperities to express against any man, much less a Democrat. I endorse the nomination of Mr. Cockran."

Assemblyman O'Sullivan spoke in favor of Mr. Murphy.

Senator Cantor then read the following telegram dated Washington, Jan. 10:

To WM F. SHEEHAN—If my name is mentioned in the caucus I beg you to say that I am not a candidate for the office of Senator, and nobody has authority to present my name.
W. BOURKE COCKRAN.

On motion of Mr. O'Sullivan the roll was called, and each member rose in his seat and named his choice for Senator.

Of the Senators, 22 voted for Edward Murphy, jr., and two—McClelland and Brown—for W. Bourke Cockran.

Of the Assemblymen, 63 named Mr. Murphy, and 3 W. Bourke Cockran.

Three dissenting were Frazier of the First Westchester District, Kemper of the Seventh New York District and Searing of the Second Queens District.

Total—Edward Murphy, jr., 85; W. Bourke Cockran, 5.

Senator Parker announced that Mr. Murphy was the nominee of the caucus.

There were present in the Speaker's room during the session of the caucus, Richard Croker, Corporation Counsel Clark, Police Commissioners Martin and Sheehan, and Subway Commissioner Ridgeway, of New York; John D. Kernan, of Utica, and Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan.

On the announcement of the vote Senator Brown immediately moved an adjournment, which was ordered without making the nomination of Mr. Murphy unanimous, which is usual.

NEW JERSEY'S LEGISLATURE.

It Convenes This Afternoon—Democratic Senatorial Caucus Last Night.

TRENTON, Jan. 10.—The 117th session of the New Jersey Legislature will convene at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The inauguration of a new Governor and the election of a United States Senator will add special interest to the session.

The election of James Smith, jr., as United States Senator is foreshadowed by the Democratic caucus held at the Trenton house last night.

Robert S. Adrian of Middlesex was chosen for President of the Senate. He was backed by the Ross-Smith-Pidcock combine which is against Abbett for United States Senator.

The caucus chose the following other Senate officers:

Secretary—Samuel C. Thompson, of Warren.

Assistant Secretary—William Ross, of Sussex.

Journal Clerk—George K. Coleman, of Essex.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Michael Mason, of Hudson.

Assistant Sergeants-at-Arms—John W. Lancaster, of Hunterdon, and E. B. Vansouver, of Burlington.

Engrossing Clerk—John P. Flynn, of Salem.

Assistant Engrossing Clerk—John Manahan, of Bergen.

Bill Clerk—Henry J. Earl, jr., of Passaic.

Calendar Clerk—Gandy S. Robinson, of Cape May.

Assistant Journal Clerk—John H. Mattison, of Somerset.

Col. Barrett presided over the caucus, and it passed off without the least excitement.

It is conceded that "Tom" Flynn, who recently resigned his position at the Gloucester race track, will be Speaker of the Assembly.

TRENTON, Jan. 11.—The organization of the Legislature was attended by the usual scenes. The officers chosen in the Democratic caucuses were duly elected. Thos. Flynn, the Speaker of the House said in his speech of thanks for the honor conferred upon him that he appreciated the great responsibility and would so conduct the business of the House as to merit the approval of all the people in the State.

All the successful candidates then assumed their positions and the machinery for legislation being in order the introduction of business began.

Before adjournment Speaker Flynn named the following members of the House to serve on joint committee to arrange for the inauguration of Governor-elect Werts: Messrs. Wright, Packer, O'Brien, Parker and Roeblin.

In the Senate the credentials of new Senators were presented after temporary organization and they were all sworn in, including Mr. Hoffman of Atlantic, whose seat is contested by Mr. Riddle.

Senator Barrett of Essex filed a protest against this action. President Adrian appointed a special committee to consider the case consisting of Messrs. Daly, Miller and Smith. The inauguration ceremonies will take place in Taylor's Opera house next Tuesday at noon.

Both houses adjourned until next Monday night after the introduction of several bills.

Gov. Abbett's Message.

The Governor congratulates the Legislature upon the financial condition of the State. It has no floating debt, and the balance in the Treasury has increased by $217,532.19. The large resources of the State are due in part to its liberal policy toward corporations.

The Governor reviewed at length the educational and charitable institutions of the State. Entering upon the subject of quarantine measures, he recalled the protest made by him to the President against the use of Sandy Hook as a quarantine station.

Gov. Abbett stated that ample preparations were being made to represent the State and its administrative departments at the Columbian Exposition.

He reviewed at length the railroad litigation in the suits brought against the Reading system and its combination says:

"The final decision of these suits by the courts will establish the law upon the most important questions that can arise between the citizens of New Jersey and the corporations of this and other States. If the courts hold that they are powerless, under the law as it stands, it will be the duty of the Legislature to pass whatever laws may be necessary to protect our citizens. In the opinion of the Attorney-General the courts now have all the power necessary [illegible].

"Everything that can possibly be done by the Executive and the Attorney-General has been done to protect the rights of the public and of [illegible], in view of the [illegible] great were our State revenues [illegible], they have been advanced to their present status with [illegible] celerity.

The Governor devoted considerable space to show what had been accomplished for the interests of labor and the relief of employes, by the passage of State laws and the appointment of special officers and commissions.

The Governor's Proclamation.

The proclamation issued by Gov. Abbett relative to corporations simply declares invalid the charters of a number of concerns which never had an existence except upon paper and a few which are already dead.

They have paid no taxes to the State in two years, and biennially a similar edict is issued.

This action by the Governor emphasizes the complaints against the loose laws on incorporation in this State. Most of those obtaining charters are wildcat corporations whose only purpose is to unload stock on unsuspecting investors. Fully 2,000 bogus companies have been incorporated in New Jersey during the past five years.

GENERAL BUTLER DEAD

He Expired in Washington Early This Morning.

DEATH DUE TO HEART FAILURE.

He Had Gone to the Capital on Supreme Court Business and Was Apparently in Good Health—Attacked With a Fit of Coughing This Morning and Died Before Help Could Reach Him—Sketch of His Career.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Benjamin F. Butler, the lawyer, soldier, statesman, politician and millionaire manufacturer, died at his Washington residence, No. 220 New Jersey avenue, southeast, at 1:30 this morning.

The General has always, to a more or less extent, made his residence in Washington, although many of the scenes of his successful ventures have been located elsewhere.

During the present winter a case which had been decided against him in the highest court of Massachusetts and in which he took an appeal to the United States Supreme Court, has demanded his almost constant residence in this city. Every Monday he was a familiar figure at the session of that body.

The familiar face and broad-brimmed hat of Gen. Butler was seen in the Supreme Court in General Term yesterday. The old contest over the will of Samuel Strong, heard by the General Term on an appeal from the Circuit Court was to have been tried this term. Judge G. D. Barrett asked the court to put the case down for hearing this week to accommodate Gen. Butler as it might not be convenient for him to attend later in the term.

The court was obliged to refuse the request as other important cases had the precedence and the bench is short handed until Judge Cole takes his seat.

The General was accompanied to the city by his valet, West, a colored man. Shortly after 1 o'clock the valet heard the General coughing severely and hastened to his bedside. The General spoke of having expectorated blood, but did not seem to think seriously of the matter and the valet was dismissed. Shortly afterward West was again alarmed by the heavy breathing of the General and once more hastened to his side, but before help could be summoned the General had breathed his last.

His death was due to heart failure.

Benjamin F. Butler was born at Deerfield, N. H., in 1818. After graduating at Waterville college, Maine, he was admitted to the bar in 1840.

He was a delegate to the Democratic convention which was held in Charleston and in Baltimore in 1860.

At the beginning of the Civil War he took command of a brigade, with which he occupied Baltimore. He was appointed a Major-General the same year and had the command at Fortress Monroe.

In August of the same year he commanded the land forces against Fort Hatteras.

In 1862 he was sent to New Orleans in command of the Gulf Department.

In that city he signalized himself by the inflexible vigor of his administration. In November of the same year he was relieved of his command.

In the following year he was given the control over the military of Virginia and North Carolina.

On May 16, 1864, he was attacked at Drury's Bluff, on which occasion he succeeded in saving his army by falling back to the cover of his intrenchments.

In December of that year he was sent in command of the land forces against Fort Fisher. Failing to carry this place by assault, he retired, and was soon afterward relieved of his command by General Grant.

He was elected to Congress in 1866, and was one of the managers selected to conduct the impeachment of President Johnson.

He was the unsuccessful candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1871; in 1878-9 he was the candidate on the Independent-Greenbackers for the office but was defeated. In 1882 he was elected by the Democrats; was renominated in 1883, but was defeated.

In 1884 he was the candidate of the Greenbackers and Anti-Monopolists for President and received 133,825 votes.

In the latter years of his life he devoted his time to the practice of law. He was counsel in many cases of importance before the U. S. Supreme Court.

One Good Eye.

Lawyer—Are you sure, sir, that the moon was shining at the time? Remember, you are on oath.

Witness—Yes, sir, I am perfectly sure the moon was shining at the time.

"Very good. Now tell the jury if you have not been for years troubled with defective vision."

"Gentlemen of the jury, I have been blind in one eye for many years, but I can see well enough with the other to read with perfect ease this promissory note for sixty-four dollars and seventy-five cents which I hold in my hand. It was given me sixteen years ago by that lawyer there, and I can see the back of it well enough to be perfectly sure that there isn't an indorsement to the extent of a single cent. Yes, sir, I'm entirely willing to stand aside if that's all you want to know."—Chicago Tribune.

Odd Fellows' Installation and Banquet.

At a regular meeting of Plainfield lodge, 44, I. O. O. F., held last Monday evening, the following officers were installed by D. D. G. M., Chas. Tallman, and staff:

N. G.—John H. Staats.
V. G.—E. H. Cleveley.
Rec. Sec.—Rudolf Keusing.
Perm. Sec.—Elias H. Bird.
Treas.—Thomas Young.
R. S. N. G.—James B. Clarkson.
L. S. N. G.—Fred. Becker.
R. S. V. G.—Theo. Kursheds, jr.
L. S. V. G.—John Bickert.
R. S. S.—Willard Smith.
L. S. S.—Leonard Bunn.
Warden—E. L. Boice.
Conductor—E. R. Pope, jr.
Inside Guard—S. N. Schleif.
Outside Guard—James Sutton.
Chaplain—N. C. Pennington.
Organist—Andrew Carpenter.

After the installation a collation took place in the banquet room and was enjoyed by all present.

CUT OPEN HER HEAD.

A Young Dunellen Villian Assaults His Teacher.

Report comes from Dunellen that Miss Carrie Fisher, a teacher in the public school there, was brutally assaulted by a vicious and incorrigible youth in her class. She undertook to correct him for some fault, when he sprang upon her and with a chair rung felled her to the floor. The blow cut open her head, and she was taken home in an insensible condition.

The young villian should be severely punished.

No Hope for the Crescent League.

At the meeting of the Crescent League, last evening, nothing was accomplished in the way of getting the club out of its perplexities and on its feet again. [illegible] Kay proposed that the creditors be asked and urged to accept 25 cents on a dollar—or something else—in settlement. [illegible] for the league to go on after clearing out the dead wood. After a good deal of talk the meeting adjourned without hope until Friday evening.

[illegible]

"IN HIS NAME."

Fruitful Year of a Worthy Plainfield Society of Young People.

The following interesting annual report of the Seventh-day Christian Endeavor society in this city was read to the society by its secretary, Ernestine G. Smith, at its recent anniversary:

We meet to-day on the first anniversary of the Y. P. S. C. E. of this church, and it is with pleasure and gratification that we review the work of the past year. The society was organized December 9, 1891, with 14 members. At the next meeting this number was increased to 21. These 21 became constituent members of the society. New names have been added from time to time, until now there are only a few out of the ranks. The society now numbers 36 active, 2 associate, and 30 honorary members, 11 honorary members being teachers and officers of the Sabbath-school. A business and consecration meeting has been held every month, and a prayer-meeting every Sabbath afternoon. The members have been faithful, both in attendance and in the observance of the pledge. The average attendance at the prayer-meetings has been 25. As a rule those who could not attend the consecration service have sent a message to be given in response to their names. The committees have all done excellent work.

The Flower committee has furnished flowers every Sabbath, and in many instances the flowers have, after the service, brightened the sick room.

The field of the Lookout committee is somewhat limited, but they have been very faithful in the performance of their duties. We are glad to report that the Relief committee, although ready and willing, have found but little to do during the year. We have all realized how easy it is for a duty to become a privilege and pleasure. The work of the society was somewhat interrupted during the summer months, but has been taken up with renewed interest. This society joined the Union County union Feb. 10, and the Local union March 9.

We have many kind friends and well-wishers who have manifested their interest by gifts, such as printed constitutions for each member, and 50 singing books from an honorary member.

The society has also been fortunate in having the support of the church in all its endeavors, as was shown by the interest taken in the service conducted by the society on Easter Sabbath, and the substantial evidence shown by the amount of the collection, which was devoted to our work. We gladly welcome the older members of the church; we need your help and your prayers; will you not grant them?

Our society had the pleasure of entertaining on Sabbath-day, July 9, the friends attending the convention in New York city. The entire day was devoted to Christian Endeavor work. The influence of this rally was surely felt by our society.

One of the pleasant features of the society has been its socials, giving us an opportunity to know each other better socially.

The treasurer has received during the year from dues, subscriptions and collections, $126. Of this amount $87.15 has been sent to the Mizpah mission in New York, $25 to the Tract society, and $25 to the Missionary society. There is now a balance of $4.56 in the treasury.

Twice this year the touch of sadness has entered the heart and life of our president; notwithstanding his personal sorrows he has proven his sincere interest in the society by his faithful attendance and his words of encouragement and counsel. The society has given him its sympathy and prayers.

We have reached only the first milestone in our journey as an organized band of young people. The wheel of time has rolled over but one year since we took the Christian Endeavor pledge. Along the wayside of time obstacles have been met and overcome, new fields of labor entered upon, and many battles won; so we have pursued our course until now the time has come to choose new leaders and with them to march into a new year of events, awakening to individual responsibility. We must not only look ahead, but go ahead with a determination that "In His Name" we will conquer self and sin, more valiantly than in the past.

Let us remember that,

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts not breaths,
In feelings not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart-throbs;
He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

His Course Was "Right, Honest and Manly".

The Courier Tuesday censured a Plainfield newspaper man for having "the nerve three years ago to start a monthly magazine, collect yearly subscriptions for the same, and then suspend publication". The intimation was that the subscribers had been defrauded. It is a fact which the Courier editor knows that every subscriber to the magazine in question had his unexpired subscription money returned to him. Despite the lamentable fact that suspended publications are not in the habit of restoring such balances to subscribers, the newspaper man referred to went to especial trouble and expense to hunt up every subscriber and restore to him his own. He can show receipts for all such amounts. The magazine cost no one a cent, except its publisher. In this connection the following extract from a letter from an honored and honorable old-time newspaper man and author may be interesting to the paper which is so concerned in the Plainfield newspaper man's private affairs:

128 Bedford ave.,
Brooklyn, May 1, 1890.

Enclosed find receipt for postal note received. Permit me to assure you that I sincerely regret that you have been compelled to give up the undertaking. . . . I thought much and highly of the scheme. Allow me also to compliment you upon the unusual action you have taken in returning balance of unexpired subscriptions. Of course it is right, it is honest, it is manly; but such conduct is rare, even among those who call themselves honorable. I do not remember of but one similar case. When "Wit and Wisdom", my pet eclectic, suspended, my partner and I followed the same course. Of course there are others who have done the same, but I do not know of them. Once more let me express my approbation, and sign myself

Yours with respect,
HARRY J. SHELLMAN.

He Laughs Best Who Laughs Last.

Will Milliken has the laugh on his Dunellen friends. The other night a party of them went sleigh-riding, headed by editor G. E. Lowrie of the Call and popular Walter Runyon. Mr. Milliken had anticipated going, but was prevented that evening. He could not induce the others to wait till next day, when he could go. They were driving gleefully past his house when the sleigh upset and they were treated to a snow-bath. Their discomfiture was heightened by being compelled to take the injured into his house and thaw them out.

Get the Genuine.

If you suffer with lame back, especially in morning, Allcock's Plasters are a sure relief.

If you cannot sleep, try an Allcock's Plaster, well up between the shoulder blades—often relieves—sometimes cures. Try this before you resort to opiates.

If any of your muscles are lame—joints stiff—and as if they wanted oiling—or if you suffer with any local pains or aches, these plasters will cure you.

If you use them once you will realize why so many plasters have been made in imitation of them. Like all good things they are copied as closely as the law allows. Don't be duped by taking an imitation when it is no [illegible] to get the genuine.

If you always insist upon having Allcock's [illegible]

FLEE TO SUNNY CLIMES.

Now's Your Chance to Take a Clyde Steamer for the South.

If this weather doesn't make you long for Florida, you must be an Esquimaux. This is just the occasion to board a Clyde steamship and sail for the South, to enjoy the balmy invigoration of that flowery region. The delights of the voyage and the blisses at the end of it have already been told of in these columns.

The Clyde Steamship company have arranged a number of charming tours, any one of which is inexpensive, compared with the pleasure and healthful recreation afforded.

The cost of tour No. 1 is only $66.25, and the tourist covers a great deal of territory. From New York to Jacksonville he goes by Clyde Steamship line; from Jacksonville to St. Augustine, Ormond, Daytona, New Smyrna, Titusville and Rockledge, by St. Augustine & Indian River Railway company; from Rockledge to Sanford, by St. Augustine & I. R. Railway company, and J. T. & K. W. Railway, from Sanford to Jacksonville by Clyde's St. Johns River line, and return from Jacksonville to New York by Clyde Steamship company.

Tour No. 2, costing $86.95, is more extensive, as follows: New York to Jacksonville, Clyde Steamship company; Jacksonville to Sanford, Clyde's St. Johns River line; Sanford to Titusville, J. T. & K. W. R'y.; Titusville to Juno (Lake Worth), via Rockledge, rail or steamboat to Rockledge, steamboat to Jupiter, and rail to Juno; Juno (Lake Worth) to Sanford, via Rockledge, Juno to Jupiter by rail, to Rockledge by steamboat, Rockledge to Titusville by steamboat or rail, Titusville to Sanford by rail; Sanford to Jacksonville, Clyde's St. Johns River line; Jacksonville to New York, Clyde Steamship company.

Tour No. 3 costs only $68.30: New York to Jacksonville, Clyde Steamship company; Jacksonville to Palatka, Clyde's St. Johns River Line; Palatka up the Ocklawaha River to Silver Springs and return, Hart's Line; Palatka to Jacksonville, J. T. & K. W. Railway; Jacksonville to New York, Clyde Steamship company.

Cheaper yet is tour No. 4. For $63.60 the following trip is had: New York to Jacksonville, Clyde Steamship company; Jacksonville to Sanford, Clyde's St. Johns River Line; Sanford to Altamonte Springs, Winter Park and Orlando, South Florida Railroad; Orlando to Tavares, Leesburg, Ocala and Jacksonville, F. C. & P. R. R.; Jacksonville to New York, Clyde Steamship company.

The region penetrated by the Clyde people is a paradise for huntsmen, and the following sportsmen's tour is provided: New York to Jacksonville, Clyde Steamship company; Jacksonville to Sanford, Clyde's St. John's River line; Sanford to Port Tampa, South Florida Railroad; Port Tampa to Punta Rassa and Fort Myers, and return to Port Tampa, Plant Steamship company; Port Tampa to Sanford, South Florida Railroad; Sanford to Jacksonville, Clyde's St. Johns River line; Jacksonville to New York, Clyde Steamship company. The expense for this wonderful trip is only $70.80.

Then there is the grand tour, costing $114.95: New York to Jacksonville, Clyde steamship company; Jacksonville to Sanford, Clyde's St. Johns River Line; Sanford to Titusville, J. T. & K. W. Railway; Titusville to Juno, (Lake Worth), via Rockledge, rail or steamboat to Rockledge, steamboat to Jupiter, rail to Juno; Juno (Lake Worth) to Sanford, via Rockledge, Juno to Jupiter by rail, steamboat to Rockledge, rail or steamboat to Titusville, by rail to Sanford; Sanford to Altamonte Springs, Winter Park and Orlando; South Florida railroad; Orlando to Port Tampa, South Florida railroad; Port Tampa to Havana, Cuba, and return, Plant Steamship company; Port Tampa to Sanford, South Florida railroad; Sanford to Jacksonville, Clyde's St. Johns River line; Jacksonville to New York, Clyde Steamship company.

Now get out your atlas and trace these towns out on the map, or better still write to the Clyde company at 5 Bowling Green, New York, for a free illustrated book in which you can read all about the delightful tours. The anticipation alone will be most pleasant, and the realization of the actual health and pleasure trip will be a joy forever.

THE BOARD SPEAKS!

President Babcock Says the People Are to Be Kept Fully Informed of Public School Matters.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Returning to-night from a trip to New England, I have just read in THE PRESS the full report—excellent in many respects—of the meeting of the board of education, together with the editorial remarks on the same. I have great respect for journalistic enterprise, having been of that persuasion myself in my youthful days, and admire the "push" of THE PRESS, even though it may occasionally seem to be misdirected. But in this case THE PRESS should not go too far in congratulating itself upon having worried the board of education into granting "to the people just what they have been clamoring for through these columns", or into doing anything else which the board had not been doing all the time. In the first place the Board do not recognize in the fulminations of two anonymous correspondents, even when backed by the powerful influence of THE PRESS, a "clamoring" of "the people"; secondly, it has always been ready to give THE PRESS and the "people" all they had a proper interest in knowing; and thirdly, it has in no wise changed its plans or inaugurated any new step in that direction. The action or reference in the late meeting to the employment of an expert to go over the returns of the collector and compare them with the records of assessments, was inaugurated one year ago, and had a PRESS reporter favored the board with a visit before, he would probably have heard the same subject talked about at nearly every meeting, and quite as unanimous a desire expressed to have it speedily done. That it had not been done by the committee with whom it was left, was the only reason why it came up again in the last meeting.

The other auditing referred to at that meeting—and by the way your reporter seems to have strangely mixed the two and so reported neither correctly—was in reference to the usual annual report of all receipts and expenditures, such as has been prepared and published every year since I have known anything of the working of the board and which in this case was prepared last October, and would then have been published but for the sickness of one member of the committee whose business it was to examine it, with the vouchers, and certify to its correctness. His sickness having continued much longer than was anticipated, another member was asked to take his place so long ago as early in November, but his engagements has interfered so much, that the subject was brought up again at the last meeting and a time agreed upon when it could and would be done. The wild "clamor" of two "people" had nothing to do with the matter.

Permit me to add that the board always welcomes reporters and has nothing whatever to conceal, unless it be certain cases of discipline and similar matters which should never be made public, but it is true that it does not sit with all the doors wide open at this season of the year. Its place of meeting is the same as it has been for about two years, and the duties are the same as they always have been, except when it becomes necessary to change it [illegible] trouble in finding the way hereafter.

GEO. F. BABCOCK,
Pres. Bd. Ed.
Plainfield, Jan. 10, 1893.

[illegible]

Witherby—That's a nice little [illegible]

[illegible]

Liveryman—I'm afraid, sir, I must ask you to pay in advance for the hire of the [illegible].

Amateur Rider—What's that for? Are you afraid that I shall come back without the horse?

Liveryman—Oh, no, sir! But the horse might come back without you.—Boston [illegible].

[illegible]

Barber (hopefully)—Well, if you can't raise yourself I can't shave you, for I am just about as nervous as I can be.

Customer—What's the matter?

Barber—Why, I've got to be shaved by one of my help this afternoon.—Des Moines Argonaut.

A Great Many More.

"I handle more letters in a day than you do," said a man to one of Uncle Sam's postal employes.

"Indeed, what post office do you work in?"

"Don't work in a post office at all. I'm a type-setter."—Truth.

Out of Touch.

"I saw you talking with young Simpson just now."

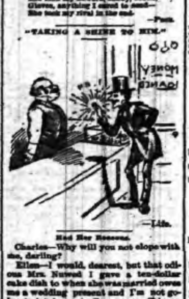
"Yes. It was a touching interview."

"Why so?"

"Oh, he touched me for a ten."—Chicago Mail.

[illegible]

"TAKING A SHINE TO HIM."



—Life.

Had Her Reasons.

Charles—Why will you not elope with me, darling?

Ellen—I would, dearest, but that odious Mrs. Nutwed I gave a ten-dollar cake dish to when she was married owes me a wedding present and I'm not going to let her get off so easy.—Chicago News-Record.

Just the Same.

"Well, Carter, been punished at school lately?" asked his aunt.

"Oh, no, ma'am," replied Carter; "the teacher sends a note to papa, and he attends to it at home."—Harper's Young People.

Capital Punishment.

Bride (throwing her arms about the bridegroom's neck)—You are my prisoner for life!

Groom—It's not imprisonment for life, love; it's capital punishment!—Demorest's Magazine.

Too Great a Blow.

He slept in the room where the gas escaped,
But this he did not dread;
It was when he saw the first month's bill
That he fell down limp and dead.
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Nice Way of Putting It.

"But, darling, is your income sufficient to support a wife?"

"I think so, dearest; provided yours is sufficient to support me."—Life.

AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HERB DRINK
THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
[illegible]
LANE'S MEDICINE
[illegible]

THREE REMARKABLE BOOKS.
A LADY BACHELOR,
A novel.
MY AGGRAVATING WIFE,
A novel.
THE CONFESSIONS OF AN IMP.
A narrative, illustrated.
The above three by [illegible]. They are unique, picturesque, occult and dramatic. For sale everywhere or address [illegible] Publishing Co., 30 Vandewater st., N. Y. 1 12 3

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
OF
Real Estate and Personal Property.

The subscriber, administrator with the will annexed of John H. [illegible], dec'd, will offer for sale on

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25,

the following described property:

FARM OF ABOUT EIGHTEEN ACRES

Situated at Green Brook, Middlesex county, two miles from Bound Brook, with good [illegible] buildings.

67 Acres of Farm and Wood Land

On the line of the turnpike about two miles from Bound Brook.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

[illegible]

HOUSEHOLD GOODS.

[illegible]

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Sweeney, Carman E. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein [illegible], is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainant on or before the [illegible] day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to Hannah C. Hetfield, dated July 1, 1871, on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and assigned to the complainant, and the other made by Emma A. Jones and Evan Jones, her husband, to complainant, dated November 22, 1882, on lands in the city of Plainfield aforesaid, and you Jane Sweeney, Carman E. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound are made defendants because you, as devisees of Hannah C. Hetfield, deceased, may claim some lien upon the said mortgaged premises by virtue of a judgment recovered by said Hannah C. Hetfield against said Evan Jones.

Dated December 28, A. D. 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
12 29 6 74 Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.
Fees $4.50

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
e80tf

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper G. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.
12 1 10 MARTIN E. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

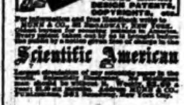
During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.



Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.
[illegible] MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. [illegible]
Scientific American
[illegible]

THE CLIMAX
OF BARGAIN GIVING
AT THE NEWARK BEE HIVE
NEWARK BEE HIVE

OUR ANNUAL CLEARING SALE
OUR ANNUAL CLEARING SALE

Is at hand, and it offers an opportunity to every reader of this paper for

MUCH MONEY SAVING
MUCH MONEY SAVING

Old patrons know the value of an occasion such as we present, from past experience, and those who participate for the first time in this bargain jubilee will wonder why they have allowed former Bee Hive Sales to pass by unvisited. Every article sold in our establishment is at a

NOTABLE REDUCTION OF PRICE
NOTABLE REDUCTION OF PRICE

We quote here a few items now selling, and as space will not allow of a long list, can only say that we have hundreds of

OTHERS JUST AS IMPORTANT
OTHERS JUST AS IMPORTANT

Dress Shirts........regular [illegible]
Linen Collars........regular [illegible]
Neckwear........regular [illegible]
Hosiery........regular [illegible]
Underwear........regular [illegible]
Muslin Wear........regular [illegible]
Cloaks........regular [illegible]
Tooth Brushes........regular [illegible]
Ribbon........regular [illegible]
Trimmed Hats........regular [illegible]
Fur Capes........regular [illegible]
Handkerchiefs........regular [illegible]
Boys' Suits........regular [illegible]
Shoes........regular [illegible]
Lace Curtains........regular [illegible]

Whether you buy these or anything else during this Sale, you buy at a Saving from Regular Price.

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad Street, Newark.
[illegible]

STOCK-TAKING.

$80,000
Worth Of
Carpets & Furniture.

To reduce stock on account of stock-taking, I shall commence Tuesday, January 3, and sell at the following reductions:

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before e tering the store.

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

At Cost! At Cost!

In every department during stock-taking. If you are in need of goods do not miss this opportunity, as you can save about one-third in buying now.

Terms:—

$ 75 down and	$ 75 weekly....on	$10 00 worth
2 50 down and	75 weekly....on	25 00 worth
4 00 down and	1 00 weekly....on	50 00 worth
6 00 down and	1 25 weekly....on	75 00 worth
8 00 down and	1 25 weekly....on	100 00 worth
12 00 down and	1 50 weekly....on	150 00 worth
16 00 down and	2 00 weekly....on	200 00 worth

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

10-4-17

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head.
Apply into the Nostrils.—It is Quickly Absorbed. [illegible] Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,
[illegible]

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Tobin & Addis are to occupy the premises at 55 North avenue.

—A new society has been organized to be known as The Monroe Avenue association for young men.

—Pondville is growing. No less than two new stores have made their appearance this last week.

—Some of the Richmond street sidewalks are still buried under three feet of last week's snow.

—Evan Jones, of Netherwood, while passing the Crescent rink the other day, slipped and fell on the ice, inflicting an ugly wound near his eye.

—The proceedings and expenditures of the North Plainfield board of school trustees are fully and freely open to the public. Why not Plainfield's?

—Now the borough is going to do like the city, and make a full and up-to-date financial showing to the people. When will the board of education follow suit?

—It would seem about time that the Republican association took in its transparency "For President, Benjamin Harrison; for Vice-president, Whitelaw Reid".

—All holding unsold tickets or money for Mrs. Wiggin's reading, are requested to make returns at once to Mrs. George P. Dupee, North Plainfield, or Mrs. Kimball, 29 East Fifth street.

—Wm. Larkins, champion checker player of Dunellen, contested in a match game with A. Muir of this city, Wednesday. Muir was the victor, defeating Larkins 5 games out of 6.

—E. C. Mulford has leased the Krom house, Central avenue, for three years to Chas. L. Case of Chicago, who with his family will reside there. Mr. Case is manager of the London Assurance corporation.

—The City Solicitor of Trenton, N. J., has given an opinion that all firemen who served seven years in the Volunteer Fire Department are entitled to an exemption of five dollars tax on personal property.—Firemen's Herald.

—The attention of the readers of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST is directed to the public sale of real estate and personal property advertised in another column by the administrator of John H. Sebring, deceased, on Wednesday, Jan. 25.

—H. A. Bird, of 38 Chatham street, North Plainfield, was the winner of the gold watch Saturday offered by J. A. Blatz to the person guessing the nearest number of beans contained in a jar. There were 1,755 beans, and Mr. Bird's number was 1,756.

—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Young Men's Christian association of this city will be celebrated on Thursday evening, the 19th inst. There will be a popular meeting for all at 8 in the Crescent Avenue church to be addressed by Major-General O. O. Howard.

—Modern every-day newspaper writers no longer use the unnecessary prefix "Mr." or suffix "Esq." to men's names, unless, as to the former when there is a "Mr. and Mrs." and the latter when the man is really an "Esquire." This is for the information of some who have questioned the absence of the "Mr." in these columns.

—Patrick Cahill denies that he was cruel to the horse which the New Market Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals killed. He says that he tried to nurse the animal into health and usefulness, and that its injuries were self-inflicted by falling in its stall and kicking woodwork to pieces. He claims to be too warm a friend of dumb animals to inflict suffering upon them.

—The Firemen's Herald, that stanch official organ of the American fire service has just issued its souvenir edition in celebration of its eleventh anniversary. The Herald is a most admirable and newsy weekly publication and deserves its prosperity and success. THE PRESS is proud to paste up in its sanctum the portrait of its illustrious editor and picture of its fine new building.

THE SECOND MORNING RECITAL.

Mr. Tidden Reaches Even Greater Heights in Plainfield's Appreciation.

The second and last piano recital by Paul Tidden was given at the Casino, Tuesday morning, and listened to by an attentive and appreciative audience.

The programme was selected and arranged with much skill. The brilliant and classical music of the opening prelude and fugue paved the way for a Beethoven sonata in two movements, so dear to the hearts of all musicians. No one could fail to enjoy Mr. Tidden's rendering of "On the Holy Mount" by Dvorak, whether musically trained or not, so delicately was the work done and so directly to the heart did the tones and harmonies appeal, by his sympathetic touch. The applause was generous and continuous to which Mr. Tidden responded most generously, not only repeating this selection, but following it with the Magic Fire Scene from "Die Walkure" which had appeared on the programme of the previous recital.

A word of commendation should be bestowed upon his remarkable rendering of this music so difficult to interpret on the piano. It required but little imagination to behold the action and scenic effect brought out on the operatic stage, and aroused all the enthusiasm Wagner is sure to awaken when his music is well performed. The selections from the favorite Grieg were most happy in their variety and rendering.

The Pasquinade by Gottschalk was a bit of high color coming as it did between a nocturne by Brassin and the delightful studies from Chopin. The closing polonaise with its brilliant tones, delightfully interpreted, was a fitting climax to the entire programme, leaving a most favorable impression of the delight of morning piano recitals so universally enjoyed abroad and growing in favor at home, and of the great, good fortune of Plainfield people in having such a finished and sympathetic interpreter of their favorite composers.

Such a Paper Is THE DAILY PRESS.

The afternoon paper—says the Colorado Sun—reaches the home after the labors of the day are over, when the hour of rest and reading has come. It contains news twenty-four hours later than the morning, and therefore the reader wants it in place of the paper received in the morning and which contains news twenty-four hours old. The afternoon paper is essentially the home paper. It contains news particularly of interest to the home, and which every member of the family desires to read. It not only covers the general news of the day, but it also publishes news specially prepared for home reading, for which reading the morning papers have no space.

Insurance Agents Election.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Board of Underwriters, comprising all of the insurance agents represented in Plainfield, and under the jurisdiction of the Middle Department, was held at the office of M. M. Dunham, 7 East Front street, on Monday last, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—J. G. Pope.
Vice-president—W. A. Woodruff.
Secretary and Treasurer—M. M. Dunham.
Executive Committee—W. A. Woodruff and R. W. Rowe.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Ball of Newark is visiting the family of Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

Miss Lillie Miller, of 245 West Third street, is visiting friends at Lebanon, Pa.

Chancellor McGill Tuesday appointed Craig A. Marsh special master in chancery.

Irving Maxson, of Westerly, is visiting his brother the public school superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aldrich, jr., of New York, are guests of Mrs. David J. Boice.

Assistant secretary Goodhue of the Philadelphia Y. M. C. A., is visiting in this city.

Edward Young, of 243 South Second street, is spending a few days with friends at Peapack.

Henry G Shirley is dead at his late residence, 27 Liberty street. He was 87 years of age.

Miss Grace Beake, formerly of this city, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Hallock, of West Fifth street.

Jacob Bauer has given up his position with F. A. Dunham and returned to his home in Elizabeth.

J. Blanchard Fosgate, jr., son of the architect, has been seriously ill of peritonitis, but is better.

Charles F. Powlison has resumed his studies at Springfield, after spending happy holidays at home here.

The Westfield Leader says: "Walter Irving Clarke of Plainfield has a fine story in the Christmas Journalist".

Mrs. Collis Pond, of Madison avenue, has issued invitations for an afternoon progressive euchre party on the 20th inst.

Mrs. Leander N. Lovell and Mrs. Henry B. Newhall will be "at home", 4 Crescent avenue, Thursday afternoon of next week, from 5 till 6.

August Jackson, of the Artillery volunteers, now stationed at Fort Hamilton, Long Island, is spending a few days with friends in this city.

C. E. Rocap, who has been very ill of typhoid fever at his home in Schenectady, will sail for Florida Tuesday, hoping to regain his full strength.

H. T. Williams, until recently in the employ of R. W. Rice & Co., has secured a much more lucrative situation with E. A. Archer, a wholesale soap manufacturer, in Brooklyn.

Martin L. McComas and family, of 11 Prescott place, arrived home from Harrisburg, Pa., Saturday evening after having spent an enjoyable two weeks among friends and relatives.

The New Brunswick Home News says: "William F. Ford of Plainfield is no longer connected with the Times of this city. He will go on the Metuchen Inquirer and Perth Amboy Herald."

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. William Scribner and Miss Kate Erskine, the World's Fair women's committee for Plainfield, issue a general invitation for conference and organization at the Seminary Friday afternoon.

John S. Ward, of Clinton avenue, died Monday evening in the fifty-second year of his age. He was a man of high popularity among all who knew him, and he will be sadly missed. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

E. P. Sanger, a former resident of this city, and now residing at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was in our city Thursday on business for the first time in fifteen years. Mr. Sanger married a niece of the late John W. Laing, Miss Susie Mundy.

Miss Phoebe Mills, the efficient chairman of the prayer meeting committee, Trinity Reformed church, Y. P. S. C. E., will be missed by more than one during the two weeks she is spending with Miss May Thompson, of Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Taggart, of Sycamore avenue, have leased their home here for the winter, and with their son, George P. Taggart, will reside at 72 Fifth avenue, New York. They will be missed in the social circles of the city and borough.

Capt. George F. Edwards is so highly complimented on his Leal's School Cadets and their fine showing that he is planning for a public drill in the Crescent at an early date. The mayors and other officials will review the corps, and a promenade and dance will follow.

In the current number of The Standard, a weekly insurance paper of Boston, is a fine picture of C. M. Goddard, ex-councilman of this city, and now secretary of the New England Insurance Exchange. The paper also prints an exhaustive article by Mr. Goddard on "Electric Light Inspections in New England".

Miss Sarah J. Allen, sister of the bustling merchant J. C., was married Tuesday evening by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks to William T. Feamler of Chicago. Following the ceremony was a reception at the home of Herbert S. Thatcher, brother-in-law of the bride, corner of Sixth and Sycamore streets. The bridal couple left for Philadelphia. Thence they will go to Chicago, their future home.

Hon. John T. Dunn, Congressman-elect from the Eighth N. J. district, returned to his home in Elizabeth, Thursday, from his visit to Clifton Springs. He was tendered a complimentary banquet, which was attended by many of the influential members of the Democratic party. Mr. Dunn is reported as looking and feeling well after his respite from his arduous duties in the recent campaign.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says: "Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Shepherd have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Emma, to Augustus Craven Thomas. The event will take place at 'Brookside', the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday afternoon, January 18, at 4." The attractive young prospective bride has many warm friends and admirers in this city, where her parents are widely known.

Now Attacking Judge and Jury.

Another of its venomous attacks on judge Wm. A. Coddington appeared in the Courier last evening. The editor of that sheet can never forgive the successful young lawyer for being elected by so overwhelming a popular vote in the face of the Courier's vicious opposition.

The jurors in the Muldowney case indignantly repudiate the Courier's allegations that they were biased by the judge into a "befogged" state so that they could not render a verdict according to the facts. The Courier would fain constitute itself judge and jury and convict Muldowney, without legal process. Its slander of judge Coddington, and slur on the jurors' intelligence and judgment, are characteristic of its spiteful and wicked methods. Such is the journalism of the city clerk and his "staff".

To Install These Officers Next Week.

The following officers have been elected by Wetumpka lodge, No. 3,401, K. of H.:

Dictator—George H. Neal.
Vice-Dictator—Frederick M. Slater.
Assistant-Dictator—Thaddeus C. Smith.
Reporter—Ralph A. Frey.
Financial-Reporter—John Fellows.
Treasurer—Charles Zimmermann.
Chaplain—Gilbert H. VanNest.
Guide—John M. Dock.
Guardian—G. Thorn.
Sentinel—Caleb Dickinson.
Trustees—Charles M. Ulrich, William A. Woodruff, Charles E. Rush.
Representative to Grand Lodge—Louis I. VanAlstyne.

A public installation will be held Thursday evening, January 19. The Grand Lodge officers will be present and members of sister lodges have been invited.

One of my children had a very bad [illegible]

PLEASANT REMINISCENCES.

[For The Press and Constitutionalist.]

MY DEAR FRIEND:—I read with pleasure your account in THE PRESS of our trip recently to Morristown, Tennessee, but I think you were a little modest about your own reception by the good people there. Don't you remember how they introduced you to friends? Was it not this way: "Mr. So-and-so, this is Billy Force, not the Force Bill!" And you know with what enthusiasm it was received, and how the title stuck to you until our departure for home. Don't you remember, too, how that "lunch" looked in Billy Killdee's pocket, and how you told him always to follow the example of the illustrious Grover by "telling the truth"? Don't you remember that hunt in the rain on the Holstein river, when you appeared tired and wet at the ferry with some ten pounds of clay sticking to your shoes? Oh! how you sighed when you got in that good spring wagon. Don't you remember those tall ten-rail worm fences? Eh! What did you say when you climbed on top of them to see the good dogs on a point in an adjoining stubble-field and a wire fence of six strands between you and the dogs, and lithe Bob Taylor, who had scaled the fence, asking you in his cool manner—"Come Billy, ain't you coming over to kill a bird?" Don't you remember those tall corn stalks (15 feet high) through which you had to shoot the whirling quail; and the frozen ploughed ground you had to walk over? Don't you remember the poor shots you made and the beautiful double oops?

Don't you remember how you made a wager with Joe Hill that you would go to the Gazette composing rooms with him and set up a notice in type although you had not handled a "stick" in fifteen years? How you both proceeded to do so, and how the item set up by yourself appeared in the next issue of the Gazette? Here it is:

> Messrs. W. L. Force and Elisha Shepherd, of Plainfield, N. J., are visiting our town on a hunting trip. They are having good luck and killing lots of quail. They express themselves as highly pleased with their reception among our people, especially with Cols. Tom and Jim Cain, Bob Taylor, Joe Hill and John Michaels; also with the genial proprietor of the Cain house, Col. M. C. Thurman.

Don't you remember how poorly "Ben" acted one night, and how our bunch of quail disappeared to satisfy the maws of some of the colored brethren on Christmas Day, because they found them and we did not? Don't you remember that pleasant gathering at Col. Tom Cain's mansion on that day? You ought to, for you said that was your birthday. It was a pleasant occasion.

Don't you remember the little minister who asked us to come to his church where there was a "choir of pretty young ladies who sang like angels"? Don't you remember the "Tennessee grouse" we shot for our Republican friends, and how mine was appreciated by my friend to whom I gave it? Don't you remember that long dreary wait for a belated train at Leadville station, and the motley crowd who were trying to keep the stove warm there, in the little 12x15 station? Do you believe the people of that section are left-handed, or why is it that they invariably turn out to the left when you meet them? How you wished that "Dutchy" and "Tee Kay" were along so that the natives could have an exhibition of their powers of mimicry! How about that thermometer which you said registered zero? I say it was tied down.

Why don't you tell our friends of these little things? Ah! I guess you don't want to tell of my mishaps and bad shooting, and so, to screen me, say nothing about either of us. Well, you "told the truth" anyhow in your little article in THE PRESS. May we both live to visit Morristown, Tennessee, again, is the wish of

Your friend,
'LISH.

RUTGERS MEN STORM BOUND BROOK

And Narrowly Escape Being Lodged in Jail Over Sunday.

Saturday afternoon, about fifteen Rutgers College students drove to Bound Brook in a big bob-sled and attempted to take possession of the village and cover the snowy landscape with a crimson mantle. They made known their arrival to the village by shouts and yells as they drove through the main street. They were all dressed in the garb now affected by college men, that of long ulsters and Alpine hats. Going first into Watts's meat market, they angered Mr. Watts by foolish questions and petty remarks; from there they went to Cawley's restaurant, where the odor of "pale extra" was sufficient to excite their minute brains to such an extent that they became quite obstreperous. After talking and yelling in a most disorderly manner without buying anything, they finally began throwing articles about the place. Although mine host Cawley is a quiet and fun-loving man, he became angered at their actions, and ordered them out. They refused to go, and Mr. Cawley sent for officers Sebring and Taylor. On the arrival of the officers, the students became most lamb-like in their manner, and said they were just going home and asked the officers to let them off. The officers were inclined for a time to make an example of the boys and take them to the Somerville jail, but finally let them go on their promising never to visit the town again. They left in a jiffy. None of their names could be learned.

FROM FRONTISPIECE TO ADS.

Novel Entertainment Provided by the Grace Church Rectory Society.

The contents of the "Magazine" to be given under the auspices of the Rectory society of Grace church, in the Casino, Thursday evening at 8, are as follows:

Frontispiece—Taking leave of the Lyric Muse
W. T. Smedley
Poem—Thalia......T. B. Aldrich
Mrs. A. Kielnecke, Mr. D. Tiffany.
A Pastoral without words, in five verses,
Howard Pyle
Miss Mossett, Mr. L. G. Timpson, Mr. O. G. Waring.
A Short Story........Miss Maude Agnes Bowers
Paintings—{ 1 Midsummer.... 2 Riverside.... 3 Reading Aloud } Albert Moore
Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Miss Huntington, Miss Stewart.
Old King Cole..........................E. A. Abbey
Miss Depew, Miss Erickson, Mr. L. VanBuren

THE DEACON.
A Comedy-Sketch in II Acts,
by Henry Arthur Jones.
Abraham Boothroyd—Wholesale [illegible], Mayor of Chipping Fadbury on the Wold and Senior Deacon of Ebenezer Chapel,
Mr. Wm. B. Cook
Tom Dempster—A young barrister,
Mr. Deane VanVliet
Tibbetts—Mr. R. W. Erickson.
Rose Jervoise—The new Juliet,
Miss Maude VanBoskerck
Mrs. Bolingbroke—The Juliet of 30 years ago,
Mrs. C. E. Brooks
Scene—Tom Dempster's Chambers.
Act I—Before the Play. Act II—After the Play.

Perplexing—Very!..........George Du Maurier
Mrs. R. H. Depew, Miss Gusser, Miss Lowrie, Miss Green, Miss Kelly, Miss Rodman, Mr. Kielnecke.
The Tables Turned..........George Du Maurier
Mrs. Louis Howard, Miss Benson, the Misses Benis, Miss Mosson, Miss L. VanBoskerck, Mr. Munn, Mr. Huntington, Mr. Clay.
Pear's Soap........................Advertisement
Miss F. Waring, Miss Munn, Mr. J. Burkhalter
Positions..............................Advertisement
The Misses Lowrie, Waring, Munn, McClure, Vanderbilt, Rodman, Cox, Fisk.

Incidental Music by Mrs. F. A. Pollock..............................Piano
Mr. F. A. Pollock...............................Flute
Mr. J. E. Pond.................................Violin

The entertainment is a most novel and interesting one, and its projectors, Mrs. C. de Kedina and Mrs. C. E. Brooks, deserve great credit for its cleverness and originality.

FIRE DEPARTMENT REFORM.

Various Improvements Ordered and Contemplated—Foreman Fairchild Promoted to Chief.

From The Press of January 7.

In accordance with recommendations made by the committee on fire, water and lamps, endorsed by Mayor Saunders's comments, the borough last night ordered the fire committee to secure the immediate construction of that greatly needed improvement, a hose tower, procure a proper coupling for attachment of hose to the street hydrants, and purchase for the borough from Warren Engine company the fire-alarm gong and signal apparatus.

Councilmen Hageman and Connolly were appointed a committee to formulate a plan for obtaining funds for further improvements, such as erecting a frame building at Harrison avenue and Greenbrook road and stocking it with the old hose reel and hose, and putting in a Gamewell electric fire-alarm system such as Plainfield's, with six signal boxes.

The councilmen in discussing the payment for these and other improvements, possibly including a hook and ladder truck, favored the issuing of bonds payable $500 a year, rather than a direct tax. The bonds would be no extra burden on the people, who have been paying just such bonds for the past six years without complaint. All of the old bonds have been paid, and a new issue would give the public a model fire department, with greatly better service, at no increase in the tax rate.

Horace J. Martin, the only chief engineer the borough ever had, resigned long, long ago because his salary was insufficient. The office has up to date been vacant, but last night George H. Fairchild was elected chief in recognition of his services as foreman of Warren No. 1. As an expression of appreciation to a most worthy officer, it was a compliment gracefully expressed. The question of salary is yet to be settled.

The salary of Warren's hard-working and zealous janitor-fireman, Patrick Kelleher, was deservedly increased from $6.50 to $10, a month.

OH FOR A SEWER SYSTEM!

The Borough Will Try to Expedite Its Coming.

As proposed in the message of Mayor Saunders, the borough council last night took steps to secure reform of Green brook sewage abuses.

Councilmen Neal and Hageman were appointed a committee to act with the Mayor and board of health in conferring with the Plainfield city authorities concerning the abolition of emptying sewage into Green brook, and the project of establishing a general sewerage system. The commission is to investigate fully all sanitary matters affecting the public health. A report is demanded at the next borough council meeting. By prompt and decisive action the Mayor and council hope to expedite the proposed amelioration of the sanitary condition of the municipality.

GETTING READY FOR ELECTION.

Registry Board Announced—New District Division, with Somerset Street the Dividing Line.

The North Plainfield borough council last night fixed the date for borough election at March 14. The board of registry is to begin canvassing Feb. 21. Registration days are Feb 28 and March 7. The board of registry as announced by the council is as follows:

First district—Benjamin Gavitt, John L. Blackford, Dem.; Lewis A. Kline, Charles W. Tallman, Rep.
Second district—John Bodine, Abraham Kline, Dem.; James Anderson, John A. Goodwin, Rep.

An ordinance was adopted on first reading making Somerset street the dividing line of the election districts, the same as in township elections—the first district on the southwest of the centre line of the street, and the second on the northeast of the centre line. The ordinance will be finally adopted next meeting.

The Borough Council to Move.

The members of Warren Engine company have long been clamoring for a parlor. They naturally tire of having their headquarters in the stable, and deserve a better place for meetings and social gatherings, which they are going to get.

Last night the borough council decided to give up their chamber in the engine house to the sole use of Warren company, whose members will furnish it to their own satisfaction.

Councilmen Neal and Needham were appointed to secure another council chamber. They will probably select Spencer's hall at $75 yearly rental, including heat and light. The councilman's desks and chairs will be transferred to the new headquarters when decided on. Spencer's hall is where the township committee holds its meetings.

No More Snow on Borough Sidewalks.

Chairman Neal of the borough streets committee last night gave public warning, in response to the sidewalk criticisms in THE PRESS, that all property-owners would be compelled to keep all their sidewalks clear of snow and ice. He announced that wherever necessary the streets committee would do the work of clearing and charge it in the tax-bill against the recalcitrant property-holder. This applied especially, he said, to vacant lots where the owners have been particularly neglectful.

The ordinance under which the committee will operate was ordered advertised in THE PRESS, News and Courier twice a week for four weeks, to keep the public fully informed.

Board of Health Appointments.

Mayor Saunders last night re-appointed to membership on the borough health board the Rev. William E. Honeyman, whose term expires Jan. 15, for the succeeding term of four years. He also appointed Robert T. Currie to fill the unexpired term of Benjamin F. Brander, resigned; his term expires Jan. 15, 1894.

The appointments were confirmed by the council.

No one was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, resigned, whose term would expire Jan. 15, 1894. The vacancy will be filled later. Samuel St. J. McCutchen was recommended, but has not consented to serve.

An Expert Accountant to Put Things in Shape.

In compliance with Mayor Saunders's expressed advice, the borough council last night authorized the employment of an expert accountant to go over the borough books, put them in shape, balance accounts to date, and establish a clear and businesslike system of bookkeeping.

Can't Make Fire Limits.

The plan to set a limit in the borough within which no frame buildings should be erected, has fallen through. Corporation Counsel Reed says he can find no law under which a borough may draft such an ordinance as proposed. That's one disadvantage of not being a city. Mayor Saunders suggested that Mr. Reed draw up a bill for a new law giving boroughs the right to fix fire limits.

Plans for a Better Street Lighting System.

The borough committee on fire, water and lamps having gone carefully over the street lighting matter, the council last night listened to their [illegible] recommendations of proposed improvements, and authorized the rearrangement of lamps where advantageous. New lamps will be placed where possible, in response to various petitions, just as far as the appropriation holds out.

The Unmuzzled Dog Must Go.

William Barker complained by letter to Mayor Saunders that the large number of dogs at large were a source of annoyance and fright to women and children. He asked that unmuzzled dogs be stopped from running loose in the streets. The matter was last night referred to the councilmanic committee on laws and ordinances.

THE CRESCENT LEAGUE'S COLLAPSE.

Its Bowling Alleys, Billiard Tables and Other Possessions to be Sold by Its Creditors.

There was a meeting of the creditors of the Crescent League, Wednesday evening. Among those present and their claims were C. A. Marsh for A. D. Cook & Bro., $200; estate of D. J. Boice, $75; Pearson & Gayle, $75; C. G. Pecker, $150; S. H. Whitney, $109; Davis & Stevenson, $100; C. A. Reed, $300; John Eberhower, $50; and a number of small amounts.

President Leggett, J. T. Frith, C. H. Lyman and others spoke for the club. They said that an extension of time would be of no assistance, as the members who could support the club had found more congenial club interests elsewhere and were tired of keeping the League and its rooms going for the occupancy and use of a lot of delinquents.

The creditors then agreed to accept a club note for each claim, to indorse them over to some one of their number and that he should get a judgment for the whole amount, sell the club's property and divide the proceeds among the creditors in proportion to their claims.

The whole indebtedness is about $2,500. Of this there is a note for $1,000 indorsed by ten members of the club and secured by a chattel mortgage on all the club's possessions. This will be paid first in full. The assets of the club are four billiard tables that cost 900; bowling alleys and fixtures that cost $1,100; carpets, furniture, hangings, furnace, portable heaters, etc, that cost about $4,000 more.

Its Hard to Beat the Dutch.

Wednesday the long talked of pigeon shooting match between Charley Smith, (Dutchy) and the "Unknown", came off on the grounds of the Independent Gun club in the presence of a large number of spectators. The match was for $50 a side, 50 live birds each, modified Hurlingham rules to govern. The birds were a fine lot, flying swift and strong the moment they were liberated from the traps, which were five in number. Each contestant stood at 30 yards rise and the boundary was 80 yards. Ed. Campbell pulled the traps and Jacob Pentz and Tee Kay were referees.

The result of the contest was 36 kills for Smithy and 33 for the "Unknown". The former had the hardest birds to kill.

Among the many present were Milt Lindsley, of American Wood Powder fame, Hobert, of the American Field, Jacob Pentz, of Fishing and Shooting, William Laire of Brooklyn and Tee Kay.

Union County's New Jail Warden.

The principal business done Friday by the Union County Board of Freeholders at their meeting in Elizabeth was to elect a jail warden to succeed Charles W. Dodd, Republican, whose term has nearly expired. The Democrats nominated John C. Blore, of Rahway, and the Republicans nominated warden Charles W. Dodd. Mr. Blore was elected on the first ballot, the vote resulting Blore 9; Dodd 6, blank 1. One Republican Freeholder, Winans, of Linden, was absent. Director Halliday declared Mr. Blore elected jail warden for five years. His compensation was then fixed at $1,350 a year. His wife was elected jail matron; compensation $300.

Warden Blore will take charge of the county jail Feb. 1.

The Chuckle of the Enemy.

The Somervillians can't show charity even in the downfall of a great and honorable foe. Under the head "The West Ends Broke 'Em", the Democrat of Hunterdon gleefully says:

"The Crescents of Plainfield are about to go under. The pace set by the West Ends last summer was too hot for the windy city blusterers, and in consequence they will disband. The expense of last summer's ball season was borne by a few of Plainfield's moneyed men, while the majority of members have worked the deadhead plan. It is said that the last base-ball season cost the Crescent manager about $400, which he was compelled to pay out of his own pocket. No more Crescents. No more (great?) ball team in Plainfield. But like the babbling brook the West Ends go on forever."

To Come Again.

A well-filled house that included many of the best people of both cities in Plainfield, enjoyed that strongest of strong plays, "The Clemenceau Case", interpreted by a remarkably talented company, last Wednesday evening. Emma Bell as Iza left nothing to be desired as an impersonation, and Albert Bruning as Pierre and Max Rosenburg as Serg. were beyond criticism. In fact the entire company was without a weak spot. At the request of a large number of those present—members of the Union County Country club and other representative citizens, who find nothing vulgar in pure art and thoroughly appreciated the strength of the play and its players—the company was booked for a return date early in the coming spring.

Among those present, in one of the boxes, was William Fleron the author of the play with Pearl Eytinge, daughter of the celebrated artist.

Now Go and Get Your Copy.

The Rev. W. W. Moffett, superintendent of the American Bible society, desires to have it known that the Bible depository for Union county is at Marsh's store, 86 Broad street, Elizabeth. Bibles and Testaments are sold there at exactly cost prices, as published by the American Bible society. The destitute poor will be supplied free. Such cases may be reported to any pastor in the county.

Sharpshooter Brokaw Ahead.

Monday afternoon, January 2, four of the members of the South Sterling Gun club met at the residence of Quincy Brokaw, to decide who should obtain the honor of being the crack-shot of the town. Mr. Brokaw being in good practice, and not troubled in the least with his disease rheumatism, made the glass fly in every direction.

The people of the place have great reason of being proud of their leader, as he was a sharpshooter in the civil war, and has not lost any of his ability, in the least. Sage ranked next to Brokaw in record.

More Praise for the Retiring Warden.

(Elizabeth Herald.)

The office of jail warden is one well worth having as the salary derived from it is $1,200 a year with a house for the warden and family besides food and fuel. The board of freeholders at its regular session to be held to-morrow afternoon will elect Mr. Blore as warden.

The present incumbent, Charles W. Dodd, of Plainfield, has been a most faithful officer and would regret in expressed by both Republicans and Democrats alike when he must take up his hat and walk. There have been many petitions presented to the board asking for his reappointment.

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

BONDS NO LONGER A BUG-A-BOO BUT BUSINESS.

Plainfield Must Have Sewers or Give up All Claims to Respectability.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I was delighted to find in the mayor's message such sensible and fearless words as he writes in relation to our sewerage problem.

The name of "bonds" has been made such a bug-a-boo in this place that it is very refreshing to hear the matter treated simply as a matter of BUSINESS.

Any man who had a chance to make an immensely profitable investment, and who refused because he did not have the entire amount required in his pocket at the time, though friends were ready and anxious to lend him the funds at a low rate of interest, would be considered a fool.

Plainfield must have sewers or give up all claim to respectability, and no better investment could possibly be made.

We can borrow the money cheaply and pay it back soon.

That is all there is to the scarecrow of bonds. HOME.

LOCAL LICENSE REFORM.

This Correspondent Wants Judge McCormick's Good Example Followed in Plainfield.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I observed in your issue of Monday a few notes under the heading "Strong Evidence Wanted", as coming from judge McCormick of the Union county court of common pleas. He declared he would grant no more liquor licenses in the township unless stronger evidence was submitted to him that such places were an absolute necessity", and he promptly denied four applications.

Now, Mr. Editor, this coming from a court of common pleas, it seems to me that it tells in the right direction. Let the courts and legal profession strike against this loose idea of licensing rum-shops everywhere because some big fellow wishes to make his living out of the common people at the expense of their families. It seems to me that the authorities of our city might with the same propriety demand stronger evidence than we have usually had given before granting fifteen or twenty rum-hole licenses in our beautiful city. A strike of this kind by the authorities would tell for more good to the community than all the preaching and singing temperance songs coming from every source in our city. Let them try it. OBSERVER.

INSTALLATION AND COLLATION.

Anchor Lodge's New Officers Take Their Stations.

At a regular communication of Anchor lodge, F. & A. M., held in Masonic hall building, East Front st., Tuesday night, the following officers for the ensuing year were installed by P. D. D., G. M., R. W. Bro., W. A. Freeman, with P. D. D., G. M., R. W. Bro., F. O. Herring as marshal:

W. M.—Henry H. Lowrie.
S. W.—C. C. Howard.
J. W.—Wm. A. Coddington.
Treasurer—J. E. Turrill.
Secretary—J. A. Demarest.
Chaplain—Rev. E. M. Rodman.
Sr. Deacon—A. F. Vanino.
Jr. Deacon—John M. Crane.
Sr. Master of Ceremony—Peter A. Rosmone.
Jr. Master of Ceremony—E. C. Pease.
Sr. Steward—M. C. VanArsdale.
Jr. Steward—Geo. M. Griffen.
Marshal—R. J. Shaw.
Organist—E. C. Woltmann.
Tyler—J. T. Odam.
Trustees—R. W., W. A. Freeman, O. T. Waring, R. W., F. O. Herring.
Rep. to M. H. Ass'n.—R. W., W. A. Freeman, J. E. Turrill, O. T. Waring.
Finance Committee—R. W., W. A. Freeman, P. M., W. R. Cook, C. G. Crawford.
Committee on History, Library and Literary Exercises—R. W., F. O. Herring, E. C. Pease, F. S. Kinsman.

A banquet was then served by stewards F. C. Langhorne, J. G. Miller, C. M. Ulrich and H. Woodland, at which were seated a large number of Anchor's members and visiting brethren.

PRETTY CLOSE TO ZERO.

Coldest Weather Since the Winter of '86.

Old Sol and Jack Frost had a struggle for supremacy yesterday, and Sol got the worst of it. He could not overcome the cold snap. The sun was out good and strong at early morn, and by midday there was some warmth in its rays, but you only had to go across the street to get in the shade to realize that the mercury was quite close to zero.

According to the official record of the Weather Bureau this was the coldest morning this winter. Last night was the coldest since 1886 and at midnight Thos. Armstrong's thermometer registered 4 below zero. Between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning it was just 1 above and then it began to grow warmer.

At 10 a. m. the record showed that it was 8 above, but F. B. Dunn, the weather observer, up in the Equitable building, New York, says that the cold snap had not ended, and that it would continue to the delight of sleighers and skaters for several days.

WRECKED BY A STREET CAR.

Billy Lee's Driver Was Careless, the Rails Were Slippery, and a Collision Resulted.

Car No. 8 of the Plainfield Street railway collided with William Lee's bottled-beer wagon on Front near Liberty street, Tuesday. The driver of the wagon, which was following the rails, did not heed the cries and gong-clangings of the motor-man to clear the track, and the rails were so slippery that when the motor-man shut off the current and clapped on the brakes the car still forged ahead and thumped into the rear of the wagon. The vehicle was considerably damaged, and some beer was spilled, but no one was hurt.

These Doctors Know What's Good.

The Plainfield physicians had another dinner at the Albion Tuesday night. They discussed professional topics at their meeting, and the good things they enjoyed were as follows, prepared and served in the finest style of the culinary art:

Blue-points on the half shell.
Consomme.
Baked Blue-Fish, Sauce Hollandaise.
Saratoga Potatoes.
Potato Croquettes.
Roman Punch.
Baked Ham, Champagne Sauce.
Celery.
Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes. Peas.
Mince Pie. Assorted Cakes.
Neapolitan Ice Cream.
Oranges. Bananas. Apples.
Crackers. Cheese.
Coffee.

AN OLD MAN'S DEATH.

Killed on the Road Whose Property He Protected.

Trackwalker James Sullivan was killed by a Royal Blue line train near the Peace street bridge shortly before 6 Saturday night.

He was walking along his beat, and stepped out of the way of the 5:43 New York local eastbound train, over on the westbound track.

The trainhands on the local shouted to him that the Royal Blue was behind him, but he seemed not to hear.

The Blue line was going at terrific speed, and the shrieking of the whistle was no sooner heard than the locomotive struck him.

The poor man's body was hurled under the wheels of the other train, and frightfully mangled. Death was mercifully instantaneous.

Sullivan was 45 years of age. He was one of the most popular men on the road. He leaves a widow and son on South 2d street.

The son's grief was so intense that after viewing the body he went about the streets moaning and sobbing and wringing his hands.

The Blue line stopped at Grant avenue and backed up to get details for its report to headquarters.

The body was carried on a stretcher to the freight-house, and later taken to his late residence.

Sullivan had only just gone on duty for the night when he met his tragic fate. He had been 17 years employed by the road.

THE MONDAY CLUB TAKES PART.

Prominent Plainfield Women Join in World's Fair Work.

The women of the National Committee of the Lady Board of Commissioners of the World's Fair and the members of the New Jersey Board met with interested women from Plainfield and elsewhere, in the home of Miss Kean, sister of ex-Congressman John Kean, Elizabeth, Wednesday night. Much enthusiasm was manifested. The women were assigned their various positions and duties. Miss Kean has been appointed chairman of the New Jersey State board, and will appoint the various committees in the women's exchanges throughout the State. The work of gathering material for exhibits has been divided into several parts. Plainfield was represented by Mrs. E. B. Kenyon, president of the Monday Afternoon club; Mrs. S. A. Ginna, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. David Pond, Mrs. Charles Sykes, Mrs. Charles Scribner, Mrs. Florence Howe-Hall, Mrs. Kate Erskine and Mrs Krom, all members of the Monday Afternoon club.

Thanks for Everything, from Oysters to Socks.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Woman's Auxiliary board of Muhlenberg hospital wish to express their thanks to all who have again helped to make Christmas at the hospital so pleasant and joyful for our poor patients and our faithful attendants.

To the daily papers, which have published kind words in behalf of our good cause; to all warm-hearted friends and benefactors, among them several of our former patients; and to the merchants of our city who have so generously contributed by sending a liberal supply of meats, provisions and many other useful articles; we feel especially indebted and grateful for everything we have received.

The donations from the different stores were: Newman Bros. 6 cans fruit, 6 cans vegetables; A. Lutkins, ham; J. W. VanSickle, 2 ducks; Chas. Arnold, 2 ducks, 2 chickens; David W. Rogers, 2 qts. oysters; Garret Q. Packer, furniture; Seely Edsall, 11 pair socks; George Rockfellow, 1 basket apples; S. H. Whitney, stockings; P. M. Demarest, 2 lbs. tea; A. Griffin, kitchen utensils; Gavett & Co., 1 doz. plates and dishes; Henry Liefke, coffee cake; White & VanArsdale, 1 flannel blanket; Frank Linke, wine; Boice, Runyon & Co., 5 tons coal; Chas M. Ulrich, ham; James Flynn, 6 lbs. starch; Misses Gorsline, sofa pillow; Mrs. Sullivan, sofa pillow. EMILIE SCHIPPER, Corresponding Secretary.

More Plain Talk from Mr. Harte.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The editor of the Courier in Wednesday's issue of that paper says that I am "an ex-reporter of nearly every paper in New York city". In giving utterance to this statement the editor of the Courier, it will be easy to perceive, is guilty of cowardly and malicious falsehood.

The fact that last summer I sold THE PRESS several articles of news matter which the Courier staff was unable to procure and was thus sadly beaten in its own and supposed exclusive bailiwick, does not in the least indicate that I was employed by THE PRESS to obtain such, or any other matter. No sane person would assume anything of the kind for a single instant.

The foul assertion of the editor of the Courier that I am in bad company when with my clean-minded, clean-handed and manly friends of THE PRESS defeats its indecent purpose. It is simply a gratuitous, outrageous and vulgar insult to the intelligence of the Courier's unfortunate readers. GRISWOLD HARTE.

Enfeebled Age Despises Stalwart Youth.

The dotish old men who compose the Courier's "staff" are continually sneering at youth and young men. Their enfeebled intellects fail to comprehend that this is an age when young men lead the nation in all notable achievements—distinctively an age of young men. But then the Courier cannot be expected to keep up to the times. Fossils are interesting, in a way, as antiquities, as relics of the past, but they are not capable of getting out a modern daily newspaper. The need on the Courier "staff" of a smart young lad such as the Courier affects to despise, grows each day more apparent. "The awful crime of being a boy" seems to worry the senile editors of the ring-rule organ.

It is a fact that the Courier has gradually cut adrift from all the bright young men whose enterprise and zeal gave it its start, and with each each parting has degenerated more and more.

Franklin's Officers Installed.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held in their rooms Thursday evening, the following officers were installed:

Junior Past Councilor—Firman A. Long.
Councilor—Edward R. Brown.
Vice-councilor—Chas. I. Young.
Asst. Rec. Sec.—Willard B. Force.
Conductor—Lambert B. Bodine.
Warden—Augustus Wilson.
Inside Sentinel—Garret C. Schenck.
Outside Sentinel—John F. Reed.
Trustee for 18 months—Louis M. Dunavan.
Rep. to State Council for two years—David S. Dunavan.
Alternate to State Council—G. S. Martin.
Rep. to New Jersey Funeral Benefit Association—Horace G. Adams.

The installation ceremonies were conducted by Past Councilors David S. Dunavan and Edward S. Weaver.

Plucky Lad, But Dangerous Practice.

At 1 Saturday afternoon, opposite L. M. French's carriage repository, while some boys were catching on sleighs, one by the name of Willie Conover, of Pearl street, dropped off the bob that he had his small sled hooked to. He tried to avoid a grocery wagon of C. W. Tallman's that was following in the rear, when he slipped and fell, and both wheels of the wagon ran over his chest. The plucky little fellow, (only about 6 years old), jumped to his feet and exclaimed "I ain't killed".

This practice of catching on sleighs is very dangerous. Parents should caution their children against it.

ITS CLAIM IS A FALSE ONE.

The Ring Organ Was Censured for Trying to Create a Cholera Scare in Plainfield, Not for Any Public-Spirited Action.

The Courier said last Saturday night: "Both mayors uphold THE COURIER. The fight which this newspaper began last summer against the condition of Green Brook taken up by Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Saunders. Will The Press dare to accuse these officials of attempting to injure the town because they call public attention to a pest breeding stream? That's what it did when THE COURIER directed public attention to this matter last summer. The messages of the mayors a complete vindication of THE COURIER'S interest in the health and welfare of the city."

The Courier falsifies when it states that THE PRESS ever criticised it for objecting to sewage emptying into Green brook. THE PRESS has been fighting that same nuisance so long that it welcomes all allies. What THE PRESS did censure the Courier for was its effort to get up a cholera scare in this city in the midst of the excitement about the plague. The Courier was spreading broadcast the claim that the sanitary condition of Plainfield was so bad as to invite the scourge, and thus the fair name of the city was being tarnished abroad, while timid and nervous people were being frightened at home.

If it was a fact that the sanitary condition of Plainfield was bad, it was indiscreet to complain at such a time except in private to the proper authorities. If the danger of cholera was not as the Courier told, then its great outcry was vicious and criminal. In either event, the discredit was to the Courier.

THE PRESS endeavored at the time to allay excitement and fear. It was an occasion for calm reasoning, not livid sensationalism. And THE PRESS said "The health and municipal authorities can be trusted to handle safely and wisely whatever outbreak may occur or whatever problems may arise, without the Courier's assistance." Developments have proved that the confidence of THE PRESS was not misplaced. The Courier's scare was found to be but a mere bugaboo, and the sanitary problem is being admirably and actively investigated by the city and borough officials.

As for the North avenue sewer, that has always had the opposition of this paper, which bitterly fought, for instance, the notorious Ekwood connection with it. THE PRESS was a pioneer in the crusade against Green brook contamination, and has always been at the fore in the effort to secure a model general sewerage system for the city. But it is satisfied and has always been satisfied that the authorities realize the needs of the day, and that they are zealously and with all due expedition working to secure the best results.

THE STORM.

The New Year Favors Plainfield with a Touch of the Blizzard.

From The Press of January 4.

The snowfall of yesterday and last night amounted to about a foot in depth on the level, and the strong wind made deep drifts in many places.

The snow did not cease falling till after 8 this morning; and many commuters, daunted by the possibility of another blizzard experience, were not particular about venturing out. Jersey Central trains, however, were running with but little delay, and even B. and O. and P. and R. trains were but a trifle late. Telegraph and telephone lines were in good working order.

About the only electric or other surface road in the heavy snowstorm belt running its cars this morning was Plainfield's trolley system. Superintendent Passmore was supremely vigilant, and fearing a blockade kept cars running all night so as to keep the track open. This morning, after the snowfall ceased, the giant snow plough was set to work, and cleared the tracks and roadbed clean almost to bareness. In Elizabeth, Newark, New York and elsewhere, surface roads were well tied up. Mr. Passmore and his men deserve great credit for their activity.

Except to belate milkmen and other ruralites, the only notable effect of the storm was to give the people some good old-fashioned sleighing. The bottom to the snow is fine, and by to-morrow the exhilarating sport will be in glorious operation.

The promise is of cold bracing weather, which will keep sleighing good for some time.

While other people wallowed through drifts, this morning, Frank L. C. Martin, captain of the bicycle club, rode his wheel merrily down Park avenue, in the middle of the road, to his wheelmen's headquarters. There's a dauntless cyclist for you.

The gray-coated mail carriers all turned out merrily at 8 a. m., and cleared away the snow from Uncle Sam's door. They were a jolly crew, and had lots of fun.

The street railway snow plough attracted much curious attention.

Transfers of Borough Property.

The following real estate transfers are recorded from North Plainfield:

James A. Marsh to John H. Kitchen, $700.
L. M. Codington, Sheriff, to Philipine Soloman, $2,000.
Annie L. Weigel to John C. Daly, $600.
Annie L. Weigel to Ann Powers, $1,850.
Joseph E. Chapman to The Glendale Land Co., $1.
Wm. M. Stillman, Trustee, to Francis Barnert, $1.
Francis Barnert to George Laffoon, $1.
John Becker to Frederick H. C. Eggerding $7,000.

A CRIMINAL BY PREFERENCE.

Though Set in Need, Young Rushmore Swindled Right and Left From Choice—He Has Two Sweethearts and Most Honorable and Respected Relatives.

Further particulars of the case of young Rushmore, whose tale was told in Tuesday's PRESS, show that he deliberately chose the career of a forger.

The Rushmore family lived on Long Island until a few years ago, when they moved to this city. At the death of a grandfather each of three brothers inherited $50,000. When Frederick got his share a year ago his capital had been impaired by his extravagance until it amounted to only $14,000, which yielded an income of about $850.

Four years ago a hope of adventure led him to enlist in the army. He served two years and seven months as a private at Fort Adams, when he could stand it no longer and purchased his release. He had then only five months more to serve on his enlistment. He did not return home, but went to Great Neck, near where his family had lived. He idled awhile, living at country hotels in Great Neck, Port Jefferson, Mineola and Westbury. His income supported him, but life was dull there, so he got employment as a messenger in the Long Island Express company. In September, however, he threw up his job and went back to his idle barroom life. When he again tired of this he decided to try a life of crime. Long before this, while, while a mere boy, he had fallen in love with an estimable girl in Great Neck. The engagement was broken off while he was a soldier, but a few months ago he renewed it.

He went to Plainfield, where his uncle, Dr. Edward Rushmore, has an account in the City National bank, and secured some check blanks on the pretext that he was going to open an account there. On one of these blanks he drew a check for $128 43 to his own order and forged his uncle's name.

He then went to Brooklyn, where the immediately succeeding chapters in the history of his experiment in crime are not fully told. While in Brooklyn he became engaged to another girl, to whom he wrote passionate letters, not, however, breaking off his engagement with his first love at Great Neck.

Last Saturday young Rushmore entered the jewelry store of Ischar Lewkowitz at 290 Bowery, and gave the jeweler this letter:

> GREAT NECK, L. I., Jan. 6, 1893.
> To Mr. I. Lewkowitz:
> This will introduce the bearer, Mr. I. W. Rushmore, who lives here and wishes to make a few purchases of you, and if it may be too late for him to get the bank, I endorsed a check for him so that he will have no trouble on account of being a stranger to you. The check is for $75 on a New Jersey. By doing well by him you will confer a great favor on me.
> HENRY NINELING, of Great Neck, L. I.

The check had the signature of Edward Rushmore. Lewkowitz accepted it and Rushmore selected a diamond ring at $45, and a gold locket for $3.75. He received the change in cash. Lewkowitz then telegraphed to Nineling, and found that he had not written the letter or endorsed the check. On Monday Rushmore came to the shop again with another check and another note signed with Mr. Nineling's name. The jeweler sent to the Eldridge street police station, and meanwhile engaged Rushmore in conversation until Detectives Price and Smith arrived and arrested him. Rushmore smiled when he was arrested, and remarked that it had come quicker than he he expected.

On his person were found other checks on the Plainfield bank signed with Edward Rushmore's name for $115, $67, $198, $54 63, and $34. There was also the letter, written to a friend in "Plainfield, and published in yesterday's PRESS.

Rushmore made no attempt at concealment when questioned by the police authorities. He said that he had deliberately decided to try a criminal life, and if he liked it to adopt it. His first success, he said, pleased him, and he had decided to go ahead with it. He related the story of his life with the greatest frankness.

"The American people", he remarked with a smile, "are great suckers. They give up like lords".

He said he had sent the ring and locket he obtained from Lewkowitz to the young woman in Great Neck to whom he was engaged. Capt Cross asked him for a letter to her on which the articles might be recovered, and he wrote this:

> MY POOR DARLING: I have been arrested for forgery, which is true. I have come to the end of my rope and will get no more than I properly deserve. I suppose it is useless to ask you to still remain mine, although I shall always feel the same. Please give an answer to the party who will call and give you this. Do not feel too badly for one who is not worthy of your love. ISAAC.
> Give the bearer the ring and locket. They were bought with money which I obtained by crooked work.

The girl gave up the ring and locket without a word.

Rushmore told Capt. Cross that he had plenty of money to make good his forgeries, and that in any event his relatives, who were respectable and well off, would see that no one lost through him. He was arraigned before Justice Hogan in the Essex market police court yesterday morning, where he smilingly pleaded guilty and was remanded for trial.

While in Capt. Cross's charge he wrote a long letter to the Brooklyn girl to whom he was recently engaged. It was full of passionate phrases and expressions of devoted love.

Rushmore is a tall, well-built, boyish-looking fellow, with a pleasing face and blond hair and moustache. He gave his name as Frederick J. Rushmore, although he signed some of his letters Isaac.

A Fall in Prices
OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS. | From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.
} Correct in style, Perfect in fit, Well made and trimmed.

Each and every gaoment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S NEWARK, N. J.

9 17 tf

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Epitome of the Styles Prevalent in the Metropolis.

A Marked Improvement Noticeable in All Directions — An Elegant Reception Gown—Wraps and Capes for Winter—Stylish Millinery.

[Special New York Letter.]

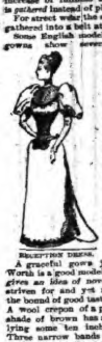
Now that we have been reprieved from the trailing skirt for street wear, and the very high hump-shouldered sleeve has given place to the broad, sloping effect—two serious defects in the feminine make-up of last winter have been improved, and I think the lovers of good form and correct lines are agreed that women have a chance to show to the best advantage this year. There are no particular excrescences or exaggerations, unless the full sleeve may be so called. The lines of the figure are well retained, without undue accentuation. The materials have never been equaled for beauty of color and weaving, even in cheap goods.

Passementeries show the work and influence of a true artistic feeling, and the whole are combined with a graceful effect unequaled for many years.

The bell skirt effect is retained for house wear, though there is a decided increase of fullness at the belt, which is gathered instead of plaited.

For street wear the skirt is gored and gathered into a belt at the back.

Some English models of tailor-made gowns show several very narrow gores, but at present that is not the accepted style here.



RECEPTION DRESS.

The long bodice has to a great extent given place to the short waist—for tailored gowns an all around effect is given, while house gowns are made so short that they practically end at the waist, or are so draped with sashes, belts, bands, etc., as to give that effect.

A graceful gown just arrived from Worth is a good model to describe, as it gives an idea of novel effect so much striven for and yet not to go beyond the bound of good taste and judgment. A wool crepon of a peculiar new dull shade of brown has a full plain skirt lying some ten inches on the floor. Three narrow bands of petunia velvet are edged with jet and mink.

A short zouave jacket of petunia velvet rests over a vest of rich brown bengaline, the draping of which comes from the side seams and is tied in a knot at the waist, the ends hanging to the knees. A graduated ruffle of silk comes in cape fashion from the shoulder. Full puffs of velvet are on the upper sleeve, the silk forming the lower part, below the elbow. Variations of this model are seen on the newest, most effective costumes. For evening gowns a more decided empire effect is given, of which I will give some descriptions later.

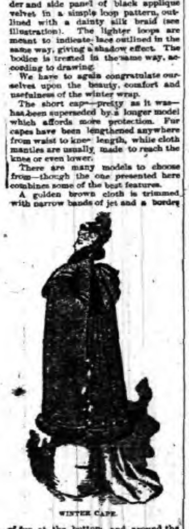
A smart gown for afternoon receptions (here illustrated) is made of reseda face cloth. The skirt has a border and side panel of black applique velvet in a simple loop pattern, outlined with a dainty silk braid (see illustration). The lighter loops are meant to indicate lace outlined in the same way, giving a shadow effect. The bodice is treated in the same way, according to drawing.

We have to again congratulate ourselves upon the beauty, comfort and usefulness of the winter wrap.

The short cape—pretty as it was—has been superseded by a longer model which affords more protection. Fur capes have been lengthened anywhere from waist to knee length, while cloth mantles are usually made to reach the knee or even lower.

There are many models to choose from—though the one presented here combines some of the best features.

A golden brown cloth is trimmed with narrow bands of jet and a border of fur at the bottom and around the high collar.



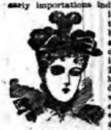
WINTER CAPE.

Variations of this style are worn for all occasions, though the material and color varies with its purpose.

The winter millinery is very pretty and generally becoming, as we are gradually arising from the squashed effects of past seasons and are enjoying the happy medium.

It is impossible to announce any particular mode of trimming, as unlimited license is given to individual taste, though as a general rule the bows are flat and the feathers stand up.

Buckles are as much favored as the early importations indicated. In fact it is exceptional to see a hat or bonnet without a buckle, large or small, tucked in somewhere. The rhine stones have been overdone and now we have some exquisite ones in enamel repousse and filigree. The hat illustrated here is brown felt, trimmed with small tips and two short plumes. A bow of handsome ribbon is embroidered in Persian colors, fastened with a chased gold buckle. The strings come from the side immediately back of the ear and tied under the chin.



A PRETTY HAT.

The mink and sable collarettes, introduced two years ago, have taken the town by storm. They are very pretty and effective, but I would not advise the purchase of an expensive one, as now they are made so cheaply that they are within the reach of all—which means their abandonment by people of conservative taste.

We are shown two buttoned gloves in English box colors as the latest novelty of that department, and now that even tailor gowns are made with sleeves the extreme length and an inch of cuff below that, two buttons are sufficient, though novelty is the point and not utility.

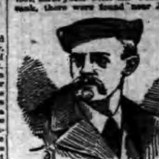
F. F. B.

NANSEN'S EXPEDITION.

He Will Aim to Find a Route Across the Apex of the Arctic Ocean.

Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian explorer, who is about to undertake a voyage for the discovery of a northwest passage, has adopted plans essentially different from those followed by his intrepid predecessors. Hitherto, with one possible exception, all attempts to reach the North pole have been made in defiance of the obstacles of nature. Dr. Nansen, on the other hand, writes G. W. Weipplert in the Chicago Graphic, proposes to learn whether nature has not herself supplied means of solving the problem, and whether there is not, after all, a possibility of reaching the north pole by utilizing certain natural facilities in the frozen seas of which all early Arctic navigators were ignorant.

The circumstances upon which Dr. Nansen bases his hopes are summarized by him as follows: The "Jeannette" expedition of 1879-81, and the loss of that vessel, seemed to sound the knell of all expeditions to reach the pole by Behring straits. But in June, 1884, three years after the "Jeannette" sank, there were found near Julianshaab, Greenland, several articles which had belonged to the "Jeannette," and had been abandoned at the time of its wreck by the crew, and which had been carried to the coast of Greenland from the opposite side of the Polar sea, on a piece of ice.



DR. FRIDTJOF NANSEN.

This weird and mysterious voyage across the Arctic ocean leads Dr. Nansen to think that the unknown current is nature's means of communication, and he will endeavor to realize his hopes of a direct route across the apex of the Arctic ocean.

The Nansen expedition, whose cost is to be defrayed by the Norwegian government and King Oscar and other public-spirited citizens, will leave Norway next June and proceed direct to Nova Zembla. The explorer and his party will take with them five years' provisions, although they hope to be absent only two years. The scientific world takes a deep interest in the proposed voyage, as Dr. Nansen is a practical man, who will carry out his plans and promises unless prevented by acts of Providence.

DOM PEDRO'S JOKE.

He Adopted a Rather Startling Test for a New Railroad Brake.

The late Emperor Dom Pedro, of Brazil, once gave audience to a young engineer who came to show him a new appliance for stopping railway engines. The emperor was pleased with the thing, and said:

"We will put it at once to a practical test. The day after to-morrow have your engine ready; we will have it coupled to my saloon carriage and then fire away. When going at full speed I will unexpectedly give the signal to stop, and then we will see how the apparatus works."

At the appointed time the emperor entered his carriage and the engineer mounted his engine and on they went for a considerable distance. Indeed, the young engineer began to suspect that the emperor had fallen asleep, when the train suddenly came to a sharp curve round the edge of a cliff, on turning which the driver saw to his horror an immense bowlder lying on the rails.

He had just sufficient presence of mind to turn the crank of his brake and pull up the engine within a couple of yards of the fatal block.

Here the emperor put his head out of the window and asked what they were stopping for. The engineer pointed to the piece of rock, on seeing which Dom Pedro burst into a merry laugh.

"Push the thing on one side!" he called out to the engineer, who had jumped down from the locomotive, and when the latter in his confusion blindly obeyed and kicked the stone with his foot it crumbled into dust.

It was a block of starch that Dom Pedro had ordered to be placed on the rails the night before.—Boston Globe.

MRS. JAMES G. BLAINE.

The Worthy Helpmate of Her Distinguished Husband.

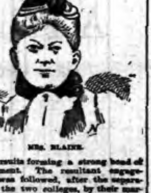
Where She First Met and Married the Man She Loved—Her Ability as a Letter Writer—Other Points of Interest.

Harriet B. Stanwood Blaine was born in 1830 at Augusta, Me., whither her parents had removed from Ipswich, Mass. Her father, Jacob Stanwood by name, was of the purest Puritan lineage, and of extreme pride of ancestry. Harriet was the fifth child in a family of seven, four of whom were girls. She received her education at home, under the care of private teachers. In the spring of 1848, says the Ladies' Home Journal, she went to Kentucky to join her sisters, Caroline and Sarah, who were teaching in the Female collegiate institute at Georgetown. The sisters were women of high standing and good education, and much respected by all who knew them. Harriet was the brightest of the three sisters, both in her mental and social qualities, and soon became a great favorite.

The principal of the Female collegiate institute at Georgetown, where the Misses Stanwood were teaching—Thornton F. Johnson—organized in that city in 1847 the Western military institute, to which, in October of that year, James Gillespie Blaine, a young Pennsylvanian, came to assume the position of assistant professor of languages, Latin and Greek. Young Blaine, a graduate of Washington college, but nineteen years of age, came with high recommendations for scholarship and ability, which he soon merited, and the following year, upon the removal of the senior professor to Knoxville, Tenn., Mr. Blaine succeeded to the chair of languages.

In the latter part of 1850 the Female collegiate institute, with its staff of teachers, was moved from Georgetown to Millersburg, the county seat of Bourbon county, Ky., and about the same time the Western military institute was removed to Blue Lick, also in the same state.

During the two years of the institute's location in Georgetown, Mr. Blaine and Miss Stanwood became close friends, their similarity of ages, dispositions and pursuits forming a strong bond of attachment. The resultant engagement was followed, after the separation of the two colleges, by their marriage in the parlor of the seminary at Millersburg.



MRS. BLAINE.

Mrs. Blaine has been the mother of seven children, only one of whom, her oldest, Stanwood, died in childhood. The others are Emmons, Walker, Alice, James G., Jr., Margaret and Harriet. Of the many sorrows which have come to Mr. and Mrs. Blaine in later years, the heaviest has been the sad deaths of their son, Walker, and their eldest daughter, Alice, wife of Maj. Coppinger, of the United States army; and the untimely death of their son Emmons. Of the other children all but one, the youngest daughter, Harriet, have married.

Mrs. Blaine has been a most devoted mother to her children, receiving from them the most extravagant devotion in return for her years of unselfish care. She is a most brilliant and charming hostess and delightful conversationalist, with fine command of words and graphic power of description.

In appearance Mrs. Blaine is pleasing. She is rather tall, and in figure is inclined to stoutness. Her hair is changing rapidly from gray to white, and is always well and tastefully arranged. Her eyes are a blue-gray; her taste in dress is quiet but elegant. Her favorite color for street wear is brown, while her evening dresses are of soft grays.

To be one of Mrs. Blaine's correspondents is the desire of all who know her. Her letters are remarkable for their beauty of expression, cleverness and originality. Not the least of her accomplishments with the pen is her rare facility of expression through the medium of telegraph blanks. Her dispatches of condolence or congratulation are unusual examples of brevity and meaning.

Unconsciousness, unworldliness, unselfishness and truthfulness, a power to make those who know her enthusiastically devoted to her, an industry almost limitless in its accomplishment, cheerfulness which never fails in the darkest of crises, and frankness—these are the characteristics of the woman who, though so little known in her own personality, has reflected in her husband's brilliant successes the strength and nobility of her life.

Mrs. Mosseman Was Petrified.

In June, 1884, Mrs. Abigail Mosseman was interred at the Hazelwood cemetery in Poweshiek county, Ia. Not long since relatives determined to remove the remains to another cemetery. The workmen engaged to perform the job found the coffin filled to overflowing with red colored mineral water. This was drained off, whereupon it was found that the corpse, with the exception of the fingers and toes, was perfectly petrified. The hair was perfectly natural, as was also a bouquet of roses that lay on her breast. After a thorough examination by relatives and friends the coffin was again closed and covered up.

THE PRINCE OF MONACO.

Virtual Head of the Gambling House at Monte Carlo.

He Is a Scion of the Grimaldis Who Have Ruled the Little Principality for Nearly One Thousand Years—Trouble at Genoa.

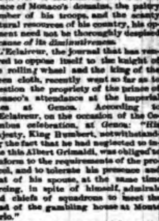
For the first time since his ascent to the gilded throne of that delightful opera bouffe principality in the Riviera, the sovereign of Monaco has a war on his hands, says the Illustrated American.

It is only a war with a poor little two-sheet newspaper, published at Nice, but in view of the limited extent of the prince of Monaco's domains, the paltry number of his troops, and the scanty natural resources of his country, his opponent need not be thoroughly despised because of its diminutiveness.

L'Eclaireur, the journal that has ventured to oppose itself to the knight of the rolling wheel and the king of the green cloth, recently went so far as to question the propriety of the prince of Monaco's attendance at the imperial fetes at Genoa. According to L'Eclaireur, on the occasion of the Columbus celebration, at Genoa: "His majesty, King Humbert, notwithstanding the fact that he had neglected to invite this Albert Grimaldi, was obliged to conform to the requirements of the protocol, and to tolerate his presence and that of his spouse, at the same time forcing, in spite of himself, admirals and chiefs of squadrons to meet the head of the gambling house at Monte Carlo."

Of course, his serene highness the prince of Monaco could not allow such an affront to go unnoticed, and he at once instructed his lawyer to proceed against the unruly journal. Under the laws of France offenses against the heads of foreign states are liable to severe punishments, including both fines and imprisonment.

The affair in hand marks a crisis in the hostility which the offending journal has for years shown toward the sovereign of Monaco. L'Eclaireur alone, of all newspapers published in the Riviera, has steadfastly declined the bribes paid by the gambling casino at Monte Carlo, which is really the property of the prince of Monaco. Almost all of the prominent journals in France receive handsome subventions from the casino, and the saucy little sheet of Nice threatens to tell the whole shameless story of the wide-spread corruption in the trial of the suit brought against it by his serene highness Albert Grimaldi.



THE PRINCE OF MONACO.

Monaco has been the possession of the Grimaldis for nearly a thousand years, they having acquired it in 968. Mentone, Roquebrune and Castillon were added to their sovereignty in 1330, and a few years later Antibes came under their sway. After the war of 1859 the entire territory fell for a time into the hands of Victor Emmanuel. The lawful owner protested to all the sovereigns of Europe against this ruthless seizure of a peaceful domain, and the matter was satisfactorily arranged two years later, when Napoleon III. bought Mentone and Roquebrune for 4,000,000 francs.

Monaco is now under French protection.

One thousand of the inhabitants are employed in the rooms and gardens of the celebrated casino. These gambling rooms, built at Monte Carlo on ground leased from the prince of Monaco, belong to a joint stock company, and are annually visited by about four hundred thousand pleasure seekers and gamblers of all descriptions and from many climes. The casino offers attractions and comforts of various kinds, which are free to all. Its gardens are world-renowned.

The present prince, Albert, was born in 1848 and succeeded to the throne in 1889. He has one son, Louis, by a marriage with Lady Mary Hamilton, which was dissolved in 1880.

The Lightest Metal.

"Some people seem to think that aluminium is the lightest metal in the world," said a gentleman who deals in all the fancy articles now made of that commodity, "but that is a mistake. The specific weight of magnesium is only one-third of that of aluminium, and is even more hard and durable. It is not as useful, however, as it catches fire very easily, even at the open hearth. It is not destined to crowd the popularity of aluminium, although up to a short time ago it was even the cheaper of the two."

ROMAN ARITHMETIC.

It Is Much Simpler Than Is Supposed by Most People.

The teacher of Latin in the high school of a western city was asked by one of the scholars how the Romans used their notation when they wished to make any calculation. Strange to say, this teacher could not give the required information, nor could any teacher in the school. The method of using the Roman numerals is very simple, nevertheless, says the Youth's Companion, and while perhaps longer and more tedious than the system we now employ, is equally accurate. We should be as familiar with it as with our own.

The only change that has to be made in the notation, as we now understand it, and as the Romans used it, is that the position of the letters makes no difference in the amounts represented. For instance, X and I always represent eleven, whether written XI or IX. Nine and four will have to be represented by VIIII and IIII, and not, as we are accustomed to contract them, by IX and IV; and so with all similar abbreviations.

In performing examples in addition all that is necessary is to arrange the different denominations so that like amounts shall be placed under each other, and then proceed as in our present system. These denominations in place of being, as in our decimal system, units, tens, hundreds and thousands, are units, fives, tens, fifties, hundreds, five hundreds and thousands.

For example:

Add	[illegible]	DCCCC	LXXXX	V	II
	[illegible]	CCC	XXXX	V
	[illegible]	DC	XXXX		II
	[illegible]	DCCCC	XX	V	II
Total	[illegible]	MMMMMDCCCC	X		I

In subtraction, the same arrangement of letters will have to be observed. Like denominations must be placed under each other, and when a perfect subtraction cannot be made enough must be borrowed from the next higher denomination, as in our present method. For example:

From [illegible] —	MMM	CCC	XXXX	V
Take [illegible] —		MDC	LXXX	II
Remains [illegible]		MDC	LX	III

In multiplication it is there convenient to begin at the left, as in algebra; but the operation may be begun from the right, care being taken to keep like amounts under each other for add in the addition afterward.

For example: What is the cost of 45 cows at $25.00 each?

25	XXV
45	XXXXV
125	CCL
100	CCL
	CCL
	CCL
1125	CCL
	LXXV
	[illegible] XXV

As the value of the Roman characters is always the same, no matter where they may be located, division may take place either from the right or from the left.

For example:

25)1125(45	XV)MCXXV(LXXV
100	DCCL
125	CCCLXXV
125	CL
	CCXXV
	CL
	LXXV
	LXXV

SARAGOSSA'S LEANING TOWER.

An Ancient Landmark Now Being Destroyed.

One of the famous leaning towers of the world—the only one that has ever been completed—is now being taken down. The Torre Nueva, which stands in the Plaza San Felipe at Saragossa, the capital of Aragon, is one of the finest examples of a brick-built tower at present existing. The tower, which was built in 1504, is about two hundred and seventy-five feet high, and stands some ten feet out of the perpendicular—a little less than the magnificent Campanile at Pisa, which leans over about thirteen feet. Tradition asserts that this departure from verticality was part of the original conception of the designers of such edifices. This, however, is not the case. When the Torre Nueva was restored in 1860 it was conclusively proved that its inclination was caused by defects of the foundations. The elaboration of this building by means of brick diaper work and tracery patterns gives it that rich appearance so frequently met with in Gothic-Moresque work, and causes it to be mistaken, when seen from a distance, for a Moorish tower. But on closer inspection, the design of the tracery, the treatment of the buttresses and the unmistakable pointed arches are seen to be distinctly Gothic. One hears with feelings of regret of the destruction of this picturesque structure, for so many years the pride of an old Spanish town; but, in a country which is a veritable mine of artistic and historic wealth, its loss will not be felt so much as it would be in a less favored land.

Singular Fact About Gems.

It is a rather singular fact that the most precious gems are composed of the most common substances. The diamond is the purest form of carbon, and is identical in composition with ordinary charcoal without the impurities of the latter. The ruby, on the other hand, is nearly pure alumina, a substance found in profusion in every clay bank. The scientific name for crystallized alumina is corundum, and the gems comprehended under this designation are sometimes more valuable than diamonds of the same weight. The ruby, the sapphire, the oriental emerald, topaz, amethyst, aqua marine, chrysolite, the hyacinth and other precious stones are all alumina, the varieties of color being caused by inappreciable quantities of metallic oxides.

A Little Mixed.

"Goodness me, Wallace," cried his uncle, "you are getting to be a big fellow. Nearly eight now, aren't you?"

"Guess so," said Wallace, "papa says I'm worse than a dozen."—Harper's Young People.

An Early Frost.

"Do you care for me a little, Clara?"

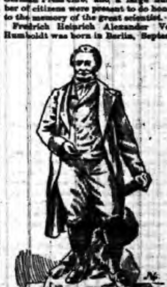
"Yes, very little indeed."—Chicago News Record.

STATUE OF HUMBOLDT.

The Great Scientist Honored by the German Citizens of Chicago.

Chicago, already noted for its handsome statues, was further enriched recently by the unveiling of a statue to Alexander von Humboldt in Humboldt park. The unveiling ceremonies were conducted under the auspices of the German Press club, and a large number of citizens were present to do honor to the memory of the great scientist.

Friedrich Heinrich Alexander Von Humboldt was born in Berlin, September 14, 1769, in the same year with Napoleon, Wellington, Canning, Walter Scott and Chateaubriand. He early developed a fondness for natural history, and devoted much time to the study of mathematics.



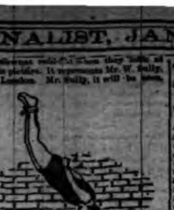
CHICAGO'S HUMBOLDT STATUE.

He traveled extensively throughout Europe, South America and North America, making investigations of everything that might lead to the advancement of science. He spent about twenty years in Paris preparing and publishing the results of his studies, the more notable of which are a "Journey to the Equinoctial Region of the New Continent," three volumes; "Astronomical Observations," etc., twelve volumes, 1806-1810; "View of the Cordilleras," etc., 1810; "Observations on Zoology and Comparative Anatomy;" "Political Essay on the Kingdom of New Spain," two volumes, 1811; and "General Physics and Geology." His great work "Kosmos," was undertaken when he was seventy-four years old (1845-58). An English translation of his "Personal Narrative of Travels" was made by Helen Maria Williams, five volumes, 1814. In 1810-13 he was chosen a member of the French institute. In 1826 he removed to Berlin, received the title of councillor, and between 1830 and 1848 was sent to Paris on several political missions. In 1829, with Ehrenberg and Rose, he made a scientific exploration of Asiatic Russia, one result of which was his "Central Asia," three volumes, 1843. His "Botanical Collections in the New World" were published in seven volumes, 1815-25. He published many other works, among which is a "Critical Examination of the Geography of the New Continent," five volumes, 1835-39, and "Aspects of Nature," 1808.

A FANCY SWIMMER.

He Dives with Both His Hands and Legs Securely Tied.

Those who have experienced some difficulty in learning how to swim, simply through lack of confidence in the buoyant power of water, will feel somewhat relieved when they look at this picture. It represents Mr. W. Sully, of London. Mr. Sully, it will be seen, attempts the apparently hazardous undertaking of diving with his arms and legs tied. The ordinary swimmer finds it a sufficiently difficult matter to keep himself afloat with the unhampered use of all his limbs. Mr. Sully, on the other hand, not only keeps himself afloat, but dives and performs various evolutions by merely wriggling his body about. These feats are performed nightly, and Mr. Sully is still enjoying vigorous health. With the free use of his arms and legs he can do such a variety of things that there is not sufficient space to mention them here.



The First Federal Volunteer.

Interest attaches to the first example of anything. Ten thousand dollars is said to have been paid for the first Columbus half-dollar which the United States government stamped in aid of the Chicago world's fair. The first federal volunteer in the late war ought, then, to be a famous man; but, although he is still living at the age of seventy-two years, few persons know his name. He is said to be Gen. E. C. Williams, of Chapman, Sydney county, Pa., where he has been postmaster for twenty years. His official record is: "First volunteer mustered in the United States service in the late war on April 15, 1861, in the executive chamber at Harrisburg, Pa., between the hours of 9 and 10 a. m., by Capt. S. O. Simmons, United States of America, in the presence of Gov. Curtin and all the heads of departments." Previous to that time Gen. Williams had served in the Mexican war, and had helped to suppress the Philadelphia riots of 1844.

Dog Language.

Little Johnny—Dogs don't need to talk, 'cause anyone can understand their bark.

Visitor—Can you?

Little Johnny—Easy as rollin' off a log. When my dog is at the door and barks, that means he wants to get in; if he's inside the door and barks, that means he wants to get out.

Visitor—Humph! Suppose he is half inside and half outside and barks, what does that mean?

Little Johnny—That means that there's a bigger dog than him in our yard.—Good News.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE
Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after Apr. [illegible], 189[illegible], trains leave [illegible] as follows:

9 30 a. m. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for Toledo.

[illegible] p. m. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car to Pittsburgh, daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Toledo.

[illegible] p. m. PACIFIC EXPRESS, [illegible] Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Memphis, Chicago, and Toledo, daily [illegible] day. [illegible]

For Baltimore, Washington and [illegible] [illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY.

[illegible] p. m. Through day coaches, week-days. For Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City, [illegible] p. m. week-days.

For Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere, [illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Buckingham, [illegible] and [illegible]

A full line of tickets are on sale, and [illegible] our accommodations than [illegible] the ticket office at Elizabeth.

For further information, see time tables to be had at the ticket offices.

CHARLES E. PUGH, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.
(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)
Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect, NOV. 13, 1892.
PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Newark [illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Somerville, [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Easton [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 [illegible], [illegible] 12 [illegible], 5 [illegible] p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.
LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5 18 a. m. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, [illegible], Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport and Tamaqua.

7 18 a. m. for stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge branch.

[illegible] a. m. for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Reading and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] a. m. for Flemington, [illegible], Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 57 p. m., way for High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

1 [illegible] p. m. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Williamsport.

5 00 p. m., way for High Bridge.

[illegible] p. m. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Pottsville and to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] p. m. for Flemington.

[illegible] p. m. for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

[illegible] p. m. for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] a. m. Sunday for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, [illegible] [illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY, [illegible] a. m. [illegible] p. m.

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

For Perth Amboy, [illegible]

For Freehold, [illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield, for Philadelphia, [illegible]

For Trenton [illegible]

For Baltimore and Washington at [illegible]

[illegible]

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Sup't.
H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTIONS [illegible] SUBSCRIBERS—[illegible] AND BOROUGH — [illegible] OVER 12,000 [illegible] PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—43 North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name. — Address.

Alden Hotel, The .... Park av and 5th st
Allen, C J .... 13 Crescent ave.
[illegible] Home Co., [illegible] .... Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. [illegible] .... 23 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D G .... 45 Grove st
Brokaw, J W .... Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac [illegible] .... Bound Brook
[illegible] .... 6th and Union sts.
[illegible] & Dunn .... 15 North ave.
[illegible], W. C., M. D. .... Cor. Front & Central av.
Bushnell, John .... Central ave. and 6th st.
[illegible] .... Park av and 2d st
Berg, Jos F, M D .... 10 E 5th st
Board of Education—5th st, 8th and Union sts
Booth, E H .... [illegible]
.... 6th & Liberty, 6th & Monroe
Clark, E B .... 3 Wayswood place
Children's Home .... Sycamore ave.
Clinton, James T .... Richmond and Front sts.
[illegible] .... 5 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro .... Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H .... [illegible] and Watchung aves.
[illegible] .... [illegible]
Chapman, Mrs. F. A. .... 5 Third Place
Cruikshank, S. A. .... 128 Central avenue
[illegible], J K, M D .... 46 Somerset st
Chase, F F M .... Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (F E Leonard, Mgr) .... Park ave and Front st
[illegible] .... 3 North ave.
[illegible], Mrs. E. E .... 13 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank .... 23 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S .... Cor 6th st & Park av
[illegible], D H .... [illegible]
[illegible], F M .... 17 Park av
[illegible], John B .... 25 E 7th st
Dunbar, T—pay station .... Westfield, N J
[illegible], James .... 23 E 6th st
Doane, T O—Chief P F D .... 40 W 6th st
[illegible], S L .... 121 Madison av
[illegible] & [illegible], coal and wood .... Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W .... Park av and 4th st.
Evening News, T. W. Morrison, Editor .... [illegible]
Engine No 1 .... West 3d st.
Engine No 2 .... Front st.
Engine No 3 .... Somerset st.
Evans, Geo G .... 37 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J .... 25 Washington st
Fanwood, pay station .... Fanwood station
Freight House .... C. RR. Depot
French, F M & Sons .... Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J T .... 76 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard .... 39 Park avenue
Fisk, [illegible] .... 3 W 7th st
French, C Frank .... 67 Somerset st
Grant Geo W, Chief of Police .... 25 W 5th st
Goddard, C M .... 17 Third Place.
Griffen, A M .... 13 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F .... 5th and New sts
Gilbert, A .... Cor Central av & 5th st
Howell & Hardy .... North Avenue
[illegible], L .... 21 & 23 Somerset street.
Hegeman, E. A. .... 107 Sycamore avenue.
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W .... 49 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas .... 241 Front street.
Hedden Albert .... 4th st. near Park ave
Higgins, M. A. .... [illegible] North ave
Hatfield, John N .... [illegible] Park av
[illegible], Francis C .... 120 Madison av
[illegible], O .... Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express .... 20 North av
Jenkins, Dr. G. L .... 38 W. Front st.
Jones, Evan .... 13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J .... 5th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T .... 23 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert .... Madison ave and 5th st.
Lovell, L N .... Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A .... Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice .... [illegible] Broadway
Laire, J F & Co .... 3 W Front st
Linke, Frank .... 42 W Front st
[illegible], F C .... [illegible]
Myers, J E .... [illegible] 7th st
Mellick, Henry A .... Willow ave
Mellor, James .... Willow ave.
Miller, J G .... 10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A .... 20 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital .... South ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. H. .... 107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas .... 60 Grove st
Milliken, E F .... 126 Central av
Morrison, T W .... 11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F .... 40 E. Front st
Myers, Lawrence .... E. Front st
Netherwood Hotel .... Netherwood.
Newhall, Henry M .... 15 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co .... 4 Park ave
[illegible], Jr., Thos B .... [illegible] ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co .... 40 East Fourth St
Plainfield Electric Light Co .... Madison avenue
Plainfield Beef Co .... 3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office .... 7 Park ave
Police Station .... Park ave and RR.
Potter, C Jr .... 7th and Division sts.
Potter Press Works .... South ave.
Probasco, Dr J B .... 41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward D .... Central ave. and 8th st
Pope & Co. J. C .... 4 East Front st
[illegible] Thomas .... 124 Central av
[illegible] Tool Co .... Boulevard below Grant av
[illegible] Hardware Co .... 42 W Front st
[illegible], F W .... 1 Front st—Central Times
[illegible] A .... 21 Myrtle ave
[illegible], Henry C .... Broadway
[illegible], L A .... 20 Broadway
Reynolds, H F .... Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H. F .... Washington avenue
Roberts, D S .... 17 North avenue.
[illegible], Geo W .... Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son .... Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son .... 43 Madison ave.
Rushmore, Dr Edward .... Park ave. near Fifth st.
[illegible], Mrs J .... Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
[illegible], H G .... 8th st
Runyon, Chas W .... Park ave
Rice, E. W. & Co .... 7th cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L W .... Front st
Rogers, D W .... 43 W 3d st
Rogers, E F [illegible] .... 38 Westervelt ave
[illegible], E W .... 30 East 5th st
[illegible], Leonard W .... Front st. and Plainfield ave
Squires, C. J .... 40 Front street.
Shaw, E J .... Front st. opp. Park ave.
[illegible], A S .... Prospect ave.
Smith, W F .... Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shepherd, A. D .... Fanwood
Smith, Jos A .... 15 W Front st
[illegible] & Co .... South ave
Smith, Chas A .... Spring st., Westfield, N J
[illegible], Irving G .... Sixth st
Terrill & Cole .... [illegible]
Thompson, A. D. .... [illegible]
Talmadge, Henry F (Res) .... Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jno A .... Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M .... 28 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H .... La Grande and E B'dwy
Tobin & Reeder .... 31 North av
Tracy, J Evarts .... 5th and Division st
Thorn, Alex .... 27 Somerset st
Tweedy, C B .... 11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel .... [illegible] Rockview av
Thompson, A D .... Prospect ave
Telegraph Office .... Plainfield station
Thorn, E .... 26 W Front st
United States Express Co .... 3 North ave
Union Co Country Club .... Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J .... 10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton .... 17 Central av
Woolston, C .... West Second street
Wadsworth, W B .... 5th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company .... At Depot
[illegible], J F .... W 5th st., near Grand ave
Waters, E, Ass't Chief .... 3d st. near Washington
Westfield, pay station .... Westfield, N J
[illegible] O G .... 146 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.
FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD,		NEW JERSEY
Asbury Park, N J	[illegible]	Hempstead N Y	[illegible]
Astoria, N Y	[illegible]	Hoboken N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bath, N Y	[illegible]	Irvington N J	[illegible]
Bayonne N J	[illegible]	Islip N Y	[illegible]
Bergen Point N J	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Jersey City N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Keyport N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bloomfield N J	[illegible]	Little Neck N Y	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Little Silver N J	[illegible]
Boonton N J	[illegible]	Long Branch N J	[illegible]
Brooklyn N Y	[illegible]	Madison N J	[illegible]
Caldwell N J	[illegible]	Matawan N J	[illegible]
Carlstadt N J	[illegible]	Millburn N J	[illegible]
Centreville N J	[illegible]	Montclair N J	[illegible]
Chatham N J	[illegible]	Morristown N J	[illegible]
Chester N J	[illegible]	Newark N J	[illegible]
College Point N Y	[illegible]	New Brunswick N J	[illegible]
Coney Island N Y	[illegible]	Newton N Y	[illegible]
Cranford N J	[illegible]	New York N Y	[illegible]
Dover N J	[illegible]	Orange N J	[illegible]
East Norwich N Y	[illegible]	Passaic N J	[illegible]
Elizabeth N J	[illegible]	Paterson N J	[illegible]
Englewood N J	[illegible]	Rahway N J	[illegible]
Far Rockaway N Y	[illegible]	Perth Amboy N J	[illegible]
Flatbush N Y	[illegible]	Red Bank N J	[illegible]
Flushing N Y	[illegible]	Somerville N J	[illegible]
Fort Lee N J	[illegible]	South Amboy N J	[illegible]
Franklin Park N J	[illegible]	South River N J	[illegible]
Freehold N J	[illegible]	Staten Island N Y	[illegible]
German Valley N J	[illegible]	Westfield N J	[illegible]
Glen Cove N Y	[illegible]	Yonkers N Y	[illegible]
Gravesend N Y	[illegible]	Trenton N J	[illegible]
Hackensack N J	[illegible]	Tarrytown N Y	[illegible]

TWENTY
Years experience in the business.
SECOND STREET, [illegible] doors above Peace street.

MR. JOHN E. STEVENS, Horseshoer, gives particular attention to shoeing [illegible] [illegible] and Interfering Horses. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Park avenue and [illegible] street.
[illegible] Agent
[illegible] by Week or Month
[illegible]

FOR WINTER EVENINGS.

How to Make a Fish Out of a Square Piece of Paper.

Get a piece of paper about a foot square, and fold it as shown in Fig. 1, to form creases; then double the paper, holding two of the folds at opposite corners between the finger and thumb of each hand; press them inward, then press the paper quite flat so as to represent Fig. 2; press it down flat, then turn up A X to meet B, as shown in Fig. 3; turn over and do the same to the other side, and you will get the same as Fig. 4; then turn A A to meet B, as shown in Fig. 5; turn the paper over and do the same to the other side, press the edges so as to crease them well, open the piece of paper out, so as to get Fig. 6; then crease C to C at back and front as you did to A A, so as to get Fig. 7 all creased; pinch the point B together and fold down the sides A A and C C to get the form Fig. 8.

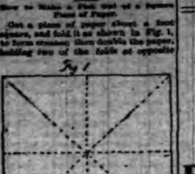

Fig 1

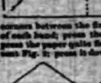

Fig 2

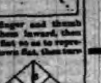

Fig 3

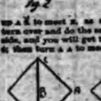

Fig 4

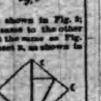

Fig 5

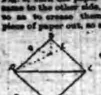

Fig 6

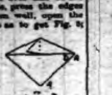

Fig 7

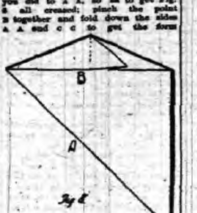

Fig 8

Fig. 7; open the flaps on each side marked A A in Fig. 7, and you will get Fig. 8; crease it up so as to make A meet E with B as in Fig. 8, and you will get Fig. 9; double up the point A to meet the fold E, and you will get Fig. 10; then turn up the point B to meet C, and make the ends point upward same as Fig. 11; turn them down as in Fig. 12 then your fish is complete.

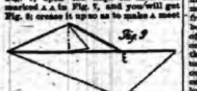

Fig 9

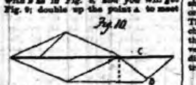

Fig 10

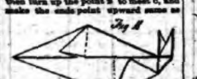

Fig 11

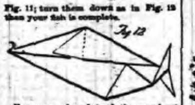

Fig 12

You can make a lot of these and get a fishing rod and line with a bent pin on the end, and one through the nose, as shown in Fig. 12, and arrange them about the table and fish. A number of persons can take part in the fun. The object is to see who can catch most fish. —Golden Days.

Keeping Warm.

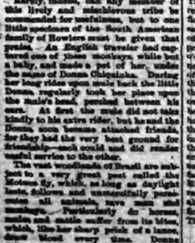
It is often said that residents of the extreme north do not feel the cold so keenly as the records of the mercury would lead one to expect. This fact, if it is a fact, may perhaps be accounted for in more ways than one, but the explanation offered by Mr. Julian Ralph, in his book "On Canada's Frontier," seems to be adequate. He says that the reason why the people do not suffer more from the low temperature is because "everyone puts on everything he owns—all his stockings at once, all his flannel shirts and drawers, all his coats on top of one another—and when there is nothing left, draws over all a blanket suit, a pair of moccasins, a tuque, and whatever pairs of gloves he happens to be able to find or borrow."

A USEFUL MONKEY.

How Donna Chiquinha Rewarded a Four-Footed Friend.

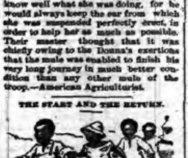
Rarely, indeed, can any member of this lively and mischievous tribe be commended for usefulness, but to one little specimen of the South American family of Howlers must be given that praise. An English traveler had captured one of these monkeys, while but a baby, and made a pet of her, under the name of Donna Chiquinha. During her long rides upon mule back the little Donna regularly took her place upon the mule's head, perched between his ears. At first the mule did not take kindly to his extra rider, but he and the Donna soon became attached friends, for they had the very best ground for friendship—each could and did render useful service to the other.

The vast woodlands of Brazil are subject to a very great pest called the Motuca fly, which, as long as daylight lasts, follows and unmercifully persecutes all animals, save man and monkeys. Particularly do horses, mules and cattle suffer from its bites, which, like the sharp prick of a lance, draw blood every time. Donna Chiquinha—with a gratitude which does her credit—soon saw that in return for the rides which she enjoyed so much, she could render the friend, the mule, a service by killing the flies which tormented him. She was very small, but being very lithe, or long-armed in proportion to her size, she would [illegible] hitch her tail firmly round one of the mule's long ears, and hanging herself from this, as from a pillar, would use both her tiny hands to clean the flies off of the mule's cheek, nostril and neck on one side, and then climbing over to the other ear would repeat the process on that side. The flies were so numerous that the little Donna was kept incessantly busy. The mule appeared to know well what she was doing, for he would always keep the ear from which she was suspended perfectly erect, in order to help her as much as possible. Their master thought that it was chiefly owing to the Donna's exertions that the mule was enabled to finish his very long journey in much better condition than any other mule of the troop.—American Agriculturist.

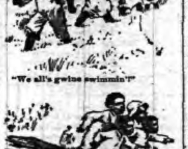


THE DONNA AND HER FRIEND.

THE START AND THE RETURN.



"We all's gwine swimmin'!"



"We all's gwine home!"—St. Nicholas.

AN OFFICIAL CAT.

One Who Enjoys All the Comforts of Home in the Produce Exchange.

It isn't every cat that has the good fortune to come into a settled income, but that pleasing distinction from the rest of his race is enjoyed by an animal attached to the produce exchange staff. He has had the job of looking after the mice and rats on the big exchange floor ever since his kittenhood, and he is now very nearly a full-grown cat, and a sizable one as well. Grain samples are sure to attract the rodents, and the produce exchange did not secure exemption from their visits. Traps were tried with some success, but the relief thus obtained was only temporary, and it was finally decided to resort to a cat. To secure one which would not run away at the first opportunity it was deemed wise to obtain a kitten, which, having no experience of the delights of midnight battles on back fences, would be satisfied to get along without them. The theory of this has proved to be correct. The cat never leaves the main floor of the building, and apparently is satisfied with the hunting ground it offers, spending the nights there with praiseworthy regularity. At nine o'clock each morning he gives up business and seeks rest in a carpeted corner of the superintendent's office. When the gong rings at three o'clock to warn the brokers that the exchange day is over the cat starts out to patrol his beat, making a leisurely circuit of the hall and completing it about the time that the last stragglers are disappearing. He is a good hunter and eclipses the achievements of the traps, his presence on the floor at night having resulted in rendering the rats and mice far less of a nuisance than they were. His pay comes in the shape of regular rations, while a polished metal collar about his neck shows that he is the "official" cat of the exchange.—N. Y. Times.

His Order Filled.

Guest—Got any good roast beef?

Waiter—Yes, sir.

Guest—Bring me one of your best cuts. I want it tender, juicy, not too well done, not too raw and with very little gravy. Have the fat and lean about equally divided, and be particular not to cut the slice thick. And don't forget the horseradish. Can you remember all that?

Waiter—Yes, sir. (Loudly) Roast beef, one.—Boston Globe.

His Motto.

"I am going to pay you that money I owe you," said one man to another on the street the other day.

"It's time you did," was the reply: "I thought you were never going to pay me."

"You were wrong then. Give the devil his due. That's my motto."—Cape Cod Item.

A Limited Go.

"I am not wealthy," he said; "but if the devotion of a true and tender heart goes for anything with you, Miss Clara—"

"It goes well enough with me, Mr. Spoonhill," interrupted the fair girl, with a meaning look on her face; "but [illegible] with it [illegible] [illegible]."—[illegible]

Was Sweet, Him Lover Too.

A six-foot spectator with a muscular arm and a hand like a smoked ham rushed in between the two young men who were pommeling, scratching and gouging each other, and separated them.

"If you don't stop this," he said, holding them at arm's length and shaking them till their teeth rattled, "I'll bump you together and break every bone in your worthless bodies! Now go!"

"That's all right," said the youth with the bruised eye and disfigured nose, picking up his hat and shaking his fist undismayed at the other young man. "I'll meet him in a football game some day where we can fight this out without interference!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Terrible Strain.

Son—If you think I can be a newspaper writer like you, what is the use of my taking up so many studies on subjects that newspapers never talk about?

Father (a dramatic critic)—They are simply for mental discipline, and the cultivation of the powers of memory, analysis, etc.

Son—What good will that do?

Father—If you do not acquire great powers of concentration, combined with wonderful penetration, backed by enormous retention, you will never be able to get the hang of the family history outlined by the servants in the first act of a new play.—Good News.

No Show for Him.

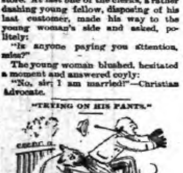
A pretty and altogether modest young Irish girl, evidently a nurse, stood patiently waiting her turn in a big drug store. At last one of the clerks, a rather dashing young fellow, disposing of his last customer, made his way to the young woman's side and asked, politely:

"Is anyone paying you attention, miss?"

The young woman blushed, hesitated a moment and answered coyly:

"No, sir; I am married!"—Christian Advocate.

"TRYING ON HIS PANTS."



—Life.

Fine Clothes.

"The soil of California is so fruitful," said a native of the Golden state, "that a man who accidentally dropped a box of matches in his field discovered the next year a fine forest of telegraph poles."

"That's nothing to my state," said a native of Illinois. "A cousin of mine who lives there lost a button off his jacket, and in less than a month he found a bran new suit of clothes hanging on a fence near the spot."—Texas Siftings.

A Puzzling Problem.

Scratchley—I have an order for a portrait of Gen. Thomas. How in the world can I find one to draw from?

Daubley—Why, there's one on a five-dollar bill.

Scratchley—But how in the world can I get a five-dollar bill?—Harper's Bazar.

His Beautiful Touch.

Mrs. Hostong—Sig. Klavierspiel, the pianist, has such a beautiful touch, hasn't he?

Mr. Bobberly—Yes, he touched me for five dollars in the conservatory a minute ago.—Chicago News Record.

A Chicago Dialogue.

Mrs. Penna—So their marriage was secret?

Mrs. Porcus—Alas, yes!

Mrs. Penna—How was it discovered?

Mrs. Porcus—The divorce proceedings were by publication.—Puck.

Reciprocity.

A Tailor Green—I like that young fellow. He takes anything I give him and never asks the price.

Old-Hand—And you take anything he gives you, too, when it comes to paying.—Detroit Free Press.

Johnny's Theory.

Mamma—What's the reason you and your sister can't get along without quarreling?

Little Johnny—I dunno. Mebby she takes after you, an' I take after papa.—Good News.

Lucky Man.

"Dobbs seems to be particularly happy in his domestic life."

"Well, you see, his wife belongs to a dozen organizations of one kind or other and he doesn't see her very often."—Judge.

Consoled.

Mr. Harroty—Why will you jilt me, Mabel? Don't you love me any more?

Mabel—Oh, no. It is not that I love you less, but that I love two or three other men much more.—Chicago News Record.

MISCELLANEOUS. MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.

3-26-)

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 19, 1893. No 3.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising.

SPACE	WEEKS 1	WEEKS 2	WEEKS 3	MONTHS 1	MONTHS 3	MONTHS [illegible]	MONTHS 6	MONTHS 12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jo6tf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 146, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIRS,
Dentist,
19 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jo6tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by mail. P. O. Box 100, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 8 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 51 E. Front street, corner Sandford street. jly1md

T. J. GILLIES,
uctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, near Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap1y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. f17yl

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING.
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
We are prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

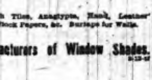
FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Embossed Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,



Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vandersloot's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carting business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST.

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—30 W. FRONT ST.
Large covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Careful attention. P. O. Box 1 [illegible]. Pianos moved and [illegible].

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
Pronounced the best cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA CIGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

J. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
SEGARS!!
20 PARK AVE. (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from [illegible] W. Front street, to [illegible] West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 30 NORTH AVENUE

C. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N.J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation,
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST,
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

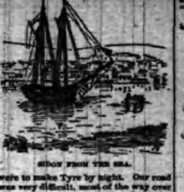
TYRE THEN AND NOW.

Memories of a Horseback Journey Through Palestine.

A Morning Ride Along the Coast of the Mediterranean—The Seat of Hiram, Friend of David and Solomon—Spurious Antiques.

[Special Letter.]

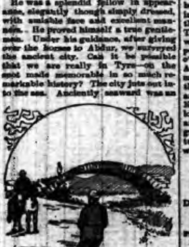
You may remember that our last trip was from Beirut to Sidon. We must not leave Sidon without visiting the magnificent groves of orange and lemon orchards for which this place is famous. Our ride in the early morning amid the heavy fragrance of the blossoms will not soon be forgotten. A young Syrian from Mr. Ford's mission school accompanied us as guide. We met a native woman carrying a wealth of splendid roses. Our guide secured a beautiful bud for each of us for our buttonholes. Leaving the rare old city of Sidon, with its wonderful memories, our route lay along the coast. We were to make Tyre by night. Our road was very difficult, most of the way over stones, part of the time along the beach, where we enjoyed a gallop now and then. Wild flowers abounded in great variety and beauty. We clambered over rocky summits and along the edge of steep precipices, down which we looked upon the deep blue water rolling in among the rocks. We forded four rivers, which were sometimes up to the horses' bellies—the Senik, the Zaherani, the Adassije, the Akbije and the Karasmije or Litany.



SIDON FROM THE SEA.

The latter is next to the Jordan, the longest river in Palestine, rising far up in the Lebanon mountains. At Abul-Agwad we lunched by the side of a picturesque ruin, the single arch of a stone bridge of Roman times. These Roman ruins are very frequent in Palestine; many of them are still serviceable, though dilapidated. The old Roman roads are still seen cut into the solid rock over the mountains. In sight of our luncheon ground, about three miles away, perched on the slope of a hill, we could see the village of Sarafand, the old Sarepta of Scripture, celebrated as the residence of the widow whom the prophet Elijah visited and whose barrel of meal and cruse of oil so wonderfully held out. Beyond Sarepta, on the shore at Adlun, we discovered large square holes cut in the rocks at a great height. These are ancient Phoenician caves, used doubtless for burial purposes. After fording the Litany, whose rushing waters nearly swept down Filippo with our pots and kettles, we had a splendid beach before us, and made a fine run until we reached the historic city of Tyre, jutting out into the sea. The grave group of turbaned Moslems who sat smoking their narghilyehs at the entrance of the city looked up with amazement as we came dashing along. A fine-faced young Syrian, who spoke excellent English, met us and volunteered to show us the city. We were at first shy of his services, knowing that such "services" usually meant an extortionate demand for "backsheesh."

He was a splendid fellow in appearance, elegantly though simply dressed, with amiable face and excellent manners. He proved himself a true gentleman. Under his guidance, after giving over the horses to Abdur, we surveyed the ancient city. Can it be possible that we are really in Tyre—on the spot made memorable in so much remarkable history? The city juts out into the sea. Anciently seaward was an island connected with the mainland by a bridge. Alexander filled up the space and united the island with the mainland. Here was the manufacture of the ancient purple from the murex shells washed up by the sea. Here was the seat of "Hiram, king of Tyre," the friend of David and Solomon, who sent the great cedar logs for the temple down by sea to Joppa. Extending several miles along the shore and, perhaps, two miles inland, with her ships covering the Mediterranean, her merchant princes renowned throughout the Orient, her colonies at Cadiz, Carthage and other points rivaling the mother city, ancient Tyre was, indeed, a splendid center of Phoenician culture.



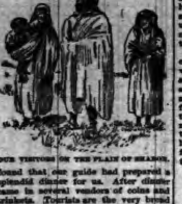
ROMAN BRIDGE AT ABUL-ASWAD.

In the height of her prosperity the prophet's "woe" was uttered against her. Ezekiel's description of the glory of the city is very striking: "O thou that dwellest at the entry of the sea, which art the merchant of the people unto many isles—thy borders are in the heart of the seas; thy builders have perfected thy beauty; they have made all thy planks of fir trees from Senir; they have taken cedars from Lebanon to make a mast for thee. Of the oaks of Bashan have they made thine oars; they have made thy benches of ivory inlaid in box wood from the isles of Kittim. Of fine linen with broidered work from Egypt was thy sail, that it might be to thee for an ensign; blue and purple from the isles of Elishah was thine awning." All her glory was to fade—kings were to come up against her, to spoil her merchandise and break down her walls. She was to become a bare rock on which fishermen would spread their nets. Wonderfully has the prophecy been fulfilled. Nebuchadnezzar with his chariots and horses overthrew her. Alexander with his conquering might mastered her. Her glorious commerce declined. And now as we walked by the sea there could be seen in the water covered with seaweed many splendid granite columns, sometimes groups of fifteen, here and there single ones, relics of her former magnificence. I picked up delicate bits of mosaic where the sea had undermined what had been the floors of ancient houses.

I watched a fisherman casting his net and afterwards spreading it upon the rock. "There," said our Tyrian friend, "you see for yourself the fulfillment of prophecy, the fisherman spreading his net upon the rock on which Tyre stood." Further inland are the ruins of the great church of St. John, where were placed the remains of Frederic Barbarossa and of the great Origen. In the midst of dirt and filth lay several splendid columns and pillars of rose granite. About three miles inland among wild, rocky hills is a single gray sarcophagus hollowed out so as just to admit a body. It rests upon a rude pedestal of upright unhewn stones. This is called by the natives "Kabr Hiram," or the tomb of Hiram. Another monument of great antiquity is the celebrated reservoir south of Tyre, called Ras-el-Ain, "the head of the spring." This is the spot to which mediaeval tradition attached the visit of Christ to Tyre. He rested on a large rock and sent Peter and John to bring him some water thence, which He drank, and blessed the beautiful spot whence it came.

Walking among the prostrate columns of the seashore sunset overtook us. Rarely is it given to mortals to behold a more gorgeous sight than that which greeted our eyes in the trailing glories of the declining sun, as earth, sea and sky were bathed in the purple radiance of this glorious evening hour. Accompanying us on our walk was a clergyman from London and a Tyrian merchant. The latter spoke French very well. He assured me that he was coming to the world's fair at Chicago and was going to bring with him many "antiques" from Syria.

We were quartered at the private residence of a Greek named Thomas. We found that our guide had prepared a splendid dinner for us. After dinner came in several vendors of coins and trinkets. Tourists are the very bread of many of these people. There is said to be a factory of "antiques" here in Tyre to supply the market, and so skillful are the imitations that it is difficult for any except an expert to detect the fraud.



OUR VISITORS ON THE PLAIN OF SHARON.

In some cases rich treasure has been found as at Sidon a few years ago. This excited the natives to a high pitch, so that many betook themselves to digging in hopes of making a similar find. Many spend all their time, using all their magical incantation to discover if possible the hiding place of the gold which will suddenly enrich them. Many coins of the time of Alexander, one of the later Roman period, may be purchased for from ten to fifty cents apiece.

At six o'clock the next morning, after a sound sleep on the floor in the "house of Thomas," we were in the saddle and off for a forty-mile ride to Mount Carmel over a rocky road. The first half of the road was exceedingly difficult. We made two remarkable climbs, one at Ras-el-Abjad and the other at Ras-en-Nakura. The Arabic word "Ras" signifies headland. These two headlands were rocky promontories of limestone rising ruggedly and steep about a thousand feet above the sea. The first is called the ladder of Tyre. Here you can see the Roman road cut in the rock. Over this road traveled the Roman armies when they took the coast route. Passing over Ras-en-Nakura a wonderful panorama lay before us—the entire stretch of the coast, with Mount Carmel standing out boldly in the distance, and the city of Accho or Acre, with its gleaming white minarets, midway. We lunched by the side of a little stream by the village of El Bassa. Here we had our first real quarrel with Abdur, the Arab. He refused to feed the horses—said he had no barley. He swore all the Arabic oaths in his repertory but finally produced the grain and sullenly fed the animals. The mukari, or horseman, must be watched or he will starve the horses to put the money in his pocket. At two o'clock in the afternoon we reached Acre, with its moats and bastions, reminders of the wonderful history of this city in the wars of the Crusades and the Syrian campaign of Napoleon. No city on the coast has had such a long line of sieges and surrenders. The afternoon was beautiful and the lovely green outside the city presented a picturesque sight with its turbaned and white-robed Moslems.

AMOS W. PAYNE.

BLAINE'S RESIDENCES.

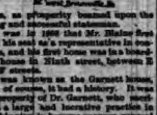
Did He Tempt Providence in Purchasing the Seward Mansion?

From Washington Boarding House and Furnished Rooms to Palatial Mansions—Where "Twenty Years of Congress" Was Written.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

Washington is a city of reminiscences as well as a center of events. The memory of other days seems always to linger in the air. The very stones in the streets here have a history and every house a romance.

Just now the dwellings where the Blaine family have found abiding places during the past thirty years have a peculiar interest. They are like illustrations of the family history, commencing humbly and modestly, and developing comfort, elegance and even magnificence, as prosperity beamed upon the rising and successful statesman.

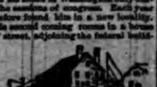


Bowen's [illegible]
[illegible]

It was in 1863 that Mr. Blaine first took his seat as a representative in congress, and his first home was in a boarding house in Ninth street, between E and F streets.

It was known as the Garnett house, and, of course, it had a history. It was the property of Dr. Garnett, who sacrificed a large and lucrative practice in Washington to become surgeon general of the confederate army. The house was seized by the federal government, but was restored to the family at the close of the war.

In the early days of his congressional career Mr. Blaine, like his colleagues, made his home in Washington only during the sessions of congress. Each year therefore found him in a new locality. At his second coming rooms in a house on F street, adjoining the federal building, were taken. Senator Fessenden, of Maine, was a neighbor in this house, which has recently been demolished.

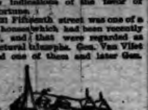


[illegible] where Blaine was first [illegible]

The next abiding place was No. [illegible] F street, in a house adjoining the Morrill residence, and which he shared with Lot Morrill. F street at that time was not the business thoroughfare that it now is, and the house and locality were both regarded as desirable.

In 1869 Mr. Blaine was elected speaker of the Forty-first congress. Naturally his social obligations were enlarged, and the family sought a home in which they would maintain in a becoming manner the dignity of his new position. A house in Fifteenth street, No. 821, was purchased and their style of living in the new residence gave unmistakable indications of the favor of dame fortune.

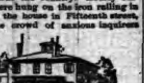
No. 821 Fifteenth street was one of a row of houses which had been recently erected, and that were regarded as architectural triumphs. Gen. Van Vliet occupied one of them and later Gen. Sherman another. Fernando Wood had a fine residence at the corner of I street in the near vicinity.



Home at Bar Harbor.

The ten years that the Blaines lived in Fifteenth street were rich in interest. The family circle was unbroken, and the shadows that of late years have hung over them were not even specks upon the horizon. It was not until they had definitely decided to remove from there that the specter of trouble peeped in at the door.

The Sunday prior to the republican convention at Cincinnati, as Mr. Blaine was returning with Mrs. Blaine from service at church, he received a sunstroke. He was borne to his home in an unconscious condition, and it was feared that he never again would see the light of day. The greatest excitement prevailed in Washington and throughout the country. Hourly bulletins were hung on the iron railing in front of the house in Fifteenth street, that the crowd of anxious inquirers might be duly informed of his condition. At last the danger point was passed and Mr. Blaine was restored to usefulness, although he has never known perfect health since that almost fatal day.



Blaine's Home at Augusta, Me.

The home of the Blaine family was still in Fifteenth street when Mr. Blaine was tendered the portfolio of the state department by President Garfield. They had, however, in process of construction a fine mansion on Dupont circle, the ultra-fashionable quarter of the city.

It was no doubt with a view to state entertainments that the Blaines planned the more pretentious dwelling, but once again was exemplified the old proverb that "Man proposes and God disposes." Garfield's knell had sounded, and Blaine was a private citizen when its doors opened to receive them.

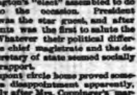
One memorable event in the family occurred during the social season that the Blaines resided in their palatial home. The eldest daughter of the house, Alice Stanwood Blaine, was married to Col. John F. Coppinger, of the United States army.

Col. Coppinger was a disciple of the church of Rome, and in deference to his religious faith an altar was erected in the drawing-room, and the marriage was solemnized according to the rites of the Roman Catholic church.

Washington's "elect" assembled to do honor to the occasion. President Arthur was the star guest, and after her parents was the first to salute the bride. Whatever their political differences, the chief magistrate and the deposed secretary of state seemed socially to be en rapport.

The Dupont circle home proved something of a disappointment apparently, for shortly after Mrs. Coppinger's marriage, the house was leased to L. Z. Leiter, the Chicago millionaire, and as the Leiter mansion it is best known to sightseers in Washington.

It would seem that Dupont circle still had charms for the family, however, for they selected as their next residence a house owned by Secretary Windom, located within a few doors of their own deserted home. It was here that the first chapters of "Twenty Years of Congress" were written.

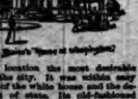


The old Seward Mansion at Washington [illegible]

Mr. Blaine found the location too remote from the busy centers to be altogether pleasing. So another move was made; and Lafayette square was the spot next chosen. The house which this time received them adjoined Gen. Beale's, and here they remained until "Twenty Years of Congress" was completed. Washington people consider that season as one of the most interesting in the private life of Mr. Blaine. The house is now the property of Mrs. Scott-Townsend, daughter of the late Representative Scott, of Pennsylvania.

When called to the position of premier in the cabinet of President Harrison, Mr. Blaine established himself at the Hotel Normandie until he could select a residence which seemed to answer the requirements of the situation.

The house, No. 17 Madison place, known as the Seward mansion, was in point of location the most desirable place in the city. It was within easy distance of the white house and the department of state. Its old-fashioned architecture recalling the old colonial mansions may have weighed in its favor, too, and the fact that it was admirably situated to catch every sunbeam, possibly decided its purchase.



Blaine's Home at Washington.

Superstitious people gravely shook their heads when it became known that the Blaines had purchased the place. Since the assassination of Mr. Seward there they asserted the house had had an evil name, and there were those who deemed it almost tempting Providence to cross the threshold. It had fallen into a state of absolute dilapidation from want of care, for it had been without an occupant for a long time.

Nothing daunted by the lugubrious tales the Blaines put an army of workmen into the old house, and it was speedily transformed from a threatening ruin to an abode of elegance and comfort, with a charm of quaintness unknown to the modern house. Old-fashioned furniture, in harmony with the colonial features, was brought from the home in Augusta, Me. Rare paintings, souvenirs of the late visit to Europe, were hung. Other decorations that had adorned their numerous Washington homes also found place, and when the last touch was given it would have been difficult to find a more attractive home throughout the land than the old Seward mansion had become.

The place had known many changes in its long existence. Once, when a boardinghouse, President Polk gave it prestige by residing there for several months while repairs were being made at the white house. Again it was used for government offices. When Secretary Seward made it his home it was the center of Washington's most brilliant society. Before its doors was enacted the tragedy of Gen. Sickles' life. It was there he shot Key, the betrayer of his wife.

Of all the clouds that have hovered about it none have been more somber than those that have descended on the Blaine family. Death's first victim in this circle was claimed within its walls, and the dread destroyer was insatiable, for a second followed quickly in the footsteps of the first. Mrs. Coppinger and Walker Blaine died within a few weeks of each other in the old house. Wedding bells have once rung forth from there, when the daughter Margaret became Mrs. Damrosch, but they were muffled and soon followed by a third bereavement, the death of Emmons Blaine. Surely the last home of the Blaines in Washington has been a house of mourning.

GUSTAVE BINE.

THE USEFUL REINDEER.

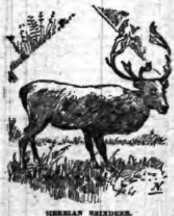
It Furnishes Everything Needed in a Siberian Family.

Some Wealthy Owners Are Said to Have Herds of Ten Thousand Head—The Cruise of the Revenue Cutter "Bear."

The government revenue cutter Bear, which returned from a summer of cruising about in Alaskan waters, brings many stories of adventure and sport, but none more interesting than such as relates to the game and flesh supplies of the Aleuts, says the San Francisco Examiner. The Bear, after doing a round of inspection which included the seal islands, steamed 200 miles northward from St. Paul's island to St. Matthews, where it was said polar bears were very numerous. St. Matthews was found to be uninhabited except that one lone hunter was found who had been left there in the preceding summer with two companions to shoot bears, but as a showing for a year's labor had but one mangy bearskin, and had lost his fellow-hunters, who sailed away one day and never returned.

Part of the mission of the cutter Bear during the summer was to transport reindeer from Siberia to Alaska. The whale and walrus have grown so few and so shy since the use of improved machinery for capturing them that the Aleuts of Alaska, who depended upon those marine mammals for nearly everything in the way of food, clothing, fuel and general support, have many times been starved because they could not kill either whales or walrus.

Some philanthropist suggested that the American Esquimau might take kindly to reindeer if introduced, and eventually own them in such numbers as to insure a supply of food. The department of the interior became interested, and congress appropriated $15,000 for the experiment. The Bear made five trips between Port Clarence, on the American side, and the Siberian ports from which the reindeer were drawn. The tradition that Siberian herdsmen would not part with live reindeer, although willing to kill and sell them, was proved untrue. There was no difficulty in buying all the deer that could be spared, and during the summer 180 of the animals were carried by the Bear to Port Clarence, a fine harbor fifty miles south from Cape Prince of Wales, where a house was built for the keepers, two white men employed by the government, and a hut for four Siberian herders engaged to stay with the deer for a year.



SIBERIAN REINDEER.

In Siberia reindeer were seen in herds numbering as many as 3,000, and some owners are reputed to possess 10,000 deer. The strange beasts furnish everything needed in a Siberian family, and as the conditions in Alaska are suitable, it is believed that the Aleuts can be taught to properly care for reindeer. The deer secured for Alaska were caught by rounding up the herd, and compelling the beasts to pass between lines of natives, a dozen or more on each side, each of whom had a lasso. As the deer passed, the selected ones were roped and driven to the beach, from where they were carried hobbled in boats alongside the cutter, and hoisted to the deck by slinging them in hammocks.

The officers of the Bear had the rarest of sport with their guns at many points touched. In St. Lawrence bay a day's shooting of eider ducks brought to bag 104 of those splendid birds. In the middle of June last the Bear was jammed in heavy ice near St. Lawrence island, and was surrounded by walrus, which were sleeping, sunning and enjoying themselves by hundreds on the ice. The ungainly brutes were occasionally hunted and six in all were killed. It was found that they must be shot through the head to insure getting them. When hit anywhere else they always managed to flounder to open water and then immediately sink. By getting to windward of a drove of walrus and creeping over the ice they were readily approached. Then each hunter selected his mark and all fired at once. The native hunters sometimes kill a whole herd. A rifle shot does not seem to alarm them, and if the bullet hits the head the walrus sinks quietly to the ice. But if shot elsewhere it begins to flounder, and then every animal within sight makes for the water.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

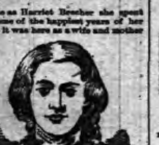
Originals of Some of the Characters in the Great Book.

The Cincinnati Life of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe—Her Preparation for the Writing of America's Greatest Story—Underground Railroad.

[Special Cincinnati (O.) Letter.]

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe spent over a quarter of a century of her life in Cincinnati, coming here with the family when her father, Lyman Beecher, assumed charge of Lane Theological seminary, and remaining until, as the wife of Prof. Calvin E. Stowe, she accompanied him to Maine when he became president of Bowdoin college. The Beechers lived at that time on Walnut Hills, a suburb of the city, and their girlhood home of Harriet Beecher is now owned and occupied by Rev. Dr. Monfort, editor and proprietor of the Herald and Presbyter, a Presbyterian official organ. Here the girlhood and young womanhood of Harriet Beecher was spent in the pursuit of a happiness and usefulness, the product of the rich intellectual and busy Christian life that surrounded her. Her most intimate and loved friend was Eliza Tyler, the first wife of Prof. Stowe, whose early death brought a mutual sorrow and sympathy that kindled the love that made Prof. Stowe and Harriet Beecher man and wife.

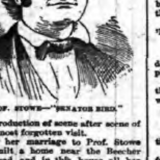
While as Harriet Beecher she spent here some of the happiest years of her life, so it was here as a wife and mother that she passed through the fiery furnace of affliction, suffering, sickness, poverty and grief that enriched the luxuriance of her life's prime. Her associations were those of intellectual refinement, and in her daily life she walked in the midst of influences that quickened heart and mind. Among her intimate acquaintances were Archbishop Purcell, Dr. Drake, Hon. A. H. McGuffey, Mrs. Peters, afterward founder of the Philadelphia school of design; Mrs. Caroline Hentz and Salmon P. Chase, with all of whom she was associated in a literary society known as the Semicolon club, an aggregation of the brightest minds in the early history of Cincinnati.



MRS. STOWE, WHEN UNCLE TOM'S CABIN WAS WRITTEN.

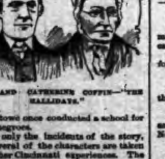
Her first literary work was done as a contributor to the entertainments of this club, and the necessity of putting forth her best efforts in rivalry with the brilliant minds of the company did much in training her in that excellent and attractive style that gave such a charm to all she wrote. But it was only by the most indomitable energy and patience that she carried on her literary labors after marriage. She felt the claims of her family to be paramount to all else, and amid the distracting cares of a large household, an insufficient income, frequent maternity and heavy bereavements in the loss of children and other dear ones she managed to save but little time for writing.

All this time the subject of slavery was crowding itself more and more upon her mind. The materials for certain chapters of the future book lay ready in her mind, and were constantly being added to as the cloud around her, that finally burst into war, grew darker. Before her marriage, in company with a fellow teacher, she visited at a Kentucky estate answering closely to the description of Col. Shelby's in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The novel sight of negro slaves and their manner of life seemed to attract but little of her attention, and while others of the party laughed and enjoyed the pranks of the well-fed and well-cared-for negroes, she seemed absorbed with other thoughts. Years afterward, however, her companion recognized in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" the reproduction of scene after scene of that almost forgotten visit.



PROF. STOWE—"SENATOR BIRD."

After her marriage to Prof. Stowe they built a home near the Beecher homestead and in this house all her children were born. It was while living in this house that she gathered the materials and laid the foundation for her immortal book. For this work she could not have been more favorably situated. Cincinnati was on the border between the two civilizations and Mrs. Stowe's opportunity for studying both, each in relation to the other, was unsurpassed. The abolitionists and the slavery advocates were in constant strife and the clash of the conflict echoed through her daily life. The main thoroughfare of the "Underground Railroad" in the west was through Cincinnati, and the most active and influential men on both sides had their homes in the city—Chase, Birney and Coffin, of the first; Nevill, Longworth and Graham, of the second—one party engaged in assisting the slaves to escape, the other in combating this effort and in capturing them and returning them to their masters. From the many exciting incidents in this struggle she drew much material for her famous book, to which were added many personal experiences from visits to Kentucky, a slave state, where she saw the slaves at their best in the west; from reports of people who had traveled in the extreme south where slavery was at its worst, and from the narratives of escaped slaves. The house in which she then lived in this city still stands, though occupied by strangers to the life that once brightened it. In this house Mrs. Stowe once conducted a school for freed negroes.

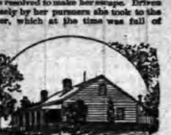


LEVI AND CATHERINE COFFIN—"THE HALLIDAYS."

Not only the incidents of the story, but several of the characters are taken from her Cincinnati experiences. The Simeon and Rachel Halliday of the story were Levi and Catherine Coffin, earnest and active Quaker abolitionists, the former for thirty years president of the underground railroad in the west, who according to the inscription on his monument in one of the Cincinnati cemeteries assisted ten thousand fugitive slaves to liberty. He was a native of North Carolina.

The character of John Van Tromp is drawn from the life of John Van Zandt, a Quaker born in Kentucky who moved to Ohio long before the war and settled on a farm north of Cincinnati near the present suburb of Glendale. He identified himself with the underground work and was more than once arrested for the part he took in assisting runaway slaves to get to Canada. In most of these trials he was defended by Salmon P. Chase.

The young girl who furnished the name of Eliza Harris to the character was a slave girl from Kentucky, the property of a man who lived a few miles from the Ohio river, opposite Ripley, O. Her master and mistress were kind to her and she had a comfortable home until financial embarrassment forced the master to sell his slaves. When Eliza learned that she and her only living child were to be separated she resolved to make her escape. Driven closely by her pursuers she took to the river, which at the time was full of floating ice, and made the passage as described in the story. She was almost benumbed from cold and exhausted when she reached the Ohio shore, and would have drowned on the border of liberty had not a man who watched her daring feat assisted her up the bank. The name of this man is lost, but she was taken to the home of Rev. John Rankin, a Presbyterian minister, whose descendants still live at Ripley, and cared for. Thence she was forwarded through Cincinnati to the house of Levi Coffin, then at Newport, Ind., just over the Ohio line, and from there was sent to Canada. The young girl who was rescued through the humanity of John Van Zandt was Eliza Buck, one of Mrs. Stowe's servants. She was a slave from Kentucky who had come into the state of Ohio by consent of her master to visit friends, an indulgence often granted to Kentucky slaves, hostages being held for her return. Under the laws of Ohio such slaves once across the river were free.



RESIDENCE OF REV. JOHN RANKIN, RIPLEY, O.—"ELIZA'S REFUGE."

Eliza became a servant in the family of Mrs. Stowe and resolved not to return to Kentucky, a resolution in which she found much encouragement. But after some time word reached Prof. Stowe that the girl's master was in Cincinnati looking for her, her hostage having escaped. Though secure under the law, there were nevertheless unscrupulous justices ready to serve those who paid them, and the slaveholders knew them. Prof. Stowe determined to carry the girl to some place of greater safety until the inquiry for her was ended. At night he secured a horse and wagon, and in company with Henry Ward Beecher performed for Eliza the kind and perilous service attributed to the character of Senator Byrd.

Another character in the story is Richard Dillingham, a young Quaker from Morrow county, O., who came to Cincinnati to teach the negroes, and whose enthusiasm carried him to Nashville in behalf of a slave, where he was arrested and imprisoned and died before his release.

The only one of all the characters now living, so far as known, is the man who furnished the character of George Harris. This man is Lewis George Clark, now living at Oberlin, O. There has been dispute of his claim, but he steadfastly asserts he is the original. He too crossed the Ohio at Ripley and was assisted north into Clinton county, where he found refuge among the Quakers until he could be passed on to Canada.

GEORGE S. McDOWELL.

Why He Thought So.

Tommy—Will your name be changed when you marry sister?

Young Man—Oh, no; her name will be changed. What made you think that?

"Why, pa said your name would be 'Dennis' when you married her."—Jury.

It Sounded Mysterious.

Peters—And then he unlocked the door and swore that everything in the place should be burned.

Mrs. Peters (entering in time to hear the concluding sentence)—Unlocked what place?

Peters—The coal cellar!—Truth.

Evidence as to a Great Theory.

"Do you believe in the transmigration of souls?"

"I didn't, but I do now. There's my friend Jenkins who was a man two months ago, and since he's been in society he's been a donkey."—Chicago News Record.

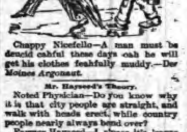
Cause for Happiness.

She—Darling, am I the first girl you ever kissed?

He—No, dearest, but you're the last one.

She—Oh, you don't know how happy it makes me to know that.—Des Moines Argonaut.

AN UNNECESSARY PRECAUTION.



Chappy Nicefello—A man must be deucid cahful these days oah he will get his clothes feahfully muddy.—Des Moines Argonaut.

Mr. Hayseed's Theory.

Noted Physician—Do you know why it is that city people are straight, and walk with heads erect, while country people nearly always bend over?

Farmer Hayseed—I s'pose it's 'cause country people hain't got any tall buildin's to look up at.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Mother's Description.

"Your little girl has red hair, hasn't she, Mrs. Minks?"

"No, indeed. Her hair is a rich auburn, tinged with light terra cotta."—Chicago News Record.

Excusable Familiarity.

He—That friend of yours is very familiar. He slapped me on the back and called me "old man."

She—So he told me. He said he had forgotten your name.—Life.

A Mad Cat.

Little Dot—Oh, mamma, I'm afraid the cat's got the hydrophobia.

Mamma—Mercy me! Why?

Little Dot—I threw some water on her, and she gave an awful yowl.—Good News.

Same Thing.

Dolley—Do you ever have hash at your boarding house?

Dumplin—Never; but we have croquettes every other day.—Brooklyn Life.

Literary Note.

Friend (with manuscript)—I flatter myself with the hope that this poem will meet with your approval.

Editor—Yes, you flatter yourself.—Alex. E. Sweet.

Accommodating.

"Deary, will you elope with me?"

"Yes, George, just as soon as papa and mamma have made all the arrangements."—Chicago News Record.

A Boy's Synonym.

Willie—Poppy, gimme some of the impudence on my turkey.

Poppy—Some of what?

Willie—Sauce.—Harper's Bazar.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

France is one of the richest of nations, because her people are free to earn, practically economic, and whose personal savings aggregate enormous wealth. That fact was demonstrated by patriotic home subscriptions to all the large national loans made necessary by the Franco-German war.

Frenchmen, unlike Americans, are not inclined to tamely submit to official malfeasance and crooked financiering.

The Panama Canal stock was chiefly taken by small French capitalists, and that gigantic scheme having collapsed, confiding investors have nothing left for repayment but a useless half-dug ditch and decaying equipments in a foreign land.

Hence there is justly founded popular excitement throughout France.

What became of our money is the question at issue?

Investigations now going on in France relative to the affairs of the Panama Canal Company reveal a terrific extent of fraud and corruption. Bribery of legislators and officials, high and low, to secure favors, millions of francs lavishly squandered on Tom, Dick and Harry, machinery paid for but not delivered, and supplies furnished at exorbitant rates, are among the glaring offenses brought to light.

It is well for the industrious masses of France to demand retribution, stern and sure, as such a course can only save them from a repetition of like outrages.

If the American people were equally wise, they would open a fierce crusade against similar rascalities in this country, and silence not a gun until Honesty was the proclaimed victor.

SENATORIAL.

It is evident that the proposition to change the mode of electing United States Senators from State Legislatures to the direct popular vote of each State is growing in favor.

California has already expressed through the ballot boxes approval of such an altered plan, and no doubt other States will in time follow her example. The suggestion certainly deserves mature consideration.

The asserted benefits to be derived from choosing members of the National Senate by a direct vote of the people, in the same way that Governors are chosen, appear sound, foremost among them being the probability that a superior order of men, both as regards good personal repute and statesman ability, would be commissioned to fill seats once occupied by such acknowledged celebrities as Clay, Calhoun, Webster, Benton, Bayard and Sumner.

The Senate of the United States, having for its constituency a galaxy of sovereign commonwealths, is the most honorable legislative body in the world, and ought to be above reproach. It was once renowned for dignity and intelligence, but, unfortunately, latter years detract, in a great measure, from its former illustrious character.

To bring it back and upward to the standard of clear-headed and patriotic statesmanship would prove a glorious reform, adding alike to the fame of country and the welfare of the people.

GOV. WERTS' INAUGURAL.

The inauguration ceremonies of Gov. Geo. T. Werts, at Trenton, on Tuesday last were impressive and grand. Tayler's Opera House was packed with spectators, a large proportion of whom were ladies. Justice Beasley administered the oath of office, after which Gov. Werts read his inaugural address, in a clear and distinct voice, and was frequently loudly applauded. The document is an able one, and treats of various subjects. He denounces monopolies and advocates ballot reform for local self-government, and the smashing of machines and ring rule. His concluding remarks were:

"Having regard to the injunction, 'Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off,' I propose to make no pledge beyond that of a sincere and conscientious endeavor faithfully and impartially to discharge the duties I now assume. May God bless this new administration and grant peace, happiness and prosperity to the State of New Jersey."

Rutherford B. Hayes, ex-President of the United States, died at his home in Freemont, Ohio, on Tuesday evening last, from neuralgia of the heart.

What the Hump Is For.

"Can you tell me, my friend," said the elderly gentleman to the keeper of the camel, "what the hump on that animal's back is for?"

"What's it for?"

"Yes; of what value is it?"

"Well, it's lots of value. The camel wouldn't be no good without it."

"Why not?"

"Why not? Yer don't suppose people would pay a quarter to see a camel without any hump on him, do yer?"
—Boston Globe.

Her Afterthought.

Before bidding her good night he begged to be permitted to kiss her.

"O, no," she said; "I could not permit such a thing. Besides, somebody might see us."

"That's true," he said.

There was a pause, after which she said, with a light laugh:

"How quiet it is here. There appears to be nobody about."—N. Y. Press.

Only One Drawback.

Caller—And so you have a good girl at last.

Suburban Hostess—Yes, a perfect jewel. But there is one drawback.

"What is that?"

"She has six children, and my husband and I have to take care of them while she gets the meals."—N. Y. Weekly.

Trouble in the Pantry.

"You are altogether too fresh," said the potato to the egg, "and I have my eyes on you."

"Now, look here, Irish," said the egg, "I dare say you have a good heart, but remember that when we come to scramble for a living you're not in it with me."—Life.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES

Death of the Ex-President at His Home in Fremont, O., Last Night.

THE END CAME PEACEFULLY AND HE WAS CONSCIOUS TO THE LAST.

He Had Been a Sufferer from Neuralgia of the Heart, but Only Within the Past Two Days Had His Condition Been Alarming—No Arrangements Yet Made for the Funeral—Sketch of His Career.

FREMONT, O., Jan. 18.—Although Rutherford B. Hayes, ex-President of the United States, had been ill for only a day or two, his death was not a complete surprise. He was a sufferer from neuralgia of the heart.

The end came at 11 o'clock last night. Most of the members of his family were present when he passed away. Consciousness did not at any time desert him.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

Rutherford Burchard Hayes, nineteenth President of the United States, was born at Delaware, O., Oct. 4, 1822, and graduated at Kenyon college in 1842. He was admitted to the bar at Marietta, O., in 1845, and entered upon the practice of law first at Fremont, O., and then at Cincinnati.

At the outbreak of the Civil War he was one of the first to offer his services, and he was made major of a regiment of Ohio volunteers.

He was ordered to service in Western Virginia, and was subsequently joined to the Army of the Potomac under Gen. McClellan, and took part in the operations pertaining to the Confederate invasion of Maryland in September, 1862.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

In November, 1862, he was made colonel of his regiment, which was subsequently on duty in Virginia, West Virginia, and elsewhere.

He was promoted to the rank of brigadier-general of volunteers, and brevetted major-general for gallant and distinguished services during the campaign of 1864.

Four Times Wounded.

In the course of his army service he was four times wounded, and had four horses shot under him.

At the close of the war in June, 1865, he resigned his commission. He had previously been elected a Representative in Congress from Ohio, and took his seat in December, 1865. He was re-elected for the following term, but resigned in 1867, having been elected Governor of Ohio, to which he was re-elected in 1869, and again in 1875.

His repeated success in Ohio induced the Republican National convention in 1876 to nominate him for President, after a deadlock between the two great forces in the party led respectively by Senator Roscoe Conkling and Speaker James G. Blaine.

When the election had taken place it seemed certain that of the 369 Electoral votes 184 would be cast for Mr. Tilden, the Democratic candidate, being one less than a majority; 172 were equally sure for Mr. Hayes; but there were 13 Electors in respect to whose election there were grave questions in dispute.

If only one of these votes should be counted for Mr. Tilden he would have a majority and would consequently become President. In order to secure the election of Mr. Hayes, all of these thirteen votes must be counted for him.

As the Republicans had a majority in the Senate and the Democrats in the House, it was certain that the two branches of Congress would not agree in the counting of the disputed votes.

The Hayes-Tilden Election.

In the emergency a proposition was made by the Democratic leaders to submit the entire question to an Electoral Commission composed of five Senators, five Representatives and five Judges of the Supreme Court.

This commission, by a majority of one, decided that the disputed votes should all be counted for Mr. Hayes, giving him a majority of one vote, and he was duly elected.

He endeavored to prevent the remonetization of silver at more than its intrinsic value, but his veto was overridden by the constitutional two-thirds majority in Congress. He firmly maintained, against a large majority of both branches of Congress, the resumption of specie payments.

Both the Senate and the House vigorously opposed his efforts at a reform of the civil service, so that the bill prohibiting political assessment on office holders was the only law on the subject of which he secured the passage.

On March 4, 1881, he was succeeded in the Presidency by Mr. Garfield, and has since resided at his home at Fremont, Ohio.

Since his retirement from political life he has been actively engaged in educational, philanthropic and other work of general interest.

He was president of the National Prison Reform Association and of the Slater Education Fund for the negroes; was a member of the Peabody Education Fund for the South; was commander of the military order of the Loyal League of the United States.

The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Kenyon College, Harvard University, Yale College and Johns Hopkins University.

GOVERNOR WERTS NOW

Jersey's Government Changes Hands To-day.

THE INAUGURATION CEREMONIES.

James Smith, Jr., Unanimously Nominated for United States Senator by the Democratic Joint Caucus—Republicans Name Gen. Sewell—The Senator-elect.

TRENTON, Jan. 17.—To-day Gov. Abbett steps down and out, and Gov. George T. Werts is being inducted into office.

The Legislature, which had assembled this morning, adjourned at 11 o'clock, and proceeded from the State House to the Grand Opera House, where the inauguration ceremonies are being held.

Gov. Abbett, Gov.-elect Werts, and the other State officers met at the State House, and were driven to the opera house in carriages.

The Gov.-elect was escorted by the Werts Light Guards, of Morristown, his home.

After the transfer of the reins of government Gov. Werts will hold a reception, and later in the afternoon there will be a second reception, principally for ladies and children.

This evening there will be another reception at the State House.

Smith Nominated for Senator.

The second week of the Legislative session opened last night. About 8 o'clock word was passed among the members that a joint caucus would be held immediately after the adjournment of both houses.

The announcement that the caucus would be for the settlement of the United States Senatorship created some surprise. The members were not expecting the caucus to be held until next Monday night.

Later it was announced that neither the President of the Senate nor the Speaker of the House would name the Standing Committees just now.

The joint caucus was held in the Assembly chamber at ten o'clock and in less than half an hour Mr. Smith became the nominee of the Democrats for United States Senator. Gov. Abbett withdrew at the last moment from the battle.

Senator Barrett of Essex presided over the caucus and Mr. Lane of Union was chosen secretary. Nominations being at once declared in order, Senator Marsh of Union arose and announced that Gov. Abbett had released his friends from their obligations to support him and that he would therefore withdraw his name.

President of the Senate Adrian then took the floor and nominated "Jimmie" Smith, jr. He spoke of his service to the party and of his ability, evoking much applause.

Assemblyman Timothy Barrett of Essex seconded Mr. Smith's nomination and then the roll was called and the nomination was effected by a unanimous vote.

The Republicans held their caucus in the Senate Chamber and gave the honor of the nomination of Senator to Gen. William J. Sewell, of Camden. Gen. E. Burd Grubb was also a candidate, but received only two votes.

James Smith, Jr.

James Smith, jr., is a native of Newark, where he was born in 1841. He is a member of the big leather firm of Smith & Halsey. His first office was that of Councilman in 1883. Although the ward in which he lived was Republican, he was elected by a very large majority, and at once became a leader.

In the following fall the Democrats nominated him for Mayor, but he declined to stand. Subsequently he was offered other offices, but declined everything, although accepting the presidency of the Newark Board of Public Works.

Legislative Committees.

The following is a list of the committees of the House of Assembly and Senate of New Jersey appointed on Tuesday:

HOUSE.

Bill Revision—Tine, Peal, Lawless, Wilson, Woolsey.

Ways and Means—Smith, Strahan, Carroll, Harrigan, Stanger.

Judiciary—Wright, Kelly, T. M., Kearns, O'Brien, Hutchinson.

Agriculture—Packer, Swartwout, Chamberlin, Cramer, Utter.

Education—Moore, Stout, Armitage, Kelly, H. A., Murphy.

Elections—Byrne, Kane, Coyle, Sheppard, Stafford.

Engrossed Bills—Carroll, Clarke, Packer, Smith, Baske.

Municipal Corporations—Daly, Smith, Thompson, Kelly, H. A., Studer.

Boroughs and Borough Commissions—Zeller, Swartwout, Dupuy, Burton, Kyte.

Militia—Barrett, Smith, Henry, Lawler, Gledhill.

Claims and Revolutionary Pensions—Olvaney, Cramer, Dittmar, Holt, Murphy.

Corporations—Lane, Tahon, Warne, Harrigan, Salinger.

Banks and Insurance—Strahan, Armitage, Tine, Byrne, Holt.

Unfinished Business—Armitage, Tahon, Lanning, Wilson, Utter.

Incidental Expenses—Tahon, Barrett, Zeller, Carroll, Parker.

Stationery—Wilson, Stout, Daley, Chamberlin, Salinger.

Riparian Rights—Cramer, Barrett, Kelly, H. A., Olvaney, Baxter.

Revision of Laws—O'Brien, Beekman, Kelly, T. M., Henry, Matlack.

Fisheries—Chamberlin, Diver, Thompson, Parker, Burton.

Railroads and Canals—Beekman, Tine, Coyle, Thompson, Gledhill.

Miscellaneous Business—Harrigan, Dittmar, Diver, Peal, Stanger.

Labor and Industries—Lawless, Lanning, Olvaney, Sheppard, Glaspell.

Towns and Townships—Barrett, Zeller, Hones, Berry, Ross.

JOINT COMMITTEES.

Treasurer's Accounts—Dupuy, Lawless, Beekman, Byrne, Matlack.

State Prison—Warne, Lanning, Carroll, Strahan, Stafford.

Lunatic Asylum—Tine, Wilson, Cramer, Chamberlin, Parker.

State Library—Stout, Clarke, Daly, Roebling, Gledhill.

Public Grounds and Buildings—Lanning, Diver, Dupuy, Clarke, Hutchinson.

Public Printing—Henry, Lane, Armitage, O'Brien, Berry.

Passed Bills—Thompson, Packer, Warne, Henry, Holmes.

Commerce and Navigation—Coyle, Hones, Lane, Studer, Baske.

Federal Relations—Dittmar, Kearns, Sheppard, Holmes, Ross.

Soldiers' Homes—Kelly, T. M., Lawless, Harrigan, Peale, Kyte.

Reform School for Boys—Warne, Swartwout, Byrne, Dittmar, Roebling.

Sinking Fund—Swartwout, Clarke, Smith, Wright, Salinger.

Industrial School for Girls—Kearns, Dupuy, Wright, Baxter, Matlack.

School for Deaf Mutes—Peale, Coyle, Swartwout, Glaspell, Woolsey.

SENATE.

Judiciary—Barrett, Perkins, Rogers.

Revision of Laws—Terhune, Barrett, Butcher.

Finance—Barker, Miller, Smith.

Corporations—Winton, Hinchliffe, Martin.

Municipal Corporations—Daly, Hinchliffe, Skirm.

Railroads and Canals—Cornish, Martin, Terhune.

Banks and Insurance—Hinchliffe, Terhune, Rogers.

Education—McMickel, Barker, Hoffman.

Militia—Barrett, Barker, Skirm.

Game and Fisheries—Perkins, McMickel, Stokes.

Riparian Rights—Martin, Drake, Rogers.

Agriculture—Keys, McMickel, Hoffman.

Miscellaneous Business—Marsh, Keys, Stokes.

Elections—Daly, Miller, Smith.

Claims and Pensions—Miller, Cornish, Hoffman.

Unfinished Business—Daly, Marsh, Skirm.

Engrossed Bills—Drake, McMickel, Skirm.

Labor and Industries—Butcher, Miller, Smith.

Borough and Borough Commissions—Terhune, Perkins, Stokes.

JOINT COMMITTEES.

Treasurer's Accounts—Winton, Barrett, Hoffman.

State Prison—Martin, Hinchliffe, Perkins.

Lunatic Asylums—Hinchliffe, Cornish, Drake.

State Library—Barber, Butcher, Skirm.

Public Grounds and Buildings—Cornish, Daly, Martin.

Printing—Winton, Barker, Terhune.

Passed Bills—McMickel, Hinchliffe, Rogers.

Commerce and Navigation—Barrett, Perkins, Stokes.

Federal Relations—Butcher, Marsh, Rogers.

Soldiers' Home—Drake, Barrett, Skirm.

Reform School for Boys—Terhune, McMickel, Drake.

Sinking Fund—Daly, Keys, Rogers.

Industrial School for Girls—Hinchliffe, Miller, Smith.

New Jersey School for Deaf Mutes—Perkins, Keys, Stokes.

[illegible]

She—I am sorry to disappoint you but—but—

He—Oh, bother the disappointment! It's the suspense that tires me.—Judge.

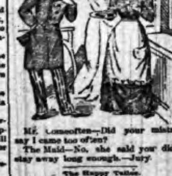
Jimmie's Remedy.

"Papa," said Jimmie, "I hit my finger with a hammer, and it aches. Can't I go to the dentist's and have it pulled?"—Harper's Young People.

The Amateur Sportsman.

He braves the equinoctial winds,
And toils through brush and bog;
And when the day is over finds
He's only shot his dog.
—Judge.

WHAT SHE SAID.



Mr. Comeoften—Did your mistress say I came too often?

The Maid—No, she said you didn't stay away long enough.—Jury.

The Happy Tailor.

Just now I'm very sure your heart
Should be with thanks profuse:
If turkey falls not to your part
You always have a goose.
—Judge.

[illegible]

"I hear you have married Bobbett's divorced wife."

"Yes."

"How did you come to do that?"

"Bobbett recommended her highly. Said his only trouble was she snored, and you know I'm deaf."—Household Monthly.

Unanswerable.

The Governor—This is much better wine than I could afford to drink at your age, my son.

Jack—I suppose so, dad. But just think what nectar I'll get by and by, if things improve in the same ratio.—Judge.

A Definition.

Little Willy—What's a sinecure, papa?

His Father—A sinecure, my son, is a position that some one else puts you into, and for which you draw the salary while a [illegible]

SHOT A FELLOW-FARMER.

Jersey Mountaineers Excited Over a Series of Sensational Events.

The village of White House was thrown into a tumult Tuesday by the report that Henry Waldron, a farmer living three miles from the village, had shot and killed a burglar who was attempting to force an entrance into his house between 11 and 12 Monday night. A PRESS reporter went to White House and found the villagers clustered around the stove in Wooden's Hotel excitedly discussing the affair. A drive of three miles through snow drifts from three to six feet deep brought the PRESS man to Waldron's, a little two-story frame house where the tragedy occurred.

The story in farmer Waldron's own words is as follows:

About 11:30 Monday night he was awakened by hearing a noise as though someone was fumbling at the kitchen door. He sleeps on the first floor in the next room to that occupied by his wife and daughter. Thinking the noise was made by the women, he did not get up until he heard the key of the back door fall on the floor. Hastily jumping up, the farmer seized his trusty double-barrelled shot gun and went through his wife's room to the kitchen, at the same time calling to the wife.

With the noise inside and the passing of a shadow across the window shade, the would-be breakers jumped back in the corner of the stoop where Waldron could hear them talking. "Kick that dog"—said one. "No"—replied the other.—"That won't do; he would make too much noise." Waldron pulled aside the curtain, and stood to one side of the window, where he could see out. In a moment one of the men made a break and jumped from the stoop to the ground. He was big and tall, and as he came into view the farmer blazed away at him.

The man fell in the snow with a groan, while his companion after returning the farmer's fire with a pistol got safely away.

According to Waldron's statement the second man was tall and thin.

The wounded man after lying in the snow for several minutes dragged himself again to the stoop and fell heavily against the door, moaning for help.

This Waldron refused to give him, and allowed the man to remain in the same position until daylight.

In defense of his conduct, Waldron says that he did not dare open the door because he did not know how many men were around the house.

When daylight came, the farmer opened the door and helped the wounded man into the house.

On being questioned, the sufferer refused to give his name or say anything about his companion in crime.

As the man was suffering frightfully, Waldron sent for Dr. John Apgar of New Germantown, and the officers of the law constable "Tag" Apgar and justice Wm. Craig of the same place.

Dr. Apgar was the first to respond, and on seeing the man recognized him as Phillip M. Hartrum, a young farmer from the Rockaway river district about three miles away towards Mountainville.

An examination of the wounded man showed that the full charge of shot had entered his groin a little to the left side, tearing the flesh and making a ragged hole as large as a man's hand.

Although Hartrum is a man of splendid physique, still the terrible wound and lying exposed as he did the whole night to the cold will cost him his life. Dr. Apgar said that he could not possibly live.

When the justice and constable arrived, Hartrum was questioned, and said that he went to Waldron's house for help; that he had been driving towards home with two horses and a wood sled and had been entangled in the snow drifts.

To bear this out, his sled and horses were found not more than two hundred yards from the house, with the horses nearly frozen to death.

Hartrum was removed to his home near New Germantown, after Waldron had made a complaint against him.

Justice C. B. Messler of White House, a little weazened old man with long gray side whiskers, told the reporter that he had seen Hartrum early Monday evening. Hartrum had gone to his office to pay a bill and was feeling bad because of a suit about to be brought against him. The bar-tender in Wooden's hotel at White House says that Hartrum left there about 8:30 in the evening and was intoxicated at the time. One of the loungers about the hotel had to go out and attend to the horses for him. Uncle Henry Dorland went part of the way with Hartrum, leaving him at the school-house, about one mile this side of where the shooting took place, and going the rest of the way on foot. Dorland says that he left Hartrum between 9 and 10 o'clock. Now just here is a period of two hours in which Hartrum with two horses and a light wood sled went less than a mile. What was he doing these two hours? The only solution to the mystery is that offered by one of the loungers in the hotel yesterday noon. It is surmised that Hartrum did not begin to feel the effects of his libations until after Dorland left him at the school-house. He then perhaps fell asleep, and while he was in this condition the horses plunged into the snow drifts, upsetting the sled and throwing Hartrum out. The shock may not have awakened him, but after a time the cold may, and seeing his predicament he may have started for the nearest house, which happened to be Waldron's. Then occurred the shooting. Hartrum told the officers that no one was with him but Dorland, and he got out at the school-house.

Waldron is equally as positive that there were two men. There are several strange features about the affair, one being that Hartrum would make no explanation when taken into Waldron's house; another the bullet hole in the window pane directly over where the charge of shot shattered the lower part of the sash.

If Hartrum did go to Waldron's for the purpose of robbery, he selected the wrong place, as indications show that Waldron is a very poor man, the house being tumble-down and the furniture of the meanest kind. In White House few believe that "Phil" Hartrum went there for the purpose of robbery, they claiming that he went there for help and that the shooting was most inhuman. Whether the shooting was just or not, the fact of leaving the wounded man outdoors on such a night, with the thermometer 16 below zero, was brutal and ill-becoming a human being to say the least.

All of the inhabitants of that section have been aroused for several days over the number of burglaries committed, and in every household arms were kept loaded to repel robbers.

Two of the recent robberies were carried out with a boldness which stamps the perpetrators as professionals. Indications go to prove that two at least of the robberies were accomplished by New York crooks well able to cover their tracks.

Abraham Messler lives a mile and a half out of Germantown, and is a man of known wealth. Although quite an old man, he lives alone in a small house, and when the robbers knocked at his door and asked permission to warm themselves, Mr. Messler promptly threw back the locks and bolts, and gave them admittance. Three men sprang into the room, and one sternly told Mr. Messler to deliver up at once all money and valuables he had in the house. He replied that there was none, whereupon one of the trio took some rope from his pocket, and, assisted by the other two, firmly bound and gagged the venerable gentleman. They searched his pockets, but found nothing. Then, throwing the bound man into a corner, the burglars searched the house, and were rewarded by finding in the garret a kettle full of gold coin.

When the men returned to the kitchen Mr. Messler was fainting with pain and stiff with cold. He pleaded so earnestly for relief that they loosened the rope somewhat; but before leaving threatened the captive with death if he went out of his house that night. It was not until the next morning, therefore, that the neighbors heard of this outrage. All the men wore masks, so that Mr. Messler was unable to give any clue to their identity.

While the family of J. Runkle Fisher slept quietly this same night in their home in New Germantown burglars, who are believed to be the same men who treated Mr. Messler so cruelly, entered the house by a rear window and made a tour of the dwelling. They took many articles of value and money amounting to $200.

HEART-BROKEN MRS. HARRIS.

Summoned from Plainfield to Her Doomed Son's Cell, She Causes a Pitiful Scene in the Tombs.

The despatch that came to this city Tuesday to Mrs. Harris, mother of Carlyle, was from the doomed son's own hand. He had just learned of the court's decision as told in these columns yesterday.

"This looks like the beginning of the end,"—he exclaimed—"but I will not give up the fight. I do not fear death, and I would wish that this whole thing were over, were it not for my poor little mother, who knows in her heart that I am innocent. Oh! if there were only way that she could be spared this terrible shock. She has been so confident that I would get a new trial when I could show that I am not guilty of having caused Helen's death, that I fear that when she learns that the sentence of death is to be pronounced again that it will kill her. Who will carry the message to her?"

"I will do it myself"—he went on, after thinking a moment,—"and will try to give peace and courage to her aching heart."

He picked up a keeper's pencil, and with fingers that trembled violently wrote: "Come to town at once. Carlyle." The message was directed to Mrs. Harris at 9 East Fifth street, Plainfield, where she had been living for several months with relatives, as was told exclusively in these columns.

The telegram to Mrs. Harris brought her to the Tombs at 4 in the afternoon. The lines of care could be seen through the black veil that she wore, and she seemed to breath with difficulty.

THE HEART-BROKEN MOTHER.

"What is the matter with Carlyle?"—she said to a keeper, in a voice that trembled with emotion.—"Is he sick?"

"No, he is all right;"—replied the man—"but I am afraid the news from the court is not to his liking."

It was the first that Mrs. Harris had heard of the decision against her son. A cry of anguish escaped from her lips, and she exclaimed:

"God help him! Carlyle! Carlyle!"

Her face assumed an aspen hue, and she clutched at the clothing at the throat and gasped, and staggered against a cell door. Then she said: "Take me to my boy"—and a keeper gently led her to the corridor where Carlyle was awaiting her. He had gained control of himself, and the despair was out of him when he met his mother. She fell upon his neck and sobbed, and the prisoners looked out through the cell doors near by and then turned their heads away.

Harris bore up well, and his voice was strong when he urged his mother to be brave, and told her that he would surely be given a new trial on the grounds that Mr. Howe had laid out for a new motion. Her grief would not be assuaged, however, and during the half-hour that she held her boy's hand, looked into his eyes and heard his glowing promises, tears of anguish rolled down her cheeks. She became calmer toward the end, and when she kissed the quivering lips of her son to leave him she said dramatically:

"God will save you, Carlyle. You are innocent and must not die."

IT WAS PITIFUL.

As she left the prison she saw a reporter, and, turning to him, she exclaimed:

"Don't you dare say that Carlyle Harris's mother's heart is broken." She sobbed convulsively, and, after a moment, said: "I can't help crying, but please don't say my spirit is broken. It is not. I will save my boy. I will not rest night or day until his innocence is established. If I cannot have this, Carlyle will meet his fate like a man, without fear of meeting a just God, who knows that he is innocent."

Mrs. Harris left the prison weeping. She held a consultation with Howe and Hummel and then went to the home of a friend in West 17th street, New York, where she will remain for a few days.

Mr. Howe is preparing the papers for an application for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, and believes that he will be successful. The basis of the application will be that Helen Potts Harris was a confirmed morphine eater. Mr. Howe claims to have affidavits from several persons, among them a clerk who sold her morphine frequently at Asbury Park, and also one of her intimate friends in New York city. The motion for a new trial will be argued when Harris is brought before Recorder Smyth for sentence.

—Those who suffer from the sharp and really exhilarating cold of this protracted spell may take consolation from the fact that on Feb. 15, 1873, Plainfield thermometers recorded 28° below zero—9° colder than this morning.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. Z. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for a month and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known. Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front street, New York.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16.

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform its patrons, that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salted and Smoked Goods,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

All goods delivered free of charge.

C. M. ULRICH.

[illegible]'s View of the Crescent [illegible].

(From the Journal.)

The Crescent League was organized in 1889 under the name of the Plainfield Bowling club, and prospered until it relieved the Y. M. C. A. of that town, of a base-ball team. Then the club's membership increased and a club house was furnished. With this increase came a number of "deadwood" members, to whose presence the Plainfielders lay the blame of disaster. But everybody who has followed the Crescent League through its base-ball seasons knows that the Plainfield teams have been costly ones.

A number of the wheelmen connected with the dying league, who, by the way, it is understood are the solid members of the organization, have prepared a plan for reorganization. The plan is to form an entirely new club, admitting to membership only persons who have been in good standing financially with the Crescent League, and to make wheeling the distinctive feature of the club.

The news of the probable disbanding of the Crescent League is accompanied by the announcement that a number of young men, some thirty in number, have formed an athletic club and will at once equip a gymnasium. They will also place a base-ball team in the field next season. They have adopted the name of the Plainfield Athletic club.

Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

OFFICIAL.

ELIZABETH, Jan. 5, 1893.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, held on Thursday, Jan. 5, 1893, at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

Present—Director Halliday and Freeholders [illegible], Donahue, Hubbard, Howard, Halliday, Hunt, Kyte, Moore, Bell, Swain, Scudder, Sauer, Trahon, Vanderbeek, Woodruff.

Absent—Winans.

The minutes of last meeting, except bills ordered paid, were read, and on motion approved.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

From committee on petition of Mrs. Noyes:

Your committee appointed to investigate the matter of the appeal of Mrs. Anna Noyes, [illegible] and upon examining the [illegible] as were in doubt whom the board's jurisdiction in the matter, and referred the matter to the county attorney, and their doubts were confirmed; and thereupon advised with the parties concerned and they agreed to settle the matter among themselves without further reference to the board.

Signed—Wm. H. Trahon, J. Martin Bell, John J. Donahue, Committee.

Freeholder Bell moved that the report be received and filed—which was carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Cyrus P. Wilcox asking for payment for damages to horse and wagon from breaking through bridge in Westfield township was read, and on motion of Freeholder Hubbard, received and filed.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Freeholder Hunt:

Resolved, That the salary of warden of the county jail be fixed at thirteen hundred and fifty dollars per annum.

On motion of Freeholder Moore adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Hunt:

Resolved, That the salary of the matron of the county jail be fixed at three hundred dollars per annum.

On motion of Freeholder Donahue adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Sauer:

Resolved, That the bond of warden of county jail be fixed at five thousand dollars, with not less than three sureties, said bond to be approved by the committee on legal questions and be held by the county collector.

On motion of Freeholder Howard adopted unanimously.

Freeholder Trahon moved to go into nominations for jail warden, which was carried.

Freeholder Trahon nominated John C. Blore.

Freeholder Hubbard nominated Chas. W. Dodd.

Freeholder Donahue moved that the nominations be closed. Carried.

The Director appointed as tellers Freeholders Trahon and Vanderbeek.

On ballot John C. Blore received nine votes, Chas. W. Dodd received six votes, and one blank.

The Director declared John C. Blore elected warden for the term of five years.

Freeholder Trahon moved to go into nominations for matron, which was carried.

Freeholder Trahon nominated Mrs. Elizabeth Blore. No other nominations came before the balloting, on ballot Mrs. Elizabeth Blore received fifteen votes, and the Director declared her elected matron for the term of five years.

Freeholder Hubbard moved that the election of John C. Blore as warden be made unanimous, which was carried.

Freeholder Hubbard moved that the term of warden commence on February 1, 1893, which was carried.

Communication from O. N. Williams in regard to rent of room at Summit for election purposes was read, and on motion of Freeholder Donahue received and referred to committee on legal questions and county attorney.

Freeholder Hunt moved that a committee of three be appointed with power to settle with Cyrus P. Wilcox for damages to horse and wagon, which was carried, and the Director appointed Freeholders Hunt, Scudder and Bell as such committee.

Freeholder Moore made a statement in regard to one Charles [illegible], a lunatic supported by the county, which was on motion of Freeholder Howard referred to the county attorney with power.

By Freeholder Sauer:

Resolved, That the bill of John H. R. Corbin for forty-one dollars and sixty-six cents be paid when properly sworn to.

On motion of Freeholder Donahue adopted.

Mr. J. C. Blore, the new warden, was introduced to the Board by the Director, and in a few remarks thanked the members for the appointment.

The following bills audited and approved were read and on motion ordered paid:

Election [illegible]—W A [illegible].

Public buildings—The Elizabethtown Gas Co. [illegible]; F V [illegible]; J S [illegible] & Co. [illegible]; J P Brophy [illegible]; [illegible] & Co. [illegible]; John [illegible].

Bridges—A & V Clark [illegible]; Wm R Ogden [illegible]; John W Van Pelt [illegible]; Philip [illegible]; C H [illegible]; David [illegible]; F L Graves [illegible]; Wm Chamberlain [illegible]; [illegible] Moore [illegible]; Thos [illegible]; [illegible] Moore [illegible]; M McGrath [illegible]; [illegible].

Elections—Wm H Lake, Treas. [illegible]; Wm R Terry [illegible]; David M [illegible]; Chas F [illegible]; Walter M [illegible]; Michael Walsh [illegible]; Geo C [illegible]; Matthias T [illegible]; Geo Frank [illegible]; [illegible] Higgins [illegible]; Wm F Ryland [illegible]; J T Vail [illegible].

Court [illegible]—W [illegible]; J. B. McGrath [illegible]; T F McCormick [illegible]; D [illegible]; Wm H Hicks [illegible]; Frederick C Marsh [illegible]; Lewis [illegible]; Jas [illegible]; Edward [illegible]; Henry J [illegible]; [illegible] Ritchie [illegible]; Herbert W Knight [illegible]; Geo C Tenney [illegible]; Jas T Wiley [illegible].

Jail—Michael [illegible]; B F LaMont [illegible]; Thos B [illegible]; Wm J Whelan [illegible]; J Potts & Son [illegible].

Lunacy—Geo D [illegible], Treas. [illegible]; M M Scudder [illegible].

Publication—Cook & Hall [illegible].

Members' pay—[illegible]; George Kyte [illegible]; John [illegible]; Samuel Halliday [illegible]; A Vanderbeek [illegible]; W H Swain [illegible].

Committee expenses—Geo Kyte [illegible]; W H Swain [illegible]; A Vanderbeek [illegible].

Schools [illegible].

Incidental—Patrick Casey [illegible]; F W Westcott [illegible]; Wm K McClure [illegible]; W H Barton [illegible]; A B Cook [illegible].

Salary—Wm K McClure [illegible]; A B Cook [illegible]; Jno H R Corbin [illegible].

Freeholder Trahon moved to adjourn, which was carried. The Director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, Feb. 2, 1893, at 2:00 p. m.

ALFRED B. COOK, Clerk.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

Relieves Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
OF
Real Estate and Personal Property.

The subscriber, administrator with the will annexed of John H. Sebring, dec'd., will offer for sale on

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25,

the following described property:

FARM OF ABOUT EIGHTEEN ACRES

Situated at Green Brook, Middlesex county, two miles from Bound Brook, with good new buildings.

67 Acres of Farm and Wood Land

On the face of the mountain about two miles from Bound Brook.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

[illegible] HORSES, [illegible] COWS, [illegible] FARM IMPLEMENTS, including plows, harrows, cultivator, sulky hay rake, hay rack, [illegible] wagon, [illegible] sleigh, [illegible] harness, [illegible] chains, etc., [illegible].

HOUSEHOLD GOODS.

Furniture, beds and bedding, carpets, stoves, [illegible].

Sale to begin at [illegible] o'clock sharp. [illegible]

[illegible], Administrator.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you. I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing. I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents. I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and [illegible] any cheaper than I can. Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Sweeny, Carman R. Hatfield and Mary N. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah A. Dickinson, guardian, etc., is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainant, on or before the seventeenth day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to Hannah C. Hatfield, dated July 1, 1874, on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and assigned to the complainant, and the other made by Emma A. Jones and Evan Jones, her husband, to complainant, dated November 18, 1880, on lands in the city of Plainfield aforesaid, and you Jane Sweeny, Carman R. Hatfield and Mary N. Pound are made defendants because you, as devisees of Hannah C. Hatfield, deceased, may claim some lien upon the said mortgaged premises by virtue of a judgment recovered by said Hannah C. Hatfield against said Evan Jones.

Dated December 16 A. D., 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
76 Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.

12 23 6
Fees $4.50

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
aboutf.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper G. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 26, 1892.

MARTIN K. WOJDEN.
12 1 10

THE SUN.

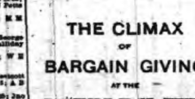
During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.



For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

THE CLIMAX
OF BARGAIN GIVING
AT THE NEWARK BEE HIVE

OUR ANNUAL CLEARING SALE

Is at hand, and it offers an opportunity to every reader of this paper for

MUCH MONEY SAVING

Old patrons know the value of an occasion such as we present, from past experience, and those who participate for the first time in this bargain jubilee will wonder why they have allowed former Bee Hive Sales to pass by unvisited. Every article sold in our establishment is at a

NOTABLE REDUCTION OF PRICE

We quote herein few items now selling, and as space will not allow of a long list, can only say that we have hundreds of

OTHERS JUST AS IMPORTANT

Dress Shirts.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Linen Collars.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Neckwear.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Hosiery.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Underwear.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Muslin Wear.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Cloaks.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Tooth Brushes.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Ribbons.......regular [illegible] for [illegible] per yd
Trimmed Hats.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Fur Capes.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Handkerchiefs.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Boys' Suits.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Shoes.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]
Lace Curtains.......regular [illegible] for [illegible]

Whether you buy these or anything else during this Sale, you buy at a Saving from Regular Price.

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad Street, Newark.
NO BRANCH STORES.

STOCK-TAKING.

$80,000
Worth Of
Carpets & Furniture.

To reduce stock on account of stock-taking, I shall commence Tuesday, January 3, and sell at the following reductions:

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

At Cost! At Cost!

In every department during stock-taking. If you are in need of goods do not miss this opportunity, as you can save about one-third in buying now.

Terms:—

$ 75 down and	$ 75 weekly....on	$10 00 worth
2 50 down and	75 weekly....on	25 00 worth
4 00 down and	1 00 weekly....on	50 00 worth
6 00 down and	1 25 weekly....on	75 00 worth
8 00 down and	1 25 weekly....on	100 00 worth
12 00 down and	1 50 weekly....on	150 00 worth
16 00 down and	2 00 weekly....on	200 00 worth

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

10-4-17

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49 tf

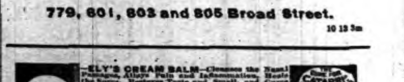
IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 13 3m



ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head.
Apply into the Nostrils.—It is Quickly Absorbed. 50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,

Successors to Plainfield Hardware Co. 7 11 tf 42 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The shoe stores now close at 6 p. m.

—Thanks to State Treasurer Grey for valuable public documents.

—A "Deestrick Skule" such as flourished fifty years ago will be held in Vincent chapel, Feb. 10.

—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Y. M. C. A's of New Jersey will be held at Camden, Feb 9-12.

—City treasurer Titsworth asks for more salary. The application was referred to the council's finance committee.

—Abram Staats, while passing along Front street, Saturday evening, fell on the slippery sidewalk, badly spraining his wrist.

—The lawn-tennis grounds of the Park club, North Plainfield, have been flooded with water, which in its frozen state affords fine skating.

—Councilmen Fisk and Ree have been delegated to have a list of all delinquent taxes compiled and the delinquents prodded into paying up.

—The coal men can't fill their orders fast enough, and small quantities have to suffice each customer, to tide them over till the rush stops.

—Administrator's sale of real estate and personal property Wednesday, January 25. A. I. Coddington, administrator; W. R. Hope, auctioneer. See advertisement in this issue.

—The use of salt on icy sidewalks is hurtful to tender feet and shoe leather. The practice is too prevalent in Plainfield, among those too lazy to work a half-hour with the spade.

—The new hook and ladder truck is expected here Jan. 26, and the Zephyr boys are planning to give it appropriate reception by a supper and other exercises. The collation will be served probably in the Republican association rooms.

—Members of the W. C. T. U. are rehearsing for an entertainment to be given Thursday evening, January 26, in their rooms, Broadway and Fourth street. They will give the play "Cinderella", and produce the "Flower of the Family".

—Among the corporations whose charters the Governor has just declared null and void because they have failed to pay the State tax for two years, are the "Plainfield District Telegraph and Fire Alarm Co." and the "Plainfield Improvement Co."

—The manager of Music Hall has received so much praise and encouragement for the costly class of attractions he is giving the Plainfield people, that he has engaged Joseph Jefferson and his company to appear in "Rip Van Winkle", Thursday evening the 26th inst.

—The Somerville Messenger says: "We would advise those of our crack shots who are trying to arrange a match to steer clear of Plainfield shooters. According to The Evening News of that place, "Dutchy" Smith last week killed 36 birds out of 15 in a match with an unknown."

—A worthless and dangerous young sport while in a fit of intoxication insanity, Saturday night, shot at a companion in a local bar room. Luckily the bullet did no more damage than to smash a plate-glass mirror, which the fellow's mother will replace to save her shiftless son from arrest.

—It is whispered that the Kitchen Garden classes are preparing to entertain their friends by an exhibition of their lessons in housekeeping, at some early date. Remembering their very interesting display at Music Hall some years ago it is hoped that this rumor may be founded on fact.

—Chief engineer Doane Monday received from the insurance people a check for funds to pay the men who were employed day and night to deluge the burning ruins after the big Boice lumber-yard fire. The money has been a long time coming, but is very welcome to the workmen at this season.

—The North Plainfield firemen are planning to give a fair in February to raise funds to furnish their parlors—a most worthy enterprise and one deserving of hearty support. The committeemen are: Geo H Fairchilds, Horace G. Adams, David C. Allen, Thos. McGann, Julius J. Stahl and Chas. Lippincott.

—The city clerk and treasurer are to have their offices and safe room in the Coward building, in the suite of offices now occupied by the mayor, chief of police, street commissioner, and fire department. The finance committee of the council will make all arrangements for the centralization of the city offices.

—The Daily Press carriers are sincerely grateful to their patrons for the New Year's favors bestowed on them. The total amount of the receipts by the boys was $142 90, for all of which the carriers give hearty thanks. They will by renewed effort to serve their patrons faithfully, give material testimony of the appreciation they feel for their generosity.

—Mayor Saunders, of North Plainfield, notifies his people of the borough ordinance that requires them to clean their walks within five hours after snow, "under a penalty", etc. If he doesn't succeed better than have past mayors of this city, commissioner Meeker or chief Grant, he would better save North Plainfield tax-payers the cost of the advertising.

—David Williams and Edward Cuff (colored), contracted to clean out a well on East Second street, Saturday. The well is 80 feet deep, and while Williams was at the bottom Cuff sauntered over to Babbitt's pool room and spent a dollar in playing pool, leaving Williams at the bottom of the well for over two hours. The air was blue when Williams was hauled up.

—George W. Cole, of the firm of Terrill & Cole, contemplates erecting a three-story brick building at the corner of Exchange alley and West Second street, adjoining the engine-house. His purpose is to have a livery stable occupying first floor and basement, with flats above. If Trinity church or others object to that use of the property he may be induced to alter his plans.

—The Union County Medical society has passed resolutions providing that no physician who belongs to the society shall make a yearly contract with any secret or benevolent society in the county to attend the members for a stipulated compensation. They can be the physician of the lodge, but must be paid by the patient at the regular rate charged. The rule takes effect April 1.

—The Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will give their fifth annual masquerade ball in their hall, 86 and 88 Somerset street, Monday evening, Feb. 13. The grand march will begin at 9. O'Reilley will furnish the music. The committee is Henry Haufsad, Eugene Hoerstet, Chas F. Meyer, Henry Bender, H Klineman, C Duvier, J. Winkelholz, A. Walter, and A. Wolff. A grand time is anticipated.

—A. L. Mundy, the well-known dry goods merchant of Church street, New Brunswick, has decided to retire from business and has sold out his store to Peter J. Young. Mr. Young is a comparatively young man, but is a veteran in the dry goods trade. He hails from Flemington, N. J., where for 15 years he has been connected with his uncle in a large dry goods establishment. Mr. Mundy was formerly engaged in business in Plainfield, under the firm name of Pope, Paine & Mundy.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Freeman of Rahway is visiting Plainfield relatives.

Mrs. H. C. Compton and daughters are home from an extended absence.

Popular baggage-master Tom Jones suffers from an excruciating felon.

Miss Elliott of Friendship, N. Y., is visiting Miss Mary Lewis of Central avenue.

Charles White, formerly of Plainfield, has been visiting his old friends in town.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has been attending a church convention at Baltimore.

Vice Chancellor Robert S. Green is confined to his home in Elizabeth by serious illness.

Edward F. Milliken and James DeGraff are just now enjoying this season shooting ducks in the South.

Manager Leggett of the Central pharmacy is confined to his home on West Front street with a heavy cold resembling the grip.

Dr. Adams received on Saturday last the mounted head of a magnificent deer which he killed in the Adirondacks last summer.

Harry Coward and Miss Sadie Currie joined a theatre party in Brooklyn, Saturday night, and spent Sunday with some of Miss Currie's relatives.

Jacob Pentz and family will remove from Fanwood to Bergen Point on March 1, much to the regret of their many friends and acquaintances in this section.

The Choral society has received through its president, W. W. Howland, an invitation from Theo Thomas to take part in the "August Festival" at the World's fair.

Miss Leota Weaver, a dear friend of Dr. S. D. Keeney, is very ill at Dr. Keeney's home, 14 West Fourth street, with that dreadful complaint, consumption.

Frank J. Hubbard, of F. A. Dunham's engineering corps, has been granted an extension of his absence from Olean, N. Y., and will assist engineer Dunham in his Plainfield work.

The officers selected for Plainfield, of the Needlework Guild of America, are: President, Mrs. VanNest Talmage; vice-president, Mrs. E. L. Goddard; secretary, Mrs. J. Parker Mason; treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Pike.

J. A. Smith, the Front street grocer, who is just getting up after a severe illness, was elected at Jersey City, Wednesday, a member of the legislation committee of the Retail Merchants association of New Jersey.

Samuel Townsend, George D. Hallock and B. A. Hegeman, jr., committee on dancing classes of the Park club, announce their formation on Thursday—children's class from 3 to 4, and adults' class at 8.

William McCully, of Bound Brook, attracted attention in this city, Saturday, by riding about the streets in an ancient sleigh said to be 120 years old, and built for B. K. Field, of Bound Brook, uncle of Dr. Field of Plainfield.

Daniel Nolan, formerly of this city, and now of Yonkers, where he holds the position of advertising agent of the Yonkers Herald, was in town Friday visiting his parents and a host of friends. Success is bound to attend Dan in his new venture.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott will lecture in the Seminary, Jan. 27 at 3:30 p. m., on "Foreign Art in America", and Jan. 31 at 8 p. m. on "The Ethics of Art". Thomas Nelson Page will lecture on "The Early History of Virginia", in March; and John Fiske on "The Discovery of America", April 15 at 8 p. m.

The administration of the good and popular mayor W. L. Saunders has won the admiration and esteem of all good citizens of borough and city, regardless of politics. Mr. Saunders will be the unanimous choice of the Democracy for re-election, and it is doubtful if a Republican can be found to run against him.

Harley B. Nichols of East Sixth street, long connected with the Barbour Bros. Co., manufacturers of the world-renowned "Barbour's Flax Thread", with mills situated at Paterson, N J., Lisbon, Ireland, and Germany, has accepted a lucrative and responsible position with their Boston branch. Mr. Nichols will move his family April 1 to one of Boston's beautiful suburbs.

One of the most artistic of the scores of 1893 calendars that have come to the editor's desk is that issued by the popular printers and stationers, Bigelow & Co., of 13 William street, New York, of which Lucius H. Bigelow of this city is head. The calendar is patterned on a special design by W. M. Smith, the Plainfield artist whose decorative work is famous the world over.

Walter Scott of this city has put into the office of the Kansas City Sunday Journal a "multi-color" perfecting press which prints, pastes, cuts and folds newspapers of any size from 4 to 24 pages, in from one to four colors all at the same impression, at a speed of 24,000 an hour. The press is a marvel of mechanism, and a wonder of the world. Mr. Scott's genius seems capable of any ingenuity.

Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley of Westfield is in Washington attending the convention of the officers of the National league for good roads. He is stopping at Willard's hotel. The headquarters of the league are at Chamberlain's hotel. John Chamberlain, the proprietor, has kindly contributed to the league the gratuitous use of rooms during their session. Senator Manderson, the president of the league, will preside. Most of the States of the Union will be represented.

Miss Louise Wood gave a progressive euchre party Monday evening in honor of her guest Miss Grace Dodge of Bloomfield. The guests were from Newark, Orange and Plainfield. It was hard luck for the honor-guest to get the booby prize, but though she didn't win the material first honor she did win the affection and esteem of the entire gathering, for her charming qualities and winsome graces. The prize-winners were: First, Miss Ida Roesp, Clarence Titsworth; second, Miss Helen Coward, Samuel Humpston; booby, Miss Dodge, Ed. Warren. Bountiful refreshments were served.

A birthday party was given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Livesey, at their home, 161 Park avenue, to their daughter Lissa H. Music for dancing was furnished by Andrew G. Carpenter, and singing and refreshments were other of the enjoyable features. Those present included Robert L. Coates and Mr. and Miss Tinsman from Philadelphia, and the following from this city: Miss Clara Williams, Miss Ella Gardner, Miss Cora Gardner, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Miss Lilla Linzey, Miss Caroline Livesey, and Messrs. Wm. Jessop, George A. Rockfellow, J. Linn Edsall, Frank Vail, Joseph Fuller, G. E. Fuller and Frank Howland.

The funeral of John S. Ward, who died last week Monday at his late residence on Clinton avenue, [illegible], was largely attended, Thursday, by many who will greatly miss him. The attendance was especially large on the New York side, and a throng followed the remains to their last resting-place in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Ward was a member of the Manhattan Council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion. He formerly lived in Brooklyn, and had a large painting and decorating business, having a large place both on Nassau street, New York, and in Plainfield. He was an excellent provider, and leaves his family in good circumstances. He was a large-hearted man, generous to all with whom he came in contact, and his loss is severe to the little world in which he was so highly esteemed.

THE MUSIC ENCORED.

Those Present at the Third Assembly Have the Usual Good Time.

The third assembly of the season took place at the Casino Monday night. Mrs. Charles Fisk, Mrs. William Kaufman and Mrs. George Thomas, received. The music by Elliott was particularly fine, and many of the selections were encored. Max Wertz, the Union County Country club steward, served an excellent supper. The next and last of the assemblies will be held Feb. 13.

Among those present last evening were:

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. James Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker Mason, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. August Kleinecke, Mr. and Mrs Rhinehart, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Depew, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald; Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Tracy, Mrs. Waring, Mrs. Munn, Mrs. Coriies and Mrs. Erickson.

The Misses Holly, VanBoskerck, Corlies, Ham, Murphy, Murray, Erickson, Underwood, Stewart, Yates, Hassett, Harte, Huntington, Young, Porter, Waln, Sandford, McLean, Depew, Tracy and Bushnell.

Messrs. Brooks, Bloodgood, VanBoskerck, VanBuren, Wharton, Munn, Huntington, West, Waring, Runyon, Murray, Erickson, Sandford, Simmonds, Drayton, Metcalf, Marsh, Leonard, Munger, Underwood, Borden, Strudl, Shepard, Hallock, Tilney and Sandford.

MAYOR SAUNDERS DECLINES.

While Thanking the Democratic Association for Its Proffered Honor, He Cannot Accept.

The following is a copy of the letter sent by Mayor Saunders of the borough in declination of the proffered presidency of the North Plainfield Democratic association:

Jan. 17, 1893.

Mr. Jos. Newman, Secretary,
North Plainfield Democratic Association,
North Plainfield, N. J.

DEAR SIR:—On my return from a brief absence I have read in the Daily Press an account of a recent meeting of the North Plainfield Democratic association at which I was honored with election as president.

Will you kindly express to the members of the association my sincere thanks for so marked an expression of confidence; but I must ask to be permitted to forego the honor.

Political preferment has lost whatever charm it may once have had for me. My only ambition now is to be promoted to private life. My first duties are those which I owe to my family, to my business, and to the public office which I now hold. Furthermore, as a political worker I plead incompetence.

This decision has not been made without due thought and is irrevocable.

Again thanking the members of the association, I remain, Yours truly,
WM. L. SAUNDERS.

A Plainfield Speedway Wanted.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I think I am speaking for many when I ask if there is not some way by which the present city ordinance relating to fast driving could be amended so that drivers and lovers of fast horses might have some street designated on which they might enjoy the friendly contests that the good sleighing we are now having makes possible? In Newark, Paterson, New Brunswick, and other cities I might mention, a street is set apart for fast driving and police are detailed to see that the drivers are not interfered with. Will not our worthy mayor help us to get ahead of New York by having our speedway before they have theirs? He should, for there are many who have been compelled to take his (dust) snow before he "retired from the turf". Won't you go for this speedway as you went for the street railway, and we will get it. HELPLESS.

Endorses Mayor Saunders.

The Firemen's Herald quotes at length the passage from Mayor Saunders's message relating to fire department reform, and says: "Such words have the proper ring to them. The Mayor recognizes the importance of good fire protection, and the citizens should see that his recommendations are carried out. A bad fire or two would cost more than all the money the borough would save."

Ask President Tom Nevius; He Has a Good Heart.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Some few days ago I saw an article in your paper written by a gentleman in reference to the motor men on the Plainfield electric car line, having the cars enclosed for their benefit so as to protect them from storm and cold, and I heartily join with him in the same opinion. If anybody, a resident of Plainfield, will spend the amount of an excursion ticket to Newark, he will see plenty of cars that are enclosed, and the gripman, who has the responsibility of running the car and the safety of the passengers at heart, has protection as already spoken of. Why should n't they be entitled to as much consideration as an engineer and fireman on a locomotive? I am sure they have glass windows both in front and on the sides, and I am sure that the height of speed these cars sometimes go at the responsibility is just as great.

Will you kindly look into this matter and see if something cannot be done for their benefit, and win another laurel to your wreath of doing good?

A. BARTLETT, JR.,
141 West Front St.

Two Fine Lectures Coming.

The Rev. John W. Chadwick's lecture on "Thoreau", postponed from Jan. 6 on account of Mr. Chadwick's ill health, will be given this week Friday evening, Jan. 20, in All Souls' church. The lecture by Robert Collyer on "Clear Grit", announced for Jan. 20, will be given at the same place just two weeks later, the evening of Friday, Feb. 3. These are both first-class lectures, though the price of admission is only 25 cents.

Rebekah's Night.

A highly enjoyable installation and collation were enjoyed on Tuesday at the rooms of Odd Ladies' Rebekah lodge, No. 4, when the following officers were formally placed in authority by district deputy M. C. Shepard and her staff:

P. G.—Mrs. J. Krisey.
N. G.—Mrs. A. Kettering.
V. G.—Miss A. E. Krisey.
Rec. Sec.—John Bodine.
Treas.—Mrs. M. C. Shepard.
Per. Sec.—G. W. VanNest.
Warden—Jacob Krisey.
Guardian—J. Kettering.
Chaplain—R. L. Bates.

Plainfield Vocalists to Appear in Chicago.

As stated in THE PRESS of Tuesday, Mr. Howland, president of the Plainfield Choral society, has received an invitation from Theodore Thomas, the musical director of the World's Columbian exposition, for the society to participate in the August festival at Chicago during the coming summer. The programme will consist of three or four works, including Haydn's "Creation", Rossini's "Stabat Mater", and selections from Gluck's "Orpheus", most of which are already familiar to the Choral society.

—There will be a very important rehearsal of the Melopoia society next Saturday evening, at the Casino, at 8 sharp.

—The free public library and reading-room has just added to its list of periodicals the Review of Reviews, Life, and Youths' Companion, which will hereafter be found regularly on the reading-room tables.

INCREASING THE EXPENSES.

Another City Official to be Hired at $80 a Month, to Do Some of the City Clerk's Work.

When Oliver B. Leonard or J. B. Coward held the office of city clerk, the incumbent had no trouble in attending to all the duties of that office, including the business of city auditor, which office was combined with that of city clerk. They were competent. After F. W. Runyon was appointed, however, it was found necessary to hire an outsider to audit the accounts, and now that individual office is to be perpetuated.

By a resolution the council decided to employ A. S. Patterson at a salary of $80 a month as an expert accountant to supervise and audit all the city's accounts, bills, monthly reports, etc., and prepare for each meeting a budget of claims due and funds available. He is to be under the direction of the financial committee, and will have his official headquarters in the city offices.

Mr. Patterson has established a system of book-keeping in the city accounts the continuation of which he is to be paid this salary to supervise. He really relieves the city clerk of work formerly done by that individual, and is expected to be more thorough in his work than the supervisor of accounts has been heretofore.

Meanwhile the city clerk's salary is not reduced.

That Courier "Earthquake".

The New Brunswick Home News says: Some imaginative correspondent in Plainfield on Sunday night sent to a New York newspaper a few lines to the effect that there had been an earthquake there. The only basis for the story was that the town was shaking from the cold.

The only building in town that shook was the dilapidated Courier office, and the shaky Courier editor is responsible for the fake—as usual. He's the same chap who killed off three men in one day by the same Blue Line train, and one of them at Somerville where the Blue Line never runs. There's a limit to even Blue Lines, but the imagination of the Courier's news-inventor has no limit. He's the same chap who told in vivid language in the New York papers how a servant-girl caused terrible panic in the Crescent Avenue church by rushing wildly down the aisle in the midst of prayer and setting fire to the church when nothing of the sort occurred. He's the same chap who boasts that he gets never less than a dollar an article for all such stuff he sends in to the New York journals. He's the same chap—but why particularize further?

Relics Wanted for the Fair.

At the meeting held at the Plainfield Seminary on the afternoon of last Friday, January 13, the undersigned were appointed a committee to secure information regarding Revolutionary and Colonial relics in the possession of residents of Plainfield and neighboring towns, in order to make a full list of all such objects in New Jersey, and also with a view to having any such articles of especial interest as the owners are willing to loan for the purpose, form a part of the State exhibit at Chicago. As the time before the final arrangements must be made is extremely short, it is earnestly requested that the readers of THE PRESS who may have such articles in their possession or who can give any information on the subject will communicate with the undersigned as soon as possible.

Mrs. C. L. Sykes, Scotch Plains.
Mrs. H. Augusta Schuyler, 175 Broadway, Plainfield.
Mrs. O. B. Leonard, Madison avenue, Plainfield.

Hackmen and Peddlers Take Notice.

The city clerk has for a long time been in the habit of giving license certificates on receipt of the usual application and fee, and the licenses have operated before the council granted them. That system is to be abolished as irregular and unbusiness-like, and hereafter no licenses will be in legal operation until actually granted by the council. The clerk will only be permitted to take the fee and application and submit them to council for official action. Hackmen and peddlers whose licenses expire soon should make prompt application so as to secure renewal on expiration of present licenses, as they will not be permitted to act under the renewals till those renewals are actually issued by the council.

To Extend the Street Lighting Service.

When a petition was read to the common council Monday night from residents of the western part of the city asking that the electric lights be extended from the Evona station to the city limits, councilman France made a clever speech advocating the improvement. He urged that the matter be speedily attended to, and stated that the Plainfield lights would then meet Dunellen's, giving a continuous line from the city limit at Fanwood, through to the western limit of Dunellen. On his motion the lighting committee was given power to place the lamps.

Fighting the North Avenue Sewer.

The Plainfield board of health is determined to put an end to all sewerage connection with Green brook. In a communication to the common council last night they firmly expressed their intention in the matter, but said that they did not wish to conflict with the council, and as the North avenue sewer was created and perpetuated by the official action of the council the board called on that body to repeal the sewer ordinance and permanently abate the nuisance. The matter was referred to the committee on streets.

New Rule for Physicians.

The Union County Medical society, at its meeting Thursday, amended its by-laws so that henceforth no member of the society may act as physician to secret or benevolent organizations at a yearly compensation. He can be the recognized physician of the lodge or society, but he must get his pay from the patient and not from the organization, and shall charge him the same as any other patient. The rule is to go into effect April 1.

What Plainfield Sports are Worth.

(Somerville Democrat.)

It grinds the Plainfielders that the Crescents have got to go under. The Press of that place says a project is on foot to effect a compromise with the creditors of the Crescent League on the basis of 25 cents on the dollar. That is about the size of Plainfield sports—they are worth about one-quarter of their face value.

Five Grandmothers to Coddle Him.

A bright little boy arrived a short time ago at the home of W. A. Schutt, 41 Duer street, and one day recently five grandmothers assembled and went into ecstasies of admiration over the little fellow. Two of them are "great-grand", and one is a "great-great-grand". Of course each of the five will want to name him.

From Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher.

"40 ORANGE ST., BROOKLYN, N. Y.,
February 11, 1890.

"I have used ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS for some years for myself and family, and, as far as able, for the many sufferers who come to us for assistance, and have found them a genuine relief for most of the aches and pains which flesh is heir to. I have used ALLCOCK'S PLASTERS for all kind of lameness and acute pain, and, by frequent experiments, find that they can control many cases not noticed in your circulars.

"The above is the only testimonial I have ever given in favor of any plaster, and if my name has been used to recommend any other it is without my authority or sanction."

MRS. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

DR. CARROLL ON THE CENSUS.

The Religious Aspect Presented—The Presbyterian Union Listens to a Paper from Plainfield's Expert.

(From The Press of January 17.)

As was stated in these columns yesterday, Dr. H. K. Carroll of this city was the principal speaker on "The Religious Aspect of the Last Census" before the Presbyterian Union in New York Monday night. Dr. Carroll was appointed by Robert P. Porter to collect the statistics of all the religious bodies of the United States for the census of 1890. By the time it is completed it will have occupied nearly five years, requiring the service of a force of from eight to twelve clerks, and costing more than any private purse could well spare. Charles E. Buell, of North Plainfield, has been chief clerk of the department, and to his experience and direction is due the success of the new departure, in a great degree.

After explaining the aim of the census of three years ago and the method of securing the statistics, Dr. Carroll said in part:

"The first impression conveyed by the long list of separate denominations is that we have a variety in our religion. Our citizens are free to choose a residence in any one of the fifty States and Territories, and to move from one to another as often as they have a mind to. There is even a wider range for choice and change in religion. One may be a Pagan, a Jew or a Christian, or each in turn. If he is a Pagan he may worship in the numerous temples devoted to Buddha; if a Jew, he may be of the orthodox or reformed variety; if a Christian, he may select any one of 135 or 130 different kinds or join every one of them in turn. He may be six kinds of an Adventist, seven kinds of a Catholic, twelve kinds of a Mennonite, or Presbyterian; thirteen kinds of a Baptist; sixteen kinds of a Lutheran, or seventeen kinds of a Methodist. He may be a member of any one of 143 denominations, or of all in succession. If none of these suit him he still has a choice among 150 separate and independent congregations, which have no denominational name, creed, or connection. Any resident of the United States is perfectly free to make himself at home with any of these religious companies, and to stay with each as long or as short a time as he will. We sometimes speak as though there were not sufficient freedom of thought. Here are many phases of thought, and any man may pass without hindrance through them all.

"A closer scrutiny of the list, however, shows that many of these 143 denominations differ only in name. Without a single change in doctrine or polity, the seventeen Methodist bodies could be reduced to three or four; the twelve Presbyterian to three, the twelve Mennonite to two, and so on. The difference in many cases are only sectional or historical. The slavery question was the cause of not a few divisions, and matters of discipline were responsible for a large number. A further examination of the denominational list reveals the significant fact that of the 143 denominations, 73, or more than half, are very small, no one of them having more than 10,000 members. Thirty-two of the seventy-five have less than a thousand each. The denominations having as many as 25,000 and upward are forty in number. These forty denominations represent more than ninety-six per cent. of the aggregate of members.

"Among the denominations, the Roman Catholic stands first, as to communicants, having 6,238 354; the Methodist Episcopal second, with 2,240,435; the regular Baptist (colored) third, with 1,314,490; the regular Baptist (South) fourth, with 1,271,002; and the Methodist Episcopal (South) fifth, with 1,209,976.

"The grand total for all denominations is as follows: Organizations, 165,787; church edifices, 139,833, with a seating capacity of 42,682,049; halls, schoolhouses and private houses occupied as places of worship, 27 453; value of church property (including only church edifices and their sites and furniture), $680,756,755; communicants or members 20,488,797. Of the total of communicants considerably more than one-third are found in the five States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Massachusetts, in the order named.

"Comparing the census returns of 1890 with such statistics as can be got from denominational sources, I find that in the decade the Protestant Episcopal church has a net gain of 165,000 members, or 48 per cent; the Congregational of 128,000, or 33 per cent; the regular Baptists, North, South and colored, of 868,000, or 37 per cent: the Lutherans, all branches, of 487,000, or 68 per cent; the Presbyterians, all branches, of 365,000, or 39 per cent; the Methodist Episcopal, of 522,000, or 30 per cent; the Methodist Episcopal South, of 488,000, or 57 per cent. These denominations represented in 1890 an aggregate of 10,216,000 communicants, against 7,202 000 in 1880, showing a net gain in the ten years of 3,014,000, or nearly 42 per cent. As the growth of the population of the country in the same period was less than 25 per cent, these churches have gained 17 per cent in excess of the increase of the population."

After Dr. Carroll's address, Scott Foster, who presided, called upon Dr. H. M. Field, of The Evangelist; Dr. John Hall and Dr. G. W. F. Birch, for brief speeches. Refreshments were then served.

The Bowling Tourney.

The Y. M. C. L. A. still hold an unbroken record, and the lead in the race for the county championship. They increased their lead Monday night by defeating the Roselle Casino team, but neither team put up remarkable scores.

THE OFFICIAL RECORD.

	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.	Average Pins.
Y. M. C. L. A.	6	0	1000	[illegible]
E. F. C.	6	1	857	[illegible]
Arthur Kull	5	2	714	[illegible]
Alcyone	4	3	571	[illegible]
Roselle	2	4	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pioneer	1	4	200	[illegible]
Crescent	1	5	166	[illegible]
C. Y. M. L.	1	5	[illegible]	[illegible]

Average pins per team..........1484.6
Average strikes per team..........[illegible]
Average spares per team..........[illegible]

Gay Times at the Old Homestead.

The old Sebring homestead at Greenbrook was the scene Tuesday of mirth and gaiety. Two big sleighloads, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph of Grandview avenue, drove up to the door, and found the place bright and warm with open fires, colored electric lights, and other illuminations. The evening was spent in dancing and other amusements. Supper was served at 1 a. m. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, borough clerk and Mrs. H. H. Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Martin of Newark, guests of Mr. Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Winckler, Mr. and Mrs Horace Martin, the Misses Allison, Fisher, Gilliam, McNabb and VanWinkle, Miss Hall of Trenton, and Messrs. John McLoughlin, Will McLoughlin, Chas. McNabb, George DeMeza, Will VanWinkle, George Bird, August Trust, Alfred Odra, M. Heller, H. N. Spencer and Charles Sebring.

To Mr. Sebring is due much credit for the beautiful electric illumination and other features that made the occasion so memorable.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

That is Alleged as the Cause of Penton Barn Burning.

The barn of T. B. Penton of Rockview avenue was badly damaged by fire Saturday night.

The discovery of the fire was made by the coachman, who occupied apartments in the building, at 7:30 o'clock. An alarm was immediately telephoned to Warren engine-house, and the district signal 9 was sounded on the steam-gong.

Considering the bad roads, the engine was at the fire with commendable quickness, and the building was saved from complete destruction.

The engine took water from a fire hydrant.

The fire was a stubborn one, and made more so by a tin roof that had been left over the first story when the second was put on, but it was well handled by the company, ably directed by chief Fairchild.

The loss is between $2 000 and $3,000, and is covered by insurance.

Mr. Penton supplied hot coffee and sandwiches to the firemen. He feels very grateful to the firemen, and they are grateful to him.

The cause of the fire is not known, but the flames are believed to have been generated by the spontaneous combustion of decaying carrots.

The horses were saved from the flames.

FIRE IN THE RECTORY.

Father Smyth and His Household Narrowly Escape Suffocation—Father Cushing's Bravery.

Fire originated in the basement of the rectory of St. Mary's church Thursday night, and at 3 this morning the house was filled with such dense smoke that Father Smyth and his household narrowly escaped death by suffocation. Fortunately one of them awoke in time, and aroused the others.

Father Smyth immediately telephoned to chief engineer Doane, who told him to send in an alarm. Father Cushing, assistant rector, heroically ran in his stocking feet through the deep snow to box 34, and summoned the department.

By the time the firemen reached the rectory, the worst of the fire had been extinguished with pails of water. The men's axes and chemical extinguishers finished the blaze. Then the house was cleared of the thick smoke. The fire was confined to the basement, and the damage was not heavy.

The recall was sounded 20 minutes after the alarm.

A MOST WORTHY CHOICE.

Mayor Saunders Chosen President of the North Plainfield Democratic Association—Organizing for Campaign Work.

The North Plainfield Democratic association Thursday reorganized for effective work during the coming local campaign. The officers elected were:

President—William L. Saunders.
Vice-presidents—Henry Watson, John L. Blackford.
Secretary—Joseph Newman.
Treasurer—Benjamin Gavin.

There was a large attendance, and much earnestness was shown. A meeting will be held next Thursday evening to prepare for active campaigning.

A Tale of Somervillian Don Juans.

(From Town Topics.)

The hamlet of Somerville N. J., is seldom disturbed by scandal. Neighbors keep an eye on one another, and every son is circumspect and every daughter is perpendicularly accurate and trustworthy. Now, when it comes to my ears that the exclusive and wealthy West End club is under the shadow of rebuke, I am grieved and shudder at the wantonness of human weakness and the tendencies of taste. The story concerns the son of a wealthy wool gentleman, a relative and descendant of a late Secretary of State from New Jersey, and a doctor who does not doctor, who, together with four other young gentlemen of wealth and indiscretion, are suffering the pangs of social suspicion, and all on account of certain episodes embracing a Bridge street blonde of widespread renown throughout Somerville and the towns within its environment. My advice to the gentlemen of the West End club is that they be brave—there's nothing like bravery in a country town.

"To the Pure All Things Are Pure."

(From The Newark News.)

Plainfield's truly good citizens have found that they are powerless to prevent the appearance of an objectionable play at the town's opera-house, and consequently are vexed in spirit. Not so with those who are not truly good. They flocked to that opera house and feasted their ungodly eyes on the forbidden fruit, and rejoiced. But the truly good have vowed vengeance, and there will be a first-class rumpus.

A play of the kind objected to, whose main attraction is a liberal display in one act of the female human form unadorned, will injure no one who is not of a mind to receive suggestions that are not on the line of strict morality. And the prohibition of that kind of a play will not purify the minds of that class of young or old men.

Somerville and Westfield Were in Deeper Holes.

The papers of Somerville are trying to lead people to suppose that the pace set by Mr. Mack's ball team of that place was so hot that the Crescent League was bankrupted to win.

The truth is that Somerville went in a hole $1,200 and Westfield $1,600, more than they took in, just trailing along behind Plainfield.

Annual Meeting of the Local Union.

On account of the anniversary of the Young Men's Christian association occurring Thursday evening, Jan. 19, the annual meeting of the Plainfield local union of the Christian Endeavor societies, has been postponed until Tuesday evening, Jan. 24, in the Seventh-day Baptist church, at 7:45.

On for a Smoothly Gliding Curtain!

It is sincerely hoped that the curtains on the stage of the Casino will be put in running order before another entertainment is given there. The hitches that occur at every play are vexatious, though sometimes amusing. The curtains have a way of getting caught at the centre that is getting to be a nuisance. At the recent Magnolias they developed a new freak, that of raising up some feet from the floor when drawn together, and revealing the ludicrous antics of the legs of the performers as each hobbles behind.

"BILLY" RYAN DEAD.

The Friend of Many Succumbs to Paralysis.

William J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, well-known and esteemed in this city, died suddenly at 3 o'clock Thursday morning at his house on West Grand street. He had paralysis. He was in his usual health when he retired at midnight. Mr. Ryan was in his fiftieth year. He was born in Boston and went to California when 12 years old. He learned the trade of a ship caulker at the Mare Island Navy-Yard, San Francisco, with Edward Harrigan. They were lifelong friends.

Mr. Ryan went to Elizabeth nearly twenty years ago and opened the Capitol Cafe at Elizabethport. He afterwards leased Trahon's Hotel in Elizabeth. He next opened the Elm House on East Grand street, where he made money. He sold out, and opened a place on West street, New York, but this did not prove successful, and he returned to Elizabeth and purchased Shreta's Hotel, near the Pennsylvania railroad, which he remodelled at an expense of several thousand dollars, and named it Ryan's Hotel.

"Billy" Ryan, as he was called by everybody, was a great friend of the theatrical profession and was known by every actor of note in the country. The late J. K. Emmett, Tony Hart and John McCullough were Ryan's warm friends. Nat Goodwin and George Thatcher, the minstrel, and other actors always made "Billy" Ryan's their headquarters when they visited Elizabeth.

Mr. Ryan leaves a widow. The hotel property is owned by Gottfried Krueger, of Newark.

A MAN AND A HORSE KILLED.

Blue Line Flier No. 510 Badly Injures Jacob Smalley, Kills His Horse and Then Knocks the Life Out of Jacob Cunningham.

The Blue Line flier No. 510, Engine 388, known as the "Washington Express", struck a man at Fisher's crossing just west of Bound Brook at noon Thursday, as told exclusively in these columns. The man was Jacob Smalley, a carpenter, living in the village. He was just driving on the crossing when he saw a coal train coming. He waited until it had passed and then drove on the track.

He saw the express when not more than twenty feet from him and tried to pull the horse back, knowing he could not get across. The train struck and killed the horse instantly and threw Smalley into the air a distance of thirty feet. He landed on his head not more than a foot from the rails.

When picked up he was unconscious but regained his senses in about an hour. He was severely cut about the head and shoulders but his injuries will not prove fatal. The crossing is a doubly dangerous one as there are no gates and a view of the track is cut off by a high bank for nearly half a mile.

The same train a few moments later at Greenbrook tanks struck and killed John Cunningham, a moulder, employed in the Singer machine works at Elizabethport. He was walking on the track with his ears muffled up and did not hear the warning whistle. He was 40 years old, married and had one child.

TWO NEGROES IN THE TOILS.

They Are Accused of Stealing William E. Johnson's Property and Maliciously Damaging Pool Tables.

Benjamin Perkins, a North Plainfield negro, was held for the grand jury by Justice Wadsworth Thursday night on the charge of burglary. It is charged that he and Boyle VanLiew, a Plainfield negro, broke into William E. Johnson's pool room at 34 East Front street, the night of Jan 2, and stole a snuff box, some cash, and pool balls, besides slashing the pool tables with a knife.

Johnson swore out a search warrant before justice Crosley, and marshal Pangborn searched the premises and found the snuff box. Perkins was arrested. At the trial last night it was shown that he and VanLiew had sought to enter Johnson's room and that VanLiew had been refused admission. Perkins then went in alone, and before sitting down to play cards slipped back a window fastening so as to make entering easy. He and VanLiew were known to have threatened to "lay for" Johnson. "Confidential friends" told of the two accused men's damaging admissions.

After judge Wadsworth gave his decision concerning Perkins, VanLiew was arrested, and will be tried this afternoon.

Tours to California, Florida, etc., via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For people contemplating either extended or limited pleasure jaunts during the winter and spring of the new year, an inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad company's announcement of its personally-conducted tours will prove of great assistance. As far as territory covered is concerned, the first in importance is the series to the Golden Gate and Pacific coast points, starting from New York and Philadelphia Feb. 8, March 2 and 29. The same liberal provisions accorded last year, as to conditions and use of tickets, will be in effect for these tours.

A series of five will be run to Florida—Jan. 31, Feb. 14 and 28, March 14 and 28. The rates of $50 from New York, $48 from Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Washington, and proportionate rates from other points, cover all necessary expenses en route in both directions. Tickets for the first four tours will admit of a stay of two weeks in the flowery State, and for the fifth until May 30.

There will be a series of six to Washington, D. C., each tour covering a period of three days—January 19, February 9, March 23, April 13, May 4 and 25. The rates of $12 from New York, and $11 from Philadelphia and Wilmington, and proportionate rates from other places, include railroad fare and hotel accommodations during the stay in the capital. For information and itineraries application should be made to tourist agents, 849 Broadway, New York, and 233 South Fourth street, Philadelphia, or ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad company.

His is a Temperance House.

B. Brittin, of Evona, feels that he has been misrepresented by the papers of Dunellen and Plainfield in the statement that he had opened a saloon at that place. He has simply opened a pool and billiard room, where no intoxicating liquors are sold. He says it is not his intention to apply for a license but simply to conduct a well-regulated temperance pool and billiard room. THE PRESS is glad to hear this from Mr. Brittin.

Robbed While He Was Shaved.

M. Powers hung an overcoat in a local barber-shop, Saturday, with $35 in bills showing their ends from between the leaves of a book in the inside pocket. After his shave, he went to the bank to deposit the money, and found that $17 had been abstracted. There is of course no clue to the thief.

Somerville to Hire Only a Battery Next Season.

The West End Athletic association of Somerville had their annual meeting on Tuesday evening at which time new officers were elected. A resolution passed by the club forbids the employing of anything except a professional battery in the future, the rest of the team to be always of amateurs. The association spent over $4,000 in the past year but claim that a slim balance still remains in the treasury.

A FLOURISHING PARISH.

This Financial Showing Is a Credit to St. Mary's, and an Inspiration for Others.

The annual financial statement of St. Mary's church of this city, is not only always an interesting document but a credit to all concerned and an example to many other like institutions. The figures as given below show contributions of $50 each to Muhlenberg hospital and the Relief association; a reduction of $2,000 in the church debt; and collections alone amounting to over $6,000. One special collection—which was decided upon instead of the usual fair—amounted to $1 062, and among the largest contributors to it, were: Miss Verdon, Mrs John Brown, Mrs. Anne Kelly, the Rev. P. E. Smyth, Patrick Casey, Mr. Harpending, Patrick Keely, John Lavery, I. L. Slevin and Michael Quinn.

The Land Improvement company, desiring to cut a street through the cemetery, the rector secured from them in exchange for the privilege more land on the other side than the church surrendered, besides a fine lot on Beekman street, 75 by 200, upon which a new church can be built as soon as the growth of population in that direction demands it.

The financial statement in detail from Jan. 1, '92 to Jan. 1, '93 is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Balance from last year	$216.51
Pew rent	2,724.41
Sunday collections	1,778.86
Christmas and Easter	1,390.50
Special collection	1,062.00
Monthly collections	895.00
Church debt	944.25
Cemetery	[illegible]
Children's entertainment	[illegible]
Donations	72.25
Diocesan collections	67.25
Total receipts	$10,067.67

EXPENSES.

Salary of priests	$1,650.00
" of sisters	1,200.00
" of organist	425.40
" of sexton	400.00
Interest	1,391.68
Maintenance of house	489.55
Coal	338.33
School expenses	462.96
Repairs	425.65
Insurance	345.30
Vestments and altar supplies	292.43
Furniture	148.34
Music and choir expenses	131.54
Miscellaneous	142.60
Cemetery	111.75
Gas and water bills	115.21
Taxes	165.40
Seminary	100.00
Bishop's cathedraticum	60.00
Muhlenberg hospital	50.00
Plainfield Relief association	50.00
Foreign missions	21.25
Peter's pence	28.00
Clerical fund	20.00
Debt paid	2,000.00
Balance on hand	229.84
Total	$10,067.67

PETER FLYNN, W. C. BOOSE, Auditors.
PATRICK E. SMYTH, Rector.

PLAINFIELD WOMEN AND THE FAIR.

Earnest Workers Appointed at the Head of Each Department.

The meeting of Plainfield women at the Seminary Friday afternoon, for the purpose of conference and organization in regard to the World's Fair exposition, was attended by about twenty-five. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, chairman of the Plainfield committee, presided. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Yardley, of the New Jersey State committee, who explained the work to be accomplished in this city and North Plainfield, and also gave interesting information concerning the plans laid out by the Women's National committee.

The following committees were appointed:

Literature—Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. William Scribner, Miss Kate Erskine.

Colonial Relics—Mrs. Edwin Conklin, Mrs. Charles Sykes, Mrs. O. B Leonard.

Music—Mrs. J Kirtland Myers, Miss Ada Marsh, Mrs. William L. Saunders.

Art—Mrs. John Ward Stimson, Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, Mrs. James Middleditch.

Education—Miss Eliza Elvira Kenyon, Miss Adeline P. Newton, Miss Charlotte E. Clarke.

Philanthropy—Mrs Krom, Mrs. David W. Pond, Miss Edith R. Leonard.

Woman's Work — Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna, Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller.

Tribute to a Worthy Brother.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local Union, No. 155, at the regular meeting held January 10, 1893, passed unanimously the following resolutions in memory of their late brother, Henry G. Shirley:

WHEREAS: It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove by death from our friend and brother, Henry G. Shirley, we offer this as our last tribute to his memory.

Resolved, That in the death of brother, Henry G. Shirley, the United Brotherhood has lost a faithful brother and the Union an esteemed member.

Resolved, That we tender to the family and friends of the deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy in their sorrow.

Resolved, That these resolutions now adopted by this Carpenters Local Union, No. 155, be transmitted to the family of our late brother, and a copy be spread on the minutes of this Local Union, No. 155.

WILLIAM H. LUNGER,
G. W. TERRY,
T. S. THORNE,
Committee.

Too Earnest a Fireman.

Jack Werchamer, in hurrying to Saturday morning's fire, from Alert hose house, met with an accident that necessitated the calling in of two local doctors the next day. But unfortunately they could do nothing, and he will have to be taken to New York for treatment by specialists.

LONDON CHRONICLES COUNSELOR COX'S SUCCESS.

The First Decree Under the New American Copyright Act.

(From The London Times.)

The first decrees entered under the new copyright act by which English publishers are enabled to obtain copyrights in the United States, have just been entered in the United States Circuit court for the district of New Jersey. The suits in which these decrees were made were instituted by Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode, Her Majesty's printers, against the New York Recorder company, and the American Lithographic company, and had relation to a copyright in an engraving entitled "Little Lord Fauntleroy". Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode, who, as proprietors of the "Woodbury company", publish engravings and works of art of all descriptions, employed Charles J. Tomkins, an English engraver, to reproduce, in pure mezzotint, the painting by James Sant, R. A., entitled "Little Lord Fauntleroy". This engraving was duly copyrighted in the United States. Shortly after the first artist's proofs appeared in the American market the engraving was copied by the defendants, whereupon the plaintiffs immediately instructed their representatives, Messrs. E. and J. B. Young and Co., of Cooper Union, N. Y., to institute suits.

Rowland Cox, an eminent member of the legal profession in New York, was retained to conduct the case, and W. Hugh Spottiswoode went over to represent the firm of Eyre & Spottiswoode. The statement of complaint was based upon the allegation that the engraving had been used in the manufacture of the chromo-lithograph made and sold by the defendants, which fact was supported by numerous coincidences which were pointed out. A preliminary injunction was granted by his honor, judge Lacombe, based upon an inspection of the engraving and the chromos and expert testimony. The final decrees now entered recognize the rights of the complainants and provide for perpetual injunctions restraining the sale of the chromo lithographs.

The painting after which this engraving was made was in the Royal Academy exhibition of 1891. The infringement complained of consisted of a lithographic reproduction issued as an "Art Supplement" to the New York Recorder of Feb. 28, 1892, under the title of "A Noble Friend".

The result of this litigation will be satisfactory to all who are interested in British art.

The Police Record for Three Years.

Ex city judge W. E. Codington Monday night made his valedictory report, covering his entire term of three years and one month. During that time 1,077 prisoners were brought before him. Of these, 586 were fined, 122 committed, 5 fined and committed, 82 discharged, 4 held for the grand jury, and 178 released under suspension of sentence. The fines collected amounted to $4,251 26.

LYDIA E.

PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is a positive cure for all those painful
Ailments of Women.
It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure
Backache.
It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That Bearing-down Feeling causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved, and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water. It removes Irregularity,
Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also Dizziness, Faintness,
Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or Womb Troubles.
The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For Kidney Complaints
and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequaled.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25c., cure Biliousness, Constipation, and Torpid Liver. By mail, or of druggists.

All druggists sell the Vegetable Compound, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. Correspondence freely answered.

You can address in strictest confidence,
LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., Lynn, Mass.

A Fall in Prices
OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every gaoment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S
NEWARK, N. J.
9 17 M

THE THIRST THAT PAYS.

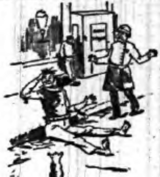
It Isn't the Thirst for Knowledge, According to This Story.

Howard Fielding Tries to Buy a Book in New York, and Passes Some Thousands of Saloons on the Way to the Nearest Store.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

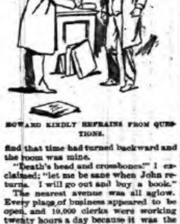
This story has a moral, but not with my advice or consent. I am aware that stories which show the authors, the characters and the readers to be entirely without morals are de rigeur (as we say on the boulevard) in these days, and I would rather lose my self respect than fool away my time on manuscripts that are sure to come back. And yet I was not always thus. I was raised in a New England village where only one woman wore a low-cut dress, and she did not from any improper motive, but because the sharp edge of her collar bones would be always wearing out the goods. However, this is a digression.

I had very important business with a man who had apartments—no, let's be honest, he had a room up three flights, in the rear, swept every 29th of February, with hot and cold water in the kitchen and nobody to bring it up to a fellow if, by chance, he should want to use it; on a street which was very quiet, except for the evidences of negligence on the part of the street cleaning department, and these became very loud in hot weather. I was to meet him there at 8 o'clock, or, if he should be out, I was to wait till he came in, and he might be quite late. He was out when I arrived. Probably some hours of waiting were before me. I sat down to finish the evening paper. On the way uptown I had read everything except the society notes and other, more or less palatable, advertisements. I disposed of these in a few minutes, and time began to hang heavy on my hands.



THE BUSINESS CARRIED ON AT NO. 975.

Why, at such times, does Providence always deny us the consolation of good reading matter? These are the occasions when history could be got into us, or the principles of English grammar, or tariff statistics, or "The Light of Asia," by Sir Edwin Arnold, but we almost never get a chance to learn anything in these moments, when even a soap "ad." (in four unknown languages, including English as she is wrote for such purposes) would be a blessed relief. I looked around my friend's room for a book. He had none. I then read a railroad time table which was lying on the table. It contained a description of a vestibuled express train with a dining car attached. This was very fair fiction; the style was good, the plot was cleverly worked out, and the humor, to anybody who had ever ridden on the train, was delicious. But it was not long enough. I was soon at the mercy of my own thoughts. And, do you know, when a man has spent the best part of his life in such "apartments," and has afterwards escaped by the desperate hazard of matrimony, the thoughts which they bring back to him are cold and desolate enough to chill the marrow of a deep-sea devil fish. I fell into a desperate black trance in which I was conscious of nothing except the fear that I might wake and find that time had turned backward and the room was mine.



HOWARD KINDLY REFRAINS FROM QUESTIONS.

"Death's head and crossbones!" I exclaimed; "let me be sane when John returns. I will go out and buy a book."

The nearest avenue was all aglow. Every place of business appeared to be open, and 10,000 clerks were working twenty hours a day because it was the holiday season—for other people. There was a drug store on the corner and another place for the sale of liquor next door. Beyond that was Eddie Gillie's saloon, where Tom Nolan was shot in October. The place has been very popular since then, and on this evening it was doing a rushing business. The number is 975, but if you must visit the place, don't drink with a strange man. If you do, you will go to sleep in about five minutes, and afterward wake up on the street in a suit of summer underclothes kindly loaned to you by the stranger in exchange for whatever you may have had with you when you accepted his invitation.

In the window of No. 977 I saw some newspapers, and it seemed probable that books might be sold also, though the principal business in the outer shop was, apparently, the sale of cigars.

"Have you books inside?" I asked of the man behind the counter.

"Naw," said he; "dey ain't nuttin' goin' on. Tommy's makin' his book at de track dese days."

I perceived that this was one of the cigar stores which serve as the portals for gambling dens. The man who buys a twenty-five cent cigar on the way in usually cannot afford to borrow a light when he comes out. I went out into the street and passed 979, which is a dive, and 981, which is another dive. No. 983 is ex-Alderman Swagley's place, but the name over the door is McGilligan. This is not a bookstore. No. 985 is a candy store; No. 987 is a saloon; No. 989 is a real, genuine cigar store to the best of my knowledge and belief, though I should not be surprised to learn that Ali Baba rented the second floor and paid one hundred a week to the captain of the precinct. The next few doors that were open for business admitted the unwary to the Cimis hotel. There was once a news-stand and bookstall in a corner of the barroom, but I found that the proprietor had removed it and put in a free lunch counter. All his customers can eat, while comparatively few can read.

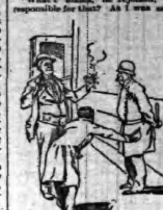
Beyond the hotel is a drug store. I went in and got a patent medicine almanac in order to guard against a total dearth of literature. Then came a dry goods store, followed by a wet goods store. No. 1009 is Reddy Gallagher's. He has a saloon and poolroom on the second floor, and above is a hot and glittering den where one has a large and liberal choice of gambling games. It's funny, too, that whichever one you choose, it's a hundred to one that it gets the better of you. Next door, uptown, is Levi Israelstein's pawnshop. His real name is Jotham P. Perkins, of Eastport, but he has changed it by application to the legislature because it interferes with his business.

Nobody in distress would put himself into business relations with a Yankee horse trader when by walking eight blocks he could get a loan from Solomon Isaacs. Above Israelstein's is Willig's bakery. I regret to say that the [illegible] before Israelstein's door hereafter—to the pawn shop or out of it toward Gallagher's. Nobody wanted bread—or books. I approached a policeman who was standing at a corner, and respectfully removing my hat I asked if he could direct me to a book store.

"Dey uster be one on Fourt' avernoo, near T'irteent' street," said he.

"But, my dear sir," I replied, "that is more than two miles from here."

"What t' blazes," he rejoined; "'m I responsible for that? As I was sayin', Mr. Gallagher, der bes' interests o' this town—"



HE INTRUDES UPON THE POLICEMAN.

I didn't hear the remainder. He was a twenty-four-carat, full-jeweled tough, and his raiment was more gorgeous than the leaves of autumn. A plain, ordinary man could put on a suit of clothes like that, and borrow money almost anywhere. And though his waistcoat alone was worth more money than any suit of clothes I ever wore, I knew its value was greatly enhanced by a retangular package in one of its pockets, consisting of United States notes, beginning with a thousand-dollar bill and sloping gently down to a one on the outside.

I turned from this glittering and successful gentleman, and strolled slowly down to "Fourt' avernoo and T'irteent' street." Sure enough, I found the bookstore. The proprietor, an old man in the last stages of dilapidation, sat in the light of a single small jet, with his head in his hands.

"Glad to find you in," I said; "I've had a long search for a book store."

"I generally close the shop before this time," said he, "but I've been waiting in the hopes somebody might drop in."

I could not help contrasting his appearance with Gallagher's, and I came near asking him why he didn't get out of his business and sell something that people want. But I looked into his mild and honest eyes and couldn't bear to give him pain. Probably, I thought, he cannot get a license on account of his character. HOWARD FIELDING.

She Never Tried It.

He—Miss Kitty, I've heard it said that a kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt; is that so?

She—Well, really, Mr. Smoothface, I don't know—I can't tell—for in all my life I never —

He—Now, now, Miss Kitty!

She— — Never ate an egg without salt.—Puck.

A Matter of Terms.

Slapps—What's the difference between a scoundrel and an unfortunate?

Rapps—Depends on whether he fails rich or poor! If rich, unfortunate; if poor, a scoundrel.—Truth.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

"Christmas comes but once a year," said the optimist, smiling.

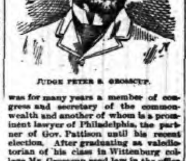
"That's so," replied the pessimist. "If it came oftener it would bankrupt the country."—Judge.

JUDGE GROSSCUP.

The Accomplished Successor of Judge Blodgett, of Chicago.

Mr. Peter S. Grosscup, who has just been appointed judge of the United States circuit court for the northern district of Illinois, was born forty years ago in Ashland, O. His ancestors on both sides were in America long before the revolutionary war. On his father's side his great-grandfather, Paul Grosscup, was prominent in the province and state of Pennsylvania. Paul Grosscup held a commission from King George as a magistrate and served many years both in the provincial and state assemblies. He sat in the constitutional convention in Philadelphia in 1792, his colleague on that occasion being Abraham Lincoln, uncle of the late president. The family came originally from Holland. Mr. Grosscup's maternal grandfather held a commission under Washington and his grandfather was a soldier in the war of 1812. His father and mother came to Ohio as children and are still living, having celebrated their golden wedding last spring.

Mr. Grosscup gets his Christian name, Peter Stenger, from his relatives, the Philadelphia Stengers, one of whom was for many years a member of congress and secretary of the commonwealth and another of whom is a prominent lawyer of Philadelphia, the partner of Gov. Pattison until his recent election. After graduating as valedictorian of his class in Wittenburg college Mr. Grosscup read law in the office of Judge Thomas, of Boston, and then settled down to practice in his native town, forming a law partnership with the late Judge Osborn. He soon developed a special talent for the trial of causes and became a favorite jury and political orator. His method was that of close logic and pointedness, infused with fire and imagination. He entered into politics and found himself when not quite 28 years old the candidate of his party for congress. The year, however, was democratic, and Mr. Grosscup remained with his practice. Two years later a gerrymander threw him into the same district with Maj. McKinley, who as yet had made no mark in congress. The democratic majority rose upward of 2,000, but the young republicans overcame it, electing their candidate by 1,800 majority, a triumph that gave him his first political prestige. Mr. Grosscup was in the front from the time of making the nominating speech in the convention to the election, and ever since has been a special friend to the Buckeye governor. Four years later the state was again gerrymandered, this time by the republicans. Mr. Grosscup got into a republican district, but the counties were strangers to each other and a spirited contest followed, which resulted in his defeat. Determining to leave politics alone, he came to Chicago in February, 1883, and entered into partnership with the late Leonard Swett. During the time of that partnership and since he has taken part in many important trials, among them being the Ker and Mackin cases and the Hoke case at Peoria. These were his only criminal cases. He was chiefly engaged in chancery cases and in argument before the state and United States supreme courts. Many of these cases involved large sums of money, and some, such as the university and Douglas and the Storey will cases, and more recently the Crawford, the Webster and Kean cases, are well known.



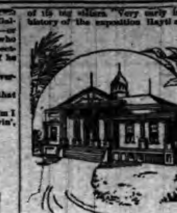
JUDGE PETER S. GROSSCUP.

Mr. Grosscup married the daughter of the late A. A. Taylor, the owner of the extensive flouring mills at Toledo, Mount Vernon, Loudonville and other places in Ohio.

THE HAYTIAN BUILDING.

How the Negro Republic Will Be Represented at the World's Fair.

The republic of Hayti is not very large nor very important among the nations, but so far as the world's fair is concerned it has set an example to many of its big sisters. Very early in the history of the exposition Hayti appropriated $25,000 to assist in its proper representation, and a good slice of the appropriation has been expended in the erection of a special building, which stands almost in front of Germany's big brick structure at Jackson park, in a very desirable location. It is a low, square building, surmounted by a dome, and surrounded on three sides by an ornamental pillared verandah. The coat of arms of the republic is carved over the entrance, with the inscription: "Republique Haytienne, 1492—1804—1893." The date 1804 is that from which Hayti's independence is reckoned.



THE HAYTIAN BUILDING.

DEFENSE OF THE LAKES.

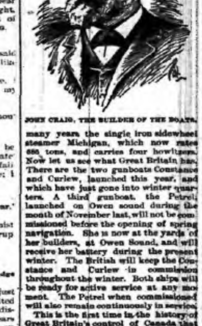
Formidable British "Revenue Cutters" Now in Commission.

Freight-Car Ferryboats That May Be Used for United States War Vessels—Strength and Adaptability of the Boats—Two Already Running.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Under the 1817 treaty the naval defense to be maintained on the great lakes is limited to one war vessel for Great Britain and one for the United States. Great Britain has never found it necessary to maintain her single warship owing to her ability at any time to run fifty or more gunboats into the lakes from the ocean by way of the Canadian canals.

The naval force of the United States on the lakes is now and has been for many years the single iron sidewheel steamer Michigan, which now rates 685 tons, and carries four howitzers. Now let us see what Great Britain has. There are the two gunboats Constance and Curlew, launched this year, and which have just gone into winter quarters. A third gunboat, the Petrel, launched on Owen sound during the month of November last, will not be commissioned before the opening of spring navigation. She is now at the yards of her builders, at Owen Sound, and will receive her battery during the present winter. The British will keep the Constance and Curlew in commission throughout the winter. Both ships will be ready for active service at any moment. The Petrel when commissioned will also remain continuously in service.

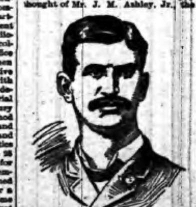


JOHN CRAIG, THE BUILDER OF THE BOATS.

This is the first time in the history of Great Britain's control of Canada that three modern highly efficient gunboats have been deemed necessary for the protection of Canada's lake frontier. There was much secrecy surrounding the construction of the ships, and care was taken to avoid their inspection by outsiders. It would appear that Great Britain's policy is that of a general defense of the Canadian frontier and is the direct outcome of the growing annexation feeling, both in Canada and in the United States.

For military purposes England must hold Canada at all hazards. It gives her a dockyard at Esquimault, her only naval station on the eastern side of the Pacific, and it enables her to send troops to India and her other Asiatic possessions by the Canadian Pacific railroad through her own territory.

The armament of the Petrel is evidently meant for aggressive purposes. She will carry in her battery one 47-inch Maxim-Nordenfeldt rapid-fire supplemented by a battery of 6-pounder Maxim-Nordenfeldt guns. The 47-inch rifle throws a projectile weighing 45 pounds a distance of five miles at a rate of fire of 25 shots per minute. The 6-pounder Maxim-Nordenfeldt gun can throw 45 shots per minute and can pierce 4-inch steel plates at a range of 100 yards. The other boats have similar batteries. Thus, in the event of a war with the United States, cities like Chicago, Milwaukee and Cleveland would be at the mercy of Great Britain and we should be practically powerless. To oppose the immense British fleet which could be brought into the lakes the United States has the three revenue cutters, Johnson, Fessenden and Perry, and the very weak war vessel Michigan. The situation would indeed be very serious were it not for the happy thought of Mr. J. M. Ashley, Jr., the vice president of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railway, who conceived the plan of building gigantic ferryboats for his road, which boats can be converted into warships at twenty-four hours' notice. Two of them have already been launched. They are of great strength and carry twenty-four freight cars each from Kewaunee, Wis., to Frankfort, Mich., across Lake Michigan, a distance of sixty miles, without breaking bulk. This route is operated by several companies, including the Green Bay, Winona & St. Paul, the Grand Trunk, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and the owners of the boats, the Toledo & Ann Arbor company. These companies are in very close relation with each other, and for traffic purposes it is practically one line.



VICE PRESIDENT JAMES W. ASHLEY, JR., PROJECTOR OF THE BOATS.

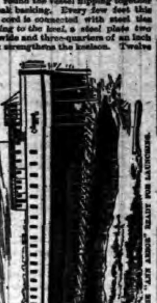
There are a number of steamers in the British merchant service on the Atlantic and other seas that can be taken by that government for warlike purposes. The Inman liners, the City of Paris and the City of New York, came under the arrangement which was made when they were building. The United States government, so far as is known, has not yet contracted with the Toledo & Ann Arbor company to use the latter's boats in the remote contingency of hostilities, but the navy department sent naval officers to inspect them with a view to their being utilized in case of war. They were built at the yards of the Craig Shipbuilding company, of Toledo, O.

John Craig, the founder and present head of the Craig Shipbuilding company, was born in New York city in 1838. At the breaking out of the war [illegible] he was engaged to turn a number of schooners and steamers from merchant men to gunboats. After carrying on business near Detroit he removed to Toledo and equipped his yards with an improved and complete plant for the construction of iron and steel vessels.

The firm has done much work for the government of the United States. Lieut. Godfrey L. Carden reports that any one of the boats can be converted in all respects into a harbor defense ram, and with a rapid-fire battery well protected by steel shields can justly be expected to silence any craft the British are able to send through the Welland or St. Lawrence river canals. The new vessels have a displacement of 2,350 tons; they are 267 feet in length, with a beam of 52 feet. They have three screws, one on each quarter and the third in the bow. The engines are what are known as the horizontal compound type which will develop a speed of fourteen knots per hour.

The adaptability of the new vessels for ramming purposes will be best understood when it is known that the hull construction is of oak up to two feet above the water line. At the water line there has been provided a belt of iron extending all around the vessel and having a uniform width of six feet throughout.

Extending aft from the bow for a distance of fifteen feet is a solid and massive backing of oak. A steel cord runs round the vessel nipping together the oak backing. Every few feet this steel cord is connected with steel ties running to the keel, a steel plate two feet wide and three-quarters of an inch thick strengthens the keelson. Twelve hundred tons of coal is the capacity of the coal bunkers, sufficient for sixty days' continuous steaming without recoaling. Gun ports can be marked off and cut through for the mounting of broadside rifles. The battery of these vessels—they are all called "Ann Arbor," numbered one, two and so on—can be made up by as heavy ordnance rifles as the navy department may desire. This cannot be said of other vessels on the lakes, as their decks are too light to bear the heavy guns. The naval authorities have long been of opinion that a few fast gunboats, armed with rapid fire guns, can play havoc with the lake shipping and the lake ports.



THE "ANN ARBOR" READY FOR LAUNCHING.

England's ability to send a large fleet into the lakes has been a matter of discussion and consideration in Washington for some years. The building of the boats described goes a long way toward the settlement of the problem of efficient defense on the part of the United States.

The new British revenue cutters, in the opinion of the United States naval experts, constitute a naval force, and it behooves the United States to be watchful.

Hon. J. M. Ashley, the president of the Toledo & Ann Arbor railroad, was a member of five congresses, from 1858 to 1868, was governor of Montana in 1869 and was also lieutenant governor of Ohio. It was his son J. M. Ashley, Jr., the vice president of the road, who planned the construction of the boats. It was a decidedly original and bold idea to build a vessel capable of carrying heavily-laden freight cars across the lakes in the stormiest weather, and to have the boat of such strength and character that she would be easily convertible into a warship. It was by no means an afterthought on the part of the junior Ashley. Long before the first boat was launched he stated that the Ann Arbor No. 1 could be used as a fighting vessel, and naval experts have confirmed Mr. Ashley's judgment. Thus, with this gentleman's forethought and patriotism, Uncle Sam may feel secure on the lake border, as with these car ferry boats the United States will have the nucleus of a suitable fleet of vessels, which, had they been intended exclusively for war purposes, could not have been better designed to resist any aggression on the part of Great Britain on the lakes.

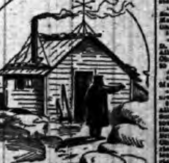
H. B. VALENTINE.

MONT BLANC OBSERVATORY.

Enormous Obstacles to Be Overcome in Its Erection.

Prof. Janssen, of Paris, is the life of the project to build an observatory upon the summit of Mont Blanc, at the highest point of land in Europe, at an altitude of 15,750 feet above the level of the sea. He has just made to the Academie des Sciences in Paris a report of the work's progress during the past season, giving hope that the next year may witness the completion of the observatory.

It will be understood easily, says the Illustrated American, that the obstacles to be overcome are enormous. The enterprise began with an attempt to ascertain the depth of the covering of ice and snow. Shafts were sunk and tunnels were driven into the face of the slope, but notwithstanding the great depth to which the workmen penetrated the rock was not reached. Only ice was encountered. The idea of laying the foundations of the observatory upon the rock was accordingly abandoned, and it will be erected upon the ice. The objection to this is the belief that the ice moves at a slow rate and that the observatory will be carried with it. Then the question of how to get building material to the summit had to be solved. There is no royal road up Mont Blanc, although with favorable conditions the ascension has been made in a day. The celebrated Chamounix guides were enlisted in the enterprise, and they have carried the beams and planks up the mountain at the rate of three francs, or at less than sixty cents, a kilogramme. This charge may seem high, but it is not so when the labor, to say nothing of the actual danger, is considered. One large plank or beam made a load. More than 1,200 loads have been carried up so far. The first stage was to the Grands Mulets, at an altitude of 10,000 feet. This is the hut in which it is customary to pass the night after having climbed up from Chamounix, and from which the ascent to the summit is made on the following day. Readers of "Tartarin on the Alps" will remember that it was here that the hero learned of the real danger [illegible] ghastly relics of past disasters. Practically all the material for the building has been carried to this point; one-half being stored here until next season, and the remainder having been deposited under a cliff at the very summit. The erection of the building will be a comparatively simple operation. It was first put together at Meudon, near Paris, and every piece marked. It is proposed to make the cupola of aluminum instead of steel, as originally intended, in order to save the cost and labor of carrying the greater weight of the latter metal up the mountain.

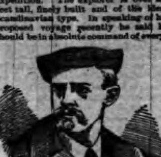


TEMPORARY OBSERVATORY ON MONT BLANC.

DR. FRIDJOF NANSEN.

To Seek the North Pole by an Hitherto Untried Route.

The Norwegian explorer, Dr. Fridjof Nansen, is about to start on another expedition in search of the north pole. He returned in 1889 from a remarkable voyage across Greenland. Dr. Nansen recently came from Norway to London, where he has lectured before the Royal Geographical society on his proposed expedition. The explorer is over six feet tall, finely built and of the ideal Scandinavian type. In speaking of his proposed voyage recently he said he should be in absolute command of everybody on board, scientists included. He will leave Norway in June, victual at Nova Zembla, and some time in July start for the Kara sea, skirting the Siberian coast as far as the mouth of the river Lena, from which point he will steer north until pack ice renders further navigation impossible. Then he will ram the ship as far into the ice as possible and remain for the winter. He expects to be gradually taken by the ice floes right across the polar region down into the east Greenland sea, between Spitzbergen and Greenland, having in this way reached and passed the north pole. He will take provisions for five years, thinking this will certainly be the limit of his voyage. The vessel in which he expects to reach the pole, as described by the New York World, is very serviceable, and is provided with all modern improvements. She is rigged as a three-master fore-and-aft schooner with square sails, which can be rigged on the fore-mast when required. The engines are of about one hundred and seventy indicated horse power. She takes a balloon, to be held captive for purposes of observation, and carries seven boats.



DR. NANSEN.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE

Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after Apr. 25, 1892, trains leave Elizabeth as follows:

8:25 A. M. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for Toledo.

[illegible] P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car to Philadelphia daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Toledo.

8:45 P. M. PACIFIC EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Memphis, Chicago, and Toledo, daily except Saturday. For Cleveland and Columbus.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

1.39 P. M. Through day coaches, [illegible] Cape May, Sea Isle City and Ocean City, [illegible]

For Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville, Phillipsburg and Belvidere via Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville and Phillipsburg only, [illegible] P. M.

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Bordentown, Burlington and Camden via Trenton—[illegible]

A full line of tickets are on sale, and sleeping car accommodations can be secured at the ticket office at Elizabeth.

For further information, see time tables to be had at the station offices.

CHARLES E. PUGH, General Manager.

J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect, Nov. 13, 1892.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Newark [illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Somerville [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Easton [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5 10 A. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport and Tamaqua.

7 10 a. m. for stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge branch.

8 17 A. M. for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. stations, Bangor and Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] for Flemington, D L & W R R, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Shamokin, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

12 27 p. m. way for High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington, Bangor, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Williamsport.

[illegible] p. m., way for High Bridge.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, D. L. & W. R. R. stations, Easton, Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk, Shamokin and Tamaqua. Parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington.

[illegible] P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

[illegible] P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible] A. M. Sunday for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. [illegible] Sundays for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Williamsport, &c. [illegible] p. m. Sundays for High Bridge Branch, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Reading and Harrisburg. [illegible] Sundays for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, &c.

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

For Perth Amboy, [illegible]

For Freehold, [illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, [illegible]

For Trenton [illegible]

For Baltimore and Washington at [illegible]

[illegible]

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Sup't.

H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS—[illegible] AND SUBURBS [illegible] FROM PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—49 North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 5th st
Ames, C. J.	13 Crescent ave.
Alert Hose Co., No 1	Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. K.	39 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D C	86 Grove st
Brokaw, P W	Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac E	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo W	9th and Union sts.
Barkelew & Dunn	15 North ave.
Boice, W. C., M. D.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 9th st.
Bonhower, J E	Park av and 2d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	10 E 5th st
Board of Education	[illegible] st, 5th and Duer sts
Booth, E H	25 Madison ave
	5th & Liberty, 4th & Monroe
Clark, E B	3 Waywood place
Children's Home	Jefferson ave.
Clawson, James T	Richmond and Front sts.
Constitutionalist Office	4 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves.
Coy, Rowland	Brookside
Chapman, Mrs. F. A.	9 Third Place
Cruikshank, S. A.	128 Carlton avenue
Corman, J W, M D	40 Somerset st
Chase, B F W	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (G H Lawson, Mgr)	Park ave and Front st
Daily Press	2 North ave.
Depew, Mrs. E. H	12 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	26 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
Demarest, P M	27 Park av
Dumont, John B	12 E 7th st
Decker, T—pay station	Westfield, N J
DeGraff, James	32 E 5th st
Doane, T O—Chief P F D	40 W 5th st
Dellinger, S L	131 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 4th st.
Evening News, T.W. Morrison, Editor	7 Somerset st.
Engine No 1	West 3d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st.
Evans, Geo. C	37 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J	28 West Seventh St
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR. Depot
French, P M & Sons	Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J F	72 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard	26 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, C Frank	49 Somerset st
Grant, Geo W, Chief of Police	38 W 6th st
Goddard, C H	17 Third Place.
Griffen, A M	15 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New sts
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 6th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
Heyniger, L	31 & 33 Somerset street.
Hageman, D. A	107 Sycamore avenue.
Hodges, Dr. Ellis W	49 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas	141 Front street.
Hedden, Albert	4th st. near Park ave
Higgins, M. A	76 East 6th st—20 North ave
Holfield, John H	204 South 2d st—21 Park av
Harder, Francis C	120 Madison av
Hermance, O	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	28 North av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	84 W. Front st
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	5th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T	66 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st.
Lovell, L N	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice	[illegible] 46 Broadway
Laire, J F & Co	3 W Front st
Linke, Frank	42 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	12 Plainfield ave
Myers, J K	17 So. 4th st
McGee, Henry A	Willow ave
McGee, James	Willow ave.
Miller, J O	10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	20 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	South ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. H	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	40 Grove st
Milliken, B F	120 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	45 E Front st
Myers, Lawrence	E Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood.
Newhall, Henry B	16 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
Penton, Jr., Thos B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	49 East Fourth St
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield Beef Co	2d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	9 Park ave
Police Station	Park ave and RR.
Potter C Jr	112 and Division sts
Potts Press Works	South ave
Probasco, Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave. and 9th st
Pope & Co. J. C	6 East Front st
Pittis Thomas	134 Central av
Pond Machine Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
Pierce Hardware Co	42 W Front st
Runyon, F W	1 Front st—Central Times
Reed, Chas A	27 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry C	Broadway
Rosecrance, L A	30 Broadway
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, E. F	Washington avenue
Roberts, D S	17 North avenue.
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	46 Madison ave.
[illegible], Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st.
[illegible], Mrs J	Cor. Manor & Sycamore aves.
[illegible], H. G	[illegible] st
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, E. W. & Co	7th cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L W	Front st
Rogers, D W	43 W 2d st
Rogers, E P jr	24 Westervelt ave
Stover, E W	29 east 9th st
Serrell, Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield av
Seguine, C. J	60 Front street.
Shaw, E J	Front st. opp. Park ave.
[illegible], A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shephard, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	15 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
[illegible], Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	16 E Front st
Thompson, A. D	20-22 North av
Talmadge, Henry F (Res)	Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jno A	Madison av
[illegible], Jos M	55 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and N B'dwy
Tobin & [illegible]	31 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	6th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	27 Somerset st
Tweedy, O. B	11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel	20 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Thorn, E	76 W Front st
United States Express Co	3 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J	10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
Woltman, C	West Seventh street
Wadsworth, W B	9th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	21 Depot
Welchers, J F	W 9th st., near Grand ave
Waters, E, Ass't Chief	34 [illegible] near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
Wotherspoon C G	143 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLANFIEILD.		NEW JERSEY
Asbury Park, N J	[illegible]	Hempstead N Y	[illegible]
Astoria, N Y	[illegible]	Hoboken N J	[illegible]
Babylon, N Y	[illegible]	Hunter's Point N Y	[illegible]
[illegible] N Y	[illegible]	Irvington N J	[illegible]
Bayonne N J	[illegible]	Islip N Y	[illegible]
Bergen Point N J	[illegible]	Jamaica N Y	[illegible]
Bayside N Y	[illegible]	Jersey City N J	[illegible]
Bay Shore N Y	[illegible]	Keyport N J	[illegible]
[illegible] N Y	[illegible]	Kingston N J	[illegible]
Belleville N J	[illegible]	Laurel Hill N Y	[illegible]
[illegible] N Y	[illegible]	[illegible] N J	[illegible]
Bloomfield N J	[illegible]	Little Neck N Y	[illegible]
Bloomingdale N J	[illegible]	Little Silver N J	[illegible]
Boonton N J	[illegible]	Long Branch N J	[illegible]
Brooklyn N Y	[illegible]	Madison N J	[illegible]
Caldwell N J	[illegible]	Matawan N J	[illegible]
Carlstadt N J	[illegible]	Millburn N J	[illegible]
Centreville N J	[illegible]	Montclair N J	[illegible]
Chatham N J	[illegible]	Morristown N J	[illegible]
Closter N J	[illegible]	Newark N J	[illegible]
Colt's Neck N J	[illegible]	New Brunswick N J	[illegible]
Coney Island N Y	[illegible]	Newtown N Y	[illegible]
Cranbury N J	[illegible]	New York N Y	[illegible]
Dover N J	[illegible]	Orange N J	[illegible]
East Norwich N Y	[illegible]	[illegible] N J	[illegible]
Eatontown N J	[illegible]	Passaic N J	[illegible]
Elizabeth N J	[illegible]	Paterson N J	[illegible]
Englewood N J	[illegible]	Perth Amboy N J	[illegible]
Fairview N J	[illegible]	Rahway N J	[illegible]
Fanwood N J	[illegible]	Red Bank N J	[illegible]
Far Rockaway N Y	[illegible]	Seabright N J	[illegible]
Flatbush N Y	[illegible]	Short Hills N J	[illegible]
Flushing N Y	[illegible]	South Amboy N J	[illegible]
Fort Lee N J	[illegible]	South River N J	[illegible]
Franklin Park N J	[illegible]	Staten Island N Y	[illegible]
Freehold N J	[illegible]	Westfield N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Woodbridge N J	[illegible]
Glen Cove N Y	[illegible]	Yonkers N Y	[illegible]
Gravesend N Y	[illegible]	Trenton N J	[illegible]
Hackensack N J	[illegible]	Tarrytown N Y	[illegible]

TWENTY

Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, 3 doors above [illegible]

MR JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to [illegible], Forging, [illegible] and Interfering Horses. [illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

Between [illegible] and Park avenue.

[illegible]

GIVEN TO THE PEOPLE.

A Splendid Institute to Aid Young Men and Women.

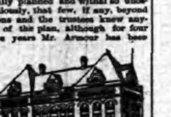
Philip D. Armour, the Famous Chicago Packer, Founds and Endows an Institute Similar to the Great Drexel School.

Chicago is to have an "Armour Institute." Before he left for Europe a few days ago the great packer gave Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, permission to let out the secret of what his new five-story building on Thirty-fifth street is to be used for.

From what Mr. Gunsaulus says it appears that Philip D. Armour has had the scheme in contemplation for some time. He will endow the institute with $1,400,000, which will net it $50,000 a year and the Armour mission $20,000. The plans have been carefully gone over. In the basement will be the electric plant and the forging and iron shops. On the first floor is a library sixty feet square and wood working and reception rooms. The chemical and physical laboratories, lecture rooms and electrical rooms are on the second floor. The third floor will have the mechanical drawing and architectural rooms. Millinery, dressmaking and cooking will occupy the fourth floor, and the fifth will have the gymnasium and technical museum. The building is practically fireproof. Marble is the prevailing material in the interior.

Speaking of this magnificent gift Pastor Gunsaulus had much to say in praise of Mr. Armour. He said:

"Mr. Armour has given a building worth $50,000 complete in the smallest detail, and in addition it is equipped with everything needed for the purposes to which it is to be devoted. The way in which the plan has been perfected is characteristic of Mr. Armour, so quiet and unpretentious. Mr. Armour is one of those men who prefer to see their good deeds take form beneath their own guiding hands rather than wait for their tardy perfection after death. It has all been so thoroughly considered and carefully planned and withal so unostentatiously, that few, if any, beyond his sons and the trustees knew anything of the plan, although for four or five years Mr. Armour has been steadily working upon it. In that time he has collected data upon, and carefully inquired into, the workings of all the philanthropic institutions both in this country and in Europe. From this mass of information he assimilated all that was useful, and as his plan grew and took form he entered into correspondence with such men as Drexel, Pratt and George W. Childs for the still further elaboration of the institute plan.



ARMOUR SCHOOL BUILDING.

"Not the least of his motives has been the glory and honor of Chicago. It has been possible for P. D. Armour to amass a great fortune in this city, and he feels that he owes something to the city and county in which this was done. Perhaps the thing which makes Mr. Armour's gift seem the more gracious is that it forms such a startling contrast with the conduct of Jay Gould, who did no good thing with any part of his wealth."

This ample provision for educating the head, the heart and the hand cannot be otherwise than a great power for good. It will be the means of directly building up to efficiency thousands who otherwise could make but a poor start in the race for life. Its secondary influence will be even greater. Every one of its graduates will be a power for good in the community, a missionary among his fellows, and educating them by association to a higher plane of thought and action than would otherwise be possible to their natures, while the success thus attending the movement will infallibly stimulate others to like noble deeds in behalf of humanity. The monument which Philip D. Armour has raised in Chicago will be a bright and shining example. It will be one through which, when dead as while living, he will be heard speaking in pleasant tones to others, telling them: "Go thou and do likewise."

The Gathmann Torpedo Gun.

The German government has purchased the first of the new torpedo guns invented by Mr. Louis Gathmann, a citizen of Chicago. It is to be regretted that the United States allowed a foreign power to secure control of this weapon, which, according to the highest military and naval authorities, is one of the wonders of the century. It is claimed for the gun that it may be used to arm merchant vessels to resist men-of-war and that it is capable of destroying any ironclad. The invention may be used on any large smooth-bore gun. When the torpedo is inserted in the gun the steering gear is moved toward the front of the charge. When the torpedo is discharged this assumes a position in the rear and directs the course of the missile as well as supplying the propelling power. The torpedo, though it strikes water, will not sink much below the surface, and may be propelled under water as well as in the air.

How Do They Look?

The czarina of Russia, although employing a houseful of seamstresses, makes nearly all the clothing for her youngest children, and also takes their new hats to pieces, and trims them according to her own taste.

Measuring Her Value.

A young man in Indiana rescued a young woman from drowning and was rewarded with four quarts of butternuts.

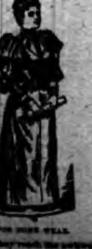
WOMAN OF FASHION.

Prevailing Styles for Very Young Maidens.

The Empire Looks Well on Them—Some Youthful Dance Gowns—House Dresses and How to Make Them Up—Charming Blouse Effects.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

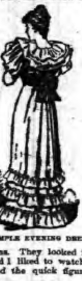
The empire is very accommodating in some respects, although it has been so loudly denounced by society. So many women objected to it, because it hid effectually the beautiful figure they had been so carefully developing for some seasons. It was a shame to conceal the strength of the limb, the long waist line, the square shoulder and straight form under one of those high-waisted, full, baby things, that allowed no one to discover what the form beneath really looked like. And because women rebelled so, there was a sort of compromise effected, and the 1830 styles were brought forward, and the empire was rarely made for the street, but reserved for evening wear and for young maidens. For it suits the maidens particularly well when they reach the awkward age and while they pass through it. The high waist [illegible] will best suggest the softness and grace that seem properly, in poetic fancy, to characterize budding womanhood, but which are so often entirely lacking. The fullness of the high waist and the straightness of the gown hanging therefrom all help to soften the harsh lines there may be about the girl's figure.



FOR HOME WEAR.

So a young girl looks but little different from a full-fledged belle as she enters the crowded parlor of an evening, save that the adorning of her gown is quieter and not so abundant; that the material of the gown is simpler, and that she generally appears in but one color instead of in bright and brilliant combination.

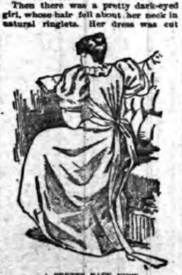
At a New Year's eve gathering of young lads and lasses I saw some very pretty gowns. They looked fresh and natural, and I liked to watch them as they formed the quick figures of the Scotch reel.



A SIMPLE EVENING DRESS.

One girl wore a white dress, with a silver thread forming big squares over it. She had a feather ruche at the edge of her skirt, and a yoke formed by a double row of the feather trimming; then a high ribbon belt tied in two big bows on the side, one falling below the other.

Then there was a pretty dark-eyed girl, whose hair fell about her neck in natural ringlets. Her dress was cut rather low, so that the ringlets had plenty of room to fall over her shoulder. The silk dress of princess cut was a pale-gray shade, and over it fell a gauze slip, with a pretty silvery sheen, embroidered with tiny blue flowers. Pale-blue ribbons, brought from under the arms up into a point both front and back, formed a corselet, headed by a big rosette, from which floated long blue streamers. A ruche finished this dress, also. There was a small ruffle about the neck, falling at the shoulders over a little deeper ruffle, turned a sle-



A PRETTY BACK VIEW.

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.

3-25-y

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Meeting Her on Her Own Ground.

Landlady—No, this room has no fire, but the last gentleman always left his door open and said it was well heated from the hall.

Room-hunter—It won't do, then. I had a friend who once occupied a room heated from the hall, and it was so hot he got the brain fever.

(But the landlady had fainted.)—Puck.

A Danger Signal.

Deacon Medders—Skipps, the cashier of the Onderdonk County bank, ran away last night. They say he has been robbing the bank for more than a year.

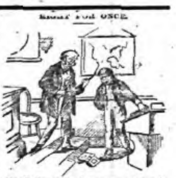
Mrs. Medders—They might have known that he was living beyond his means. Why, Josiah, his folks actually used to sit in their parlor every night!—Life.

A Delightful Perfume.

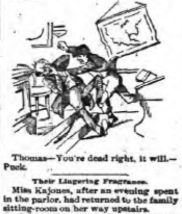
Miss Flypp—Mr. Codling, hasn't that cigarette a pleasanter odor than those you generally smoke?

Mr. Dolley (answering before Codling can take the weed from his mouth)—I don't think it's Codling's cigarette you notice. You merely got a whiff from the garbage cart that just went by.—Truth.

RIGHT FOR ONCE.



Mr. Pedagogue—I am very sorry, indeed, Thomas, that I shall have to punish you. It will hurt me more than it will you.



Thomas—You're dead right, it will.—Puck.

Their Lingering Fragrance.

Miss Kajones, after an evening spent in the parlor, had returned to the family sitting-room on her way upstairs.

"Good night, papa," she said, kissing the paternal Kajones.

"Good night, dear," he answered, "and pleasant dr— phew! What vile cigars young Ferguson smokes these days!"—Chicago Tribune.

Out of His Reckoning.

Adjutant (at a ball after the third set)—Now I fancy I can risk it; by this time our general's fat daughter will surely have filled up her programme. Mein gnaediges fraulein, may I ask to see your programme?

General's Daughter—Where have you been so long? I have only six dances left for you!—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Question of Legs.

"You ought to run all mamma's errands without grumbling," said papa. "Little boys ought to be better than spiders, and yet spiders are just as patient as possible."

"Yes, sir," was the answer; "and perhaps if I had as many legs as a spider I'd be patienter."—Harper's Young People.

He Didn't See.

Innocent—I don't see how you keep the stage in place.

Manager—And why not?

Innocent—It has wings, hasn't it?

Manager—Of course; but —

Innocent—And flies?

Manager—Ye-er-um. Come off.—Detroit Free Press.

A Small Dividend.

Brown—Yes; they thought I was poisoned, and the doctor came with his stomach pump—

Jones—Did he get anything out of you?

Brown—Yes; five dollars.—Puck.

He Told the Truth.

Merchant (to applicant)—You say you have had experience? Well, were you ever in one place as long as six months?

Boy—Yes, sir. I used to be a messenger boy.—Brooklyn Life.

The Way of the World.

Tom—I got a check to-day for my article on the evils of betting.

Lucy—What are you going to do with the money?

Tom—Play the races to-morrow.—Judge.

How He Killed Time.

"Three days on that job; hard work, too!"

"Three days on a little job like that?"

"Yes, three; two in trying to get to work, and the other on the job."—Life.

The Point of View.

Brassy—Your wife is a charming woman. I like her style.

Fender—You wouldn't if you had to pay for it.—Truth.

Quite Unnecessary.

"I can't see," said Jimmie, "why fish have to be cleaned. They're in bathing all the time."—Demorest's Magazine.

Warned.

"Be careful," whispered the clock as it ticked away on the marble mantel.

But he did not heed. His arm was around her waist, and—"Be careful," she whispered.

But he knew that her mother was deaf and that her father was away at the club, so his cheek stole near to hers.

"Be careful," said his good genius, "the first thing you know, young man, you'll be married."

Then he resisted.—N. Y. Herald.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 1893. No 4.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jelf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 128, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. THERES,
Dentist,
26 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jeelf

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 328, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 18 E. Front street, corner Elm street. [illegible]

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue cor. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 38 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apay

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. [illegible]

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
[illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.
o-dly

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Bailed Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-16-tf

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 24.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St. 3-16-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. E. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—8 W. FRONT ST.
[illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5-cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest leaves.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of all the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes, and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

J. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
SEGARS!!
6 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials of every description.
[illegible]

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 28 W. Front street, to 42 West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends, and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. R. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST,

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building),

PLAINFIELD N. J.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

How Christmas Was Celebrated by Our Grandfathers.

Interesting Reminiscences of an Old Washingtonian—When Small Presents Were the Rule and Not, as Now, the Exception.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"Christmas in the national capital fifty years ago," says my venerable friend Capt. Nicholson, "was very different from the modern celebrations of the holy day. In the first place, people were nearer to each other because they lived farther apart, that is to say, they were nearer and closer in friendship, because their residences were not glued and plastered together as they are in the crowded city to-day.

"When I was a boy," continued my friend, "Washington was truly a city of magnificent distances—like hamlets or neighborhoods located in the vicinity of good water from spring or pump and between them through the wild growth of brush, tree and vine meandered a single wagon track. Even Seventh, F and other leading streets were but sparsely built up. There were less than a dozen churches here in all and they were usually in pairs, like the public schools, each denomination having one in the eastern section and one in the western—St. Peter's and St. Matthew's, Catholic; Christ and St. John's, Episcopal; First and Second Baptist; First and Second Presbyterian; Foundry, Ebenezer (Fourth street) and Wesley, Methodist. The only Lutheran church then was the Concordia.

"Nowadays children spread a number of plates for Santa Claus to fill with candies and other good things. In my young days the hanging up of the Christmas stocking was well-nigh universal, and in many families it was not only the children's hosiery which on Christmas morning was found filled hanging at the mantel, but the stockings of our parents kept them company. As to what there was put in them: Well, toys were in less variety and less elaborate than now, and for that matter so were cakes and pies, candies, etc. The girl children came in for the dolly and the boy for the wooden horse or tin horn, and in the stockings were usually placed an apple, some raisins, nuts and candies, with the doll or horse on top. But all did not fare thus, for in the case of those who did not behave well, or who showed an ugly disposition, their stockings would show on Christmas morning a switch, which they were taught had been placed there by 'Bell Snickle,' as Santa Claus or Kris Kringle was then called, the children all firmly believing that 'Bell Snickle' was a real person, and their parents would take the hint, and the reformation of the youthful delinquent was often accomplished.

"But there is an improvement in one custom, which I am glad to note. The people of the modern generation have learned to celebrate Christmas without that insidious intoxicant, egg-nog. When I was a boy every family had a big bowl of egg-nog, and the youngest as well as the oldest partook of the attractive decoction. In these latter days the temperance advocates have taught the people that they can celebrate Christmas and all other holidays without beclouding their brains with alcoholic poison. As to the egg-nog habit, our programme for enjoyment was similar to the programme of to-day. The night before Christmas, after witnessing the cake and pie baking, the children were sent to bed. Such pies! None of your bought mince meat then. Every family made its own mince meat, and, for that matter, excepting the toys, nuts and raisins, Christmas things were manufactured at home. Early in the morning a merry jingle of the fire bells, with the firing of the old flint-lock guns and pistols and crackers (for we had them then, but in more limited supply), awoke us. As soon as half dressed we had our stockings and were discussing the contents. Then we gorged our youthful stomachs with the biggest and best breakfast of the year, played until noon, and again ate and ate until no more dinner could be stored away. Then we played all the afternoon and ate candies until supper time, when we again ate good things until we could hold no more. I would give ten costly brick houses to-day for the appetite of a boy on Christmas day.

THE OYSTERMAN AND THE BOYS.

"Christmas holidays were of twenty-four hours' duration, sometimes thirty-six. The government employes were sometimes allowed to leave an hour or two earlier on the 24th and were expected back on the 26th. Even on New Year's day the clerks worked up to noon and then called on the president. So it was with the school children as to holidays. But it was noticeable that the most unhealthy day in the year was December 26, for but few teachers could make a respectable showing. Headaches and pains from over-eating kept most of the pupils at home.

"The colored oystermen suffered at the hands of the boys in those days, especially about Christmas times. You are doubtless aware of the fact that the police did not amount to much and the poor colored man, slave or free, could not give testimony against a white person, little or big. Well, the oyster man about Christmas would cheerfully answer the call of a crowd of boys, and, thinking they had chipped in their 'fips' and 'levys,' would measure out a pint or quart as might be called. As each one of the crowd gulped down his two or three mouthfuls he would suddenly remember an errand, or that it was time to be in and run off, and when the cup was empty it would be handed back and the young scapegrace would take to his heels. When, however, the oysterman would chase the boy and the latter be in danger of being caught the bucket would be attacked and rather than lose all he would give up the chase. If, however, he still continued the pursuit some little fellow would overturn the bucket. I upset a bucket, kicked it over once, and when I saw how hard the man took it I was cut, and afterward we never lost a chance of persuading our parents to buy from him. So you see, there were some bad boys in those days, and I was one of them. We were little cowards, too, to impose upon helpless slaves who dared not strike us, and who could not prosecute us. However, according to the customs of the times, I guess we were not worse than the average boys of the present and rising generation. In the days of Samuel, Joseph, Pharaoh and Confucius, I presume boys were boys, just the same.

"This city has changed, in fifty years, more than the customs have changed. When I was a boy there was plenty of fresh air out of doors. To-day the houses are so close together, the yards are so small, the [illegible] gazing that the whole town seems 'dinky' to me. Fifty years ago Pennsylvania avenue was a dirt road with two rows of poplars in the middle from the capitol to Fifteenth street. There was in this distance two wooden bridges—one the well-known Tiber bridge at Second street, which was replaced by a brick and stone arch a few years before the war, and the other a wooden structure over the run between Ninth and Tenth streets. This run, which had its source at the springs in Franklin square, coursed down between Ninth and Tenth streets and emptied into the canal. It was about 1833 that the avenue was macadamized, and for this work the district is indebted to a number of our German families who came here to work and settled down. The avenue was not concreted until 1877. I remember the event very well. The work was pushed along in order to have the smooth surface ready for the parade when President Hayes was inaugurated and for the ball given upon the avenue that night. It was a unique affair, and you may readily understand what an impression it made upon my mind as I gazed with my aged eyes upon the old dirt road of my boyhood translated into a floor for fairies and brownies to sport upon.

AN APOLOGY IN CHURCH.

"I remember a church scene which will illustrate to you something of the kind of religion we had in those days. The Sabbath-school of a church in the upper part of the city had, during the preceding summer, held a picnic not a great distance from the church. It so happened that about noon Johnny K., one of the small boys, started home, and seeing a handsomely bound hymn book lying loose carried it home. When he returned, the owner of the book had been informed that Johnny was seen with the book and he was terribly put out, for besides its value—it being handsomely bound and his name appearing on it in gilt letters—it was prized as a gift. As soon as he saw Johnny he called out: 'Go straight home and fetch me the book you stole,' and Johnny left. When Johnny informed his mother what had happened she placed the book in her pocket and with Johnny appeared on the ground. Again the book was demanded, and Aunt Kitty, as she was called, refused to give it up, saying: 'You accused my boy of stealing the book, and you will get it when you apologize for it and not before, for my boy is no thief.' The old gentleman pleaded for its return, but, being a stiff-necked Christian, he obstinately refused to acknowledge his error, and the result was that Aunt Kitty returned to her home with the book. This incident made bad feeling, but finally the old gentleman, under the advice of the pastor, offered to apologize. This offer the old lady repelled, saying: 'No, sir; the accusation was made in the presence of a crowd, and an apology will only be accepted when made before a crowd equally large.'

"Thus the matter stood until the Sunday-school Christmas entertainment took place, when the church was filled in every nook and corner. The opening piece had been sung and the old lady having told the owner: 'Now is your chance,' he at once walked out upon the platform, made a little address on the use of hasty words and their evil results, closing, by relating the incident and doing what he could to recall the words. Just as he closed the old lady called little Johnny, gave him the book, and he at once ran to the platform and placed it in the hands of the old gentleman. To say that the applause was deafening is drawing it mildly, and for a time the many friends of the parties felt more like rejoicing aloud than quietly sitting in their seats, for it was the end of what seemed at one time to be an irreconcilable quarrel."

SMITH D. FRY.

That Glorious Climate.

Eastern Man—Is that climate of yours all that it is claimed to be?

California Man—Healthiest climate in the world.

"Well, I've heard of a good many people who went there and came back worse than before."

"The climate is all right; but you see, as quick as their health returns, they get interested in the land-boom and buy."

"Yes."

"Well, after that they worry themselves sick trying to sell it."—N. Y. Weekly.

Dangerous Experiment.

"I wish I knew whether my Robert really loves me or not."

"You can easily find out. All you have to do is to make an appointment with some other young fellow; only take care that Robert is informed of what you have done. Then, if he really loves you, he will certainly kill you, and if he doesn't you may rest assured that he is only flirting with you."—Fliegende Blätter.

"When we start our little family government," said the engaged girl, playfully, "I intend to be treasurer."

"And I'll be the president," added the young man, proudly.

"Indeed you won't! We are going to keep a hired girl."—Brooklyn Life.

An Investment.

Mr. Tompkins (to his head bookkeeper)—Williamson, see that young Jonesby's salary is raised two dollars a week.

Williamson—Yessir.

Mr. Tompkins (with a grin)—He's spending all his money on my daughter Alice now.—Chicago News Record.

Discouraging.

Dombey—Bagley is an unfortunate combination.

Anson—How so?

Dombey—He has a quail-on-toast appetite, attached to a liver-and-bacon income.—Brooklyn Life.

A Sure Sign.

"Do you predict a large sale of your new book?"

"It's bound to have. Why, the postal authorities have already decided that it is unfit to be sent through the mails!"—Judge.

A Sensible Mother.

He—I love you, Miss Fanny. Do you return my love?

She—No, indeed. Mamma told me never to love a young man until after I was married to him.—Alex E. Sweet.

In Need of No Pity.

"There goes old Soak through the pouring rain. Poor fellow, he'll be drenched."

"No, he won't; he's waterproof."—Truth.

An Empty Gift.

"I hear they gave the parson a purse this morning."

"Yes, and said they hoped next year to give him something to put in it."—Harper's Bazar.

In a Drug Store.

Maud—He asked for a glass of soda and drank it off as quick as a wink.

Marie—How do you know? Did you see the wink?—Jury.

THE NOBLE RED MAN.

Old Women Among the Indians Are Called "Howlers"

Interviewing a Medicine Man—He Discloses Secrets of Various Tribes Which Have Never Been Divulged to Any Living White Man.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

A SAMPLE SCOUT.

BEFORE I lift the veil that has hitherto covered the secrets of the red man allow me to say a word about my guide. On the plains they call him "Happy Jack." He is a man of medium height, with long, curly hair, a sharp face and a keen eye. Under a cowboy's hat he is really a terrible-looking man; but underneath all that desperate, murderous-looking exterior is a kind heart. I began by dreading this man and ended with loving him. Happy Jack is simply a superb shot. He has Aaron Burr's ability to shoot two pistols at a time in either hand and shoot straight. He is a clean rifle shot, a matchless horseman and trailer. I stumbled on him at a trading store in the Navajo mountains. He had a beautiful horse there which I frequently rode. He is a man about forty-nine years of age. His wild, eventful life has told on him. But he is game yet and good for all day and night in the saddle. His name was originally John Edward Park.

"I've met some very devilish Indians in my time," said he one evening as we were riding along a mountain trail. "But I'll swear the nerviest Indian I ever met was the 'Apache Kid,' whom Lieut. Bean is after now. He'll never get him. What does he know about a trail, while at the same time he has got the finest trailer in the Indian country just ahead of him? Why, the 'Apache Kid' laughs all the way down his sleeve at Bean. He blazes the trail, blazes back signs, sets his horses' shoes backward, walks off his 'sign,' if he has any, in the bed of the river or loses the trail sheer up the steepest mesa while Bean goes round forty miles, only to find the 'Kid' gone.

"I have seen the 'Kid' frequently and talked with him. When he is sober he is not a bad man. It is the old story. I can give you his whole life in a very few words. He was sent to Carlisle when a lad to be educated. He was naturally bright, and his education has made him brighter and sharpened up his wits for satanic deeds. He came home only to find nothing to do. He was an educated Indian, and henceforth he must not associate with the 'common herd.' Idleness bred dissipation and gambling. So he began to drink tiswin, or corn firewater, which is made by boiling down the corn and letting it ferment for three or four days. During the fermentation of the corn he would fast. Then he would saddle his horse and go forth for desperate deeds. If he got out of money he soon got more. He was first a scout under the chief of scouts, Chief Roberts, of Globe City, St. Carlos. He owned some mines in the Pinal mountains. He went first to Mexico as a scout under Maj. Dana. He killed two men in the coal mines of the Turnbull mountains who were in a prospecting party and gobbled the mines. For this atrocity he served two years. At the end of that time he was pardoned.

USING THE BATTLE GLASS.

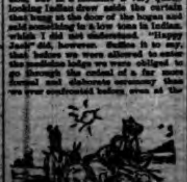
"A short time after this he was caught and handcuffed, about thirty miles from Globe City, Arizona, between Globe City and the Gila river. The 'Kid' after he was handcuffed, dipped his hands into the sheriff's belt, pulled out his pistol, shot the sheriff and killed him, killed the deputy, killed the driver and got away. He has been out ever since. He will never be taken alive and many a man will die before they take him. He wears his tongue in a sling. He can write and talk English as well as you can, but he never does for all that. He is the finest trailer I ever saw. But he is a human secret that will never be found out. He is an Apache, and an Apache when he is driven by his life to become a desperado is a very terrible character. The 'Kid' hates white people. He claims to have been treated badly by them in school, at the agency, on the reservation, everywhere, and he hates the white man.

"There, do you see that little queer looking mound over yonder?" said Happy Jack, as we rode along side by side under the cottonwoods; "that's a medicine lodge. There's an Indian in there can tell you all the Indian secrets you want to know if you only pay him enough. But you must not mention his name in the papers you are writing for, for if you did the Indians would murder him in no time. No one, I'll bet you," said Happy Jack, "has ever gone in there before to ask for secrets. You must be very careful, sir, very careful indeed, for sometimes even money won't save a man's scalp if these savages get the idea into their heads that you are going to betray them."

Here "Happy Jack" drew off his horse to the right and I followed him. A few steps through the trees and we halted at the door of the medicine lodge.

"All At!" sang out "Happy Jack."

There was no response to this salutation, but in a moment a very queer looking Indian drew aside the curtain that hung at the door of the hogan and said something in a low tone in Indian, which I did not understand. "Happy Jack" did, however. Suffice it to say, that before we were allowed to enter the medicine lodge we were obliged to go through the ordeal of a far more formal and elaborate ceremony than we ever confronted before even at the



PICKING UP THE WOUNDED.

[illegible] than that of [illegible] at old Princeton.

The Indian in question was dressed in a long, brilliantly colored blanket, girdled, with a silver belt around his waist, a fillet of beadwork about his hair, a pair of leggined moccasins and stringed necklaces of varicolored beads about his neck. He wore a look of grotesque gravity on his funereal face, and as we entered the door of the medicine lodge behind him a casual observer might easily have supposed that a funeral cortege was descending the steps of a family vault. And in very sooth it was a vault of secrets. A mysterious aspect lay on everything. The interior of the room was strewn with cabalistic curios. Painted sand pictures on the floor, tokens and wattleaux on the walls, which were stenciled with all sorts of weird sketches; loose tangles of leathern strings, shod at the ends with deer or buffalo horn; plumed arrows, sacred painted cigarettes, sweet house sheepskins, the notched wands, the "whizzer," the sacrificial sticks, mysterious Masonic charts and little glass mirrors.

The lodge itself was a simple conical structure of large, partially hewn pinion logs, set on end and inclined at an angle of about forty-five degrees, so as to join one another on top, where they formed the apex of the lodge. The circle of logs was incomplete in the east where the openings for the door and the smoke hole were. A passage or entry about five feet high and three feet wide led from the body of the lodge to the outer doorway, where some blankets hung as portieres. The frame of logs was covered with sods and earth to keep out the wind and rain. The lodge was eight feet in height and twenty-five feet in diameter at the base.

After the ceremonies of entry and approach had been gone through with we entered at once into conversation with the shaman, or medicine man.

The medicine chief is the one man most worthy of consideration. If war takes place he courts the thick of danger if for no other reason than to show his immunity from danger. The most renowned chief that ever lived in the west was the great Cheyenne warrior Min-vits-in-easi-spivo-manist. Black Hawk and Sitting Bull were both medicine chiefs.

My first act was to give the medicine man a bag of good Lone Jack tobacco, which, as the smoke curled up his nostrils, set him fairly a-trembling with delight. I then counted out ten silver dollars and put them into his hand. It acted like a charm. I learned all the secrets which even Catlin, Schoolcraft, Dodge, Haynes, Taylor and a host of others have confessed, in so many words, their inability to find out, and they are published here for the first time.

"Ask him for me what is the favorite method with the Indians of poisoning arrows."

"Happy Jack" did as I requested and the Indian said it was a great secret. "If the Indians knew that I told it they would kill me in no time. You must never tell my name to anybody.

"When the Indians want to poison an arrow they go out and catch a rattlesnake and pin him to the ground, then they take a piece of liver and tease the rattlesnake with it till the snake bites the liver and fills it with poison from his fangs. Then the Indians dip the arrow into the poisoned liver. The bark takes the poison and retains it forever. The secret of the choice of liver as a receptacle for the poison is to be found in the fact that the liver holds the poison and coats the bark of the arrow so that it retains the poison forever. Such an arrow so poisoned, if properly done, will kill after the lapse of one hundred years.

THE MEDICINE LODGE.

"There is another method of poisoning the arrow by dipping the iron barb in the body of a dead man. That is one reason why the Indians invariably transfix the bodies of the dead with arrows."

"Ask him to tell me the famous secret of the sun glass used by the Indians in battle to direct their movements by means of a code of signal rays."

"He is asking me the most sacredly-guarded secrets of the Indians," said the medicine man. "How did he ever know enough to ask such questions?"

It may be incidentally remarked just here that to appear to know nearly all about things concerning which we really knew little or nothing was a bit of strategy we had determined to employ. It charged the Indian with just that much less responsibility for divulging such mysteries or initiating novitiates into the privileges of the acolyte.

"There is," said the medicine chief, "a system of signs and signals which runs all through the Indian race. This is necessary, since every tribe speaks a different language, in order that they may communicate with each other. These signs are made by smoke, blanket, pony, sign language, fire, arrows, flint, steel and mirror. The code of sun glass signals to which you refer is part of a regular system of signals at great distances which has been reduced to a science by the Indians. On a bright day and when the sun is in the right direction a piece of looking glass held in the hollow of the hand of the chief directs the movements of the whole field. The reflection of the sun's rays thrown upon the ranks serves without trumpet or command to communicate the order of the chief. According to the direction of the rays the ranks move east or west or north or south; should there be distinct flashes, the party hurries forward, moving to right or left, as the flashes indicate. If, on the other hand, the scouts sent on ahead discover a large force close at hand a continuous, quick, vibratory, tremulous motion is given the mirror, but no distinct flashes. The party in that case scatter and secrete themselves. The system," said the medicine chief, "is simply perfect. A chief in this way can sit on his horse on the top of a knoll and without a word and with only a slight movement of the hand, direct the movements of his men in the valley below. Civilization has never been able to invent such a system of drilling a troop of cavalry in the field."

"What is the secret among the Indians of sending up smoke in great puffs and then no smoke? How is it done?"

"They hold a blanket for awhile over a small fire, and when the blanket is full of smoke they open it and send up the simple. Indians notice every object as soon as it moves. Ages of transmitted power have trained their vision to keen perception. The signal is only an expansion of the sign."

"How do the Utes bury, and why is a dead Ute never found?"

"They bury by night," said the medicine man, "in a cave, and seal up the cave so you would never know where to begin to look. They will never talk about it to anyone."

"How do they split the buffalo herds?"

"Sometimes a column of buffalo is [illegible] perhaps fifty miles wide and a hundred miles long. The Indians will ride against that rushing wall and split it into two separate wings by means of what is known as the 'flying wedge.' One Indian rides ahead, then two, then three and so on. They shoot a buffalo at the center of the line, say, and quick as it falls another right behind it, and another, till they have felled three or four, thus opening a path which they may enter and which opens gradually wider and wider until the vast herd splits and the two wings slowly separate."

"What are fire arrows used for and why do they make them?" I said to the conjurer of secrets.

"Fire arrows are sent up sometimes as a signal of danger. They are seldom used in war and are generally used for the purpose of burning out raccoons, bears, rabbits, etc., from old hollow trees."

"What are flint and steel used for?"

"For information. Take an example," said the chief. "A party go out to surprise a camp of Indians. An Indian scout is sent ahead. He crawls close to the tepees, counts the lodges and then turning round and drawing his blanket about his head, only letting the front of his face show, he strikes off sparks on the tinder and the counted number of the sparks is the number of lodges."

"Is it true that the Indians were the first masons and that their masonry antedates all others in the past?"

"Every tribe of Indians," said the conjurer, "has its secret societies, which have passwords, grips and signs. They will all deny that such a thing exists, because it is 'big medicine,' but nevertheless it does, for all that. Each tribe, moreover, has its own peculiar chart of masonry, proving beyond all peradventure that the Indians were the first masons in America. The four following charts, which have not been made public before, will probably throw some light on this subject and be recognized by those who are adepts in the mysteries of masonry as incontestible instances of a true masonic order having existed among the Indians prior to any other like order known among the white men of the country."

"What is the sacred medicine made of which they carry with them in their medicine bags?"

"Each brave," replied the medicine chief, "puts a peculiar medicine of his own into the little bag worn on his person and buried with him. It has a religious signification as well as a mysterious one. If a warrior has a run of luck with his medicine he swears by it and retains it. If not he changes it at once."

"Is the 'tribal medicine' simply an expansion of that idea?"

"It is. With most of the Indians the thing is a secret. With some, like the Cheyennes, the 'thing' is known. With the Cheyennes it was fifty years ago a bundle of sagebrush. But the famous 'medicine arrow' changed all this. Now it is a bundle of arrows tied together and tightly wrapt in a 'par-fleche' and suspended in good days over the door of the wigwam. This is the Indians' 'Ark of the Covenant.' There was a secret society connected with it among the Cheyennes. This society met in a lodge outside the camp. If they lose this 'holy bundle' in war the whole tribe will impoverish itself to get it back. The tribal medicine of the Navajos was a little squat stone figure which they got from the Pueblos, as the Pueblos got it in turn from the Aztecs or Toltecs. I have one of these original little Aztec figures over two hundred and fifty years old and yellow with age. The Apaches adopted it in turn from the Navajos, as did also the Utes. The Arapahoes wanted it and finally made war on the Utes and got it. The Utes, when they found their medicine was gone, pursued and scattered them and killed the warrior who had the medicine, but did not recover the sacred medicine, which he had hidden on finding himself pressed. When a tribe wants to get the best of any other tribe it gets away its medicine if it possibly can. The Osages had a stone similar to that of the Utes, only smaller."

"Will you tell me," I asked of the medicine man, "how you cure the sick?"

"I have in the first place a band of old women known as 'The Howlers,' who drive out the evil spirits by their voice. They howl over the sick. If they can't perform a cure I come. I have a tom-tom beaten over the head of the sick. This generally kills or cures. Sometimes I order my patient removed into the sweathouse. There I perform massage until all the rheumatism is taken out of the joints. Scarlet fever is sweated out by two blankets boiled in hot water and wrapped round the body and a third wrapped dry around them both. Fourteen hours of sweat at an open temperature will bring out all the scarlet fever. I'll tell you another wonderful cure for tuberculosis," said the medicine chief. "Take two Spanish flies and put one on each breast and let them bore right through to the lining of the lung. When the aperture is made clap a poultice on each opening and you will get a cupful of corruption out of each lung. This is an old Indian remedy, and when the chiefs visited England long ago they told it there to the doctors, who tried it successfully. In 'making medicine' earth or sands of different colors, ashes of certain plants, bones, birds, animals, reptiles and other ingredients are secured and mixed together in a shallow dish and gently stirred with a stick."

"Indian mothers bear many children."

"The Indian woman is an easy mother. She goes to a thicket alone and returns with the child in her arms. A child is not weaned until another is born."

"Can you tell me of some of the secret signs which they 'blaze' with when they want to indicate danger?"

"There are so many," said the medicine man, "that I hardly know where to begin.

"A sapling cut off to within three feet of the ground with the bark peeled and a stone laid on top of it signifies danger. A trunk with a tomahawk sticking in it signifies war, attack and revenge. A tomahawk or knife driven into the ground signifies a declaration of war."

"What are totems and wotons?"

"A totem is the coat of arms of each individual. There may be also such a thing as a national totem. A totem has no connection whatever with the medicine bag of the individual, nor has it necessarily any religious significance."

"Can you explain to me the mysterious secret which has always been perfectly inexplicable to me how the Indians carry off their dead?"

"I do not wonder that you should be puzzled over such a problem," said the medicine man. "I will tell you. It is a common belief among the Indians of the plains that no warrior who has been scalped ever lives again, but is condemned to utter annihilation. This is the reason why the Indians try to scalp every white man they can, so as to prevent his ever pursuing them again in the happy hunting grounds beyond the grave. For this reason the instant an Indian falls he is seized and carried off the field. The secret of such a feat lies in the drill back of it. The rider is trained to stoop down from his horse while he is at full speed and pick up light objects lying on the ground. Gradually heavier weights are selected, until at last a few Indians reach a state of such remarkable proficiency in this art as to be able to stoop down, and, picking up the body of the heaviest man, swing it across their horses. Warriors are forewarned to raise their arms from the field if wounded or dying. This act is generally performed by two Indians. Riding at full speed side to each on either side of the prostrated form, the riders stoop at the same instant, seize the wounded warrior and with a double effort swing him up in front of one of the riders, who scurries off with him to safe cover or camp.

"In the drills the 'picking' and the 'picked up' take turns at playing dead or wounded. This is the reason why in every engagement with the Indians the significant words: 'Indian loss unknown,' are the only report which young lieutenants thirsting for glory can make with nothing to show for their pains.

"The Indians are greatly helped in this by the horsehair loops which go round the necks of their horses and in which they hang by one arm, using their horse as a shield."

"What is the secret belief of the Indians regarding a man that is either strangled or smothered?"

"They believe," said the old medicine man, "that the soul goes out of the mouth at death, except when a man is either strangled or smothered. In such case the soul hovers around the body forever. This is why they dread hanging so much. No Indian will ever fight in the dark, for he believes that should he be killed in the dark his soul would dwell in the dark forever."

Her Tastes.

Marie—I am very fond of literature.

Jennie—Me, too. Literature and dancing I just dote on.—Chicago News-Record.

A JEWISH REFORMER.

The Eventful Career of Rabbi Isaac Wise, of Cincinnati.

Rev. Dr. Wise, the presiding officer of the central conference of American rabbis, recently in session at Washington, D. C., and the leading spirit of that body, was born in Eger, Bohemia, on April 3, 1819. He was educated at Prague, where he was graduated from the university and from the Rabbinical seminary. He came to the United States in 1846, and after a few weeks in New York city went to Albany, N. Y., where he officiated as rabbi until 1854. During his residence in Albany he gave the Jewish reform movement its first impetus, and in this work, writes Isidore Levi in Leslie's Weekly, he was obliged to face not only obloquy, but even personal violence, from the members of his congregation, a majority of whom differed from him in opinion, and who succeeded, in spite of the efforts of his loyal friends, in driving him from his position. His persecutors were ignorant people, who looked upon any deviation from the narrow religious customs to which they were accustomed in their rural German homes as a menace to Judaism. But so thoroughly have the Wise reforms been adopted at the scene of his first great contest that it would be difficult to find now any man who would confess that he or his father before him had participated in the persecution of Dr. Wise. During this time he was a liberal contributor to the Occident, then the only Jewish paper published in the United States, and he published in 1853 his "History of the Israelitish Nation."

RABBI ISAAC M. WISE.

In 1854 he became the rabbi of "Bene Jeshurun" congregation at Cincinnati, a position he still fills with unabated mental vigor at the age of seventy-three. During the first year of his residence in Cincinnati he issued the first number of the American Israelite, a Jewish newspaper which is an ably-conducted, widely-read and popular Jewish organ. In the following year the Deborah, a German weekly, appeared as a companion sheet to the Israelite under the same editorship. For years Dr. Wise devoted himself to the task of reform and union in Israel. In his pulpit "Let there be light" has been his favorite theme. "Let there be light" is the motto of his papers. The elimination from Judaism of everything not in keeping with the age we live in, the propogation of the elements of human brotherhood and true Americanism, has been his self-imposed task. He succeeded in 1873 in forming a union of American Hebrew congregations which to-day includes all except the most rigidly orthodox in the country. This "union" maintains the Rabbinical seminary at Cincinnati, graduates from which now fill some of the most important pulpits in this country. Dr. Wise's career has been a stormy one, and from the day when a mob of his ignorant coreligionists insulted him in his Albany pulpit to the present day, his reform measures have won enemies for him. Whether, in his zeal, he has ever gone too far; whether his proposition to tear down old landmarks in Judaism is wise, are questions which have given rise to discussion in pulpit and press, and in which all Jews are interested. Their final determination can be safely left to the future.

STATUE OF JUSTICE.

How Ada Rehan Will Appear in Silver at the World's Fair.

Ada Rehan in the character of Justice, or Justice in the personality of Ada Rehan, has been viewed by the public at Sculptor Park's studio, at Chicago. The figure is graceful and reminds one of the actress who posed for it. Like other statues of Justice made by Mr. Park, this one has the eyes unbandaged. The original design of the statue has been considerably modified. As a support to the gold ball on which the figure is poised is an eagle with outstretched wings. The arrangement of the drapery has also been changed.

ADA REHAN AS SHE APPEARS IN THE MONTANA STATUE.

The Principal Point.

Miss Booful—Before we are married, Fred, I want to tell you how I detest profanity.

Mr. Hipple—Rest easy on that score, love, providing you can cook.—Jury.

To Him That Hath.

"Is he so very wealthy?"

"Is he? That man, sir, is so rich that he never has to pay a cent when he travels. He goes all over this country on free passes."—Chicago Tribune.

Rates of Advertising

SPACE	WEEKS 1	WEEKS 2	WEEKS 3	MONTHS 1	MONTHS 2	MONTHS 3	MONTHS 6	MONTHS 12
1 in.	$1.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	20.00
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	25.00
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	7.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	12.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	25.00	35.00	[illegible]	65.00	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 1893. No 4.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—[illegible]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 188, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. [illegible],
Dentist,
40 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—[illegible]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 166, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 91 E. Front street, corner Elm street. [illegible]

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 36 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. [illegible]

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. [illegible]

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 15-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

[illegible] prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I am prepared to do first-class [illegible]. I believe in every man running his own business [illegible] at all times [illegible].
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.
6-11-y

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
[illegible]

ESTABLISHED 1846.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Embossed Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-15-ly

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 24.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
[illegible]

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St. 3-19-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
[illegible]

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to W. L. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—[illegible] W. FRONT ST.
[illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
[illegible]
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
[illegible]
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

J. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
—SEGARS!!—
[illegible] PARK AVE., [illegible]
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
of every description.
[illegible]

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, [illegible] has removed from [illegible] West Front street, to [illegible] West Front street, [illegible] solicits the patronage of his friends, and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. S. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
ARTISTS' SUPPLIES, 20 NORTH AVENUE

C. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, [illegible]
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations,
or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.
WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST,
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

How Christmas Was Celebrated by Our Grandfathers.

Interesting Reminiscences of an Old Washingtonian—When Small Presents Were the Rule and Not, as Now, the Exception.

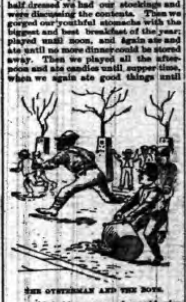
[Special Washington Letter.]

"Christmas in the national capital fifty years ago," says my venerable friend Capt. Nicholson, "was very different from the modern celebrations of the holy day. In the first place, people were nearer to each other because they lived farther apart, that is to say, they were nearer and closer in friendship, because their residences were not glued and plastered together as they are in the crowded city to-day.

"When I was a boy," continued my friend, "Washington was truly a city of magnificent distances—like hamlets or neighborhoods located in the vicinity of good water from spring or pump and between them through the wild growth of brush, tree and vine meandered a single wagon track. Even Seventh, F and other leading streets were but sparsely built up. There were less than a dozen churches here in all and they were usually in pairs, like the public schools, each denomination having one in the eastern section and one in the western—St. Peter's and St. Matthew's, Catholic; Christ and St. John's, Episcopal; First and Second Baptist; First and Second Presbyterian; Foundry, Ebenezer (Fourth street) and Wesley, Methodist. The only Lutheran church then was the Concordia.

"Nowadays children spread a number of plates for Santa Claus to fill with candies and other good things. In my young days the hanging up of the Christmas stocking was well-nigh universal, and in many families it was not only the children's hosiery which on Christmas morning was found filled hanging at the mantel, but the stockings of our parents kept them company. As to what there was put in them: Well, toys were in less variety and less elaborate than now, and for that matter so were cakes and pies, candies, etc. The girl children came in for the dolly and the boy for the wooden horse or tin horn, and in the stockings were usually placed an apple, some raisins, nuts and candies, with the doll or horse on top. But all did not fare thus, for in the case of those who did not behave well, or who showed an ugly disposition, their stockings would show on Christmas morning a switch, which they were taught had been placed there by 'Bell Snickle,' as Santa Claus or Kris Kringle was then called, the children all firmly believing that 'Bell Snickle' was a real person, and their parents would take the hint, and the reformation of the youthful delinquent was often accomplished.

"But there is an improvement in one custom, which I am glad to note. The people of the modern generation have learned to celebrate Christmas without that insidious intoxicant, egg-nog. When I was a boy every family had a big bowl of egg-nog, and the youngest as well as the oldest partook of the attractive decoction. In these latter days the temperance advocates have taught the people that they can celebrate Christmas and all other holidays without beclouding their faculties with alcoholic poison. Aside from the egg-nogg habit, our programme for enjoyment was similar to the programme of to-day. The night before Christmas, after witnessing the cake and pie baking, the children were sent to bed. Such pies! None of your bought mince meat then. Every family made its own mince meat, and, for that matter, excepting the toys, nuts and raisins, Christmas things were manufactured at home. Early in the morning a merry jingle of the fire bells, with the firing of the old flint-lock guns and pistols and crackers (for we had them then, but in more limited supply), awoke us. As soon as half dressed we had our stockings and were discussing the contents. Then we gorged our youthful stomachs with the biggest and best breakfast of the year; played until noon, and again ate and ate until no more dinner could be stored away. Then we played all the afternoon and ate candies until supper time, when we again ate good things until we could hold no more. I would give ten costly brick houses to-day for the appetite of a boy on Christmas day.

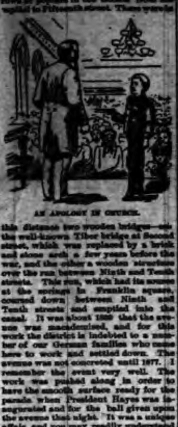


THE OYSTERMAN AND THE BOYS.

"Christmas holidays were of twenty-four hours' duration, sometimes thirty-six. The government employes were sometimes allowed to leave an hour or two earlier on the 24th and were expected back on the 26th. Even on New Year's day the clerks worked up to noon and then called on the president. So it was with the school children as to holidays. But it was noticeable that the most unhealthy day in the year was December 26, for but few teachers could make a respectable showing. Headaches and pains from overeating kept most of the pupils at home.

"The colored oystermen suffered at the hands of the boys in those days, especially about Christmas times. You are doubtless aware of the fact that the police did not amount to much and the poor colored man, slave or free, could not give testimony against a white person, little or big. Well, the oyster man about Christmas would cheerfully answer the call of a crowd of boys, and, thinking they had chipped in their 'fips' and 'levys,' would measure out a pint or quart as might be called. As each one of the crowd gulped down his two or three mouthfuls he would suddenly remember an errand, or that it was time to be in and run off, and when the cup was empty it would be handed back and the young scapegraces would take to his heels. When, however, the oysterman would chase the boy and the latter be in danger of being caught the bucket would be attacked and rather than lose all he would give up the chase. If, however, he still continued the pursuit some little fellow would overturn the bucket. I upset a bucket, kicked it over once, and when I saw how hard the man took it I was cut, and afterward we never lost a chance of persuading our parents to buy from him. So you see, there were some bad boys in those days, and I was one of them. We were little cowards, too, to impose upon helpless slaves who dared not strike us, and who could not prosecute us. However, according to the customs of the times, I guess we were not worse than the average boys of the present and rising generation. In the days of Rameses, Joseph, Pharaoh and Confucius, I presume boys were boys, just the same.

"This city has changed, in fifty years, more than the customs have changed. When I was a boy there was plenty of fresh air out of doors. To-day the houses are so close together, the yards are so small, the streets so congested and [illegible] that the whole town would [illegible]. Fifty years ago Pennsylvania avenue was a dirt road with two [illegible] applied to Fifteenth street. There were [illegible] this distance two wooden bridges—one at Second street, which was replaced by a brick and stone one a few years before the war, and another [illegible] over the run between Ninth and Tenth streets. This run, which [illegible] the avenue [illegible] square, [illegible] and [illegible] into the canal. It was about 1870 that the avenue was macadamized, and for this work the district is indebted to a number of our German families who came here to work and settled down. The avenue was not concreted until 1877. I remember the event very well. The work was pushed along in order to have the smooth surface ready for the parade when President Hayes was inaugurated and for the ball given upon the avenue that night. It was a unique affair, and you may readily understand what an impression it made upon my mind as I gazed with my aged eyes upon the old dirt road of my boyhood translated into a floor for fairies and brownies to sport upon.



AN APOLOGY IN CHURCH.

"I remember a church scene which will illustrate to you something of the kind of religion we had in those days. The Sabbath-school of a church in the upper part of the city had, during the preceding summer, held a picnic not a great distance from the church. It so happened that about noon Johnny K., one of the small boys, started home, and seeing a handsomely bound hymn book lying loose carried it home. When he returned, the owner of the book had been informed that Johnny was seen with the book and he was terribly put out, for besides its value—it being handsomely bound and his name appearing on it in gilt letters—it was prized as a gift. As soon as he saw Johnny he called out: 'Go straight home and fetch me the book you stole,' and Johnny left. When Johnny informed his mother what had happened she placed the book in her pocket and with Johnny appeared on the ground. Again the book was demanded, and Aunt Kitty, as she was called, refused to give it up, saying: 'You accused my boy of stealing the book, and you will get it when you apologize for it and not before, for my boy is no thief.' The old gentleman pleaded for its return, but, being a stiff-necked Christian, he obstinately refused to acknowledge his error, and the result was that Aunt Kitty returned to her home with the book. This incident made bad feeling, but finally the old gentleman, under the advice of the pastor, offered to apologize. This offer the old lady repelled, saying: 'No, sir; the accusation was made in the presence of a crowd, and an apology will only be accepted when made before a crowd equally large.'

"Thus the matter stood until the Sunday-school Christmas entertainment took place, when the church was filled in every nook and corner. The opening piece had been sung and the old lady having told the owner: 'Now is your chance,' he at once walked out upon the platform, made a little address on the use of hasty words and their evil results, closing by relating the incident and doing what he could to recall the words. Just as he closed the old lady called little Johnny, gave him the book, and he at once ran to the platform and placed it in the hands of the old gentleman. To say that the applause was deafening is drawing it mildly, and for a time the many friends of the parties felt more like rejoicing aloud than quietly sitting in their seats, for it was the end of what seemed at one time to be an irreconcilable quarrel."

SMITH D. FRY.

That Glorious Climate.

Eastern Man—Is that climate of yours all that it is claimed to be?

California Man—Healthiest climate in the world.

"Well, I've heard of a good many people who went there and came back worse than before."

"The climate is all right; but you see, as quick as their health returns, they get interested in the land-boom and buy."

"Yes."

"Well, after that they worry themselves sick trying to sell it."—N. Y. Weekly.

Dangerous Experiment.

"I wish I knew whether my Robert really loves me or not."

"You can easily find out. All you have to do is to make an appointment with some other young fellow; only take care that Robert is informed of what you have done. Then, if he really loves you, he will certainly kill you, and if he doesn't you may rest assured that he is only flirting with you."—Fliegende Blaetter.

"When we start our little family government," said the engaged girl, playfully, "I intend to be treasurer."

"And I'll be the president," added the young man, proudly.

"Indeed you won't! We are going to keep a hired girl."—Brooklyn Life.

An Investment.

Mr. Tompkins (to his head bookkeeper)—Williamson, see that young Jonesby's salary is raised ten dollars a week.

Williamson—Yessir.

Mr. Tompkins (with a grin)—He's spending all his money on my daughter Alice now.—Chicago News Record.

Discouraging.

Dombey—Bagley is an unfortunate combination.

Anson—How so?

Dombey—He has a quail-on-toast appetite, attached to a liver-and-bacon income.—Brooklyn Life.

A Sure Sign.

"Do you predict a large sale of your new book?"

"It's bound to have. Why, the postal authorities have already decided that it is unfit to be sent through the mails!"—Judge.

A Sensible Mother.

He—I love you, Miss Fanny. Do you return my love?

She—No, indeed. Mamma told me never to love a young man until after I was married to him.—Alex E. Sweet.

In Need of No Pity.

"There goes old Soak through the pouring rain. Poor fellow, he'll be drenched."

"No, he won't; he's waterproof."—Truth.

An Empty Gift.

"I hear they gave the parson a purse this morning."

"Yes; and said they hoped next year to give him something to put in it."—Harper's Bazar.

In a Drug Store.

Maud—He asked for a glass of soda and drank it off as quick as a wink.

Marie—How do you know? Did you see the wink?—Jury.

THE NOBLE RED MAN.

Old Women Among the Indians Are Called "Howlers"

Interviewing a Medicine Man—He Discloses Secrets of Various Tribes Which Have Never Been Divulged to Any Living White Man.

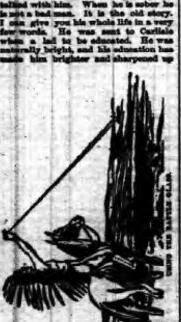
[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

A [illegible]

BEFORE I lift the veil that has hitherto covered the secrets of the red man allow me to say a word about my guide. On the plains they call him "Happy Jack." He is a man of medium height, with long, curly hair, a sharp face and a keen eye. Under a cowboy's hat he is really a terrible-looking man; but underneath all that desperate, murderous-looking exterior is a kind heart. I began by dreading this man and ended with loving him. Happy Jack is simply a superb shot. He has Aaron Burr's ability to shoot two pistols at a time in either hand and shoot straight. He is a clean rifle shot, a matchless horseman and trailer. I stumbled on him at a trading store in the Navajo mountains. He had a beautiful horse there which I frequently rode. He is a man about forty-nine years of age. His wild, eventful life has told on him. But he is game yet and good for all day and night in the saddle. His name was originally John Edward Park.

"I've met some very devilish Indians in my time," said he one evening as we were riding along a mountain trail. "But I'll swear the nerviest Indian I ever met was the 'Apache Kid,' whom Lieut. Bean is after now. He'll never get him. What does he know about a trail, while at the same time he has got the finest trailer in the Indian country just ahead of him? Why, the 'Apache Kid' laughs all the way down his sleeve at Bean. He loses the trail, blazes back signs, sets his horses' shoes backward, walks off his 'sign,' if he has any, in the bed of the river or loses the trail clear up the steepest mesa while Bean goes round forty miles, only to find the 'Kid' gone.

"I have seen the 'Kid' frequently and talked with him. When he is sober he is not a bad man. It is the old story. I can give you his whole life in a very few words. He was sent to Carlisle when a lad to be educated. He was naturally bright, and his education has made him brighter and sharpened up his wits for satanic deeds. He came home only to find nothing to do. He was an educated Indian, and henceforth he must not associate with the 'common herd.' Idleness bred dissipation and gambling. So he began to drink tiswin, or corn firewater, which is made by boiling down the corn and letting it ferment for three or four days. During the fermentation of the corn he would fast. Then he would saddle his horse and go forth for desperate deeds. If he got out of money he soon got more. He was first a scout under the chief of scouts, Chief Roberts, of Globe City, St. Carlos. He owned some mines in the Pinal mountains. He went first to Mexico as a scout under Maj. Dana. He killed two men in the coal mines of the Turnbull mountains who were in a prospecting party and gobbled the mines. For this atrocity he served two years. At the end of that time he was pardoned.



USING THE BATTLE GLASS.

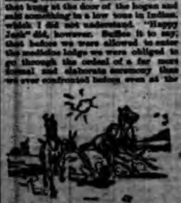
"A short time after this he was caught and handcuffed, about thirty miles from Globe City, Arizona, between Globe City and the Gila river. The 'Kid' after he was handcuffed, dipped his hands into the sheriff's belt, pulled out his pistol, shot the sheriff and killed him, killed the deputy, killed the driver and got away. He has been out ever since. He will never be taken alive and many a man will die before they take him. He wears his tongue in a sling. He can write and talk English as well as you can, but he never does for all that. He is the finest trailer I ever saw. But he is a human secret that will never be found out. He is an Apache, and an Apache when he is driven by his life to become a desperado is a very terrible character. The 'Kid' hates white people. He claims to have been treated badly by them in school, at the agency, on the reservation, everywhere, and he hates the white man.

"There, do you see that little queer looking mound over yonder?" said Happy Jack, as we rode along side by side under the cottonwoods; "that's a medicine lodge. There's an Indian in there can tell you all the Indian secrets you want to know if you only pay him enough. But you must not mention his name in the papers you are writing for, for if you did the Indians would murder him in no time. No one, I'll bet you," said Happy Jack, "has ever gone in there before to ask for secrets. You must be very careful, sir, very careful indeed, for sometimes even money won't save a man's scalp if these savages get the idea into their heads that you are going to betray them."

Here "Happy Jack" drew off his horse to the right and I followed him. A few steps through the trees and we halted at the door of the medicine lodge.

"All Al!" sang out "Happy Jack."

There was no response to this salutation, but in a moment a very queer looking Indian drew aside the curtain that hung at the door of the hogan and said something in a low tone in Indian, which I did not understand. "Happy Jack" did, however. Suffice it to say, that before we were allowed to enter the medicine lodge we were obliged to go through the ordeal of a far more formal and elaborate ceremony than we ever confronted before even at the imposing portals of a [illegible] secret society than that of [illegible] at old Princeton.



PICKING UP THE WOUNDED.

The Indian in question was dressed in a long, brilliantly colored blanket, girdled with a silver belt around his waist, a fillet of beadwork about his hair, a pair of beggined moccasins and stringed necklaces of varicolored beads about his neck. He wore a look of grotesque gravity on his funereal face, and as we entered the door of the medicine lodge behind him a casual observer might easily have supposed that a funeral cortege was descending the steps of a family vault. And in very sooth it was a vault of secrets. A mysterious aspect lay on everything. The interior of the room was strewn with cabalistic curios. Painted sand pictures on the floor, tokens and wattleaux on the walls, which were stuccoed with all sorts of weird sketches; loose tangles of leathern strings, shod at the ends with deer or buffalo horn; plumed arrows, sacred painted cigarettes, sweat house sheepskins, the notched wands, the "whizzer," the sacrificial sticks, mysterious Masonic charts and little glass mirrors.

The lodge itself was a simple conical structure of large, partially hewn piñon logs, set on end and inclined at an angle of about forty-five degrees, so as to join one another on top, where they formed the apex of the lodge. The circle of logs was incomplete in the east where the openings for the door and the smoke hole were. A passage or entry about five feet high and three feet wide led from the body of the lodge to the outer doorway, where some blankets hung as portieres. The frame of logs was covered with sods and earth to keep out the wind and rain. The lodge was eight feet in height and twenty-five feet in diameter at the base.

After the ceremonies of entry and approach had been gone through with we entered at once into conversation with the shaman, or medicine man.

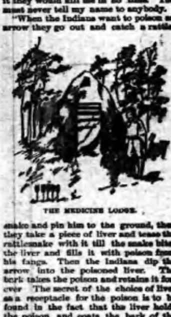
The medicine chief is the one man most worthy of consideration. If war takes place he courts the thick of danger if for no other reason than to show his immunity from danger. The most renowned chief that ever lived in the west was the great Cheyenne warrior Min-vita-in-nani-spivo-maniat. Black Hawk and Sitting Bull were both medicine chiefs.

My first act was to give the medicine man a bag of good Lone Jack tobacco, which, as the smoke curled up his nostrils, set him fairly a-trembling with delight. I then counted out ten silver dollars and put them into his hand. It acted like a charm. I learned all the secrets which even Catlin, Schoolcraft, Dodge, Haynes, Taylor and a host of others have confessed, in so many words, their inability to find out, and they are published here for the first time.

"Ask him for me what is the favorite method with the Indians of poisoning arrows."

"Happy Jack" did as I requested and the Indian said it was a great secret. "If the Indians knew that I told it they would kill me in no time. You must never tell my name to anybody.

"When the Indians want to poison an arrow they go out and catch a rattlesnake and pin him to the ground, then they take a piece of liver and tease the rattlesnake with it till the snake bites the liver and fills it with poison from his fangs. Then the Indians dip the arrow into the poisoned liver. The bark takes the poison and retains it forever. The secret of the choice of liver as a receptacle for the poison is to be found in the fact that the liver holds the poison and coats the bark of the arrow so that it retains the poison forever. Such an arrow so poisoned, if properly done, will kill after the lapse of one hundred years.



THE MEDICINE LODGE.

"There is another method of poisoning the arrow by dipping the iron barb in the body of a dead man. That is one reason why the Indians invariably transfix the bodies of the dead with arrows."

"Ask him to tell me, the famous secret of the sun glass used by the Indians in battle to direct their movements by means of a code of signal rays."

"He is asking me the most sacredly-guarded secrets of the Indians," said the medicine man. "How did he ever know enough to ask such questions?"

It may be incidentally remarked just here that to appear to know nearly all about things concerning which we really knew little or nothing was a bit of strategy we had determined to employ. It charged the Indian with just that much less responsibility for divulging such mysteries or initiating novitiates into the privileges of the acolyte.

"There is," said the medicine chief, "a system of signs and signals which runs all through the Indian race. This is necessary, since every tribe speaks a different language, in order that they may communicate with each other. These signs are made by smoke, blanket, pony, sign language, fire, arrows, flint, steel and mirror. The code of sun glass signals to which you refer is part of a regular system of signals at great distances which has been reduced to a science by the Indians. On a bright day and when the sun is in the right direction a piece of looking glass held in the hollow of the hand of the chief directs the movements of the whole field. The reflection of the sun's rays thrown upon the ranks serves without trumpet or command to communicate the order of the chief. According to the direction of the rays the ranks move east or west or north or south; should there be distinct flashes, the party hurries forward, moving to right or left, as the flashes indicate. If, on the other hand, the scouts sent on ahead discover a large force close at hand a continuous, quick, vibratory, tremulous motion is given the mirror, but no distinct flashes. The party is then seen to scatter and secrete themselves. The system," said the medicine chief, "is simply perfect. A chief in this way can sit on his horse on the top of a knoll and without a word and with only a slight movement of the hand, direct the movements of his men in the valley below. Civilization has never been able to invent such a system of drilling a troop of cavalry in the field."

"What is the secret among the Indians of sending up smoke in great puffs and then no smoke? How is it done?"

"They hold a blanket for awhile over a small fire, and when the blanket is full of smoke they open it and send up the signals. Indians notice every object as soon as it moves. Ages of [illegible] power have trained their vision to keen perception. The signal is only an expansion of the sign."

"How do the Utes bury, and why is a dead Ute never found?"

"They bury by night," said the medicine man, "in a cave, and seal up the cave so you would never know where to begin to look. They will never talk about it to anyone."

"How do they split the buffalo column?"

"[illegible] a column of buffalo [illegible] perhaps fifty miles wide and a hundred miles long. The Indians will ride against that rushing wall and split it into two separate wings by means of what is known as the 'flying wedge.' One Indian rides ahead, then two, then three and so on. They shoot a buffalo at the center of the line, say, and quick as it falls another right behind it, and another, till they have felled three or four, thus opening a path which they may enter and which opens gradually wider and wider until the vast herd splits and the two wings slowly separate."

"What are fire arrows used for and why do they make them?" I said to the conjurer of secrets.

"Fire arrows are sent up sometimes as a signal of danger. They are seldom used in war and are generally used for the purpose of burning out raccoons, bears, rabbits, etc., from old hollow trees."

"What are flint and steel used for?"

"For information. Take an example," said the chief. "A party go out to surprise a camp of Indians. An Indian scout is sent ahead. He crawls close to the tepees, counts the lodges and then turning round and drawing his blanket about his head, only letting the front of his face show, he strikes off sparks on the tinder and the counted number of the sparks is the number of lodges."

"Is it true that the Indians were the first masons and that their masonry antedates all others in the past?"

"Every tribe of Indians," said the conjurer, "has its secret societies, which have passwords, grips and signs. They will all deny that such a thing exists, because it is 'big medicine,' but nevertheless it does, for all that. Each tribe, moreover, has its own peculiar chart of masonry, proving beyond all peradventure that the Indians were the first masons in America. The four following charts, which have not been made public before, will probably throw some light on this subject and be recognized by those who are adepts in the mysteries of masonry as incontestible instances of a true masonic order having existed among the Indians prior to any other like order known among the white men of the country."

"What is the sacred medicine made of which they carry with them in their medicine bags?"

"Each brave," replied the medicine chief, "puts a peculiar medicine of his own into the little bag worn on his person and buried with him. It has a religious signification as well as a mysterious one. If a warrior has a run of luck with his medicine he swears by it and retains it. If not he changes it at once."

"Is the 'tribal medicine' simply an expansion of that idea?"

"It is. With most of the Indians the thing is a secret. With some, like the Cheyennes, the 'thing' is known. With the Cheyennes it was fifty years ago a bundle of sagebrush. But the famous 'medicine arrow' changed all this. Now it is a bundle of arrows tied together and tightly wrapt in a 'par-fleche' and suspended in good days over the door of the wigwam. This is the Indians' 'Ark of the Covenant.' There was a secret society connected with it among the Cheyennes. This society met in a lodge outside the camp. If they lose this 'holy bundle' in war the whole tribe will impoverish itself to get it back. The tribal medicine of the Navajos was a little squat stone figure which they got from the Pueblos, as the Pueblos got it in turn from the Aztecs or Toltecs. I have one of these original little Aztec figures over two hundred and fifty years old and yellow with age. The Apaches adopted it in turn from the Navajos, as did also the Utes. The Arapahoes wanted it and finally made war on the Utes and got it. The Utes, when they found their medicine was gone, pursued and scattered them and killed the warrior who had the medicine, but did not recover the sacred medicine, which he had hidden on finding himself pressed. When a tribe wants to get the best of any other tribe it gets away its medicine if it possibly can. The Osages had a stone similar to that of the Utes, only smaller."

"Will you tell me," I asked of the medicine man, "how you cure the sick?"

"I have in the first place a band of old women known as 'The Howlers,' who drive out the evil spirits by their voice. They howl over the sick. If they can't perform a cure I come. I have a tom-tom beaten over the head of the sick. This generally kills or cures. Sometimes I order my patient removed into the sweathouse. There I perform massage until all the rheumatism is taken out of the joints. Scarlet fever is sweated out by two blankets boiled in hot water and wrapped round the body and a third wrapped dry around them both. Fourteen hours of sweat at an even temperature will bring out all the scarlet fever. I'll tell you another wonderful cure for tuberculosis," said the medicine chief. "Take two Spanish flies and put one on each breast and let them bore right through to the lining of the lung. When the aperture is made clap a poultice on each opening and you will get a cupful of corruption out of each lung. This is an old Indian remedy, and when the chiefs visited England long ago they told it there to the doctors, who tried it successfully. In 'making medicine' earth or sands of different colors, ashes of certain plants, bones, birds, animals, reptiles and other ingredients are secured and mixed together in a shallow dish and gently stirred with a stick."

"Indian mothers bear many children."

"The Indian woman is an easy mother. She goes to a thicket alone and returns with the child in her arms. A child is not weaned until another is born."

"Can you tell me of some of the secret signs which they 'blaze' with when they want to indicate danger?"

"There are so many," said the medicine man, "that I hardly know where to begin.

"A sapling cut off to within three feet of the ground with the bark peeled and a stone laid on top of it signifies danger. A trunk with a tomahawk sticking in it signifies war, attack and revenge. A tomahawk or knife driven into the ground signifies a declaration of war."

"What are totems and watons?"

"A totem is the coat of arms of each individual. There may be also such a thing as a national totem. A totem has no connection whatever with the medicine bag of the individual, nor has it necessarily any religious significance."

"Can you explain to me the mysterious secret which has always been perfectly inexplicable to me how the Indians carry off their dead?"

"I do not wonder that you should be puzzled over such a problem," said the medicine man. "I will tell you. It is a common belief among the Indians of the plains that no warrior who has been scalped ever lives again, but is condemned to utter annihilation. This is the reason why the Indians try to scalp every white man they can, so as to prevent his ever pursuing them again in the happy hunting grounds beyond the grave. For this reason the instant an Indian falls he is seized and carried off the field. The secret of such a feat lies in the drill back of it. The rider is trained to stoop down from his horse while he is at full speed and pick up light objects lying on the ground. Gradually heavier weights are selected, until at last a few Indians reach a state of such remarkable proficiency in this art as to be able to stoop down, and, picking up the body of the heaviest man, swing it across their horses. Warriors are forewarned to raise their arms from the field if wounded or dying. This act is generally performed by two Indians. Riding at full speed neck to neck on either side of the prostrated form, the riders stoop at the same instant seize the wounded warrior and with a double effort swing him up in front of one of the riders, who scurries off with him to safe cover or camp.

"In the drills the 'picking' and the 'picked up' take turns at playing dead or wounded. This is the reason why in every engagement with the Indians the significant words: 'Indian loss unknown,' are the only report which young lieutenants thirsting for glory can make with nothing to show for their pains.

"The Indians are greatly helped in this by the horsehair loops which go round the necks of their horses and in which they hang by one arm, using their horse as a shield."

"What is the secret belief of the Indians regarding a man that is either strangled or smothered?"

"They believe," said the old medicine man, "that the soul goes out of the mouth at death, except when a man is either strangled or smothered. In such case the soul hovers around the body forever. This is why they dread hanging so much. No Indian will ever fight in the dark, for he believes that should he be killed in the dark his soul would dwell in the dark forever."

Rates of Advertising

Space	WEEKS 1	2	3	MONTHS 1	2	3	6	12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double col. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

Her Tastes.

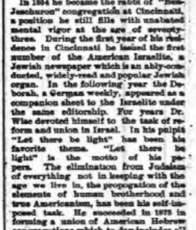
Marie—I am very fond of literature.

Jennie—Me, too. Literature and dancing I just dote on.—Chicago News-Record.

A JEWISH REFORMER.

The Eventful Career of Rabbi Isaac Wise, of Cincinnati.

Rev. Dr. Wise, the presiding officer of the central conference of American rabbis, recently in session at Washington, D. C., and the leading spirit of that body, was born in Eger, Bohemia, on April 3, 1819. He was educated at Prague, where he was graduated from the university and from the Rabbinical seminary. He came to the United States in 1846, and after a few weeks in New York city went to Albany, N. Y., where he officiated as rabbi until 1854. During his residence in Albany he gave the Jewish reform movement its first impetus, and in this work, writes Isidore Levi in Leslie's Weekly, he was obliged to face not only obloquy, but even personal violence, from the members of his congregation, a majority of whom differed from him in opinion, and who succeeded, in spite of the efforts of his loyal friends, in driving him from his position. His persecutors were ignorant people, who looked upon any deviation from the narrow religious customs to which they were accustomed in their rural German homes as a menace to Judaism. But so thoroughly have the Wise reforms been adopted at the scene of his first great contest that it would be difficult to find now any man who would confess that he or his father before him had participated in the persecution of Dr. Wise. During this time he was a liberal contributor to the Occident, then the only Jewish paper published in the United States, and he published in 1853 his "History of the Israelitish Nation."



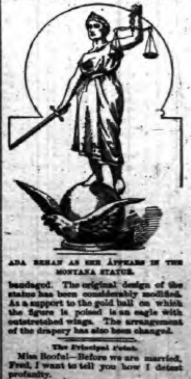
RABBI ISAAC M. WISE.

In 1854 he became the rabbi of "Bene Jeschurun" congregation at Cincinnati, a position he still fills with unabated mental vigor at the age of seventy-three. During the first year of his residence in Cincinnati he issued the first number of the American Israelite, a Jewish newspaper which is an ably-conducted, widely-read and popular Jewish organ. In the following year the Deborah, a German weekly, appeared as a companion sheet to the Israelite under the same editorship. For years Dr. Wise devoted himself to the task of reform and union in Israel. In his pulpit "Let there be light" has been his favorite theme. "Let there be light" is the motto of his papers. The elimination from Judaism of everything not in keeping with the age we live in, the propogation of the elements of human brotherhood and true Americanism, has been his self-imposed task. He succeeded in 1873 in forming a union of American Hebrew congregations which to-day includes all except the most rigidly orthodox in the country. This "union" maintains the Rabbinical seminary at Cincinnati, graduates from which now fill some of the most important pulpits in this country. Dr. Wise's career has been a stormy one, and from the day when a mob of his ignorant coreligionists insulted him in his Albany pulpit to the present day, his reform measures have won enemies for him. Whether, in his zeal, he has ever gone too far; whether his proposition to tear down old landmarks in Judaism is wise, are questions which have given rise to discussion in pulpit and press, and in which all Jews are interested. Their final determination can be safely left to the future.

STATUE OF JUSTICE.

How Ada Rehan Will Appear in Silver at the World's Fair.

Ada Rehan in the character of Justice, or Justice in the personality of Ada Rehan, has been viewed by the public at Sculptor Park's studio, at Chicago. The figure is graceful and reminds one of the actress who posed for it. Like other statues of Justice made by Mr. Park, this one has the eyes unbandaged. The original design of the statue has been considerably modified. As a support to the gold ball on which the figure is poised is an eagle with outstretched wings. The arrangement of the drapery has also been changed.



ADA REHAN AS SHE APPEARS IN THE MONTANA STATUE.

The Principal Point.

Miss Boofut—Before we are married, Fred, I want to tell you how I detest profanity.

Mr. Hippie—Rest easy on that score, love, providing you can cook.—Jury.

To Miss That Much.

"Is he so very wealthy?"

"Is he? That man, sir, is so rich that he never has to pay a cent when he travels. He goes all over this country on free passes."—Chicago Tribune.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

PRESUMPTUOUS.

It is strange how mercenary greed will strive for supremacy. Its appetite appears to grow with gain.

A conclave of wealthy gentlemen, styling themselves "woolen manufacturers and dealers," met during the present month and formally protested against any change in the wool schedules of the McKinley tariff.

Opposition from such a quarter to a revision of the McKinley bounty act was quite natural, because the protestants were directly instrumental in drafting that class-favoring and obnoxious measure in order to enrich themselves at the public expense.

Their action, we repeat, was natural, but rashly presumptuous in the face of such an emphatic popular vote, twice rendered, in favor of doing away with the unjust discriminations and exactions of McKinleyism.

Your protest will not avail, gentlemen.

The popular verdict must be executed.

As soon as possible this country, like other civilized nations, is bound to admit wool free of duty, and revise tariffs in conformity with exact justice and proper protection to all species of labor and legitimate industries, and for the benefit of all the people, not a privileged few.

McKinleyism is doomed.

GUIDING STARS.

Three principles of government inherent in the Democratic party, namely—Equity, Economy and Public Fidelity, are its reliable guiding stars.

Following their leadings will ever pilot the Ship of State through any and all storms that may arise and bowl safely into the haven of national honor and prosperity.

But the pilot must be master of his responsible position, alert with practiced eye to scan dangers, apparent or or disguised, and courageous to discharge every duty thoughtless of personal considerations.

A mere politician, ambitious for self and hungry after spoils, is not fitted to command the Ship of State and steer her clear of reefs and shoals.

It requires a man of different calibre, a clear-headed and liberal-minded statesman, intelligent to discern the right course and bravely determined to pursue it for the people's welfare.

To the credit of the party of Democracy it has commissioned such a helmsman to enter upon duty March fourth next.

THE GAMES WILL STAND.

Decision Concerning the Roadsters' Contests in the Bowling Tourney.

The executive board of the Elizabeth Journal bowling tournament met Monday night to consider the resignation from the league of the Union County Roadsters. The resignation was read and accepted without debate.

The next business for consideration made necessary by the resignation was the scheduled games played and unplayed of the U. C. R.'s.

To bring the matter before the meeting Mr. Whelan moved that the games already rolled with the U. C. R.'s be allowed to stand. This motion was seconded by Mr. Trainor.

Mr. Shreve argued that this action would not be fair to the teams that have not rolled the U. C. R. team, as it would give those that had won from the Roadsters an advantage when the averages were made up. Mr. Whelan answered that the games had been rolled in good faith, and that it would be unjust to deprive any team of a standing which it had made in good faith. He said further that if his team had lost he would vote just the same to let the games stand as it would be taking an unprecedented step if games were thrown out.

Mr. McConnell then said that a gentleman had come to him and asked him to make a statement to the league. This gentleman, he said, was ready and willing to form a team which would be satisfied to accept the Roadsters' average and to bowl the rest of their scheduled games on condition that the league permit several men who have bowled in the league with some of the present teams to join the new team.

The speaker explained that it was not his proposition, but that he had promised to bring the matter to the attention of the executive committee for one who was not a member of that organization.

As the plan had in view the enrollment of bowlers who are at present league contestants the proposition was not favorably received and its consideration was deferred.

Mr. Shreve then offered as an amendment to Mr. Whelan's motion that the clubs which have not rolled with the U. C. R.'s, namely, the Alcyones, Arthur Kulls, Field Club and Pioneers, be allowed to claim each one forfeited game. Mr. Whelan accepted the amendment, and the motion was unanimously adopted.

The corrected record, to date, with forfeited games inserted, will therefore be:

	Won.	Lost	Percent.
Y. M. C. L. A.	7	0	1.000
Arthur Kull Ass'tion	6	2	.750
Elizabeth Field Club	5	2	.714
Alcyone Boat Club	5	3	.625
Crescent League	3	5	.375
Roselle Casino	3	5	.375
C. Y. M. L.	3	5	.375
Pioneer Bowling Club	3	5	.375

What They Are Good For.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the best medicine known.

First—They are purely vegetable, in fact a medicated food.

Second—The same dose always produces the same effect—other purgatives require increased doses and finally cease acting.

Third—They purify the blood.

Fourth—They invigorate the digestion and cleanse the stomach and bowels.

Fifth—They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions.

The first two or three doses tell the story. The skin becomes clear, the eye bright, the mind active, digestion is restored, costiveness cured, the animal vigor is recruited and all decay arrested.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are sold in every drug store and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by [illegible], 33 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. [illegible]

JUSTICE LAMAR DEAD

He Expired Suddenly Last Evening at Macon, Ga.

SEIZED WITH A CONVULSION.

Death Came to Him After a Long Illness—He Had Gone South in Search of Health—Sketch of the Distinguished Southerner's Life.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 24.—The death of Justice Lamar here last evening was a terrible shock to the community. The death was sudden in the extreme, for, although he has been ailing for some time, Justice Lamar appeared to be gradually gaining in health.

He came from Washington to Macon about a month ago, and has been visiting at the residence of Mr. W. H. Virgin, of Vineville, a suburb of Macon.

Yesterday afternoon at about 3 o'clock Justice Lamar took his overcoat, intending to go to the city, but was met at the door by a friend, Dr. Llewellyn, with whom he returned to the sitting room. At that time and during the afternoon he was in good spirits, and at dinner at 6:30 in the evening he seemed to have a good appetite.

Dr. Llewellyn left the house about 8 o'clock, and a few minutes later the Justice was seized with violent pains in the heart and died at the hour mentioned.

Bright's disease with angina pectoris was the direct cause of Judge Lamar's death and is given by the physician as being the chief complication in the case.

The attack was very severe while it lasted and the physician, Dr. A. H. Parker, who had been in attendance, arrived only a few minutes before death. At this time Justice Lamar was unconscious and beyond medical aid.

Restoratives were at once administered but were entirely without avail. He died with his head on Mr. Virgin's hands and apparently without pain, the spasm having passed off at that time.

Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar was born in Putnam county, Ga., Sept. 1, 1825, and after his father's death was taken to Oxford, Miss., where he received a part of his education. He graduated at Emory college, Georgia, in 1845; studied law in Macon, and was admitted to the bar in 1847.

In 1849 he returned to Oxford, Miss., and for a year held a professorship in the University of Mississippi.

He resigned and resumed the practice of law in Covington, Ga. He was elected to the Legislature in 1853, and in 1854 again returned to Mississippi and settled on his plantation in Lafayette, being shortly afterward elected to Congress as a Democrat.

He served from 1857 until 1860, when he resigned to take a seat in the Secession convention of his native State. He cast his fortunes with the "Lost Cause," and left the army with the rank of Colonel, after having shared in many engagements.

He was again a professor in the University of Mississippi, and again took a seat in the House of Representatives; was elected to the Senate March 5, 1877. March 5, 1885, President Cleveland appointed him Secretary of the Interior, and afterward elevated him to a seat on the Supreme Bench.

Mr. Lamar was perhaps as prominent a figure as any that has occupied a seat on the bench of that august body, but for months back he has been almost too ill to take more than a perfunctory interest in the proceedings.

His health has been failing for a long time and it was almost a defiance of nature that he took his seat on the usual decision day—Monday. He left Washington for the South about a month ago.

EFFECT OF MR. LAMAR'S DEATH.

Thought Likely That President Harrison Will Not Fill the Vacancy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—In high official circles it is thought doubtful whether the President will fill the vacancy caused by Justice Lamar's death. The matter of confirmation by the Senate stands in the way of satisfactorily filling the place.

The President would, no doubt, nominate Attorney-General Miller, his personal friend, but there is no secret made of the fact in Republican circles that Mr. Miller would be bitterly opposed, not only by Democrats but also by many Republican Senators who have been offended at the President personally and his Attorney-General on account of patronage.

Should the President conclude to fill the vacancy it is altogether probable that he will do so by promoting a circuit judge from the South, one who has proven acceptable to Southern people and their interests and yet who is a Republican.

The matter will be determined within a fortnight.

When the United States Supreme Court met as usual yesterday a chair draped in mourning again told the story that between the adjournment of the court Monday evening and its re-assembling there had passed away one of its members.

The death of Justice Lamar was not startling to his associates, for they had realized when he left this city for the South, that in all probability he would not resume his seat on the bench; yet it was unexpected, and a shock to them, for the last news they had had from him was to the effect that he was improving and getting along quite nicely.

Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Blatchford, Brewer and Brown will leave this city to-night on the 10:40 train over the Richmond & Danville road for Macon, to attend the funeral, which takes place Friday.

TO IMPEACH GOV. CROUNSE.

Resolution to that Effect Introduced in the Nebraska House.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 25.—The House has taken official notice of the collapse of the Capital National bank. In this bank funds to the amount of $236,000 were deposited on approval of the bank bond by Gov. Crounse.

When the House was in running order, Barry, of Greeley, offered a resolution providing for the impeachment of Gov. Crounse.

The Attorney-General is ordered to present to the Supreme Court at the next session articles of impeachment, charging Gov. Crounse with wilful neglect of duty *in not more closely looking into the matter of the bond; malfeasance in office, in*competency, and carelessness in the performance of his official duties. Under the rules, the resolution went over for one day.

FOR THREE NEW STATES.

Republican Senate Caucus Favors Admission of Oklahoma, Utah and New Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Republican caucus decided by a majority vote to take favorable action upon the admission of the Territories of Oklahoma, Utah and New Mexico, but left Arizona out in the cold.

The caucus developed into a contest between the extreme West and the East and appears to be a victory for the younger members of the Senate.

It is considered a victory, however, in name only, for the subsequent action of the caucus negatived the result of the caucus. It was agreed that the question of the admission should be made the order of business to follow the discussion of the Nicaragua canal.

After the present matter of the Cherokee Strip is disposed of, the Senate will take up the various Interstate Commerce bills that have been or will be reported and will then begin the discussion of the Nicaragua Canal bill.

In the meantime the appropriation bills, which have the right of way, will begin to make their appearance, and will command the attention of the Senators.

It will thus be seen that the chances for the discussion of the bills for the admission of these territories are very slim, and the Eastern Senators, who gave their assent to the caucus programme very reluctantly, have no hesitancy in saying that no action whatever will be taken during this session of Congress.

WEST VIRGINIA SENATORS.

Faulkner to Succeed Himself—Camden for Kenna's Place.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25.—The State Senate and House of Delegates yesterday elected two United States Senators.

In the Senate for the full term of six years beginning March 4 next Charles J. Faulkner, the present Senator, received 20 votes; Stephen B. Elkins, 4.

In the House Faulkner received 38, Elkins, 22, and O. D. Hill, People's party, 2.

For the unexpired term of the late Senator Kenna, ex-Senator Johnson N. Camden received the same vote as Faulkner in both Houses.

NEW JERSEY SENATORSHIP.

James Smith, jr., Elected by Both Houses in Separate Session.

TRENTON, Jan. 25.—The Senate and House took separate ballots yesterday for the election of a United States Senator.

In the Senate James Smith, jr., Dem., received 15 votes, and Wm. J. Sewell, Rep., 5.

In the House Smith got 39 votes and Sewell 21.

The result was ordered printed on the minutes, and to-day Smith's election will be formally announced in joint meeting.

Senator Stewart Re-elected.

CARSON, Nev., Jan. 25.—William M. Stewart was re-elected to the United States Senate by the Nevada Legislature. He was the silver party candidate and received a unanimous vote. Ex-Congressman Bartine was the Republican candidate.

Nebraska Senatorial Deadlock.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 25.—The sixth joint ballot for United States Senator yesterday showed but little change in the situation prevailing for the last five days. Paddock received 29; Powers, Populist, 54; Lieut.-Gov. Majors, 16, a gain of 3.

The Washington Senatorship.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 25.—Two ballots for United States Senator were taken yesterday. There was no change. The vote: Allen, 31; Turner, 35; Griggs, 27; Teats, 9.

NUMBERING THE HAIRS.

The Task Accomplished by an Ingenious English Gold Refiner.

One of the most difficult tasks in the world would seem to be that of counting the number of hairs on your head—that is, of course, if you have any and are not bald. An English gold-refiner, however, states that instead of being difficult it is one of the easiest things to do in the world. Said he: "A very close approximation can be made by weighing the entire amount of hair on a man's head and then weighing a single hair. The weight of the former divided by that of the latter will, of course, give the desired number. If you will pluck out a hair from your head," he added, to the person he was addressing, "I can show you."

The person addressed did so, and the refiner, placing it on his scale, which was inclosed in a glass case and graduated with extreme accuracy, weighed it. It turned the scales at three milligrammes. This the refiner reduced to ounce measure, and discovered that it would require 8,000 of the hairs to make an ounce, and calculating that his friend had six ounces of hair upon his head, reached the conclusion that he had 48,000 separate hairs there.

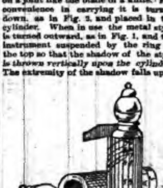
Of what value this was to the man who owned the hair we are not told. The only possible value of such an enumeration lies in whether or not 48,000 hairs were sufficient to cover the man's head, and that could have been determined by a simple glance at the space to be covered, and even then, if there were not enough, it is difficult to see how the owner of the head could be any better off for knowing it.

WATCH WITHOUT WORKS.

The Timepiece Used by the Peasants of the French Pyrenees.

A peculiar form of pocket dial is here illustrated, which is used by the peasants of the French Pyrenees.

The instrument has a movable head holding a piece of metal, which moves on a joint like the blade of a knife. For convenience in carrying it is turned down, as in Fig. 2, and placed in the cylinder. When in use the metal style is turned outward, as in Fig. 1, and the instrument suspended by the ring at the top so that the shadow of the style is thrown vertically upon the cylinder. The extremity of the shadow falls upon the curved line denoting the hour. The instrument must be adjusted for every month in the year, which is accomplished by turning the movable head till the style corresponds with the vertical line denoting the month.



DIAL USED BY FRENCH MOUNTAINEERS.

Such a dial is not very accurate at the best, but it doubtless serves the purpose of the French mountaineers, to whom the loss or gain of a few minutes is of no importance.

USEFUL INFORMATION.

The Frequency with Which the Same Cogs Usually Meet.

In former years, when wooden cogs were mostly used in all kinds of gearing, and in wooden wheels as well, the makers were anxious not to have the same cogs come together too often: because, if both happened to be soft they would wear out the more rapidly; or if one was very soft and the other very hard the soft one would wear very rapidly: either way the wearing would be very uneven, and to secure an even wear on the cogs a frequent interchange of relations was desirable and sought after in the construction of wheels. The matter is not so important now, as iron or iron and wood are used for the purpose. Still, undoubtedly, frequent interchanges of relations between the passing teeth or cogs, is of more or less benefit in securing even wear. The rule for determining the frequency of this interchange, or how often the same cogs will meet, is to divide the cogs or teeth of the pinion into the cogs or teeth of the wheel. If the result is even, without a remainder, as four divided in sixteen, the same cogs will meet at every revolution of the wheel. If there be a remainder, divide it into the teeth or cogs of the pinion. If even the quotient shows how often the wheel will revolve between the meetings of the same cogs. If, however, there is a remainder, the wheel will revolve between meetings as often as there are teeth in the pinion; and that is the greatest difference that can be obtained under any circumstances. The rule is curious if not very useful.—Mechanical News.

The Way Cyclones Turn.

The question is often asked: Why do cyclones, "whirlwinds" and tornadoes all persist in the polar whirl of from right to left? Astronomical speculators have supposed that all the planets once existed as rings of thinly scattered matter around the sun, and that these rings were annular segregations from a vague, irregularly scattered mass that turned one way in spiral courses, thus determining the direction in which the rings revolved, and all the rest from this took the same course. "But," you say, "why did the nebula revolve at all?" It grew from chaos, and chaos, presumably, possessed an inherent motion from right to left. This being the case, from that time to this, sun, moon, stars, planets, cyclones and tornadoes have adhered to the original habit.

Solomon's Pools.

Jerusalem is still supplied with water from Solomon's Pools through an aqueduct built by the Crusaders.

A Serious Defect.

Trivvet—Why don't you marry Miss Kittish, if you are so much in love with her?

Dicer—I would, were it not for an unfortunate impediment in her speech.

Trivvet—What sort of an impediment?

Dicer—She is unable to say "Yes."—Harper's Bazar.

A Boy's Reason.

Rupert—I should think the goose would get croup with such a long exposed neck, mamma.

Mamma—But she doesn't, does she?

Rupert—No, she doesn't, and I think I know why.

Mamma—Why?

Rupert—Because she's so full of goose grease.—Harper's Young People.

According to Her Custom.

In a Pullman sleeper:

Lady (nervously)—Porter, do you think my things will be safe here?

Porter—'Deed I does, ma'am, [illegible] look under de bed to make sho'!—Chicago Mail Record.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

MISS BULKLEY DELIVERS HER VALEDICTORY,

And the Board of Education Make a Financial Statement of Receipts, Expenditures, Assets and Indebtedness—A Lengthy Report of What Has Been Accomplished.

[From The Press of January [illegible].]

Copies of the following public documents were not supplied to THE PRESS until last evening, though "owing to the courtesy of the board of education" copies were furnished to another paper hours before. There was no reason, nor justice to the people, in such an exhibition of favoritism. The board should not permit itself to be influenced by the personal spite of any one member. Here are the belated reports, in which every guardian, parent and tax-payer has deep interest:

ANNUAL REPORT OF MISS J. E. BULKLEY, CITY SUPERINTENDENT AND SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL OF SCHOOLS, CITY OF PLAINFIELD, TO THE HON. A. B. POLAND, STATE SUPERINTENDENT, FOR THE SCHOOL YEAR, ENDING AUGUST 31, 1892.

To the Hon. A. B. Poland, State Superintendent:

One of our constant and serious problems is the accommodation of our rapidly increasing school population.

An addition of four rooms to the Bryant School, opened at the holidays, was at once occupied by divisions of overcrowded primary classes.

A trained kindergartner, graduate of Miss Kraus Boelte's school, was placed in charge of the youngest class in a suitably furnished room, and we were thus brought one step nearer our ideal in the earliest training or toward the time when each school, with a room suitably furnished, shall have children of three or four years of age, under wise and skillful direction, developing naturally through utilized work and play to trained habits of observation and self-activity and with acquired facility for the work of the primary.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The next problem will be the accommodation of the High School. It is gradually enlarging its scope and members. Its science work is under the direction of a specialist, and the language classes are crowded to the present limits of room.

The interest in higher education is increasing yearly. Of the nineteen graduates of this year all of the eight boys and some girls expect to enter upon the academic or scientific course of some college, and of the thirty or more coming seniors, most of the girls and boys have already chosen their college and have taken their preliminary examinations. Amherst College has this year been added to the long list of colleges receiving our graduates by certificate. One interesting feature has been the voluntary interest in self-improvement. Debates, senate sessions, papers and other literary efforts, public and private, were some of the means of self-training. Two lectures by Prof. Frederick Starr, of the Museum of Natural History, one on "Early Language", another on the "Daily Life of the Chinese", and a course of lectures on American authors, Holmes, Lowell, Hawthorne, and Emerson, were given by Leon H. Vincent, under the direction of the High School and netted a handsome sum for an addition to our library. The Alumni association, now numbering over three hundred, has this year formed a permanent organization.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

Arithmetic—

All home work is memory work and to secure more intelligent, independent and thoughtful work in Arithmetic has been the aim of the teacher in her direct work with the class. Mental training in grasping the conditions of a problem is made as prominent as skill and accuracy in getting results.

Geography—

More comprehensive plans in Geography include the natural conditions, their relations and their modifying effects. The librarian of our public library has noticed the increasing interest, as pupils with note books gathered material from all available sources for the topics thus developed.

History—

Graphic illustrations have been made a prominent feature of U. S. History, and varieties of methods have been used to impress causes and relations of events.

Language—

Language has formed a part of every lesson, although receiving attention in daily, special lessons. Free, oral expression by the pupils should be made more prominent to correspond with the training in the written form.

Penmanship—

The experiment was tried this year of omitting regular lessons in penmanship for the first half year in the grammar grades. Since pen and ink is used in the first year in the primary, and those in the higher primary grades write as well as formerly in the grammar classes, this will eventually do away with the necessity of training in penmanship in the grammar grades, and permit the use of the time in other directions.

Science—

The classes have made a marked advance in their study of Plainfield fauna, flora and minerals, grouping and classifying, with a study of their most marked characteristics, their observation of birds, trees, plants, moths and butterflies, in some classes keeping a daily record of changes noted. Simple experiments, with such apparatus as each pupil could command at his home, have also been given in each room by a specialist with review by the teacher, in illustration of the laws of natural science, thus enlarging and enriching the grammar course.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS.

In no department have we more skillful teachers nor has there been more marked advance in methods and general intelligence of the pupils.

The results also show that there are dangers in modern methods.

From the extreme of the old memory training in number, we are in danger of neglecting memory. Objects and illustrations are but a means to grasp number and its relations and careful drill and memory work should fasten results. Some of the most interesting sectional teachers' meetings of the year have been in the primary, in which the inventive genius of the teacher has illustrated skill in developing interest or power in fastening facts with classes or well developed plans and theories have been explained in papers by the teachers.

General results—

The result of such skillful training in the primary has been, that individual promotions have been frequent through the year in primary and grammar grades, the work has been advanced beyond the course in classes which, have even permitted the three years' work of a grammar grade to be finished in two by a large section of the class.

The growing special needs of each department has resulted in the formation of sectional teachers' meetings, in which the aim has been to join special study of the philosophy of pedagogy with practice. General meetings have also been held and the teachers have had special pleasure in discussing [illegible] lectures. The "Aims of Early Education", by Miss Tefft, a graduate of the Pestalozzi-Froebel-Verein of Berlin, was joined with chatty reminiscences of her own experiences in German schools. A lecture on "General Principles of Education" was also given by Dr. J. W. Dickinson, secretary of Massachusetts board of education. Last year we were indebted to two members of our board of education for lectures to teachers, one from Mr. Geo. H. Babcock on "Principles of Ventilation", another on "Memory Training" by the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut. Three graduates from the High School form the training class and these have a course of two years with training in psychology, pedagogical principles and methods.

Flag Days—

Instead of permitting the constant wear of our flags we have this year named certain flag days with a national or local significance. The educational effect has been felt in the school and even in the community, in the many inquiries *as to the occasion, and the morning les*son of patriotism in the school has been deepened.

The Library—

An important factor in any school is the use of the library. Our training in literature in the primaries through the use of periodicals has resulted in an added interest in standard authors. The books of the library have been divided among the schools according to their grades; new books were purchased with the proceeds of concerts, added to the State appropriation, and each primary school was furnished with standard authors and books of reference; the grammar grades have books of travel and historical reading with more advanced standard authors, and these are used in class in a reading period or taken home for preparation for the oral or written book review; selections are memorized, after some analysis of thought and style, and a store of material is prepared for the four years' critical study of literature in the High School.

Drawing—

Drawing has been taught on a more comprehensive plan than before, and beside connecting geometrical forms with moulding in clay, paper cutting and pasting, there has been design from study of nature with drawing from the object and original design in colors. Geometric drawing, historic ornament, drawing from casts, mechanical and free hand, have formed part of the well developed plan.

*Looking back over eleven years of su*pervision we find complete revolution in methods and finish in primary work, a development in grammar work with a better philosophic basis, and a general culture and expansion in the High School.

Moral training has resulted in a more law-abiding, self-controlled, self-respecting tone of public opinion, and a healthy interest in athletics shows that the physical has not been neglected.

"We have not attained but strive toward our ideal."

One proof of the value of the school to neighboring cities is the fact that tuition for members out of the district, filling only vacant places in our class-rooms, has been for the year 1891-'92, $2,180 60, while the tuition eleven years ago, 1880-'81, was $397 50.

The best conditions for successful school work exist in Plainfield in a cultured, faithful, efficient corps of teachers, and in a Board of Education, intelligent, independent of favoritism or political influence, who recognize as motive forces in their direction, only the highest good of the school and of the community.

JULIA E. BULKLEY,
City Superintendent and Supervising Principal of Plainfield Public Schools.

ANNUAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, CITY OF PLAINFIELD, FOR YEAR ENDING AUGUST 31, 1892.

RECEIPTS.

1891.
Sept. 1. Balance from Aug. 31, 1891..			$[illegible]
District Taxes received from collector of city:
Arrears 1881		[illegible]
1882		[illegible]
1883		[illegible]
1884		[illegible]
1885		[illegible]
1886		[illegible]
1887		[illegible]
1888		[illegible]
1889		[illegible]
1890		[illegible]
Current year, 1891		[illegible]	[illegible]
State Taxes received from treasurer of city:
State appropriation		[illegible]
State school tax		[illegible]
State school 10 per cent		[illegible]	[illegible]
Interest on arrears tax received from collector			[illegible]
Tuition from non-residents			[illegible]
Library account:
From State		[illegible]
" entertainment		[illegible]	[illegible]
Building account:
By loan from the Mutual Life Insurance Co., N. Y., for Bryant building extension..			[illegible]
			$[illegible]

DISBURSEMENTS.

Teachers' salaries	$[illegible]
Janitors' "	[illegible]
Clerk "	[illegible]	$[illegible]
Books, stationery and general supply	[illegible]
Fuel	1,179.00
Gas	[illegible]	[illegible]
Running school expenses		$[illegible]
Repairs	$[illegible]
Furniture	[illegible]
Insurance Prem. 3 years	[illegible]
Printing	[illegible]
Census taking, 1891, 1892	[illegible]
Incidentals	[illegible]
Assessor and collector fees	[illegible]	[illegible]
Library account books		[illegible]
Payment on Indebtedness:
Bonds and mortgages	$4,000.00
Interest on bonds and mortgages	[illegible]	[illegible]
Building Bryant extension:
Mason work	$[illegible]
Carpenter work	[illegible]
Heating	[illegible]
Painting	[illegible]
Architect	[illegible]
Grading	[illegible]
Legal fees	[illegible]	[illegible]
1892, Aug. 31. Balance unexpended		[illegible]
Balance—General account	$[illegible]
Balance—Building "	[illegible]
Balance—Library "	[illegible]
	$[illegible]
		$[illegible]

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE H. BABCOCK, President.
E. L. FINCH, Secretary.
E. L. FINCH,
REV. J. L. HURLBUT,
Auditing Committee.
Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 14, 1893.

Indebtedness, Sept. 1, 1892:
Washington building bonds, 7 per cent	$[illegible]
Franklin building, bond and mortgage, 5 per cent	[illegible]
Bryant building, bond and mortgage, 5 per cent	[illegible]
Irving building, bond and mortgage, 5 per cent	[illegible]
Total	$[illegible]
Assets:
Cash balance	$[illegible]
Arrears taxes 1881 to 1892	[illegible]
Building account	[illegible]
	$[illegible]

SPOILING FOR A FIGHT.

Plainfield Chosen as the Scene for a Possible Pugilistic Contest.

A sport claiming to be the middle-weight champion of Pennsylvania is in town with his trainer spoiling for a fight. He offers to put up $500 against an equal amount. Last night it was expected that he would meet a well-known Plainfield boxer in a barn in the outskirts of Netherwood, but there was a hitch in the arrangements. The police are on the watch, and the sport and his trainer may get locked up. Several knights say they are willing to smash the "champion's" head for less money than he offers. He would better leave town.

[illegible]

[illegible]

A Rare Accomplishment.

"What an attractive girl Miss Hawkins is."

"Yes she's pretty, but she can't talk."

"What a rare accomplishment for a woman."—Jury.

A Sensible Man.

Gummy—Do you like corn on the ear?

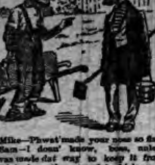
Glanders—Yes; I like corn on the ear much better than on the toe.—Brooklyn Life.

Not that.

He—Well, you know, I judge others by myself.

She—Yes; but isn't that a rather low standard of judgment?—Texas Siftings.

ANSWERED.



Mike—Phwat made your nose so flat?

Sam—I doan' know, boss, unless 'twas made dat way to keep it from pokin' in other people's bizness.—Judge.

Physically Unable to Comply.

"Come and sit around the fire, Emersonia," said the hospitable western relative.

"There are physical limitations that will prevent me from doing so, Aunt Rachel," replied the young woman from Boston, "but with your permission I will sit in front of the fire."—Chicago Tribune.

A Good Shot.

"I never shot a bird in my life," said a friend to an Irishman, who replied:

"I never shot anything in the shape of a bird but a squirrel, which I killed with a stone, that fell into the river and got drowned."—Texas Siftings.

She Knew Her Husband.

"So you found poker chips in your husband's dressing case!" said the woman who makes trouble. "That's proof that he plays cards for money."

"Oh, quite the contrary! If those chips meant money, John would have cashed them long ago."—Puck.

Translated.

A lady writes from Germany that she is discouraged about learning the German language.

A German friend who tried to converse with her in English made such a mistake that she fears she may do as badly in German.

The German gentleman innocently gave this rendering of a familiar saying:

"The ghost is willing but the meat is feeble."

In a Divorce Court.

Defendant's Lawyer—If your honor please, I would like to ask a recess for ten minutes. A maiden aunt of the defendant has died and left him five hundred thousand dollars. I wish to consult with my client for a moment.

Plaintiff's Attorney (hurriedly)—The lady whom I have the honor to represent instructs me to withdraw this complaint. If the court please, I move that the case be dismissed.—Texas Siftings.

Diplomacy.

"Johnny," said his mother, "do you know who ate those cookies I left in the pantry?"

"I do, mamma," replied the noble boy, his eyes filling with tears, "but it would not be manly for me to tell."

And that is how it came that Johnny's brother received two undeserved spankings—one for the cakes he did not steal and another for his truthful denial.—Indianapolis Journal.

Restaurant Grammar.

Beefsteak Ben (waiter in a Bowery restaurant)—De dude waiter must be from Boston.

Porkchop Joe (another waiter)—How jer know?

Beefsteak Ben—He yelled "Two roast beeves!" to the kitchen, 'stead o' "Two roast beefs!"—Life.

AT BEDTIME
I TAKE A PLEASANT
HERB DRINK

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

[illegible]

LANE'S MEDICINE

[illegible] ORATOR F. WOODWARD, Le Roy, N. Y.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.—To Robert Macauley, Defendant.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, wherein Mary Macauley is petitioner, and you are defendant, you are hereby required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the petition of said petitioner on or before the [illegible] day of March next or the said petition will be taken as confessed against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.

WALTER L. HETFIELD,
Solicitor of Petitioner, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Dated January [illegible], 1893.
1 24 4

SHERIFF'S SALE.—New Jersey Supreme Court, Union County— [illegible] John C. Moore, defendant. Alias Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. In debt.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, A. D., 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the right, title and interest of the above named defendant of, in, to and out of all that tract of land situate in the city of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey.

Beginning at a point in the middle of Second street [illegible]

W. H. HICKS, Sheriff.
CHARLES A. REED, Attorney.
[illegible] 1 25 6

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform the public that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,

it has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

[illegible]

C. M. ULRICH,

TOWNSEND'S

Marble & Granite Works,

30 SOMERSET STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf

Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Sweeney, Carman R. Hatfield and Mary E. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah A. Dickinson, guardian, etc., is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainant, on or before the seventeenth day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to Hannah C. Hatfield, dated July 1, 1871, on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and assigned to the complainant, and the other made by Emma A. Jones and Evan Jones, her husband, to complainant, dated November 20, 1885, on lands in the city of Plainfield aforesaid, and you Jane Sweeney, Carman R. Hatfield and Mary E. Pound are made defendants because you, as devisees of Hannah C. Hatfield, deceased, may claim some lien upon the said mortgaged premises, by virtue of a judgment recovered by said Hannah C. Hatfield against said Evan Jones.

Dated December 16, A. D., 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
12 23 6 76 Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.
Fees $[illegible]

Dime Savings Institution

OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
[illegible]

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper O. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court, of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.
12 1 10 MARTIN R. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS
CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York. [illegible]

Scientific American

[illegible] MUNN & CO., Publishers, 361 Broadway, New York City.

LARGEST DRY AND FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN NEW JERSEY

NEWARK

BEE HIVE

MAIL · ORDERS

A Little Information and a Few Suggestions To Assist You and to Help Us

All orders entrusted to us are filled upon day of receipt, if possible.

Should there be any cause for delay, patrons are notified.

We refund money when goods prove unsatisfactory, if returned to us in good condition.

When writing for samples, please state the price, style, color, or width of goods desired. Also send any information that may aid us in giving a speedy and satisfactory reply.

Orders for goods should always be accompanied with sufficient remittance to cover express or postal charges. Should more money be sent than necessary, same is returned.

[illegible]

Purchases to the amount of $5.00 are sent express paid to any point in New Jersey.

When sending remittances, it is always safer to exchange for Postoffice Order or to register letter.

[illegible]

Should any of our customers have cause for complaint, we shall deem it a favor to receive full particulars.

[illegible]

[illegible]

We employ no outside agents. We have no branch stores anywhere. Address all orders to

L. S. PLAUT & CO.

707 to 721 Broad St., Newark, N. J.

STOCK-TAKING.

$80,000

Worth Of

Carpets & Furniture.

*To reduce stock on account of stock-taking, I shall commence Tues*day, January 3, and sell at the following reductions:

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

At Cost! At Cost!

In every department during stock-taking. If you are in need of goods do not miss this opportunity, as you can save about one-third in buying now.

Terms:—

$ 75 down and $ 75 weekly....on $10 00 worth
2 50 down and 75 weekly....on 25 00 worth
4 00 down and 1 00 weekly....on 50 00 worth
6 00 down and 1 25 weekly....on 75 00 worth
8 00 down and 1 25 weekly....on 100 00 worth
12 00 down and 1 50 weekly....on 150 00 worth
16 00 down and 2 00 weekly....on 200 00 worth

Telephone 580 ! Elevator to Every Floor !

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

10-8-1y

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,

Newark Clothiers,

779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.

10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head.
Apply into the Nostrils.—It is Quickly Absorbed.
[illegible] Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
ELY'S CREAM BALM

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,

Successors to [illegible] 1 16 tf 40 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Tim McCarty, of West Front street, won a donkey at Grogan's, Westfield, Saturday, by raffle.

—John Tier cut some ice Wednesday 22 inches thick. The average weight of the cakes was 350 pounds.

—The grocery store of R. W. Rice & Co., Emily street, is now lighted by electricity, from the Edison company's plant.

—An entertainment will be given Monday evening, Jan. 30, at 8, in the Crescent Avenue chapel, for the benefit of the Boys' Mission band.

—Many are anticipating a delightful time at the fifth annual ball of the Gesang and Turn Verein in their hall, 86 and 88 Somerset street, Monday evening, Feb. 13.

—The sprightly and vivacious Dunellen Weekly Call is six months old. It is a most thrifty infant, and editor G. Elston Lowrie deserves the success he is achieving.

—The managers of the Children's Home return thanks to all the friends whose generous donations made the Christmas tree such a happy time for the children at the Home.

—"Lon" Townley and family are mourning the loss by death of a handsome little pet deer, which was sent to them from Texas by Mr. Townley's sister about a year ago.

—A local philanthropist who has investigated says that the begging woman claiming to be from Scotch Plains is utterly unworthy, and advises people not to bestow alms on her.

—Plainfield is to have everything within reach. Manager Runyon will begin at once to extend telephone connections to Somerville and expects to have the line completed in a few weeks.

—The shareholders in the New Jersey Building Loan and Investment company will make their first monthly payments to H. O. Newman, treasurer, at 42 Park avenue, this week Saturday.

—A Columbian bazar and tea will be held in Vincent chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 23, and Friday afternoon and evening, Feb. 24, under the auspices of the missionary societies of the M. E. church.

—President Nevins of the Plainfield street railway company, has made all the contracts for the ties, posts, rails, etc., for the North Plainfield extension, and is now only awaiting the proper weather to begin work.

—A. W. TenEyck has become interested in the property known as Graceland, situated between Fanwood and Westfield on the line of the Central railroad, and offers a good opportunity to home-seekers and investors.

—Wonders never cease. That borough fire-gong, which for weeks has been trying to blow at 7 p. m., usually getting within 10 minutes before or after it, actually hit the exact hour, Saturday night. The populace was greatly excited thereat.

—Workmen are engaged bracing the rear end of the Pond Machine Tool company's shop with brick. The walls of the shop have lately been springing, and the electric cranes are not allowed to come within twenty yards of the end of the shop, until the walls are strengthened.

—The tramp who was given a straw hat and linen duster by a Second street woman Saturday in response to his request for old clothes, gratefully thanked her and asked for a fan to go with them. This she refused, and he went his way in the zero weather, cheerfully whistling "Oh Meet Me by Moonlight Alone".

—The matchless local news service of THE PRESS was again exemplified Friday. At 3:45 the fire alarm called out the fire department and a PRESS reporter. In the regular edition of THE PRESS published within a half-hour afterwards was given a full and exclusive story of the fire and of the Hapenny baby's narrow escape. No other paper had it.

—Gospel meetings are in progress at the Mt. Olive Baptist church. Considerable interest is manifested. Last evening the Rev. R. D. Wynn of New York preached an able sermon. There have been many requests for prayer. This evening the Rev. W. D. Johnson of Westfield will preach. On the first Sunday in February pastor Warnick will baptize.

Installed by Their Society Father.

The rooms of Plainfield council, 711, Royal Arcanum, were the scene of an enjoyable celebration Monday night. Three new members were elected, and two applications received. District deputy Thomas Faries of Bayonne installed the newly-elected officers and made an interesting address. He is the father of the Royal Arcanum in this State, having founded Bayonne council and spread the good work from there. The installation was followed by a collation and other pleasant features. The officers:

Regent—Fred. S. Green.
Vice-regent—Peter A. Emmons.
Sitting Past Regent—August Kietnecke.
Orator— Rae.
Secretary—H. A. Thorne.
Collector—H. S. Mason.
Treasurer—D. W. Littell.
Chaplain—W. J. Leonard.
Guide—Wm. B. Romeon.
Warden—Hiram A. Woodruff.
Sentry—E. W. Conklin.

This Should be Remedied.

The people of East Third street are very much vexed over the way that the street crossing is left at the corner of East Third and Church streets. The road has been cut down and it leaves a flag stone on each side compelling a high step to get up to the sidewalk. Lately the snow has been packed and frozen so that it is impossible to get down without falling, and pedestrians have to take to the road.

Incendiary Fire at Stirling.

An incendiary fire occurred at Stirling Tuesday night, when an unoccupied house belonging to Wm. Oliver was set on fire by some evil-disposed person. The house was situated in the centre of the little town, and endangered houses in the close proximity, but the citizens formed a brigade and by the use of buckets of water and snow the fire was prevented from spreading. Many of the citizens were frost bitten in the zero weather. The loss is about $2,000, partly insured.

Look Out for the Dutch.

A match at live pigeons has been arranged between Morris county's crack shot, Frank Class, of Morristown, and Charley Smith, (Dutchy) of Plainfield. The provisions are 50 live pigeons each, $50 a side, modified Hurlingham rules to govern. The contest will take place on the Morristown Driving Park on the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 8.

Thos. Hale, sr., of East Fifth street, celebrated his 80th birthday a few days ago. There were children and grandchildren present. Mr. Hale has lost his eyesight, and his throat is paralyzed.

The Daily News of Huntingdon, Pa., says "F. A. Dunham who addressed the meeting Friday evening is an expert on road building of all kinds, and he strongly advocated the concrete foundation".

Head and Relief.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This loathsome disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

PERSONALIA.

Alfred Wright, of Park avenue, is very ill with mumps.

There will be a cotillion at the Casino Monday evening, Jan. 30.

D. D. Wayandt of Bowerston, Ohio, is visiting friends in this city.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boome is ill of pneumonia.

Walter Scott has just been granted a patent for a multi-color printing machine.

Mrs. O. L. Potter of Bloomfield is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Hale, of East Fifth street.

Miss Carrie Moore of Cranford is the guest of George Randolph of Grandview avenue.

Officer George R. Rockafellow, of 68 West Front street, is confined to his bed by illness.

Mrs. Rounsaville, of 22 Pearl street, is confined to her home with a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. J. Day and child of New York have gone home after a pleasant visit with relatives.

Miss Mamie Bradshaw, granddaughter of Mrs. Sarah Doane, is to be married on the 10th of April.

Judge Crosley is so indisposed that he cannot leave the house. He holds court at his residence.

Mrs. Pliny Fisk and Mrs. Charles Brooks are at St. Augustine, the guests of Mrs. Harry Ruckle.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Darby, of Fanwood, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, Feb. 11.

Miss Etta Howland, of Brooklyn, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Howland, 30 Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stover, formerly of this city but now of New York, have been spending a few days in town.

The engagement is rumored of Miss Jean Erickson, daughter of councilman E. N. Erickson, and James Hallock.

George Wotherspoon, formerly of this city, has been engaged by the Baroness Blanc as her personal business manager.

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles B. Mitchell's private letters are full of contentment and gratification in their new field and home, Kansas City.

John Brown, formerly chief of the Plainfield fire department, but now of the far west, is visiting Samuel France of West Second street.

Edward Stephenson, now a prosperous citizen in New York State, is visiting his parents in this city. He had not been here since last July.

The parsonage of the Rev. J. Martin at Westfield was the scene of the marriage, Dec. 14, of Miss Jennie Moore and Charles Lewis, both of this city.

A. V. D. Honeyman of North Plainfield represents Somerset county on the new genealogical committee of the New Jersey State Historical society.

The sincere sympathy of THE PRESS is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Borsum in the loss of their youngest daughter Clara, in the sixth year of her age.

Miss Emma Shepherd, daughter of Elisha Shepherd, was married to Augustus C. Thomas, at her parents' residence, Bound Brook, on Wednesday, Jan. 18.

Wm. D. Murray, president of the Plainfield association, will speak on "State Work" before the New Jersey Y. M. C. A. convention at Camden, Feb. 9-12.

Joseph Angerbauer and D. White, stock clerks at Brokaw Bros' clothing house, New York, are spending two weeks' vacation with their parents in this city.

Mrs. Philip Comstock, of Brooklyn, daughter of Alpheus Smith, a former president of the Plainfield common council, is visiting Mrs. Hervey Doane, of LaGrande avenue.

Isaac Laing, brother of the mother of the publishers and proprietors of THE PRESS, is very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Sandford, 64 Washington avenue.

Miss Murray and Mr. Sandford were run away with Saturday night, and upset in the snow, but the horse alone was hurt. The animal was frightened by some coasters on the Broadway hill.

Harry Tallman, for many years a resident of Plainfield, but now of Philadelphia, is visiting his brother, Chas. W., of this city. Harry was a member of the famous old-time Central base-ball nine of Plainfield.

An entertainment consisting of tableaux and music, to be followed by supper and dancing, will be given at the Fanwood club, the evening of January 27, at 8. J. P. Stevens of the club is at the head of the enterprise.

L. A. Hummer gave renewed evidence of his kindness of heart Saturday night by treating the Park place chapel choir to a most enjoyable sleigh ride. They all had refreshments at Westfield before returning home.

The Rev. Charles J. Kelly of Jersey City entertained a good-sized audience in T. A. B. hall Thursday evening, with his lecture on "Picturesque Ireland". The stereopticon illustrations were of delightful and romantic Irish scenery.

Augustus Hatfield of this city, has been elected an honorary member of the Commercial Travelers' Provident association, which honor was a slight recognition of his well-merited popularity as a railroad conductor among the drummers.

Messrs. Scott Voorhees and Frank VanHorn, bright and shining graduates of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, spent part of Saturday and Sunday with the Misses Gillem and Mills, of Duer street. Mr. VanHorn was the valedictorian of Rutgers last year.

Leschetisky, the famous Vienna piano teacher, who once numbered Paderewski and A. Venino of this city, among his students, is so indignant at the sharp criticisms on his method expressed by a musical journal in New York that he has announced his determination never to take American pupils.

The Christian Endeavor workers of Warren mission feel greatly helped and benefited by the missionary talk given by Miss Alice Spangenberg at the chapel Tuesday evening. Besides leading the meeting, she gave edifying statistics of what has already been done, and practical suggestions for future work.

That popular Roselle hostelry, Van Court Inn, has been reopened. Among the sleighers recently registered there are: Mr. and Mrs. H. Hoffman, Fanwood; Mrs. Courtney and daughter, Plainfield; Miss Allen, Scotch Plains; Miss Springer, Plainfield; Miss Brockton, Fanwood; Mrs. Houseman, Fanwood; Mrs. Thatcher, Plainfield; Mrs. Allen, Scotch Plains.

About twenty-five guests attended an evening sociable Thursday at the home of Miss Grace Meeker, of Raymond avenue. The early part of the evening was devoted to whist playing, after which an elaborate supper was followed by dancing. Among those present were Miss Morgan of Brooklyn, the Misses Clark and Weber of Fanwood, Miss Coles and Schafer of this city, and the Messrs. Smith, Hewes, Acheson, Coles, Mair, Eberly, Schafer and Carpenter.

Edwin H. Lewis, of Hyde Park, Ill., accomplished son of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis of this city, is literary editor of a highly creditable new publication entitled Current Topics, issued at Chicago. The magazine is filled with choice contributions of prose and verse by notable men of letters. Chief of the clever and entertaining contents is a serial novelette from the graceful and scholarly pen of Mr. Lewis himself. Under the guidance of such a master-hand, Current Topics is bound to be always a delightful and eagerly welcomed guest in American homes.

AGNES UNDER ARREST.

THE GIDDY BLONDE A CAPTIVE BEFORE THE COURT.

She Pleads Not Guilty to the Charge of Keeping a Disorderly House, and a Rash Companion Furnishes Bail—Hegira of the Suspected Guests—A Gay Young Bachelor to Appear To-Morrow.

From The Press of January 26.

The Plainfield police station was the centre of attraction for a large number of young bachelors and married men this morning, for Agnes Forsberg, whose house on Leland avenue is said to have been frequented by many gay young bloods of the city, was a prisoner, and revelations were promised by the police.

Agnes is a curly-haired blonde, of some attractiveness of feature. She was arrested last evening at her home, and spent the night in a cell at the station. A warrant was issued for both Agnes and her mother, Mrs. A. O. Forsberg, but the mother pleaded illness from nervous prostration and was permitted to stay in bed.

When court opened this morning Agnes sat in an arm chair before the bar, her head resting on her hand. Her fingers trembled visibly, and occasionally brushed a drop of moisture from her eye.

Agnes was attired in a dress of dark blue, with sweeping train, ornamented at the hem with a band of ruffled buff. The collar of her jaunty black sack was turned coquettishly up about her fair throat. Her eyes snapped from under curling lashes, and a dimple came and went in her cheek. Her small hat crowned the mass of golden curls that were bound about by a veil. She was gloveless.

Ex-judge W. R. Codington appeared as the young woman's counsel, and entered a plea of not guilty, reserving the right to find technical fault with the form of complaint. Neither he nor the city was ready for trial, so the case was adjourned for one week.

Judge W. A. Coddington fixed the amount of bail at $200, which ex-judge Codington objected to as excessive. He insisted that as the maximum penalty was $100 fine and sixty days' imprisonment not more than $100 should be asked. Sergeant Lynch made a valiant defense of the court's action and volunteered his opinion that double the amount of possible fine was the correct legal rate to set. W. R. asked him curtly who was judge, and the giant sergeant grew red in the face and said that court was adjourned and that anyone could be judge. Then he cleared the court room.

The feminine prisoner was left alone for a moment, silently weeping. Then generous-hearted Samuel Allen, moved by the woman's suffering, sidled up to her, and the two held a consultation concerning the likelihood of getting bail. Samuel's hair is inclined to carroty auburn, like unto Agnes's, and the two together looked like a Sandy Hook light-house shining through a fog.

As the result of the confab, Samuel made his exit in search of a bondsman. Presently one was found. He was Wm. B. Smith, a good-looking and well-dressed young man who is interested in the outfitting concern which is said to have furnished the Forsberg house. He is the same man whom the Bound Brook papers chronicled as being in Agnes's company when she caused disorder at the Bound Brook Columbian celebration. Both of them were then reported as being arrested and censured for reckless driving and fast conduct.

The bondsman met the prisoner in a corridor of the jail. They shook hands warmly, and held a whispered conversation. Then Smith turned to sergeant Lynch and said "All right". Together they went before judge Coddington, who had been summoned. The judge read the bail bond to them, and they affixed their signatures.

While Agnes was writing hers, Smith turned away, walked up to sergeant Lynch, and said "It's a —— shame!" "What's that?"—said the policeman. "It comes high,"—replied Smith—"but we must have it."

"Well,"—said the bondsman, turning to Agnes—"you don't want to stay here any longer: do you?"

"No"—was the response, and they went out together. In the area-way, Agnes said something to "Will", as she affectionately called him, and he slipped over to the North avenue railway station and got hackman McCormick to bring around a horse and sleigh. Agnes waited meanwhile in the stuffy little court room.

When the sleigh arrived, "Will" and Agnes nestled down together on the back seat. Agnes cast a reproachful look at the gruff sergeant standing in the doorway, while "Will" tucked the fur robes about them. Then they were driven off, bits of white string fluttering from the harness where it was tied together.

Captain Grant came up at this moment, and commented: "Not many men would go her bail". Sergeant Lynch said: "I shouldn't wonder if she came up quietly before the judge this afternoon and had her case disposed of. She said this morning that there was no use fighting, as she had no defense to make."

The complaint against her is mildly drawn, and the disorder charged against her house is not so serious as it might be, as of the more ugly of the stories there is no definite proof.

To-morrow morning at 9 is the hour set for the hearing of the first of the young men to be judicially examined by judge Coddington in connection with the Forsberg ranch. He is alleged to have been violently abusive of the police, the night of the raid that was not a raid, reported exclusively in these columns yesterday.

THE PRESS has had considerable difficulty in compiling a complete list of the frequenters of the resort, who are liable to be summoned before the court to tell what they know about the place. Even after years of experience in newspaper work, the reporters are surprised and shocked at the identity of the habitues, many of whom have highly respectable connections and are in good standing in the community. They will suffer much if exposed. Already some of them have taken alarm, and are making themselves scarce. The flight of the suspected to parts unknown threatens to be a wholesale exodus.

The next victim may be the man who personally takes supplies of provisions, etc., to the house, and who is well known about town.

THEY'LL SAVE YOUR FAVORITE.

A Very Good Plan of "Reservation" Adopted by the Public Library.

Hereafter when desired the Public Library will reserve books which are out when asked for. To get a book reserved for you, ask for a "reservation card", for which you pay two cents, to cover the cost of printing and postage. Then fill up the blanks with the author, title, etc., of the book you want, and address the card. When this book is returned, it is placed directly with the "reserves", and your postal card application is then mailed. The date to which your book will be kept for you, which will be included as part of the time that you are allowed to keep it out, is shown on the card, and you must of course either call or send by that time, otherwise the book will be charged to the next applicant. This plan, it is hoped, will prove itself as satisfactory here as it has done in other places. As will be seen, it is quite fair, for all will have the same opportunity, and it will greatly assist in getting the books to the people who really care for them most.

EVANGELIST MILLS WRITES.

Sweet Singer Greenwood Has Left Him—He Likes Elizabeth as Well as Plainfield.

The young men who ushered at the Mills revival in Elizabeth have organized what they term a Union Revival Ushers' Association, which last Friday night held a meeting bringing together about sixty of the men who were associated in the various lines of work in connection with the Mills meetings last winter, enabling them to renew their fellowship and to look back socially on the scenes and the pleasant experiences of those memorable services. There was an informality about the gathering that was delightful, and gave special opportunities for recalling incidents and impressions.

During the evening, a letter was read from Mr. Mills in which it will be noticed that he speaks of Elizabeth as a preferable place of residence just as he did of Plainfield.

The letter:

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Jan. 2.

MR. C. R. ORCUTT:

My Dear Brother—I am very glad to respond to your request and send a hearty greeting to my friends, the ushers and those associated with them. We have never been in any place in our lives where the people have more secured our confidence and affection than in your city. There is no place on earth I would rather have for my permanent abode (always excepting mosquitoes) than in your city of warm-hearted people. It is a great thing to be given anything to do for God and to be associated with those who esteem it a privilege to work for Him. One of the most delightful things in connection with our work is being brought into contact with men like yourselves, who are eager to be of service to the Master.

I have developed the Ushers' system since I was in Elizabeth to a great extent, as you will see by the copy of a little manual for ushers and assistants, which I have inclosed herewith.

My dear brother, Mr. Greenwood, left me in California for a time at least, and is now the very energetic and efficient secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at San Jose. The Baptist church of that city has, I think, extended him a call to be its pastor, and he has also received a call to be the assistant pastor of the most prominent church of that denomination in San Francisco. Whether he will come back to me after a while or not, I do not know. I have a very efficient substitute, John P. Hillis, who seems to win the hearts of people wherever we go.

With the hope that some day the Lord will direct our steps so that we may meet you again, and with earnest prayer for God's blessing upon you individually and in your associated work for the Master, I remain

Yours in His service,

B. FAY MILLS.

A BABE'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Its Mother Rescues It from Suffocation.

Mrs. Philip Hapenny, of 46 East Fourth street, went down cellar after wood and coal Friday afternoon, leaving her baby playing on the floor of her front room on the second story.

When she went back, the room was filled with a smoke so dense she could not see, or breathe, and flames were crackling in the wood-box back of the stove.

She had the presence of mind and motherly instinct to grope about for the babe.

The infant was almost unconscious, and must have perished a moment later.

The mother dragged the suffocating child from the room, and then dashed a pail of water at the fire.

She gave the alarm, and the fire department was summoned by box 15.

When the firemen got there the fire was out. The wood-box and contents, and the half-burned wood-work of the mantel, were torn apart and dragged out of the house.

There was little damage to the furniture.

When the danger was all over, the mother became hysterical.

It is supposed that the child played about the stove, lighted a piece of paper at the hot fire, and threw it in the wood-box.

ALL SAINTS AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

To Change from a Mission to a Parish—The Church Property to Be Sold.

Writing under date of Jan. 14, Paul B. Tuzo, secretary of the board of trustees of All Saints' mission, Scotch Plains, issues the following notice:

"At an informal meeting of All Saints' mission held in the church, on Sunday last, the majority of those present declared themselves in favor of selling the church to the All Saints' parish of Scotch Plains. In accordance with this desire, the trustees called a meeting for Sunday, Jan. 22, immediately after the morning service, in the church, to authorize the trustees to sell the church as required by law.

"The trustees sincerely hope that every member of the mission will be present."

A parishioner says that this means only a transfer of the property from mission to parish. The question of thus changing the form of church government has long been agitated, but there has been much division over the matter, and some opposition still exists. The majority, however, favor the change.

WANTS $10,000 FOR HIS LEG.

Hans Anderson, Maimed for Life Sues the Pond Tool Company.

An important suit has been begun by Hans Anderson, who lost a leg at the Pond Tool works last fall. He has, through his counsel Craig A. Marsh, sued the company for $10,000 damages. The trial will take place at the next term of court at Elizabeth.

Those Poor Shivering Motor Men.

Abner Bartlett, jr., a philanthropic and generous citizen of this city, offers to head with $10 a subscription list to provide comfort for the street railway motor men by building a shelter about them in whatever way will be the most practical and complete.

Mr. Bartlett's intentions are highly proper and not out of place, and show his considerate and liberal spirit, but THE PRESS believes that when the public reads the company's statement in regard to the matter—which THE PRESS is awaiting with patience—even Mr. Bartlett will be satisfied.

All may be sure it is from no thought of saving money that the company has not provided vestibule cars in Plainfield.

A Chautauquan Bible Class.

A Bible class has been formed in the Congregational church which might be called a Chautauquan Bible class, as it is to take up the system of study which the C. L. S. C. favors; namely: the Outline Inductive Bible Studies on the Apostolic Church, prepared by the Rev. Erastus Blakeslee. The class will hold its first regular meeting this evening at 8 in the Congregational church parlors. The class is led by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, is made up of members of his congregation and others also, and is open to any who may wish to join.

A Sensible Sleigh Ride.

Members of the First Church of Christ enjoyed a sensible sort of sleigh ride and supper Saturday night. They went in loads to Westfield and return, and then visited the home of their pastor, the Rev. Benjamin W. Hand. There an oyster supper was provided, of which all partook, each paying for his share. The proceeds went into the church treasury.

—The "Original Sterlins" will hold their second grand annual ball in Bound Brook hall, Monday evening, Jan. 30.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S PLUCK.

Everyone Who Saw This, Was Proud of the Girl's Bravery.

Saturday afternoon about 4 Miss Della Voehl was driving along East Front street in company with Masters Edward Springer and Johnnie Carney. In front of White & VanArsdale's she was compelled to turn out to one side of the road, when suddenly the whiffletree broke. The horse gave a plunge and threw the trio to the ground. The two children were unharmed. The young lady was thrown on her back and pluckily held fast to the reins while she was dragged as far as Werner's clothing store, where the horse was stopped. All those who witnessed the scene were almost sure that she would be killed. But, judge of their surprise to see spring to her feet, run back, pick up the children, one in each arm, and carry them to the sidewalk. The only damage done was the broken whiffle-tree. Through the kindness of a gentleman the horse was taken to George Voehl's and the young lady finished her journey on foot, thankful that she was able so to do.

BULLOCK ESCAPES.

Albert Hedden Had Him Where He Wanted Him, But He Squealed.

T. O. Bullock, who married Mrs. Lydia Ridgeway of this city when he had another wife living, and subsequently married Miss Sandifers as soon as his first marriage was "outlawed"—and who consequently has three wives living at the present date—saw fit a few weeks ago to come to this city with detective Phil. Breen, formerly captain of Plainfield's police, and help himself to a carriage in Albert Hedden's stables on East Fourth street.

He claimed that the carriage was his, and that Mrs. Ridgeway had taken it away without any right. Mrs. Ridgeway had stored a carriage with Mr. Hedden, who is her brother-in-law, but it was a carriage Mr. Bullock had given her. The carriage Bullock and Breen took, however, was not the right one.

Of course Mr. Hedden at once took steps to bring Mr. Bullock to justice and recover the property. But Bullock weakened, gave the carriage back, paid all costs besides $1 50 a day for rent of carriage for three months, and thus escaped, much to Mr. Hedden's disappointment.

THE VILLAGE IN DANGER.

Scotch Plains' Need of Hydrant Service—A Plainfield Watchman Pulls Box 16 for a Distant Fire.

Fire at 12:30 Saturday night destroyed a barn owned by John Marsh at Scotch Plains. A cow and two horses perished in the flames. The loss was $2,000, fully insured.

The Scotch Plains and Fanwood fire departments turned out and did good work. The hot flames of the ruins were not extinguished till nearly 3 a. m.

The East Front street night watchman saw the glare, and pulled box 16. The firemen for that district took their apparatus out to Cole's hill and found the fire so far away that they returned and sounded the recall.

The burned barn stood in the heart of the village, which was in serious danger of wholesale conflagration.

The lesson of the fire should be heeded. It is that high-pressure hydrants such as those of the Plainfield water-service system are greatly needed.

A JEWEL TO THE PAST SACHEM.

Senior Sagamore Carney Makes a Presentation for Miantonomah Tribe.

At the regular meeting of Miantonomah Tribe, 118, Improved Order of Red Men, a committee was appointed to purchase the necessary pharaphernalia to confer the Amplified Adoption degree. Those who have witnessed the Amplified, claim that it is something great.

At the same meeting Senior Sagamore John H. Carney in behalf of the officers and members and in his usual bright and witty manner in well-chosen remarks presented to Past Sachem Andrew J. Stiglitz a most magnificent solid gold Past Sachem's jewel.

Past Sachem Stiglitz was taken completely by surprise, and in acceptance could scarcely find words for utterance. Past Sachem Stiglitz has always been a faithful worker in Miantonomah Tribe, and the presentation of the jewel simply expresses the high esteem held for him by the Improved Order of Red Men. Popular Songs of the day were sung by brothers Odam and Holstein.

Miantonomah Tribe, 118, is in a flourishing condition, and is considered one of the best tribes in the State.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

A Good Horse Badly Hurt, and a Driver Narrowly Escapes Being Trampled to Death.

Dr. J. T. Fritts had a horse badly injured in a runaway Friday morning. The physician was attending a patient on East Front street near Washington, and his horse was being exercised by his driver. In making a turn carelessly, the cutter was upset, and the horse dashed down the street. At Park avenue Yose's big truck was in the way, causing the animal to turn and collide with C. W. Tallman's grocery sleigh. This was overturned, and driver Frank Kemstring had a narrow escape from being trampled to death. The two horses were held by bystanders. The shafts of both sleighs were broken, and jagged ends of the shafts penetrated Dr. Fritts's horse on the flank, causing ugly wounds which bled profusely. The injured animal will be laid up for some time.

Dunellen's Polite Society.

The Dunellen Weekly Call tells of "A number of young people who took a sleigh ride to Fanwood last Friday evening and stopped at a well-known hostelry and ordered supper. The proprietor gave them his best room in which to wait until he might prepare the meal. While there assembled, the party passed several pleasant moments narrating some event or story that had happened on their journey.

"One of the young men present, on seeing a Maltese cat upon the sofa, took pussy in his arms, and, fondling it, asked the fair companion who had accompanied him whether she did not wish she was the cat for the time being.

"The cat seemed to object to this, but we cannot say whether through jealousy or the familiar manner of the gent, but to his great surprise,

"She quietly took her dainty paw
And cuffed the gent over the jaw.
"—Shakespeare, page 41."

Mishaps of a Sleighing Party.

A sleigh-load of ten left this city Friday evening for a trip to Rahway, by the way of Cranford; but while going from Fanwood to Westfield the driver of the sleigh ran into a cutter, breaking the shafts so that the cutter had to be tied to the back of the load and hauled to Westfield, where the gentleman and lady in the cutter took another sleigh to their home in Cranford. The driver of the load said for them to get the cutter fixed and he would settle the bill. The sleigh-load did not get to Rahway; they only got as far as Westfield, and so on back to Evona and then home.

A fresh liveryman in Westfield tried to induce the driver of the cutter to sue the driver of the load for $5,000 damages, and acted very ungentlemanly before the ladies.

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

ARRESTED FOR THE SHOOTING.

Farmer Waldron Put Under Bonds for His Inhuman Treatment of Philip Hartrum.

Constable John Ramsey of Flemington went to White House Saturday noon with a warrant for the arrest of farmer Henry Waldron who last Monday night shot by mistake Philip H. Hartrum who was rattling at Waldron's back door, as told in full in THE PRESS at the time. The warrant charged Waldron with atrocious assault and cruelty, and was made by Hartrum's mother. When Ramsey called at Waldron's house he found the old farmer ready to accompany him to Flemington. Waldron hitched up his own horse and sleigh and drove ahead of Ramsey, who followed close behind. At Flemington Waldron was arraigned before justice Apgar who after hearing his story held him in $1,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury next April. Constable John Apgar signed the bail bond, taking Waldron's farm as security. Waldron then returned to White House, where he was seen by a PRESS reporter in L. P. Worden's hotel adjoining the Jersey Central station. To the reporter Waldron told the identical story as on last Tuesday morning following the shooting. He says that he can prove that there were two men who attempted to get into his house and that he only shot after warning them away. The second man, who was tall and thin, returned his fire with a shot from a pop gun. On being asked if he had found the bullet inside the house, he replied that he had not looked for it. Of course Waldron's wife and daughter will swear to just what he tells them to, and in this way he can undoubtedly get clear. Waldron is very excitable when questioned about the affair and almost threatened THE PRESS reporter with harm for speaking to him. No one in White House believes that Phil Hartrum went to Waldron's house except for help. J. M. Hocklebury, a friend of Hartrum, said that he had positive knowledge of a quarrel which Waldron and Hartrum had about two months ago over repairing the roads at which time Waldron threatened Hartrum. Neither of the two men bears a very enviable reputation in the vicinity, Waldron being called surly and ill-disposed, while Hartrum was indicted some years ago for chicken stealing. The feeling in White House all seems to be in favor of Hartrum, and only because of Waldron's inhuman act in leaving his victim to die in the cold after shooting him. The case is very complicated, both sides telling vastly different stories, and it now only remains for the grand jury to clear up the mystery. It was rumored in White House that Waldron will be asked to leave the vicinity if the grand jury do not find a bill against him next April.

BRIDE 60, GROOM 70.

But Their Hearts Are as Young as Perennial Summer, and the Cannon Saluted Their Wedding.

The Rev. Dr. J. R. Parks of Scotch Plains officiated Sunday afternoon at a very interesting wedding, when John Lambert, age 70 and Mrs. Mary E. Frazee, age 60, were united in marriage at the home of Levi Darby.

Monday evening about seventy-five of the wedded pair's friends repaired to the groom's residence, about two miles from Scotch Plains, and gave them an old-fashioned serenade. A small brass cannon placed beneath a window of the house belched forth in such loud tones that even the aged groom, who is reported to be hard of hearing, heard it, and, coming to the door, invited the callers inside, where they were right royally entertained. The "boys" say they were never treated in a better manner, and the bride and groom were pleased with the honor conferred. Mr. Lambert and bride are well known and highly esteemed and respected citizens of Fanwood township.

"Caught" the Mumps from a Plainfield School Two Hundred Miles Away.

Ex-councilman William Thompson is quoted as saying that Dr. Probasco, his family physician, misled him by his remarks about mumps before the board of education. The doctor at that time said mumps was epidemic but not contagious. Mr. Thompson is said to take exception to the doctor's claim. On the strength of the doctor's word, he sent his children to school with which mumps patients were in communication. "They got the mumps, and it is believed that they contracted them from other children at the school; and that this would not have occurred but for his being misled by the information referred to, the result of which has caused him considerable trouble." A singular feature of the Thompson case is that one of the mumps sufferers is a son at Harvard College. According to the contagion theory, the mumps must have been transmitted through the mail to the son at college from a letter at home.

He Is One of the Powers that Be.

The Messenger of Wilmington, N. C., contains a two-column article describing the new works of the Almont Chemical and Guano company, recently constructed by Messrs. Powers, Gibbs & Co., on the Northeast river, within the city limits of Wilmington. The head of the firm, E. J. Powers, has relatives and many warm friends in Plainfield, who will learn with pleasure of his continued prosperity. The city of Wilmington has in Mr. Powers a man of large business capacity and push, as is evidenced by the wealth he has amassed during his comparatively brief career in that city. Mr. Powers and his family are looked up to with honor and esteem as leaders in the affairs of Wilmington. Such an upright and enterprising business man is a credit to any place.

Endorsed by John Kean's Paper.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

Gov. Werts is a Democrat, but the doctrines he has enunciated in his address are not the doctrines of such Democrats as this State has known in recent years. They are doctrines that command the hearty support of good citizens of all parties. If Gov. Werts shall, by the general support of the people of New Jersey, be able to carry out his policy as clearly and unmistakably outlined in his address, New Jersey will be glad that Gov. Werts was elected.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

But They Have a Good Time! Yes!

A merry party of sleigh-riders from this city and Westfield drove to Bound Brook Wednesday evening and had a most enjoyable time at the Mansion House, whose popular landlord is James R. Force, formerly of this city. Those from Plainfield were: Ex-president of common council Seymour G. Smith and wife, ex-councilman D. S. Roberts and wife, ex-councilman S. P. T. Wilbur and wife, city judge Wm. A. Coddington and wife, ex-city judge Wm. R. Codington and wife, ex-postmaster W. L. Force and wife, Fred. S. Green and wife, J. D. Irwin and wife, Wm. L. Rider and wife of Dunellen. Their conveyance was furnished by North Plainfield's popular liveryman, George Conover, four horses and a careful driver.

This party was joined at Plainfield by the following named from "The Union League Club" of Westfield: C. M. Smith and wife, J. D. Gloeck and wife, F. S. Smith and wife, Henry Wilson and wife, George Sutter and wife, Isaac Sealey and wife, W. W. Gilby and wife, W. R. Francis and wife, Henry Warneke and wife, R. F. Dennis and Miss Clark, L. G. Cohen, jr., and the charming belle and beauty Miss McIntosh. Their four-horse team was furnished by Westfield's favorite liveryman, Robert Woodruff. Upon the arrival of the party the freedom of the Mansion House was extended them and soon those so inclined were indulging in the pleasures of the dance, inspired by excellent music furnished by Rogers and Conde. Later all partook of one of those excellent dinners such as only the proprietor and his esteemed wife are renowned for, and it was along in the small hours of the morning when the party reluctantly turned their faces homeward. To say it was one of the most enjoyable sleigh rides of the season is but echoing the sentiment of all interested, and it was the unanimous wish that there should be a repetition of the enjoyments of the evening at a near date. An invitation was extended Mayor Perry of Bound Brook to be present, but a previous engagement prevented his acceptance. As an imitator of the creepy infant, on the diabolical fish horn, Will Rider took the prize, and even "Uncle Dan" expended lots of wind through one of those noisy instruments. Fines were imposed by both the ex and present City Judges and cheerfully paid by the accused ones. The Plainfield contingent was chaperoned by a member of the famous "Big Six", Seymour G. Smith, and that from Westfield by his popular brother "Chet".

AN EX-FREEHOLDER'S SUIT.

Mr. Pierson Wants $60,000 Damages From the Central Railroad.

Ex-freeholder James T. Pierson, of Westfield, has begun a suit for damages against the Central Railroad company, asking for heavy damages. Mr. Pierson was badly hurt Sept. 16, 1892, at Chester in a wreck on the High Bridge branch of the Central.

The train while going at a high rate of speed, ran into a freight train, and the car in which Mr. Pierson was sitting was thrown with great violence from the track. He was hurt internally, and since the accident has been unable to attend to any business, and his physician says his case is incurable. It has cost the plaintiff up to date $1,000 for medical attendance, and he asks for $60,000 damages from the railroad company.

Step to the Front With Your Story.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Will you kindly allow us a portion of your valuable space to make an appeal to the women-writers—authoresses, journalists, and writers of magazine articles—of Plainfield and vicinity? The Board of Women Managers of the World's Columbian Exposition earnestly desire to collect, in the Women's Building at Chicago, copies of all books written by American women, whether living or dead, and also to ascertain the number of women writers, and to make a list of the women's literary societies in the United States. The New Jersey Women Managers desire a second copy of each book for their State building at Chicago, and propose to make a New Jersey scrap-book, containing a selection from the magazine and newspaper articles, stories and poems, which have already appeared in the public prints. All books and articles and any information about the same, and about women's literary societies, will be gladly received by the committee, and should be sent in as early as possible, by February 8 at the latest.

MRS FLORENCE HOWE HALL,
Scotch Plains,
MRS. WILLIAM SCRIBNER,
144 Front Street,
MISS KATE ERSKINE,
2 Third Place,
Committee for Plainfield.

Send Your Work; the State Will Pay the Expense.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—At a meeting held Friday, the 13th inst., at the Plainfield Seminary, the undersigned were appointed a committee to secure specimens of original designs in needlework and embroidery to be exhibited at the Columbian exposition. We trust the women of this city and of North Plainfield will take an interest in this matter and as soon as possible send specimens of what they consider their best work to either of the undersigned. The articles will then be forwarded to the State committee in Newark. All work must be handed in to these ladies not later than February 21.

All expenses will be paid by the State of New Jersey, and each contributor must send with the articles the full name and address. The work for sale should have the price attached.

Mrs. S. A. Ginna, 107 Broadway.
Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, 118 Broadway.
Mrs. Frank O. Herring, 36 Ninth street.
Committee.

The Downfall of Local Base-Ball.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

In reviewing the work of last season it is pertinent to note these facts concerning the Central New Jersey League teams. The Plainfield Crescents won the pennant after a hard struggle and are now about to disband. They were pushed hard by the West Ends who were able to pay their base-ball expenses only by the aid of private capital. And the Westfield team drained the pockets of its backers so that there will be no W. A. C. team in the field this year. The other club, the Y. M. C. L. A., of this city, ended near the bottom of the list but their expenses were kept within the limit of the treasury and they are the only club which will have a team in the field during the approaching season.

All Hope Abandoned.

The individual who for six months has been advertising in the Courier want columns for information leading to the identity of the man who bought a bottle of Chew's Baldine has abandoned all hope of finding the offender, and withdrawn the ad.

"Advertising in the Courier pays"
The editor only; not other folks.

A Long Tongue in "The Courier" Office.

The suffering editor of The Courier is ever taking revenge on the women of the world at large by making scurrilous references to the length, breadth and sharpness of woman's tongue. Here is his latest experience: "Women will experience less difficulty than men in using the new Columbian stamps. It requires a long tongue to lick 'em."

SLUMS ON THE "WINDY VILLAGE."

Somerville Again Throwing Mud at Her Superiors.

Under the caption "Revenge Is Sweet", the Hackettstown Democrat says: "The Crescent League is to be sold out by the West End sheriff. The Plainfield Press of last Saturday says that the creditors of the Crescent League are not satisfied with the arrangements made by the Club and have levied on the goods and chattels and will sell them at public auction. The ball grounds and most of the club's belongings being in Somerset county will necessitate their being sold by Sheriff Dilts, a West Ender of long standing. In fact Dilts is an 'old Leaguer'. And, by the way, we wonder if at the sale the pennant which the Crescents won this year in the League will be disposed of. Who has ever seen this emblem of victory. After the last game the manager of the Crescent League sent a marked copy of the Press to Spalding's with a request that the pennant be shipped to the 'Windy Village'. A reply came back that no pennant had been offered for the year 1892. So, after all, Plainfield was only chasing a phantom while putting up their hard earned dollar week by week, and how many times during the season did 'Hop Toad Hofford' and 'Tough Willie' laugh in their sleeves at the way they were pulling the Crescent's legs."

THEN THEY WENT COASTING.

After Deciding that Ambition and Education Caused More Misery than Did Ignorance and Superstition.

The Wetumpka Lyceum held its regular meeting in the Washingtonville school-house Friday night. In the absence of the president, Robert Clark, the vice-president, W. H. Rogers, took the chair.

After the regular order of business the entertainment committee reported the following programme: Reading by Miss Jessie Coddington; a magic lantern worked by Robert Clark, showing well-known characters of Washingtonville, whom the audience recognized at the first glance, causing much merriment; debate, "Resolved, that Ambition and Education have caused more misery than Ignorance and Superstition".

The leaders of the debate, Robert and Edward Clark, with their seconds, all went over the ground ably. The judges gave the decision in favor of the affirmative. Refreshments were served by the Ladies Four, Misses Maggie and Edith Miles, Jessie Coddington and Jennie Simpson. A spelling match was won by George Boehing.

A vote of thanks was given to the ladies for their kindness. The meeting then adjourned to go coasting on the hill.

TRUE TO HIS CONSTITUENTS.

How Faithful Assemblyman Kyte Secured Legislation for His Home School's Benefit.

The trustees of the Scotch Plains public school-house have recently purchased a fine and expensive school globe and 94 books for the school library. This addition will make the total number of books constituting the public school library 545. The amount applicable to this purpose was $100, of which $50 was received from the State and $50 raised by subscription. Of the amount received from the State $40 was granted pursuant to Chap. XXXIV of the Laws 1892. This act was drawn by district clerk Hall, and introduced into the Legislature by assemblyman Kyte, and designed for the relief of school districts which had not qualified for the annual appropriations granted by the State to school districts which raise $10 by subscriptions or entertainment for their school libraries. The law was a temporary one, but the Westfield Standard thinks it ought to be re-enacted this year for the benefit of live school districts.

Thinks the Crescents a Jolly Set.

The Elizabeth Journal, speaking of the efforts being made to rejuvenate the Crescent League, and of the prospects that by spring the League will be free from debt and on its feet again, says:

"This is a piece of good news which every true lover of sports will be glad to hear. The Crescent boys are a jolly nice lot of fellows and they are to be congratulated upon their good fortune in escaping the calamity which stared them in the face."

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharge was cured. O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

A THRIFTY INSTITUTION.

All the Villagers Working Zealously for the Scotch Plains Library.

At the annual meeting of the trustees of the Scotch Plains public library the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Charles L. Sykes; vice-president, John Robinson; recording secretary, William B. Noble; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, jr.; treasurer, Dr. Frank W. Westcott. D. P. Hall declined a renomination as president. David A. Sayre, the former corresponding secretary, tendered his resignation as trustee on account of his approaching removal to Brooklyn. The resignation was regretfully accepted. Mr. Sayre has proved himself a faithful trustee and valuable officer.

The total attendance from Jan. 1, 1892, to Dec 31, 1892, was reported by the librarian to have been 2,422, and the number of books loaned 1,231.

A donation of $50 from Warren Ackerman was reported.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall from the house committee reported the organization of a Junior Library association composed of young people, to work for the benefit of the library, and to devise means for extending its usefulness.

The meeting was a live one; the attendance of trustees was large, and great interest was manifested. The library starts upon its fifth year hopefully and proudly, the trustees feeling that it has conquered a place in the respect and regard of the community.

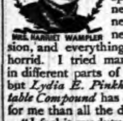
Music Scores Are Wanted Now.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The undersigned committee respectfully requests sufficient space in your valuable paper to insert the following notice, which will be of interest to all New Jersey's music-loving people:

The Board of Women Managers of the World's Exposition desires to collect in the Women's Building at Chicago all copies of music written by New Jersey women and also to ascertain the names of women who are following a musical career. All information concerning professionals or amateurs, whether vocal or instrumental, together with any items of interest connected with their studies, either here or abroad, would be gratefully received by any member of the committee.

All communications should be received before February 9.

MRS. J. KIRTLAND MYERS,
17 East Seventh Street.
MISS ADA G. MABON,
20 Franklin Place.
MISS CARRIE DEWEY,
4 West Fifth Street.
Committee.



"My Sick Sisters,
"Let me tell you something.
"I have no motive other than to do you good.
"For years I have been almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms: shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, faintness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the U. S., but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors.
"I feel it my duty to tell you these facts that you also may be cured. My heart is full of gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham."—Mrs. Harriet Wampler, 507 Kasota Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

MRS. HARRIET WAMPLER

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 6-16-y

PIANOS
AND ORGANS
FROM
S.D.Lauter Co.
657-659 Broad St.
NEWARK, N.J.

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St. NEWARK, N. J.

9 17 tf

A CHARMING WOMAN.

The Talented Wife of America's Sleeping-Car Magnate.

Early Years of Mrs. George M. Pullman's Life—Her Interesting Family—Devoted to Charitable Work of Every Description.

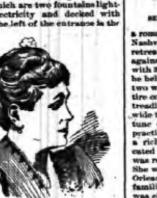
Mrs. Pullman, although fond of society, is much given to domestic life, and spends most of her time with her husband and children either in their Chicago home or their palatial "home on wheels." The latter is a magnificent railroad car built for their special use, furnished in the most elaborate manner; every detail which could possibly conform to comfort being supplied, and the whole outfit so admirably constructed that a transfer from one line to another can be had without the slightest inconvenience to the occupants.

The early years of Mrs. Pullman's life, says the Ladies' Home Journal, were spent in Illinois, and her education was completed at the Episcopal convent in San Francisco, where she also lived two years during the war. In her youth she was considered very handsome, being of lithe, supple figure, with small, well-poised head, regular features, dark eyes and hair, and a fine, delicate complexion which she still retains.

It was in 1867 that Harriet Sanger, daughter of J. Y. Sanger, of Ottawa, Ill., united her fate with the celebrated George M. Pullman, who, though now his wealth is estimated roughly at forty millions, was then simply in rather comfortable circumstances.

She has been, and has lived, abroad with her daughters for several years, but finds Chicago more pleasant than any city she has visited. Her home is on the northeast corner of Prairie avenue and Eighteenth street, and is a massive brown-stone edifice surrounded by beautiful grounds and shaded by tall trees. The spacious library to the left of the great hall contains handsomely carved book-cases in which rare volumes rest, and on these cases busts of favorite authors, valuable vases and appropriate pictures of much value are tastefully arranged.

This room also opens into a side hall which leads to the carriage entrance, and near which are two fountains lighted with electricity and decked with ferns. To the left of the entrance is the music room, an immense, oblong space finished in white and gold, and furnished with the most beautiful musical instruments. This room faces Lake Michigan, the merry splash of the waves from which can be plainly heard. Between this room and the hall is the drawing-room, which is completely finished in daintily painted canvassed walls and ceiling, and furnished with the most luxurious pieces of furniture, as well as having several great pedestals on which rest celebrated masterpieces in fine marble.



MRS. PULLMAN.

Mrs. Pullman is well supplied with every luxury that life can give, and is the happy mother of two beautiful daughters, Florence, a tall, graceful and dignified brunette about twenty-two years old, and Harriet, a bright, vivacious belle about twenty. Both daughters were educated in New York and Paris, and made their appearance in society two years ago. Beside the two daughters, Mrs. Pullman is possessed of twin sons, George M., Jr., and Sanger, sixteen years old, of whom both Mr. Pullman and herself are justly proud.

The daughters, as well as the mother, are continually engaged in charitable work. Mrs. Pullman is vice president of the Hospital for Women and Children, and is a member of the executive board of both the Old Ladies' Home and Women's Hospital. Florence has lately furnished a large ward in St. Luke's hospital, which is popularly known as the "Florence ward." Harriet is the leading spirit in one of the most practical works in Chicago, known as the Wildwood club, an organization composed of the most prominent women in the city, formed for the purpose of building and equipping a house and grounds where self-supporting women and girls may go and take a needed rest, free from restraint and intrusion, at a very meager cost.

Time has dealt kindly with Mrs. Pullman, who, though middle-aged now, looks young and strong, and her health, which has been poor, is almost entirely recovered, so much so that she attends to her many duties with as much alacrity as her daughters. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pullman are devotedly attached to their children, and find no joys so sweet as those of home life.

How Le Mars Was Named.

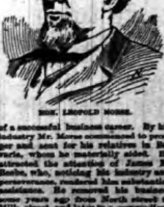
Le Mars, Ia., was christened in a curious way. The completion of a railroad to that point in the wilderness gave birth to the town, and the few inhabitants succeeded in having a post office established there. When the question of naming it came up the men very chivalrously decided to call it by the given name of one of the young ladies of the community. But which one? That could not be agreed upon, and it was finally decided to take the initial letter of the names of the six most popular. Their names were Lily, Evelyn, Maude, Annie, Ruth and Susan.

LEOPOLD MORSE.

He Was One of the Few Jews Prominent in American Politics.

By the sudden death of Hon. Leopold Morse Boston lost one of her most honored citizens, a man of prominence in politics and business.

Mr. Morse came to this country from Bavaria, his native land, forty-one years ago. He was then 17 years old, and the only friend and relative he had in this country was a brother at Sandwich, N. H. In 1849 Leopold Morse came to Boston, procuring employment in the clothing store of Henry Hermann, who is now a New York exporter. He received as a weekly salary $5. His first venture for himself was at New Bedford, where, in company with his brother, he opened a clothing store, which a few years later they disposed of, and returning to Boston bought out Mr. Hermann and laid the foundation of a successful business career. By his industry Mr. Morse commenced to prosper and sent for his relatives in Bavaria, whom he materially aided. He attracted the attention of James M. Beebe, who, noticing his industry and perseverance, rendered him substantial assistance. He removed his business some years ago from North street to Milk street, and later to a commodious block on the corner of Washington and Brattle streets, which he built.



HON. LEOPOLD MORSE.

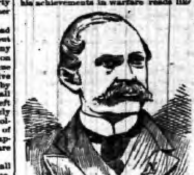
Mr. Morse early identified himself with the democratic party, and in 1868 and 1870 received the nomination for congress in the Fourth district, but was defeated both times by the late Samuel Hooper. In 1876 he was elected by a [illegible] one thousand two hundred majority over Rufus S. Frost, of Chelsea, and in 1878 ran successfully against Martin Brimmer. He was re-elected in 1880 and again in 1882. In 1884 he went from the Fifth district and in 1886 from the Third. His unbroken record of successes led to his being often mentioned for governor and mayor, but he declined to allow the use of his name on several occasions. He was the only Hebrew who has ever been elected to congress from New England, and one of the few from any part of the country. He was always an ardent advocate of civil service and tariff reform, and was a prominent figure in the tariff debates in congress. He was at one time interested in journalistic enterprises and was for several years president of the Boston Post Publishing Company.

SENATOR GIBSON.

He Was Considered the Most Erudite of Southern Statesmen.

Randall Lee Gibson, senator from Louisiana, who died recently, enjoyed the distinction of being the most erudite of southern senators.

He was born September 10, 1832, at Spring Hill, near Versailles, Woodford county, Ky. He was carefully educated, and was graduated with high honors as long ago as the administration of President Pierce. The senator studied law in the Tulane university of Louisiana. In 1855 he declined the secretaryship of legation to Spain. He enlisted as a private soldier in the confederate army, though the son of a rich sugar planter. At the close of the struggle he had risen to the rank of general. The story of his achievements in warfare reads like a romance. In the defeat of Hood at Nashville he successfully covered the retreat, and in Canby's campaign against Mobile Gibson was detached with 3,500 men to Spanish Fort, where he held the national forces at bay for two weeks and then withdrew his entire command under cover of darkness, treading a pathway only eighteen inches wide through a marsh. He lost his fortune during the war, but made it up practicing law at New Orleans. He died a rich man. His wife is a highly educated woman. Much of her schooling was received at Heidelburg and Paris. She was a famous Creole beauty of New Orleans and comes of one of the best families in the country. Mr. Gibson was elected to the Forty-third congress, but was denied admission. He was a member of the house of representatives at Washington in the Forty-fourth and three succeeding congresses. His term as United States senator began March 4, 1883, and would have expired March 4, 1895. He was president of the board of the Tulane university and manager of the $1,500,000 with which that school is endowed.



SENATOR GIBSON, OF LOUISIANA.

Culture Parties in Chicago.

Chicago ladies hold "culture luncheon parties," at which the victim tells a story while the rest eat pâtés and things. The story is a condensation of some book.

WATER A MINERAL.

A Bit of Information That Will Be News to Thousands.

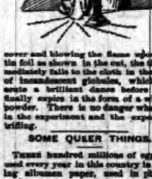
If one were to ask his friends what mineral we are most familiar with, and is most commonly used for food, the answer would probably be most varied and amusing. Salt would, I fancy, first suggest itself to many, and to those whose training in physiology and hygiene has not been neglected, no doubt the claims of lime and iron and carbon, which, in one form or another, we use with food to build up bones and brawn, would be amply urged. But, after all, it is water, for water is a mineral—a fused mineral. You will find it described as such, along with quartz and topaz and the diamond, in Dana's "Mineralogy," or in other treatises on stones.

We usually think of minerals as solid things, such as metals and rocks and jewels and various chemical salts. But when we consider the matter a little, we see that all these things, if melted by strong heat, are minerals still; only they are now in a fluid instead of a solid state. The difference between these minerals and water is that water gets fluid at a lower temperature than they do, and, like quicksilver, stays melted at ordinary living heat. But in those old ice ages, which, one after another, have swept now over the northern hemisphere, bringing ruin and desolation, the natural and common condition of water was that of a solid—ice—as it largely is to-day out of doors in winter, when not kept fused by the stored-up heat of the soil and rocks, or melted by the sun.—Mineralogists' Monthly.

HOME PYROTECHNICS.

An Amusing and Cheap Experiment for an Evening's Frolic.

The brilliant display of fireworks shown in the accompanying cut from La Nature, can readily be produced by anyone having good lungs, a pipe, a candle and some flat strips of tin foil, such as is found wrapped about chocolate. Lead foil will not answer. Placing the candle upon an oil-cloth table-cover and blowing the flame upon the tin foil as shown in the cut, the tin immediately falls to the cloth in the form of incandescent globules, which execute a brilliant dance before they finally expire in the form of a whitish powder. There is no danger whatever in the experiment and the expense is trifling.



SOME QUEER THINGS.

Three hundred millions of eggs are used every year in this country in making albumen paper, used in photography.

The largest needle manufactory in the world is in Redditch, Worcestershire, England. Over 70,000,000 are made weekly.

The costliest cigars ever exported from Havana were a quantity made expressly for the prince of Wales, and valued at $1.87 apiece in the factory.

A fence 500 miles long, of wire netting, separating the colonies of New South Wales and Queensland, is one of the wonders of Australia. It is designed to keep rabbits out.

Sir Henry Thompson, of England, says that out of every ten patients which came under his knife, nine would never have done so had it not been for errors of eating and drinking.

Stockings made from human hair are worn by Chinese fishermen as the best preventive of wet feet. They are drawn over ordinary cotton stockings, being too rough for putting near the skin.

In 1635, when the entire Dutch nation was crazy upon the subject of tulips, a single bulb was sold for $1,300. At such prices it would pay better to raise tulips than to raise the most valuable gold mine in the world.

The French war [illegible] the largest [illegible] for between [illegible] and [illegible] in case of war. They are to have double arbalists, carry cavalry carbine and thirty-six cartridges and a revolver with eighteen cartridges. They go as messengers chiefly.

HOW OAK IS DARKENED.

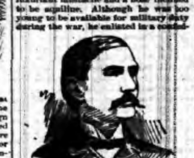
The Shade Now So Popular Is Produced by Ammoniacal Vapor.

Oak for decorative wood work is produced by fumigating the material with ammoniacal vapor, which effectively produces the dark coloring so much desired. In accomplishing this, the method consists in placing the material to be darkened in an approximately air-tight room in which no light enters; or for small work a packing box will suffice, the joints or cracks to be well pasted over with paper. In this room or receptacle for depositing the furniture or other articles is placed a flat porcelain or earthen vessel filled with ammonia, the vessel containing the liquid being, of course, set on the ground or floor, that the fumes or vapor may strike to advantage the articles to be darkened; if the apartment is large, two or more vessels containing ammonia may be employed and allowed to remain until the desired effect is secured. The ammonia does not touch the oak, but the gas that proceeds from it acts in a peculiar manner upon the tannic acid contained in oak, browning it so deeply that a shaving or two may actually be taken off without removing the color. The depth of shade depends upon the quantity of ammonia used and the duration of exposure.—Scientific American.

EARNED HIGH HONORS.

The Interesting Career of Missouri's New Chief Executive.

William J. Stone, the new governor of Missouri, is a Kentuckian by birth, having first seen the light of day in Madison county, in the blue grass state, on the 7th of May, 1847. In personal appearance he is a typical Kentuckian, tall and straight as an arrow, with a well formed head poised upon broad shoulders; his hair plentiful and as free from "kink" as an Indian's; a large, firm mouth partially concealed by a luxuriant mustache and a nose inclined to be aquiline. Although he was too young to be available for military duty during the war, he enlisted in a confederate cavalry company in 1863 and performed such duties as fell to the members of the organization, which was enlisted as a home guard. In 1866 he removed to Missouri, studied law and was admitted to practice in 1867. From 1873 to 1874 he was prosecuting attorney of Vernon county, and made an excellent record, but relinquished the position in order to devote himself to his more profitable private practice and to farming and stock raising, toward which he had a pronounced leaning.



GOV. W. J. STONE, OF MISSOURI.

In 1884 Col. Stone was selected to represent the Twelfth district of Missouri in congress, and was reelected in 1886 and 1888. In the house he proved himself to be an indefatigable worker and held positions on the various committees on public lands, reform in the civil service and on the labor troubles in Pennsylvania. He was industrious and vigilant in all matters coming before his committees, and his opinions as to the advisability of legislation concerning them carried great weight with his colleagues. He was particularly conspicuous by reason of his defense of the people against the encroachments of corporations and also took a prominent part in legislation designed to preserve the public domain for the benefit of actual settlers. He is eloquent in debate and when conscious of the rectitude of his position is as firm as adamantine rock.

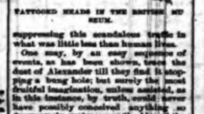
TRAFFIC IN HEADS.

Picturesque Specimens Which Were Once Articles of Commerce.

In the gallery of the British museum which is devoted to ethnographical specimens there are four well-preserved Maori heads. The tattooing of the one to the extreme left is beautiful in design and perfectly executed; it is an excellent specimen of facial marking as practiced in New Zealand. It must have belonged to some chief of long pedigree, and was no doubt once an honored relic.

Another of these heads, the second from the right, is of a different character. Its owner was undoubtedly hastily tattooed and slain. Compare the ugly, shapeless scrawls upon the left cheek with the graceful markings on the nobler head. The pigment used must also have been very poor, and it was evidently applied in the most slovenly way. In many places the flesh has not retained the color; and the cuts caused by the tattooing instruments could not have been properly healed before the unlucky creature was done to death.

For a long time the Maoris made these heads a very profitable article of traffic with Europeans, but finally the enormity of this trade was made palpable to the lagging authorities, and in 1831 the governor at Sydney issued a proclamation which had the effect of suppressing this scandalous traffic in what was little less than human lives.



TATTOOED HEADS IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

One may, by an easy sequence of events, as has been shown, trace the dust of Alexander till they find it stopping a bung hole; but surely the most fruitful imagination, unless assisted, as in this instance, by truth, could never have possibly conceived anything so gruesomely grotesque as the idea of the head of some illustrious New Zealand warrior of yore, who had in life rejoiced in some such awe-inspiring name as Matutaera Te Pukepuke Te Paine Te Karato Te-a-Potatau Te Wherowhero Tawhiao o-te-Ngatimahuta, being, toward the middle century, hawked about the streets of Sydney in a dirty old colored handkerchief.

An Era of Unmarried Women.

Susan B. Anthony is of the opinion that we are on the verge of an era of unmarried women. Our civilization, she says, is changing. Daughters cannot be supported at home, and there is nothing there to busy them. The women used to spin and weave, make carpets and soap, but now all that is done for them in the factories. Young men do not make enough money to support their wives, and there is such a craze for dissipation among them that the women would rather go into a store for almost nothing than to marry.

MONSIGNORE SATOLLI.

He Came to America Vested with Papal Power.

He Is an Italian Churchman with the Rank of Archbishop—His Solution of the School and McGlynn Problems.

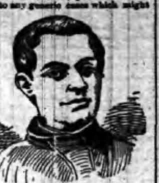
Archbishop Satolli, who has been sent to this country by the holy father as apostolical delegate, is a prominent Italian ecclesiastic enjoying the respect and esteem of Pope Leo XIII. From what he has done and from what he has announced, it is clear what part of that mission was, at least. He has brought over definite conclusions to the [illegible] question of the public schools, and he has adjusted matters in the case of Dr. Edward McGlynn.

The attempt to convey to the American public the idea that Archbishop Satolli comes here to inaugurate or exercise anything like the temporal power of the pope is a bugaboo probably put in motion by those who would not object to Archbishop Satolli falling into ill favor here and who would willingly see him recalled.

It is probable that his mission to this country may have some effect upon the relations which exist between bishops and priests and it is to be expected that whatever he may do in this respect will be to the greater satisfaction of the priests.

Archbishop Satolli is a man of calm, mature judgment, wide grasp, a sympathetic and kindly spirit, and his intellectual powers are of a high order. He is eminently fitted therefore for the task of coming to this country, estimating the character and degree of such needs as may exist in its ecclesiastical life, and also of perceiving whether they call for remedies, and, if so, what these remedies should be. As ablegate he has necessarily certain powers, but what these powers are, beyond what he has himself indicated, no one can know until such time as he deems it suitable to reveal them.

The fact that America is a mission country makes it an object of care and attention to the propaganda, and consequently whatever the ablegate discovers to be the condition of the church in this country he will naturally report it to that body. Archbishop Satolli is here as the representative of the pope, and in his action he will carry out the views of the pope. On the larger definite questions which he came to arrange he received beyond doubt from the holy father the ground to be taken and the course to be pursued. In regard to any generic cases which might fall under powers of adjudication committed to him, he will necessarily have to exercise his own judgment and then apply the power which he has received from the pope.



MONSIGNORE SATOLLI.

It is no unusual thing for the pope to send an ablegate in this way to a country. One whose judgment, clear and keen intuition and zeal he can trust is safely made the instrument to accomplish good to the country to which he has been sent and to accomplish which he is endowed with special though delegated authority. It would be well to bear in mind that Archbishop Satolli as Archbishop Satolli has absolutely no authority in the United States. It is as the representative of the pope that he has authority. Remembering this the action of Archbishop Satolli up to this time may well suggest to Americans the broad cosmopolitan character of the present pope. The adjustment of the school question was liberal compared to the treatment which it has received at the hands of the clergy in the past in this country, and to many Americans, Catholic as well as Protestant, it is almost startling in this respect.

The adhesion to the old view, or at least the disposition to relinquish it reluctantly, is the ground of any dissatisfaction which may exist on the part of some of the American bishops toward the ablegate. Here is where it should be recalled that Archbishop Satolli did not act except as the announcer of the views and decrees of the pope. The holy father did not come to such a decision without long thought, consultation and prayer. Rome does not act hastily in such things, and whatever opposition may exist to the views and arrangement of this question or to Archbishop Satolli will not be likely to affect the holy father. The ablegate has done part of his work, and has done it, to the minds of most, wisely and prudently. He will remain until he has accomplished the rest of it. Those who have had the pleasure of meeting him tell me that he shows a pleasant and enthusiastic admiration for American institutions, and they are charmed with this representative of Pope Leo XIII. They feel that he is capable of wisely and serenely fulfilling the mission that the pope has committed to him. This mission and the best fulfillment of it of which he is capable, says Father Ducey in the New York World, are matters of conscience with him, and he will simply carry them out to the best of his ability.

Rapid Transit.

It is said that mail matter dropped in the post office at Paris is delivered in Berlin in an hour and a half, and sometimes within 35 minutes. The distance between the cities is 750 miles, and the mail is sent by means of pneumatic tubes.

Theatrical Item.

She—George, don't you think it looks bad for you to go out between the acts every time we go to the theater?

He—You wouldn't have me go out during the performance, would you, and disturb the audience?—Texas Siftings.

Bobby's Joke.

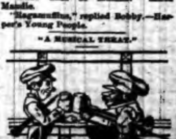
"We had a mince pie at dinner," said Maudie.

"We had muffins," said Bobby.

"What kind of muffins?" asked Maudie.

"Ragamuffins," replied Bobby.—Harper's Young People.

"A MUSICAL TREAT."



—Puck.

Not so Bad as That.

He (poor and idle)—You reject my hand. Cruel girl! Reverse your decision or I shall do something desperate!

She (an heiress who knows he wooes her to be maintained)—Go to work, I suppose.—Texas Siftings.

The Proper Time.

Madison Squeeze—I see you very often with that young DeBroke. Am I premature in offering to you my congratulations?

Miss De Bullion—Oh, no, not at all; I have just refused him.—Des Moines Argonaut.

Useful as Well as Ornamental.

"I see a great many houses in the south are built with cupolas," said Jawbone.

"Yes, we have to build 'em that way," said the colonel. "We use 'em for chicken coops at night."—Life.

The Old Guard Dies.

He—Now that you have rejected me, may I say one word to you as a friend?

She—Certainly.

He—Well, I think you're making the greatest mistake of your life.—Puck.

She Is Willing.

Mrs. Twynn—Don't you object to your husband playing poker so much?

Mrs. Triplets—Oh, no! He nearly always wins.—Truth.

The Reward of Industry.

He practiced at spreads and [illegible]
When a lad, in the old village school-house;
And he's now in receipt of five dollars per day
For [illegible] in a [illegible].
—John Ludlow, in Puck.

By Degrees.

"There is a saying that [illegible] for every [illegible]. Did she find you [illegible]?"

"She did if she ever asked."—Judge.

A Question of [illegible].

Willie (at breakfast)—You can't help what you dream, can you mamma?

His Mother—No, Willie.

"Then if you dream you're havin' a fight you ain't to blame for it, are you?"

"No, but if you have been a good boy you are not likely to have such dreams."

"Still they ain't wicked, are they, if you can't help it?"

"N-no, I suppose not. Did you dream last night you were doing so wicked a thing as fighting?"

"Yep! And it would 'a' done you good to see how I licked that yaller-haired, freckle-faced, good-for-nothin' Bob Stapleford till he couldn't stand up, dog-on him!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Tragedy Spoiled.

"Yessir," said the newly-married Toddles to his business partner, "I sat down to a breakfast the other morning that my wife had cooked. Well, of course, I oughtn't to say anything about it, but I grew reckless and ate fifteen pancakes, four biscuits, three cups of coffee, some codfish steak, oatmeal and toast. Then I went down town and—"

"Went for a doctor?" interjected Toddles.

"No. And never felt better in my life."—Chicago News Record.

Three Strikes and Out.

"I was struck by the handsome shop window, and went in. Although I had no money I thought I could make some satisfactory arrangement as to payment. I selected some nice things, when, looking up, the sign 'No trust' struck me."

"And then?"

"And then the salesman struck me for the cash."

"And then?"

"And then I went out."—Judge.

They Were.

"These folks think they're purty smart," said the burglar to himself, fishing from its concealment under the edge of the parlor carpet, back of the piano, a well-stuffed pocketbook and slipping it into an opening in his coat.

"And they are!" he ejaculated, in deep disgust, as he opened it a few hours later and found it to be stuffed with tracts on the sin of stealing.—Chicago Tribune.

A Valuable Lesson.

Aspiring Author (with big manuscript)—The editor is not in, eh? Well, I'll wait for him. Are you regularly employed here?

Office Boy (great magazine)—Yep.

Aspiring Author—A good beginning. When you grow up you'll know enough to be an author, won't you?

Office Boy—I'll know enough not to be.—Good News.

Time to Change.

First Boy—Do you know anyone who wants a boy? I'm goin' to leave the place I'm in. Can't get any more aftertoons off.

Second Boy—Why can't yeh?

First Boy—I've used up all th' excuses, 'cept askin' for a day off ter git married, an' I'm afraid that 'ud make 'em suspicious.—Good News.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

Protected Throughout by the Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after Apr. [illegible], 189[illegible], trains leave [illegible] as follows:

[illegible] A. M. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for [illegible].

[illegible] P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car to Philadelphia daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Toledo.

[illegible] P. M. PACIFIC EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Memphis, Chicago, and Toledo, daily except Saturday. [illegible] Cleveland and Columbus.

For Baltimore, Washington and the South—[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

[illegible]

For Trenton—[illegible]

For Lambertville and Phillipsburg [illegible]

For Flemington—[illegible]

For Bordentown, Burlington and Camden via Trenton—[illegible]

A full line of tickets are on sale, and sleeping car accommodations can be secured at the ticket office at Elizabeth.

For further information, see time tables to be had at the ticket office.

CHARLES E. PUGH, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect JAN. [illegible], 1893.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Newark [illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Somerville [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Easton [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 [illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible] A. M. for Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport and [illegible]

[illegible] A. M. for [illegible] to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] A. M. for Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R., [illegible]

[illegible] Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c. Through coach to Williamsport.

[illegible] P. M. way for High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington, Easton, Bangor, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Sunbury and Wilkesbarre.

[illegible] P. M. way for High Bridge.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Easton, D. L. & W. R. R., Allentown, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg. Parlor car to Mauch Chunk.

[illegible] P. M. for Flemington.

[illegible] P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading and Harrisburg.

[illegible] P. M. for Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

[illegible]

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

For Perth Amboy, [illegible]

For Freehold, [illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia [illegible]

For Trenton, [illegible]

For Baltimore and Washington [illegible]

RETURNING—LEAVE PHILADELPHIA

[illegible]

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Supt.
H. P. BALDWIN, Gen. Pass. Agt.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

CONNECTING [illegible] SUBSCRIBERS—P[illegible] AND BURGLA[illegible]

[illegible] OVER 12,000 [illegible] FIRE [illegible] PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—[illegible] North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Alston Hotel, The	Park av and 6th st
Ames, C. J.	12 Crescent ave.
[illegible] Hose Co., No. 1	Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. H.	35 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D C	[illegible] Grove st
Brakeley, F W	Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac V	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts.
Barkelew & Dunn	10 North ave.
Bates, W. O., M. D.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bunnell, John	Central ave. and 9th st.
Beerbower, J H	Park av and 3d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	[illegible] E 6th st
Board of Education—5th st, 8th and Union sts
Booth, E H	[illegible] Madison ave
	8th & Liberty, 6th & Monroe
Clark, E B	3 Wagewood place
Children's Home	Jackson ave.
Clawson, James T	Richmond and Front sts.
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	1 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J R	Mountain and Westervelt aves.
Cox, Rowland	Seventh st
Chapman, Mrs. F. A.	9 Third Place
Cruikshank, E. A.	139 Carlton avenue
[illegible], J H, M D	[illegible] Somerset st
Chase, R F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (J B Leggett, Mgr)	Park Ave and Front st
DAILY PRESS	3 North ave.
[illegible], Mrs. E. H	16 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	62 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 6th st & Park av
[illegible], E H	Rockview ave
[illegible], F M	27 Park av
Dumont, John B	[illegible] E 7th st
[illegible], T—pay station	Westfield, N J
[illegible], James	[illegible] E 9th st
[illegible], T O—Chief P F D	[illegible] W 6th st
[illegible], S L	121 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 6th st.
Evening News, T. W. Morrison, Editor	7 Rock'y st.
Engine No 1	West 3d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st.
Evans, Geo C	27 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J	29 West Seventh st
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR. Depot.
French, F M & Sons	Somerset st.
Fritts, Dr J V	25 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard	30 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, C Frank	29 Somerset st
Grant Geo W, Chief of Police	[illegible] W 4th st
Goddard, C M	17 Third Place.
Griffen, A M	33 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New sts
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 5th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
Heyniger, L	61 & 63 Somerset street.
Hageman, R. A	107 Sycamore avenue.
Hodges, Dr. Ellis W	43 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas	141 Front street.
Hedden, Albert	4th st, near Park ave.
Higgins, M. A	70 East 4th st—28 North ave
Hatfield, John E	208 South 2d st—21 Park av
Harder, Francis C	123 Madison av
Hermanns, O	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	30 North av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	26 W. Front st.
Jones, Evan	12 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	9th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T	66 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 5th st.
Lovell, L. N	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice	The 40 Broadway
Laire, J F & Co	3 W Front st
Linke, Frank	42 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	18 Plainfield ave
Myers, J K	27 Sa [illegible] 7th st
McGee, Henry A	Willow ave
McGee, James	Willow ave.
Miller, J G	10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	20 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	South ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. H	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	49 Grove st
Milliken, E F	130 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	36 E Front st
Myers, Lawrence	E Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood.
Newtall, Henry B	30 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
Penton, Jr., Thos B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	40 East Fourth St
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield Reef Co	3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	9 Park ave
Police Station	Park ave and RR.
Pettit C Jr	7th and Division sts.
Potts, Press Works	South ave.
Probasco, Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave. and 9th st
Pope & Co. J. C	6 East Front st
Pittis Thomas	124 Central av
Pond Lathe Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
Pierce Hardware Co	43 W Front st
Runyon, F W	1 Front St.—Central Times
Reed, Chas A	27 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry C	Broadway
Rosenbaum, L. A	30 Broadway
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H. P	Washington avenue
Roberts, D B	17 North avenue.
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	40 Madison ave.
[illegible], Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st.
Roome, Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
Rank, H. G.	[illegible] st
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, E. W. & Co	7th cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L W	Front st
Rogers, D W	40 W 3d st
Rogers, E F jr	36 Westervelt ave
Sayres, E W	29 east 9th st
Terrell, Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield ave
Saguine, C. J.	20 Front street.
Shaw, R J	Front st., opp. Park ave.
[illegible], A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W F	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shepherd, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	13 W Front st
Scott, Weber & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
Soelle, Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	16 EF ont st
Thompson, A. D	30-32 North av
Talmadge, Henry F (Bros)	Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jas A	Madison av
Tilsworth, Jos M	30 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and E B'dwy
Tobin & Ranneker	21 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	8th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	37 Somerset st
Tweedy, O. B.	11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel	30 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Thorn, E	76 W Front st
United States Express Co	3 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J	10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
Wettman, C.	West Seventh street
Wadsworth, W B	8th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
Weathers, J F	W 6th st., near Grand ave
Waldo, E, Ass't Chief	3d st near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
Wetherspoon G G	146 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J	[illegible]	Hempstead N Y	[illegible]
Astoria, N Y	[illegible]	Hoboken N J	[illegible]
Babylon, N Y	[illegible]	Hunter's Point N Y	[illegible]
Bath, N Y	[illegible]	Irvington N J	[illegible]
Bayonne N J	[illegible]	Islip N Y	[illegible]
Bergen Point N J	[illegible]	Jamaica N Y	[illegible]
Bayside N Y	[illegible]	Jersey City N J	[illegible]
Bay Shore N Y	[illegible]	Keyport N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Kingston N J	[illegible]
Belleville N J	[illegible]	Laurel Hill N Y	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bloomfield N J	[illegible]	Little Neck N Y	[illegible]
[illegible] N J	[illegible]	Little Silver N J	[illegible]
[illegible] N J	[illegible]	Long Branch N J	[illegible]
Brooklyn N Y	[illegible]	Madison N J	[illegible]
Caldwell N J	[illegible]	Matawan N J	[illegible]
Carlstadt N J	[illegible]	Millburn N J	[illegible]
Centreville N J	[illegible]	Montclair N J	[illegible]
Chatham N J	[illegible]	Morristown N J	[illegible]
Chester N J	[illegible]	Newark N J	[illegible]
Colt's Neck N J	[illegible]	New Brunswick N J	[illegible]
Coney Island N Y	[illegible]	Newtown N Y	[illegible]
Cranford N J	[illegible]	New York N Y	[illegible]
Dover N J	[illegible]	Orange N J	[illegible]
East Norwich N Y	[illegible]	Passaic N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Paterson N J	[illegible]
Elizabeth N J	[illegible]	Perth Amboy N J	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Rahway N J	[illegible]
Fairview N J	[illegible]	Red Bank N J	[illegible]
Fanwood N J	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Far Rockaway N Y	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Flatbush N Y	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Flushing N Y	[illegible]	South Amboy N J	[illegible]
Fort Lee N J	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Franklin Park N J	[illegible]	Staten Island N Y	[illegible]
Freehold N J	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Woodbridge N J	[illegible]
Glen Cove N Y	[illegible]	Yonkers N Y	[illegible]
Gravesend N Y	[illegible]	Trenton N J	[illegible]
Hackensack N J	[illegible]	Tarrytown N Y	[illegible]

TWENTY

Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, 2 doors above Peace street.

Mr. JOHN E. STEVENS, [illegible] gives particular attention to shoeing, [illegible] and interfering horses. Speedy [illegible] in an [illegible] Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Park avenue and [illegible] street.
[illegible]
[illegible]

ARTIFICIAL ICEMAKING.

A World's Fair Building Devoted to the Industry.

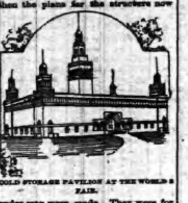
An Exhibit Which Will Be a Novelty to Most of the Persons Attending the Exposition—Modern Refrigeration Machines.

The magnitude of the world's fair is such that a building larger in size and more striking in architecture than most of those in which western expositions have been held is nearly half done without anyone, excepting those directly interested in its construction, knowing of its existence. As the foundation was laid and walls began to arise the employes around the fair manifested an uncertain curiosity as to what it was to be. They asked one or two people, but getting no positive reply the subject was dropped. If they thought at all about it afterward it was to the effect that it must be a part of the dairy exhibit, to which it was adjacent, and this is the first description which has appeared in the Chicago press in regard to the icemaking and cold storage pavilion.

The exhibit which will be given in the pavilion will be a novelty to most of the people attending the fair. Within it from eighty to ninety tons of ice will be made by the most approved processes every day. Three distinct systems, all of which have been found to work successfully in the business of making ice, will be in operation side by side. The harvesting of the ice after it has been made will be clearly shown and the utility of cold storage for the preservation of fresh meat particularly will be exhibited. The entire plan of cold storage will be in actual operation and in such a way that the visitors can fully comprehend this somewhat mysterious subject. All the different systems of cold storage will also find a place in the building.

It is the plaint of the company which is building the pavilion that ice machines and refrigerating apparatus were not originally given a place commensurate with their importance; and, more, it is said that the conditions regarding the exhibit were so peculiar that it was impracticable to show the making of ice as a regular exhibit at the fair.

A "concession" for the erection of a building was bought and paid for and then the plans for the structure now under way were made. They were for a building 130x255 feet, five stories in height, and with four imposing towers 100 feet high for observatories, reached by elevators. The central tower is 191 feet high, and will serve as a smokestack as well as doing duty as an architectural ornament. It is claimed to be one of the most artistic smokestacks ever erected.



COLD STORAGE PAVILION AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The main doorway of the pavilion will be very ornamental and the entire work on the first story will be in sympathy. Owing to the necessity of cold storage there will be no windows in the upper stories between the first and fifth. To make up for this wide stretch of plain staff the upper story will be profusely decorated.

The space allotted for the pavilion was 150x300 feet and lay due west of the Administration building, between that building and Stony Island avenue, the west line of the grounds. Architecturally it will be of the Romanesque order.

The machinery of the pavilion will be located in the room into which the main entrance opens. It will consist of five engines, no two of which are alike, with dynamos, air-pumps, and all the other motive power required in icemaking and cold storage. The boiler room is immediately in the rear of the engine room. The boilers will have 800 horse power.

Above the boiler room will be a fireproof story in which will be located ammonia condensers and water-purifying apparatus. The ice storage house will be 100x130 feet in size, two stories high and will be to the left of the boiler house and engine room. In this room every facility will be given the visitor to see the actual manufacture of ice under all processes.

On the right of the engine room is a space 100x130 feet, four stories high, all of which with the stories above the engines and tank rooms will be used for general cold storage. This department alone contains 700,000 cubic feet of space, which will be divided into various rooms. Each room will have its own temperature, and an automatic contrivance for controlling the temperature will be on exhibition.

Proper air spaces have been secured by two or three coatings of staff in parts where it was necessary that outside heat should have no effect.

The icemaking pavilion is being constructed on a scale that will rival some of the public exhibits on the grounds.

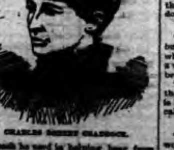
Women Work on Railways.

The rather surprising news comes from St. Petersburg that women may be employed upon the state railways in future in the proportion of twenty per cent. The nature of the work which they are to do is not specified, and probably it will be largely clerical, but there is no reason why they should not take their share of signaling, and the telegraphic system alone offers a big field for them. But, apart from any consideration of details, the concession is a remarkable one for Russia, and an encouraging sign of the times.

MISS MARY MURFREE.

Known to the Reading Public as Charles Egbert Craddock.

The able critics were mightily surprised when the fact was first revealed that the work of Charles Egbert Craddock, in which they had discovered so many masculine characteristics and evidences of masculine strength, in reality came from the hand of a little woman, that her real name was Mary Noailles Murfree, and that she was a Tennessee girl who had grown up among the people whose life, habits, thought and speech she had portrayed with the skill of a master. She comes of an old southern family which numbered among its distinguished members Maj. Hardy Murfree, one of the heroes of the revolution. His descendants have the sash he used in helping bear from the battlefield Gen. Francis Nash, who was mortally wounded in the fight at Germantown. It was at Grantlands, near the town of Murfreesboro, which was named after this soldier ancestor, that Miss Murfree was born. She became lame early in life as the result of a stroke of paralysis and, thus prevented from indulging in the ordinary amusements of youth, she turned to books and became a hard student. The civil war reduced the family fortune and her family removed from their residence in Nashville back to Grantlands and then to St. Louis. Under these circumstances she began to write stories of life in the Tennessee mountains, where she has spent much of her time. These under the pen name of Charles Egbert Craddock, she sent to the Atlantic Monthly, in which they appeared. They were followed by longer stories, but it was several years before her identity was known.



CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK.

MISS JEAN INGELOW.

The Undisputed Mistress of English Poetry and Song.

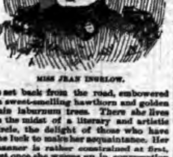
Miss Frances Willard has proposed and Dr. Chauncey M. Depew has seconded the motion that Queen Victoria should appoint Miss Jean Ingelow her poet laureate.

What right we Americans have to dictate to the queen as to whom she shall grant the bay leaves is not exactly clear. If Englishmen ventured to suggest appointments to the president we would be pretty apt to tell them to mind their own business. Presumably the monarchs of Europe are so effete that they need the virile advice of the Gail Hamiltons and Frances Willards of the new world, says the Illustrated American.

Sixty-two years ago Jean Ingelow was born in the quaint old town of Boston, Lincolnshire, England. Her father owned a private bank there. Her mother came from Aberdeen, and "imparted her own canny ways of thought and feeling and expression to her daughter."

In her early poems Miss Ingelow exhibited many proofs of the influence her surroundings of sea, fine old churches and monastic ruins had had upon her. When she first came before the public, in 1860, by publishing a volume of "Poems by Jean Ingelow," she speedily found an echo in the heart of the English people, and was recognized by the critics as a genuine poet.

Miss Ingelow lives in old Kensington, "in a quiet street, where all the houses are gay with window-boxes full of flowers." It is a large square brick house, built in the days of Queen Anne, when Kensington was the court suburb, and is set back from the road, embowered in sweet-smelling hawthorn and golden rain laburnum trees. There she lives in the midst of a literary and artistic circle, the delight of those who have the luck to make her acquaintance. Her manner is rather constrained at first, but once she warms up in conversation her coldness disappears, and, though she is far from good looking, her pale, thoughtful face lights up into almost beauty.



MISS JEAN INGELOW.

Miss Ingelow has not been spoiled by fame. She once wrote: "I do not care about fame, or rather, scarcely believe in such a thing for myself, but it is a great pleasure, and a very true one, to be able to give pleasure to so many people for the time being, that is, while popularity lasts."

Her Dolls Had the Measles.

The dolls of children speak to them of love and hatred, of fear and of courage, of sorrow and of sickness. "Are you not afraid to speak to me?" said the little queen of Holland the other day to an ambassador. "No; why?" "Because my dolls have the measles!" This little story might illustrate more than one chapter in the philosophy of dolls.

A Tart Reply.

"You sit on your horse like a butcher," said a pert young officer, who happened to be of royal blood, to a veteran general who was somewhat bent from age.

"It is highly probable," responded the old warrior, with a grim smile; "it is because all my life I've been leading calves like you to the slaughter."

Close Proof.

"My wife is a singularly ingenious woman," remarked the married man.

"Indeed!" said the bachelor, with a languid effort at interest.

"Indeed, I assure you. It was only yesterday that she found a new place to hide my slippers."—Texas Siftings.

Near Enough.

Lawyer Foggs—Madam, I am compelled to ask your age.

Miss Sears—I don't remember exactly.

Lawyer Foggs—Suppose you give it to us in round numbers.—Puck.

The Temperance Lover.

He likes to see the stars so bright,
The [illegible] on the [illegible];
He [illegible]
He's [illegible]
—Judge.

MISCELLANEOUS MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.

3-26-1

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Room for Doubt.

"I don't know," said Uncle Clover. "I kinder doubt these stories about Cousin Hunter bein' so awful rich."

"Why, father?" asked his wife.

"Well, the hull week I stopped ter his house, he never wunst had pie for breakfast."—Jury.

Family Resemblance.

"That slender young woman approaching is the sister of Bicketts, the football player."

"I don't see much resemblance."

"I do. Her face is powdered and his is pulverized."—Indianapolis Journal.

Gentle Persuasion.

Clara—Do you know, Mr. Nicely, that your father once proposed to my mother and she rejected him?

Nicely—Yes, I have heard of it.

Clara—Now, I am not a bit like mamma.—Truth.

Why Not?

Timid Youth—Sha-shall we go and sit under that w-w-willow, Miss Ethel?

Demure Maiden—Why not under that pop-pop-poplar, George?—Chicago Tribune.

Not What He Was Afraid Of.

"Why," said a counsel to a witness, "are you so very precise in your statement? Are you afraid of telling an untruth?"

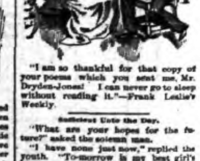
Witness (promptly)—No, sir.—Boston Globe.

Not Exactly Encouragement.

The Bashful Lover—Miss Emily, I—er—hem!—

She (sweetly)—Do you, Mr. Mammadear? Now, wouldn't you like to join our sewing society?—Harper's Bazar.

A GIFT WORTH RECEIVING.



"I am so thankful for that copy of your poems which you sent me, Mr. Dryden-Jones! I can never go to sleep without reading it."—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

Sufficient Unto the Day.

"What are your hopes for the future?" asked the solemn man.

"I have none just now," replied the youth. "To-morrow is my best girl's birthday and I'm worrying about the present."—Life.

A Profession for Him.

Fond Mother (of delicate dude)—I think it is time Clarence selected a profession. What would you advise?

Old Gent (reflectively)—He might do nicely as a typewriter girl.—N. Y. Weekly.

Where They Come From.

"Where do Skye-terriers come from?" asked Robbie.

"I don't know," replied Sam. "Maybe they come down from the sky when it rains cats and dogs."—Harper's Young People.

Feminisms.

Miss Della Casey—You haven't been ill, have you, dear?

Miss Rosie Hugh—No. Do I look it?

Miss Della Casey—Yes. You are so pale that you are almost pretty.—Indianapolis Journal.

Shows He's Thinking About It.

"I'm sure Bessy is about to be engaged."

"Why?"

"Because he keeps saying that he'll never, never get married."—Chicago News Record.

No Attraction.

Good Minister—That new choir isn't filling the church the way I thought it would.

Mr. Worldlie—Well, what can you expect? You've got a homely tenor and a married soprano.—N. Y. Weekly.

Just the Thing.

Clara—Millie is going to marry young Freshleigh next month. What kind of present shall I make?

Harry—Why not give him some presence of mind?—Truth.

Wanted Variety.

He—She is par excellence, a woman of fashion.

She (spitefully)—Yes; she doesn't even wear the same complexion twice.—Boston Globe.

A New Standard of Value.

The poet soon will roar and sing
With all the music of his soul,
Of any dear and precious thing—
"It's worth its weight in coal."
—Puck.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

H. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1893. No 5.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	Weeks 1	Weeks 2	Weeks 3	Months 1	Months 2	Months 3	Months 6	Months 12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—junf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 133, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. THEIRS,
Dentist,
39 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jn47

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 150, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 5 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 91 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly16tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 54 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap4y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. 1317yl

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 8. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and competent men. [illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 6 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,

Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St.

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey,]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—35 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. [illegible] P. O. Box 1 [illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best five cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
SEGARS!!
No. 10 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
and dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 18 W. Front street, to 41 West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends, and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 20 NORTH AVENUE

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J

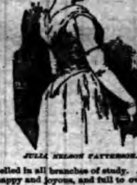
[illegible]

Beauty and Brains That Washington Is Proud Of.

Representative Castle's Daughter—Miss Patterson Is Rather Shy—Misses Emily Tufton Mason, Spofford, Powell, MacDonald and McGee.

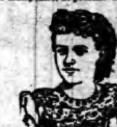
[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

Miss Viva M. Castle is the only daughter of Representative James N. Castle, of the Fourth congressional district of Minnesota, and is decidedly one of the most attractive and dashing of this season's beauties. She was educated at the Villa Maria convent, in Montreal, where she acquired an unusually perfect French accent, and excelled in all branches of study. Always happy and joyous, and full to overflowing with vivacity, she possesses the enviable quality of extracting every grain of pleasure from her surroundings. She has never been very robust, and for that reason has, in company with her brilliant mother, spent several winters in Florence. There is a remarkable charm about her of which her friends never tire, and with the added attraction of being a perfect dancer she has always about her an admiring coterie, chief of whom and most favored, however, is her "dear daddy."

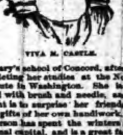


JULIA NELSON PATTERSON.

Miss Julia Nelson Patterson is the daughter of Gen. J. N. Patterson, of New Hampshire, at present the second auditor of the treasury. She is a lineal descendant of Jonathan Cilley, of revolutionary fame. Although rather shy and undemonstrative, she possesses many pretty little mannerisms which render her a charming companion, much sought after in society. Her maternal grandfather was Rev. Dr. Bouton, who was for forty years pastor of the First Congregational church, of Concord, N. H. Miss Patterson passed most of her childhood days among the granite hills, and received her education at the justly celebrated St. Mary's school of Concord, afterward completing her studies at the Nowood institute in Washington. She is very gifted with brush and needle, and her delight is to surprise her friends with little gifts of her own handiwork. Miss Patterson has spent the winters at the national capital, and is a great favorite wherever she goes. She is an excellent dancer and an accomplished horsewoman, the latter talent rendering her immensely popular, especially in army and navy circles.

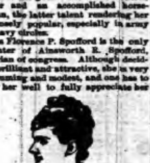


FLORENCE P. SPOFFORD.



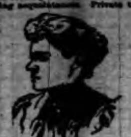
VIVA M. CASTLE.

Miss Florence P. Spofford is the only daughter of Ainsworth R. Spofford, librarian of congress. Although decidedly brilliant and attractive, she is very unassuming and modest, and one has to know her well to fully appreciate her remarkable qualities of mind. Her education has been chiefly obtained at home under the supervision of her father. Since the death of her mother, which occurred last summer, Miss Florence has devoted herself almost exclusively to the domestic machinery of her father's house; but she has nevertheless found time to become a valued member of various charitable and scientific organizations, and is to-day one of the leading spirits in the Woman's Anthropological Society of America. Since her partial withdrawal from society she has become [illegible] to her father in his manifold labors. Society, however, is waiting with open arms for her return to its varied duties and pleasures.



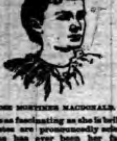
EMILY TUFTON MASON.

Miss Emily Tufton Mason, like Miss Spofford, is intensely interested in anthropology, and is one of the board of directors of that scientific society of American women. She is the eldest daughter of Prof. Otis T. Mason, curator of the National museum, member of the Columbian university and one of the leading lights in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Miss Mason has contributed several valuable scientific papers upon her pet subject, all of which are highly prized. Petite in figure, with clear-cut features and bright intelligent eyes, her beauty attracts a throng of admirers wherever she goes. Not less brilliant in conversation, her quick repartees are like sparks from an electric wire, bright, instantaneous, and often carrying with them the little stings that are not felt till they are gone.



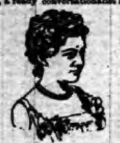
MARY DEAN POWELL.

Miss Mary Dean Powell is the only child of Maj. J. W. Powell, who lost his right arm at the battle of Pittsburgh Landing, and who refused to accept a pension from the government he had helped to maintain. The major is a well-known scientific writer, and his daughter has inherited a natural tendency for the same pursuits. She is of constant and inestimable assistance to her father in his work as director of the geological survey and the bureau of ethnology. Miss Powell is a tall and graceful brunette, with flashing black eyes, which seem to comprehend the world at a glance. She is very popular with those who know her well, though rather retiring and conservative about making acquaintances. Private tutors began her education, which was afterwards completed in Germany and France, and she speaks the language of each of these countries fluently. Her greatest accomplishment, however, is music. She is a wonderful pianist, and from pure love of her art she devotes at least half of every day to its practice. Although born in Salt Lake City, she has passed most of her life in Washington, where her friends are as numerous as they are devoted. Last winter Miss Powell made her first formal bow to society, which she at once took by storm, her tastes and talents quickly placing her at the head of the musical clique of the city.



ROSE MORTIMER MACDONALD.

Miss Rose Mortimer MacDonald, the beautiful daughter of Marshall MacDonald, commissioner of fish and fisheries, is as fascinating as she is brilliant. Her tastes are pronouncedly scientific, and she has ever been her father's chosen companion in his geological and metallurgical rambles and researches. Miss MacDonald prides herself on being a close student of nature. She has traveled extensively in Europe and with her father has discussed the "ologies" with many of the eminent scientists of Scotland and Germany. She is a tall, queenly blonde, a ready conversationalist and a profound thinker, but, notwithstanding her fondness for study and scientific pursuits, she finds time to go much into society, where she is a genial friend and a universal favorite. She possesses many social charms and her diversified talents are everywhere appreciated.



ANITA NEWCOMB M'GEE.

Anita Newcomb McGee is a practicing physician; she began her education in Washington, and then spent several years studying in Europe. A portion of this time was passed as a student at Newnham college, Cambridge, England, one year at the university at Geneva and another year in Berlin. She is the daughter of Prof. Simon Newcomb, the noted astronomer, and in company with him has visited all the great observatories of Europe, including Greenwich and Pulkowa, near St. Petersburg. She also visited Europe several times when her father was superviding the grinding of the lenses for the Lick telescope. After her return to America she married Mr. W. J. McGee, the geologist, but better known as an authority on earthquakes. She frequently accompanies him on his geological expeditions, and at one time made the trip from New Orleans to Kentucky on horseback.

Mrs. McGee has the honor of being the second woman who was elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and is also a member of the Anthropological Society of America, being already a charter member of the women's branch of the same society. Within the past few years Mrs. McGee has graduated in medicine from Columbian university and is now at work in the Johns Hopkins hospital. She hopes to establish a sanitarium for the practice of gynaecology in Washington. Her writings include "An Experiment in Human Stirpiculture," "Generation of n-Dimensional Space," "History of the Women's Anthropological Society of America," "The Evolution of a Sect" and "Notes on American Communities."

AN ABSENT-MINDED HOSTESS.

Forgot to Ask the Ones in Whose Honor the Luncheon Was Given.

Not long ago there was a luncheon uptown, given by a woman well known in New York's social life, whose guests were invited to meet "the Misses Blank." At the appointed hour a company of a dozen women was assembled in the hostess' parlor, completing the expected number of guests, with the exception of the sisters in whose honor the feast was held. Time wore on, the company grew hungry, and the hostess had visions of a splendid luncheon, but still the Misses Blank tarried. At length, when a full half hour beyond the hour had struck, luncheon was announced and, with a brief comment that the young women must have been suddenly and unavoidably detained, the hostess ushered her friends to the table. The long luncheon was finished and later adieus spoken with no word from the missing guests of honor and everybody went away curious to know what could have happened, in these days of messenger boys and telephones, to prevent the Misses Blank from at least making some sign of its import. A few days later, however, this curiosity was gratified. A note from her late hostess reached each guest present, saying that in justice to the Misses Blank she hastened to explain that through a curious freak of absent-mindedness she had neglected to send them any invitation to the luncheon intended as a compliment to them. Which explanation fully exonerated the young women and proved amusing to all concerned, except, perhaps, the hostess.—N. Y. Times.

AUTHORITIES DIFFERED.

And As Usual It Was the Greater Light That Had Blundered.

The reading class was standing in a stiff row upon the floor of an Indiana school house, and a bright little fellow was drawling a paragraph about a Roman [illegible].

The president of the school board was present on his regular tour of inspection, and he pompously requested that the boy "read that verse again."

The "verse" was read again.

"Ah! hm!" said the great man in a loud voice. "Why do you pronounce that word [illegible]?"

The boy was silent.

"It should be pronounced [illegible]," continued the great man, with a patronizing smile.

The boy remained quiet, but the teacher finally spoke:

"Pardon me, sir," she said, "but the fault is mine if the word was mispronounced. I have taught the class to pronounce it [illegible]."

"But why?" insisted the great man, as a look of surprise was followed by a look of pain upon his benign features.

"I believe that Webster favors that pronunciation," said the teacher, meekly.

"Impossible," said the great man.

The dictionary was brought, and the president of the school board turned over its leaves until he found the word. There was a breathless silence as he looked up.

"I am astonished, madam," he said, at last, "that Daniel Webster should have made such a mistake as that."—Harper's Weekly.

STATISTICS OF STATESMEN.

Some of the Men of the House and the Points Wherein They Excel.

In the house of representatives the man with the longest name is Archibald Henderson Arrington Williams, of North Carolina.

The heaviest man is John W. Rife, of Pennsylvania. A special chair is provided for his use.

The handsomest man is Allan Cathcart Durborow, Jr., of Illinois.

The homeliest man is William F. Parrett, of Indiana.

The oldest man is Edward Scull, of Pennsylvania. He was born in 1818.

The youngest man is Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas. He was born October 6, 1863.

The best dressed man is Henry H. Bingham, of Pennsylvania.

The wittiest man is Thomas Brackett Reed, of Maine.

The tallest man is Newton Martin Curtis, of New York. His height is 6 feet 6 inches.

The shortest man is John R. Fellows, of New York.

The thinnest man is James D. Richardson, of Tennessee.

The richest man is John L. Mitchell, of Wisconsin. His wealth is estimated at from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000.

The best story teller is John M. Allen, of Mississippi.—Washington Post.

The Sleep of Children.

The question of sleep is one that has been much discussed, but we can never know too much upon such a subject. Children ought never to be wakened in the morning, yet all know that it is necessary for them to be out of bed in good season in order to be ready for breakfast and school. Nothing prepares people for the work before them like quiet, refreshing sleep, and nothing will bring them to the verge of lunacy as quickly as deprivation of sleep. Therefore, in order that children may obtain ten or eleven hours' sleep, which is the necessary amount up to the age of twelve or thirteen, they should retire not later than nine o'clock and rise at seven. Children soon become habituated to this, and feel the need of the sleep when they are deprived of it; and if the surroundings are made pleasant for them, and they are encouraged to yield to parents' wishes from love, rather than duty, it becomes a pleasure.—Demorest's Magazine.

Reward of Merit.

Papa—Where did you get that dollar?

Little Son—That's the one you gave me on my birthday.

Papa—My! My! And you haven't spent it? Here's another dollar.

Little Son—Thank you. I hope mamma won't borrow this one like she did the other. She just paid it back.—Good News.

A Dreadful Shock.

Madge—Poor Mr. Bently was just taken home in a carriage; he had a dreadful shock.

Arthur—What was it?

Madge—His wife made an appointment to meet him at a certain hour, and she was there right on the minute.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

His Fear.

"Don't you think my new bonnet is a perfect poem, John?" asked the poet's wife.

"I'm afraid it's several poems," sighed John, as he thought of the bill.—Harper's Bazar.

Parental Modesty.

Son—Don't make such a fuss, papa. Such things happen in the best families.

Father—That may be; but ours is not one of the best families.—Des Moines Argonaut.

How These Girls Love One Another.

Ethel—George told me I painted more artistically than any girl he knew.

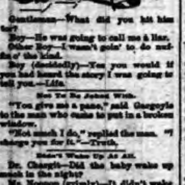
Maud—How very impertinent! Didn't notice you powdered, I presume?—Truth.

He Avoided Temptation.

Wiggsy—Do you believe that Washington never told a lie?

Biggsy—Well, I don't know; if he didn't he never went fishing.—Brooklyn Life.

TAKING TIME BY THE FORELOCK.



Gentleman—What did you hit him for?

Boy—He was going to call me a liar.

Other Boy—I wasn't goin' to do nuffin o' the kind.

Boy (decidedly)—Yes you would if you had heard the story I was going to tell you.—Life.

Not To Be Joked With.

"You give me a pane," said Gargoyle to the man who came to put in a broken window.

"Not much I do," replied the man. "I charge you for it."—Truth.

Didn't Wake Up At All.

Dr. Chargit—Did the baby wake up much in the night?

Mr. Noopop (grimly)—It didn't wake up at all. It never went to sleep.—Town Topics.

A Promising Young Man.

She—We shall have all of papa's money when he dies.

He—If he keeps on taking my advice in speculation, we shall have all of it before he dies.—Life.

Encouraging.

Travers—I'm looking for a man who will lend me a V.

Featherstone—Patience, old chap; think of all the people in this vast city who don't know you.—N. Y. Herald.

Why the Engagement Was Broken Off.

Ida—I'm afraid you love me for my looks.

Jerome—Nonsense! No man could love you merely for your looks.—Chicago News Record.

From the Outside.

Brown—I admire a church with a handsome exterior.

Smith—And that is the side you always keep in view, isn't it?—Truth.

Probably.

"I am not well," said the glass eater.

"What's the matter?" asked the coal-fed humorist. "Got a pane in your stomach?"—Des Moines Argonaut.

A Misunderstanding.

Young Lady—Is warm water and oatmeal good for the complexion?

Doctor—Oh, no. It should boil twenty minutes.—N. Y. Herald.

FLORAL ETIQUETTE.

What a Leading Florist Has to Say of Flowers.

Roses Are Favorites—Beautiful Presents for Debutantes, Wives and Girls in Their Teens—Jay Gould's Funeral Emblems.

(COPYRIGHT, 1893.)

THE most beautiful flowers in the world are grown in New York.

California has a greater abundance of blooms and Paris and London have each their specialties. But New York excels them all in the greatest beauty of the greater number of flowers.

In New York, even in the coldest weather, it is not unusual to find violets whose outspread petals would extend over the size of a silver dollar, and American Beauty roses are frequently seen as large as a big orange.

The fashion in flowers varies less with the season than can be said of almost anything else. In the vegetable line, for example, there are certain vegetables obtainable only in certain seasons. Fish and game are also governed by the time of year, but all kinds of flowers can be bought at all seasons, and as those that are offered for sale are nearly always hothouse grown the price of flowers does not vary from winter to summer nearly as much as one who is not in the habit of buying would suppose.

Thus a certain code of floral laws, or what may be called a code of floral etiquette, exists which is followed all the year round without regard to season.

For the debutante the favorite bouquet is made all of orchids—white orchids being the preferred ones. The size for a debutante's bouquet is about fourteen inches across and is made in conventional bouquet fashion. The cost is about twelve dollars. But, of course, a beautiful and popular young girl receives many bouquets, so there is always a struggle for something a little novel and sufficiently original that it cannot be duplicated. Many varieties of the orchid bouquet, therefore, must be found. A young man who is, as you would say, "rather sweet" upon a young woman, and who wants to send her something which will catch her eye and please her, will say to his florist:

"Can you send Miss A. a handsome bouquet, which shall be—er—a little—er—different from—er—anything else, don't you know?"

Then his florist will suggest a bouquet all of very rare white orchids, with white lilies on one side. When it is done the young man drops in to see it, and perhaps he orders finishing touches, which bring the bill up to fifty dollars for this one bouquet.

The matron who sends a bouquet to a debutante chooses colored orchids. They may be pink or purple or variegated, but the entire bouquet is after the conventional order.

The debutante, if she is at all popular, has half a hundred bouquets. But you may be sure that she has her eye upon one which she fancies more than any of the others, and by and by she will pick it up and carry it for the rest of the evening to the exclusion of the others. It is always the bouquet of white orchids and white lilies which is chosen.

To pass to a more somber subject and to another use to which these same flowers are devoted, for funerals the palm is the accepted offering, although a much greater latitude is allowed at funerals than formerly. At Jay Gould's funeral there was a greater variety than at any social gathering of the season. Mrs. August Belmont and likewise many exquisite floral pieces. The Rothschilds are in the habit of cabling over orders for floral pieces, and, indeed, it is not unusual to receive half a dozen cable orders for any large New York event, especially a funeral. While the palm is the accepted tribute for a funeral, there is a floral piece known as the "mat," which is as good form as anything that can be sent. This consists of many great bunches of flowers just as they are brought out of the vases of the cool room. They are dropped in armfuls and are fastened to the mat foundation wherever they happen to lie, so that the whole is an exquisitely beautiful bit of extravagance, which, when floral beauty is considered, well repays the buyer.

When the man orders a bouquet for his wife or a box of flowers it is considered the prettiest idea for him to select violets, as these have clinging associations of poetry, love, constancy and all the things that ought to belong to married life.

A woman in ordering flowers for her husband will ask that something be sent suitable for a boutonniere. This varies a little with the season, but is sure to be a chrysanthemum as long as chrysanthemums last.

Flowers for old people and for young girls are nearly always cut roses. They seem to appeal especially to these two classes. Old people choose them because they are sweet smelling, and because old people do not take as kindly to fashionable floral innovations as young society people do. Girls in their "teens" like cut roses because they are poetical, and because allusions to growing maidenhood are usually couched in terms portraying the opening of the rose.

It is rather a new idea with the season, almost a fad in fact, to send pots of growing plants to young men in place of birthday or New Year's gifts. Indeed, the pot of growing plants forms in itself a gift worthy of being sent to anyone. Rubber plants and all kinds of hardy foliage plants are selected because they are easier to care for than a majority of plants.

For home entertainments, where a very good effect is desired in small space, it is the most fashionable idea to cover one side of the wall entirely with flowers of only one variety, and if possible to introduce light behind them. This has been done repeatedly at Mrs. Whitney's annual balls, and the result has been so good that the idea has become an established one and is a fashion in itself.

For the coming out of the debutante or for a wedding or a christening the effect should be bright—particularly bright—as is the case if pink carnations, yellow chrysanthemums or bright roses are used. But for ordinary social gatherings it is prettier to subdue the tone somewhat and trim with ivy, or, if it be in the winter, with mistletoe and holly.

A few weeks ago I massed holly on one side of a ballroom, and the effect was so beautiful that all the guests were talking about it. The idea was afterward repeated at the Patriarchs' ball, but was done too sparingly and was, therefore, not a success.

A great deal of money is necessary for anything of this kind, though it may be said that the people who order such work done are so rich that the two or three thousand dollars necessary for such adornment seems nothing at all.

For a christening lilies are almost always chosen. In the spring it is lilies of the valley. In the fall callas are used and later come the Easter lilies. Just a touch of color is introduced in the way of a gayly-colored ribbon or a bright basket, so that it shall be plainly evident that the flowers are intended for a happy occasion and not for a funeral.

In sending flowers to an invalid it is considered the best form—and best form is sure to be the truest politeness—to send something which shall seem to be of special interest to the invalid. Not two dozen roses all exactly alike, nor twenty lilies nor fifty violets, but dashes of many different kinds of flowers. It is good taste to put in the invalid's box a very white and very rare orchid, some mignonette, an extraordinary rose and so on until a really fine collection is obtained.

In the way of standing orders queer things prevail. A young man who has just become engaged will order two dozen roses sent daily to his betrothed. A young man whose sweetheart is going upon a journey will request that we keep track of her movements and will make us promise to see that she receives a box of carnations or some flower that will keep on a journey two or three times a week as long as she is upon her tour.

Standing orders for actresses are usually for big flowers that can be used with good effect upon the stage.

In trimming staterooms for those about to depart on European steamers it is the latest idea to use vases and ornamental pots and jars as far as possible, because these can be preserved during the trip after the flowers are cast overboard. A mass of smilax or ivy drawn across one side of a stateroom like a portiere and then "stuffed" out of the porthole gives a beautifully artistic effect which is the "fad" with outgoing tourists. Pots of picturesque roses and bouquets of sentimental forget-me-nots are the flowers suitable for the occasion.

With regard to a floral alphabet, there is little absolutely set down in rules. The law varies with the woman. A young girl will take a fancy for lilies of the valley. She wears them on all occasions, has them painted upon her fan and embroidered upon her gown. To her they mean everything pure and lovely. They constitute her "alphabet of love," so to speak. And, of course, her admirers know her taste and choose the tiny white flowers to bear their unspoken messages.

As a rule, however, the heart of the society maiden is touched by mammon, so that flowers which represent money represent also love. As a pert little maiden remarked in front of one of my windows:

"Carnations and love will do for some girls; but I have educated my best boy up to orchids."

Many orders are left which the etiquette of my business will not permit me to fulfill. For an example, take the case of a man who dropped in here last week and left a ten-dollar bill upon my counter.

"You may send Miss B., of No. 5,000 Fifth avenue, a box of pansies. And—er—well—never mind—er the card, you know. Just send them anonymously."

Now Miss B.'s mother is one of our patrons and Miss B. herself is a schoolgirl of fifteen. So I delayed fulfilling the order until her father happened in one day, and then I told him about the man who wished me to send his daughter flowers.

"Do not send them!" he thundered. "Flowers to my daughter! At her age! Impossible! Preposterous!"

I did not send Miss B. the flowers, and when her elderly admirer happens in again he will be the richer by a ten-dollar bill.

As a rule, though, floral orders are for the expression of pure, dignified sentiment. And into no other business does so little of the immoral ever creep.

CHARLES THORLEY.

Applying an Axiom.

He applied at the kitchen door for something to eat and was refused unless he was willing to tackle the wood pile for a brief season with the saw. He was willing and went at it vigorously. A half hour later the lady came out and was startled at the work he had done.

"Why," she exclaimed, "how much you have accomplished!"

He nodded but did not stop.

"I had no idea that you could do so much," she continued.

He nodded again.

"You certainly have earned your breakfast."

He nodded again.

"I don't quite understand it," she said.

The last stick was finished and he laid down the saw.

"You will observe, madam," he remarked, "that I have said nothing."

Then she understood.—Detroit Free Press.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

Eventful Career of the Dead Ex-President.

His Bravery on the Field of Battle—The Electoral College of 1876—His Grand Work in the Cause of Prison Reform.

The late Rutherford Birchard Hayes was born October 4, 1822. He had been known principally as an Ohio governor prior to his nomination for the presidency, although he made a record in the war. He was educated at Kenyon college and studied law in the office of Thomas Sparrow at Columbus. In 1849 he moved to Cincinnati, where he built up a good practice and gained considerable reputation in several sensational murder trials. In 1859 he was made city solicitor. He entered the army as major of the Twenty-third Ohio volunteer infantry June 7, 1861. A few months later he was lieutenant colonel, and he came out of the army with the rank of brevet major general of volunteers, a rank conferred upon him "for gallant and distinguished services during the campaign of 1864 in West Virginia, and particularly at the battle of Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek, Virginia."

August 6, 1864, while Hayes was in the field, he was elected to congress, and took his seat December 4, 1865. He was elected to the next congress, but resigned to make a race for the governorship, to which he was elected in 1867. In 1869 he was renominated by acclamation, and was elected by about the usual Ohio majority. In 1872 he accepted a nomination to congress, but was defeated by Gen. H. B. Banning. The republican state convention in 1875 nominated Hayes a third time for the office of governor. After a campaign that excited the attention of the entire country he was elected, defeating "Old Bill" Allen about five thousand votes. It was this important canvass that suggested Hayes as a possible dark horse in 1876. His nomination was brought about by the fight against Blaine. The nomination of the latter was seen to be impossible. The Pennsylvania delegation led in a break for Hayes, and his nomination followed.

EX-PRESIDENT HAYES.

As is well known, the election resulted in a serious dispute between the parties as to which candidate was the real victor. Both claimed to have carried the states of Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. Charges of fraud were freely made and much violent language was indulged in. On the face of the returns as made by the canvassing boards of the states in question and by those of the states in which there were no disputes Mr. Hayes had a majority of 1 in the electoral college. To avoid a deadlock in congress the parties agreed to let a commission consisting of five senators, five representatives and five judges of the supreme court decide the whole matter. This commission, by a vote of 8 to 7, decided not to go behind the certificates of the governors, and Mr. Hayes was finally, on the 2nd of March, 1877, declared duly elected and on the 5th of the same month was inaugurated.

The commission was composed of Justices of the Supreme Court Clifford, of Maine; Strong, of Pennsylvania; Miller, of Iowa; Field, of California; Bradley, of New Jersey; Senators Edmunds, of Vermont; Morton, of Indiana; Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey; Bayard, of Delaware; Thurman, of Ohio; Representatives Hoar, of Massachusetts; Garfield, of Ohio; Payne, of Ohio; Hunton, of Virginia, and Abbott, of Massachusetts. Politically the court stood: Republicans—Justices, 4; senators, 3; representatives, 2; total, 9. Democrats—Justice, 1; senators, 2; representatives, 3; total, 6.

Mr. Hayes' administration was efficient and safe if not brilliant. As soon as his cabinet had been formed he began the work of removing the causes of dissatisfaction in the south. This was attained with many difficulties, and he was subject to much criticism. His efforts to reform the civil service also made for him many enemies, especially among the politicians, who felt that their prerogatives were being interfered with. The resumption of specie payments was successfully effected, and President Hayes, in his annual message in 1879, congratulated the country upon this fact and upon the consequent revival of business. The public debt was materially reduced, and at the close of his term the country was in a more prosperous and peaceful condition than when he went into office.

March 4, 1881, he was succeeded in the presidency by Mr. Garfield, and had since resided at his home at Fremont, O. Since his retirement from political life he had been actively engaged in educational, philanthropic and other work of general interest. He was president of the National Prison Reform association and of the Slater education fund for the negroes; a member of the Peabody education fund for the south, and commander in chief of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Kenyon college, Harvard university, Yale college and Johns Hopkins university. Mrs. Hayes died a few years ago.

Not the Only Place He Is Needed.

An English clergyman recently officiated for a brother clergyman. Being anxious to know what impression he had made, he asked the clerk:

"Was my discourse pitched in too high a key? I hope I did not shoot over the heads of the people."

"No, you didn't do that, sir."

"Was it a suitable theme?" asked the clergyman.

"Yes, it was about right."

"Was it too long?"

"No; but it was long enough."

"I am glad of that, for, to tell you the truth, the other day, as I was getting this sermon ready, my dog destroyed four or five pages, and that has made it much shorter."

"Oh, sir," said the clerk, "could you let our vicar have a pup o' that 'ere dog?"

A Doubtful Compliment.

Baroness de S., who is really old, but tries to look young, has been playing a part in private theatricals, and, in reply to her friends' compliments, says: "You really flatter me. It is a difficult role and one must be young and good looking to play it properly."

"I do not agree with you, baroness," replied a cynical duke, "for you have just given us a clear proof to the contrary."—Paris Figaro.

What They Were Used To.

Mrs. Bingo—I don't see what you asked that young Simpson to take dinner with us for. You might have known there wasn't room enough for him at the table.

Clara—I know it, mother; but I got all mixed up. I counted only one chair for both of us.—N. Y. Herald.

Wise Heads on Young Shoulders.

"I know why the doctor brought that little baby," said a five-year-old the other day to her happy mother.

"And why did the doctor bring the baby?" was asked.

"'Cause it cries so much he didn't want to keep it himself," was the reply.—Boston Globe.

A Subterfuge.

Insurance Agent—We'll have to raise Typer's premium. He uses benzine in his composing-room.

Examiner—He told me that he didn't. Said he used lye.

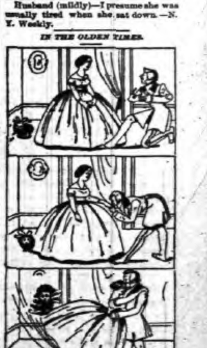
Insurance Agent—Well, the only lye he uses is the one he told you.—Truth.

Causes of Comfort.

Petted Wife—This old-fashioned chair is delightfully antique, but very uncomfortable. I don't see how your mother could like it.

Husband (mildly)—I presume she was usually tired when she sat down.—N. Y. Weekly.

IN THE OLDEN TIMES.



—Scribner's Magazine.

Bound to See It All.

Uncle Si—There's one of them signs reading: "Look Out for Pickpockets."

Aunt Furby—Well, what of it?

Uncle Si—I'm going to hang around here till I see one of them critters, if I miss the train.—Puck.

Willie's Grudge.

"I don't like our doctor," said Willie. "I went and caught a cold bad enough to keep me home from school for two weeks, and the mean old doctor cured me in less 'n two days."—Harper's Young People.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

A PARALLEL.

The characteristics and careers of political men sometimes present a marked similitude.

Henry Clay and James G. Blaine, distinguished Americans, were illustrations deserving of note.

Both possessed to a remarkable degree personal magnetism, the power of attracting to themselves popular favor.

Both were brainy men, statesmen of proven ability, thoroughly versed in public matters, long actively engaged in Congressional and Executive duties, and always recognized as bold partisan chiefs.

Neither had ever been Governor of their respective States, Kentucky and Maine, wherein their individual influence was potent.

Both had served in the National Senate, been Speakers of the House of Representatives, and Secretaries of State.

Both were keenly ambitious to become the President of the United States, their wishes in that respect being earnestly seconded by hosts of enthusiastic followers, but defeat and disappointment overtook them both.

The parallel is certainly striking.

Mr. Clay and Mr. Blaine have been removed from the political arena, but their names stand engraven upon the tablet of renown.

COMMERCE.

Commerce ever was and ever will be the enricher of nations. From the days of ancient Tyre to the present time it has ennobled its possessors.

The United States was once on the highway to commercial supremacy, bidding fair to outrival England, then as now the mistress of the seas.

In 1860 our country owned 5,500,000 vessel tonnage, of which 2,700,000 was employed in foreign trade, being nearly equal to Great Britain.

It has since gone down and down, until in 1892 it numbered less than 1,000,000.

In 1856 seventy-five per cent. of our imports and exports were transported in American vessels, while in 1892 the proportion had fallen to the insignificant figures of only twelve per cent.

We now carry twelve tons of foreign freight under the stars and stripes when thirty-six years ago we carried seventy-five tons.

What a scandal upon the American name and what an injury to the American people!

If enlightened legislation, instead of blind stupidity or worse motives, prevailed, nothing could prevent the United States from being the foremost commercial, agricultural and fabricating country on the face of the globe.

PASSING AWAY.

The recent deaths of four prominent public men within a brief period of each other—General Butler, ex President Hayes, Supreme Court Justice Lamar and ex-Secretary of State Blaine, bear witness to the fact that the generation to which they belonged is fast passing away.

Such is the end of life, and neither wealth nor fame can divert the arrows of death. The high and the low, the rich and the poor, must alike, sooner or later, enter the portals of eternity. To act aright the living present and be prepared to meet an endless future is the glory of human existence.

The well-known men whose deaths we thus chronicle, each and all took an active and varied part in public affairs, and thereby made history for themselves.

They are personally gone and forever, but the encouraging thought remains that, as they succeeded an older generation a younger generation will succeed them, and in due time develope from its ranks the brightest of intellects, the noblest of characters, and the most honorable of earth.

OUR OPINION, TOO.

The term of Hon. Thomas F. McCormick, the Law Judge of Union County, is about to expire and his successor is soon to be appointed. If Governor Werts intends to be guided by the wishes of the people of Union County in making this appointment, he will unquestionably re-appoint Judge McCormick to the place whose duties he has discharged with such marked dignity and signal ability. In his official capacity, Judge McCormick's course has won him the respect of the bar of New Jersey. He has kept his office free from the influence of political manipulations, and he has refrained from engaging in the factional squabbles that have disgraced the Democratic party in Union County. He is an officer in favor of whose appointment, all citizens of Union County are united and earnestly enthusiastic.—Summit Record.

The Democratic and Independent press are unanimous in their praise of the action of Gov. Werts in vetoing the Jersey City bill stripping Mayor Wanser of his appointing power. The Governor said in his inaugural address that he believed in the "right of municipalities to local self-government in the choice of their governing bodies and the management of their local affairs asserted and upheld." It is evident the Governor means just what he said.

Superior to All Others.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the great external remedy of the day. The quickest, safest, surest, best. Not only immeasurably superior to all other plasters, but also to liniments, ointments, oils and similar [illegible] as compounds.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

THE DEAD STATESMAN

From All Quarters Come Eulogies to the Worth of James G. Blaine.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FUNERAL NEARLY COMPLETED.

In Accordance With the Wish of the Deceased, It Will be Unostentatious—The Services to be Held Monday at 11 A. M.—The Presbyterian Burial Ritual to be Used—How the ex-Secretary Died—His Struggles and Triumphs—Comments of the British Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The death of James G. Blaine has evoked expressions of sorrow and eulogium such as have been accorded to but few men. From every quarter of the country and from nearly every man in public life, have come messages of sympathy to the bereaved family, and testimonials of the esteem and regard in which the dead statesman was held.

Flags are at half mast everywhere. Congress, and every legislative body in the United States have taken action. In all cases adjournment was taken and in many a day was appointed on which to hear eulogies of the deceased.

All the leading social entertainments for to-day and Monday have been postponed out of respect to the memory of Mr. Blaine. President Harrison proclaimed the formal announcement of the death from the White House. It is the practice for such statements to be made through the State Department, but on this occasion the President requested that he be allowed to make it the other way.

A Simple Funeral.

The funeral will be as unostentatious as it is possible to make it.

Mr. Blaine had a great repugnance to public exhibitions of sorrow, and in accordance with his often expressed opinion, Mrs. Blaine is determined to have a private funeral.

She further requested that no official notice be taken of Mr. Blaine's death, which request was communicated to Secretary of State Foster in a note from Miss Hattie Blaine conveying the information of the sad event.

JAMES GILLESPIE BLAINE.

The Secretary, in conversation with Mrs. Blaine, pointed out that the custom of announcing the death of ex-members of the Cabinet would require official promulgation of the fact, but at her earnest solicitation it was eventually decided that no emblem of mourning additional to that displayed consequent upon the death of ex-President Hayes should be placed upon the building of the State Department.

The Ceremonies.

The funeral will take place Monday next, and the details of the services, so far as arranged, are as follows:

At 11 o'clock prayer will be offered by Rev. Teunis S. Hamlin, D. D., at the house. Only members of the family and their intimate friends will be present.

Immediately thereafter the body will be borne to the Church of the Covenant. Here also the services will be of the simplest character, consisting of the reading of the Presbyterian burial ritual and prayer by Dr. Hamlin.

There will be no music save that of the organ, which will be played by Mr. Walter Damrosch, the dead statesman's son-in-law.

Seats in the church will be reserved for the President, Vice-President, members of the Cabinet and their families, members of the Diplomatic Corps, and friends of the deceased.

These reservations will nearly exhaust the seating accommodations of the building.

From the church the cortege will move to Oak Hill cemetery where the interment will take place.

There will be 12 pallbearers selected from among Mr. Blaine's personal and official friends. None will be chosen because of their positions, but naturally the larger portion will be from the ranks of official life. They will be announced sometime to-day.

The Funeral Casket.

The undertaking establishment of Jos. Gawler has charge of the funeral arrangements and this morning directions were received by the firm as to the casket. This will be very similar to the one in which the remains of Mrs. Harrison were conveyed to their final resting place.

It will be plain and simple in appearance, devoid of any show or ostentation. It will have extension silver bar handles. The material used in the construction will be red cedar, which will be covered with black cloth, and on the inside the casket will be lined with full tufted white satin.

The solid silver plate on the top will contain the following inscription:

"JAMES G. BLAINE,
"Born January 31, 1830,
"Died January 27, 1893."

Death came without pain to Mr. Blaine at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The immediate cause of his death, as given by the physicians, was heart failure and sheer exhaustion. His long illness and the changes in his condition, however slight, have been chronicled too faithfully in these columns to need repetition. The disease with which he suffered was a chronic one of the kidneys.

He was conscious to the last. About his bedside at the time of dissolution were Mrs. Blaine, Mrs. Damrosch, Miss Hattie Blaine, James G. Blaine, jr., his sister-in-law, Miss Abigail Dodge; the two physicians, Drs. Hyatt and Johnston, and the nurses.

Mr. Blaine uttered no "last words." His passing away, however, while silent, was conscious, and was marked by a final scene which gave proof of his faith in God and heaven.

The dying man's eyes seemed to be the only evidence of life remaining in the wasted frame. The power of speech was gone. The very shadow of death had cast its gray pallor upon the recumbent figure. But the eyes, staring with unnatural brilliance, turned from one to another of those about the room, and at last fixed themselves upon the countenance of his wife.

For a moment there was absolute silence. Then Mrs. Blaine, her eyes meeting the last, fixed gaze of her dying husband, leaned over the bedside and whispered the question:

"James, do you know where Walker, Emmons and Alice are?" There was immediate response. A new light flashed into the almost sightless eyes.

Slowly he raised his right arm.

It pointed to heaven, and the eyes gave the answer of his soul to the question of his wife. Thus, with hand outstretched to heaven, and with eyes fixed upon those of his wife, James G. Blaine passed away.

TRIBUTES OF RESPECT.

How Blaine Was Regarded by Cabinet Associates and Others of Prominence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The affection and esteem in which Mr. Blaine was held is clearly shown by the many tributes of regard paid him. Secretary of State Foster said:

"Others of his friends are more competent to speak of Mr. Blaine's services and genius in Congress, in politics and in literature. In diplomacy his chief characteristic was his exalted Americanism. He was a thorough believer in the Monroe doctrine and the reciprocity policy which distinguished the close of his public career was an outgrowth of his convictions respecting that doctrine.

"His diplomatic correspondence will rank among the best of his political productions. His reputation abroad will mainly rest upon his acts as Secretary of State, and it is not an exaggeration to say that in the past ten years at least he has been the best known American in foreign lands."

Secretary of the Treasury Foster: "I first met Mr. Blaine when he became a member of the Forty-Second Congress and during his six years' service as Speaker of the House of Representatives. At that time he was in full health and a magnificent specimen, both physically and mentally, of [illegible] manhood.

"As Speaker, he was the absolute dictator of the proceedings of the House, [illegible] other together, with, perhaps the exception of Henry Clay, whose career Mr. Blaine's so much resembles.

"His fame is world-wide. His personal popularity and his hold upon the popular affection was not confined to his own party. His death will be sincerely mourned."

Attorney-General Miller: "It is customary to speak of one who, being elected to the Vice-Presidency, becomes President, as an accidental President. With reference to Mr. Blaine it may be truly said that his failure to be President was an accident. The desire of a vain old gentleman, by alliteration, to make a striking sentence defeated the worthy ambition of a lifetime, and in no small degree changed the direction of public affairs in the nation.

"Mr. Blaine, with the possible exception of Henry Clay, was the most brilliant statesman and political leader this country has ever produced.

"He was a born leader of men, and richly endowed by nature with all those qualities that make a great statesman."

Secretary Noble: "James G. Blaine died within three days of the 63d anniversary of his birthday, and little less than 30 years from the time he entered Congress on the first Monday in December, 1863.

"During this long and most eventful period he held the attention and commanded the respect of his countrymen to a most extraordinary degree—more, I think, than any other political leader save Lincoln and Clay.

"Blaine was an American. Thoroughly and invariably he loved our country and its institutions. His death will be greatly lamented and the whole nation will do his memory honor. His critics will not be in this country."

Secretary Elkins: "Mr. Blaine was a wonderful man and wonderfully gifted. He was one of the greatest statesmen and political leaders the country has produced and the most conspicuous leader of his time.

"His control over men, his power to draw them to him and command their unselfish support, was beyond that of any other party leader in the history of the country. His loss will be widely felt and mourned, but his life will be a continuing inspiration to his party.

"Of late years he was not only the central figure in American politics, but at all social gatherings and wherever he went. In or out of office he attracted more attention and excited more enthusiasm than any other citizen of the Republic.

"His 'Twenty years of Congress' will stand as an enduring monument and always mark him truly great. The strain upon him and the effort made when writing his great work, I think had much to do in breaking down his health. The production of such a great work in so short a time, so just and discriminating, so fair to contemporaries and to all, so thoroughly authentic and reliable, stands in the history of literature unparalleled.

"Without distinction of party his death will be mourned as a great loss to the country. Truly, a great man has passed away and a great light gone out."

Postmaster General Wanamaker said: "Pennsylvania may well be proud of her brilliant son—cleverer than Henry Clay and as eloquent as Daniel Webster. As an all-round statesman his name will always be cherished with the ten greatest Americans."

Secretary Rusk said: "I have no hesitation in saying that in many respects Mr. Blaine outranked any of his contemporaries, and none has wielded a greater influence in shaping the fortunes of the Republican party. One of the qualities I have always esteemed the most highly in James G. Blaine, was his sturdy, unswerving Americanism. He will always be one of the conspicuous figures in the political history of this country."

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—The intelligence of Hon. J. G. Blaine's death was received in official circles here with many expressions of regret.

The Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who frequently met Mr. Blaine during the reciprocity negotiations at Washington, said that he did not share in the belief prevalent on this side of the line that Mr. Blaine was unfriendly toward Canada.

From experience he had learned to regard Mr. Blaine as an advanced and liberal minded statesman, ever disposed to do justice to every country.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Hon. Chauncey M. Depew said: "The secrets of Blaine's lasting and unshakable hold upon his followers were his fidelity to them and the impression he succeeded in creating with every man he met of a personal interest in that man's individuality and fortunes, which made the man ever after feel toward him a tie of kinship and blood.

"He filled a great place, led a mighty and devoted army and left no successor.

"The only time that I was apparently against Mr. Blaine was during the last convention. I knew that he did not want the nomination, and would not accept it if it had been offered to him. Had he been nominated and elected he would not have lived to have been inaugurated. Subsequent events have therefore vindicated my action at the Minneapolis Convention."

Sorrow of the Diplomatic Corps.

The death of Mr. Blaine occasions great regret among the members of the Diplomatic Corps in the Capital, with nearly all of whom his relations were quite intimate.

Baron Fava, the Italian Minister, Dean of the Corps, said:

"Personally, the death of Mr. Blaine is a great affliction. He was in office as Secretary of State when I reached Washington nearly 12 years ago, and went with me to the President when I presented my credentials. Since then our relations have been very pleasant.

"The loss to the country of one of its greatest men I can appreciate, and I desire to express the sorrow, not only of myself, but of all my associates in the Diplomatic College, over the sad event which has so afflicted your country."

INCIDENTS OF BLAINE'S CAREER.

Resignation from the Cabinet—His Literary Aspirations—The Conkling Episode.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Regarding Mr. Blaine's resignation from President Harrison's Cabinet, concerning which there has been much discussion, an intimate friend says:

"At 12 o'clock of the day Mr. Blaine's resignation was given out he had no idea of resigning from the Cabinet. He had had a meeting on that day with the Canadian Commissioners on the Welland canal question. It was said afterwards that Mr. Blaine had resigned because he and John W. Foster got into a controversy in the presence of the Canadians. This is absolutely false.

"When Mr. Blaine reached home he found some one had marked a lot of interviews which had been telegraphed from Minneapolis and printed in several papers.

"They accused Mr. Blaine with betraying the President and with using his place in the Cabinet as a cover for a conspiracy to defeat the President and secure the nomination.

"Under the heat of indignation over these interviews, Mr. Blaine wrote his resignation, and he has since told his friends that there were never but two occasions of difference between himself and the President, and that they had been fully explained and satisfactorily settled."

The Conkling Episode.

Mr. Blaine's career in the House was marked by many exciting episodes. He first came into prominence through an angry altercation between himself and Roscoe Conkling, then a member of the House from Utica, N. Y.

It was in the war period, and Blaine made a bitter attack upon Conkling for having charged the Government with fees as a judge-advocate while drawing pay as a member of Congress. Conkling repelled the attack and indulged in some severe criticism of his opponent, who in reply spoke derisively of Conkling's "magnificent turkey gobbler strut."

The incident excited great public attention at the time, and helped to bring both actors in it into that prominence which they each enjoyed during the remainder of their lives.

Blaine's Literary Aspirations.

Immediately after his resignation from the Cabinet of the President last summer Mr. Blaine went to Bar Harbor where he might recuperate his health and at the same time mature those plans about which he had talked in a general way with his most intimate friends.

His tastes had always been of a literary character, and his ability in that direction is evidenced by the scholarly style and polished finish of his "Twenty Years of Congress."

It was his intention to have followed this up with a commentary on the political history of the country since the period covered by his first work, and to bring his work up to date.

It had also been arranged that he would write the introduction for a book Father Thomas Sherman intended to have published on the career of his father, Gen. Sherman.

A Wisconsin school-teacher had among her pupils a little boy named Johny who was always late in the morning. But one day he managed to get to the schoolhouse before the bell rang, whereupon he said to the teacher: "Well, to-day I am before at last. I [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible]."—Harper's Young People.

LIFE OF MR. BLAINE.

Brief Sketch of His Career from Early Manhood Until Death.

James Gillespie Blaine was born January 31, 1830, at the village of West Brownsville, Pennsylvania. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Lyon Blaine. [illegible]

[illegible] In October, a few months after graduation, young Blaine went to Kentucky to seek his fortune. He entered the Western Military Institute, a school for boys, [illegible] Blue Lick Springs, Kentucky. [illegible]

It was at Blue Lick Springs that he met the admirable woman who became his wife. Miss Harriet Stanwood, a native of Maine, had been sent to be educated at a seminary for young ladies at Millersburg, Kentucky. This school was presided over by the wife of the principal of the Western Military Institute, and was 20 miles from Blue Lick Springs. [illegible] he married Miss Stanwood, and soon afterward returned to Pennsylvania with her, where for a time he studied law.

[illegible]

APPOINTED BY GOV. WERTS.

A Batch of Nominations Transmitted to the Senate.

TRENTON, Jan. 31.—The Governor has sent the following nominations to the Senate:

For Lay Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals, in place of Jonathan S. Whitaker, whose term expires, Walter Phelps, at present United States Minister to Germany.

For Port Warden of Hudson county, James P. Laverty.

For Prosecutor of the Pleas of Hudson county, Charles H. Winfield.

For Law Judge of Common Pleas Court of Ocean county, James E. Otis.

For Prosecutor of the Pleas of Mercer county, Bayard Stockton.

For Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Morris county, Francis Childs.

For Lay Judge of Morris county, Chas. Harkins.

For Prosecutor of the Pleas of Sussex county, Theodore Simonson.

For Law Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Bergen county, James M. Van Valen.

For Law Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Monmouth county, Archibald A. Higgins.

When to Stop Advertising.

The time to stop advertising is—

When you do not wish to make any more money;

When you wish to go out of business; or,

When you are dead.

If you are not averse to making a little more money, wish to continue in business, and are not actually under the ground as yet, you may stop advertising

When you are satisfied that "the future generation" has arrived, no more people will be born, and the world will come to an end when you do;

When everybody is convinced that you have better goods and lower prices than ever can be had elsewhere; or

When every man has become so much a creature of habit that he will certainly buy goods next year where he bought last year.

If you are not given to such optimistic beliefs, and must cast about for more convincing reasons to stop your advertising, you may find them

When you discover that other men who do not advertise are increasing their business over those who do;

When nobody else thinks "it pays to advertise", or,

When you would rather have your own way and fail, than to take advice and win.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

In the Senate Monday night, Senator Marsh, of Union, introduced a bill, (97) which provides for the straightening of certain county lines in Union and Middlesex counties by making parts of Woodbridge and Raritan townships, Middlesex county, a part of Clark township, Union county. (Mun. Bus.)

Also No. 98, which provides for the appointing of a commission of three by the Governor to prepare a criminal code, to report at next session of the Legislature. (Rev. Laws.)

The Senate passed the following bills: House 8, provides that all electric wires shall have insulators made of red glass, to distinguish them from telegraph wires; House 90, fixes the salary of the Secretary of the Board of State Prison Inspectors at $600; House 10, amends the act relative to conveyances; House 12, authorizes health boards to destroy personal goods endangered by contagious diseases, and pay for the same; House 36, authorizes appointment of assistant overseers of the poor in cities of the first-class; House 4, amends the act relative to evidence; House 38, fixes terms of overseer of poor and township clerks at three years; Senate 18, the Freehold sewer and water bill.

In the House, Mr. Kyte, of Union, presented bill No. 131, which authorizes the Union Water Co., the Plainfield Water Co., and the Elizabethtown Water Co., of Union county, to merge and consolidate their franchises and other property. (Corporations.)

Resolutions of respect were passed in the House regarding the death of Hon. James G. Blaine.

"A PIECE OF SPITE WORK"

Is What Counselor Hetfield Calls Mr. Bock's Arrest for Playing Whist—Sentence Postponed.

Charles Bock, of West Second street, was arraigned before the city judge last evening at 5, charged with the violation of a city ordinance in allowing the playing of cards in his saloon. Through his counsel, ex-councilman Hetfield, he waived examination and acknowledged that he was playing whist with three friends in his place of business last Saturday afternoon at 5. They were not playing for anything and it was in the public room in sight of everybody. Chief Grant walked in and stood and watched Mr. Bock trump his partner's ace.

Counselor Hetfield told the judge that the arrest was a piece of spite work. He said that in every saloon in the city, every day and every night, there were card playing, dominoe playing, dice throwing and other games, and chief Grant knew it and permitted it, or sent a warning to stop. He said Mr. Thorn told him (Hetfield) that the chief had sent him (Thorn) word to look out; but in Mr Bock's case there was no warning and the arrest was for a friendly game of whist in the afternoon, instead of in the evening when there might be more playing and greater offence. The counselor intimated that that occasion was taken because the desire of the chief was not to catch Bock but to bring notoriety on some one he had a personal spite against, as Carey had done in the noted Miller's hotel case.

Judge Coddington said it was the first case of its nature that had ever come before the city court, and he should like to hear the city's views through the corporation counsel, before giving his decision. He therefore postponed sentence until this afternoon at 5.

Chief Grant told the court he had nothing to say, but to a PRESS reporter explained that word had been brought him that there was card playing in Thorn's, but he was unable to get the evidence himself. Mr. Thorn told him it was without his knowledge and would be stopped at once. The reason he arrested Bock was because he walked in the saloon himself and saw the act committed.

KENNEY LED THEM ALL.

Young Men Bowlers Do Themselves Proud and Defeat the Crescents.

The two Plainfield bowling teams in the Elizabeth Journal trophy tournament met Tuesday on the Young Men's alleys, and the Crescents were given a thorough walloping. Had the Crescents bestowed as much care on their own bowling as they did in an effort to rattle their opponents, the result might have been different. Their especial animosity was showered on Kenney, their own ex-player, who, however, maintained his composure and rolled his usual steady game. The attendance of spectators was large. The Plainfield teams are now tied again in the record. The score:

C. Y. M. L.		CRESCENTS.
Lynch	[illegible]	VanNimburgh	[illegible]
Butscher	[illegible]	Wood	[illegible]
Winn	[illegible]	Doane	[illegible]
Carty	[illegible]	VanAlstyne	[illegible]
J. Whelan	[illegible]	Bechtle	[illegible]
Dan Galbraith	[illegible]	Teel	[illegible]
Powell	[illegible]	Petrie	[illegible]
Kenney	[illegible]	Vail	[illegible]
White	[illegible]	Davis	[illegible]
Gallagher	[illegible]	VanWinkle	[illegible]
	[illegible]		[illegible]

C. Y. M. L. [illegible]
Crescents [illegible]
M. J. Mack, referee; W. J. Kiely, scorer.

THE CAMERA CLUB OPENING.

A Fine Exhibition, and an Album for the Hospital.

The room of the Camera club in the new Babcock building will be the finest of the kind in the United States, and in celebration of their distinguished success they will give a grand exhibition of prints on the occasion of their opening. Last night the club met and appointed a committee to take charge of the event. Two new members were elected. The committee appointed to prepare an album for the Muhlenberg hospital reported their work completed, and the book of views will forthwith be presented to the institution, where it will doubtless delight the patients.

PLAINFIELD'S PLAY HOUSE.

Stillman Music Hall is Also Popular in the Environs.

(Westfield Standard.)

With residents of Westfield the Stillman Music Hall at Plainfield is a very popular play house. There are many who do not care to make the trip to New York and return by the midnight train. In every respect the Plainfield Music Hall equals the better class of metropolitan theatres. Manager J. A. Demarest is careful to select only the best attractions and first-class companies to play at his house. The theatre and appointments are complete. It is handsomely and comfortably furnished and the courtesy and attention shown the patrons by attaches reflects great credit on the management. Last Thursday night Joseph Jefferson played Rip Van Winkle to a crowded house and next Friday night a first-class comedy company will amuse fun lovers.

Long Needed What THE PRESS Involved.

(New York Recorder.)

Business men are delighted over the announcement that the Central railroad has purchased the property on Richmond street and North avenue, and is prepared to begin at once the erection of a new freight house. This has long been needed, the present one being poorly situated, and entirely too small for the large freight business in Plainfield. The site on which the present house stands will be used as a waiting room for passengers bound for New York. The property cost the railroad company $27,500.

A Question of Dream Responsibility.

Willie (at breakfast)—You can't help what you dream, can you mamma?

His Mother—No, Willie.

"Then if you dream you're havin' a fight you ain't to blame for it, are you?"

"No, but if you have been a good boy you are not likely to have such dreams."

"Still they ain't wicked, are they, if you can't help it?"

"N-no, I suppose not. Did you dream last night you were doing so wicked a thing as fighting?"

"Yep! And it would 'a' done you good to see how I licked that yaller-haired, freckle-faced, good-for-nothin' Bob Stapleford till he couldn't stand up, dog-on him!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Tragedy Spoiled.

"Yessir," said the newly-married Toddles to his business partner, "I sat down to a breakfast the other morning that my wife had cooked. Well, of course, I oughtn't to say anything about it, but I grew reckless and ate fifteen pancakes, four biscuits, three cups of coffee, some codfish steak, oatmeal and toast. Then I went down town and—"

"Went for a doctor?" interjected Toddles.

"No. And never felt better in my life."—Chicago News Record.

Three Strikes and Out.

"I was struck by the handsome shop window, and went in. Although I had no money I thought I could make some satisfactory arrangement as to payment. I selected some nice things, when, looking up, the sign 'No trust' struck me."

"And then?"

"And then the salesman struck me for the cash."

"And then?"

"And then I went out."—Judge.

More Business Changes.

Plainfielders are getting used to business changes and improvements among the prosperous merchants. With the completion of the building that has so slowly approached completion at 63 North avenue, there will be more moving. Mallinson's pharmacy, now at 65, will remove to 63, in roomier quarters. Ex Judge Ulrich will have his law-offices down stairs instead of up, at 65. Lyman & Anthony will occupy the improved location at 61.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

NOTICE. JAN. 21, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hetfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, administrators of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from this date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WILLIAM HETFIELD,
EDWARD TERRY,
Administrators.

1 2 3

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In chancery of New Jersey—Between Jas. de Welch and Matthias T. Welch, Administrators, etc., complainants and James Craig et al. defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey [illegible]

Being the same premises conveyed to James Craig by deed of William Craig and others, dated May 17th, 1890 and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union County in Book 180 of Deeds on page 344, etc.

W. WICKS, Sheriff.

JOHN E. VAN WINKLE, Solicitor.
F. P. &C. [illegible] 2 2 w 5

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.—To Robert Macauley, Defendant.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Mary Macauley is petitioner, and you are defendant, you are hereby required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the petition of said petitioner on or before the twenty-second day of March next, or the said petition will be taken as confessed against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.

WALTER L. HETFIELD,
Solicitor of Petitioner, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Dated January 20, 1893.
1 2 0 4

SHERIFF'S SALE.—New Jersey Supreme Court, Union County—[illegible] plaintiff, vs. John C. Marsh, defendant, [illegible]. Fi. fa. de bo. et lan. [illegible]

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias, to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the right, title and interest of the above named defendant of, in, to and out of all that tract of land situate in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey. [illegible]

W. H. WICKS, Sheriff.

CHARLES A. REED, Attorney.
CARO [illegible] 1 2 w 5

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE
25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform the patrons that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

[illegible]

F. C. M. ULRICH, [illegible]

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell below prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 6 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Reamey, Carman B. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah A. Dickinson, guardian, etc., is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainant, on or before the seventeenth day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to Hannah O. Hetfield, dated July 1, 1874, on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey and assigned to the complainant, and the other made by Emma A. Jones and Evan Jones, her husband, to complainant, dated November 29, 1888, on lands in the city of Plainfield aforesaid, and you Jane Reamey, Carman B. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound are made defendants because you are devisees of Hannah O. Hetfield, deceased, may claim some lien upon the said mortgaged premises by virtue of a judgment recovered by said Hannah O. Hetfield against said Evan Jones.

Dated December 16, A. D. 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
70 Montgomery St., Jersey City, N. J.
12 26 6
Fees $4.80

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
[illegible]

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper O. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.

12 1 10 MARTIN E. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, - $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American
Agency for PATENTS
CAVEATS,
TRADE MARKS,
DESIGN PATENTS,
COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

LARGEST DRY AND FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN NEW JERSEY

NEWARK
BEE HIVE

MAIL · ORDERS

A Little Information and a Few Suggestions
To Assist You and to Help Us

All orders entrusted to us are filled upon day of receipt, if possible.

Should there be any cause for delay, patrons are notified.

We refund money when goods prove unsatisfactory, if returned to us in good condition.

When writing for samples, please state the price, style, color, or width of goods desired. Also send any information that may aid us in giving a speedy and satisfactory reply.

[illegible]

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
[illegible] Broad St., Newark, N. J.
[illegible]

SAVE
TWENTY PER CENT.

AMOS H. VANHORN,
73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME
AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,
Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.
10-4-17

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head.
Apply into the Nostrils.—It is Quickly Absorbed. 50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,
Successors to Pierson Hardware Co., 7 11 tf 43 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—See "Little Tippett".

—The season of sleighing rejuvenated the feminine hood.

—Even now picnic grounds are being engaged for next summer.

—The new Netherwood station will be ready for occupancy March 1.

—A resident of the outskirts of Plainfield had a load of hay stolen from his barn a night or two ago.

—A return ticket from Evona to Plainfield, bought July 19, 1879, was accepted for a ride one day last week.

—"He got it where the chicken got the axe" is the title of a new song descriptive of a gentleman receiving it in the neck.

—It is reported that during the past three months there were 27 cases of diphtheria in Plainfield, of which 11 were fatal.

—A servant girl puzzled a Front street druggist's clerk for a moment by asking for a dozen three-grain Queen Ann pills.

—The man who was knocked over and had three ribs broken by a hack said afterward that he felt very much run down.

—The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company has purchased of Alex. Titsworth his property on West Second street for $13,500.

—Be sure and see "Little Tippet", the funniest comedy of the year, played by a great company including the baby, at Music Hall, Friday evening.

—James A. Harned, brother of E. N. Harned, of Harned Academy, has purchased of Mrs. M. S. Laning, the dairy store, 44 West Front street.

—The partnership of White & VanArsdale has been dissolved, as stated in THE PRESS some days ago. The business will be continued by Edward White.

—The pile of brick and mortar at the North avenue railroad station is for a tall chimney to be built in the station, to give a better draught to the new furnace.

—Max Werts, the Union County Country club steward, jumped off a moving train in the Plainfield station, Sunday evening, and was thrown so close to the wheels that his coat was covered with grease.

—Chief Grant and his men deserve credit for the successful outcome of their attack on the notorious Leland avenue house. There are other similar ranches in town. Let the good work of extirpation continue.

—Senator Keys would be glad to have the people of Somerset communicate with him in reference to any proposed legislation. Letters may be addressed to him at Trenton or at his winter quarters, No. 223 West Twenty-third street, New York city.

—Who says 13 is not unlucky? John Ross of Franklin place and LaGrande avenue had a thermometer that hung on the same nail in the same place for 13 years. Saturday, having completed its 13th successive twelvemonth, it mysteriously disappeared.

WEDDED IN COURT.

Bessie Giggled, and Her Sister Danced, When the Ceremony Was Complete.

An interesting wedding ceremony was performed by Justice V. W. Nash Tuesday afternoon at 2, when 18-year-old Bessie Davis of Cottage place was married to James Ross of the same thoroughfare.

James had pledged himself to marry the girl, but of late had shown a disposition to be recalcitrant, and she had had him arrested for breach of promise.

Then James weakened, and asked that the girl be sent for. Constable W. H. Mattox took her in a hack to court. She wore a dress of green and brown stripes, edged at the skirt with fur. A jaunty black sack was tightly buttoned about her. Fluffy bangs projected from the edge of a pink knitted fascinator. A long boa of black feathers encircled her throat. Rings and bracelets adorned her hands.

The groom wore his trousers rolled up to his shoe tops. A big lavender tie covered his shirt front.

James and Bessie signified their consent to marriage, and after giving the court the necessary biographical information stood up and joined hands. When they were pronounced man and wife James sat down and Bessie giggled. Bessie's sister, who attended her, gleefully joked with Mr. Mattox during the ceremony and gave a little dance when it was over. She wore a dark street gown and a brown Alpine hat.

While the judge was filling out the papers in the case James and Bessie's sister shut themselves in the outer office and held a whispered consultation. Bessie peeped at them around the edge of a curtain at the glass door.

James reported that he was short of funds, and was permitted to go out to raise the $3 90 necessary to pay the costs. "If he jumps a cooler"—said his merry sister-in-law—"I'll settle for him."

The two young women went to Estil's book-store to squander 10 cents on a wedding certificate blank.

Bessie is a light-colored member of the Negro race. James is darker.

The official witnesses to the marriage were constable Mattox and a PRESS reporter, who both felt highly honored.

"Going Through the Same Experience."

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

The people of Plainfield are greatly excited over the purchase by the Board of Education of a costly building site for the erection of a High school building in the fashionable portion of the town, and there is talk of calling an indignation meeting of the citizens for the purpose of making an effort to upset the scheme. The objections to the purchase of the site selected are that another one equally desirable and much more reasonable in price could have been found, and that the present schools are more than sufficient for the accommodation of the pupils now in attendance.

Among those who are said to be opposing the scheme are mayor Gilbert, councilman Fisk, ex-councilman Rowland Cox and a number of the wealthiest and most representative men of the city. The people of Plainfield are evidently going through the same experience as our own people passed through when the Livingston avenue school was a bone of contention, and the issue, in all probability, will terminate as amicably in their case as it did in ours. The school was built and is to-day an improvement we could ill afford to lose.

Somerville Getting Civilized.

Telephone Manager Charles Runyon of this city Tuesday opened connection with the ancient village of Somerville. James C. Field, the popular and successful Plainfield pharmacist, has been in the town long enough to infuse new life into the place, and is gradually civilizing the community. The new 'phone is in his pharmacy, and all Somerville is now rushing to the spot to hear the voice of an intelligent populace. The first place the eager throng called up was the PRESS office, whose fame has extended even into that benighted wilderness of Harkinsville. Somerville will hereafter be on tap to all Plainfield 'phones.

We are all subject to pain occasionally and it is well to have a good liniment in the house, such as Salvation Oil. Mr.

PERSONALIA.

The Reinharts will give a german at their home, Feb. 7.

Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy and the Misses Tracy will give a tea Feb. 9.

Robert Collyer will lecture on "Clear Grit" in All Souls' church Friday night at 8.

Mrs. Edward Homer Ladd, jr., gives a coming-out tea for her sister, Miss Evans, Feb. 8.

Miss Dilly, of Bernardsville, is the guest of Miss Elsie Smalley, of Craig place.

Jos. Miles starts in a few days for Scotland, to look after the estate left by his mother.

A little girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Ely, at their home on Westervelt avenue, Thursday.

Mrs. Edward Homer Ladd, jr., and Miss Evans will give an "at home", Wednesday, Feb. 8, from 4 to 7.

Miss J. T. Wyckoff, of Third place, has returned from a visit to ex-senator and Mrs. Bardash, of Galveston, Texas.

John Hickey, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Bath, Me., is spending a few days with friends and relatives in this city.

It is rumored a well-known society woman is arranging for the play of "Diplomacy" to be given early in the spring.

Miss J. T. Clayton, of Freehold, Monmouth country, is spending a few days with Mrs. R. B. Rogers, Madison avenue.

The marriage of David Angerbauer and Mamie Conway will take place in St. Mary's rectory next week Wednesday evening.

Frank Marsh is home with his parents on Plainfield avenue after a six months' visit among friends and relatives at Hartford, Conn.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Gaskill, of 56 East Third street, was brightened Thursday morning by the coming of an 8-pound boy.

Justice Sperry of Grandview avenue has been confined to his room since Christmas-time, with a severe and painful illness, from which he is now slowly recovering.

The physicians in attendance on Gershom Frazee, at the Muhlenberg Hospital, state that the patient is suffering from cancer of the stomach, with but little chance of recovery.

Alfred Norbury, alto, Frederick A. Lewis, tenor, and Frederick J. Pope, baritone, have organized a [illegible] trio, and are prepared to fill engagements where high-class talent is desired.

Miss Dodd, of Bloomfield, whose charming ways and sweet smiles, have enslaved so many hearts of Plainfield's young men, has returned to her home after a very pleasant visit to the Misses Wood of Madison avenue.

The Rev. Duncan McGregor, D. D., of Philadelphia, will deliver a lecture in Music Hall Feb. 22, under the auspices of Queen City Lodge, 226, I. O. O. F., on the subject "The Grip; or Grappling with Great Men and Great Nations".

Dr. J. H. Welch, vice-president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company of Hartford, died Sunday. He was father-in-law of E. P. Curtis, formerly of the firm of Curtis & Griffin, this city. Mr. Curtis himself is so ill that he could not be told of his father-in-law's death.

Mrs. J. H. Manning of Park avenue, has been appointed by president Gavett, of the "Ladies' 9", delegate to the Y. M. C. A. State convention at Camden, Feb. 2 to 5. This was by request of the State secretary, who realizes that the Plainfield "9" is a most important auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. here.

J. A. Smith of this city was one of the committee at Trenton, Monday and Tuesday, representing the State Grocers' association, in behalf of the bill which makes the wife equally liable with the husband for debts contracted. This bill, they claim, would greatly aid them in collecting bad debts.

The Harned Academy is doing exceedingly well with its school paper, The Critic. That creditable and prosperous little journal is under the management of new editors, and holds its own with the college papers in general. C. S. Jackson is editor, and A. M. Gilbert is assistant to business manager M. H. Joyce.

Owing to the press of private business, Mr. Bullman will not be able to leave for Mexico until some time in March. It is reported that the object of Mr. Bullman's visit is to interest the Mexican government in the plan proposed as a solution of the silver question by R. P. Rothwell of the Engineering and Mining Journal.

The Art committee of Plainfield's World's Fair women workers will give an exhibition of the works of art done by Plainfield women, early in February at Hotel Albion. The committee report themselves highly gratified at the success that is already attending their efforts. The talent they have found is truly remarkable.

The first of Charles E. Doane's articles, illustrated by himself, on "Carpentry for Boys", appears in the current number of Harper's Young People. It is only a talk to beginners and a lesson for the youngest and least experienced of his audience, but its conciseness and clearness promise so much that the succeeding papers will be awaited with impatience and perused with satisfaction.

It is pleasant to record that the pictures of George Wharton Edwards now on exhibition by the American Water Color society and New York Etching club are attracting a great deal of attention, and are treated very favorably by eminent critics. Mr. Edwards displays diversified samples of his talent. Miss Emma L. Wadsworth is another Plainfielder who shows good work. Her branch of roses is a very lovely bit of coloring.

Mrs. George Lisignolo was given a charming birthday luncheon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman, Tuesday afternoon. As a pleasant surprise to the guest of honor, a number of warm personal friends from out of town were invited. Congratulatory letters were received from relatives in Europe, and various gifts testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Lisignolo was held. All joined in wishing her very many happy returns of the day.

A NEW WAITING ROOM.

Street Railway Passenger Station to Be Established on Peace Street.

The Plainfield Street Railway company has leased of Edward Love the Peace street store in his building at the corner of North avenue, and will establish there a much-needed waiting room for its patrons.

The company could not afford to pay the rent asked for the place, but for the sake of the public was able to get it at a reduced figure, and the landlord makes up the balance by renting advertising space on the wall.

The railroad company will have an office in the waiting room for the sale of tickets, general and school, the issuance of transfers, etc.

—It is the original company that played the charming comedy so long in New York, that has been engaged to give "Little Tippett" at Music Hall, Friday evening.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. [illegible]

MR. FINCH DEFENDED.

HERE'S THE FIRST REPLY YET MADE TO THE AVALANCHE OF CRITICISM.

A Correspondent Friendly to Mr. Finch Says that the Board [illegible] its Work on [illegible] Against its Will—The Board Ready to Listen to Any Business-Like Petition.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have read several articles in regard to the purchase of the property at the corner of Central avenue and Sixth street by the Board of Education, and I commend their judgment in selecting so reasonable a piece of property, being worth from sixteen to eighteen thousand dollars instead of thirteen which they paid for it. The location is desirable and admirably adapted to school purposes, and a handsome High School building erected in that neighborhood will not deteriorate from the adjoining property, but rather add to the value of the same.

But if the building of a public school be considered an injury to property in that locality (which I do not think it will), I have no doubt that the Board of Education would dispose of this property and select some other site, if appealed to in a business-like way.

A friend of mine who is well acquainted with Mr. Finch, states the following facts in reference to the Wadsworth property. There were several pieces of property offered to the Board of Education, including the above, and Mr. Finch, as secretary and treasurer, was requested by the Board to purchase the said property in his own name. To this he demurred, stating that he preferred it should be bought in the name of the Board, when it was unanimously agreed that it was preferable he should buy it as at first directed in his own name. In the buying it was distinctly and openly understood at all times that the purchase was for other parties, and before the deed was delivered the question was even asked was it not to be used as the site for a public school. If the residents and property owners in the vicinity of said property do not desire a school building placed upon the site, let them act in regard to it in a business way, and address their communication to the Board, accompanied by a petition regarding the same, which communication will receive all the attention that it deserves, and I venture to say that not one member of the Board, desires to depreciate or injure any property or property-holder in the city.

DEFENDER.

JUDGE CODDINGTON MORALIZES.

Good Advice to a Youthful Prisoner, and Admonition to Young Men at Large.

Mary Staats, a young woman with a straight-out bang, appeared in court Friday in company with a "ladifren", to testify against William Stuart, whom she had had arrested for personal abuse.

Mary unblushingly quoted considerable foul language which Willie had used towards her, and Willie admitted part of it.

For a young man 20 years of age Stuart was about as ignorant and stupid as could be conceived. He did not know the nature of an oath, and so would not swear to what he said.

Judge Coddington announced that he had no doubt of the lad's guilt, but as the offense was his first and as the police gave him a fair reputation the court suspended sentence, taking occasion, however, to warn the prisoner that another arrest would bring heavy punishment.

The judge gave Stuart a sharp reprimand and said that the sort of offense with which he was charged, was too prevalent. Young men should be taught that it was not right or decent to insult young women or use foul language to them. He warned Stuart not to repeat his offense, and advised him to get out of idleness and into work.

WAS GREECE OR ROME THE GREATER?

Plainfield Students to Settle the Vexed Question.

The High School Lyceum will hold a public meeting Feb. 2. The programme will be as follows:

Greeting glee..........Lyceum quartette
President's address..........Stephen Rushmore
Oration—"Literary Patriotism". John C. Whiting
Violin solo—"[illegible] de Wallenstein". Fred. W. Goddard
Debate—"Has Greece contributed more to civilization than Rome?"
Affirmative—W. Ellery C. Leonard, Clarence M. Smith
Negative—C. B. Fernald, Robt. M. Clark
Selection..........Lyceum quartette
Declamation—"Energy and Patience". Arthur H. Serrell
Selection..........Lyceum quartette

The officers of the Lyceum for January and February are: President, Stephen Rushmore; vice-president, E. Stanley Morehouse; secretary, Chas. B. Morse; treasurer, Champlain L. Riley; critic, Chas. B. Fernald; sergeant-at-arms, Oscar A. Campbell.

The board of judges for the debate will be Mayor Gilbert, the Rev. Dr. Richards, the Rev. Mr. Richardson, the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut and Mr. Maxson.

LEAFLETS FOR LENT.

Gems of Scriptural Reflection in Memorial of a Beloved Plainfield Pastor.

A beautiful volume of selections intended for daily reading in the home during the Lenten season has just been published by Lee & Shepherd of Boston, and may be found at Estil's book store. It has been prepared as a memorial of the late Rev. William P. Tilden, first pastor of the Plainfield Unitarian church, by his daughter. It consists of appropriate selections from the Scriptures, and from Mr. Tilden's writings, on finely printed pages facing one another, and is based upon the last sermon he ever preached, which was delivered in this city. Not only those who knew and loved Mr. Tilden during his short residence here, but many others, will value the book and find it both helpful and inspiring. Well-known clergymen of many denominations, among others, Bishop Huntington, of central New York, have written in the warmest praises of the book, both as a memorial to the dead and a help to the living. One of these has said:

"Leaflets for Lent. Selected and arranged from the Bible and from the manuscripts of William Phillips Tilden. These leaflets, beginning with the words spoken the last Lenten season in the life of Mr. Tilden, have been prepared in accordance with his expressed desire. The book is designed for use in the home, to lie open through the appointed day, that one may easily find the [illegible] to lessen the daily frictions of life. Let some word of Jesus' first be read, then the following thought may have double power. Sunday not being included in the canonical forty days, are given to the words of St. Paul and to the hymns that were so often in speech and song on the lips of Mr. Tilden. The days follow the events in the life of Jesus as recorded in the Four Gospels, in somewhat consecutive order, ending with the last morning. To Holy Week is given the Bible record of those closing days, the thoughts on the opposite leaf [illegible] these events in our human life, as given in the last sermon Mr. Tilden ever preached. These leaflets will not bring sadness or gloom, but the bright sunshine of a confident faith that will touch the season, as he so desired, one of 'Getting and Giving Light.'"

CAUGHT AT LAST.

The Son of a Respected Father, Charged With Burglary and Murder.

Charles Smith, about 22 years of age, a son of Henry Smith, an esteemed citizen of Somerville, was arrested late Thursday at his father's home by deputy sheriff Strong, of Freehold, charged with burglarizing a store in Clarksburg, last October, in company with two others, at which time the owner of the store was shot and badly wounded.

All three of the men escaped at the time of the burglary, but suspicion rested on Smith. Last week the evidence against him was brought before the Monmouth county grand jury, and they found an indictment against him. A search was made for Smith but he could not be found.

It was known that his father resided in Somerville and yesterday deputy sheriff Strong, in company with two constables, went there. They, together with officers Crow and Vanaman, surrounded Smith's house late last night and captured him. He made no resistance. He was lodged in jail and taken to Freehold this morning.

Henry Smith, the boy's father, is a respectable old gentleman and this blow falls crushingly upon him.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL.

Everything Harmonious Between Popular Clergyman and Young Men's Lyceum.

Sensational statements have been made in other papers concerning a little episode that occurred a few evenings ago in the Young Men's Lyceum hall. The story has been widely published that Father Cushing entered the place, found everyone waltzing, threw up his hands in shock and amazement, and indignantly ordered the wickedness to cease; that he was preparing to excommunicate the offenders; and that they were going before the Bishop with grievances against him.

The fact is, there is no trouble of the sort; everything in the parish is harmonious. The night in question the festivities were about at an end, some one said, "Why not wind up with a waltz?" Father Cushing, as spiritual director of the society, said quietly that it would not be right. Everyone accepted his advice without a murmur. There was no unpleasantness, and no action in the matter is being taken. As was told in these columns at the time, Father Cushing permitted the square dances. The stories sent out of town by irresponsible persons were harmful inventions.

THOSE HORSES ARE NOT TOPERS.

The Worthless Fellows Who Abused Them Will Suffer if the Honest Firemen Catch Them.

The fire department officials are greatly incensed at the statement that the engine horses have been fed strong liquor. The drivers and all in authority are fully exonerated from blame in the matter. They love their horses too well to abuse them. The two who are alleged to have been guilty of giving intoxicating drink to the animals are irresponsible persons who have no connection with the department and who will be unceremoniously ejected if ever caught in any engine-house again. It would unfit the horses for duty, and make them unmanageable, were they plied with liquor. A careful watch will be kept over them, and loafers will not be able to reach and tamper with them.

A Pleasant Anniversary.

There was a happy gathering at the Mansion House, Bound Brook, N. J., Wednesday, Feb 1, that date being the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Mary Laing Force, mother of the proprietor of that popular hotel. As has been the custom for years past, all the immediate family of the above mentioned matron, have congregated at some one of her childrens' homes on the anniversary of her birthday. This gathering was in honor of the 78th year of her birth, and called together twenty-four of her children, grandchildren and blood relation.

After a most bountiful repast, those reunited assembled in the parlors, where song and music followed, through kindness of nieces Mrs. Theo. Hardy, Miss Lillian Force, Mrs. John L. Force, Misses Minnie and Mabel Force, all departing to their homes at a late hour pleased with the fact that Grandma Force was well and in excellent health. The recipient of the reunion is the mother of W. L. and A. L. Force, owners and publishers of the Constitutionalist and DAILY PRESS, of this city, J. H. Force, proprietor of the Mansion House, Bound Brook, and Mrs. Lizzie Prescott, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shameful Crime of a Youth.

Alfred F. White, colored, was arrested by borough marshal Pangborn Saturday night on complaint of a highly-respected colored family. The charge was that while boarding in the household he betrayed the people's hospitality and seduced their daughter, who is not yet 13 years of age.

White admitted his guilt, and gave bail for a hearing to-day. When told that his crime merited 15 years' imprisonment, he gladly submitted to compromise. The parents refused to permit him to marry the girl, but had him put under bonds to support the baby, pay all expenses, and give them a certain amount in damages.

The parents are overwhelmed by the blow. The girl is a mere child and does not realize the wrong nor her position.

The crime is a most contemptible one, and it is deplorable that compromise was accepted. Any beast of a man who would so deliberately and foully wrong a little girl does not deserve liberty. He is not fit to be at large.

For the afflicted parents and abused child there is sympathy, but for the fellow White contempt and ignominy are too good.

Death of John Mannion.

John Mannion, proprietor of the Green Brook hotel between Dunellen and Bound Brook, died Sunday night after a short illness from pneumonia. Mr. Mannion was a member of New Brunswick's police force from 1883 to 1886. On leaving the police department he purchased a hotel property at Bound Brook, which he subsequently sold to the Port Reading Railroad company so that they could extend their tracks. The funeral will take place at Bound Brook on Wednesday.

The deceased was a good-natured, kind-hearted man, always willing to assist a worthy person at any time, and owing to this fact he made many warm friends.

They'd Want Trains as Thick as Horse Cars.

A large number of Plainfield commuters who say that the 7:30 morning train from this city gets them in New York 20 minutes before office hours, while the 7:35 arrives a few minutes too late, are going to petition for a new train at 7:45.

But this won't exactly fill the bill for all. If it suits the man whose office is only 5 minutes walk from the ferry, it will be too late for the one whose office is 10 minutes distant, and vice versa. A train every five minutes would n't satisfy the average commuter.

—L. B. Woolston of the firm of Woolston & Buckle is circulating a petition for the commendable object of raising funds for furnishing the Warren engine-house parlors.

The unprecedented sale of Dr Bull's Cough Syrup provokes competition; but the people cling to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

CITIZENS, AROUSE!

SHALL WASTE OF PUBLIC FUNDS BE PERMITTED?

Tax-Payers Should Rouse Themselves and Protest Against This High-Handed Proceeding—A Trespass on Private Rights—An Injustice to All the People.

The tax-payers of Plainfield have just cause for complaint against the Board of Education in the purchase of the costly property at West Sixth street and Central avenue for public school purposes.

The price paid is said to be $13,000, which is spoken of as "a great bargain" by the toadies of the Board of Education. The Board through their mouth-organ ask: "What will the toney neighbors say to this?"

The purchase of the property was made through E. L. Finch, Treasurer of the Board, who is said to have been used by Messrs. Babcock and Hurlbut of the Board.

Charles D. Wadsworth owned the property. He claims that Mr. Finch told him it was for a friend of his, and tried to lessen the price on that account. He assured him that a fine building was to be erected, and it was understood that this meant an elegant private residence.

Mr. Wadsworth would not have parted with the property had he known the object. Already, Mr. Finch the purchaser has transferred it to the Board of Education, and a new High School building is planned to be erected on the land.

THE PRESS knew about the purchase of the Wadsworth property, but when the matter was investigated Mr. Wadsworth said that Mr. Finch had told him it was for a friend, and as a private transfer it was requested that no mention be made of it. The Board, however, consummated its project, and then gleefully heralded it through its personal organ.

The lot is encumbered by buildings which will have to be removed. If a new High School is needed, land more desirable for school purposes could have been obtained for far less money. Available sites are numerous. The sum paid is excessive for such a purpose. Less valuable land should have been secured, and the difference in price applied to the outstanding indebtedness of the other schools.

But this needless waste of money is not the only evil of the scheme. The establishment of a school in that locality will be a public nuisance and an injury to the fashionable residence section. The playground will back up to the private grounds of fine homes.

The Board of Education has overreached itself. The citizens should bestir themselves and hold a public meeting to denounce the action of the Board, and the conveyance of the property should be set aside as obtained through misleading assurance and deceit.

Let influential citizens take hold of this matter immediately, probe it to the bottom, fix the responsibility, expose the whole thing, and by their emphatic protest and vigorous opposition prevent this waste of public funds and this trespass on the dignity and rights of a decent neighborhood. A public school is not wanted there, and it would be a shame to force it with its hurtful influence on real estate upon the people who have spent fortunes in making the locality what it is. Extravagance in school sites should not be tolerated. Let the people act at once against shameful a bossing.

THE PRESS speaks thus emphatically because it believes that a wrong is being committed, and because of its devotion to the public interests. Individual rights should not be sacrificed, and the taxpayers' purse should not suffer, through any personal ambition of any member of the Board elected to serve the public, nor to gratify any whim of such as think it a cause for pride to make public institutions the most costly in the State.

THE COURTS MAY ACT.

Here's an Indignant Citizen of the Outraged Neighborhood Who Shows Fight on the Tax-Paying Principle.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Courier of last night is anxious to know what the "Tony" neighbors think of the purchase of the Wadsworth property for school purposes. The "Tony" neighbors of course have their grievance, but it is for the tax-payers of this city to say if they are willing to stand by and see a deal made by which a piece of property that has been in the market for some time is marketed to the city at a price said to be $13,000, which is considered a "great bargain". This may be so. The price may be low enough, when it is taken into consideration the fact that the grounds contain greenhouses, the stable a billiard-room, and that there is a good house on the property; but, can the tax-payers of this city afford to pay for these luxuries when a much larger plot of ground within one and one-half block of the Wadsworth property and nearer the centre of the city can be purchased for less than one-half the price paid? Not as a "Tony" neighbor, but as an ordinary everyday taxpayer, I object; and I think that when the matter comes up in court, as it undoubtedly will, that the objection will be sustained.

BULL FINCH.

Referred to W. H. P.

Division superintendent W. H. Peddie is hereby informed that it is the custom of his engineers from 11 p. m., throughout the night, to wake everybody in the East and West ends of this town by blowing 5 sharp whistles three and four times in succession, as loud as possible.

The reason is, probably, that as the outside tracks are used as coal storage, the through freight and coal trains have to change back and forth to the center tracks, and as it is necessary to call out a switchman, everybody around—including all the sick folks and babies—is awakened so as to be sure and get the man who is wanted.

It's Always the Way.

A neat illustration of the value of advertising money wisely expended was given at the Portland Young Men's Christian Association meeting Sunday when General Secretary McDonald stated that he had some curiosity to know what method of advertising reached the most people. He had circulated thousands of little dodgers, giving notice of the meeting, and he asked those who had seen these and had been moved to come through that means to rise. The hall was packed as full as it could hold, and of the entire number about 25 arose. Then Mr. McDonald asked all who had read the notice in the newspapers and had been influenced by them to rise, and the men rose in a body.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

—[illegible]

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEW JERSEY LAWMAKERS.

Interesting Peep Into the New Legislative Manual—What They Say For Themselves.

In the dress of maroon and red which so well became its predecessors, the Legislative Manual for 1893 has made its appearance in Trenton. Like them, it is full of important political information and other entertaining things, and it is three pages bigger than its immediate predecessor, containing 437 to the other's 434. The publisher, T. F. Fitzgerald, a veteran newspaper man, would be offended if anyone should suggest that in making the increase he but followed a practice of recent Legislatures. The general tone of the book is far from being one of levity, and that is good evidence of the innocence of his intent. So sternly business-like is it that it has not a word of kindly advice for the fledgling lawmakers nor of requiem for the "turned-down", those unfortunates who fall into the traditional political pot while the political soup was boiling.

A nice book it is, and there is nothing nicer in it than the picture of Governor Werts. There is another picture besides that of the Governor, and there is a map of the State. There are Assemblymen and Senators who call the map a picture, and maybe they are right. The other picture alluded to is one of the State Capitol. Mr. Fitzgerald is an open-hearted man, and he has not a secret of his own except one—namely, his object in putting this picture of the Statehouse in his book year after year. Nothing could induce him to tell that, but through the experience and shrewd guessing of an old legislator what is probably the cause is now to be made known. This veteran Assemblyman's opinion is entitled to consideration and respect in the premises for reasons which it would not do to make known. He solemnly averred that the tea served in the Trenton hotels is so strong as to wrestle with the memory and down it in two falls out of three, therefore the picture is put in as a guide, he said, to prevent inexperienced members from going into the post office or some private house to do their legislating, when the spirit moved them.

The ornamentation done by other hands consists of the biographies of the Governor, Senators and Assemblymen. It is on this part of the book that the reader is tempted to shed a tear for the vanquished—those who were defeated in caucus, or polling-booth, or simply turned down. And if he has any more tears after that one has dropped, he will be sure to dampen some of the biographies with them. They will do no good then, for they will not fall on the driest of the collection, but the thought of the tender green thing that produced this or that one will force them to flow. Many of them are the biographies of men of one or more sessions' standing, and they have already been commented on in these columns. When their writers were soft and inexperienced they wrote them and sent them to Mr. Fitzgerald to be published. Many let their pride guide their pens into tracing sentences that read boastfully, and every time one of these looks at his own handiwork he is reminded of his feelings on that sad occasion when he first stepped on a hoop.

The chirp of some of this year's fledglings has the same boastful ring in it, and so it will be while the State of New Jersey and Tom Fitzgerald go hand in hand through the rolling years. Not a few are pithy and terse as benefits the book, and some are so short and barren of statements as to give out a suspicion of modesty.

Everything in the book is in proper order, and naturally the first biography is that of Governor Werts. Added honors evidently do not make the Governor proud, for it is the same biography which he was using before the election. The only thing added to it is a statement for the benefit of those who do not read the newspapers, that he defeated John Kean, jr., in an election held in 1892.

The book says that Congressman John T. Dunn, from this district, was only seven years old when he left Tipperary for the purpose of becoming a Congressman. He made the attempt last fall and a Bayonne man named Chamberlain tried to stop him but could n't.

United Workmen Install.

At a regular meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., held Thursday evening, the following officers were installed by G. M. W., I. T. Nichols; assisted by P. G. M. W., J. W. Diefendorf; D. D. G. M. W., M. S. Drake; G. O., W. E. Haverstick; G. I. W., W. Marsh; P. M. W., G. H. Waters; and P. M. W., E. H. Colyer:

Master Workman—Thaddeus C. Smith.
Foreman—Chas. H. Randolph.
Overseer—Caleb H. Mills.
Recorder—Lewis R. Blackford.
Financier—Henry Liefke.
Receiver—Wm. H. Brokaw.
Guide—Thomas S. Randolph.
Outside Watchman—George W. Clark.
Inside Watchman—Wm. H. Langer.
Trustee—Benj. J. Allshouse.

G. M. W., I. T. Nichols, and P. G. M. W., J. W. Diefendorf, made remarks on the growth of the order, and the benefits resulting from a separate jurisdiction, after which refreshments were served and a pleasant evening spent by all present.

Fits Plainfield's Case Exactly.

(Rahway Advocate.)

The Hon. George Kyte of Fanwood has introduced into the Legislature a bill which provides for the licensing of dogs. It gives the governing body of any city, town, borough or township power to fix upon a fee which the owner of every dog shall pay each year. The fee is to be collected the same as any other tax, and will be used in the payment of the general expenses of the municipality.

The Elizabeth Journal commenting on the bill very truly says:

"A dog is either valuable or worthless. If it is valuable the owner is willing—or ought to be—to pay a reasonable tax each year. If it is not worth the amount of tax demanded, then it ought to be killed. As a rule, it is said, the poorer and more shiftless a man is the more dogs he has around his premises, and they are, in nearly all cases, poor, yelping, mongrel curs that would be better dead than alive. There is an abundance of land in Union county excellently suited to sheep raising and pasture. But very few sheep are raised in Union county, because they are so liable to be worried and killed by worthless dogs. Much money might be made in Union county in sheep raising if it were not for dogs, and therefore any law that will tax the worthless specimens out of existence is a good law."

—Through the efforts of U. S. Senator John R. McPherson, William S. Brown, of this city, has been granted a re-rating of his pension. Senator McPherson is a friend to the soldier.

FORGERY AND SUICIDE.

SHOCKING END OF PETER HERLICH'S CAREER.

[illegible] Living Is Attributed His Downfall—He Forged Notes and Cashed Them at Plainfield Banks—Arrested, With Prison Staring Him in the Face, He Puts a Bullet Into His Brain.

For a few paltry dollars Peter Herlich, of Dunellen, last fall bartered away his happiness, and last Friday he tried to sacrifice his life for reasons best known to himself, but believed to be remorse and fear of imprisonment.

Herlich has had for several years a tailoring establishment next to Taylor's Hotel in Dunellen, and is reported to have done a fair business among the young men of that borough, and also with many Plainfielders, all of whom liked him for his good-fellowship and social qualities. On two occasions not long ago, the tailor's shop was broken into and robbed of considerable clothing. These and other losses combined to reduce Herlich's financial standing, and according to his townsmen he has been "hard up for money" recently.

Three months ago, Herlich found himself in such straits that he issued forged notes and had them cashed in Plainfield. On the First National bank he forged the name of Charles S. Day; and on the City National the names of C. T. Rogers and Wm. Westphal. Yesterday his crime was discovered, and cashier Gardner of the City National bank had him arrested. He furnished bail in the sum of $2 000.

Shortly after 8 this morning Herlich sent his assistant, Martin Boyle, for a revolver, telling him to borrow or buy one before he returned. He told the boy that that the cat was acting queerly, and he thought he would better kill it before the animal gave him any trouble.

Boyle tried to purchase a weapon, but could not find any in town such as he wanted. He finally borrowed one from Paul Kratzel, and took it to Herlich, who after critically examining it thought it would serve the purpose for which he desired it.

At 8:30 the people who live in the flat over the store heard three pistol shots fired in quick succession. When investigation of the cause for shooting was made Herlich was found unconscious in his store. By his side lay a smoking revolver with three empty cartridge chambers. One of the bullets fired therefrom was imbedded in Herlich's head, another had grazed his forehead, making a long bloody furrow, while another ball had sped harmlessly by the head and imbedded itself in the ceiling.

Herlich was sitting in a chair when he fired the shots. The first, aimed at his temple at close range, blasted a great hole in the side of his head, and sent a bullet plunging into the centre of his brain. The almost nerveless hand worked the trigger twice again, but the aim was untrue, and none but the first bullet fired caused serious injury.

Dr. Brakely, the well-known Dunellen physician, was found in his drug store not far from Herlich's place, and he went at once to the wounded man. Dr. Gaston and Dr. Chauncey M. Field of this city arrived not long afterwards.

Plainfield's celebrated surgeon saw at once that it was almost impossible to save the man's life, but determined to accept the only chance that remained.

Immediately on his arrival, a surgical operation was begun for the purpose of finding where the ball was. One half of the scalp was removed, the broken bits of bone were taken out, and a clear opening made into the skull. The ball was located by Dr. Field, who could feel it with the tip end of his finger. To Doctors Brakely and Gaston he said, however, that it would be impossible at the present time to reach the bullet and remove it with any probe known to surgery. His belief was that the best thing to do at the present time was to leave the ball where it was. No attempt was made, therefore, to remove it, but instead the physicians bent all their energies toward dressing the wound, and treating it so skillfully that the torn flesh and shattered skull would not cause immediate death.

The chances of Herlich's recovery are slight. Few men have lived with a heavy piece of lead in the centre of the brain, and although the wounded man is of strong physical build, the shock to his system and the great loss of blood will probably result fatally soon.

Herlich is married and has a child. He had not slept home of late, however, but in the store. His associates say he had been leading a fast life of late. The cost of his excess, combined with his losses by burglary, drove him to desperation.

He was a popular member of the Jr. O. U. A. M.

At 4:15 telephonic message from Dunellen stated that Herlich was still alive.

IN THE COURTS AT LAST.

The Peace Street Project Certioraried by an Assessed Property-Holder.

Jacob Miles has secured through his counsel R. V. Lindabury a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court in the matter of extending Peace street into North Plainfield.

This means that that august body is to review the entire proceedings in the matter and decide whether or not the work of the commissioners was just and proper.

Mr. Miles's assessment was $1,600. He claims that the township at large should share the burden, instead of having it shouldered by the property-holders directly benefited.

The legal proceedings will greatly delay the much needed public improvement.

HORSES IN PERIL.

Fire Bravely Fought in Joseph Sullivan's Stables.

A lighted cigarette carelessly left lying inside the stable at the rear of Joseph T. Sullivan's saloon, 66 West Third street, was responsible for a serious blaze, Saturday night.

The fire was discovered, and promptly and valiantly fought by the Sullivans and their neighbors. They found the blaze well advanced, and they had hard work to save one of the imperilled horses from perishing in the flames.

Axes were used to chop away the woodwork, and with buckets of water the flames were deluged. By supreme effort the fire was conquered without calling out the department.

Other Trains Would Only Spoil the Good Ones We Have.

One of many correspondents writing to THE PRESS on the subject, says the principal reason the 7:58 a. m. train from this city is of no use to the hundreds who must be in their New York offices by 9, is that it is "always late". So he, too, wants a train from here at 7:45.

Now it is just because the Central railroad company of this State, tries to satisfy everyone of its patrons—including the unreasonable ones like the correspondent above—that its morning trains in, and its evening trains from New York, are often a few minutes behind the schedule. There are now so many accommodation trains between New York, and Plainfield, and Newark, and Elizabeth, and Roselle, and Dunellen, and Somerville—all called forth by the demands and necessities of thousands of people—that they are almost tumbling over one another and delays result for that reason as well as for safety's sake.

SAVED HIS WIFE'S LIFE.

Had Mrs. Kriney Slept Sounder, or Had Her Husband Lost His Presence of Mind, She Would Have Bled to Death.

Mrs. Jacob Kriney, who almost died from loss of blood Friday morning, is improving every day although still confined to her bed.

Her escape was miraculous. She happened to awake about 4 in the morning, just after a varicose vein had burst above her ankle. By the dim light in the room she noticed a bright red spot on the floor near the bed. She thought it was a piece of red flannel and wondered as she lay there comfortably and quietly, what it was. Then feeling something warm and wet about her feet she turned down the covers and found her life's blood gushing from her leg.

In another room was a bandage she knew she must have to save her life. She got up quickly but fainted after taking a few steps. A sick aunt who heard her fall but could not rise from her own bed, tried to get help by calling. It was not till some minutes, however, that the children awoke and aroused their father.

Mr. Kriney raised his wife from the floor but she was already cold and hardly breathing. He had a silver piece in his pocket which he at once placed on the ruptured vein and bound down so tightly that not another drop of blood escaped. Thus her life was saved.

ODD LADIES' INSTALLATION.

Members and Friends Have a Delightful Time at the Gathering.

The newly-elected officers of Mizpah Lodge, I. O. O. L., were installed Monday evening. The installation was made the occasion of a most pleasant social event, with literary and musical entertainment and refreshments. The installing officers were Right Worthy Lady Governor, Mrs. Bedell; Right Worthy Vice Lady Governor, Mrs. Skilling; R. W. Conductor, Mrs. A. M. Maxwell, all of Boston. They were royally entertained at Hotel Grenada after the meeting. They left here to institute a new lodge at Haverhill. They have installed 26 lodges since Jan. 1. Everyone present at the installation entertainment highly enjoyed the festivities and voted the order a most commendable one. The new officers are as follows:

P. L.—Emma K. Cox.
N. L.—Sophia Smith.
V. L.—Laura Kurshals.
R. S.—J. B. Snyder.
L. R.—Ella Eaden.
Treasurer—Martha Brokaw.
Financial Secretary—M. M. Morse.
Chaplain—A. Corwin.
Conductor—Ella Bosterlie.
Guard—Emma Weigman.
Sr. Warden—Lizzie Kerman.
Jr. Warden—Anna Weber.
R. H. A.—Anna Bosterlie.
L. H. A.—Jennie D. Smith.

A NEGRO BIGAMIST.

Tom Henderson Had Two Wives in Plainfield, and Fearing Arrest He Skipped.

Thomas Henderson, colored, who lived at 1 Prescott place, has, it is alleged, for the last six months lived with two wives. He has been married for about two years to his legal spouse. Last summer he went to Asbury Park to work in one of the hotels as a waiter. While there, he courted another colored damsel who was worth considerable money. Henderson schemed to get her money without marrying her, but was unsuccessful, and both went to Philadelphia and were married. Then they came to Plainfield, where Henderson kept both women. The Prescott place neighborhood was scandalized; and Henderson, fearing the law, has fled from town.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENTS.

The New Edsall's Will Be a Plainfield "Macy's".

Seely Edsall, the enterprising and successful merchant, has leased three adjoining stores in the new Babcock block to be erected at the head of Madison avenue, and will establish a regular "Macy" business there. The dimensions of his place will be 60 feet front by 175. Of this depth 100 feet will be in the main building, the balance in an extension to be built expressly for him. In the new Edsall's one may find everything sought for on the ordinary metropolitan shopping tour. Tiresome trips to New York may then be avoided.

Van Emburgh & Son have leased the corner store in the block, 20x100 feet.

—Cammeyer, the New York shoe man, contemplates erecting a large factory at Berkley Heights, back of North Plainfield, for the manufacture of shoes.

ENGINEER DUNHAM ABROAD.

He Is Doing Good-Roads Missionary Work with Union County as His Model.

(From The Saginaw, Mich., Courier-Herald.)

F. A. Dunham, C. E., of Plainfield, N. J., who was the engineer in charge in constructing the famous Union county, N. J., road system, is in the city, and knowing that he was possessed of a large fund of information in relation to the building of stone roads by reason of having had a large and practical experience in the matter, a COURIER-HERALD representative asked him to describe that excellent system and impart other information that would be of interest to those interested in better roads. He kindly consented to do so and spoke as follows:

[Here is given a description of the Union county system and methods, with which all Plainfielders are familiar.]

Mr. Dunham is on his way to Dubuque, Madison and other western cities, where he has been called to consult with the municipal authorities in relation to road building, paving, etc. He is now engaged in preparing an article for the New York World giving in detail the history of the better road movement in Union county and its successful operation.

TO MERGE THREE INTO ONE.

Freeholder Kyte Working for the Plainfield Water Company Monopoly.

As will be noticed in the Legislative proceedings in another part of this paper, Assemblyman Kyte of Fanwood has introduced a bill (House No. 131) to consolidate the Union Water company, the Plainfield Water company, and the Elizabethtown Water company. These corporations are now controlled by the same capitalists, and their interests are identical. The new bill has for its object a simplifying of their operations. The consolidated corporation will be a giant monopoly.

Seems to Be a Lack of Harmony at Home, Dear Journal.

The Elizabeth Journal says:

> The hardest worked editors in New Jersey are the Plainfield editors. They are splendid fellows, everyone of them, and they get up good, newsy papers. But they do have such unspeakable and incalculable and illimitable trouble in keeping each other straight.

And the same day its neighbor the Herald remarks:

> FULL OF CONTRADICTIONS.
>
> Of all the newspapers published in this State, there is one issued not a hundred miles from this city, which takes the whole bakery for swallowing and contradicting its overwhelming stock of lying and damaging articles which it daily dishes up for its readers. But then the publisher has always followed up Barnum's saying that the public likes to be humbugged.

Councilman Sebring as a Capitalist.

A certificate of the organization of the Bound Brook Electric Light, Heat and Power company was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on Monday. This company was organized by Messrs. Chas. P. Sebring, of Plainfield; Louis J. Auerbacker, of Newark; and Frederick H. Cook, of Bound Brook. The objects are the generation of electricity for the purpose above mentioned and furnishing the same to consumers. The capital stock is $5,000.

A Healthy Woman

Never has the blues.

Nor that "don't-care" or "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling.

She is always happy.

No painful female complaints crush out her life. No ovarian troubles, inflammation or ulceration, no spinal weakness, no fainting, no bloating.

She is never melancholy, irritable, excitable, nervous, dizzy, or troubled with sleeplessness and fainting spells.

Have you any of the symptoms named? Beware of the beginning of evil. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the sure cure of the cause. It may be the uterus or womb; whatever the cause is the Vegetable Compound expels the disease and stops pain.

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.

PIANOS
AND ORGANS
FROM
S. D. Lauter Co.
657-659 Broad St.
NEWARK, N. J.

p 1 26 8 m—d 1 26 9m

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS. | From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOYS' SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS,

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St. NEWARK, N. J.

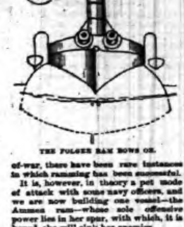
9 17 tf

A FORMIDABLE RAM.

The Folger Type Recommended for Our Navy.

In Its Principal Characteristics It Is Wholly Different from the Well-Known Ammen Design—Thickness of Its Armor.

The ram, says the New York Herald, is as old as war ships themselves. If a ship gets a fair blow with her bow against an enemy's hull the vessel struck can hardly be expected to survive the blow more than a few minutes. But in the naval engagements of the past forty years, during which steam has been the propelling power of men-of-war, there have been rare instances in which ramming has been successful.



THE FOLGER RAM BOWS ON.

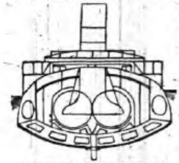
It is, however, in theory a pet mode of attack with some navy officers, and we are now building one vessel—the Ammen ram—whose sole offensive power lies in her spar, with which, it is hoped, she will sink her enemies.

In the annual report of the navy chief of ordnance another ram is recommended for construction. This proposed craft contains several characteristics wholly different from those of the Ammen design. Instead of being dependent solely on her spar, she is to be provided with four short bored rifled mortars, placed in pairs forward and aft. It is expected that these will be of 9-inch caliber, and will throw shells each carrying at least 200 pounds of high explosive. It is not expected that the projectiles from these guns will be fired with high velocity, but that a plunging fire at short range will be delivered from her bow pair as the ram charges at her enemy and from the two stern guns as she retreats.

Besides these four mortars there will be two submarine guns on the principle of the Ericsson gun in the Destroyer. They will probably be of about 15-inch caliber, with a capacity to send a torpedo containing 500 pounds of high explosive with a great speed at least 300 yards. Thus the vessel attacked will be in jeopardy in three different ways, all of which attacks are directed at her most vulnerable parts—namely, her decks, by the mortar shells, and her under-water unprotected hull by the submarine guns and the ram's spur.

The accompanying cuts show some of the peculiarities of the proposed ram. Her main hull, as shown in the midship sectional view, is almost an ellipse in section. Forward and aft are superstructures carrying the mortars, but the armored hull "tumbles home" from below the waterline, and also runs down forward and aft below the waterline.

The thickness of armor on deck will be 3 inches; about three feet above the waterline throughout the machinery space it will be 5 inches, three feet below the waterline throughout the machinery space it will be 4 inches, and two and a half feet below the 4-inch armor it will be 3 inches. The lower edge of armor will be 9 feet below the waterline. The sloping sides and the nickel steel armor are expected to give the ram sufficient protection against gun fire above water, while the armor below the waterline is expected to protect her against torpedo fire.



SECTIONAL VIEW OF FOLGER RAM.

Following are some of the other features of the craft: Length over all, 275 feet; length on waterline, 262 feet; extreme beam, 46 feet; beam at waterline, 40 feet; draught of water, 17 feet; displacement, 2,700 tons; indicated horsepower, 6,225; speed, 18 knots; coal at normal draught, 190 tons; radius of action at maximum speed, 821 knots. She will have twin screws, driven by triple expansion engines.

Effect of Sun and Moon on Steel.

A curious fact has recently been noted by the fine steel workers at Sheffield, England. It is this: Fine edged tools assume a blue color and lose all temper if exposed for any considerable length of time to the light of the sun, either in summer or winter. A similar effect is exercised by moonlight, a large cross-cut saw with which the experimenters were working having been "put out of shape and its temper ruined by a single night's exposure to a first quarter moon."

Invented by Women.

Women inventors by no means confine themselves to those departments where they might be supposed to possess special experience. Patents have been granted to women for a plan for deadening the noise on railways, for preventing sparks from locomotives, for sweeping the streets, for a new form of life raft, for textile manufactures, and electrical appliances.

OUR COTTAGE HOMES.

A Convenient Design for Twenty-Six Hundred Dollars.

Points to Be Considered by Householders Who Have the Building Fever—An Interior Arrangement That Is Nearly Perfect.

The plan here offered is that of a well-arranged and neatly-designed frame house in the attractive style of modern American architecture. The style of the house should depend much upon the location, and some of the neat buildings scattered here and there through our states are certainly better adapted to an American landscape than any feudal importation. The first necessity in making a house beautiful is stability, which means that the bottom must be capable of supporting the top. All main lines should be horizontal or perpendicular.

FRONT ELEVATION.

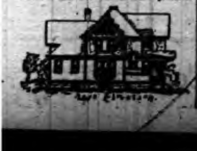
Home means rest, quiet and simplicity. Not that a house must be bare and simple in every part, but simplicity must be the keynote. Certain parts, both inside and out, can of course be elaborately treated, but it must seem natural and not an isolated piece of work, and the reason for such elaboration must be apparent.



Certainly we need not speak of the convenient arrangement of the house. Of course it must be convenient, but that alone is not sufficient. The arrangement of the kitchen is a point of importance to every housewife. The obtaining of water for domestic purposes is often a source of great trouble.

Painting the kitchen walls will be found more economical than papering; use some warm tint—do not use white or blue—and if varnished every four or five months you can wash and clean them quite as readily as woodwork.

A door should open from the kitchen into the cellarway, and the stairs lighted by a convenient window. You should not be obliged to leave the door ajar at each trip to and from the cellar, as too many are obliged to do or grope their way in the dark.

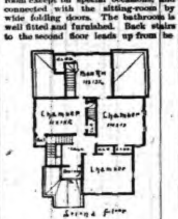
This plan has four principal rooms on each floor, besides halls, bathroom, pantry and numerous closets. The convenience of the interior is apparent on examination of the floor plans. Entering from the front through a hall of goodly size, connected with a parlor 15 x15½, the sitting-room 15x17, and a bedroom 11x15. The hall, parlor and sitting-room are connected by wide sliding doors. The kitchen is of large size, intended for use also as a dining-room except on special occasions, and connected with the sitting-room by wide folding doors. The bathroom is well fitted and furnished. Back stairs to the second floor leads up from between the kitchen and bathroom, landing in the finished attic over the kitchen. The stairway to the cellar leads down under this and from the pantry. In the bed-room is a projecting bracket window, with three drawers under stool.



The chambers on second floor are each provided with closet room. A stairway to the attic leads up from the chamber on the left. Balconies open from this chamber and the upper hall.

The materials used in the construction are of the best throughout. The walls outside are sheathed, papered and sided on first story; second story shingled. On the inside are plastered three coats. The house is heated by furnace, and was erected and completed at Carthage, Ill., for $2,600, including the foundation.

E. A. PAYNE.

PAPER IN BUILDING.

The Best Material for Keeping a House Warm in Winter.

A correspondent in Carpentry and Building says: With reference to warm houses it is my opinion that we have nothing better or cheaper than paper, especially when it is offered so cheaply as at present, viz: Less than two cents per pound. Under these conditions no one who builds should complain of a cold house. I used it on the outside of sheeting boards under the siding; also on the roof under the shingles and under the floor. The first floor, which is used until the house is plastered, is laid with common dressed boards. On top of them is put the paper and over paper the floor proper is laid. My method of putting paper between studding is to cut the strips in the center, which leaves it just the right width by bending each edge at right angles. To secure a dead air space I put on lath next to the sheeting-boards and put my paper back to this, holding it in place by lath nailed through the turned edges to the studding. The cold in our houses comes in by cracks in the floor and at the windows and doors. Sash, to work easily, must not work like a glove. In the west we use storm doors and storm windows—that is, double window, with one light of glass hinged for ventilation. I frequently ask people why they try to make their houses air-tight elsewhere and leave such wind holes at the doors and windows. I advise putting the needless expense of brickwork or back plastering in the cheaper and better material of paper and extra sash to the windows, to be removed in the spring time. Cut off all drafts of air between the upper and lower stories of the house, and, my word for it, the dwelling will be warm enough for comfort in the midst of a Dakota blizzard.

THE REVOLVING MAN.

A Little Figure That Can Be Made to Balance Itself Amusingly.

Get a piece of wood about two inches long. Cut one end of it into the form of a man's head and shoulders and let the other end taper off to a fine point. Next furnish the little man with a pair of wafters shaped like oars, instead of arms, but they must be more than double the length of his body. Stick the wafters on his shoulders and he is complete. When you place him on the tip of your finger, if you have taken care to make the point exactly in the center, he will stand upright, as seen in the engraving. By blowing on the wafters he may be made to turn around very quickly, because the center of gravity is below the center of suspension.

THE REVOLVING MAN.

Curiosities About Insects.

Entomologists in general concede that upwards of 100,000 species of insects have been recognized and named; some authorities place these figures 30,000 higher, and even these latter figures are believed to not represent more than one-tenth of the number actually inhabiting the globe. Of the number classified, one-half belongs to the order Coleoptera, or beetles. Of the Lepidoptera, or butterflies, there are 15,000 known species. An equal number, perhaps, may be credited to the Hymenoptera (bees, wasps and their allied creatures), the Diptera (flies) and the Hemiptera (bugs in general). The Orthoptera, or straight-winged insects, which includes the locusts, grasshoppers and others of that ilk, are considerably less numerous, while the netted-winged forms are not known to number more than two thousand. As one would naturally suppose, insects of all classes are most numerous and attain [illegible] stage of development in tropic and subtropic countries, but they are by no means rare in the coldest regions that have as yet been visited by man. Sir George Nares collected forty-five different species of [illegible] insects from north of the seventy-eighth degree of latitude in Grinnell Land, and over three hundred in Iceland.

Oil of Sweet Almonds.

The United States consul in Liverpool recently received orders from government to inquire into the manufacture of oil of sweet almonds in England. He reports that two London firms, whom he names, seem to be the principal, if not the only, firms in England engaged in this business. The kernels are crushed by hydraulic pressure, and from the cake thus formed the oil is distilled. The same process is carried on in Havre; but it is said that there the kernel of the peach is used instead of the almond, and that, consequently, the oil is cheaper in price and not so good.

A Mud-Covered Forest.

There is a sunken forest of white cedar on the coast of New Jersey which has been continuously "mined" for its valuable timber for more than eighty years. The curious industry of digging for these sunken logs is carried on by the people of Dennisville, a village which was brought into existence solely through the wealth of the buried timber in its vicinity. Over this sunken forest trees of large size are now growing, and in many instances the growing timber is cut away in order to get at the more valuable logs which lie only three or four feet beneath the surface. It is believed that they were sunken by an earthquake.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

The Minnesota Prelate's Wisdom, Patriotism and Popularity.

Archbishop Ireland is one of the most interesting characters that the Catholic church in America has produced. His culture, his piety and his out-and-out Americanism have lifted him high in the estimation of the people of this country. He has been called a fighter, but the archbishop is noted for never wishing to bring on a quarrel; he fights only when he is forced to it.

Archbishop Ireland was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, and has all the best characteristics of the Celt. He came here while a mere boy and was soon after sent to France to receive his training for the church. One of his first appointments as a priest on his return to this country was that of chaplain in the union army. His experience in that capacity is largely responsible for the intensity of his patriotism as an American. When out of his pulpit there is no theme he likes so well to treat as the glories of the republic. In the cause of temperance, too, he is an enthusiast. For twenty-five years he has been the incessant advocate of temperance, and has been instrumental in establishing temperance societies all over the country. Throughout the state of Minnesota are scattered thriving colonies of temperance people whom he induced to leave the crowded cities. As the opponent of Cahenslyism and the advocate of a broad, radical system of education Archbishop Ireland has become noted in America as well as in Europe. He has been called the "Lavigerie of America," but those who know him best compare him to Cardinal Manning. He stands as well with the workingmen as did the London cardinal, and he stands higher with his non-Catholic fellow citizens than did his eminence of Westminster, as evinced by the honors heaped upon him by the management of the auxiliary congresses of the world's fair. Archbishop Ireland is in the prime of life and is likely to be heard on the great questions of the day in his church for many years to come.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

SENATOR KENNA.

He Was a Self-Made Man in Every Sense of the Word.

The late Senator John E. Kenna, of West Virginia, was born in Valcoulon, W. Va., April 10, 1848. Of his early life little is known except that he worked upon his father's farm. At the age of fourteen he entered the confederate army as a private and saw a great deal of service, especially in Missouri. He was wounded in 1864 and was surrendered at Shreveport, La., in 1865. At the close of the war he returned to Wheeling, where he attended St. Vincent's college, and afterward studied law at Charleston. He was admitted to the bar in June, 1870, and in 1872 was elected prosecuting attorney for Kanawha county. In 1875 he was made circuit judge and in 1877 he was elected to congress as a democrat, serving from October of that year until March, 1883, when he was elected to the United States senate to succeed Henry G. Davis. In 1889 he was reelected, and his term of service would have expired March 3, 1895. He was one of the most influential members in the senate, served on many of the most important committees, foreign relations, organization, conduct and expenditures of the executive department, and was also a member of the senate committee on world's fair. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for a number of years and to that his death may be attributed.

SENATOR JOHN E. KENNA.

College Professors in Spain.

The professors in the colleges of Spain are miserably underpaid, often receiving no more than $300 per year. They endeavor to make a small profit out of their textbooks, each requiring his own book to be used. These books are frequently in manuscript, or, if printed, are sold at unusual prices. The students, also poor, resort in consequence to second-hand shops and the annual fair, where a specialty is made of collegiate text books.

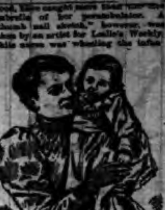
And Yet Some People Are Fresh.

The waters of the oceans and seas of our globe hold not less than 40,000,000,000,000,000 tons of salt in suspension. If these figures are correct and the ocean should be entirely dried up there would be a deposit of salt 450 feet deep over every foot of the great basin. If taken out and spread upon what is now dry land it would give us a salt covering nearly 1,300 feet thick.

BABY RUTH CLEVELAND.

Unquestionably the Most Popular Child in the United States.

Of all the lovely babies in the length and breadth of the land—each one, by the verdict of its own select circle, the loveliest ever seen—Baby Ruth is to-day the most talked of and the most popular baby. Whether by right of her own personal charms, or of the charms of her mother, or because of her proud prestige as the infant-elect of the White House, one need not stop to inquire; suffice it that she is a celebrity on a small scale, although, to the world at large, [illegible] one whose beauties are to be taken for granted. No authorized camera has given Mrs. Cleveland's admirers a glimpse of the baby, and [illegible] besides, beguiling the [illegible] wood, have caught more than one [illegible] umbrella of her perambulator. A "thumb nail sketch," however, was taken by an artist for Leslie's Weekly while nurse was wheeling the infant



MRS. CLEVELAND AND BABY RUTH.

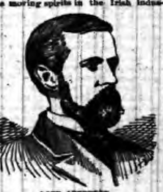
belle up and down the sunny sidewalk, and from it the readers may gain an idea of Miss Ruth's salient points—a pair of large, dark eyes chiefly, with the prettiest of long lashes—see that she has delicately regular features, and guess at the fair coloring and the dark hair.

It is not difficult to see "the baby," who is spoken of usually as if there were but one baby in Lakewood; she takes her airing, with all the other children of the cottages and hotels, between the hours of ten and twelve, and her plain little wicker chariot may be seen on the broad plank walks by the Lakewood hotel, and up and down any of the pine-sheltered avenues, driven by the vigilant nurse, who is ever on the watch to protect her charge from too intrusive admirers. Everybody stops to look at her or to speak to her, and the manners of the young princess are most affable. The artist was fortunate in crossing the path of the little carriage just before baby in her white cloak and cap, with a biscuit clutched in one white mitten, was preparing to take a nap, and thus was favored with a sight of the dark eyes and a faint smile, which might be interpreted as expressing the last degree of boredom at again hearing the inevitable—"Oh, what a lovely baby!"

EARL OF ABERDEEN.

Something About the New Governor General of Canada.

The earl of Aberdeen, who is to succeed Lord Stanley, of Preston, as governor general of Canada, will assume his new dignity earlier than was expected. The liberal victory in England, of course, meant a change in the political head of affairs in Canada, but this change would not have taken place until next May, when Lord Stanley's term expires, had he not sent in his resignation and requested to be recalled. Lord Aberdeen was immensely popular as viceroy of Ireland, and there is no doubt that he will prove equally acceptable to the Canadians. He was appointed to the viceroyalty by Gladstone in 1886, and the scene in Dublin on the occasion of his leave-taking after the fall of the Gladstone cabinet is said to have been such as had never been witnessed there before, at least not since the departure of Lord Fitzwilliam in 1795. The earl and Lady Aberdeen are the moving spirits in the Irish industries exhibit, which promises to be one of the most attractive features at the fair. Lord Aberdeen is a member of many religious and philanthropic societies and contributed £1,000 toward Gen. Booth's scheme for alleviating distress. Lady Aberdeen is a daughter of the first Lord Tweedmouth.



LORD ABERDEEN.

An Odd Souvenir Spoon.

The latest feat in spoon carving is reported from the capital city of Iowa, and was accomplished by S. E. Wilcox. He took a common Iowa souvenir spoon, one bearing the Iowa coat of arms on the handle, and wrote the whole of the Lord's Prayer in the bowl. Every letter and comma is in its proper place and can be easily read with the naked eye. A local paper in commenting on the feat says: "The general use of such spoons would make religious instruction more easy and greatly improve the spirituality of coffee and tea drinkers."

Span of Life Increasing.

The statistics of life insurance people show that in the last twenty-five years the average of man's life has increased 5 per cent., or two whole years, from 41.9 to 43.9 years.

She Had Nothing.

He—I love you.

She—But I have not a farthing in the world.

He—Ah, but you would not let me finish. I was going to say, I love you—

She—Indeed, I only meant to put you to the test. The fact is, I have a fortune of fifteen thousand pounds!

He—Yes; but you interrupted me again just now. What I meant was, I love you not—for the sake of your money!

She—So glad to hear you say that! It was all a joke about the fifteen thousand!—Demorest's Magazine.

His Part.

Briggs—That was a nice thing that young Fiddleback fell into, wasn't it? The father of the girl he is going to marry gives them a house and lot, and her mother furnishes all her clothes, besides giving her an income.

Griggs—What does Fiddleback do?

Briggs—I understand that he is going to buy his own cigarettes.—Puck.

Feats of Strength.

"I saw a woman carry an iron bar weighing five hundred pounds a distance of seventy-five feet last night," said Hicks.

"Poh!" said Mawson. "I saw a fragile little woman stop a two-ton horse car on Broadway this morning just by holding up her forefinger."—Harper's Bazar.

The Uselessness of Riches.

Rankin—Yes, old Bullion was immensely wealthy and immensely stingy, but you must remember that he was a man who had no vices.

Fyle—No vices? Great Crœsus! How could a man ever have time to form any vices while he was robbing the world of of thirty-seven million dollars?—Chicago Tribune.

Looking on the Bright Side.

Kitty—So George has jilted you! Why, the wretch! But you will get over it, dear.

Minnie—Oh, I'm almost reconciled already. I rather like it.

"Why, what do you mean?"

"I can eat all the onions I want now."—Texas Siftings.

How He Made a Name for Himself.

"How is your son doing, Mr. Smith? The son who went to London a few years ago."

"He has made a name for himself," replied Mr. Smith.

"Indeed, in what way?"

"I understand he calls himself Smythe."—Demorest's Magazine.

Why He Was Discharged.

Dr. Emden—Charles, did old Mrs. Murphy take that medicine I sent her last night?

Charles—I think so.

Dr. Emden—Why?

Charles—Well, sir, there was crape on her door this morning.—Des Moines Argonaut.

Finishing Touch Needed.

Rivers—Haven't you finished that [illegible] job of old [illegible]'s house yet?

Waldo—Yes, long ago; but I can't get my money.

Rivers—H'mph! Call yourself an artist and can't draw your pay!—Chicago Tribune.

A Great Success.

Clara—Isn't it perfectly lovely—this higher education of women?

Dora—Why?

Clara—The paper says eighty per cent. of the Vassar college graduates get married.—N. Y. Weekly.

Both the Hoods.

Little Dot—Mamma, I've read both the hoods all through.

Mamma—Hoods! What hoods?

Little Dot—Little Red Riding Hood and Robin Hood.—Good News.

Put Him in Mourning.

"Dauber had his name presented to the club just before his wife died. Did they notice her death in any way?"

Twiggs—Oh, yes; they black-balled her husband.—N. Y. Journal.

Saving and Spending.

Carl—Papa gave me a whole dollar to-day to save.

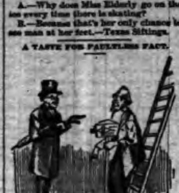
Dick—Well, my papa gave me ten cents to spend, and that's better still.—Harper's Young People.

Her Only Chance.

A.—Why does Miss Elderly go on the ice every time there is skating?

B.—Because that's her only chance to see man at her feet.—Texas Siftings.

A TASTE FOR FAULTLESS FACT.



Sympathetic Citizen—I suppose, my poor man, you spend your whole time climbing up that ladder.

Murphy—Oi don't, thin, for Oi spend half of it climbin' down!—Truth.

A Dream of Wealth.

"I'd like to be rich," said Tommy.

"How rich?" asked his sister.

"Oh," replied the young man, after some thought, "rich enough to wear my Sunday clothes every day."—Life.

Hard Fate.

Little Dot—Oh, dear! I wish I wasn't a girl.

Teacher—You do? Why?

Little Dot—'Cause I like to sit with the boys.—Good News.

An Instance of Its Truth.

Spatts—Do you believe the proverb: "Like master like dog?"

Bloodpumper—Yes, I do. I know a compositor who owns a very fine setter.—Truth.

RAILROADS.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE
Interlocking Switch and Block Signal Systems.

On and after Apr. 26, 1892, trains leave Elizabeth as follows:

[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

[illegible]

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect, JAN. 22, 1893

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 10, a m 12 22, p m [illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.
LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible]

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.

[illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

[illegible]

[illegible] Gen'l Manager.
[illegible] Gen. Pass. Agt.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

[illegible]

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

[illegible]

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

[illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET.

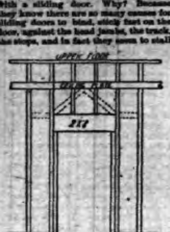
[illegible]

ABOUT SLIDING DOORS.

Notes on the Proper Way of Framing Partitions.

The First Requirement Is a Solid Foundation—Every Partition Should Have Sound Bearings Under It—Re-[illegible] Plans.

Nearly all cottages and dwellings that are of the modern styles and which are now being erected must necessarily have a set of sliding doors or two or they will not be considered up to the times in the way of convenience and modern improvements. That the sliding doors are a decided improvement on the folding doors there can be no doubt, providing the sliding doors are substantially and properly put up. Almost every carpenter knows something about sliding doors. Most of the carpenters actually dread to have anything to do with a sliding door. Why? Because they know there are so many causes for sliding doors to bind, stick fast on the floor, against the head jambs, the track, the stops, and in fact they seem to stall at the least little thing. I have seen carpenters hang sliding doors, and leave them in perfect working order one day, and the next day the doors would not work. Why? Simply because some part of the work was improperly done, or at least it was not a substantial piece of work. The sooner people learn that everything connected with a sliding door must be true and as firm as a rock, the sooner they will get sliding doors that will work properly, and stay in working order as long as any other door.

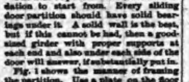


SHOWING SLIDING DOOR PARTITION.

Some carpenters blame the hangers if the door doesn't work, but the fact is, nine times out of ten, it is the improper construction of some part of the work that causes the unsatisfactory working of the doors. Many workmen, knowing these causes, are too shiftless and indifferent to in any way guard against them.

The first requirement is a solid foundation to start from. Every sliding door partition should have solid bearings under it. A solid wall is the best, but if this cannot be had, then a good-sized girder with proper supports at each end and also under each side of the door will answer, if substantially put in.

Fig. 1 shows the manner of framing the partition. Use a plate on the floor and also one at the ceiling. Use double studding each side of the door, letting the outside studding run from plate to plate. Cut the inside studding next to door jambs the proper length to have the header rest directly on top of the jamb studding. Nothing smaller than a 2x8 doubled should be used for headers. Studding should never be set the flat side to the plaster, for the purpose of saving a little space in the thickness of the wall. Such a wall cannot be made solid enough for sliding doors; it will spring, and nothing can be done to prevent it. If the upper joists bear on the ceiling plate, as shown in Fig. 1, a truss can be put in, as shown by dotted lines. A piece should also be extended to second studding from the door to keep the truss from spreading.



SHOWING JAMBS, TRUCK, ETC.

Fig. 2 shows the general construction of headers, jambs and track for a single track hanger. B is an iron bracket, which is securely fastened to the studding, and to which the track is bolted. The hanger carries a grooved wheel, which runs on the track and is connected with the door in a manner similar to all door hangers. I consider the single track door hangers superior to those using the double track. They save time and money in putting them up. As there is but one track to adjust, much time is saved, and as the weight of the doors must necessarily come all on one partition, the one the track is fastened to is the only one that requires special attention as to strength and accuracy. A spreader should be put in between the two walls to keep the partitions from either spreading or closing together. Their original position and proper distance apart must be accurately maintained.—J. P. Hicks, in National Builder.

Tar a Good Medicine.

Few people have any idea of the beneficial medical qualities of tar. In medicine it is valuable in chronic catarrh, it is of benefit in almost all kinds of cutaneous disease, there is no better dressing for an ulcer, while tar water is an excellent tonic for debilitated persons, and the vapor of tar is a panacea for many forms of bronchial trouble. People will not use simple medicines, as a rule preferring something from the drug stores; but if such remedial agents as tar and other so-called "old women's remedies" were more commonly employed men would enjoy better health.

The Editor's Mistake.

Great Statesman—You were in rather a sad condition when you left the banquet the other night.

Reporter—Yes, I drank more than was good for me.

Great Statesman—So I noticed. And it showed in your report of my speech. It was terribly mixed up. Didn't the editor raise a row about it?

Reporter—No, he didn't blame me any. He thought you were drunk.—N. Y. Weekly.

Anything Would Do.

Young Doctor (to patient)—That prescription I left last night, sir, was a mistake. It was intended for another patient, suffering from a complaint of quite a different kind to yours. Did you have it made up?

Patient—Yes, doctor, and I took the medicine.

Doctor—Well, how are you feeling this morning?

Patient—Very much better.—Boston Globe.

They Were Learned Rabbits.

A Spanish student going out with a party to shoot rabbits was told not to talk, lest he should frighten the rabbits.

When the timid creatures appeared he uttered an exclamation in Latin which frightened them away; and upon his companions blaming him he said: "Who would have supposed that rabbits understand Latin?"

Made It Pleasant.

Sophie—Did you have a good time while you were away last summer?

Hortense—Yes; splendid.

Sophie—Were there any young men stopping at your hotel?

Hortense—No; but two or three of the girls smoked cigarettes, and one of them could swear just like a man.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Once and Repeat.

Clara—I hear you have broken with Mr. Waldeigh for the second time? What was the matter?

Blanche—I returned his ring the first time and after we made up he tried to work it off on me again.—Chicago News Record.

To Be Precise.

He—You seem to look upon a proposal of marriage as an everyday affair.

She—Well, no. Hardly that. Every other day. I never give my answer the same day.—Life.

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.
3-26-y

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary, Boston, Mass.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Thoughtful Barber.

"You make your conversations quite interesting," said the customer who was getting a very poor shave.

"How's that?" asked the barber.

"You illustrate it with cuts."—Des Moines Argonaut.

Pure Labor.

Young Man—Does your sister play the piano, Bobby?

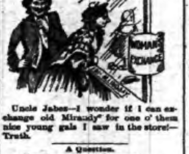
Bobby—Play it! No; but she works it about seven hours a day.—Texas Siftings.

After the Theatricals.

He—I felt like an inspired idiot.

She—Yes, but you didn't look a bit inspired.—Judge.

IT WASN'T THAT KIND.



Uncle Jabez—I wonder if I can exchange old Mirandy for one o' them nice young gals I saw in the store!—Truth.

A Question.

I've often wondered if the man
Who sang with soul ready to burst,
Felt half as bad about his last cigar
As I did—finishing my first.

—Puck.

Took No Chances.

Fond Parent—How dare you match pennies? Don't you know that gambling is a crime?

Bobby—What is gambling, pop?

Fond Parent—Indulging in a game of chance.

Bobby—Not guilty, pop. I have a penny with two heads.—Truth.

Forced Bribery.

Judge—You admit that you bribed the witness, as the other side charge?

Lawyer—Yes, your honor; but—

Judge (severely)—What?

Lawyer—I bribed him to tell the truth. He was going to lie for the other side.—Puck.

Tempting Viands.

Hungry Guest—What have you got to eat?

New Waiter—We have some fine fried fish.

"Is it ready?"

"Oh, yes, it was cooked the day before yesterday."—Texas Siftings.

Entirely Different.

Miss Centment (who has just listened to a proposal)—But I don't love you!

Mr. Hardfact—Great Scott! I don't want you to. I want you to be my wife.—Chicago News Record.

A Matter of Position.

Buckton—I have noticed a funny thing about men who have been taken in.

Kendick—What is it?

Buckton—They are usually very much put out.—Truth.

An Outrage.

"Well, what is your grievance?" said the warden of the penitentiary to the mutinous convict who had been brought before him.

"I have been unjustly humiliated, sir," replied No. 621, his cheek flushing hotly at the recollection. "I'm doing time for embezzling a million dollars, and you've put me in the same cell with a cheap, low-down scrub that's here for counterfeiting nickels!"—Chicago Tribune.

Getting It Down Fine.

Friend—Why don't you marry?

Goodfellow—Can't.

"You have a fine house?"

"Yes."

"And a good income?"

"Yes."

"Then what's the matter?"

"My housekeeper and her servants have formed a union, and if I marry outside of their union they'll strike."—N. Y. Weekly.

Letting His Light Shine.

"And now, my friends," shouted the frontier evangelist, "remember that he is no man at all who never has done anything to bring the sunshine into the hearts of his fellowmen."

"I guess that don't hit me," commented Alkali Bill. "I've let daylight into more fellers'n I can recollect."—Indianapolis Journal.

Mixed.

A Wisconsin school-teacher had among her pupils a little boy named Jakey who was always late in the morning. But one day he managed to get to the schoolhouse before the bell rang, whereupon he said to the teacher: "Vell, to-day I am pefore at last. I always vas pehind pefore."—Harper's Young People.

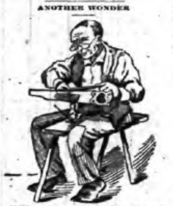
[illegible]

Dr. Gruff (to fashionable patient)—It's merely the same old ailment, my dear madam.

Mrs. Style—Oh, no, doctor; I really am ill now!

Dr. Gruff—H'm! If that really is so I'll have to change the whole course of treatment.—Judge.

ANOTHER WONDER



"William Crosscut, of this city, who was ninety years old on his last birthday, has just commenced cutting a new set of teeth."—Brooklyn Life.

Inventive.

Small Son—I know what I'll be when I grow up. I'm goin' to be a great inventor.

Papa—That's encouraging, certainly. What makes you think you have inventive genius?

Small Son—Why, I wanted to take a screw out, and I couldn't find any screwdriver, and so I unscrewed it out with your razor.—Good News.

Something New.

He hovered around her, and watched her eyes
And hung on each musical word—
And she was aware of his stifled sighs
And the throbs of his heart she heard;
And though nothing was said between these two,
He knew she knew that he knew she knew.

—Madeline S. Bridges, in Puck.

That Would Be Awful.

Mrs. Keedick (indignantly)—Bridget, you must leave this instant! I won't put up another hour with your impudence.

Miss Rafferty—Aisy, now! If yez talks thot way sure an' I won't give yez a ricommindation to show to the nixt garrel.—Judge.

A Sure Sign.

Bings—How much do you owe your livery stable keeper?

Slacks—Nothing. Why?

Bings—Oh! I saw you shaking hands with him and heard you asking after all his family this morning.—Town Topics.

Remark by Some Spiteful Neighbor.

"I think you said Widow Tungay's husband preceded her to the better land some forty years."

"Yes."

"Then she had forty years' gossip to unload on him when she went to meet him. Poor man!"—Chicago Tribune.

Something He Knew About.

Teacher (to the class in chemistry)—What does sea water contain besides the sodium chloride that we have mentioned?

Bobby Smith—Fish, sir.—Boston Globe.

The Relative Ratio.

Gutterby—There are so many ciphers in society these days.

Swinton—Possibly; but you know the proportion of ciphers in 400 is as two to one, and figures won't lie.—Detroit Free Press.

A Cheap Meal.

"I know a place where you can get a dinner for a quarter."

"Really? A good lay out?"

"First-rate, if you give the waiter a half dollar."—Truth.

A Disease.

"What is Scadhunter's business?"

"He puts in his time looking for a rich wife."

"That isn't a business; it's a disease."—Life.

How Did He?

He—Great minds run in the same channel, Miss Effie.

Miss Effie (innocently)—How do you know?—Detroit Free Press.

He Heard the Paper.

First Sportsman—Is your gun loaded?

Second Sportsman—No.

First Sportsman—Then, for Heaven's sake, load it! Do you want it to go off accidentally and kill somebody?—Truth.

No Need to Study It.

Yale—Are you going to study political economy?

Harvard—Heavens, no! Why, my father's worth at least three millions.—Chicago News Record.

These Times.

Wife—Isn't that play you went to last night unusually long?

Husband—Yes. In the second act the star has to put on her gloves.—N. Y. Herald.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1893. No 6.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jeatf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIRS,
Dentist,
23 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jeatf

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 160, or left at Wilbert's shoe store, No. 8 Park Avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 82 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap1y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 28 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. 1117y1

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING.
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner. Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and [illegible] you. I believe in every man running his own business. [illegible] all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 3 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.
9-21-y

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
ab6tf

ESTABLISHED 1806.
C.E. & J.W. RROWN,
(Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
(English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades. 2-13-tf

LIVERY.
REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 96.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar6tf

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 18 Somerset St. 8-18-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
80 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch6tf

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Carey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—26 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Moving. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. [illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobacco, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
1au1y

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!!
No. 20 PARK AVE., near corner of SECOND ST.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.
42m6

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 25½ W. Front street, to 41 West Front, two doors east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4 3 m

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
aug8

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 26 NORTH AVENUE
aug8

C. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N.J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any small volume for Private or Public Circulation.
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building,)
PLAINFIELD N. J.

WITH THE INDIANS.

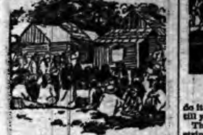
Night Scenes Witnessed by a Traveler in Their Camps.

Antics That Would Not Be Considered Proper in Polite Society—An Underground Gambling Den—A Courtship Without Waste of Words.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

An Indian camp at night is the noisiest spot on earth. However the savage may wrap himself in silent and stoic dignity when in the streets of the crowded city, he is invariably found to be a rollicking, shouting calathumpian in his night drawn camp. If it is not the "Indian german," in which a woman instead of a man leads, and from which "modern civilization" has stolen our "german" bodily, then it is blind man's buff, or story telling, accompanied by peals of laughter, or love-making, or the recounting of exploits, hunts, battles, journeys, tortures, dances, myths, legends, traditions, or private theatricals on a large scale, or games of various sorts, or geography taught from sand pictures.

It is night. The tom-tom sounds. The crowds assemble. What shall be the fun? That will depend upon the locality of different camps. Sometimes it is noisy, sometimes noiseless. Let me describe some of these night scenes in Indian camps as I have witnessed them.



ALL HANDS GAMBLING.

I was riding near the outskirts of one of these camps at evening. The night was falling and nothing was to be heard in the haunts of the Indian reservation save the stirring of wild game under the brake and the twitter of the birds. The horses were given their heads on the trail and we passed by at a smart gallop.

Suddenly the hoofs of my horse rang hollow. It was a cavernous sound and had a ghostly, muffled echo.

"Did you hear that sound?" I asked, turning round in the saddle toward the guide.

"Yes," said the trained scout, whose nice ear detected instantly each different shade of sound, "come back here a bit, sir, we've struck a shack."

"A what?" I queried, reigning my horse round and drawing up to the guide.

"A shack. A gambling hole under the ground. Now be still, please, sir," said Happy Jack.

The scout dismounting kneeled down on the ground over the hollow sounding spot, and after dipping his finger tips through the sand and auscultating it very much as a surgeon would a lung drum called down as he rapped:

"Hello there! ——, open up, old boy."

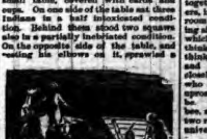
I could hear dim, stifled voices under the ground at the sound of the scout's call, as if they were arguing the advisability of lifting up the door of the "shack."

Finally, however, the earth suddenly started up almost under the very feet of the guide, and a red, swart Indian, with long black hair and a fierce glance, peeped suspiciously out at first, but on recognizing the guide raised the trap to the top.

A light shone up through the opening and cast a dim ray on the soft, spongy, sheep tracked earth.

I looked down through this hole as I sat on my horse and saw by the help of the light a lurid picture.

At the centre of the "shack" was a small table, covered with cards and cups. On one side of the table sat three Indians in a half intoxicated condition. Behind them stood two squaws also in a partially inebriated condition. On the opposite side of the table, and resting his elbows on it, sprawled a huge, desperate-faced man, a professional gambler. He was the best monte player in that country. He was never beaded. He had won $3,500 from the Indians in that very "cache," and had put properties of more Indians in pawn than any other man about the place.



THE UNDERGROUND GAMBLING DEN.

The Indians are intense gamblers. The women watch the men, and will stake their necklaces, leggings, ornaments, and in fact their all, on the play, which is done sometimes with blue wild-plum stones, hieroglyphically charactered, and sometimes with playing bones, but oftener with common cards. Above ground the tom-tom would be sounded, but below the ground the tom-tom was buried.

The thing that moved me most in this dissolute den was the spectacle in the furthest corner of the "shack" of an Indian mother with a papoose in its baby case peeping over her back. There she stood behind an Indian gambler to whom she had joined her life, painted and beaded and half intoxicated. The Indian husband had already put his saddle in pawn to the white professional gambler for his five dollars and it was not five minutes before the white gambler had the saddle and the five dollars both. Then, when they had nothing else left to bet, so intense was their love for gambling, they began to put themselves in pawn, piecemeal, saying: "I'll bet you my hand, my arm, my leg," and at last, when all the capital organs of the body were lost, "I'll bet you my whole body." That means: "I'll put myself in pawn to you as your slave, to serve you as you will for a specified time."

So it was that this Indian mother stood leaning back wearily against the wall, half drunk and dazed with smoke and heat, when all at once the Indian who lived with her said to her in Indian: "Put in the baby for a week. Then pay day will come." It was done. The baby was handed over. That is what civilization has done for the Indian. Its virtues escape him; its vices inoculate him.

One of these vices is gambling. The Indian is kept poor the year round and plucked of every pinfeather. That is the principal reason why he steals not only to reimburse himself for loss, but also to revenge himself upon the white man, who he knows well enough has constantly robbed him.

Gambling as witnessed in an Indian camp at night, is a very different affair from the cache. The tom-tom notifies all that the bouts with fortune are about to begin. During the game the music is steadily kept up. In the intervals between the games the players all [illegible]. Crowds surround the camp. When a man loses heavily the whole camp knows it in a few minutes, and not infrequently the wife rushes in and puts a stop to the stake by dragging her lord away. Gambling is the great winter game. It is often played from morning till night and right on all night long. Cheating and trickery of every sort are all practiced.

The Utes play with two bones in each hand, one of which is wrapped about with a string. The game is to guess the hand that holds the wrapped bone.

The plum stone game is played by the plains Indians. It is only another name for dice throwing. The plum stones are graved with hieroglyphics, and counts are curiously made in a way that often defies computation by white men. The women gamble quite as much as the men, and grow even more excited over the game than their lords. Their game as witnessed by me among the Cheyennes is played with beads, little loops and long horn sticks made of deer foot.

The Indians have all sorts of tricks that were originally invented by them and long afterward learned by the white men. Some of these tricks have even crept into the schoolbooks and arithmetics of civilization. They can be very easily traced to the savage.

An old Comanche trickster, Ma-la-que-tah, said to me: "I will show you a little string trick which, after I show you, you cannot do for a long time, even after you see it done, and when you can do it you will soon forget how to do it till you are shown the second time."

DANCING AROUND THE FIRE.

The trick is to take a little loop of string, catch it on the two fore fingers, bring the thumbs to the fingers and, giving the latter a dexterous turn, suddenly leave the tied loop lying loose on the two fingers. It is one of the simplest and hardest string tricks that can be tried. It was originally devised by the Comanche Indians.

Here is a Cheyenne puzzle in arithmetic which, although placed in a progressive ratio, is not easy to solve. If any white civilian thinks it inconsequential let him try it. The problem is this: An Indian mother had three sons. To one she gave ten apples, to another thirty, and to the third fifty, saying: "Go, my sons, sell all your apples for the same price and bring me back each of you the same amount of money."

How did they do it? Ma-la-que-tah can tell you.

This is the way the plains Indians split buffalo hide.

"What is the half of twelve?" Everybody says "six," of course.

Ma-la-que-tah says seven. Of course it is a trick, but how possibly? The Indians simply take the numeral XII. and draw a line through one-half of it, or fold one-half back on paper, and say: "See? VII.; the half of twelve is seven." The halved top of the numeral tells the story.

Curious tricks like these serve to while away the night.

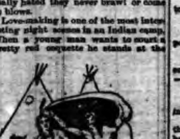
Geography is taught by rude tracings in the sand. I saw an old Indian teaching a little Indian boy the whole country from the Mississippi to the Pacific coast by river and railroads and large towns drawn in earth.

But dancing with the Indians, as with us, is the main pastime of the nocturnal hours. For these dances both men and women robe themselves in their best attire and deck their hair, limbs and bodies in beadwork of all devices and descriptions. The dances are as many as the dancers. A few only it fell to my lot to witness.

The "sign dance" is a very clever and curious one. A pretty woman leads a man into the room set apart for the purpose. This is one of two tepees thrown together. In one are the tom-tom beaters, in the other the dancers. In this room the couple begin to dance, making signs to each other, the meaning of which may be: "Well, what do you think of me? Do you like me? Do you think me pretty? How do I affect you?" and so on, the signs being all closely watched by the spectators, who applaud, giggle, chuckle or laugh uproariously by turns as the case may be. Such a dance is a questioning bee, a collision of wits on the part of two really facetious Indians. Wit is a universal trait of the savage. Some white men drink. All Indians drink. Some white men are cunning. All Indians are cunning. Some white men are humorous. All Indians are witty. Dry wit, with a proverbial philosophy in it which would have delighted the soul of Tupper, is indigenous to the Indians. The Indian is the finest epigrammatist on earth. His sentences are pithy and sententious because short—never long and involved. A book of Indian wit and wisdom would have an enormous sale and would reveal the very core of his thought on a typical scale.

I saw one of these women, who was a true type of an Indian flirt. She was sweet, saucy, subtle, seductive. She had the art of keeping in stock constantly about her a score of bucks, each one of whom flattered himself that he and he alone was the special object of her admiration. Every tribe has had its belle, Pasquita for the Modocs, Ur-ska-te-na for the Navajos, Mini-haha for the Dacotas, Romona for the neighboring bands. These belles have their foes among Indian women, but however cordially hated they never brawl or come to blows.

Love-making is one of the most interesting night scenes in an Indian camp. When a young man wants to court a pretty red coquette he stands at the door of his lodge on a bright day and flashes a ray of light from his sun glass on the face of his sweetheart far away.



INDIAN LOVE-MAKING.

She sees the ray as it falls on her and follows in the direction whence it is thrown, right or left. She understands the secret of these flashlights. Soon the lovers meet, each under a blanket. Not a word, not a salutation is exchanged. They stand near each other for a time and then retire, only to repeat the affair day after day. At last upon some favorable night the Indian youth visits the door of her lodge. She comes out and sits down on the ground beside him. Still no word is spoken. At last she arises from the ground. He also rises, and, standing before her, throws his blanket over both of them. No sooner has he done so than she doffs her blanket, letting it fall upon the ground, which is the admission on her part that she loves him, and does him [illegible] her future lord and master.

Every Indian camp at night is full of love dramas, with wooings as sweet, lips as willing, embraces as fond, loves as romantic, hearts as true and elopements as daring and desperate as ever graced a Spanish court.

The old people come together with their friends and hold a council. "How many ponies can he pay for her?" has a good deal to do with the eligibility of the suitor. That night he brings his articles of dowry to the door of his fiancee. If they are still there next morning he is rejected; if not, accepted.

MILLER HAGEMAN.

A TIME TO LAUGH.

Not Very Bad Pronunciation Versus His Very Bad Manners.

You know how it grates on your finer sensibilities to be laughed at to your face, especially when the laugh is of the harsh, unpolished type. And you know one or more persons who are possessed of such a laugh and such a disposition to use it. Well, there is such a person in this town. He is a very well-educated man, too, and is especially good in the languages. Not long ago he was talking to a mild-mannered little woman who had asked him a question about a French sentence. He asked her to repeat it. She did so.

"Ha! ha!" he laughed. "Ha! ha! Haw! haw! haw!" and the little woman blushed.

"What is it?" she asked, very much embarrassed.

"Haw! haw!—I—haw! haw!—was laughing—haw! haw!—at your very bad—haw! haw!—pronunciation—haw! haw!"

"Haw! haw! haw!" she interrupted, suddenly. "Haw! haw! Ha! ha! ha! ha!" and she kept it up as loud as she could until he began to get red in the face and feel embarrassed himself.

"What is it?" he exclaimed, when she gave him the chance.

"Haw! haw!" she responded, uproariously. "I was—haw! haw!—laughing—haw! haw!—at your—haw! haw!—very bad—haw! haw!—manners—haw! haw! Good morning!" and she turned her back on him and hasn't spoken to him since.—Detroit Free Press.

To Clean Point Lace.

Real point lace must, on no account, be ironed; it should be pinned on a board covered with flannel, while still quite wet. Use plenty of pins, choosing very small ones for fine lace, and taking great care to keep the pattern true and even, pinning every part of it out separately. If the lace dries before the process is finished, dampen it with a sponge. For lengths of lace edgings or trimmings, a wooden cylinder should be employed, and the lace pinned around it, keeping the bulk of it folded up in a damp cloth, and uncovering it gradually, as required. Allow the lace to dry thoroughly before taking it off the board. Machine-made lace may be pulled out with the fingers, pressed with an iron while still damp, pulled again crosswise and ironed.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Jaysmith—Cubbage asked me to dine with him yesterday, and I tell you I surprised him.

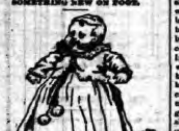
Bunting—You refused, eh?—Truth.

Hoarding a Pleasure.

Little Ethel—Why don't you get a pair of mittens for your dollie?

Little Dot—'Cause then I can't pretend it's cold that makes her fingers stiff.—Good News.

SOMETHING NEW ON FOOT.



—Judge.

A Critical Condition.

"I hear your husband is very sick, Aunt Dinah."

"Yes'm."

"Nothing serious, I hope. His condition is not critical?"

"Critical! I should say he was. He ain't satisfied with nuffin."—Texas Siftings.

Complaint to Mr. Wanamaker.

Saddie—I don't see how I'm ever going to use those new Columbian postage stamps.

Ma—How's that?

Saddie—Just look at one of them and then look at the size of my mouth.—Chicago News.

An Exception.

Native—See that young man over there? He has saved sixteen persons from drowning. He plays the flute, too.

Victor—Oh, well, a man who has saved sixteen lives has a right to play a flute.—N. Y. Weekly.

One Good Effect Already.

Kiljordan—Well, old boy, have you sworn off from any of your old habits this year?

Updegraff—Yes. Quit chewing tobacco. Couldn't keep that up and lick the new Columbian stamps, too.—Chicago Tribune.

An Unintentional Recommendation.

He—I want you to introduce me to Miss Boreby.

She—Oh, no! Don't. She's awfully dull—never says a word.

He—What a wife she'd make! I want to meet her more than ever!—Judge.

Just as Good as New.

Jasso—Honesty should be the best policy.

Rodd—Why?

Jasso—Because it hasn't been used enough to make it the worse for wear.—Boston Globe.

A Reproof.

"I am dripping wet," said the mackintosh, as it came in and shook itself.

"You ought not to complain," replied the gold watch, "you are not soaked half so much as I am."—Clothier and Furnisher.

No Gun Wanted.

Crammer—When Vokes goes hunting he never takes a gun with him.

Gilleland—Well, how does he manage?

Crammer—He gets loaded himself.—Truth.

The Main Point.

"You shouldn't argue with mamma," said Mrs. Witherup. "You got her all wound up this morning."

"Really?" said Witherup, eagerly. "Did she go?"—Truth.

No Time for Mere Folly.

Johnson—Why don't you become engaged?

Smith—Because I'm in earnest in the desire to get married.—Chicago News Record.

Not Original.

Molly—Don't you think Ted is awfully witty?

Jack—Humph! I could be witty if I had Ted's memory.—Chicago News Record.

What He Wanted.

"I am afraid you are greedy," said Walter's father at dinner.

"No, I'm not greedy," said Walter. "I only want all I want."—Harper's Young People.

Life's Changes.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
—Judge.

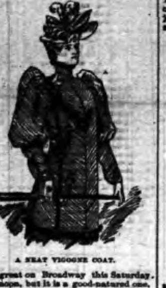
THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

What the Gay Thoroughfares on Crowded Streets Look Like.

The Fad for Purple Still On—A Startling Street Gown—Evening Gowns, Bonnets and Capes—Revival of Summer—Pretty Things for Pretty Women.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

What a gay people we are these bright winter afternoons! How we love to join the Broadway promenaders and saunter along with the rest, watching the brilliant costumes and stopping at the bright shop windows to look at the novelties. Every one has lost the worried air and relaxed the hurried step so prevalent at Christmas time, and the world again looks careless and happy and easy going. The crowd is very great on Broadway this Saturday afternoon, but it is a good-natured one, and so everything gets along smoothly.

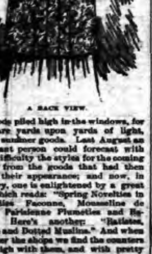


A NEAT VIGOGNE COAT.

The first thing we notice about it is the favorite purple veil. One would think that by this time the bright green one, which has been introduced, would supersede the purple, but it has not done so thus far. Every other woman has an eminence veil over her black hat, and as far down the thoroughfares as one can see there are folds after folds of the purple veiling. I even saw it combined with a green and brown costume—brown cloth, with narrow edgings of very dark rich green velvet, with brown fur between, long mink cape, and brown and green hat with the ubiquitous veil surmounting all.

Then I saw it again—and in connection with a costume that I must describe to you in detail, that you may know just how the lady looked. When I have finished, you may decide for yourself whether she looked well or not. I'll commence with the skirt, which was a pale blue gray cloth, a sort of stone color, edged with narrow rows of purple velvet. Her Russian blouse was trimmed with the same, and had two broad tabs of velvet in front, hanging loosely. Over the blouse, but not covering it, was a long cape of black velvet made up of four divisions—two long ones and two short ones. The hat was black, with wings and tips, adorned, it is needless to say, with a purple veil. At the back, presumably trimming the hat, but actually lying low on the lady's coiled hair, were deep pink velvet roses. In one hand she carried a black muff with more roses, and at the left of her black cape, near her shoulder, lay a bunch of pink carnations. Not a bit cared she for the eyes that were turned upon her. Walking easily with the gentleman at her side, she sauntered slowly along, so slowly, indeed, that one wondered whether it was not an accommodation on her part to allow the passers-by full opportunity to note her appearance.

But what's the matter with all the winter styles? Surely the shopkeepers must be tired of seeing the heavy winter goods piled high in the windows, for there are yards upon yards of light, dainty summer goods. Last August an observant person could forecast with little difficulty the styles for the coming winter from the goods that had then made their appearance; and now, in January, one is enlightened by a great sign which reads: "Spring Novelties in Organdies Faconne, Mousseline de l'Inde, Parisienne Plumeties and Batiste." Here's another: "Batistes, Lawns and Dotted Muslins." And when we enter the shops we find the counters piled high with them, and with pretty challies as well. Truly this is a queer country. The seasons are changing, they say, and we are doing our best to help them along. But it pays to invest in these goods now, for the daintiest of them costs but fifty-two cents per yard, and some other beautiful ones but forty-two. Whereas last summer we had the greatest difficulty in getting them at any price a few weeks after the season had fairly opened.



A BACK VIEW.

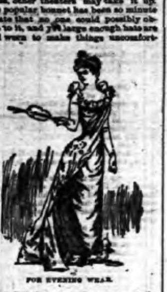
But I hope you still feel some slight interest in winter gowns, for I want to tell you about the latest for evening wear. In almost every one made gauze cuts a very prominent figure, and if you have an old figured silk, make it up with one of the bright new gauzes; you'll never recognize the old gown, I assure you. Some most wonderful effects can be secured from their combining. For instance, I saw a red and green shot silk, made with overdress of black gauze thickly besprinkled with yellow blossoms. Then there was a red silk with golden flowers upon it and black gauze over, run with a satin stripe. It is quite interesting to puzzle the combinations out, for when they are drawn closely together it is almost impossible to tell whether the stripe is on the silk beneath and the flowers above, or vice versa. And the whole forms an extremely brilliant effect, so desirable these gay months.

Then so many evening gowns have their colors brought out and accentuated by velvet sleeves of a trifle deeper shade than is the color of the flower in your silk or the thread running through it, or the trimming edging it. The velvet should be of the same color in your costume, but always of a deeper tint.

Two beautiful gowns were spread before me as I came pleading for something new by my old friend, the maker of gowns. She smiled at the "something new" in a sort of [illegible] fashion, but [illegible] by picking up two [illegible] green. [illegible] and bottom hung soft drapings of white gauze, caught in loose knots at short intervals; the fur and gauze were again combined in the low bodice with beautiful effect.

The second, of heavy old-rose satin, cut princess, had a tunic over of old-rose brocade with white design. This tunic was very original, being plaited into the left shoulder in three large folds, then brought loosely across the front, falling over the right hip and down the back in a long full train. The dress had rich ivory-white feather trimming at foot and neck, interspersed with velvet bows.

It looks as if evening bonnets would soon be regarded with complete disfavor, even by the feminine world. Now that the Theater of Arts and Letters has so effectually succeeded in removing the bonnet during the performances, other theaters may take it up. The popular bonnet has been so minute of late that no one could possibly object to it, and yet large enough hats are still worn to make things uncomfortable.



FOR EVENING WEAR.

But the women are very easily turning their thoughts in another direction and putting all their pretty geegaws in their hair. And that theater presents a pretty spectacle every evening as one gazes at the fanciful arrangements. It will, no doubt, soon become a fad, and then the bonnet will get but scanty attention. Just now, however, one made of golden spangles, closely strung, is the proper thing, with a small bunch of black tips in front and black velvet strings.

The evening cloak grows no less assertive and magnificent. In fact, there is something almost insolent in its manner of appearing. Here, for example, is a long cape of pale blue brocade, very thickly and heavily embroidered. It is lined with rose silk, and edged down the front with the thickest white feather trimming one can possibly find. The shoulders have the queerest puffs, standing straight out from the wrap, and above them is a great ruche of blue, so large that it rests upon the shoulder puffs in its way around. Then above this ruche is another band of the feather trimming. It is difficult to get into the garment, there is so much about the neck. The feathers reach fully to the ears, and threaten to prevent one's vision when the wind blows fiercely.

But I saw one sensible coat the other day, and it was quite a relief to look upon it, with the quiet dark blue vigogne neatly bordered with black silk chenille trimming. Pretty triple cord ornaments fastened it at the side, where it opened, and also hung from the tight-fitting undersleeve. It had moderately puffed shoulders and plain high collar.

EVA A. SCHUBERT.

Another Yarn About Benjamin.

Benjamin Franklin was dining with a small party of gentlemen, when one of them said:

"Here are three nationalities represented. I am French, my friend here is English and Mr. Franklin is American. Let each propose a toast."

The Englishman arose and in the tone of a Briton bold, said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to the nations of the earth."

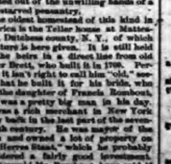
The Frenchman was rather taken back at this but he proposed: "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world."

Franklin then rose, and with an air of quaint modesty said: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua of America, who commanded the sun and the moon to stand still—and they stood still."—Spare Moments.

AN OLD HOMESTEAD.

The Teller Mansion at Matteawan, N. Y., Built in 1709.

People go over to Europe and admire the old cathedrals there and marvel at the magnificent piles of architecture, saying the while that America has nothing to compare with them, quite forgetting the old Spanish church at St. Augustine, Fla. But old cathedrals, however charming to the antiquary, haven't the human interest that an old homestead has, in which generation after generation of children have been born, have passed through the perils of teething, of croup and all other midnight alarms, have had scarlet fever and got well, have had diphtheria for which the white streamer has fluttered from the door-handle and a mother's heart has broken; a house where little boys have played around in summer with stubbed toes or have built snow forts in winter; have fought with their brothers and other boys; have grown up into the squawky hobbledehoy period; have married and gone away; a house which has had happy brides, happy mothers and mourning widows, and which still offers a cozy, warm shelter to its own—this is an antiquity far more interesting than any cold-footed old cathedral which was ever built with the money twisted out of the unwilling hands of a half-starved peasantry.



THE TELLER MANSION, MATTEAWAN, N. Y.

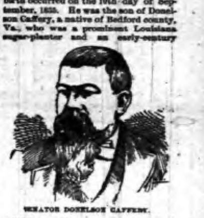
The oldest homestead of this kind in America is the Teller house at Matteawan, Dutchess county, N. Y., of which a picture is here given. It is still held by the heirs in a direct line from old Roger Brett, who built it in 1709. Perhaps it isn't right to call him "old," seeing that he built it for his bride, who was the daughter of Francis Rombout, who was a pretty big man in his day. He was a rich merchant in New York away back in the last part of the seventeenth century. He was mayor of the town and owned a lot of property on "De Heeren Staat," which he probably considered a fairly good investment. What would Mr. Rombout have said if he could have foreseen that the "Heeren Staat" was to be the Broadway of modern New York, whereon one front foot is worth what would have been a fortune in those days? This Francis Rombout, whose only daughter married Roger Brett, was the man who, with Giulian Ver Planck, secured from his Christian majesty, King James II., a patent for 16,000 acres of land extending as far north as Poughkeepsie.

In those days Thomas Dongan was the admiral of New York. Some seventy years after, about when modern built houses would be tumbling down, this homestead was occupied by Robert Brett's son-in-law, who was quartermaster for a pestiferous rebel named George Washington. Salt and provisions were stored in its cellars, and ragged continental soldiers slept in rows on the floors of its spacious chambers. The old mansion was the ancestral home of Isaac Teller and his sister, Mrs. R. B. Van Kleeck. It is now owned by Mrs. Robert Fulton Crary, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and is in an excellent state of preservation, although it is [illegible] years old.

DONELSON CAFFERY.

Something About the New Senator from Louisiana.

Donelson Caffery, whom Gov. Foster, of Louisiana, has appointed United States senator to take the seat made vacant by the death of Gen. Randall L. Gibson, like the governor, was born and reared in St. Mary's parish. His birth occurred on the 10th day of September, 1835. He was the son of Donelson Caffery, a native of Bedford county, Va., who was a prominent Louisiana sugar-planter and an early-century politician, and a nephew of the wife of President Jackson. He resided for some years at Hermitage before going south. Young Caffery's mother, Miss Murphy, was the sister of the mother of Gov. Foster, who is therefore Senator Caffery's cousin. Mr. Caffery was an aggressive factor in the election of Gov. Foster, and one of the most unyielding and sturdy opponents of the lottery in the campaign which saw its death in Louisiana.



SENATOR DONELSON CAFFERY.

Cows Kept on Housetops.

Speaking of cows, the funniest thing I have yet discovered in their management by our southern cousins is the Peruvian fashion of keeping them on top of the house. The big rambling casas of Lima have adobe roofs, flat as a board floor, and there are hundreds of them in the suburbs of that proud old city which serve the purposes of a barnyard. The mules and horses are housed in the lower rooms of the house—for in Spanish America it is not generally the fashion for humans to inhabit the ground floor—while on top fowls, pigs and goats are raised, and the cow spends her days there, having been carried up when a calf.

A Conditional Pardon.

"Mr. Dusenberry," said the sick man to his neighbor, whom he had called to the side of what he supposed was his deathbed, "we have had much difficulty in the past and have not been on speaking terms. I believe I am now about to die and I have sent for you that we may settle our differences and be friends before I go."

"Nothing would give me greater pleasure than a reconciliation," replied Mr. Dusenberry, as he took the hand of the dying man.

"But remember," said the invalid in a gradually sinking voice, "if I get well the thing goes on just as it did before."—Brooklyn Life.

Supplying a Long-Felt Want.

De Lamb—Hello, Wolf. Still in the clothing business?

Wolf—Yes. I'm at the old stand, keeping fit parlors.

De Lamb—Keeping what parlors?

Wolf—Fit parlors. I go to the fashionable tailors and buy at half-price the suits made for dudes and refused because they fit.—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly.

Apt to Be So.

Mrs. Hicks—I have noticed a curious thing about your attending these banquets.

Hicks—What?

Mrs. Hicks—When they put you down for a toast that is about all your stomach will stand next morning.—N. Y. Herald.

How She Knew.

Ella—How could you tell that your husband lost money at the races to-day, when he said nothing about it?

Stella—I know he did, because when he came home he began talking about the advantages of saving money.—Texas Siftings.

Friendly Overtures.

Neighbor's Boy (looking through the fence)—My father's a heap bigger man than your'n!

New Boy (with cold disdain)—Size hain't nothin'! When my father coughs you can hear him half a mile!—Chicago Tribune.

Too Much of a Good Thing.

Jimson—What became of that man who had twenty-seven medals for saving people from drowning?

Dock Worker—He fell in one day when he had them all on, and the weight of 'em sunk him.—N. Y. Weekly.

Trying Hard.

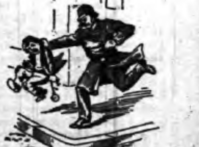
"I wish you would pay a little attention to what I am saying, sir," roared an irate lawyer to an exasperating witness.

"Well, I am paying as little as I can," was the calm reply.—Boston Globe.

A Common Occurrence.

"Margaret" was the way her name
Appeared in her youthful copy-books neat;
In society columns we see the same
Girl figures quite gayly as "Marguerite."
—Chicago News Record.

GOING TOO FAR WITH IT.



Kiddy McNabb—But I only took it in a joke, sir!

Officer Kehogan (who has chased him six blocks)—Yis; but there's such a thing as carrying a joke too far.—Puck.

Modern Commerce.

Clerk—Lady in front caught stealing goods. What shall we do?

Head of Firm—How is she dressed?

"Furs and diamonds."

"Beg her pardon and ask if we shall send the bill to her house."—Detroit Tribune.

The Queen's Retort.

"I hope Yule have a merry Christmas," remarked Raleigh to Queen Elizabeth.

"Thanks, Walter," replied the queen. "But if that is a joke you must write it out to have it appreciated."—Judge.

Lunch Room Repartee.

Freshly (to pretty waitress)—What's your name, my dear?

Pretty Waitress—Pearl, sir.

Freshly—Ah, the Pearl of great price!

Rates of Advertising

SPACE	WEEKS 1	2	3	MONTHS 1	2	3	6	12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$6.00	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	8.00	13.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	3.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	15.00	20.00	30.00
5 in.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	[illegible]
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	30.00	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	12.00	18.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	[illegible]	140.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

OUR COUNTRY.

The Territorial expanse of this country, its resources and possibilities, furnish food for inspiring thought.

Stretching from Arctic rigidness to tropical warmth, and in an unbroken line between the mightiest of oceans, it is the grandest of governed domains on the face of the earth. None other can compare with it.

And when, in connection with the magnificence of extent, its boundless resources of soil, forests, mines and waters, and its superior commercial and industrial advantages are considered, the future growth of the population, wealth, and national renown of our country cannot be overestimated. It baffles calculation.

The American Union is now composed of over forty sovereign States, and among them two are within themselves grand empires. Take for instance California, with an area of 158,360 square miles, or equal to the combined total area of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Connecticut. A single State which, if transplanted to the Atlantic coast-line, would reach from Boston to Savannah. Then again there is Texas, a State of even larger dimensions, having an area of 265,780 square miles, and unsurpassed productiveness.

Our country is indeed a glorious land.

It is patriotic duty to utilize every enlightened means to make permanent general public prosperity, to develope the gains of legitimate industry and enterprise, to guard the rights of all the people against unjust exactions, and to augment the influence of free and honest representative government.

COMMENDABLE.

The nomination of Circuit Judge Howell E. Jackson, of Tennessee, to fill the vacant place of Justice Lamar on the bench of the United States Supreme Court, is worthy of approval and reflects honor upon President Harrison.

The selection of Judge Jackson was in every particular appropriate action. He belongs to the South, is a life-long Democrat, a legal gentleman of distinguished ability, an upright Judge, and a citizen whose personal character stands unblemished. President Cleveland could not have done better, and President Harrison exhibiting as he has in this instance non-partisan liberality certainly deserves and will receive the thanks of all impartial men.

Whatever and whoever contributes to keep the Judiciary, both National and State, unsullied, efficient and above political intrigue, advances the public welfare.

Alluding to the nomination of Judge Jackson, the Philadelphia Record says:

"It will be hailed as an earnest that the bitterness of partisan strife is past, and as a harbinger of an era of political good feeling. In thus setting aside considerations of mere party advantage, and refusing to listen to the blandishments of the spoils-mongers, Mr. Harrison has not only done the State good service, but has also furnished an exemplar which future Chief Magistrates may follow with honor to themselves and with advantage to the public interest."

GOV. WERTS.

The people of New Jersey are rejoicing over the attitude taken by Gov. Werts against the designing politicians, who find in the Chief Executive a man of iron will; one who is of the people and for the people. The race track men are afraid of him and so are those politicians who care only for themselves and their followers and not for the people who elected Werts to the Gubernatorial chair. Let him go on in the way he has started, and the politicians will find that they have got no tool to deal with.

The race track owners are having trouble with their proposed legislation. It was first intended to introduce a measure which would put the licensing of race tracks in the control of the Board of Freeholders in each county, but the Linden people object to this because they are positive they could not secure a license from the Union County Freeholders. Guttenburg people do not particularly care whether a bill is passed or not. They feel secure in their position, believing that they can race every day in the year with the "protection" they have in Hudson county. The Gloucester magnate, Thompson, says he is satisfied if the others are. He has made a fortune out of the business, and is content to stop if the others are compelled to. The prospects are, therefore, that the Legislature will not be compelled to worry over the case.

Governor Werts has finally decided not to remove his residence to Trenton, having purchased a home in Jersey City last fall and only recently moved into it. It is his present purpose upon the completion of his term of office to return to practice law in Hudson county. He will be in Trenton five days of the week during the session of the Legislature, and during the balance of the year will be there three or four days each week.

It is hinted that Lay Judge and ex-postmaster James E. Wiley is to be the next Postmaster at Elizabeth. Well, if that is so, then will justice be done, for Mr. Wiley made one of the best postmasters Elizabeth ever saw when he served as such under Mr. Cleveland's previous administration.

Gov. Werts will confer a favor upon the citizens of Union County by re-appointing Judge McCormick.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Strong Sentiment in Favor of Hawaii's Annexation.

HARRISON MUST HEAR BOTH SIDES.

Senator Hill's Motion to Proceed to Consideration of the Bill for Repeal of the Sherman Silver Purchasing Act Defeated—Special Panama Investigating Committee Begins Operations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—No information of a definite character can be expected concerning the Hawaiian question until after the conference to-day between the Annexation Commissioners and the Secretary of State.

It is expected that the Secretary of State will announce to-day the date for the presentation of the commission to the President.

This will probably take place after to-morrow, because the Administration desires to wait until after that date to hear once more from Minister Stevens.

The next steamer from Honolulu is due at San Francisco on Feb. 8, and it is expected to bring despatches from the United States Minister telling of the condition of things in the islands after the departure of the annexation commissioners, and also the acts of the provisional government.

Of course these despatches will be telegraphed at once from San Francisco and will be of much importance in the conference.

The Commissioners have now come to the conclusion that a decision cannot be reached until after Feb. 15.

The President has decided that he must hear both sides of the case, and the Secretary of State will wait the arrival of the Queen's special messenger, Mr. Neuman, who is also due in San Francisco on Feb. 8.

The Queen, after being dethroned, decided to send to the United States her own messenger, and let him bring in person her protest to the President. The provisional government had appointed her minister, Dr. Mott Smith, its minister, and so she was without a representative here.

Mr. Neuman has been close to the Queen during the last year or so, and is able to plead her cause.

He is expected to arrive in Washington about Feb. 12, and, if he desires it, Dr. Mott Smith will present him to the Secretary of State, but more than this the Hawaiian Minister will not act in the ex-Queen's service.

The attitude of the Administration, which first favored a protectorate government, since the arrival of the Hawaiian Commissioners has changed to one favoring immediate annexation.

President Harrison has always looked upon a protectorate as merely a preliminary step toward annexation. The expressions of opinion in Congress have made it evident that, despite the brief time remaining between now and March 4, it may be easily possible to pass the bill providing for annexation.

Not since the controversy with Chili has there been so marked an absence of merely partisan feeling upon any subject as that of the acquisition of the Sandwich Islands. This concurrence of opinion has removed the chief objection to the immediate annexation of the islands, in so far as it has seemed to make it possible to pass the requisite bill through both branches of Congress within the next four weeks.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senator Hill's Motion Defeated—Filibustering in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, began filibustering motions in the House, but after a long fight, found himself in a hopeless minority, and was obliged to surrender. Later, however, Mr. Kilgore and Mr. Burroughs succeeded in preventing action on any measure before adjournment.

The proceedings of the Senate were of a character at once interesting and important. The junior Senator from New York, Mr. Hill, made the motion of which he had given notice last Friday—to proceed to the consideration of the bill to repeal the Sherman Silver Purchase Act.

In support of the motion he delivered a carefully prepared speech in which he declared himself unconditionally a friend of free bimetallic coinage.

The speech received unusual attention from Senators, from Members who had come over from the House to hear it, and from a large audience in the galleries, but the motion was defeated by nearly a two-thirds majority—the vote being: Yeas, 23; nays 42.

Afterwards the Quarantine bill was taken up and passed without a division; also a bill for the payment out of the Treasury of local taxes on lands held by Indians in severalty.

Our Panama Inquiry Begun.

WASHINGTON, Feb 7.—In the Panama Canal investigation by the special House committee, begun yesterday, Mr. Coine, of Brooklyn, stated that the stock had been sold in this country for $290 per share, while the regular market price was but $140, this being done in order to get control of the railroad, the canal company owning nearly all the road stock. Attorneys' fees had been paid to Col. Ingersoll, $5,000, and Shellabarger & Wilson, $25,000 for appearing before Congressional committees. He said that no bribing had been done. The investigation will be continued to-morrow.

Judge Jackson's Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Senate Judiciary Committee took up the nomination of Judge Jackson, but its consideration was postponed until next Monday on account of objections made by Democratic members.

MR. BLAINE'S ESTATE.

The Ex-Secretary's Entire Property Valued at About $1,000,000.

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 8.—Several prominent people at the State House are in a movement to have the Legislature give a lot on the State grounds as a burial place for the remains of ex-Secretary Blaine, and perhaps erect a memorial stone. There is already one tomb upon the grounds, that of the late Governor Lincoln.

Mr. Blaine's will will be filed at the meeting of the Probate Court one week from yesterday.

It is understood that the will is short and gives all the estate unreservedly to Mrs. Blaine, who is made sole executrix.

The entire property is valued at about $1,000,000. The residence in this city is valued at $10,000. It will always remain in the possession of the Blaine family and will not be rented.

The relatives of the family think that Mrs. Blaine will spend the coming season in Europe, and that Miss Hattie, the youngest daughter, will accompany her.

CONNECTICUT'S LEGISLATURE.

Proceedings in Senate—Judges Elected in the House.

HARTFORD, Feb. 8.—The Senate debated for a long time the bill conferring criminal jurisdiction upon the District Court of Waterbury, and passed it by a unanimous vote. It was favored by Senators Root, Pierce and Holden, and objected to by Senators Fox and Cleveland.

The House elected Judges as follows: John J. Ross, judge, and Patrick Kane, deputy judge, of the City Court of Bridgeport; R. J. Walsh and Howard J. Curtis, judges of the Court of Common Pleas for Fairfield county; Hobert L. Hotchkiss and John R. Studley, judges of the Court of Common Pleas for New Haven county.

Bills were introduced in favor of increasing the pay of letter carriers to $1,200 a year after three years' service, limiting the business of any life insurance company to $1,000,000 in force on lives, and permitting the city of New London to issue bonds.

62 DEGREES BELOW ZERO.

Great Suffering in the Northwest from the Blizzard Weather.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 8.—The worst cold is reported in the Judith cattle country, where the thermometer dropped to 62 below zero, and did not get higher than 30 below for four days.

Never before in the history of the weather bureau in Montana has such severe weather prevailed, nor have there been so many continuous days in which the temperature kept below zero. There is about three feet of snow on the level in the valleys.

All trains are delayed, and the Great Northern has not had a through train in on time in over a week.

Great distress and suffering are reported from all points.

At Last of a.

Visitor—Where is the murderer's row?

Keeper—Follow your nose and you will come to it. You will find it by the scent of flowers.—Town Topics.

[illegible]

DEFIES FEDERAL COURTS

Gov. Tillman's Action in Regard to Railroad Taxes.

STRICT INSTRUCTIONS TO SHERIFFS.

Ordered to Go Ahead With the Executions—Trains Run Over a Road in the Hands of a Receiver Appointed by the United States Court Attached—Cars Chained to the Tracks.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 8.—Gov. Tillman has thrown down the gauntlet and bidden defiance to the United States Court, and Judge Simonton, representing Uncle Sam, has accepted the challenge.

Sheriffs throughout the State, acting under instructions from Gov. Tillman in a secret circular recently issued, have levied upon the rolling stocks of railroads which have not paid the taxes alleged to be due the State.

In all these cases the railroads have paid the taxes based on the original assessments. The county auditors, however, raised these assessments, it is claimed, arbitrarily and illegally, and Judge Simonton, of the United States Court, has so decided.

Gov. Tillman's orders to the treasurers and sheriffs are to go ahead with the executions peremptorily.

In some instances the sheriffs have chained the cars to the track, thus blocking the proper operation of the roads and delaying valuable freights in transit, amounting in value to several times the taxes for which the levies have been made, and which were declared by the courts in 1892 to be illegal.

Two days ago a freight train on the South Carolina railroad was seized at Aiken and chained to the track. The amount of taxes claimed by the State is not over $1,000.

The road is in the hands of D. F. Chamberlain, receiver, who was appointed by the United States Court.

The receiver's petition to the court, filed yesterday, claims that the taxes, according to legal assessment, have been paid, but the balance claimed by the State, about $8,000, is illegal and has been so declared by the court; that the seizure and sale of the property would put a stop to the business of the road; that the entire property is in possession and under control of the court, and the court should protect its property and not permit the exaction of the illegal tax.

Upon hearing the petition, Judge Simonton signed an order that M. C. Mitchell and M. V. Tyler—treasurer and sheriff of Aiken county—show cause at Charleston, on Feb. 20, why they should not be enjoined from interfering with the road and punished for contempt of court. A temporary injunction is granted restraining the officials from levying upon the property in question.

Similar writs were issued in the suit of the Richmond & Danville railroad, citing the sheriffs and treasurers of Abbeville, Anderson and Newberry counties for contempt.

An order was issued releasing all trains that have been tied up and restraining sheriffs from further interference with the property.

This order was served upon the sheriffs to-day by United States marshals. Despatches from several points this morning state that the sheriffs are paying no attention to the orders.

When Gov. Tillman learned of Judge Simonton's orders he called a conference with his attorney-general, the assistants and Judges Samuel and Melton. As a result of this council of war Gov. Tillman has telegraphed the following instructions to the sheriffs of the State:

"Where the amount of taxes in executions for 1891 and 1892 is less than $2,000 hold property to satisfy execution unless it is taken from you by force. Then submit to arrest. We will take the case to the United States Supreme Court on habeas corpus proceedings and make this Federal Judge obey the decrees of this Court."

IN CONGRESS.

Progress of the House on the Legislative Appropriation Bill—Senate Doings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The House made fair progress with one of the great appropriation bills. The Legislative bill appropriates upwards of $21,300,000. Aside from a review of the condition of the Treasury by Messrs. Dingley and Dockery—divergent views—and an attack on the Civil Service law by Mr. De Armond, the proceedings were uninteresting.

Senator Chandler managed to give a political twist to the debate in the Senate on the Automatic Coupler bill.

He brought up a resolution in the National Democratic platform which denounced the Republican party and the Republican Senate for not having provided legislation for the protection of railroad employes, and he insisted that the position of so many Democratic Senators against the bill was inconsistent with their party fealty.

He Howled Too Soon.

Mother—Johnnie, why are you crying? I'm only going to be away a week, and your papa will be home with you.

Johnnie—No, he won't; he's going to Rome.

"Going to Rome. Why, child, what do you mean?"

"I heard him say that he would make Rome howl when you left."

"Oh, indeed! Well, I won't leave you, Johnnie."—Texas Siftings.

Rather Liked It.

Aunty—Where are you going now, pet?

Little Pet—Down to the dentist's.

"Dear me! Don't you hate it?"

"No'm. I go twice a week with the governess. I like it."

"But doesn't the dentist hurt you?"

"No'm. 'Tain't my teeth he fixes. It's the governess'."—Good News.

Samson's Strength.

Little Dot—That is a picture of Samson. Hasn't he awful long hair?

Little Dick—That's wot made him strong.

Little Dot—Why?

Little Dick—I don't know, but I guess it's cause he never went to a barber shop. Papa says barbers talks folks half to death.—Good News.

Mutually Agreeable.

Mr. Borey—Oh, how I should love to seek the sunny south in this chill weather.

Miss Dibbsey (upon whom he has been calling regularly)—Oh, how I should love to have you.—Chicago News Record.

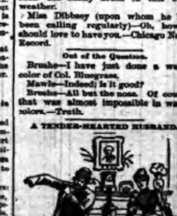
Out of the Question.

Brushe—I have just done a water color of Col. Bluegrass.

Mawle—Indeed; is it good?

Brushe—All but the nose. Of course that was almost impossible in water colors.—Truth.

A TENDER-HEARTED HUSBAND.



Husband—I think I'll go out for a little walk, my dear.

Wife (wrathfully)—I don't see how you can stand there and see your wife struggling with a fire that simply won't burn.

Husband—I can't, my dear, that is the reason I am going out.—Puck.

The Proper Answer.

"You know the report we printed last night about Mawson's death?" said the sub-editor.

"Yes," said the editor-in-chief.

"Well, he was in here this morning asking us to deny it."

"And what did you say?"

"I said we'd be very glad to when he presented proof that we were in error."—Harper's Bazar.

And They Consequently [illegible]

"Didn't your play have a good run?" inquired De Ham.

"Had a splendid run," answered [illegible], the author actor, picking a pebble out of his shoe, [illegible] particularly on our last place. But the [illegible] made a short cut and got to the railway station ahead of us."—Chicago Tribune.

THEY SAY IT IS A FORGERY.

Important Document in a Suit in Which Wealthy Plainfielders Are Interested.

The trial of the suits brought by William S. Hurley, a flour merchant of Brooklyn, to recover property worth about $350,000, which he alleges belonged to the estate of his father, Samuel Hurley, was begun before Judge Barrett in the Supreme Court Tuesday. Two suits have been brought, one against Jacob Miles, as executor, for an accounting, and the other against William Miles to recover the property. Jacob and William Miles live on Somerset street, North Plainfield. William Miles also has a house in Henry street, New York city, is a director of the Nassau Bank and of the Hamilton Insurance company, and is said to be a millionaire. He was formerly a partner of Samuel Hurley in the tannery business under the firm name of Hurley & Miles. It is charged that he appropriated to himself an undue share of the assets of the firm, and that by the assistance of his brother, Jacob Miles, he was able to purchase land belonging to Hurley's estate at prices far below their market value.

Samuel Hurley died in 1869, leaving a widow, Catharine A. Hurley, and four small children, William S. Hurley, Ida S. Hurley, Kate Hurley, and Rebecca Hurley. Under his will the property was to go to his family. Jacob Miles, his brother-in-law, Thomas Webb and the widow were made executors. Webb died in 1880, having taken little interest in the estate, and Mrs. Hurley left the entire management to Jacob Miles. Jacob Hurley proceeded to settle the estate and turned over to Mrs. Hurley certain parcels of real estate, most of which he persuaded her to sell to William Miles. A final accounting was had in 1888, and Mrs. Hurley and the other heirs signed a release of Jacob Miles as executor from all further liability; $23,000 in all was turned over to the heirs.

In September, 1890, John Gording, wishing to purchase certain lots on West Farms, found that they had been the property of Samuel Hurley and had been sold for non-payment of taxes. He investigated and reported the discovery to William S. Hurley. Hurley made an exhaustive examination of the records and became convinced that the Miles brothers had defrauded his father's estate. He secured an assignment to himself of the claims of his mother and sisters and began the suit now on trial. He alleged that William A. Miles took $100,000 from the assets of the firm of Hurley & Miles and invested it in real estate, taking title in his own name. The firm became financially embarrassed in 1860, and Hurley demanded an accounting of the $100,000. An agreement was finally made by which each agreed to put all his property in a common pool, to pay all obligations and to divide the rest equally. This agreement, he alleged, had never been carried out.

The answers to the complaints contained general denials of fraud. It was asserted that William Miles was thrifty and Hurley was not, and that he had made the agreement in 1860 to save the credit of the firm. Annexed to the answer was a document dated in 1861, purporting to be a settlement under the agreement of 1860, showing that Hurley had received his due share. William S. Hurley, the plaintiff, and his mother never heard of this document before, they allege, and they are now seeking to prove that it is a forgery.

William S. Hurley, Ida S. Hurley, Kate Hurley and Mrs. Catherine A. Hurley were examined as witnesses Tuesday. The original assignment of claims to Mr. Hurley has been lost. Mr. Hurley identified a copy, and it was put in evidence. Thomas G Shearman, Daniel G. Rollins, and Phillips & Avery represent the plaintiffs, and ex-judge Noah Davis, Austen G. Fox, Henry W. Jessup and John M. Stearns are attorneys for the defendants.

MR. JOHNSON TREASURER,

And George Sadler Sergeant-at-Arms of the State League of Colored Democrats.

In response to a call issued to colored Democrats of the State of New Jersey, a body of colored men representing nearly every county of the State assembled at Trenton Tuesday and effected a permanent organization to be known as "The Democratic State League of New Jersey". The call was issued by Benjamin F. Lee and J. W. Stevens, of Trenton, and E. H. Vance, of Camden. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The sentiment prevailing to-day among colored citizens is suggestive of Democratic progress, we, the colored citizens of the State of New Jersey, in body assembled, do hereby resolve that we heartily indorse the principles of the Democratic party, and this league will endeavor to further advance the cause of Democracy by having every county of the State represented by a club.

Resolved, That the personal recognition by the Democratic party is both encouraging and assuring for the future welfare of the colored people in common with all citizens, and guarantees our indorsement and hearty support.

Resolved, That we do all in our power to promulgate and perpetuate a wholesome Democratic sentiment among the colored citizens of the State of New Jersey by our united efforts.

The following officers were elected: President, B. F. Lee, Trenton; vice-presidents, John R. Brown, Newark, and Sydnet Plummer, Camden; recording secretary, George B. Green, Vineland; corresponding secretary, Clarence Reynolds, Trenton; treasurer, W. E. Johnson, Plainfield; executive committee, E. H. Vance, Camden; J. W. Stevenson, John Schruby, Wm. E. Johnson, and J. H. Richardson, Trenton. George Sadler, Plainfield, sergeant-at-arms.

Next Tuesday's Philharmonic.

The last concert of the Philharmonic series will be given in the Casino next Tuesday evening.

William H. Reiger, tenor, and Miss May Lyle Smith, flutist, will be the soloists. Cards of admission may be procured at Reynolds's pharmacy and at the door at $1.25 each.

The Orange Chronicle speaks of Miss Smith as follows:

"The appearance of Miss May Lyle Smith as a flute soloist was altogether a pleasing novelty, especially when is taken into consideration the charming maiden appearance of the performer and the equally important fact that she played delightfully. The duet between Miss Smith and Mr. Weiner was decidedly captivating. It was accurately and brilliantly performed, and the leading part was ably sustained by Miss Smith, whose tone is pure and technique practically faultless."

The City's Milk Bills.

An example of the way that Overseer of the Poor A. Vanderbeek economizes over the methods of his predecessors, is the matter of milk. Mr. Vanderbeek spent only $[illegible] for milk during the entire year. Yet everyone was as fully supplied as necessary, and no one lacked. Mr. Vanderbeek's predecessor in the last two months of his office ran up a milk bill of $152 60, more than half as much as Mr. Vanderbeek's for the entire year.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

FIGURES THAT TALK.

PLAINFIELD'S RECORD OF SCHOOL EXTRAVAGANCE.

Her Public Institutions of Learning the Most Expensive in the State, Yet the Education Given Is of No Higher Grade, and the Benefits Are No Greater, Than Under More Economical Boards of Education.

The last tax bills of the property-owners of the city of Plainfield for the year 1892, reveal the enormous taxation which the local Board of Education sanctioned for public school expenses. Their rate, together with the rate for State school tax, makes a larger total school tax than all the other taxes of our people put together (excepting only the county quota). By reference to their tax bills, Press readers will see that, the total school tax (for 1892) was 45 cents on every $100 of valuation, while the sum total of the city tax—poor, library and fire department taxes, altogether—only foots up 70 cents on $100.

Here's the list:

Free school	25
State school	20
		45
City tax	40
Fire tax	20
Poor tax	5½
Library tax	4½
		70

Then again, scrutinize carefully the following statistics copied from the last annual report of the State Board of Education. From these official figures it will be readily observed what an expensive common school education the city of Plainfield has to pay for. Compared with two or three other cities of about the same size and three or four cities considerably larger, it will be noticed that Plainfield takes the lead over all of them for the total amount of money received for school purposes, and exceeds every one in the cost of current expenses, and per capita of average attendance of scholars. In other words, it costs about one-fourth more to give our Plainfield boys and girls a public school education, than the other cities cited pay for their children, and there is about the same proportion of advance over the average cost per child throughout the whole State. And the schooling the Plainfield pupils get is not a bit better than that given to the students in the other cities referred to. New Brunswick, for instance, educates 2,000 pupils at an average cost of $15.79, while Plainfield pays $25 19 on each of her 1,200 pupils. Yet a diploma from the New Brunswick High School admits a graduate to college without entrance examination, and Plainfield's High School diploma does no more.

Study the table:

Pop.	Cities.	Total amount received for school purposes.	Average attendance of pupils.	Current expenses.	Cost for each pupil of av. attendance.	Teachers salaries paid.	No. Teachers
[illegible]	Plainfield	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	Bridgeton	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	Atlantic City	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	Phillipsburg	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	Passaic	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	Millville	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	New Brunswick	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

THE SEIDL PROGRAMME.

It Approaches Marvelously Near Grand Opera Itself.

The apex of programme-making has been achieved by the great Wagner conductor, Anton Seidl, in the performance to be given in the Music Hall, Friday night, Feb 10. This programme will be all the more eagerly greeted because of the absolute dearth of grand opera this season. Instinctively feeling this demand, Mr. Seidl approaches as nearly to its fulfilment as possible without going beyond the limits of the concert stage.

The evening performance is made up of scenes from Wagner's operas, interpreted by no less than fourteen operatic singers of both European and American reputation, whose good work will be supplemented by Mr. Seidl's authoritative conducting and the assistance of his superb body of orchestral artists.

The operatic concert will begin with four of the most charming excerpts from "Lohengrin", gracefully interwoven into a harmonious and perfect whole. This will be followed by the purely orchestral number, the "Siegfried Idyl".

In the vocal work of the "Lohengrin" numbers the artist will be Miss Juch, whom it is always a delight to hear; Miss Fabris and Miss Stein, two excellent artistes.

The third number will be the "Liebestod" (the death song) of Isolde, sung by Miss Rathbone.

The first part of the evening ends with the famous and difficult quintette from "The Meistersinger", to be sung by Miss Juch, Miss Stein, Messrs. Kaiser, Stephens and Sanger.

In the second portion of the performance, after an orchestral interpretation of the prelude and glorification music from "Parsifal", now heard for the first time in Plainfield, Mr. Seidl carries us into the greatest scene of the whole Tetralogy. This scene begins with the third act of the "Walkuere", and carries us up to the final meeting of Wotan and Brunhilde. The scene is sung by ten female artistes, and the exact cast will be as follows:

Brunhilde	Miss Maurer
Sieglinde	Miss Juch
Ortlinde	Miss Fabris
Helmwige	Miss Osborne
Waltraute	Miss Bertolie
Gerhilde	Miss Metz
Rossweisse	Mad. Northop
Siegrune	Miss Stein
Schwertleite	Miss Mattfeld
Grimmgerde	Mad. Baldwin

Having Us Our Morals Now.

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

Plainfield is getting awfully moral. A saloon keeper there was hauled up for allowing men to play cards in his place, and the judge fined him $10, the offence and being a violation of "an old blue law", but of an act passed in 1798. In how many saloons in this city is gambling carried on?

Eve's Daughters.

Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother" says:

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an ALLCOCK'S PLASTER constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching [illegible]."

PAY YOUR TAXES, OR GO TO JAIL.

The Common Council After Delinquents with a Heavy Stick.

Councilman Fisk of the finance committee reported to the Common Council Monday night that a large amount of delinquent taxes was due the city from chronic non-tax-payers. Vincent W. Nash was continued in office as delinquent tax-collector, and the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of this State has decided that for unpaid real estate taxes the personal property of the owners of such real estate is liable and may be seized and sold, and that delinquent taxpayers are not by law entitled to any exemption, but that all the personal property of such delinquents may be appropriated for the purpose as far as may be necessary, and that no statute of limitation bars the remedies for the collection of back taxes;

Resolved, That Vincent W. Nash, the officer designated by the Common Council to receive and execute tax warrants be and he hereby is directed to proceed in the execution of said warrants in the first instance by seizure, public advertisement and sale of the personal property of delinquents, and that he so proceed without delay under the direction of the Corporation Counsel.

Resolved, That upon failure to find property of delinquents with which to satisfy personal property taxes, said officer do proceed to obey the command of his warrant by taking the body of such delinquent, if to be found in the county, and deliver the same to the Sheriff of the county, or his jailor, to be kept in close and safe custody until payment be made of said taxes and costs.

DEATHS.

ROBERTS—At St. Paul Feb. 4, 1893, Oscar T., only son of O. T. and Sarah Judson Roberts, aged 4 years.

AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HERB DRINK

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

[illegible]

LANE'S MEDICINE

[illegible]

FAMILY (six adults) desires first-class board in refined family; Plainfield or vicinity, with few if any other boarders; prefer to furnish rooms, carpets and shades excepted; references exchanged; permanent if comfortable. Address V. C., care Press.

WANTED AT ONCE SALESMEN FOR THIS LOCALITY

Splendid Opportunity

for a live, energetic man. We offer BETTER FACILITIES and Better Terms than ever. Salary or commission. Write for our Special Offer.

HOOKER, GROVER & CO.
Rochester Fruit Farm and Nurseries,
Established 1864. Rochester, N. Y.

NOTICE. JAN. 21, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hetfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, administrators of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from this date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WILLIAM WHITFIELD,
EDWARD TERRY,
Administrators.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey—Between [illegible] Welsh and Matthias T. Welsh, [illegible], complainants, and James Craig et ux defendants. [illegible] for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey [illegible]

JOHN H. VAN WINKLE, Solicitor.
F. P. &C.

W. HICKS, Sheriff.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY—To Robert Macauley, Defendant.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, wherein Mary Macauley is complainant, and you are defendant, you are hereby required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the petition of said complainant [illegible] or that in default thereof such decree will be taken against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.

WALTER L. HETFIELD,
Solicitor of Petitioner, Plainfield, New Jersey,
Dated January 10, 1893.

SHERIFF'S SALE—New Jersey Supreme Court, Union County—[illegible] plaintiff, vs. John C. Moore, defendant, [illegible]

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, A. D., 1893, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the right, title and interest [illegible]

W. HICKS, Sheriff.
CHARLES A. REED, Attorney.

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to his usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

[illegible]

G. W. ULRICH.

TOWNSEND'S

Marble & Granite Works,

30 SOMERSET STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you. [illegible]

J. F. TOWNSEND,
Manager.
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Sweeny, Carman E. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah A. Dickins [illegible], complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the bill of said complainants on or before the seventh day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to [illegible], on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, [illegible]

Dated December 16, A. D. 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
76 Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution

OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of [illegible], deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.

MARTIN E. WOODRUFF.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy.	By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail,	$6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail,	$8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

[illegible]

Scientific American

[illegible]

LARGEST DRY AND FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN NEW JERSEY

NEWARK

BEE HIVE

MAIL ORDERS

A Little Information and a Few Suggestions

To Assist You and to Help Us

All orders entrusted to us are filled upon day of receipt, if possible.

Should there be any cause for delay, patrons are notified.

We refund money when goods prove unsatisfactory, if returned to us in good condition.

When writing for samples, please state the price, style, color, or width of goods desired. Also send any information that may aid us in giving a speedy and satisfactory reply.

Orders for goods should always be accompanied with sufficient remittance to cover express or postal charges. [illegible]

[illegible]

L. S. PLAUT & CO.

[illegible] Broad St., Newark, N. J.

SAVE

TWENTY PER CENT.

AMOS H. VANHORN,

73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY.

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,

Newark Clothiers,

779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.

ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures

CATARRH

Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head. Apply into the Nostrils. It is Quickly Absorbed. 50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c.

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,

[illegible] West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—There are 20 patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, 4 more than ever before at one time.

—Eugene Laine, whose knee-cap was fractured, is now able to hobble about on a crutch.

—The Common Council will meet again Feb. 20 to consider the liquor license applications.

—Our "fresher" contemporary speaks of the Salvation Army jubilee as a G. A. R. celebration.

—The Courier is booming J. E. Mosher for overseer of the poor. Another Seventh-Day Baptist!

—Dan Conway, who works for Mrs. Cruikshank, captured a 20 pound 'possum on Broadway Hill, Saturday.

—One of the fire steamers, three hose carts, the old ladder truck, and the discarded fire-alarm bell, are all to be sold.

—A representative of John Kane's family denies that the daughters are about to depose their mother and sell the property.

—No. 2's engine-house must soon be given up, and temporary quarters will be provided pending the erection of the new engine-house.

—Smalley Bros. were awarded the crushed stone contract of the city, last night. Their bid was 85 cents to $1 a ton, and was lowest.

—The Courier affected to disbelieve in THE PRESS's avalanche of criticism. What does it think of THE PRESS's landslide of official indorsement?

—The valve of the North Plainfield fire gong got caught fast, Saturday night, while blowing for 7 o'clock, and kept blowing nearly two minutes.

—The fire committee of the Common Council is to investigate the need of hose companies in the Netherwood and Pond Tool Work neighborhood.

—The councilmanic street committee announces that the good work of putting sidewalks and curbs in shape is to be extended till all are nicely flagged.

—The insurance on Fitzgerald's Hotel, burned at South Plainfield over a month ago, was adjusted last evening. Fitzgerald settled for $2,700 on a $3,000 policy.

—Thirteen is not an unlucky number. Daniel Conway, Cottage place, has 13 children, all hale and hearty, and his parents also have 13 children, all in good health.

—U. B. Crane, the hatter, says he will have no branch stores in Plainfield; and anyone wishing to buy goods of him will find him at 12 West Front street, after Feb. 9.

—The Forsbergs have been ejected by their landlady from Leland avenue, and have removed to the Allen farm outside the city limits and in North Plainfield township.

—It is said that Mrs. Sam. Allen's father came here Saturday and took her and her children away, because, it is alleged, of Sam's taking the Forsbergs under his roof.

—G. W. Randolph, of Grandview avenue is justly indignant at the report in the Courier that his son is ill of scarlet fever. He denies the statement and says his boy is all right.

—Work on the Y. M. C. A. building will be begun promptly with the approach of spring. The building will be so situated as not to interfere with the proposed extension of Peace street.

—Wm. B. Dwyer and others offended by the noxious odors petitioned the Common Council to have the gravel-pit nuisances abated. The matter was referred to the Board of Health.

—Mr. Debele of Rock road complains that the street lamp near his place has been unlighted for a month. The borough council last night ordered the electric light company to put it in proper condition.

—Sewers are in sight. The final report of the joint citizens' and councilmanic committee will be submitted at the March meeting of council. A system with disposal works on outlying farm-lands will be recommended.

—The Borough Council methods of transacting business are a model of thoroughness and despatch. Mayor Saunders is a jewel of a presiding officer, and expedites the business proceedings of the board in great shape.

—Mrs. Drake whose horse had a mishap on Sunday, states that the accident occurred at South Plainfield instead of Dunellen, and says it was while the horse was tied and she was at the residence of an aunt who had just died.

—The disreputable condition in which the sidewalk has been left at Plainfield avenue and Third street was responsible yesterday for the fracturing of Mrs. Clark Mundy's leg. She had a very bad fall. Dr. Gaston is in attendance.

—The Borough Council will meet again Feb. 17, to audit the year's accounts and reports. The establishment of a new system of book-keeping will have been completed by that time, so that everything can be audited up to date.

—The annual report of the Dime Savings Institution again shows that banking house to be most carefully conducted and prosperous concern, and eminently worthy the confidence and deposits of those who want their savings well taken care of.

—The promoters of the new road between New Market and South Plainfield could not get the town committee to accept it on Wednesday. They seem determined to have the road put through, and will now pursue some other course.

—Our "fresher" contemporary prides itself on its "Broadway hill coasting" article, which was a series of "quotations" from different people attacking a woman living on the hill, "quotations" which it spent the rest of the week in denying.

—In the pigeon shooting match at Morristown Driving Park on Wednesday, between Charles Smith of Plainfield and Frank Class of the former place, at 50 live birds each for a $200 purse, the result was a tie on 41 kills each. The tie will be shot off at Plainfield at a future date.

—The Plainfield Medical association, through President J. H. Carman and Temporary Secretary M. B. Long, asked the Common Council to abate the menacing nuisance of emptying sewerage into Green and Cedar brooks. The matter was referred to the sewerage committee.

—The reason why the misfit editor of our "fresher" contemporary imagines that reputable journals manufacture their communications is because that is his own method. No one ever writes to his obscure sheet, and he isn't capable of understanding or in a position to know what stacks of genuine letters flock to the people's columns of popular and leading newspapers.

—You've all heard the funny story ending "The boy lied!" "Well, that expressive interjection fits the Courier's case exactly. No one has ever insinuated in these columns that Dr. Hurlbut had misstated public school matters, as the Courier would have its afflicted readers believe; nor has this paper or any of its attaches ever criticised that flourishing religious body, the Seventh-Day Baptists, as the Courier falsely charges. As a modern edition of Ananias, the Courier is a glowing success. It knows at least no sixth commandment, and frequently shows ignorance of some of the others.

PERSONALIA.

John Godey of Dog Corners, aged 90, is dying of paralysis.

Mrs. F. Horn is visiting her son, Lieut. T. Horn, at Fort Preble, Me.

Miss Julia Johnson, of Newark, is visiting friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. John Moore has gone to Whitney's Point, N. Y., to visit her parents.

George Watson, formerly of this city, has been spending a few days in town.

Miss Emma Carman of Brooklyn is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James C. Manning.

Miss Evelyn Taylor of Philadelphia is visiting Miss Mabel Woodruff of East Second street.

Edward Vail of 400 West Front street is proud over the arrival of an 8½-pound daughter, Wednesday night.

Oscar T., only son of Oscar T. and Sarah Judson Roberts, died at St. Paul Feb. 4 at the age of four years.

W. R. MacClymont will give the next of his popular free organ recitals in the First Baptist church Feb. 23.

Mrs. Alexander Martin Rose will be at home, 112 Grant avenue, Wednesdays, the 8th and 15th insts., from 3 until 6.

Augustus Woodgood, of the Rescue Mission at Pamrapo, spent Sunday at the home of W. H. Sprague, 13 Muhlenberg place.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street is enjoying a visit from a dear friend, Miss Louie DeCamp, of Chester, Morris county.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Adams, of Madison avenue, have another little boy, making four in all now with no sisters to play with them.

Miss Cynthia Judson, of Washington, D. C., is visiting her brother-in-law, ex-Mayor John H. VanWinkle, and family, of Duer street.

Mary E. Kenworthy of 36 Kearney avenue, Kearney, was married Tuesday at the home of her parents to Joseph A. Crawford of 19 church street, this city.

Mrs. James T. Scott gave her little folk and their guests a happy party with "Punch and Judy", all they could eat and every enjoyment that might be desired.

Capt. Cahill of New Brunswick, brother of T. J. Cahill of this city, was in town Saturday night to arrange for the organization of a branch of the Sons of Veterans.

Mrs. Prescott and daughter, Mrs. Theodore Hardy, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mrs. Prescott's brother, James H. Force, at Bound Brook.

Edward A. Boland for some years chief engineer of the Plainfield electric light works, died in Pittsburg last Thursday aged 28 years. He has a number of friends and acquaintances in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Force set sail last Monday by the Clyde steamship line for Florida. THE PRESS staff join with their host of other friends in wishing them a delightful trip and a safe return.

Notwithstanding the fact that Trinity Reformed church is clearing off its entire indebtedness, treasurer George Gale, has just sent a check of $367 67, as the contribution of that church to the cause of Foreign missions.

Street-commissioner Mosher and president Leggett of the Crescent League, are meeting with great success in their endeavors to get subscriptions towards keeping the club in existence. They have in the last three days collected over $300 for that purpose.

The people of both city and borough will delight to know that the Rev. Father McKernan has obtained from Bishop O'Farrell full faculties for the Rev. Father Cushing, and henceforth Father Cushing will remain to assist Father McKernan.

The Rev. Father Cushing has been removed by Bishop Wigger at the request of the Rev Father Smyth, to whom he has served as assistant rector of St. Mary's. Father Cushing has made many warm friends in Plainfield, who will greatly regret his departure.

It is reported that the Rev. Father Cushing will be temporarily located in the North Plainfield parish. Among the parishoners of St. Mary's there is genuine and general regret over his departure, but they will be glad to have him so near by for awhile at least.

THE PRESS office was last Monday honored with a call from Hon. J. A. D Richards, who represents the Democratic new Seventeenth Congressional District of Ohio. The honorable gentleman is the guest of Bennit Brittin, Esq., of Evona, to whose family he is related.

The Sabbath Recorder says that "H. M. Maxson, Plainfield's new superintendent of schools, is already gaining an enviable reputation among the leading educators of the State, and has received several invitations to deliver addresses on educational topics in neighboring cities".

Ambrose Norbury, father of Alfred Norbury, of this city, died at Oldham, Eng., Jan. 24, and was buried in Chaderton cemetery the following Saturday. He left a wife and four children. Mrs. Norbury was confined to her bed at the time with a broken leg and much anxiety is felt as to the effect of the shock upon her.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will be well represented at the State convention at Camden, Feb. 9-12. The delegates will be W. D. Murray, Stephen Cahoone, E. L. Walz, jr., J. A. Robinson, O. W. Dunham, T. E. Hazell, G. Q. Packer, John McLaughlin, A. C. LaBoyteaux, Silas Yerkes, and Irving Brady. Chas. R. Fernald will represent the boys' branch.

G. Elston Lowrie, the enterprising editor of the Dunellen Weekly Call, modestly disclaims the honor of leading the Four Hundred of his thrifty borough, and insists that the credit belongs to the great and only William Milliken, he having conducted all the socials this winter and being the recognized autocrat of the West End Circle. They are both shining lights, destined to occupy exalted positions among the galaxy of great people.

F. M. Hulett, the music dealer, has been compelled to secure the services of a man competent to share in the management of his largely increased business, which has attained a magnitude too great for any one man to manage alone except by personal attention day and night. He has obtained a first-class assistant in George Githens, a young man whose personal and business qualities are such that he is sure to win favor for himself among Mr. Hulett's many patrons. He was formerly with Blasius & Sons, the largest music dealers in Philadelphia, and will henceforth be associated with the leading music house of Plainfield.

The reception by Miss Streuli Thursday was one of the most beautiful "at homes" ever given in Plainfield. The house was lavishly decorated with plants and cut flowers. Music was furnished by Rogers and Conde, and an elaborate supper was provided by Jaeger of New York. Miss Streuli was assisted in receiving by Mrs. I. Evarts Tracy, Miss Schipper and Mrs. James W. Jackson. In the dining room were Mrs. Daniel Gions, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, and the Misses Tracy, VanBoskerck, Yates, Huntington, Wood, Harris, Hart, Drake, Murray, Stewart, Glenn and Walz. The ladies all had a gay time chatting, promenading and feasting; and later in the evening the young men arrived, and they—with the young ladies in the dining room—joined in a merry dance.

[illegible]

SUCCESSFUL JUBILEE.

The Salvation Army Celebrates the Second Anniversary of its Opening in This City.

On Thursday the Salvation Army celebrated the second anniversary of the opening of the Plainfield branch. A banquet was held from 5 to 7:30, about 400 sitting down to the tables. At 7:30 a procession was formed and marched through the streets. The meeting inside was led by Colonel Evans, second in command of the United States, assisted by Major Evans, in command of the central division; Adjutant Hunter, Adjutant Bell, Ensign Wood, Captains Neame, Watkins, Caygill, Marsh and Davison, and Lieutenants Russell and Shane.

The hall was crowded to excess, many being compelled to stand. Colonel Evans held the people's attention for about forty minutes, while he spoke of case after case of men who had sunken into the mire and had been raised through the instrumentality of the Salvation Army. In the two years the Army has been in this city many have professed conversion, and several of the worst characters have been brought to love and fear God, and have been made into good citizens. The meeting closed with prayer, a ten-cent lunch being served immediately afterward. The visitors left on the 10:12 train for New York.

HER FREDDIE DID NOT PAY.

Mr. Brower Sues Yuengling for Flowers for Baroness Blanc.

The flowers that Frederick D. Yuengling bought for the Baroness Blanc are the subject of a suit in the City Court, New York. W. H. Brower and Lorenzo D. Brower, of this city, florists, at 186 Fifth avenue, and 965 Broadway, New York, are suing Fred Yuengling for $77, the price of the flowers they furnished him during the winter. The only point of dispute is the price, Mr. Yuengling claiming that he was overcharged.

George Wotherspoon, of this city, is the Baroness' business manager.

Broken Hundreds of Times Every Week

(From the New York Recorder.)

The sporting element of Plainfield is angry over what it terms a piece of spiteful work in the arrest of Charles Bock of East Second street for a violation of the city ordinance in allowing the playing of cards in his saloon. Bock, through his counsel, pleaded guilty, acknowledging that a party were playing whist in his place, and that the game is played there often, as it is in every public place in the city. Judge Coddington said he was undecided what to say, as the charge was such an unusual one. While it was defined as a breach of the law, the complaint was the first of the kind he had ever heard of. He postponed sentence until he could consult the City Attorney. The arrest has caused considerable discussion over the enforcement of the old blue law. It is thought that the chief of police drew the line too fine in enforcing a law that is broken hundreds of times every week in the year.

No Fault of the Car Conductor.

Supt. Passmore of the Plainfield Electric Street Railway indignantly denies the statement in the News that a passenger was thrown into the roadway by a lurch of a car and left lying there unconscious by the heartless conductor.

Mr. Passmore says that the man in question dropped a parcel from the rear platform while the car was in rapid motion and jumped off facing the wrong way before the car could be stopped. The conductor helped gather him up and ran back for his bundle. The man said he was unhurt, and that the accident was all his own fault.

Three More Snow Storms, Says Prophet Hope.

Janitor Hope of the Bryant school says that Thursday was the 16th time he has had to shovel snow off the school sidewalks. The record was 2 in November; 2 in December; 11 in January, and 1 in February. Mr. Hope says that as the moon was 19 days old when the first snow fell, there must be 3 more snow-falls before the winter ends. Of course the moon argument settles it. Mr. Hope says wait and see.

Enterprising Merchants and Public-Spirited Citizens.

The following is a list of Plainfield's philanthropists who by their enterprise in advertising therein have provided a waiting room for the Street railway passengers at Broadway and North avenue:

H. P. Reynolds, Edward Love, A. D. Mallinson, Marsh, Ayers & Co., Fulper & Bingham, The Sherman Outfitting Co., Asa Collier, U. B. Crane, Garret Q Packer, Neuman Bros., Frank Linke, Edward White, W. A. Woodruff, W. L. Force & Bro., John P. Emmons, Loomis & Rice, Woolston & Buckle.

Four Bad Blunders in a Five-Line Paragraph.

The kind of "journalism" peculiar to the Courier office was typified last Saturday. The Rev. Hobart Clark notified that paper, in common with the others, that he would preach on the morrow on the subject "The Great American Churchman". The Courier had never heard of Phillips Brooks, and rushed the following paragraph into type:

> James G. Blaine, the great Republican leader and American churchman will form the subject of the Rev. Hobart Clarke's sermon tomorrow morning in All Soul's Church.

What the Courier doesn't know about churchmen or anything else, would fill a book. But what can you expect of a journal that puts the apostrophe in All Souls' before the s and misspells the name of a man so well known as Hobart Clark?

Don't People in Westfield Patronize Home Trade?

The Westfield Leader says: "Miss Adams has given up her branch store in Hart's Block. Miss Adams is a Plainfield milliner. Laire Bros., who are also discontinuing, are from Plainfield. Crane, who disposed of his store, came from the same city. These three had branch stores here, and as branch stores they did not pay. The experiment was a costly one, and it will be some time before it will be repeated by the Plainfielders."

Good Roads Spread the Fever.

A Plainfield correspondent writes to the Sabbath Recorder of Alfred Centre, N. Y., as follows: "Wm. H. Rogers, a leading bicycle dealer, has recently had taken a 'wheel census' of Plainfield, and has found the surprising number of twelve hundred and fifty-seven 'wheels', and over sixteen hundred riders. Our macadamized city streets and country roads are said to be among the finest in the country, and of course are favorable to the spread of the bicycle 'fever' so prevalent in this section."

Each Pays for Her Own Soda and Vote.

The Westfield Standard says: "Plainfield has a very live women's club. Its members are cyclists and twenty-six of these lovers of the wheel hold regular meetings, and are governed by an elaborate constitution. The rules are strictly observed, and the club is thriving, without the guiding hand of a single man, too. One rule is that there shall be no treating on the club 'runs'."

[illegible]

BOCK FINED $10.

Corporation Counsel and Court Say That Officers' Guilt is No Excuse for Him.

Charles Bock was fined $10 by Judge Coddington Thursday for participating in a game of cards in his bar room.

Walter L. Hetfield again appeared for the defendant and asked for suspension of sentence, ably presenting his argument for such suspension or at least for mitigation.

Corporation counsel Craig A. Marsh was present to reply to the attack made by defendant's counsel on the police officer, it having been stated that Bock's arrest was a piece of spite work. Mr. Marsh very eloquently and emphatically refuted the aspersions gratuitously cast on captain Grant, whom he warmly praised for doing his duty.

Mr. Marsh said that it was no excuse for Bock that the vice of gambling in bar rooms was prevalent. Indeed, that was all the more reason why an example should be made and steps taken to suppress the crying evil. He held it to be Anarchistic and a menace to good order to attack the police for doing their sworn duty when an offender was caught. Chief Grant had only obeyed the instructions of his higher officer, the Mayor.

The court also took the view that Bock should not plead, through his counsel, as palliation of his offense that it was common throughout the city. Bock had admitted his guilt, and some punishment should be imposed since it was an offense he had agreed under his signature, on receipt of his license, not to commit.

In passing sentence, judge Coddington took into consideration the fact that Bock had saved the city the expense of a trial. He therefore rendered what he considered a mild decision.

CITY COURT IMPROVEMENTS.

Prospects of a More Desirable Room for Jury Trials.

A new city court room is one of the probabilities of the hour. The location talked of by the police and municipal authorities is on the same floor with judge Coddington's offices, directly in the rear of those sumptuous parlors. By the removal of a partition two rooms can be thrown into one, and a large court room provided, with ample seating capacity for judge, jurors, counsel, reporters, witnesses, and citizens. There is no regular court room at present. Common disorderly cases are heard in the stuffy little room in the disreputable-looking lock-up. Jury trials have been held in the council chamber, but that cold and cheerless sky parlor has made jurors ill and endangered the health of others, besides wearing out the patience of all having to climb the three long flights of stairs, and the need of an apartment adequately heated and convenient of access is greatly felt. The prospects are that the project of renting a room in the rear of the judge's offices will speedily be consummated. Another feature that makes this a desirable site is that Mr. Coddington's extensive law library would always be at hand for ready reference.

GONE WITH A DRESSMAKER.

Elmer Heikel Deserted His Wife for a Giddy Bound Brook Widow.

Elmer Heikel, who for 11 years has been married to a daughter of James Emory of West Front street, has, it is said, deserted his wife, and, it is alleged, eloped with a gay and giddy dressmaker from Bound Brook. It is believed that they went to Sidney, N. Y., as a letter was received from there recently. According to the story of Mrs. Heikel's brother, she was chloroformed several times and otherwise abused. It is also alleged that Heikel got money under false pretences.

The abused wife's father verified these statements yesterday, but said they were waiting for Heikel to come back to the State, so they can arrest him.

Fire Improvements Over the Brook.

Councilman Hegeman of the committee appointed to consider fire department matters last night reported for the committee that the fire department fund was inadequate to meet all the expenses of the proposed improvements in the department. The committee therefore recommended that bonds be issued to meet the contemplated improvements. This, they held, would give the people better fire protection and greater security in their homes, with no increase in taxes.

Two Prophecies.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

The term of Hon T. F. McCormick, as presiding judge of the Union county courts, expires the first of April, and he will doubtless be reappointed, for the fourth term, as we hear of no practical opposition, he having administered the duties of the office in such a way as to give general satisfaction.

As the term of Senator Marsh, of this county, expires with the present session of the Legislature, the technical objection which was raised as to his regular appointment to the Prosecutorship will be removed, and it is expected that Governor Werts will regularly appoint him to the position he has so ably and satisfactorily filled by appointment of the court during the existence of the vacancy.

North Plainfield's Council Moving.

The North Plainfield borough council will remove to Spencer's hall, and hold its first meeting there March 3. The rental of the new headquarters will be $100 a year, and this covers light, heat and janitor's expenses. The township committee meetings and township elections will continue to be held in the hall as usual, but will not conflict. The proper committee was last night given authority to furnish the hall suitably for council meetings. The lease is for one year. The Warren engine parlors will be surrendered to the fire company.

Now Let Every Woman Cast Her Ballot.

Borough counsel Charles A. Reed has furnished an opinion that in the borough of North Plainfield women have the right to vote at all school meetings held within the district in which they reside, whether for election of school trustees, the raising of money, or any other question that may properly come before such meetings.

He holds that the same thing is true in all school districts in the State except such as are within cities or towns organized under special charters, and which are not subject to the general school laws. In such cases it depends upon the provisions of the charter whether or not women may vote.

To Manufacture Oxygen and Hydrogen.

Electrolysis, or the separation of water into its elements by electricity, is a process not often seen outside the chemical lecture room. Franklin S. Smith, the science teacher of the High School, will perform this experiment at the third of his science talks to be given at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening, Feb. 9, at 8. The admission will be free.

The Next Malapeais.

Tickets for the remaining Malapeais concerts of this season have been mailed to the subscribers. Those who do not receive the tickets promptly should at once notify the secretary.

Attention is called to the change in the hour of the entertainment on the 9th inst., from 8 to half-past 8 o'clock.

THE MAYOR TAKES A HAND.

THE SCHOOL BOARD TO BE SHORN OF ITS POWER.

At the Earnest and Manly Appeal of Mr. Gilbert, Every Councilman Votes for a Legislative Bill to Divest the Educational Autocrats of Their Dictatorship Over the People.

From The Press of February 7.

Alexander Gilbert is a Mayor to be proud of—bold, courageous, fearless, whose one purpose is to know and do the right.

When THE PRESS undertook its warfare against the extravagant scheme of the Board of Education, opposed the purchase of the luxurious Wadsworth property site, and fought the lavish outlay of the people's money for a proposed elegant school, it felt that it was in the right, and believed that Mayor Gilbert and all other good citizens would endorse its position.

That such confidence was not misplaced was proved last night, when good Mayor Gilbert presented to the Common Council an emphatic veto against the School Board's action.

It was a matter of gratification to all justice-loving citizens that the Common Council unanimously indorsed the Mayor's position, and approved by its full vote the legislative measure recommended by His Honor to shear the School Board of the autocratic power which it has abused.

THE PRESS has been opposed in its crusade by the vulgar, indecent and furious personal abuse of the imitation of a newspaper whose nominal owner and editor is the City Clerk. It was to be expected that that paper would bitterly contest anything in the interest of the public. Its small soul knows no duty save to the grasping boss who holds the whip-hand over it, and the people's rights cannot but suffer at the hands of a journal whose figure-head is another's slave.

The action of the Mayor and of the Common Council again vindicates THE PRESS and establishes a great and glorious record for the Mayor and the eleven members of the Councilmanic body.

Again is there occasion to remark, as yesterday:

THE PRESS cannot be intimidated. It is the people's paper.

But it was cruel and stinging punishment to make the City Clerk read the official documents and record the official doings in a course of action against which he has so wickedly been rebelling. THE PRESS pities him in his retribution, and trusts he will repent of his error and folly.

The manly, straightforward message of Mr. Gilbert on the school subject is as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 6, 1893.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:—The recent purchase by the Board of Education of a Central avenue site for a high grade school directs attention to certain features of the law under which the Board acts which seem to be wrong in principle and fraught with possible dangers to the tax-payers of Plainfield. This law as seemingly interpreted by the Board gives to it the power to expend for the current expenses of the Public School system each year an amount not to exceed one-half of one per cent. of the taxable valuation, and in addition such further sum as the Board may consider necessary for the purchase of lands and erection of buildings for school purposes. This amount the Board is authorized to have added to the tax levy and assessed against the tax-payers without regard to public opinion on the subject. So long as the Board administers its trust wisely and economically all is well—but if its ideas should become extravagant, and in its plans and purposes it should fail to represent public opinion it would require three years, under our system of electing one School Trustee each year, to correct the evil. It is not my purpose to criticise any act of the present Board. The gentlemen who compose it are well known in the community as men of character; and I have no doubt were actuated by a patriotic purpose in purchasing the property already referred to. But I think the law under which they act is wrong in that it vests in the Board practically the right to assess and levy taxes. This power should reside alone in the Common Council—the body which represents the community in its fiscal affairs, the body which can be readily reached and made to conform to the opinions of the people in all important matters.

While this view to my mind seems indisputable, I am unwilling to advocate an immediate change so radical as to imperil the efficiency of our school system. I do think however that the authority of the Board should be abridged to the extent of removing its power to expend money for the purchase of lands and the erection of buildings without the consent of the Common Council.

The Common Council has no power to issue bonds or borrow money except to a very limited extent for one or two specific purposes without the consent of the people; but the Board of Education can borrow money and create indebtedness for tax-payers to pay without reference to public opinion.

Surely this is not right; no municipal board in this respect should be clothed with greater powers than the Common Council.

The legislation of the past few years with reference to the power of School Boards to purchase lands and erect buildings for school purposes recognizes the principle that the determining power should reside in the Common Council.

I enclose herewith a bill relating to the subject which has been drawn for submission to the Legislature. Should it meet with your approval, I recommend the adoption of a resolution requesting the Representative from this Assembly District to introduce the same into the Legislature and to endeavor to secure its passage. Respectfully submitted,

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

The following is the bill submitted by His Honor:

An Act concerning the purchase of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal board of any city other than the Common Council, Board of Aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall not exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the Common Council, Board of Aldermen or other governing body of said city.

And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

The Council unanimously indorsed the Mayor's recommendation by adopting, by its full vote, the following resolution, which was introduced by Mr. Rae:

Resolved, That the recommendation of His Honor, the Mayor, that the city should seek the enactment of a law providing that no municipal board other than the Common Council shall have power to purchase land, or erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the Common Council, meets with the unanimous approval of this body, and in the opinion of the Common Council, voices the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the tax-payers of the city of Plainfield.

Resolved, That a copy of the proposed law submitted by the Mayor, together with a copy of these resolutions, be forwarded to the Hon. George Kyte, the representative from this district in the House of Assembly, and that he be requested to use all lawful means to secure its enactment as law.

Julian Scott's "Antietam".

Julian Scott, the artist, at his studio in this city, has under good headway his painting of the battle of Antietam, which is to be presented to the Seventh Regiment Vermont club. It bids fair to be a perfect success. It will please a [illegible]

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

APPOINTIVE CITY OFFICES.

No Changes Except in Physician—Salaries Fixed, Some of Them Raised.

The Mayor appointed, and the Common Council Monday approved, the following city officials for the current year:

Corporation Counsel—Craig A. Marsh.
Overseer of the Poor—A. Vanderbeek.
City Physician—M. S. Simpson, M. D.
Chief Engineer—T. O. Doane.
First Assistant—James A. Martin.
Second Assistant—John W. Murray, Jr.
Members of Board of Health—George W. Rockafellow, O. B. Leonard.
Regular Police—George W. Grant, Patrick Lynch, Thomas McCue, Patrick J. Flanagan, Charles Glenn, Patrick Kiely, Joseph Cooney, Jr., Christian Frederickson, Wm. J. [illegible], James A. Saunders.
Special Police—S. R. Hope, Wm. Mundy, Robt. W. Walker, Thos. Clarkson, Wm. R. [illegible], Andrew Muir, Edward Skinner, Geo. R. Rockafellow, Jacob [illegible], James H. Frisbey, Cadwallader Jones, Frank Moran, Henry Angleman, Edward F. Maynard, Louis [illegible], David F. Stewart, Vincent W. Nash, Morris Higgins, Wm. Dagnall, Benj. J. [illegible], John Laing, Henry C. [illegible], Nicholas Meyers, Jeremiah Cash, Martin Vanderveer, John [illegible], John Flynn.
Dog catcher—James H. Frisbey and Frederick Wenzel.
Pound master—Wm. H. Kitchen.

The salaries of the appointive and some elective officers were fixed as follows for the year:

Corporation counsel—$[illegible], with privilege of increasing $250 during the year if deemed advisable.

To this Mr. France objected. It was explained to him that the counselor would have extraordinary work to do during the year, there being much litigation to look after, the sewerage question to dispose of, Peace street and other exceptionally important matters. Mr. Frost argued that the duties of the office had been light and the salary generous heretofore; and held that now the counselor should "make up for the work he hadn't been doing." He voted against any reserve clause, claiming that any reserved sum was sure to be paid in the end.

City Clerk—$[illegible].

This is a reduction of $50, because under the new arrangement some of the city clerk's work is to be transferred to the city treasurer. Mr. France suggested that enough should be deducted from each other city officer so as to make up for the salary of the new office of city auditor.

City Treasurer—$[illegible].

Mr. France voted against this increase of $100.

Assessor—$[illegible].
Collector—$[illegible].
Judge—$[illegible].
Overseer of the Poor—$[illegible].
Chief Engineer—$[illegible].
First Assistant Engineer—$[illegible].
Second Assistant Engineer—$[illegible].
Fire department engineers—$[illegible].
" " drivers—$[illegible] a month.

(Mr. France vainly tried to make this $60, the same as for policemen, "because the drivers are on duty day and night, 24 hours each day".)

City physician—$1 a day.
Town clock winder—$2.50 a month.
Chief of police—$[illegible] a month.
Regular police—$[illegible] a month.
Special police—[illegible] cents an hour while on duty.
Council janitor—$[illegible] a year, and $[illegible] for each special or adjourned meeting.
Street Commissioner—$1,[illegible].

The old salary of the street commissioner was $1,[illegible], and Mr. France sought to have that figure maintained. It was explained that because of the increase Mr. Mosher was himself to do all the ordinary surveying, which outsiders have heretofore charged the city $1,000 to $1,200 a year for. Mr. Mosher has to look after 67 miles of streets. Surveying instruments were ordered for his use, not to cost more than $200.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Eighteen Applications, One of Them for Broadway.

The following is the list of liquor applications received by the Common Council Monday and referred to the license committee:

SALOONS.

James J. Day, 67 West Second street, (new).
Charles Smith, 2 and 4 West Front street.
Alexander McGuigan, 173 South Second street, (new).
Wm. J. Sullivan, 46 West Third street.
John Rafferty, 23 Park avenue.
John J. Goff, Liberty and West Fourth streets.
Charles Bock, 25 and 27 East Second street.
Michael F. Watson, Grant avenue, (new).
James Connolly, 24 Park avenue.
R. F. Thorn, 17 Park avenue.

HOTELS.

Wallace V. Miller, Grenada, 7, 9 and 11 North avenue.
Jacob Blimm, Farmers', 17 and 19 Somerset street.
Wm. H. Lee, 208 West Second street, (new).
John E. Beerbower, City, Park avenue and Second street.
Fred Cooper, 24 and 26 East Front street.
Windham & Crowley, Central, East Front street.

WHOLESALE.

Frank Linke, 42 West Front street.
Wm. H. Crowley, 22 Broadway, (new).

School for Feeble-Minded Children.

The following is an extract from Gov. Abbett's recent Message, concerning the Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, where there are a large number of inmates from this vicinity:

"The training school is under private management, but the State has generally sent all the feeble-minded children to this institution because it is situated in this State.

"The State has paid for the education, clothing and maintenance of 163 children during the fiscal year. The reports of the board of directors and of the officers of this institution make an excellent showing of the rapid and healthful development of every department. Without any aid from the State whatever, except a per capita yearly allowance for indigent children, the school has acquired a plant, chiefly through the generosity of public-spirited citizens, which the management estimates to be of the value of $[illegible],000.

"The inauguration and successful conduct of this school, deserves just recognition. It is delightfully situated at Vineland, and in my visits to this institution I have been pleased with its management. It is a great charity, under the management of a board deserving of high praise for its great work for these poor children, who appeal so strongly to our sympathies for their care and comfort."

Changes in Borough Realty.

The real estate transfers recently recorded in Somerset county include the following of property in North Plainfield:

[illegible]

VINDICATION.

"THE PRESS" WINS IN THE J. B. MILLER CASE.

The Elkwood Indictment Kicked Out of Court, Prosecutor Marsh Acknowledging that the PRESS's Charges Were Just; and Its Fight Against an Iniquitous Resort, Righteous.

From The Press of February 4.

On Oct. 24, 1891, the editors and proprietors of THE PRESS were indicted by the grand jury of the county of Union on the charge of libel. The alleged libel was a vigorous attack made by THE PRESS on the notorious resort then known as The Elkwood, and on its proprietor. That indictment was looked upon by this community as a certificate of good character and a title of honor to THE PRESS. We continued to expose the iniquities practiced at the low resort referred to and succeeded in so arousing public opinion that the doors of the infamous dive were closed forever.

Craig A. Marsh was retained by THE PRESS to demand a speedy trial, and to produce the evidence to justify the charges published. The case was thoroughly prepared for trial, and THE PRESS has been eagerly awaiting the time when it would be at liberty to go before the court and jury. Term after term of court was passed, but those who by misrepresentations induced the grand jury to find the indictment failed to put in an appearance. This morning the matter was again before the court, Craig A. Marsh appearing for THE PRESS, and Senator Fred C. Marsh, as acting prosecutor, appearing for the State. The latter conceded that the State had no case, and entered a nolle prosequi, which in plain English means that the indictment is kicked out of court, and THE PRESS stands vindicated on the records of the court as well as in the estimation of the public.

Moral—Don't attempt to intimidate THE PRESS. It can't be done.

EULOGIZES FATHER CUSHING.

A Grateful Parishioner Sorrowfully Indignant at His Untimely Removal.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As a Catholic and a lover of fair play, I was much grieved when I saw in Saturday's PRESS the announcement of the sudden removal of our much-esteemed and highly-respected clergyman, Father Cushing, from being assistant rector of St. Mary's. Just now when his sterling worth and meritorious zeal had endeared him to the Catholics of Plainfield, and I might almost say to many non-Catholics as well, I am only voicing the true sentiment of the parish when I say that the action of the Rev. Father Smyth in demanding his removal by Bishop Wigger was not and will not accrue to the religious interests of St. Mary's. In the few months he has spent here, a great and increasing improvement was taking place. His able and heart-touching sermons against vice and the ruling proclivities of the age were masterpieces of practical Christianity, and the church proved it by its Sunday nights' attendance. This nineteenth century calls for or seems to want the gospel of Christ preached with zeal and burning ardor, and in that line Father Cushing filled the bill. It seems very strange that when a big parish like St. Mary's gets an able and educated curate, a man of missionary travel and experience, that just as soon as he is God's own time becomes the instrument of producing good fruit he is sent away and the wayward souls of the parish relapse again into the old roadway. This article is not written with malice or a shadow of dictation as to how the Rev. Father Smyth may conduct the spiritual or other affairs of his parish, but I claim the right as a Catholic and one of his parishioners to give vent to my feelings in regard to the appreciation in which I and the big majority of the parish of St. Mary's held Father Cushing; and I further declare that in my humble opinion it will be a long time before our parish will again be favored with so able an expounder of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

MICHAEL J. ADAMS,
111 Richmond street.

THE SEWERAGE PROBLEM.

North Plainfield Authorities Bound to Remedy Every Defect.

Councilmen Needham and Hummer were last night appointed by the North Plainfield borough council as a committee to consider the matter of joining with Plainfield city in establishing a pest-house.

This action was in line with a recommendation by Mayor Saunders in connection with his report on the sewerage matter.

Mr. Saunders said that he and his committee had had a long, careful and satisfactory conference with the Plainfield authorities. They had reported to the Plainfielders that through the vigilance and activity of the Borough Board of Health sewerage discharge into Green brook had been abolished from that side. The Plainfielders had agreed to stop sewage connection as far as practicable. They would grant no further permits for the North avenue sewer. They would provide a flush tank so as to prevent accumulations of discharges at the mouth of the sewer. They would cut off all other connections with the brook. All this—said Mr. Saunders—was a gratifying step in the right direction. Of course the best thing was to cut off sewage connection altogether, but so radical a thing could not be done in the case of the North avenue main. Several objectionable features, however, were to be obliterated as stated, and if the sewage discharges into the brook were still obnoxious further action would be taken.

The committee, Mr. Saunders continued, had looked into the whole question of sewerage, but, recognizing that the Plainfield authorities had gone carefully and thoroughly into that question, they were waiting to hear what plan was to be proposed.

In the matter of a pest-house, Mr. Saunders said that North Plainfield's need was surely as great as Plainfield's, and he advised that the borough pay a portion of the expense of providing a house in its outskirts and have the privilege of sending its contagious disease patients there. The committee was then appointed as stated.

Plainfield will take action to secure a pest-house as Mayor Gilbert recommended, next Monday night.

Her Chief Gift Was a Fine Piano.

A very pleasant party was given to Miss Ida May Tallamy at her home, 72 West Sixth street, on the occasion of her tenth birthday anniversary, Thursday. Twenty-eight of her little friends had a very pleasant time from 5 to 9. At 8 the grand march was started, led by Miss Reba Kline and Master Willie Westphal. Among the little ones participating were Miss Florence White, Miss Ethel Crane, Miss Florence Clarkson, Miss Ada Westphal, Miss Louise Curtis, Miss Mabel Sumner, Miss Ella Banner, Miss Cora Harris, the Misses Ada and May Wallingder, Miss Vesy Rushton, the Misses Ida and Bessy Thompson, Miss Dora Ulrich and many others.

They were then seated at a bountiful repast, after which they indulged in many games. Numerous and handsome gifts were bestowed on the young hostess. Among them was a beautiful upright piano, the gift of her brother. All left well pleased with their evening's enjoyment, wishing Miss Ida many happy returns of her natal day.

A GORGEOUS EVENT.

The Handsomest German Ever Given in Plainfield, Was that of the Reinharts in Honor of a Sweet Kentucky Belle.

Among the most enjoyable dances this season was the german given on Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart of Netherwood, in honor of their guest, Miss Young of Louisville, Ky. The entire first floor of Mr. Reinhart's spacious house was crashed for dancing. The favors were very pretty, and of the old-fashioned kind that are slowly coming in again after the deluge of silver trinkets that have been the fashion for the past two years. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and palms. Louis G. Timpson and Miss Young shared the honors of leading. The cotillion began at 10, and an elaborate supper was served by Sherry at small tables at 11:30, after which the german was continued until 2 a. m. The guests were chiefly from the young dancing set that is seen at the assemblies. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. William Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. D. VanVliet, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ralli, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Mrs. Bates of Louisville, Ky., Misses VanBoskerck, Yates, Harris, Huntington, Collen, Bushnell, Stewart, Walz, Murphy, Ellis, Young of Louisville, Ky., Wharton of Pittsburg, Ham of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Knolse, Miss Force and Miss Cornwell of New York, Mr. Daly of Bergen Point, and Messrs. Wharton, VanBuren, Huntington, Walz, Borden, Moore, Munn, Waring, VanBoskerck, Erickson, Summers.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

The Improvement is Coming—Work on the Other End.

There is not very much talk—says the New Brunswick Home News—these days about the proposed electric railway joining Somerville, Raritan, Bound Brook and New Brunswick, but it is confidently believed that the scheme is being pushed, though not by local capitalists or the city railway.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette throws light upon its end of the scheme in the following item published in its last issue of yesterday:

The electric railway from Raritan to New Brunswick is now an assured thing unless something unlooked for happens between now and the opening of spring. The road will be commenced early in the spring at the Raritan end. It is thought that permission to run through Main street, Somerville, will be granted by the commissioners. Should there be any trouble about this the company will lay their tracks between Somerville and Bound Brook. The road promises to be a great improvement to this vicinity.

A Pretty Healthy City, This.

The Board of Health reports 171 marriages for the year, 236 births and 187 deaths. The past 12 months, it says, have been as free from epidemic and contagious diseases as in any previous year. The cases of contagious disease numbered 127, of which only 6 were fatal. The danger of cholera during the fall urged to special action, and good work had been done in the line of house-to-house inspection, disinfection, etc.

The Board urged upon the Council last night the need of a pest-house, and that matter was referred to the finance committee. Permanent remedy of the perplexing North avenue sewer problem and of the gravel-pit nuisance was urged.

The Same Old Fakir at It Again

Such of the New York papers as are represented by the news jobbers of the Courier shop, published yesterday a yarn from Plainfield to the effect that the reason Father Cushing had been removed from St. Mary's parish, was because of gross offense he had given in preventing waltzing in the Young men's Lyceum hall. THE PRESS last week exposed a similar fabrication from the same pen, concerning the trouble that was falsely alleged to exist over the "waltzing" matter. The fact is, Father Cushing's action concerning waltzing at the Lyceum was in exact accord with the views of Father Smyth and Bishop Wigger. He did his duty in that, and offended no one. His removal was for altogether different reasons. For truthful Plainfield news, don't look in the papers represented by the Courier people. Remember the Crescent Avenue Church "panic"!

Thousands sink into an early grave for want of a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup This great remedy would have saved them

A DEMORALIZED CHURCH.

Only Seven Left in the Congregation, and One of Them Is the Organ-Pumper.

(From The New York Herald.)

Rector J. B. Jennings, of Grace Episcopal church, Westfield, N. J., who has become unpopular with his parishioners, is likely soon to be an unknown quantity in that town.

The committee appointed by Bishop Scarborough some time ago decided that the charges of lying, and drunkenness brought against the pastor were not sufficiently substantiated to warrant an ecclesiastical trial.

From that time the vestrymen of Grace church have not known exactly what action to take.

They had no hesitation in saying that they intended resigning their positions as officers of the church, but Mr. Jennings made that impossible by refusing to call a vestry meeting.

Finally the rector changed his mind, and last Friday night he called a meeting of the vestrymen and the rector's resignation was promptly called for by the church officers.

Rector Jennings did not manifest the least surprise, nor did he show any inclination to accept the situation. He simply acknowledged the sentiment of the vestry and said that he would take the matter under advisement.

The rector will not discuss the matter and the vestrymen are almost equally reticent, but I was told yesterday at Westfield by a member of the church that Mr. Jennings will resign early in the spring.

If he does not, I was further informed, the vestrymen will themselves resign in a body and turn the church over to the keeping of Bishop Scarborough.

The congregation is already said to have dwindled to six persons without mentioning the boy who pumps the organ.

A Surprised Congressman.

Hon. James A. D. Richards, representative-elect from the new Seventeenth Congressional district of Ohio, is a guest among friends and relatives of this city and North Plainfield. Tuesday night while a guest of John G. Haberle, 3 Harmony street, North Plainfield, he was "surprised" in a most pleasant manner, a number of friends having gathered there to make the honorable gentleman's acquaintance. After introductions, master-of-ceremonies, John Carney, introduced Messrs. Harry Spencer and Adams, who rendered some fine music on the violin and guitar. Afterward came remarks from ex-postmaster William L. Force, songs by the "Eclipse" quartette, composed of Messrs. Joseph Martin, Robert Schiereth, Elias Soulhard and Harry Spencer, remarks by Charles Smith, recitation, "The Captain's Daughter", by Miss Lilly Haberle, speech by the Hon. J. A. D. Richards, and laughable recitations by John H. Carney. Afterward came refreshments in abundance. The honorable gentleman expressed himself as agreeably surprised and pleased over the event. Mr. and Mrs. Haberle, who are relatives of Mr. Richards, are to be congratulated upon the success of the occasion.

—O'Reilly furnished the music for the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. S. Daggart at White House, Saturday.

"Ailing Women,

"Hear my story and believe.

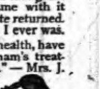
"I was about dead with womb trouble when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I did not know what rest was for months. I was so dizzy and faint at times I thought I was dying. Oh! how my back did ache! and I was so cross and irritable!

"I am to-day a living witness of the wonderful and almost miraculous effects of that great remedy. Relief came with it at once. My appetite returned. I am now as well as I ever was.

"If you wish for health, have faith in Mrs. Pinkham's treatment and medicine."—Mrs. J. Arthur, Taylor, Texas.

From the uterus and womb spring nearly all of woman's troubles.



All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS. Liver Pills, 25 cents.

PIANOS
AND ORGANS
FROM
S.D. Lauter Co.
657-659 Broad St.
NEWARK, N.J.

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOYS' SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and see your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings until [illegible] 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S. NEWARK, N. J.

9 17 tf

WORTH MILLIONS.

A Valuable Idea and Who Got the Cash.

Howard Fielding Tells a Story Which Is Pointed at People Who Would Like to Go to Work for Themselves—A Needed Lesson.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

This story is addressed to that man (if any such there be) who would like to quit working for somebody else and begin to make a little money for himself, by way of variety. I do not mean to insinuate that he cares more for his interests than for those of his employer, for that were treason, but only that his poor, weak human heart will sometimes long for a change, especially on those days when he is docked for getting to the shop five minutes late by a clock that is ten minutes fast and then asked to work four hours overtime without extra pay.

It is not my story; oh, dear, no. It is the story of an unsuccessful man who cannot pay his rent promptly by check on the first of the month; who has to get along with the aid of all the modern conveniences; who buys furniture and pie and Chinese laundry tickets on the installment plan. He opened his heart to me with these words:

"I was born poor and honest, but have succeeded in eliminating one of those microbes from my system, and I understand that people do not have it twice. Poverty, however, is like malaria. You may have it as many times as you want to. I am slow to make up my mind, but one day I decided that I would like to be rich. I did not ask to be too confounded rich, you know, but to have just so much that my friends would attribute it to treason and piracy, and enemies to 'bull luck' and stupidity.

"Just about that time an idea came to me. I was at dinner in a place where the bill of fare cries beans, beans, and the customer is never satisfied. I had ordered coffee, and was about to partake of something which looked like a piece of the Missouri river on the breaking up of a hard winter. Then the inspiration hit me. I do not know whether it came out of the coffee, but the stuff looked as if it might contain almost anything. I paused with the cup half way between a cracked saucer and a broken spirit, and gazed at that idea for about fifteen minutes.

"It was the mental picture of an article the like of which could be sold to forty thousand people in New York city alone, in a single year, for three times the cost of manufacture. I set down the cup, and drew from my pocket a number of envelopes containing bills. On the venerable back of the oldest of these I figured my income as it would be a year from that day, when the idea should be fairly in operation. I went over the process several times, because I did not wish to lose a dollar by careless arithmetic. The sight of the great and glorious total filled my heart so full of joy and peace that when, an hour later, the bouncer threw me out of the place, in the avowed belief that I was blind drunk, I gave him a quarter for his courtesy, and readily promised not to come back any more."

"What was it, Johnny," said I; "a patent lightning rod?"

"No," he replied, "nor it wasn't something which will be indispensable to every traveling man when we all learn to fly. It was good stuff, and forty thousand were sold right here. But wait till I tell you about it. I needed capital to begin with. My own savings wouldn't start the business, and my credit wouldn't start water down hill. The sum required was not large. In addition to what I had, about one thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars and fifty cents, making two thousand in all, would do at a pinch. It looked easy to raise that amount. Although you would never suspect it, I have a considerable acquaintance among really wealthy men. There's old Israel Hopkins. I once did him a considerable service in a political way. It was when he lived in Rutland, Vt., and he told me I could have anything I wanted when the democrats carried the state. I went to see him at his office in this city. He said that he was entirely at leisure for ten minutes, at the end of which time he would have to catch a train. He looked at his watch seven hundred and twenty-nine times in the course of that ten minutes. I explained the whole matter to him as well as I could under these disquieting conditions. Suddenly he jumped up and jammed his hat down upon his head.

I PROMISED NOT TO RETURN.

"'Your idea's a rattling good one, my boy,' said he. 'What you want to do is to advertise for a partner. There are plenty of suckers to be caught that way. When you get him sock it to him; skin him; take his pelt. That's the way to do business. You make money whether the other fellow does or not. Put an ad. in all the papers to-morrow. I wish you success. Good-by, my boy; good-by.'

"Well, old man, I won't weary you by these stories. It's the same in every case where one wants to borrow. I'll tell you at once how I got the money. I went to Simon R. Payne. He couldn't refuse me. By the high hump of the Sacred Gnu, I was in a state of mind to have it out of him by blackmail, if it wouldn't come any other way. Perhaps Simon read it in my glittering eye, for he said at once: 'Johnny, I'm going to do the square thing by you.' Then I knew he was going to cheat me. When a man opens the conversation that way, you may feel sure that he intends to put a mortgage on your vital organs, and foreclose it in fifteen minutes. I wanted to say: 'Mr. Payne, before you do what you call the square thing by me, I should like a few hours in which to settle up my earthly affairs.' But without waiting for me to reply he continued: 'I'm going to let you have this money without any security, and all I ask is one-half the net profits after my money has been returned, which must be within one year.'"

"Well, that wasn't very bad, Johnny," said I.

"That's what you think," said he, "and I suppose half the business men in the city would agree with you. That's the trouble with the whole industrial system; robbery is so common that it looks right. Now here was a business in which the idea was everything. If it succeeded at all, old Payne would simply sit in his chair and draw three or four hundred per cent. on money which he should have loaned freely, as a matter of friendship or gratitude, at the least. But here he was offering to take half of the profits for putting in his capital which, by the conditions of his offer, was to be returned to him before I got anything. And I was to do all the work."

HE SPUN DOUBLE EAGLES BEFORE HIM.

"So you declined his offer?" said I.

"Not by a jugful," said Johnny. "I jumped at it. If he had shown the least sign of getting away, I would have followed him one thousand feet straight up into the air, rather than lose him. I closed with him. Then he said: 'You won't have to show any money. Just tell the people who take your order for these things that I'm back of you, and it will be all right.' It was all right. I went to my manufacturer. He agreed to make the things at the price which looked reasonable to me. He guaranteed everything. He promised that I should have the first thousand any time—day before yesterday, if I insisted upon it. Then I went to make arrangements to have the stuff put on the market. I went to several of the large retailers of goods in that line. They all said that they didn't handle anything unless it came from the regular wholesale houses. They intimated that their souls were not their own, but were obtained from their regular wholesale houses on very hard terms. They advised me to go to the regular wholesale houses and prostrate myself on their thresholds.

"I went and prostrated myself. 'You should sell this thing for five dollars,' said the first wholesaler. 'It will cost one dollar and twenty-five cents to make. We will act as your distributing agent if you will pay the cost of manufacture and distribution, and guarantee us seventy per cent. of the difference between cost and selling price.' I took that proposition home and had the nightmare with it. Then I went to another wholesaler, and got substantially the same reply, after which I went home and had substantially the same nightmare. There were only three men on the list, so the retailers said, and I visited the third next day. Then I went to the first and accepted his terms.

"The business was now fairly under way. I was devoting my whole time to it without salary, and was supporting myself in some mysterious way which I have never since been able to remember. But I know that it left me three hundred dollars in debt. When the first thousand were ready—about a month after the time agreed upon—I went to see the first wholesaler. He said: 'Jones (the second wholesaler) is putting the same thing on the market. You must stop him. I look to you to protect your patent.' I did some fine detective work, and found out that R. C. Billings, one of the men I had applied to for money to start the business, had started it himself. I also found that C. J. Mills, another who had refused me, had started the manufacture, and proposed to make his sale through the third wholesaler.

"Old Payne said that I must have a lawyer. I got one. He secured an injunction restraining Billings from turning out the goods, and then Mills got one restraining us. These legal struggles occupied a year, at the end of which time Payne sued me for two thousand dollars. I had never seen his two thousand dollars, but he produced a copy of our agreement, which was, in effect, a receipt for me. Then all the people who had trusted me on Payne's account sued me for the money. At this juncture Billings and Mills combined and won their suit against me. Then they put their goods on the market and they sold like gold bars. My dreams were more than realized—by others. They are rich men to-day, while I am wearing a winter overcoat which would look shabby if the statue of Horace Greeley wore it over his bronze, ready-made pantaloons."

HOWARD FIELDING.

Misunderstood.

"How do you call your dog?"

"Don't call him at all; I whistle for him."—Harper's Young People.

A ROYAL VISITOR.

Donna Maria Isabel de Borbon, Infanta of Spain.

The Distinguished Lady Who Is to Represent the Spanish Queen-Regent and King at the World's Columbian Exposition.

Her Royal Highness the Serenisima Senora Infanta of Spain, Donna Maria Isabel de Borbon y Borbon, who is the eldest sister of the deceased King Don Alfonso XII., and consequently the aunt of the present king, has announced her intention of visiting the world's fair shortly after its opening. As the infanta has been connected with many of the important events of Spanish history during the latter half of this century, the promised visit of her royal highness will be doubly interesting, says Harper's Weekly. She was born in the royal palace of Madrid, on the 20th of December, 1851, and married to a Sardinian prince, his highness the count of Girgenti, who died within a short time. During the revolution in Spain the infanta Isabel joined Queen Isabella II. in Paris. Being endowed with high courage, she helped to make more bearable the exile of her august parents and brothers during those sad days in the Palais de Castille, when the royal family of Spain felt more grief for the misfortunes of their country than for their own troubles. After the restoration of the legitimate monarchy, and on the return of Alfonso XII. to the throne of his ancestors, the king was accompanied by the Infanta Isabel, who shared with her royal brother, justly called "The Peacemaker," the triumphs of the first years of his short but most glorious reign. She crowned with laurel the victorious king who had terminated the civil wars that had ravaged his Basque provinces, Navarra, and his island of Cuba, consoling at the same time those he had subdued. Knowing them only as her countrymen, she gave them her treasures together with her love and protection.

Some time afterwards King Alfonso married his first cousin, the daughter of the duke of Montpensier, the beautiful Queen Mercedes, and upon the early death of the queen the infanta was a great consolation to her bereaved brother, whom she dearly loved. After he died she devoted herself in turn to his august widow, the present queen regent of Spain, Donna Maria Christina, a model queen, wife and mother, and the perpetuator on the throne of St. Ferdinand of the traditions of Donna Maria de Molina. The Infanta Isabel has always been the constant companion of the regent and of the baby king. The Spanish people, and particularly the people of Madrid, idolize her because charity is her first virtue, and her constant thought is to help the poor and comfort the unfortunate. To this purpose she devotes most of her income, sustaining hospitals and asylums, and supplements this work with her personal visits to the poor and sick. She is also patroness of all Spanish industries and arts. Enthusiastically fond of music, and of all the fine arts, she presides over concerts, and constantly organizes exhibitions, being always surrounded by the leading authors and artists. She knows by heart the gems of the rich classical Spanish literature, as well as most of the modern, and is acquainted with the works of other countries. She speaks Portuguese, French, Italian, English and German as fluently as her own language, and her conversation is very bright and full of talent.

DONNA MARIA, INFANTA OF SPAIN.

Some of her leisure hours are devoted to sport, of which she is also extremely fond. A daring rider, she appears in her pink coat, honoring the hunts at the [illegible] "La Venta" de la Rubia, near Madrid, during the winter at most of the meetings, and in autumn enjoys the stag-hunting in the wild hills of Riofrio, near the Palacio de la Granja. Her highness is also very fond of driving, which she does to perfection, even with the most spirited four-in-hand.

Distinguished and highly cultivated, but, above all, charitable and affectionate, it may well be said of this princess that her royal crown fairly glistens with virtues, and no wonder that she be loved at the court of Madrid. In times of sorrow the Infanta has been the greatest consolation, and now, in these days of glory, when all the nations of the old world join the countries of America at La Rabida, Palos, Madrid, New York and Chicago to honor Columbus and Spain, the discovering nation, she is one of the most prominent figures of her time, of which Spain is proud.

It is on this account, undoubtedly, that we hear that she has been chosen to represent the king and queen of Spain at the World's Columbian exposition.

The coming of the Infanta, who bears the same name as the great queen who is equally a glory of America and of Spain, will be highly appreciated by the American people. They will welcome and receive her as she deserves, being fully alive to the great honor done to them by the queen regent of Spain in sending such a distinguished and beloved princess to represent her in the greatest celebration of the nineteenth century.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

How One Young Man Was Helped to Find It.

An Act of Courage Which Found Its Reward—Story Without a Love Romance—Philanthropy of the Eminently Practical Kind.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

Although not a teller of romantic tales, by either profession or inclination, I am tempted to-day to relate an episode in the life of a personal friend which may take the place of a dry statistical essay to the satisfaction of most of my readers. The story has the merit of being founded on the experience of a gentleman favorably known in the financial world of Chicago; a man, in short, who occupies a position in life equal in importance to that of the president of a large railroad company.

In the spring of 1877 this gentleman had just entered business life in the capacity of errand boy to a private banking firm in a small city in Iowa. His duties consisted mainly in sweeping and dusting the office, copying letters and running errands for his employers and those of the clerks who had a best girl living in the village.

George—and this is the true name of the hero of my tale—performed the work assigned to him to the best of his ability, and in the course of six or seven months was promoted to be assistant bookkeeper. He was then eighteen years of age, bright, accommodating, a general favorite and the main support of a widowed mother who had spent most of her small capital to give the boy a fair education.

In the early winter of the same year the town in which this comedy drama opens experienced a "boom." For several decades it had been dependent on one railroad company, and when the directors of another trunk line resolved to extend their road the citizens made a supreme effort to secure the benefit of a competing line. The company demanded a subsidy, and in order to push its interests sent its president to the town. This official arrived amid blowing of trumpets, and with him came a pretty little girl, his daughter. While driving one evening the horses attached to the carriage containing the railroad magnate and his child became frightened and ran away. Escape from serious injury seemed impossible—and would have been impossible, had not young George, at the risk of his life, stopped the maddened animals at the brink of a high embankment.

Those who have been addicted to the reading of love stories will now rise and remark that the young man earned the everlasting gratitude of the railroad man, that he was forthwith given a lucrative position and in the course of time became the husband of the charming little girl. Others, of a more misanthropic turn of mind, will observe that the bloated capitalist did not even acknowledge the young fellow's gallantry, but continued his drive unconcernedly. If either of these conclusions were correct, I would not be justified in relating this story, as scores of writers of fiction have used such plots time and again. I am merely chronicling events as they actually happened, and if they savor somewhat of the proverbial in the beginning I am not to blame.

AT THE RISK OF HIS LIFE.

The truth of the matter is, the capitalist returned his thanks in a few well-chosen words and there the matter seemed to end. The young fellow pursued the even tenor of his way and in the course of time became teller of the country bank. He had made up his mind to spend the remainder of his life in his native town, as the directors held out a promise that he would be appointed cashier as soon as arrangements could be perfected.

After living for ten or twelve years in a country town the average human being is satisfied with his lot. George had never made his home in a large city. He had paid short visits to Chicago and New York, where he found himself a stranger among millions of fellow creatures. He always returned to his home with a feeling akin to ecstasy. There he was one of the leading young men. His opinions were received with respect. Society, such as it was, courted him. Business men predicted a grand future for him.

Nothing equals a small town for downright clannishness. Woe to the stranger who dares breathe a word against the western community which is growing in numbers and prosperity. His social status is forever blighted. City people have no adequate conception of the local pride existing in such municipalities, and are inclined to laugh at their pretentious claims, forgetting or never thinking of the fact that it was this spirit which built up prosperous towns in regions sparsely settled and made the west the controlling section of our country.

In 1885 George was appointed cashier of his bank, but before he entered upon the duties of the office was astonished by receiving a letter from a Philadelphia banking house offering him a position at a salary which made his head swim. Eighteen hundred dollars is considered a princely income in a western town of 5,000 or 6,000 people; hence when the young man was confronted with a request to exchange his services for $4,000 per annum he was thrown into a delirium of joy. Of course he accepted the post, and departed for Philadelphia as soon as possible.

He found his new duties to be arduous as well as responsible, but never failed to make himself useful. After he had become familiar with the requirements of the business he offered suggestions which seemed so timely to the managers of the house that they were adopted and carried out with surprisingly satisfactory results.

The members of the firm were favorably impressed with the young Iowan's business ability and with his modest, unassuming ways. They took a personal interest in him and introduced him into the best houses of Philadelphia. The result was a love episode which ended in a marriage.

Shortly afterward the firm assumed control of a great financial enterprise in the west, and when it was found necessary to appoint a general manager for the undertaking George was selected. He removed to Chicago, and began his new work with a determination to succeed. In three months he straightened out the complicated affair and had a bankrupt corporation on a promising basis. When the company was reorganized in 1888 the shrewd young man was unanimously elected president at a salary of $18,000 a year and a certain share of the profits.

"I DID NOT LOSE SIGHT OF YOU."

About this time a mystery which had puzzled George for years was solved. He had cudgeled his brain to learn who had been instrumental in securing the Philadelphia position for him and who had pushed him along since that time.

In January, 1890, he attended a meeting of the stockholders of his company at Philadelphia. As he entered the room he was greeted heartily by an old gentleman who was an entire stranger. He returned the salutation politely, and turned to another gentleman to learn who the stranger might be.

"That old gentleman," replied George's friend, "is Mr. A——, the principal stockholder of your company and one of the most substantial citizens of Philadelphia."

Here was the key to the mystery. Mr. A—— was the railroad magnate who had visited his Iowa home in 1877 and to whom he had rendered a small service now almost forgotten.

After the meeting had adjourned, the portly old gentleman invited the young man to call at his residence to meet his daughter and her husband and "to talk over some matters of mutual interest."

The visit was indeed a pleasant one. After some general conversation George learned that he had never been forgotten by the railway president and his charming daughter.

"I wanted papa to give you some money," said the young matron, "but he refused."

"Yes, I refused," interrupted the old gentleman. "But I did not lose sight of you. Your employers kept me informed of your progress in business, and an old schoolmate of mine who resides in your old home sent me regular reports of your habits and associations. What I heard was very satisfactory. A vacancy occurred in the Philadelphia banking house which, by the way, is controlled by me, and I brought you here where I could keep my own eyes on you. I noticed with pleasure that you were not only a good business man, but also a good citizen, and when I needed a reliable man in Chicago I selected you. Had I given you money when you were a mere boy it might have ruined you. As it is, you have become a man of influence and are indebted to no one but yourself for your remarkable success."

When in a particularly good humor, the gentleman known to the reader as George will recite "the story of his life," as here outlined. Some time I may be tempted to give his full name, but at present I am, unfortunately, under obligations not to reveal his identity.

G. W. WEIPPIERT.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, Cal., and that of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his hatred for redskins; Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow." Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest-hearted and best-known stage driver of the west, who was kind to all and thought ill of none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the Golden Streets."

And Possibly Second-Hand.

George—Why do you frown upon my suit?

Maisie—Because it's ready-made.—Chicago News Record.

Sympathetic.

Mrs. Stimpson—I need some money, George.

Mr. Stimpson—So do I.

ALFRED DE ROTHSCHILD.

England's Spokesman at the Brussels Monetary Conference.

It has been said that the most important result accomplished by the international monetary conference at Brussels has been the practical admission by monometallic countries that there is something in the silver question. Some extreme advocates of a single standard have argued that the finances of gold countries were secure so long as their system was adhered to. The Brussels conference, says the Illustrated American, has made converts to the belief that the accumulation of silver in the United States, for instance, under the present law is like storing water behind a dam; should the accumulation of silver become too great and the United States be obliged to put their stock upon the market the result might be like the breaking of the dam, and the flood might hurt other countries besides the one concerned most directly. This is taken as one meaning of Alfred de Rothschild's proposals, which had the approval of eminent English financiers.

ALFRED DE ROTHSCHILD.

Alfred de Rothschild, who presented proposals in behalf of Great Britain, is practically dictator of the English banking house of Rothschild. He unites amiability with ability and is remembered as the only director of the Bank of England who, when he visited the western branch in Burlington gardens to examine the books and securities, made a practice of bringing a box of cigars with him for the delectation of the clerks. He is a great dinner giver and a great swell. To be his guest at dinner settles a man's position in London society. He is very fond of jewelry. He has no title, his father having dropped the baron when he became a British citizen.

HERBERT SPENCER.

The Great English Philosopher Not Expected to Live.

Herbert Spencer, philosopher and author, although in the 73d year of his life, has been strong and active until a very short time. His health is now failing him, and it seems doubtful if he will recover.

He was born in 1820 at Derby, and received his education from his father and uncle, Rev. Thomas Spencer. At 17 he became a civil engineer, and [illegible] through he had severe [illegible] to "The Civil Engineers' and Architects' Journal."

His first literary production was a series of letters on "The Proper Sphere of Government" published in 1842. From 1848—'53 he was sub-editor of the "Economist," and during that time published his first important work, entitled "Social Statistics, or The Conditions Essential to Human Happiness and One of Them Developed," but this is now out of print.

In 1855 his "Principles of Psychology" appeared; and since 1857 his life has been devoted for the most part to the execution of his "System of Synthetic Philosophy."

HERBERT SPENCER.

Spencer's works have been extensively translated into French, German, Russian, Italian and Spanish; and the works on education into Hungarian, Bohemian, Polish, Dutch, Danish, Swedish, Greek, Japanese and Chinese.

The Giant of All Timepieces.

The greatest horological wonder in the world to-day is the gigantic clock in the tower of the immense "public building" at Philadelphia. When everything is in running order this marvel of the clockmaker's art will be stationed a distance of 351 feet from the pavement. Its bell weighs between 20,000 and 25,000 pounds and is the second largest bell of any kind in America, the great bell at Montreal being the largest, weighing 28,000 pounds. The dial of this Philadelphia titan is 25 feet in diameter and the striking hammer is as large as a pile-driver weight. The minute hand is 12 and the hour hand 9 feet in length. The machinery is arranged so that the clock will strike every fifteen minutes, the quarter, half, three-quarters and hours. The Roman numerals on the face are each about 3 feet 8 inches in length, the dark part of the figures being 3½ inches in width. As it is entirely out of the question to talk of winding such a monster by hand, a three-horse power engine has been placed at the square of the tower for that especial purpose.

Aluminum Boats.

The manufacturers of paper rowing shells say they do not fear the competition of aluminum shells. Still many aluminum boats are being constructed. In 1855 aluminum was worth $90 a pound; now it can be purchased for about 75 cents a pound.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Apr. 18, 1892, trains leave Elizabeth as follows:

9.35 A. M. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibule Parlor and Sleeping Cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for Toledo.

7.03 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car to Philadelphia daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Toledo.

[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

[illegible]

For further information, see time tables to be had at the ticket offices.

CHARLES E. PUGH, General Manager.

J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect JAN. 22, 1893.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

[illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

[illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

[illegible]

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

[illegible] CONNECTING SUBSCRIBERS—[illegible] AND DUNELLEN. [illegible] PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—49 North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 5th st
Ames, C J	10 Crescent ave
[illegible] Hose Co., No 1	Madison ave
Ackerman, Mrs J. B	21 West 9th street
Adams, Dr D C	46 Grove st
Berkeley, F W	Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac S	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo H	9th and Union sts.
Berkshire & Dunn	11 North ave.
[illegible], W. C., M. D	Cor. Front & Central Av.
[illegible], John	Central ave, and 8th st.
[illegible] J B	Park av and 2d st
Barry, Jas P, M D	16 E 6th st
Board of Education	6th st. 6th and Union sts
Booth, E H	92 Madison ave
	5th & Liberty, 6th & Monroe
Clark, E B	3 Waywood place
Children's Home	Jackson ave
Clawson, James T	Richmond and Front sts.
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	3 North ave.
Clark, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves.
Cox, Rowland	Seventh st
Chapman Wm. P. A	3 Third Place
Cruikshank, S. A	120 Carlton avenue
Carman, J H, M D	40 Somerset st
Chase, D F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, F H Lounsb[illegible]	Park ave and Front st
Daily Press	3 North ave.
[illegible], Mrs. E S	16 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	42 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr F S	Cor 6th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
Demarest, P M	77 Park av
Dumont, John B	20 E 7th st
Decker, T—pay station	Westfield, N J
DeGraff, James	25 E 5th st
Dunn, T O—Chief F F D	40 W 8th st
Dellmer, S L	121 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave, and 6th st
Evening News, T. W. Morrison, Editor	7 Somerset st.
Engine No 1	West 3d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st
Evans, Geo C	97 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J	20 West Seventh St
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR, Depot
French, F M & Sons	Somerset st
Fritts, Dr J F	73 Park ave
Fleming, Howard	16 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, C Frank	89 Somerset st
Grant Geo W, Chief of Police	28 W 6th st.
Goddard, C N	17 Third Place
[illegible], A M	16 E Front st
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New st
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
[illegible], L	51 & 53 Somerset street.
Hageman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue.
Hodges, Dr. Ellis W	3 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas	141 Front street.
[illegible] Albert	6th st. near Park ave
Higgins, M. A	76 East 4th st—28 North ave
Hetfield, John N	204 South 2d st—21 Park av
Harder, Francis C	123 Madison av
Hermance, O	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	20 North av
Jenkins, Dr. O. L	36 W. Front st
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	5th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T	50 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 5th st.
Lovell, L. N	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice	[illegible] Broadway
Laire, J P & Co	3 W Front st
Linke, Frank	42 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	[illegible]
Myers, J K	17 East 7th st
[illegible], Henry A	Willow ave
[illegible], James	Willow ave
Miller, J G	10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	20 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	[illegible] ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. H	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	40 Grove st
[illegible], A F	120 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	46 E Front st
Myers, Lawrence	E Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood
Newhall, Henry B	36 E 7th st
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
Newton, Jr., Theo B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	40 East Fourth st
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield Beef Co	3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	9 Park ave
[illegible] Station	Park ave and RR.
Potter C J Jr	3d and Division sts.
Potter Press Works	North ave
[illegible], Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave, and 9th st
Pope & Co. J. C	6 East Front st
Pittis Thomas	124 Central av
Pond Machine Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
Pierce Hardware Co	42 W Front st
[illegible], F W	1 Front st—Central Times
[illegible], Chas A	27 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry G	Broadway
[illegible], L. A	30 Broadway
Reynolds, H F	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H. F	Washington avenue
Roberts, D S	17 North avenue.
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave
Runyon, A M & Son	46 Madison ave.
Rushmore, Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st.
[illegible], Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
[illegible] H G	8th st
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, E. W. & Co	7th cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L W	Front st
[illegible], D W	42 W 2d st
Rogers, E P jr	28 Westervelt ave
[illegible], H W	20 East 9th st
Serrell, Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield av
Seguine, C J	60 Front street.
Shaw, E J	Front st., opp. Park ave
[illegible], A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shephard, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	19 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
[illegible], Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	16 E Front st
Thompson, A. D	19-21 North av
[illegible], Henry F (Res)	Netherwood
[illegible], Jno A	Madison av
Titsworth, Joe E	33 W. 7th st
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and N B'dwy
[illegible]	21 North av
Tracy, J [illegible]	6th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	27 Somerset st
Tweedy, O B	11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel	59 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
[illegible], E	36 W Front st
United States Express Co	5 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J	19 North av
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
[illegible], G	West Seventh street
[illegible], A E	5th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	at depot
[illegible], J F	W 8th st., near Grand ave
Waters, E, Ass't Chief	3d st near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
Wotherspoon O G	146 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

[illegible]

TWENTY

Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, [illegible]

Mr JOHN N. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredibly short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

[illegible]

Horses Boarded by Week or Month. [illegible]

BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

One of the Most Unique Characters in History.

His Career as a Lawyer, Statesman and Soldier—A Picturesque Individual with Great Virtues and Some Vices.

The late Benjamin Franklin Butler first saw the light of day in Deerfield, N. H., November 5, 1818. His father was Capt. John Butler, who served in the war of the revolution. Benjamin was graduated at Waterville college, Maine, was admitted to the bar in 1840, began practice at Lowell, Mass., and soon made a high reputation as a lawyer, especially in criminal cases. He also won prominence in politics at an early day, being elected to the Massachusetts house as a democrat in 1853 and to the state senate in 1859.

The following year he was a delegate to the democratic national convention at Baltimore, but withdrew with a majority of the Massachusetts delegates, with the announcement: "I would not sit in a convention where the African slave trade, which is piracy by the laws of my country, is approvingly advocated." In the same year he was defeated as the democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

When President Lincoln issued his first call for troops to suppress the southern rebellion, Butler was a brigadier general of the Massachusetts militia. On the 17th of April he marched with the Eighth Massachusetts regiment to Annapolis, and was placed in command of the district of Annapolis, which included the city of Baltimore. He entered that city on the 13th of May, 1861, at the head of nine hundred men and occupied the city, placing it under martial law. He was made a major general during the same month and assigned to the command of Fortress Monroe. Here he issued his famous proclamation declaring slaves contraband of war, and for many years afterward the negroes were universally referred to as "contrabands," "the intelligent contraband" occupying a large space in the war literature of the period. In August he commanded the force that captured Forts Hatteras and Clark, in North Carolina. His attempt to dig the Dutch Gap canal cost many thousands of lives.

About this time he became involved in a controversy with Admiral Porter, and for the good of the service the two officers were separated, Gen. Butler being assigned to command at New Orleans. It was during this controversy that the general referred to the admiral as "Bottled Porter," a soubriquet that clung to the naval commander for many years. Before his assignment to New Orleans Gen. Butler had recruited an expedition for service on the lower Mississippi. In March, 1862, the expedition reached Ship island and marched up the river to New Orleans and cooperated in the attack made upon the city by Admiral Farragut.

BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

On taking possession of the city Gen. Butler assumed despotic powers, forbade the promenading of women on the streets after nightfall, and inaugurated sanitary reforms that ultimately proved of inestimable value in guarding against epidemics of yellow fever. He armed the negroes of the city and levied forced contributions for the support of the poor and for the improvement of the city. He ordered the execution of William Mumford for tearing the American flag from the mint. He was cordially hated by the southern people, and in December, 1862, Jefferson Davis issued a proclamation declaring him an outlaw. He also seized eight hundred thousand dollars in treasure that had been deposited at the Dutch consulate, insisting that it was intended for the purchase of arms for the confederates.

December 16, 1862, Gen. Butler was recalled from New Orleans. At the time he declared that this was prompted by Louis Napoleon, who contemplated an invasion of Mexico, to which Butler was hostile. In 1863 he commanded the army of the James, including the departments of Virginia and North Carolina. He was subsequently sent to New York, where trouble was feared at the elections, but his stay there was short, owing to the protests of leading citizens and officials. Returning to North Carolina he made a futile attack upon Fort Fisher, near Wilmington. This ended his military career. He was removed by Gen. Grant and returned to his home in Massachusetts.

Gen. Butler was one of the most active of the managers appointed by the house in 1868 to conduct the impeachment proceedings against President Johnson, he at that time having been elected to congress as a republican. He was elected governor of Massachusetts in 1882 by the democrats, after having been several times previously defeated as a candidate for the same office. His administration was signalized by the Tewksbury almshouse inquiry, in which he appeared as the prosecutor. His charges were not sustained by the legislative investigating committee. He was renominated in 1883 for governor, but was defeated. In 1884 he was the candidate of the greenback and anti-monopoly parties for the presidency and received 133,825 votes. Since that time he devoted his energies to the practice of his profession, appearing in many notable cases before the United States supreme court, among them being that of the Chicago anarchists who were hanged.

The Question Specified.

"I heard Mr. and Mrs. Larimer discussing the woman question this morning," said Mr. Dinwiddie.

"Well," replied Mrs. Dinwiddie, "I've heard a good deal about the woman question and I'd just like to know exactly what it is."

"I'll tell you, then. Mrs. Larimer asked her husband if he had mailed the letter she gave him a week before, and the question excited a good deal of discussion."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A New Salad Dressing.

Barbara is very fond of salad. One day she passed her plate for a second serving, while there was still some left on it.

"Why, you haven't eaten all of your lettuce yet," said her mother.

"Please, mamma," said Barbara, "give me some more. This is all dry, and I want some with 'fumery on it."—Harper's Young People.

De Trop.

"I think I'll send her a nice album accompanied by a photograph of myself."

"Oh, leave out the photograph. I heard her say she had seen so much of you this season!"—Judge.

He Went Off On His Ear.

Impecunious Poet (bringing out roll of manuscript)—I 'ave 'ere—

Editor (busily)—Glad you have; take your ear to some conservatory of music!—Truth.

Very Impolite.

Little Dot—Mamma, isn't it impolite for folks to whisper?

Mamma—Yes, my dear.

Little Dot—Well, Dick an' Johnny has been whisperin' ever so long. They's in the nursery.

Mamma—That is very impolite. Were you near them?

Little Dot—Yes'm. I was peekin' through the keyhole.—Good News.

Arguing by Analogy.

Teacher—Who can tell me what useful article we get from the whale? Johnny?

Scholar—Whalebone.

Teacher—Right! Now, what little boy or girl knows what we get from the seal? Tommy?

Scholar—Sealing-wax.—Household Words.

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,

No. 17 Park Avenue,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,

For Family and Medicinal Use,

A SPECIALTY.

3-26-y

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Not Unlike the [illegible] Case.

He had called on her several times and finally mustered up courage and assurance to be somewhat more affectionate than the circumstances warranted perhaps.

"You must not do that!" she said somewhat nervously.

"Do what?" was the innocent query.

"Put your arm around my waist."

"Why not?"

"My big brother might come in suddenly and see you."

"Well, what of that? He couldn't kill me!"

"No, I suppose not; but he would try to borrow some money from you, and I have lost two beaux already by his doing that."—Texas Siftings.

A Sad Affair.

Teacher—What makes you look so sad?

Boy—A teamster called a man a bad name.

"Mercy! I don't wonder you were shocked."

"Yes'm; an' the man was a good deal bigger than the teamster an' he a-knocked him skyhigh; but the man was deaf an' didn't hear, an' there wasn't any fun after all."—Good News.

Explicit Instructions.

Fresh Young Man (to pretty typewriter)—Is this Mr. Jones' office?

Pretty Typewriter (laconically)—Next door.

F. Y. M. (anxious to continue conversation)—How do I get it?

P. T.—Turn the knob and open the door.—Life.

Just Like a Parvenu.

Artist—How many ancestral portraits do you wish me to paint for your new castle?

Banker—Well, I'll give you an order for eight portraits now, and if I am satisfied with them I'll hunt up some more ancestors.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Playing Church.

Mamma (reprovingly, Sunday)—You told me you were going to play church.

Little Dick—Yes'm.

"Then I'd like to know what all this loud laughing is about."

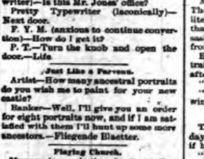
"Oh, that's all right. That's Dot and me. We're the choir."—Good News.

Seldom Fails.

Lawyer—How did you know the prisoner was intoxicated?

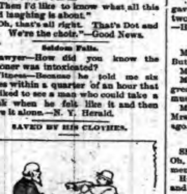
Witness—Because he told me six times within a quarter of an hour that he liked to see a man who could take a drink when he felt like it and then leave it alone.—N. Y. Herald.

SAVED BY HIS CLOTHES.



Officer McFadden—Shure, doctor, I wor chasin' a teef an' fell down an' I think I broke me arrum.

Doctor—Well, my good man, take off your coat and vest and let me see the injury.



Doctor—But for your uniform I think it would have been a compound fracture. As it is there is no harm done, but I will prescribe a tonic for you. Your system needs building up.—Chicago Mail.

Worse and More of It.

He—Miss Passe, I—

She—Pardon me, Mr. Young. I am no longer Miss Passe. Don't you know I am married?

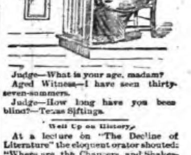
He (confusedly)—Ah, yes, I remember now. But you were Miss Passe so long, you know.—Jury.

The Genuine Article.

Lady—Are you sure this is genuine English breakfast tea?

Talented Clerk—Well, madam, I had some of that tea at supper last evening, and I dreamed all night that I was falling off of London bridge.—N. Y. Weekly.

A SAD AFFLICTION.



Judge—What is your age, madam?

Aged Witness—I have seen thirty-seven summers.

Judge—How long have you been blind?—Texas Siftings.

Well Up on History.

At a lecture on "The Decline of Literature" the eloquent orator shouted: "Where are the Chaucers, and Shakespeares, and Miltons, and Spencers, and Macaulays? Where are they, I say?"

And a voice answered sadly from the gallery: "All dead!"—Boston Globe.

An Observing Woman.

Miss De Pretty (on railway train)—There! You said men were never polite to homely women. Did you notice that handsome gentleman lower the sash for that fearfully ugly creature in front of him?

Experienced Aunt (quietly)—The train is going west and it is late in the afternoon.

"What has that to do with it?"

"The sun was shining through her window into his eyes."—N. Y. Weekly.

Got His Cards.

Tommy had just returned from Sunday school, and his mother asked him if he had been a good boy.

"Not very," he replied.

"Then you didn't get a good-behavior card?"

"Yes, I did. I saved the money you gave me, for the heathen, and bought two cards with it from the other boys."—Harper's Bazar.

Too Late.

Mrs. Gadder—Dear me, it's raining. But I must go out.

Mr. Gadder—Why must you go out?

Mrs. Gadder—Mrs. Tawker told me a great secret last night, and—well, I must go out.

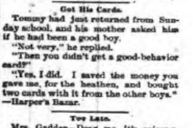
Mr. Gadder—You are too late. I saw Mrs. Tawker herself going out an hour ago.—N. Y. Press.

Why Not?

She—What did we do at the farm? Oh, the girls hugged the stove and the men smoked.

He—Why didn't the men hug the girls and let the stove smoke?—Life.

PESSIMISTIC.



That all's not gold that glitters, our
Philosophers agree;
The more we live, the more we doubt
Most everything we see.
The fruitage often contradicts
The promise of the tree;
But the worst of all her gruesome lot,
Though with abominations fraught,
Who tries an egg and finds 'tis not
What it's cracked up to be.
—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Possible Objection.

Miss Charter Oakes (from Hartford)—Yes, our city has more wealthy people in proportion to its size than any other city in the United States.

Upson Downes—I hope that won't make any difference about my visiting you, Miss Charter Oakes.

Miss Charter Oakes—Pray, why should it?

Upson Downes—I didn't know but you would object to having the average lowered.—Puck.

All in the Family.

First Masher—Well, did you make the acquaintance of that strange girl you were raving over?

Second Ditto—Yes, followed her home.

First M.—How did she strike you?

Second Ditto—She didn't at all; she got her big brother to do it.—Boston Globe.

Too Much.

She is the fairest of all girls—
Yet I must go away,
[illegible]
[illegible]
—[illegible]

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1893. No 7.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

Rates of Advertising

Space	—WEEKS— 1	2	3	—MONTHS— 1	2	3	6	12
1 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—1oclf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 133, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEISS,
Dentist,
48 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1o2f

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 180, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 4 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 91 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19tf

T. J. GILLIES.
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue and Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap1y

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. f17yl

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanlike manner. [illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.
6-27-y

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
o'16tf

ESTABLISHED 1846.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-tf

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 86.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar20tf

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 11 SOMERSET ST. 8-18-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—38 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. [illegible] P. O. Box 1 [illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobacco always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
1apl9

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!!
10 PARK AVE. (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobaccos and Smoker's Materials,
of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.
4Smd

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 26½ W. Front street, to 42 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.
1.6.8.m

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
apl8

L. R. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 26 NORTH AVENUE
apl8tf

C. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations,
or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation,
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST, DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

BUYING AN ISLAND.

An American Syndicate to Purchase San Domingo.

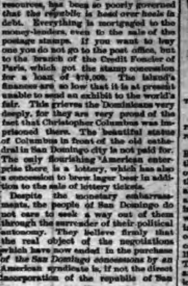
Everything in the Little Republic Is Mortgaged—If the Scheme Goes Through the United States Will Secure a Safe Harbor.

The project of certain American financiers to purchase the sovereignty of the island of San Domingo is likely to meet with effective opposition from a very natural source. The natives do not fancy the scheme. They think they see in it the beginning of the loss of their political independence. And they fought so hard and so well for that.

The concessions which give the Americans virtual control of the republic of San Domingo, says the Illustrated American, were hitherto in the possession of a firm of Amsterdam bankers, who represented the Dutch holders of San Domingo bonds. The price paid for the right to collect the customs revenues of the country is kept a secret, but it is understood to be about $8,500,000 in five per cent. debentures.

San Domingo, though rich in natural resources, has been so poorly governed that the republic is head over heels in debt. Everything is mortgaged to the money-lenders, even to the sale of the postage stamps. If you want to buy one you do not go to the post office, but to the branch of the Credit Foncier of Paris, which got the stamp concession for a loan of $70,000. The island's finances are so low that it is at present unable to send an exhibit to the world's fair. This grieves the Dominicans very deeply, for they are very proud of the fact that Christopher Columbus was imprisoned there. The beautiful statue of Columbus in front of the old cathedral in San Domingo city is not paid for. The only flourishing American enterprise there is a lottery, which has also a concession to brew lager beer in addition to the sale of lottery tickets.

Despite the monetary embarrassments, the people of San Domingo do not care to seek a way out of them through the surrender of their political autonomy. They believe firmly that the real object of the negotiations which have now ended in the purchase of the San Domingo concessions by an American syndicate is, if not the direct incorporation of the republic of San Domingo with the United States, at least the partial management by North America of the business of this republic.



GEN. ULISES HEUREAUX, PRESIDENT OF SAN DOMINGO.

Though the men who have acquired the financial control of the island maintain that they have no thoughts beyond a mere speculative enterprise, there is no denying that the political importance of their venture is very great to the United States. Through it, this country will acquire their harbor and coaling station. The holders of the concession practically rule the republic, because they pay the officials. When the negotiations for the purchase were first talked of, it was hinted that ex-Secretary Blaine and Messrs. Jay Gould and D. Ogden Mills were in the scheme, and that it would be sprung upon the country for campaign purposes. It was also suggested that the United States government was the real instigator of the scheme. It was reported that Minister Phelps, at Berlin, had officially intervened in the action of Germany in San Domingo, and had been snubbed by the under secretary of foreign affairs. One of the most active negotiators at that time also was said to be Mr. Isaacs, son of the late lord mayor of London.

It is certain that in the hands of men of enterprise, energy and wealth the island could soon develop vast prosperity.

The chief products of San Domingo, which is the oldest settlement of European origin in America, are tobacco, sugar, cocoa, mahogany and a great variety of other woods, wax, honey, turtle shell and hides. Of these, sugar, though the most recent industry, is now the most important and productive.

The minerals are gold, copper and iron. The imports in 1887 were £432,258, and the exports £373,425. In 1889-90 the revenue was estimated at £595,758. The internal debt was stated in 1890 to be £312,500, but there is in addition an acknowledged debt of £714,300 contracted in London.

San Domingo, the capital city, has a population of 15,000 and among its chief attractions are the cathedral and the Columbus residence. The area of the country is about 20,596 square miles, while the population has almost reached 500,000.

The members of the purchasing syndicate, as far as known, are Charles W. Wells and Willard Brown, of New York, and John W. Taylor, of Newark, N. J. Postmaster General Wanamaker and Senator Matthew Stanley Quay are also mentioned in connection with the scheme.

Siamese-Twin Pheasants.

A peculiar Siamese-twin pair of pheasants was shot on the wing, by a sportsman near Bellefonte, Pa., a few days ago. Both birds were perfectly developed, and were connected by a fleshy link, half an inch thick, just in front of the wings.

Varieties of Apples.

There are more than 2,000 varieties of apples raised in the United States.

THE SOUTH OF FRANCE.

The Natural Beauties and Social Charms of the Riviera.

The Mecca of the Rich and Opulent of Every Civilized Nation—Nice, Menton, Monaco, Cannes and Sainte Marguerite.

[Special Letter.]

When the thermometer falls to freezing point the well-to-do inhabitants of gay Paris begin to feel cold; they fly from the capital to warm themselves in the sunny climes of the Riviera. The south of France, or to be more precise, that section of the coast of the Mediterranean sea comprised between St. Raphael and Menton, is the winter home of a vast multitude of Europeans of all nationalities and also of a considerable number of Americans. Although Nice, Monte Carlo, Cannes and Menton, the four most frequented spots on the shore, are situated at a distance of less than a thousand miles from Paris, yet the journey down south is looked forward to with a considerable amount of apprehension. A Chicagoan will make a trip to California or Florida with far less concern than the modern Parisian will go down to Nice. Facilities for covering long distances are so plentiful in the United States that visitors to France are very often amazed at the inconvenience a twenty-hour trip offers on the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

The "[illegible]" [illegible] sent from Paris on a visit south in three weeks, but some fortunate individuals of course spend the winter, November until April, in those lovely spots where the sky is ever blue. In May the weather is too warm, and the summer months quite insupportable for inhabitants of the temperate zones.

Nice, however, is not evacuated like her sister cities when the winter is over, for Nice has grown to be a city of importance and also a military station since the annexation of Savoy by France. Its population is a mixed one, and in some quarters Italian is still spoken. From thirty-five thousand inhabitants the number has increased four-fold within the last twenty years, which, if not to be compared with the wondrous growth of Chicago and other cities of the new world, is still a very remarkable augmentation for an European town.

THE ROCKS OF SAINT AYGULF, FROM A PICTURE BY SARAH BERNHARDT.

But who cares for statistics in the Riviera? Half the visitors are down in the sunny land for their health, and the other half—by far the greater one—are there for enjoyment. And Nice, above all places, is a home of pleasure. It abounds in opera houses and theaters, in cafe-chantants and casinos. Those who are not inclined to spend the evening out of doors find their days fully occupied with walks along the magnificent promenade des Anglais, the public garden and the different quays. That modern Nice owes its prosperity and ornamentation mainly to her American and English visitors is a fact acknowledged by all. To the latter nation is due the promenade, called after the sons of Albion, for they first perceived the capabilities of their admirable site, which has been transformed into a broad roadway lined with palm trees and with grand hotels, stately houses and luxuriously-fitted clubs overlooking the bluest of all the seas.

But I do not go to Nice for its operas, its theaters, its concerts, or its balls. I do not go to see its elaborate and amusing carnival, neither do I journey down south for the horse racing. I merely go to Nice because I wish to be at Monte Carlo. So say many. And strange as it may appear, for Monte Carlo is about twenty miles to the east of Nice, it is nevertheless the truth. Yes, hundreds and thousands of gamblers go to Nice year after year to see what has been somewhat harshly described as "the sewerage of all creation flowing into a cesspool of iniquity." They dare not stay in the little principality of Monaco itself for fear of spending their entire existence in the gambling rooms of Monte Carlo, the capital of that little country, and so they stay at Nice and ride down by train every day to help fill the coffers of the prince of Monaco, maintain his army and his police force, and settle all the expenses of the government in addition to distributing a fabulous dividend to the lucky shareholders who run the establishment. Gambling in the south of France has attained such a pitch that to restrain themselves in a certain measure some men live at Nice and deposit their funds at Cannes, which is situated as far to the west of Nice as Monte Carlo is to the east, so that when they are "broke" they must make a three hours' journey by the steam cars to procure more of the sinews of war. This cessation in the fight against the tables often gives them time for reflection, but not always.

It seems indeed a crime to talk of all this folly when in so charming a country. Rather let us leave the principality of Monaco to the fascination of the fickle goddess and hasten to scenes more beautiful and to an atmosphere more pure. We have spoken of Cannes; to Cannes then let us adjourn. A century ago there were but three streets in the village and they were inhabited by the lowest class of sailors. Now Cannes is the favorite resort of all the crowned heads of the world. Damp, dirty, despised little Cannes has become coquettish and charming, superb and magnificent, the wintering station of all titled persons and of a fair number of wealthy ones. Grand houses have sprung up where there were only huts, and fair gardens have grown where all was bare and bleak. Empresses and duchesses ride in costly equipages upon the smooth roads, where the poor fisherman dragged his net on the shingle.

But bright, prosperous and aristocratic as Cannes may be, with royalty and nobility gazing in fond admiration on the little islands of its bay and on that scene of transcendent beauty, which makes one sigh with happiness when looking toward the lovely roseate Esterel mountains in their marvelous beauty of form and color, it is not to be compared to Nice. Nice remains with her suburbs and surroundings what she was in the times of the Romans and what in all probability she always will be, queen of the Riviera.

Cannes has nevertheless many attractions. Romance and history lend a particular charm to the island of St. Marguerite, which lies opposite the city where the "Man in the Iron Mask" was imprisoned and whence more recently, and certainly more positively, Marshal de Bazaine effected his escape from the same dungeon. And besides it possesses the most remarkable and interesting garden which we have ever seen or heard of—the Valetta California—the property of a Frenchman, M. Camille Dognin.

AVENUE DES PALMIERS, HYERES.

To the east of Nice, only a few miles beyond Monte Carlo, lies Menton, which suffered so terribly from an earthquake a few years ago. It has neither the diversified attractions of Nice nor the bright vivacity of Cannes, but its scenery is nevertheless grand and its climate is said to be the mildest and least variable of all the coast. There is a legend that Eve brought nothing out of Paradise except a lemon, which in her wanderings she left at Menton; and another, equally authentic, that a gentleman, calling on a friend, left his stick outside the door, forgot it, and repeating his visit next year, found it grown into a flourishing [illegible]. The healthy visitor eschews Menton where he finds there are altogether too many consumptive people.

But without doubt one of the greatest [illegible] St. Raphael, the home of that great French writer, Alphonse Karr. It has this peculiarity about it that whereas the "swells" visit it more or less during the winter months, as soon as the regular season is over the provincial people and the [illegible] from Lyons, Draguignan and other neighboring cities make it their summer resort. It has a solitary, and something of a savage look about it. One is not compelled to walk through the streets of St. Raphael in a stiff collar and fashionable clothes as at Nice and Cannes. Here fruit trees are in abundance, young pines and eucalyptus are more plentiful than even at Menton, and its pine trees and its rocks have acted like a magnet on all the most celebrated artists of the day who love wild spots and cheerful retreats.

FREDERIC MAYER.

STATUE OF NICE, CANNES AND MENTON.

Sleeping Her Life Away.

The German village of Gramblee is greatly excited over a case of persistent somnolency in the person of the daughter of one of the town officers. The girl, a pretty, slender girl of some thirteen years of age, has been in a continual sleep since the second week in May, and even now does not show the least trace of arousing from her protracted slumber. During the first week of her enforced sleep the family seemed grieved to the verge of distraction, and all was mourning in the house where the child lay in the semblance of "death's twin brother." After awhile, however, when it was discovered that she would swallow liquid nourishment, their fears for her safety seemed to abate to a certain degree, and now, after a lapse of more than half a year, the family go about their daily labors as if the little maid was really dead and half forgotten. Highest medical authorities have been consulted, but all efforts to keep her awake have resulted in total failures.

Mixed.

Brown (who expects a letter)—I see you've been to the post office. Did you inquire for me?

Jones—No. Were you there?—Judge.

All He Wanted.

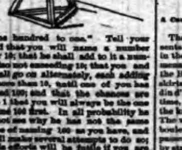
"So you want to marry Emma—but she is my only daughter."

"Oh, that's all right, sir. I only want one."—Life.

TWO ENGLISH TRICKS.

A Geometrical Puzzle and a Clever Combination of Figures.

If you have a somewhat conceited friend who is in the habit of boasting of his scientific attainments, tell him that, in one department at least, you think you are more than a match for him, as you have given so much attention to the study of geometry that you have discovered how to form four triangles having altogether six lines of equal length; and throwing down half a dozen matches on the table you challenge him, with all his learning, to accomplish what you can do with the greatest ease. If he is not already in the secret you will find a good deal of amusement in watching the various devices by which he will endeavor to solve the problem you have set him. He will most likely lay out the matches upon the table in every imaginable position—and all to no purpose. Let him have half an hour at it, just to take the conceit out of him, and then show him that the thing can be done very simply, in the following manner:



"One hundred to one." Tell your friend that you will name a number under 10; that he shall add to it a number also not exceeding 10, that you and he shall go on alternately, each adding not more than 10, until one of you has reached 100; and that the chances are 100 to 1 that you will always be the one to name 100 first. In all probability he will not see that he has not the least chance of naming 100 as you have, and he will make several attempts to do so; but his efforts will be futile if you are careful to observe the following rules: Supposed you begin with the number 1, he cannot, according to the above conditions, name a higher number than 11, whereupon you say 12. Whatever number he mentions after that, you must be careful to name, in succession, 23, 34, 45, 56, 67, 78 and 89, and as his last number cannot be more than 99, you say "100," and claim the victory. Read over once or twice the series of numbers we have given, and you will easily remember them, and see why they are essential. Of course, if your friend does not know the secret, you may begin with some other number than 1, or you may even let him begin, but in any case you must take care to fall into the above series before you have proceeded too far.—Leeds Mercury.

ODD CALCULATIONS.

A Number of Curious Results From [illegible]

A flea can jump [illegible] vault over a [illegible] height. If a [illegible] agility he could clear a wall a mile high at a single bound. If he could jump as far forward according to his weight as a flea can, he could [illegible] trips around the world [illegible]

According to the best and most recent calculations 100,000,000 tons of water pour over Niagara every hour. This represents 16,000,000 horse power. The total coal production of the world, either daily, weekly, monthly or yearly, would not furnish steam sufficient to pump it back again.

A ball that [illegible] distance of 45,000 [illegible] be heard at [illegible] still feel in [illegible] tucking on the earth can [illegible] by balloonists sailing at a height of four miles.

All the gold in the world (not counting that still in a virgin state) would, if [illegible] make a block [illegible] hundred and thirty [illegible] of the above [illegible] in a room twenty-four feet each way.

No wonder [illegible] "short." The [illegible] eggs annually, [illegible] million to three [illegible] but is credited [illegible] eleven million to [illegible] each breeding [illegible]

NEWEST THINGS OUT.

A [illegible]

A [illegible] for [illegible] as fast as you [illegible]

A [illegible] bracket [illegible] by longitudinal strips.

A FINGER exercising device by which the joints may be mechanically moved and rendered supple.

A PORTABLE railroad frog to saddle the track rail, provided with the means of firmly clamping it in place.

An ink-holding attachment for pens, consisting of an elastic band to be placed on the pen at opposite ends of its eye.

A SASH-HOLDER, which consists of a long plate resting on springs, and adapted to be placed between the sash and the frame.

A MACHINE for weighing letters and parcels that indicates on a cylinder not only the weight but the postage to be paid.

A CASE for holding a watch and a dry battery and lamp by which the dial of the timepiece may be illuminated when desired.

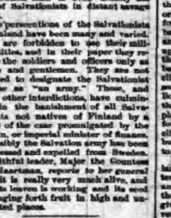
Southern California's Glacier.

Southern California's glacier has been located. For many years tradition has told of such a phenomenon of nature, and recently an expedition was sent out by the Los Angeles Herald to investigate the matter. The tradition was verified, for upon the upper levels of Grayback mountain the greatest of the San Bernardino range, a glacier one mile long, and on the average two hundred feet in depth, was found. The ice mass, according to computation made, moves downward at the rate of forty-seven feet a year.

COUNTESS DE HAARTMAN.

She Is Young, Beautiful and a Major in the Salvation Army.

America has just seen the daughter of one of the first families of New York abandon her church and, burning her social bridges behind her, join the Salvation army as a common soldier. Her career, which, if continued, cannot but be eventful, might well enough furnish for a future period a new play with an old name: "The Banker's Daughter." If her heroism and faith required the stimulus and support of a precedent, Miss Emma Van Norden could look abroad and in far Finland find Maj. Von Haartman at Helsingfors a field officer of the Salvation army. The major received her commission publicly in London at the hands of Gen. William Booth, who then for the first time betrayed to her astonished comrades that their fellow soldier who, with them, had succored the starving and prayed with the sinners in the slums of Whitechapel was a countess of the Russian empire. The then ensign, now, by hard-earned promotion, a major, bade good-by to her wondering companions and set out for her native Finland, where she became a missionary among the lowly of her compatriots, and, as the event has revealed, was destined to encounter greater opposition and persecution than is even usually the fate of Salvationists in distant savage lands.



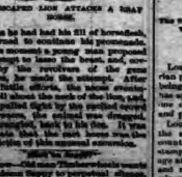
COUNTESS VON HAARTMAN.

The persecutions of the Salvationists in Finland have been many and varied. They are forbidden to use their military titles, and in their paper they refer to the soldiers and officers only as ladies and gentlemen. They are not allowed to designate the Salvationist scheme as "an army." These, and many other interdictions, have culminated in the banishment of all Salvationists not natives of Finland by a ukase of the czar promulgated by the Nardin, or imperial minister of finance. Ostensibly the Salvation army has been suppressed and expelled from Sweden. Its faithful leader, Major the Countess Von Haartman, reports to her general that it is really very much alive, and that its leaven is working and its seed is bringing forth fruit in high and unexpected places.

A LION AT LARGE.

A Cart Horse the Only Victim of His Unusual [illegible]

The accompanying illustration represents an incident which lately occurred in the streets of Bordeaux. A traveling menagerie had taken up its quarters on the Boulevard de Cauderon, on the outskirts of the city near the Parc et Jardin d'Acclimatation, and, during feeding time, one of the lions managed to evade the keepers and escape from his cage. The wild beast tore down the spacious boulevard to the consternation of the passers-by, and suddenly turned into a by street. Here he observed, outside a tavern, a sleepy cart horse harnessed to a hay cart, and evidently awaiting the return of its driver from the estaminet. Although pursued by his keepers and a crowd of police, the lion at once flew at the horse and fixed his jaws into its neck. The poor beast plunged and kicked, but all to no avail, and [illegible] piteously the police began firing with their revolvers at the struggling pair. The firing does not seem to have injured the lion, for, as soon as he had had his fill of horseflesh, he turned to continue his promenade. At this moment a young man attempted to lasso the beast, and, covered by the revolvers of the [illegible], he made the attempt. After many futile efforts, the animal was fully pulled tight by the [illegible] cord [illegible] back to his den. It was [illegible] the only victim of this unusual excursion.



AN ESCAPED LION ATTACKS A DRAY HORSE.

[illegible]

[illegible] Teddie—How's that?

[illegible]—I found him tell Sappy he [illegible] to be spoken—Truth.

[illegible]

[illegible]—Chicago Inter Ocean.

[illegible]

THE MONITOR PURITAN.

A Very Wicked Ship That Uncle Sam Is Building.

An Ugly Armored Monitor Carrying Four Ponderous Guns and a Regular Arsenal of Lighter Weapons—Her Fighting Strength.

The double-turreted monitor Puritan, a much larger vessel than the Miantonomoh, and differing from her in some essential points, was until recently the largest armor-clad vessel projected by the navy department.

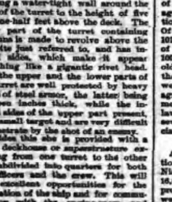
The Puritan was begun in 1875 at the shipyard of the late John Roach, Chester, Pa. She is 296 feet 6 inches long, with 60 feet 1½ inches greatest breadth and a draught of water of 18 feet. Her displacement is 6,060 tons, while that of the Miantonomoh is only 3,990 tons.

She carries four 12-inch breech-loading guns in two turrets and six 4-inch rapid-fire guns protected by armor shields or sponsons, besides fourteen other guns of smaller caliber.

After the assignment of the shipbuilding firm of John Roach in 1885 the Puritan was taken first to the navy yard, League island, for an engine trial, and afterward to the navy yard at Norfolk with the intention of having her completed at that yard. She was subsequently taken to the navy yard, New York, where she is now nearing completion.

It was the original intention to have her finished similarly to the Miantonomoh—that is, her 12-inch guns were to have been placed but a few feet above the deck, or so low as to render them useless in a moderate seaway. All around the base of the turret, which passed through the armored deck, was a clearance space of four inches—equal to an area of twenty-four square feet—covered with a thin flexible flap secured to the turret and resting loosely on the deck around the opening. This, when broken through by wave or shot, would have exposed the low freeboard vessel to the risk of foundering by the shipping of only one heavy sea. Besides this, she was intended to have an upper deck supported on stanchions and open on both sides, the same as the Miantonomoh.

In the latter part of 1885 Naval Constructor Philip Hichborn returned from a tour of Europe, where he had been sent by the navy department to investigate ships, dock-yards, and navy construction generally, and, knowing the difficulties of making a successful coast-defense ship of this large vessel he made some radical changes in her design. The proposed turrets were replaced by what has since become known as Hichborn turret, which made it possible to raise the guns to a height of 10 feet 6 inches above the water line. These turrets do not project down through the deck as do those in the Miantonomoh; but the lower part, or barbette, is secured to the deck, forming a water-tight wall around the base of the turret to the height of five and one-half feet above the deck. The upper part of the turret containing the guns is made to revolve above the barbette just referred to, and has inclined sides, which make it appear something like a gigantic rivet head. Both the upper and the lower parts of the turret are well protected by heavy plates of steel armor, the latter being fourteen inches thick, while the inclined sides of the upper part present, but a small target and are very difficult to penetrate by the shot of an enemy.



MONITOR PURITAN.

Besides this she is provided with a large deckhouse or superstructure extending from one turret to the other and subdivided into quarters for both the officers and the crew. This will give excellent opportunities for the ventilation of the ship and for communication with the engine-room and other quarters below even in a storm at sea, and will no doubt prevent such discomfiture as has been experienced on board the Miantonomoh from the excessive heat below deck.

The ship is provided with eight boilers, which are now being fitted with appliances for forced draught. She has twin screws, with engines of the horizontal compound type, capable of developing 3,700 horse power with natural draught, which will develop a speed of twelve knots, while with forced draught she will develop nearly 5,000 horse power and a speed of more than thirteen knots.

The hull is protected by an armor belt 5 feet 7 inches deep, 14 inches in thickness to a point below the water line, from which it tapers to six inches at the armor shelf. This belt extends 180 feet along the middle part of the ship, protecting engines, boilers, magazines and shell rooms. Immediately forward and aft of this belt, says the New York Herald, the armor is reduced in thickness to 10 inches for a distance of 20 feet, and is further reduced to a thickness of 6 inches at the ends of the ship. The armor is strongly supported by a wood backing and a system of rigid frames and girders. The main deck is covered by steel plating 2 inches thick. The ship will carry 450 tons of coal.

She has all of her engines and boilers on board and the hull construction is all completed, but the armor for the turrets and sides, though contracted for some time ago, has not been delivered. It is hoped, however, that deliveries will be made soon and that the ship will be ready to put in commission within the next two years.

KOSSUTH THE PATRIOT.

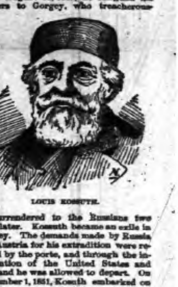
His Death Now Only a Matter of a Few Months.

The Strange, Eventful History of a Man Who Loved His Country Better Than Himself—His Life in Turin.

Louis Kossuth, the eminent Hungarian patriot, whose declining days are being spent in voluntary exile at Turin, has appealed with his pen on more than one occasion in behalf of his country and people.

Louis Kossuth will always challenge the admiration of the youth of this country as a patriot of the highest stamp. He was born of noble parentage at Monok, Hungary, April 27, 1802, and received a legal and philosophical education at the college of Patak, an institution animated thoroughly by a spirit of opposition to the rule of Austria. Hungary was oppressed and exhausted by a tariff calculated to keep it forever in a state of colonial dependence on the German provinces, which, by another tariff, were protected against the competition of England, France and Belgium. This system formed one of the chief grievances of the nation, and Kossuth gained his first prominence as a leader by forming a protective union, the members of which pledged themselves for five years to use exclusively homemade goods wherever they could be had. This agitation so [illegible] suth was elected to the house of deputies. March 3, 1848, Kossuth delivered a speech before the Hungarian diet at Presburg, proposing an address to Emperor Ferdinand urging the restoration of Hungary to its former independence as a state and the granting of a charter of liberty for the whole Austrian empire. The proposition was accepted by the deputies, and an independent Hungarian ministry was formed, with Kossuth in charge of the department of finance. An internecine struggle precipitated the war of revolution. It was from beginning to end a struggle for life or death under inauspicious circumstances. The overwhelming power of Russia and the connivance of the governments of Europe with Russia finally decided against Hungary, which had been declared independent and Kossuth its governor.

On August 11, 1849, he resigned his powers to Gorgey, who treacherously surrendered to the Russians two days later. Kossuth became an exile in Turkey. The demands made by Russia and Austria for his extradition were resisted by the porte, and through the intervention of the United States and England he was allowed to depart. On September 1, 1851, Kossuth embarked on the war steamer Mississippi, which had been dispatched by the United States government in accordance with a resolution of the senate to convey him to America as the nation's guest. He reached the United States in December, 1851, and addressed deputations and meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other large cities, urging the acknowledgment of the claims of Hungary to independence, and the interference of the United States jointly with England in behalf of the principles of nonintervention, which would allow the nations of Europe fair play in a new struggle for liberty.



LOUIS KOSSUTH.

Kossuth's efforts received much sympathy and some financial aid, but a chain of circumstances conspired against the cause he advocated. He returned to Europe in 1852, and his activity as an agitator resulted a year later in the banishment of his mother and sisters from Hungary. In 1862 Kossuth removed to Turin, where he has since resided, and where he successively lost his daughter and wife. He has been a voluntary exile, declining several elections to the diet of Pesth and devoting his time to writing and scientific study. His old age makes his death only a matter of a few months.

Death Rate of the Earth.

An insurance journal published the following statistics of the death rate of the entire globe: It is fair to assume that all told 33,000,000 people die annually. This is equal to 91,554 deaths per day, 3,730 per hour, and sixty-two per minute, or one in less than every second of time. One-fourth of all people born die before arriving at the age of seven years; one-half die before the age of seventeen. The average duration of human life is thirty-eight years. Of 10,000 persons one attains the age of 101 years; one out of 500 attains the age of ninety-one years, and out of every 100 only one will live to be sixty years old. Of 1,000 persons having attained the age of seventy years, forty-three were clergymen or politicians, forty agriculturists, thirty-three workingmen, thirty-two soldiers, twenty-nine lawyers and civil engineers, twenty-seven professors and twenty-four physicians.

The Falls of Niagara.

According to the most recent calculations 100,000,000 tons of water pour over Niagara every hour. This represents 16,000,000 horse power. The total coal production of the world, either daily, weekly, monthly or yearly, would not furnish steam sufficient to pump it back again.

Coming to an Understanding.

The young woman in the gay headdress had called in response to an advertisement.

"Yes, I want a good cook and general housemaid," said the woman of the house, "but six dollars a week seems pretty high."

"I never work fur less, mem."

"What will you expect in the matter of afternoons out?"

"You can hev two afternoons out durin' the week, mem," said the caller, stiffly.—Chicago Tribune.

Great Expectations.

The chief of police, who was dressed in civilian's clothes, saw how a cab driver insulted and abused people who refused to hire his vehicle. The chief, who refused, entered the cab and told the jehu to drive on.

"Where shall I drive you?" asked the cab driver.

"To police headquarters."

"And what will I get?"

"About ten days."—Texas Siftings.

A Tender Spouse.

Wife—Here comes a friend of mine. Let's turn into this side street until she passes.

Husband—Quarreled with her?

"No, but I don't want you to see her."

"Hum. Why not?"

"I know you'll admire that new dress of hers, and it will only worry you to think what a ridiculous fuss you made over the bills for this cheap thing I've got on."—N. Y. Weekly.

How Things Have Changed.

Tourist (from the north)—Uncle, can you get us up a real typical southern dinner?

Mr. Milledge—Bless yo' heart, sattin'ly, sah. Mammy, jes' tippicle a tin ob dem Bost'n bake-beans, on ter de fish an' slice off a hunk ob dat Sheenago dried beef. We sen's all our chick'ns an' hawgs an' hominy down t' Ro'noke now, sah.—Judge.

More Gas Used.

Simson—Heavens! look at this gas bill. It is more than double what it was last month. Clara, can you account for it?

Clara—I can, father. It was just a month ago that you forbade that lovely Mr. Spooner to call.—Judge.

Had Been Paid For.

Editor—You say you want a check for some jokes you left here two weeks ago? Why, those jokes have been paid for.

Mr. Chestnut—How long ago, sir?

"Oh, about fifty or a hundred years, I imagine."—Life.

Encouragement for the Timid.

"Humph!" said a young gentleman at the theater to a young lady, "I could play the lover better than that myself."

"I should like to see you try," was her naive reply.—Boston Globe.

She Knew the Man.

The Parvenu—I enjoyed a performance of the opera "Faust" last night.

The Member of the Dabster Club—Oh, how I envy you. Goethe's music must be so much lovelier than his libretto.—Chicago News Record.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

ANNEXATION.

Away off in the middle of the Pacific Ocean there lies a volcanic group known as the Sandwich Islands. Possessing a salubrious climate and many natural advantages, an enlightened and stable government would no doubt develope for the inhabitants an increase of both moral and material wealth.

Among the Sandwich Island residents may be numbered a large percentage of those American born, who attracted to that distant region when American whaling interests were great and prosperous, afterwards remained as sugar producers and factors.

Self-appointed delegates from those American-Hawaiians have arrived in this country as advocates of immediate annexation to the United States. They are evidently gentlemen with ponderous axes to sharpen on Uncle Sam's grindstone, and, possibly, belong to that class of patriots who earnestly uphold the starry flag when prodigal appropriations follow it.

Their arguments may be sugar-coated, but their motives need careful scrutiny.

This country has in several instances, with manifest benefits, annexed foreign territory to its own, BUT IT ALWAYS WAS CONTIGUOUS SOIL.

To throw the shield of our national sovereignty over a cluster of out-lying islands, nearer to China and Australia than to California, appears to be the opposite of wise action.

We want friendly commercial intercourse with the people of all continents and all islands, but do we want colonial dependencies.

The experiment might prove very costly.

We certainly have enough to care for at home.

Drawing imaginary lines from Alaska to Florida and from New York to San Francisco, is abundantly sufficient to convince any intelligent citizen that our present field of labor is quite ample and all important, and that it is of doubtful expediency to voyage across seas in quest of new hunting grounds.

The true mission of the United States is of unprecedented glory. It is not to wantonly waste energies and influence, but to prudently husband and employ them. To make our country mighty within her own legitimate domain is the decree of patriotism, to avoid entangling foreign alliances is to heed the voice of wisdom.

We have a matchless system of free representative government. Let us render it so perfect and justly operative that it will command both the respect and admiration of the world of mankind.

We are blessed with boundless natural resources and the elements of commercial supremacy. Let us so utilize them that all classes and conditions of American people at home, protected by practical and strictly equitable laws can share in aggregated national riches.

Then will our country become the arbiter of nations, though not another foot is ever added to her existing bounds.

$7,276 FOR HER LOST DIAMONDS.

Hotel Man DeRevere Took Them "Unsight, Unseen", and They Were Stolen.

A jury in Part I of the Court of Common Pleas, New York, awarded Mrs. Samuel Collins $7,276 Tuesday for the loss of a package containing $8,000 worth of diamonds which she gave to George B. DeRevere, formerly proprietor of the Park House and the City Hotel, of Plainfield, and whose summer home is on Woodland avenue, this city.

The story of the disappearance of this package runs back to Nov. 14, 1891. On that date Mrs. Collins and her husband, a wealthy picture dealer, went to the Hotel Dam, New York, which Mr. DeRevere now runs. That evening she gave Mr. Webb, the clerk, a package, which, she told him, contained $30,000 worth of jewelry, and asked him to keep it in the safe for her. The jewelry, she afterward said, was worth only $8,000, but she wanted to impress upon the clerk's mind the necessity of taking good care of it. The package, she said, contained a solitare worth $1,000, a diamond daisy and tiara worth $1,600, two diamond stars worth $600, two diamond bracelets worth $325, and a pair of earrings, a ring, and other trinkets making up the $8,000.

Mr. Webb put the package in the safe and gave Mr. Collins a duplicate envelope as a receipt for it. The Collinses went to Stroudsburg, Pa., to spend Christmas. Mr. DeRevere refused to keep the package while they were absent, unless they gave up the receipt for it and allowed him to put the jewelry in his private office. To this they consented. When they returned the package was missing.

Inspector Byrnes was notified, private detectives were employed, and all possible means were taken to recover the diamonds. One of the diamond pins was afterward found in the possession of a thief who was caught trying to obtain baggage from the Hotel St. Denis on a forged check. A gold chain was found in Beaton's fence on Sixth avenue. The rest of the jewels were never recovered.

So Mrs. Collins began suit against Mr. DeRevere for $8,000. Mr. DeRevere admitted the receipt and the disappearance of the package, but said that he did not believe it contained jewelry. He said that the Collinses had lost diamonds before, and had found them where they had mislaid them.

The case came up before Judge Daly yesterday, but there was no defence. Mrs. Collins told her story and several witnesses corroborated it. The jury soon brought in a verdict for $7,276. Mr. DeRevere will appeal.

Are You Going West

of Chicago? To points in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, South or North Dakota, Colorado, California, Oregon or Washington. To any point West, Northwest or Southwest.

Send for a new map of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway system, which is geographically correct. It, with an appendix giving valuable information, will be mailed free.

Call on or address John R. Pott, district passenger agent, 42 South Third street, Philadelphia.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

NAMED BY CLEVELAND

Gresham, Carlisle, Lamont and Bissell for the Cabinet.

THEY HAVE ACCEPTED PORTFOLIOS

The President-Elect Sees No Reason for Any Mystery and Will Announce the Rest as Soon as the Places Are Filled—Stated that Connecticut Will be Represented.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 15.—Mr. Cleveland officially announces the names of four members of his Cabinet. They are:

Walter Q. Gresham, of Illinois, Secretary of State.

John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, Secretary of the Treasury.

Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, Secretary of War.

Wilson S. Bissell, of Buffalo, Postmaster-General.

On making the announcements Mr. Cleveland said: "There is no need of any mystery in regard to the Cabinet and it is useless to speculate and indulge in guesswork. I shall make no secret of the matter but shall announce the names of gentlemen selected to fill the positions as soon as I receive their acceptances and permission to make the matter public."

Mr. Cleveland would say nothing in regard to the other positions or the men who have been mentioned in connection with them. It is evident that Hoke Smith, Hilary A. Herbert and others who have been mentioned are still under consideration. A conference which will probably settle Mr. Smith's chances one way or the other, will be held at Mr. Cleveland's office some day this week. Senator Gordon and other Southerners will be present.

Mr. Cleveland does not care to say what day he will visit the city, as he desires only to meet the men who have an appointment with him and thus be able to dispose of important matters without interruption.

Senator John Martin of Kansas and Dr. S. J. Neeley of the same State, had a long talk with Mr. Cleveland yesterday. They put in a strong claim for a representation in the Cabinet from Kansas. Senator Martin urged the selection of ex-Gov. G. W. Glick and left Lakewood in a happy frame of mind as to the chances of his candidate.

He said that Mr. Cleveland informed him that Judge Gresham had not been selected to temporarily fill the place of Secretary of State until Minister E. J. Phelps finishes with the Behring Sea controversy, but has been selected for good.

Connecticut Man for the Navy.

HARTFORD, Feb. 15.—A special from Washington says that it is reported there that the Secretaryship of the Navy is to go to Connecticut, and that ex-Congressman Carlos French, of Seymour, is to be a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet.

CONGRESS MOVING SLOWLY.

Invalid Pension Bill in the House—Canal Bill in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—After a short conflict between the Democrats and Republicans of the House yesterday the Democrats were obliged to yield gracefully and to agree to the terms which the Republicans presented. These were that general debate on the Invalid Pension bill should continue until the minority was accorded six hours' debate.

Then the debate continued but it was without special interest.

The Nicaraguan Canal bill was before the Senate again for a couple of hours, and was then laid aside so that the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill might be proceeded with.

The Canal bill was the subject of two speeches and of a running discussion in which Mr. Sherman, who is in charge of it took a leading part. He explained why it was that 12,000,000 of stock, already issued, was left outstanding.

At one point in the discussion, Mr. Teller, (Rep., Col.) referred to a statement of Mr. Sherman as a misrepresentation whereupon Mr. Sherman exclaimed that that was false, as he had misrepresented nothing.

Explicit Instructions.

Fresh Young Man (to pretty typewriter)—Is this Mr. Jones' office?

Pretty Typewriter (laconically)—Next door.

F. Y. M. (anxious to continue conversation)—How do I get it?

P. T.—Turn the knob and open the door.—Life.

Just Like a Parvenu.

Artist—How many ancestral portraits do you wish me to paint for your new castle?

Banker—Well, I'll give you an order for eight portraits now, and if I am satisfied with them I'll hunt up some more ancestors.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Playing Church.

Mamma (reprovingly, Sunday)—You told me you were going to play church. Little Dick—Yes'm.

"Then I'd like to know what all this loud laughing is about."

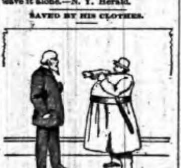
"Oh, that's all right. That's Dot and me. We're the choir."—Good News.

Seldom Fails.

Lawyer—How did you know the prisoner was intoxicated?

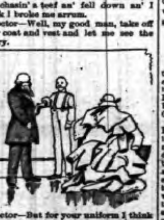
Witness—Because he told me six times within a quarter of an hour that he liked to see a man who could take a drink when he felt like it and then leave it alone.—N. Y. Herald.

SAVED BY HIS CLOTHES.



Officer McFadden—Shure, doctor, I wor chasin' a teef an' fell down an' I think I broke me arrum.

Doctor—Well, my good man, take off your coat and vest and let me see the injury.



Doctor—But for your uniform I think it would have been a compound fracture. As it is there is no harm done, but I will prescribe a tonic for you. Your system needs building up.—Chicago Mail.

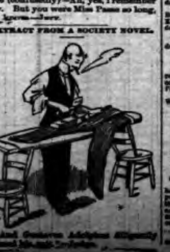
Worse and More of It.

He—Miss Passe, I—

She—Pardon me, Mr. Young, I am no longer Miss Passe. Don't you know I am married?

He (confusedly)—Ah, yes, I remember now. But you were Miss Passe so long, you know.—Jury.

EXTRACT FROM A SOCIETY NOVEL.



"And Gustavus Adolphus diligently pressed his suit [illegible]

MAKE IT AN EXCURSION

EVERYBODY INVITED TO TRENTON ON THE 28TH INST

To Tell Why the Plainfield Board of Education's Absolute and Arbitrary Powers Should be Restricted.

Corporation counsel C. A. Marsh, ex-judge John Ulrich and lawyer W. M. Stillman were in Trenton on Tuesday directing their attention to the bill having in view the taking from the Plainfield Board of Education its power to purchase lands, erect buildings, and tax and bond the people as it pleases.

The bill is No. 294. It was introduced by assemblyman Kyte last Wednesday. It is now in the hands of the committee on municipal corporations of which Mr. Daly is chairman. Messrs. Marsh, Ulrich and Stillman were introduced to the committee this morning and Tuesday the 28th, after the morning adjournment was appointed as a time when the committee will hear from every citizen of Plainfield who cares to appear and tell why or why not the bill should be made a law.

The full text is as follows:

An Act concerning the purchase of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal board of any city other than the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or to erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

The bill as it is, however, has already met strong outside opposition, as it effects Trenton, Camden, New Brunswick and other second-class cities. It will have to be amended so as to apply only to cities of the third class, and then it will go.

There is some talk of engaging a special train to take down the large body of Plainfield citizens who will go to Trenton on the 28th inst., in favor of the bill. The merchants should close their stores and make an excursion day of it.

HIS HAIR TURNED WHITE.

Singular Result of an Accident to Violinist Musin.

Ovide Musin, the celebrated violin virtuoso, who has at different times during the past three years delighted the music-loving residents of Plainfield, received serious injuries in a train wreck near Story City, Ia., a short time ago. Mr. Musin, it will be remembered, was a man of fine physique, having dark brown hair and beard. He is to-day completely changed in appearance, his form is bent and his hair and beard are changed to snowy whiteness. He seems to have exchanged places with an aged man.

Mr. Musin was born in Liege, Belgium, in 1854. At the age of 8 years he evinced such remarkable talent and strong inclination for music that his father sent him to the Conservatory at Paris. Shortly after he had entered his 11th year he received the first prize at that well-known institute for performance on the violin. It was owing to the intercessions of Leonard, the celebrated violin player, who heard his execution in 1870, that his parents decided to let him choose the career of an artist. From that time to the present day he has ranked among the foremost violinist of the world.

In Vienna he played in the celebrated Philharmonic concert, under the direction of Herr Richter, and from his efforts earned the highest compliments of the board of directors.

When Musin left America last May he went to Australia, there meeting with great success. Last fall he returned, and again appeared at Plainfield.

The fact of his hair and beard turning white has caused considerable comment, yet there are many instances of such a change in history. The hair of Sir Thomas Moore and of Marie Antoinette on the eve of their execution turned as white as snow.

A more recent instance, and one equally remarkable, was the physical change which took place in Ursini, one of the conspirators against the life of Napoleon III. When his jailors left him on the eve of his execution his hair rivaled the raven's wing, but when the morning came, and he was led out to be guillotined, his hair had turned the color of snow.

THE WOMEN CRY FOR MORE.

Having Been Recognized by Counselor Reed in One Instance, They Ask for Further Privileges.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed has very graciously and gallantly rendered a legal opinion that North Plainfield women will be entitled and privileged to vote on the school question. The justice of this right is appreciated by every woman here, and we women are very grateful for this recognition.

Will Mr. Reed kindly give us another opinion: one of just as much interest and value? Are we not entitled to vote on the liquor question as much as on school matters? This question is of far greater importance to women than are the educational problems of the day, and one which they of all tax-payers should be given an opportunity of governing.

TEMPERANCE.

Skin Disease.

What spectacle is more disgusting than that of a man or woman with a skin disease which shows itself in pimples or blotches on hands, arms, face and neck? It is simply impure blood. See what BRANDRETH'S PILLS did for a chronic case. George Chapman, Pinconing, Mich., says: "For four years I was in the Mounted Infantry in the U. S. Army, residing during that time principally in Texas. Almost all of that time I had a chronic skin disease, characterized by an eruption over the entire surface of my legs and thighs, arms and chest. The doctors termed it eczema. I had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when BRANDRETH'S PILLS were recommended to me. I concluded to try them, and I have thanked God daily since then that I did so. I used them for about three months, and by that time, was completely cured and have never had any trouble since."

Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

OFFICIAL.

ELIZABETH, Feb. 2, 1893.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, held on Thursday, Feb. 2, 1893, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

Present—Director Halliday and Freeholders Badgely, Donahue, Hubbard, Halliday, Hunt, Kyte, Moore, Bell, Swain, Sauer, Trahon, Vanderbeek, Woodruff.

Absent—Freeholders Howard, Scudder, Winans.

The minutes of last meeting, except bills ordered paid, were read, and on motion approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Elizabeth city common council:

Gentlemen—The following is a true copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the common council of the city of Elizabeth, N. J., held Feb. 1, 1893.

By Councilman Ragowski:

Whereas, The street committee of this council has been instructed to take into consideration the advisability of granting the request of Sera, Sq-[illegible] & Co., and others for a branch or spur from the present tracks of the C. R. R. Co. on Front street, said tracks to be laid from Elizabeth river [illegible] [illegible] therefore be it

Resolved, That the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county be requested to [illegible] of the resolution to the said Board of Chosen Freeholders.

From clerk of grand jury:

Gentlemen—The grand jury of the county of Union for the January term, 1893, to whom was referred the resolution of your honorable body in reference to the proposed abolition of the grade crossing at North avenue, in the city of Elizabeth, in the said county of Union, have the honor to report to your honorable body that they have received said resolution and have sought counsel on the said matter of the same and by said counsel are advised that they at the present time have no jurisdiction in the premises.

Signed, Frank T. Dunn, clerk of grand jury.

On motion of Freeholder Trahon received and filed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

From committee on Wilson claim:

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed by the Director to investigate the claim for damages done to horse and carriage of Cyrus F. Wilson of Westfield, desire to report that they have fully investigated said claim and recommend the payment of said claim of $25.

Signed, Jasper C. Hunt, J. Martin Bell, committee.

On motion of Freeholder Sauer received and filed.

From Committee on Old Colony Land Co.:

Gentlemen—The petition from the Old Colony Land Improvement Company asking permission to lay gas, water and sewer mains, also to set curbstones and shade trees on the line of the county road known as Woodside avenue, in the township of Union, being referred to your committee, we most respectfully report as follows: That although the above petition was referred to your committee with power, your committee have come to the conclusion that the same was of sufficient importance to warrant them to return the said petition to your honorable body for final consideration.

Signed—J. S. Sauer, W. H. Scudder, W. H. Swain, George Kyte committee.

On motion of Freeholder Bell received and filed.

From Committee to settle with County Collector:

Gentlemen—Your Committee to settle with County Collector respectfully report that we have examined his books showing his receipts and disbursements, also his vouchers, county bonds and coupons paid, and bank books, and find that the same agree and are correct.

Signed, Charles R. Moore, Jasper C. Hunt, J. Martin Bell, committee.

On motion of Freeholder Vanderbeek received and filed.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Freeholder Trahon:

Resolved, That this Board require undertakers to present to this Board in all cases of burial of soldiers a certificate stating that the deceased did not leave sufficient means to defray the funeral expenses, and that in the absence of any such certificate this Board will refuse to pay any such bill; and the Clerk of this Board is hereby directed to notify the undertakers of this action.

On motion of Freeholder Sauer adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That the Director be empowered to execute an agreement between this Board of Chosen Freeholders and J. H. C. [illegible], the newly elected warden, in reference to the duties and privileges of said warden, the agreement to be conditional the same as the agreement executed between the Board of Chosen Freeholders and the late warden Charles W. Dodd.

On motion of Freeholder Sauer adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Sauer:

Resolved, That no party or parties shall make, or cause to be made, any excavations within the lines of any of the improved county roads, unless he or they shall have first applied for, and be granted a license, issued by the County Collector, for which license the County Collector shall charge a fee of ten dollars; said fees to be credited to the county road account; also that the applicant or applicants for a license shall before receiving a license give a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his or their obligations, said bond to be approved by and held by the County Collector. And be it further

Resolved, That the conditions of the aforesaid license shall be as follows: First, the license shall be issued for the term of one year from the date thereof; second, the party or parties receiving a license shall be allowed the privilege to dig up the roadway or street, on any of the improved county roads, for the purpose of laying or making connections with sewers, gas or water mains, in accordance with the directions of and in the manner prescribed by the inspector of county roads; and at, however, to the following conditions:

First. The licensed party or parties shall apply to the inspector of county roads for, and be granted a special permit for each and every opening of the roads; said permit to specify the location and the limit of time allowed for the completion of specified work.

Second. That the party or parties receiving a license shall produce the same upon the demand of the inspector of county roads.

Third. That the said licensed party or parties shall faithfully comply with any and all resolutions passed by this board in regard to the same, whether passed before or after the time of issuing said license.

Fourth. That if the party or parties having obtained a license, fails to comply with any of the requirements of the license issued to him or them, or fails to comply with the conditions of his or their bond, or violates any provision of the inspector's special permit, then this board shall have the power to authorize the county collector to revoke his or their license. A written notice from the inspector of county roads calling the attention of this board to any such violation shall be deemed sufficient evidence to warrant such proceedings. And be it further

Resolved, That all ordinances or resolutions heretofore passed by this board conflicting with the above resolutions be and are hereby repealed.

On motion of Freeholder Donahue adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Sauer:

Resolved, That the Director be empowered to execute an agreement between the Old Colony Land Improvement Company and the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, the said agreement to privilege the Old Colony Land Improvement Company to lay stone curbing, and the main pipes for gas, sewerage and water on the county road known as Woodside avenue, situated in the township of Union near the boundary line of the city of Elizabeth.

Provided, The work shall be done according to the directions of the county engineer, and under the supervision of the inspector of county roads, also that the petitioner shall apply for and be granted a license from the county collector, and agree to comply with every requirement of said license; also that there shall be two distinct and separate lines of gas and sewer mains, one of each, on each side of the tellord pavement, the same to be laid at least two feet from the tellord pavement, but where necessary to connect the mains, the petitioner to have the right to cross under the pavement, with the consent of the county engineer. That the privilege of connecting either sewer mains on either side or either side, and also making individual connections shall be reserved to all adjoining property holders on either side of the line or on either end of the said road or avenue, also that the curb stones shall be at least four inches thick and sixteen inches deep; and be it further adjudicated, that the privilege accorded the petitioner, by virtue of said agreement, shall cease at the expiration of one year from date thereof.

On motion of Freeholder Bell adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That the County Collector be instructed to file the bond of John C. Moore, Jail Warden, with the County Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Vanderbeek adopted.

By Freeholder Trahon:

Resolved, That the County Attorney be and is hereby instructed to draft a suitable bond and license to conform with the resolution adopted this day, relating to the opening up the county roads; said bond and license to be submitted to this Board for approval at the next monthly meeting.

On motion of Freeholder Sauer adopted unanimously.

Freeholder Moore moved that a committee of three be appointed to consult with a committee of Elizabeth common council in reference to proposed railroad extension, and to report at its next meeting. Which was carried, and the Director appointed Freeholders Moore, Donahue and Vanderbeek as such committee.

The County Attorney made a statement of the condition of the case of the Summit election bill.

Freeholder Bell moved the committee on legal questions and the county attorney be empowered to settle with W. Green, of Summit, for rent of his room for election purposes in an amount not to exceed sixty-five dollars. Which was carried.

The following bills audited and approved were read and on motion ordered paid:

Courts—Louis Quien $60; Jas Hennie 75; L S Hyer 45; Jas J Gerber 200 00; T F McCormack 221 65; Frank Dunn 181; Francis McGrath 29 05; Wm Elkinson 30 00; Isaac A Nunn 60; Daniel Donavan 30; Henry Smith 37 50; Michael Rinagan 30 25 00; John H Sheridan 20; Benjamin Brown 25; Wm H Bell 50; Amos M Burt 19 50; John M C March 50; Henry J Schoppe 47 35; Jas T Wiley 55; Wm H Hicks 40 53; John Kerin & Son 26 51, 160; John Lamb 30; Chas Jacobs 23 12; Geo Neill 13 30; F C March 28.

Elections—Wm D Bigelow 120; Jew Hand 3; E K Adams 2; Wm G Clark 14 81; C Drever 7 51.

Publication—Elizabeth Daily Journal $35; Summit Record 25.

Committee expenses—John S Sauer $11 20; W H Swain 9 10; Wm H Trahon 16 61.

Members' pay—Wm H Trahon $48; W H Swain 14.

Public buildings—Elizabeth Moran $13; N Y & N J Telephone Co 12 60; Frederick Thiel 44 75; Elizabethtown Gas Co 63.

County roads—Louis Quien 30; J H R Corbit 41 65, 6 75; John Kerin & Son 32; The Union Iron & Foundry Co 8.

Stationery—John C Rankin $22.

Jail—Chas W Dodd $207 51, 6 60; E F La Woss 13 45; Henry Sauer 21 75; Michael Bender 79 84; Wm J Whelan 11 60; Henry D [illegible] 75; J W Hildebrandt & Co 3 61; Williams & Bassett 3 45; Thos B Smith 1 50; David M Miller 65 00; J Poole & Son 104 06; C Tharpe.

Salary—F W Westcott $125; A B Cook 12; Wm E Mallison 50.

Incidental—A B Cook $20 00; F W Westcott 26 60; John C Townsend 9; Cyrus F Wilson 25.

Bridges—Stephen Hetter 84; Patrick J Higgins 40 60; John W Van Pelt 38 30; A T Crane 50; John B Moore 119 69.

Freeholder Sauer moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The Director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, March 2, 1893, at 2:30 p. m.

ALFORD B. COOK, Clerk.

It May Be Interesting to Know that when excursion rates are made to Chicago for people who live in the East, to enable them to attend the World's Fair this year, it is contemplated by the Western roads to also make excursion rates from Chicago to all principal business and tourist points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, so that those who desire to spend a few weeks among their friends in the Great West, may have an opportunity of so doing without incurring much additional expense. It may be well to consider this subject in advance of actual time of starting, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Co. has issued maps and time tables and other instructive reading matter, which it will be glad to furnish free of expense upon application by postal card addressed to John R. Pott, District Pass. Agent, 42 So. Third street, Philadelphia, Pa. 2t

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

$3.00 FOR ONLY 50 cts.

Money must be sent during February, before March 1st.

The Home Magazine

FOR ONE YEAR AND THE

WHITE HOUSE DINING ROOM CHART
FANCY WORK CHART
PROSE AND POETRY CHART
SPRING DRESSMAKING CHART
AND FLORAL CHART

For Only Fifty Cents

(Edited by Mrs. JOHN A. LOGAN)

THE HOME MAGAZINE has a circulation of over 300,000 every month. We want a million; hence our great offer.

THE HOME MAGAZINE is handsomely Illustrated by Most Skillful Artists. The Best Story-writers contribute to its columns, and every one at home will find something of interest.

It contains interesting pages for the Mother and Children: all about Flowers, the Dining Room, Fashions, Fancy Work, Sunday Reading and many other home subjects.

Mrs. LOGAN continues her very interesting Personal Recollections. Everything of the best.

Now, THE HOME MAGAZINE for one year is only fifty cents, but we make you the following liberal offer:

The White House Dining Room Chart
New throughout from cover to cover; containing a Bill of Fare for every day in the whole year. No two alike, and plain, practical directions for preparing every dish from soup to dessert.

Fancy Work Chart
Containing over 300 illustrations of Plain and Ornamental Initials, Drawn Work, Netting, Embroidery, Tatting, Patchwork, Miscellaneous Fancy Work and Home Decoration.

The Home Magazine Poetry and Prose Chart
Especially adapted for selections for School Children.

Spring Dressmaking Chart
Just completed, with designs of all the latest Spring Fashions of 1893, with what to wear and how to make it.

Floral Chart
All about flowers and plants; what to plant, when to plant and how to plant. Invaluable to every lover of flowers.

We offer these Five Charts and THE HOME MAGAZINE for one year for only FIFTY CENTS, if the money is sent during February before March 1. Mention this paper. DON'T DELAY. Address:

The BRODIX PUBLISHING CO. 414 Eleventh St., N. W.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

TALES FROM TOWN TOPICS.

2d year of the most successful Quarterly ever published.

More than 3,000 LEADING NEWSPAPERS in North America have complimented this publication during its first year, and universally concede that its numbers afford the brightest and most entertaining reading that can be had.

Published 1st day of September, December, March and June.

Ask Newsdealer for it, or send the price, 50 cents, in stamps or postal note to

TOWN TOPICS,
21 West 23d St., New York.

This brilliant Quarterly is not made up from the current year's issues of Town Topics, but contains the best stories, sketches, burlesques, poems, witticisms, etc., from the back numbers of that unique journal, admittedly the crispest, raciest, most complete, and to all MEN AND WOMEN the most interesting weekly ever issued.

Subscription Price:

Town Topics, per year, - - $4.00
Tales From Town Topics, per year, 2.00
The two clubbed, - - - 5.00

Town Topics sent 3 months on trial for $1.00.

N.B.—Previous Nos. of "Tales" will be promptly forwarded, postpaid, on receipt of 50 cents each.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY—Between The Plainfield Building and Loan Association complainant and Thomas J. Clarkson et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the southeasterly line of Orchard place, in the southwesterly line of John S. Clark's land; thence running south westerly along said southeasterly line of Orchard place thirty feet; thence southeasterly and parallel with said John S. Clark's line ninety feet to a point for a corner of line of Isabella Lee, formerly; thence northeasterly along that line thirty feet to said John S. Clark's southwesterly line; thence northwesterly along that line ninety feet to the place of beginning; also conveying the land in front of said premises to the middle of Orchard place subject to the easement of the public to use the same as a public street.

W. M. HICKS, Sheriff.

JACKSON & CODINGTON, Sol'rs.
C. E. & C.
2 16 6 Fees $7.20

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the accounts of the subscribers, executors of John Simpson, dec'd will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of April next.

Dated February 10, 1893.

MARGARET S CADMUS,
FREEMAN CADMUS.
2 16 6

WANTED AT ONCE. SALESMEN FOR THIS LOCALITY

Splendid Opportunity

for a live, energetic man. We offer BETTER FACILITIES and Better Terms than ever. Salary or commission. Write for our Special Offer.

HOOKER, GROVER & CO.
Rochester Fruit Farm and Nurseries,
Established 1866. Rochester, N. Y.

NOTICE. JAN. 21, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hatfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, administrators of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from this date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WILLIAM HATFIELD,
[illegible]

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In chancery of New Jersey—Between Jacob Welsh and Matthias T. Welsh, Administrators, etc., complainant and James Craig et ux defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, commencing at a point where the center line of Dunellen avenue intersects the center line of Jefferson avenue; thence running north fifty seven degrees and ten minutes east along the center line of Dunellen avenue, seven hundred and sixty and thirty-two one-hundredths feet, thence south twenty-four degrees and thirty-nine minutes east, one hundred and fifty seven and ninety-three one hundredths feet; thence south sixty-four degrees ten minutes west, ninety-seven and sixty-eight one-hundredths feet; thence south twenty-four degrees and thirteen minutes east along the line of property now or formerly of Ellen Stillman six hundred and two and sixty-five one-hundredths feet to the center line of North avenue; thence south fifty-seven degrees and ten minutes west along the center line of North avenue five hundred and fifty and forty five one-hundredths feet to the center line of Jefferson avenue; thence north thirty-two degrees and fifty minutes west, along the center line of Jefferson avenue, seven hundred and thirty-eight and sixty five one-hundredths feet to the point of beginning.

Being the same premises conveyed to James Craig by deed of William Craig and others, dated May 17th, 1888 and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union County in Book 100 of Deeds on page 244. etc.

W. HICKS, Sheriff.

JOHN H. VAN WINKLE, Solicitor.
F. P. & C. fees $9 92. 2 2w5

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.—To Robert Macauley, Defendant.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, wherein Mary Macauley is petitioner, and you are defendant, you are hereby required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the petition of said petitioner on or before the twenty-second day of March next, or the said petition will be taken as confessed against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.

WALTER L. HETFIELD,
Solicitor of Petitioner, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Dated January 20, 1893.
1 26 4

SHERIFF'S SALE.—New Jersey Supreme Court, Union County—Chas. A. Reed, plaintiff vs John C. Moore, defendant, alias. Fi. fa. de. bo. et. ter., in debt.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the right, title and interest of the above named defendant of, in, to and out of all that tract of land situate in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, A. D., 1893,

Beginning at a point in the middle of Second street ninety-eight and five-tenths feet in a course of north forty-three degrees forty-eight minutes east, from a point in the centre of Cherry and Second streets and a corner of land now or formerly of John Beadle, deceased; thence running along the middle of Second street, north forty-three degrees forty-eight minutes east ninety and three-tenths feet to a stake and making a corner of other land of the party of the first part, the house lot; thence running along line of that lot south forty-one degrees fifty-four minutes east eighty-nine and ninety-five one-hundredths feet to a stake and corner of Jacob R. Laing's land; thence running along his line south forty-three degrees forty-eight minutes west sixteen and nine-tenths feet to a stake and making a corner; thence running north forty-three degrees twenty-six minutes west along the line of lot belonging to estate of John Beadle, deceased, ninety feet to the place of beginning. Being same premises conveyed to John C. Moore, by deed of William Moore recorded in the office of the Clerk of Union County in Book 173 of Deeds, page 158 &c.

W. M. HICKS, Sheriff.

CHARLES A. REED, Attorney.
C. H. & C. fees $10 80. 1 26w5

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

26 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

All goods delivered free of charge.

C. M. ULRICH.

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. F. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Swezey Carman R. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah A. Dickinson, guardian, etc., is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead demur or answer to the bill of said complainant, on or before the seventeenth day of February next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose two certain mortgages, one made by Evan Jones and wife to Hannah C. Hetfield, dated July 1, 1874, on lands in the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, and assigned to the complainant, and the other made by Emma A. Jones and Evan Jones, her husband, to complainant, dated November 30, 1880, on lands in the city of Plainfield aforesaid, and you Jane Swezey, Carman R. Hetfield and Mary E. Pound are made defendants because you as devisees of Hannah C. Hetfield, deceased, may claim some lien upon the said mortgaged premises by virtue of a judgment recovered by said Hannah C. Hetfield against said Evan Jones.

Dated December 16 A. D. 1892.

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
76 Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.
12 29 6 Fees $4 50

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
9 30 tf.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper G. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.

12 1 10 MARVIN R. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, - - $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

NEWARK
BEE HIVE

THINGS SOLD THERE THAT MAKE THE GREAT STORE IT IS!

REASONABLE PRICED SELLERS
BEE HIVE
OF RELIABLE MERCHANDISE.

CUT OUT AND SAVE FOR REFERENCE

STOCK LIST, No. 1.

Dry Goods Department

BLACK DRESS SILKS
Black Faille — Rhadame
Gros Grain — Satin Marveilleux
Satin Duchesse — Peau de Soie
Armures — Surahs
Whipcords — Bengalines
Japanese — China
Taffetas

COLORED DRESS SILKS
Gros Grain — Faille
Bengaline — Rhadame
Plain Surah — China
Changeable Surah — Changeable Taffetas

PRINTED DRESS SILKS
China — Japanese
and other high-grade goods, in light and dark grounds.

EVENING SILKS
Faille — Japanese
Bengaline — Plain Crepes
Fancy Brocades — Embroidered Crepes

FIGURED DRESS SILKS
Surahs — Taffetas — Glaces

COLORED AND BLACK DRESS GOODS
Ladies' Cloth — Serges
Cashmeres — Henriettas
Jacquard Figures — Whipcords
Ondule — Debeiges
Princella Cloth — Landsdowne
Flannels — Cheviots
Cloakings — Astrakhans
Mohairs — Alpacas
Priestley's Celebrated Henriettas and the latest French and German Novelties in high art dress materials.

NO BRANCH STORES

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad Street,
NEWARK, N. J.

SAVE TWENTY PER CENT.

AMOS H. VANHORN,

73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

10-5-1y

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM—Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores Taste and Smell, and Cures

CATARRH

Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head. Apply into the Nostrils.—It is Quickly Absorbed. 50c. Druggists or by mail. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,
Successors to Pierson Hardware Co., 7 11 tf 46 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The embezzlement case of Fulper & Bingham vs. James E. Totten, will come up at Elizabeth March 1.

—George Smock has been offered $1,000 an acre for his farm on West Front street, by a New York party who wants to grade the property and erect several dwelling houses.

—In his infatuation for the School Board and its folly, the Courier has lost what head it had, and is now angrily thumping Mayor Gilbert for his courageous and public spirited action.

—Gentle William Murphy has made another record for himself. He has worked 11 weeks in the Pond works without losing a day, and has a wife and two children since he stopped playing ball.

—A cock fight is now being arranged for between owners of birds in this city, Newark, Trenton, and other places. It will take place near Waverly on Feb. 22, and there is some $200 in the pot.

—A lamp exploded in G. Elliott's private residence at Scotch Plains, at 9 p. m. Saturday, and set fire to the house. The department was called out, and the fire extinguished with a loss of about $50.

—Parents are earnestly requested to keep their children from the ice on Tier's pond. The ice is rotten and very dangerous. Mr. Tier has warned the children time and time again, but some of them still persist in skating there.

—The residents of the east side intended to petition the common council at their next meeting against the granting of a liquor license in the Hand building on Broadway. Because of the opposition, Cawley has withdrawn his application.

—The editor of our "fresher" contemporary filled the Recorder representative chock-full of Courier ideas of the public-school question, and then quoted those ideas back from the beguiled Recorder again as a tremendous argument for his side.

—Frank Randolph, who started for New Brunswick Tuesday with a load of furniture, got as far as the landing bridge but had to come back and go by way of Bound Brook, on account of the submerging of the lowland road approaching the bridge.

—The sidewalk on the northeast side of Park avenue near the railroad bridge is in a wretched condition, and should be attended to without delay. The property is owned by the railroad company, and the crossing in question is a nuisance to pedestrians.

—The latest and prettiest song now being sung on the stage is entitled "The Indian Summer Time". It is by the popular author, Will L. Thompson, of East Liverpool, Ohio. The price is 40 cents. Send the author half price, and you will receive a copy.

—Mrs. M. Fitzgerald of South Plainfield, whose road-house was destroyed by fire a month ago, had $750 on her furniture. W. A. Woodruff is the agent for the company which insured her, and it is said the company has offered her that amount in settlement.

—The editor of the Courier has a new hen on. He wants the city to adopt St. Mary's parochial school. He advocated the plan in his home paper yesterday, and in his New York papers this morning would make people believe that the scheme is nearly consummated.

—Two Bound Brook residents drove to Scotch Plains Sunday, and filled up on poor liquor. On the way home, late in the afternoon, near Dunellen, they quarreled, and it is said one of them drew a revolver and threatened to shoot the other. No one was hurt, however.

—The directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan association have changed the time of their regular meetings from the third Monday to the third Thursday evening of each month. Shareholders will meet for the payment of dues on the fourth Monday evening as heretofore.

—To lighten household cares and add to housekeeping delights every housewife should consult each month the pages of Table Talk, the American authority on culinary and household topics. All newsdealers supply it, or the publishers at 1113 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, will fill subscriptions.

—While Plainfield was comparatively free from snow on Sunday, at Pennington, only a few miles away, the snow was banked up nearly to the top of fences. One man who drove from Lambertville to Pennington in order to catch a train for here, had to drive through the fields in some places in order to reach the station.

—During the past few weeks several tons of hay have disappeared from John L. Spencer's barn at Scotch Plains, and lately the place has been watched. Thursday night a stranger was seen to leave the place with a load of hay, and his name was subsequently ascertained. The matter will in all probability be adjusted and kept out of court.

—Our "fresher" contemporary was Monday night forced to admit that no one took any stock in the Courier's pet scheme to have the public schools absorb the parochial institution. The Faribault system could not by any possibility be adopted here, and no one except the Courier could be responsible for such a visionary scheme.

—Over two hundred people went to Campbell's club-house, Saturday, to see the wild-cat chase, but as told in THE PRESS Saturday the animal was dead. Some fifteen hounds were there, and three times the cat was dragged across country. The first trip it was scented first by a mongrel dog, and the two other trips by Harry Campbell's well-known hound.

—There will be a constitutional convention of the L. A. W. in Philadelphia, Monday, Feb. 20. All members of the league are entitled to a seat at this meeting. The headquarters of the New Jersey Division will be at the Hotel Lafayette. Members intending to attend are requested to notify Chief Consul Brown Brown before Feb. 17, so that accommodation can be provided.

—There will be match shooting and sweepstakes at live birds and blue rocks on Washington's Birthday, Wednesday, Feb. 22, at the enclosed grounds of the Perth Amboy, N. J., Gun club, three blocks from the Central railroad station. The club's gold badge will be offered as a special prize to members, in a match at ten blue rocks each. A team match, at blue rocks, between members for a supper, will be an interesting event. The sweepstakes matches will be open to all. Plainfield marksmen are invited to attend and enjoy a good day's sport.

The Goodyear Lectures at All Souls' Church.

The methods open to students of Egyptian civilization are three in number. The subject may be approached through the objects seen in the museums, through the books which have been written about it, and through actual travel. The aim of the Goodyear course of lectures to be begun at All Souls' church, to-morrow evening, is to combine as much as possible these methods by illustrating the objects seen in museums, by summarizing the results obtained from books, and by showing the monuments seen in travel. These lectures will be to those who attend, not only a delight but an education.

There is nothing superior to Salvation Oil for the relief and cure of wounds of all kinds. Its effect is marvelous. 25c.

PERSONALIA.

Miss C. Sheehan has removed to 144 West Front street.

Thomas Keller is home from a five weeks' trip to St. Paul and other western cities.

Miss Mary B. Rich, of Poughkeepsie, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seely Edsall.

A well-known society woman of Plainfield will soon publish a book combining the esthetic and practical.

John Brooks of the Potter Press Works has been granted another patent for a printing press invention.

The Plainfield women's art work for the Columbian Exposition will be exhibited at the Albion Feb. 20 from 2 to 9.

W. J. Tunison has just returned from Watkins, N. Y., with a handsome new draught horse, valued at $250.

H. N. Norris and family, of Bridgeton, moved here on Saturday and are living in the Sebring house at Grant avenue and Front street.

The coming marriage is announced of Miss Bessie K. Melick to Richard Ten-Eyck, both of Metuchen, to take place Saturday evening, March 4.

The private theatricals which are to take place during Easter week are fairly under way. The cast includes the beauty, wit and talent of the town.

Chas. Seible, formerly a driver for No. 3 Engine company, but now of Titusville, N. J., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Wm. Blimm, of North Plainfield.

At the annual exhibition of the Westchester Kennel club, early in March, Messrs. Robby and Wilson Fisk of this city will enter some of their valuable dogs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vail have been rejoicing over the advent of a bright baby boy, but their joy is now tempered with affliction, for Mrs. Vail is suffering with the mumps.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Mattie W. Burnett to E. Edgar Milliken, Thursday evening, March 2, at the home of the bride's parents, Prospect avenue, Dunellen.

Ex-city clerk Oliver B. Leonard is one of the committee having in charge the annual dinner of the Rochester University Alumni to be given Monday night at the Hotel Savoy, New York.

George Gable, who recently came here from New York, is building a handsome home on Central avenue. He and his family are temporarily situated at Sixth street and Franklin place.

Mrs. Peter Herlich, of Dunellen, whose husband lately committed suicide, removed her furniture to Elizabeth Wednesday afternoon, where she has gone to take up her abode with her mother.

Penbrook S. Clark, brother of J. A. Clark of this city, died in the Soldiers' Home at Kearney Wednesday. He was buried on Friday in the soldiers' plot in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabethport, at his own request.

Bishop Wigger, of Seton Hall College, South Orange, has appointed the Rev. Francis J. Murphy to be assistant to Father Smyth at St. Mary's church, Plainfield, in place of Father Cushing, who was removed.

Michael Doyle and Miss Annie Finnerty were united in marriage by the Rev. P. E. Smyth, Monday evening. Miss Annie Gill acted as bridesmaid, and John Watson as groomsman. The happy couple will reside on Liberty street.

The commendable plan of publicly exhibiting the list of the poor assisted by the township, so that all may see whether unworthy people are being helped, is one which was inaugurated by the present North Plainfield overseer, J. W. A. Bauersachs, who deserves full credit for the idea.

Captain J. A. Flannery, of Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., of this city, attended on, Thursday, a meeting of the State board of officers held at Phillipsburg. In order to allow the officers of Crescent Division an opportunity to attend the meeting of the Grand Division, at Trenton, to-day, the regular meeting of the Division has been postponed for a week.

A marriage in New York Tuesday of interest to many Plainfielders was that of Frank Barnaby, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Annie E. Evans, relict of ex-Mayor Evans of this city, and sister of Mrs. E. L. Walz, which took place at 1 o'clock in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. The Rev. Dr. John Hall officiated. None but immediate relatives of the pair were present. Mr. Barnaby's bride is a sister of Daniel F. Lewis, president of the Brooklyn City Railroads.

A sad ending to a bit of romance is the death of Philopena, the young wife of George O. Strayer of 59 North avenue. Mrs. Strayer was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blimm of Somerset street. Her elopement with George Strayer was a surprise to her friends and family, but both of the young people were popular, and they were welcomed back to Plainfield not only by mutual acquaintances but by the family, who freely forgave the escapade. Mrs. Strayer was only 18 years old. She leaves an infant babe.

AMATEURS IN "THE MIKADO".

An Excellent Performance at Westfield Last Evening, with Plainfield Talent Leading.

The Alcaeus Society of Westfield produced Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Mikado", Tuesday night, before an audience which filled the pretty hall of the Westfield Athletic club. The cast was as follows:

The Mikado	B. P. Moore
Nanki-Poo	Ogden Ring
Ko-Ko	Wm. Holmes
Pooh-Bah	G. P. Haynes
Pish-Tush	Julian Couch
Yum-Yum	Miss Blanche Trevey
Pitti-Sing	Miss Sadie J. Brown
Peep-Bo	Mrs. G. R. Haynes
Katisha	Miss A. M. Stacy

The performance was an excellent one throughout, and richly deserved the success it achieved. Much of this success was due to William Holmes of this city, who made the hit of the evening as Ko-ko. Mr. Holmes's acting showed careful study and a thorough understanding of the part. He kept the house laughing continually and was recalled after each of his songs. One of the verses of the "Never Will be Missed" song was written for Mr. Holmes by George Taggart of North Plainfield. It was very well received.

B. P. Moore was an excellent Mikado. His make-up was very good, and he sang well. The work of Mr. Ring as Nanki-Poo was exceedingly good, especially his singing, which received much applause. Mr. Haynes and Mr. Couch both played their parts well.

Miss Trevey as Yum-Yum left little to be desired. Miss Sadie J. Brown made a pretty and graceful Pitti-Sing, and sang very sweetly; and Miss Stacy and Mrs. Haynes filled their roles acceptably.

The chorus was well trained, and the scenery and costumes were remarkably good.

May Have to Drag Him From the Pulpit.

(From the New York World.)

The order of Bishop Scarborough requiring Rector J. B. Jennings, of Grace church, Westfield, to vacate the parish, goes into effect to-morrow, but it is not likely that anything will be done until Sunday. The rector says no power on earth can drive him out of the church. He has given out the usual notices for regular services next Sunday, and the vestry have telegraphed to the Bishop asking for instructions in case Mr. Jennings refuses to obey the order. The vestry fear they will have to use force in order to [illegible].

SUSPICIOUS FIRE.

Plainfield's Department Has an Early Morning Call.

One of the brick buildings owned by the Heidsloff estate at 15 Somerset street was damaged by fire shortly after 2 Sunday morning.

The fire started under the stairway at the front of the store, on the first floor, which was occupied by George Albert as a cigar shop and pool room. Albert's goods were damaged to the extent of $200.

The fire was well handled, and the damage on the building kept down to $1,000.

Mantz Bros., occupying the second floor, had $200 damage to their stock, mostly by water.

The Emmanuel Baptist church, on the third floor, lost two hymn books and a lamp chimney.

The origin of the fire is mysterious, not to say suspicious. A clue is being followed up.

The alarm was sounded from box 12, and the department quickly responded and did good work. They were so quiet and orderly that the people next door to the fire were not awakened but slept through it all.

George Mehl had his wrist badly cut, and James Martin had his nose scratched, by falling glass. A number of firemen were bruised by falling plaster.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Charming Celebration by a Hale and Hearty Bride and Groom of Fifty Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Darby celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their residence, Fanwood, Saturday. At 12 o'clock the marriage ceremony was re-performed by the Rev. J. H. Parks of the Scotch Plains Baptist church. After congratulations, the guests, numbering about sixty, were served with a bountiful repast. The floral center-piece, presented by the grandchildren, was a bouquet of fifty Marechal Neil roses, symbolical of the occasion. There were present three children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Other guests were present as follows:

From Plainfield—Mr. and Mrs. John L. Darby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Darby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Darby, Miss N. Miller, Roy DeCamp, Miss Fannie DeCamp.

From Fanwood—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cleaver, the Rev. J. H. Parks, Dr. F. W. Westcott, Mrs. M. C. Scudder.

From Westfield—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Scudder, Mrs. S. Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lambert and son, Mrs. C. H. French.

From Rahway—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lambert and family.

From Newark—Mrs. Aaron Darby, Miss Edna May Darby, Mrs. V. L. Burgesser and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Frazee, Mrs. Job DeCamp.

From Somerville—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitenack and Mrs. M. Taylor.

From Madison—Mrs. B. A. DeCamp, George H. Secor and daughter.

From Atlantic City—Mr. and Mrs. Levi Darby and son.

From Paterson—Mr. and Mrs. R. Quackenbush.

From New York—Mrs. L. A. Munier.

The Garments They Give Are New.

The Plainfield branch of the Needlework Guild of America presented the following report to THE PRESS a few days ago, for publication. Unfortunately the article has been crowded out until now:

"'What cannot will and union effect!' Lady Wolverton exclaimed, in one of her direct, simple speeches on the subject of the Needlework Guild. But even she, its originator, must feel some wonder at the magnitude of what will and union have effected in this great confederation, the outcome of her thought.

"At the yearly meeting of the Plainfield branch, January 27, it was found that we had made quite an advance, over last year's work.

"Whereas, we had collected last year 616 garments and miscellaneous articles; this year, the total stands at 738, an in*crease of 122. If we can continue to en*large our number of directors, it will not be many years before we will be a large organization in this city. We feel we are doing much good, and supplying a long-needed want—that of giving to the different charitable organizations, and to our local poor, suitable, strong, and new garments, for their individual needs. We have distributed 602 garments, etc., this winter, as follows:

Children's Home, Plainfield	221
Muhlenberg Hospital	130
Boys' Club	29
Day Nursery	67
Local cases	43
Missionary box, Trinity Reformed church	32
Grace Church Guild	30
Ann Burlingham	9
Home for the Aged, Newark, N. J.	27
Free Home for Destitute Girls, New York	14
	602
In reserve	136
Total	738

"It is hoped that through THE PRESS we may influence others to enter into this work. We will be only too glad to send our 'leaflets', explaining the work in detail, to any who may become interested and desire to know more about it and perhaps unite with us in helping on this far-reaching charity.

"ANNIE A. W. MASON,
"Secretary.

"February 4, 1893."

THE OPERATION SUCCESSFUL.

Andrew Mantz Given a Chance for His Life by Skillful Surgery.

The operation of quadruple amputation was successfully performed on Andrew Mantz Tuesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jacob Voehl, 55 Somerset street, in accordance with the announcement exclusively published in these columns yesterday. Mantz is the unfortunate man who was so badly frozen four weeks ago on his farm in the mountains.

Dr. Zeglio was the operating physician. He was assisted by Drs. Fritts, Allis and Carman. The patient was under the influence of ether from 11:30 to 1, and both feet and all of his fingers and thumbs were removed. The case was handled with such skill that the sufferer has rallied remarkably; and, though very weak from the terrible shock to the system, has a fighting chance for recovery.

It is one of the most extraordinary cases on surgical records.

A Borough Priest Goes to Junction.

Father Donovan, who recently resigned as pastor of the Catholic church at Junction to enter the New York diocese, left last week for New York. Father Nicholas Freeman, late of Millstone, but formerly of North Plainfield, has assumed the duties of the Junction charge.

To the Inauguration via B. & O. R. R.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announces that on the occasion of the inauguration of Cleveland and Stevenson on March 4 it will sell excursion tickets to Washington and return at low rates. Tickets reading via the B. & O. will be on sale at its own offices and at the offices of the principal railroad companies throughout the country. Tickets will be sold March 2, 3 and 4, and will be good for return journey until March 7 inclusive. For information in detail concerning time of trains, rates of fare, etc., address C. P. Craig, general eastern passenger agent, 415 Broadway, New York, or James Potter, district passenger agent, 833 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

NO NECESSITY!

ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ROOM NOT WANTED AT PRESENT.

Plainfield Has Five Good Buildings With Greater Accommodation Than is Required for the Number of Pupils Who Attend.

Referring to the last annual report of the State Board of Education (from which a few telling facts and figures were published in the PRESS of Wednesday), there is still much more to learn therefrom about the acts of our Board of Education.

The report states that the seating capacity of the schools in Plainfield is in excess of the enrollment.

The average enrollment in each room is 34, and the average daily attendance in each room is 31. There are 44 rooms (not counting those in the new extension of Bryant building) in the five buildings with provision for 40 pupils on an average to each room. The exact figures of the annual report are "the school houses will seat 1778 children". There were 1691 children enrolled for the school year and the records show an average attendance of only 1369.

So then the accommodation of our school houses is amply adequate for all the children in attendance. In fact we have seating capacity for 500 more pupils, not estimating the recent enlargement of the Bryant building.

The State law requires our Board of Education to provide school privileges for children of school age, and it enjoins that the children of those years shall be compelled to go to school part of the time. But there is no provision made in the law to purchase play-grounds for pleasure nor hot-houses for horticultural purposes.

If such is the fact as reported by our Board of Education, that already there is an excess of seating capacity in our schools, where is the necessity of erecting any more school houses?

None of our school houses are dilapidated; but all are in good condition as is well known, and public structures that do credit to the city of Plainfield.

If the present school accommodations are sufficient for all the pupils in general attendance, and the existing school houses are in substantial, thorough condition, then surely, for the time being, there is no justification in the Board of Education levying such heavy assessments upon the people for additional school buildings.

This is the vital question with the taxpayers, and for five years past they have been paying the following percentages on every $100 valuation of property for public school purposes:

Year.	City School.	State School.	Total Schools.
[illegible]	64 cts.	30 cts.	94 cts.
[illegible]	[illegible] "	[illegible] "	[illegible] "
[illegible]	[illegible] "	[illegible] "	[illegible] "
[illegible]	[illegible] "	[illegible] "	[illegible] "
[illegible]	[illegible] "	[illegible] "	[illegible] "

These taxes have been appropriated by our Board for lands, buildings, furniture and apparatus and yearly current expenses, and yet this official report of the State Board shows an outstanding indebtedness against Plainfield's public schools of $66,000 in bonds and mortgages.

This is the largest obligation, by far, of any other school district in New Jersey, with but one exception.

MUMMIES, RUINS, TOMBS,

And Other Cheerful Relics of By-gone Days, to Be Pictured to All Plainfield.

The interesting photographs of Egyptian scenery, life and people now freely displayed in the show windows about town are from the valuable private collection of Mrs. Edward D. McCarthy, of 202 Park avenue, who is one of the enthusiastic and public-spirited women of Plainfield who have made possible the delivery of a delightful series of Egyptian lectures in All Souls' church. The photographs have already aroused great interest in the course, and Prof. Wm. H. Goodyear is sure to have a large and attentive audience at his opening lecture, this week Thursday evening.

These lectures not only afford the best of entertainment, but are highly educational. Prof. Goodyear is curator of the Brooklyn institute. He returned from Europe a few months ago. While there he attended and spoke at the ninth oriental congress in London. He was the only American who was given that privilege.

In response to the query what books may be consulted at the Plainfield library in connection with these lectures, the following list is given:

LIST OF BOOKS ON EGYPT [HISTORY, ART AND ARCHAEOLOGY] IN THE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF PLAINFIELD.

Appleton, J. G.—Nile Journal.
Berkley, E.—The Pharaohs and their People.
Duncker, M. W.—History of Antiquity, volume 1.
Ebers, George—Egypt, descriptive, historical and picturesque, 2 vols.
Edwards, Amelia B.—Pharaohs, Fellahs and Explorers. Thousand Miles up the Nile.
Egypt Exploration Fund Publications—Vol. 1—Store City of Pithom and the Route of the Exodus, by E. Naville. Vol. 2—Naukratis, part 1, by W. M. F. Petrie and others. Vol. 4—Tanis, part 2, by W. M. F. Petrie. Vol. 5—Shrine of Saft El Henneh and the Land of Goshen, by E. Naville. Vol. 6—Naukratis, part 2, by E. A. Gardner.
Herodotus Works, Ed. by G. Rawlinson, 4 vols. (The chapter on Egypt is entitled Euterpe).
Kenrick, J.—Ancient Egypt, 2 vols.
Lanoye, F. de—Egypt 3,300 Years Ago.
Loftie, W. J.—Ride in Egypt.
Maspero, G.—Egyptian Archaeology.
Oliphant, L.—Land of Khemi.
Proctor, R. A.—Great Pyramid.
Ranke, L. von—Universal History, Ancient.
Rawlinson, G.—History of Ancient Egypt, 2 vols.
Rawlinson, G.—Story of Ancient Egypt.
Reber, F. von—Ancient Art.
Sayce, A. H.—Ancient Empires of the East.
Smith, Philip—History of the World, vol. 1.
Vereschoyle, J.—Ancient Civilization.
Waters, C. E.—Egypt.
Wilkinson, J. G.—Ancient Egyptians, 3 vols.
ALSO,
Lübke, W.—History of Art, vol. 1.
—History of Sculpture, vol. 1.
Mitchell, L.—Ancient Sculpture, vol. 1.

Little Plainfield Outgrowing Ancient New Brunswick.

(From The Fredonian Sunday Home News.)

A syndicate of capitalists is buying up the street railways on the cities near New York, including even little Plainfield and Montclair, but New Brunswick is not in it, though the road here is probably for sale for a reasonable figure if anybody wants it.

Who Were These Good Plainfielders?

The New York Herald, in its Sunday account of the French ball, said: "Good, honest sightseers from Plainfield and Harlem clutched at their vitals as if afraid of losing breath. Two girls under the press gallery sat in the lap of a handsome broker. Another sat on the shoulder of her bald headed escort, clicking time to the can-can music with her heels. Other girls stood on their hands and tried to turn somersaults, and so on through the night scenes were enacted impossible to narrate."

An Interesting Series.

The February matches of the Park club bowling team will be as follows:

Thursday, Feb. 16—Westfield Athletic club.
Saturday, Feb. 18—Republican members, [illegible], captain, vs. Democrat members, [illegible], captain.
Monday, Feb. 20—Fanwood.
Saturday, Feb. 25—Republicans vs. Democrats.
Tuesday, Feb. 28—Cranford County club.

Rumors of imitations. Take no just as good. See that you get the genuine Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the [illegible].

THE MELOPOIA'S SECOND.

Hollman Scores the Hit of the Season as an Instrumentalist.

The second private concert of the third season of the Melopoia was held Friday night. The hall was tastefully decorated as usual and the electric lights (done up in papers so that they look like torpedoes which would go off if dropped) shed o'er all a roseate glow. The lion of the evening was Joseph Hollman, who is accorded to be the greatest violoncellist in the country. His first selections were an Aria by Bach and Papillon by Popper. As an encore he gave Chopin's second nocturne. Later in the evening he rendered Schumann's "Traumerei" exquisitely and gave in connection and in direct contrast with it, a mazurka of his own, which is a bright and taking composition. As encore to these he played a minuet of Paderewski, which composition was first introduced to this city by Miss Adele Aus der Ohe long before the composer was known in this country as one of the greatest living pianists.

Mrs. Anne Mooney Burch, who has always given pleasure whenever she has sung here, was very well received. Her solo from Mignon received an encore, and the "Chanson d' Amour" with obligato by the composer received the just applause of Mr. Hollman as well as of the audience. It was accorded a recall and was repeated.

Graham Reed is a new star in the musical world. He possesses a baritone voice of considerable promise. His selections were "Dio Possente" from Faust and "For All Eternity" by Mascheroni. As encore to the latter he gave a selection from Robin Hood.

The work of the society was in some respects an improvement upon that of the last concert. The shading was much better. The opening selection of the programme, Eaton Faning's "Song of the Vikings" was sung with life and vigor. The leads and the climaxes were excellent. The audience was roused to enthusiasm which is saying a good deal as it was late before the concert began, and any ardor had had time to cool. "Sweet Evening Hour", by Samuel Reay, is a song in which the parts are beautifully worked up and blended. It was sung with taste and expression. Raff's "Morning Song" is a fine composition but the effect is nothing unless it is sung as it should be. The society did its best, but the song requires very artistic singing of which few of the members are capable.

Pinsuti's "There is Music by the River" is a little gem and was well sung. The poorest work of the chorus was its rendering of "The Owl" by Stiles. In this song there is chance for some excellent effects and good hits, but the chorus seemed demoralized. It perhaps had not yet come down from the heights to which it had just been lifted by Mr. Hollman. At any rate, the attacks were poor and the climaxes as nothing. However, it was the last number and was short, so it did not detract from the character of the concert which was as enjoyable as any previous one of this society.

Mr. Chapman was fortunately sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to conduct the chorus. It had been led for two rehearsals by Mr. Levy, the accompanist, who did some excellent work, but he, of course, did not understand the effects that Mr. Chapman had been working to bring out, as they had not gone over the music together.

HAS THE BISHOP THE RIGHT?

The Rev. Mr. Jennings Will Probably Contest It.

The letter of Bishop John Scarborough dismissing the Rev. Joseph Jennings from the rectorship of Grace church, Westfield, is as follows:

> In the matter of the petition of the vestry of Grace church, Westfield, N. J., under the provisions of title III, canon 4 of the Diocese of New Jersey, entitled "Of difference between ministers and their congregations", praying for a dissolution of the pastoral relations existing between them and the Rev. Joseph B. Jennings, my decision as the Bishop of the diocese is, first, that the Rev. Joseph B. Jennings shall cease to be the rector of Grace church, Westfield, on and after the 15th day of February, 1893; and, second, that the vestry of Grace church, Westfield, shall pay to the said Rev. Joseph B. Jennings all arrears of salary due him and his salary in full up to the date named in this order. Given under my hand and seal in the city of Trenton and State of New Jersey, on this 4th day of February, 1893.
>
> JOHN SCARBOROUGH,
> Bishop of New Jersey.

But it is a question whether the Bishop has the right to do all that, which some good rectors in his diocese say, "He'll find out!"

COMING THIS WAY.

The Electric Railroad from Elizabeth Will Connect All Intervening Towns with Plainfield.

The Cranford town committee has granted a franchise to the Plainfield and Elizabeth electric railway company to lay its tracks through Cranford, and the right of way is now fully secured as far as Westfield. From Westfield to Plainfield will be the next step. The company will by grading improve the road over which it is to run through Cranford. It formally agreed to grade at its own expense all that part of South avenue, between the old road to Westfield, so-called, and the dividing line between the townships of Cranford and Westfield, for an additional eight feet, making a total of sixteen feet to be so graded. For some time past the question of grading South avenue has been discussed by the taxpayers and it was a question who should bear the burden of the expense, the township or the Fourth district. The railroad steps in and relieves everyone else.

The way Lorraine property has been benefited by the prospects of the road is told by the Elizabeth Journal:

"If there is anyone opposed to granting a franchise to the Elizabeth, Lorraine and Plainfield electric railroad, for fear it will injure property interests, all such hallucinations should be dispelled when it is known that property has been sold at $40 per front foot on the contemplated route, when the land was formerly worth not over $400 per acre for farming purposes. As soon as the rails are laid over the route, the south side of the Central railroad will be rapidly built up, as there is no finer location for building sites in this section."

HELP FOR THE CRESCENT LEAGUE.

Subscriptions Coming Fast and the Club Will Probably Continue in New Quarters.

At a meeting for the perpetuation of the Crescent League, held Thursday night it was announced that Messrs. Leggett, Mosher, Haynes, Kline and Tool had secured subscriptions to the amount of $730 towards liquidating the indebtedness of the organization. The thanks of all were extended these members for their good work, and Messrs. Reed, Stevens and Rogers were appointed a new committee to try what they could in the same way before next Wednesday evening when the League will meet again.

It seems assured now that the club will reorganize and continue, but not at the old stand. The members have the house at the corner of East Front street and Tier's lane, in their eye. Last night's meeting was almost stormy at times. One of the new board of trustees said the old board was responsible for the difficulty and distress the club was now in.

—The Westfield Leader says that W. E. [illegible] of this city will do the [illegible].

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

TROUBLE OVER THE LINE.

The Only Reason for the Proposed Law is to Benefit a Country Road.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

In Senator Adrain's political organ, the New Brunswick Times, appeared the following, Monday, with reference to the bill to straighten the lines between the counties of Union and Middlesex:

"Senate bill No. 57, introduced by Senator Marsh, of Union, is a measure that has gone just as far as it should be allowed to go. The bill provides for the straightening of certain county lines in Union and Middlesex counties by making parts of Woodbridge and Raritan townships, Middlesex county, a part of Clark township, Union county. In plain terms Union county finds it advantageous to steal, if possible, several hundred acres of land with their improvements and valuable citizens from Middlesex county. The interests of Middlesex county are not to be considered. This barefaced steal must by no means be permitted. One county must not be permitted for its own selfish interests to steal the territory, improvements and citizens of another, and we call upon the representatives of Middlesex county in the Senate and House to see to it that this nefarious attempt at theft shall be nipped in the bud. It is an outrage against which the people of Middlesex cry out as with one voice."

This is pretty harsh language, much more so than is called for.

But the Times is not the only Democratic paper which is scoring Senator Marsh for this bill. The Woodbridge Hour grows sarcastic and facetious over the bill and says:

It provides for taking off portions of Woodbridge and Raritan townships, and annexing the territory to Clark township, Union county. Our Senator and members will have the bill promptly killed. The blonde statesman from Union musn't be so naughty.

The Journal has had, in times past, a suspicion that there might be a little political sharp practice in the bill in question, and that if enacted it might change the political complexion of Clark township. But further inquiry leads to the conclusion that there is no politics in it whatever. Senator Marsh openly declares that there is not, and says that he believes it will add not more than seven or eight votes to Clark township, and that these votes are very nearly divided as to politics.

The bill was introduced last year by Senator Marsh, at the request of prominent citizens of Rahway and Clark township, Republicans and Democrats, favoring the bill. In fact, the Senator says the bill was drawn by one of the leading Re*publicans of Union county, and its enact*ment is urged by him. Its object is simply to straighten the county line so as to throw into Union county the road leading from Rahway to Plainfield, with a view to ultimately make it a county road and improve it as other roads have been improved to the great advantage of the county and to the appreciation of all the property in the county. The present county line runs through a cemetery, in one place, and makes a bad division of lands and road districts, and the bill is declared to be simply and solely for the purpose just stated.

The only objections to it are urged by the Middlesex Democratic papers, and these seem to be directing their arguments against Senator Marsh rather than presenting good reasons why the bill should not become a law.

SUES A "STANDARD" MAN.

Mr. Pearsall Gets in Trouble, Because of His Rifle Practice on His Neighbors' Dogs.

Clifford E. Pearsall, the handsome young "local" of the Westfield Standard, was sued Friday through counselor Chas. A. Reed of this city, for damages, at the instigation of James M. French. Mr. French had a valuable Scotch terrier. Mr. Pearsall had a Flobert rifle. Mr. Pearsall also had a canine with which the other dogs in the neighborhood have been fond of associating. Mr. Pearsall is choice of his dog, and objects to the companionship of the other bow-wows. So Sundays, when the other doggies were in the habit of frolicing about on his lawn, he would reluctantly stay home from church and with his little gun perforate the carcasses of the neighbors' dogs. Mr. French's dog was one of those he killed, and as it was a very knowing, affectionate and valuable dog Mr. French got very mad and insists on reparation. Mr. French did wisely in coming to Plainfield for a lawyer. The cute Mr. Reed will as proof of the dog's value put in evidence a column article which young Mr. Pearsall wrote and published in the Standard descriptive of Carlo's extraordinary intelligence and worth.

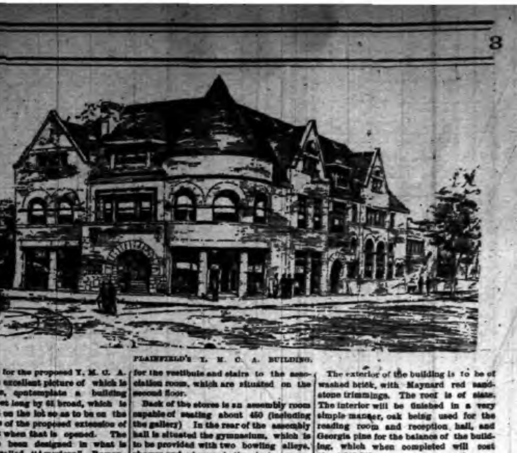
Reduced Rates to Washington on Account of the Inauguration via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the benefit of those who desire to attend the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of President-elect Cleveland, the Pennsylvania Railroad company will sell excursion tickets to Washington March 2, 3 and 4, valid to return until March 7. The excursion rate from New York will be $8, and from Philadelphia and all other principal stations on the Pennsylvania system, two cents per mile. The inauguration promises to be a most interesting event, and will undoubtedly attract a large number of people from every section of the country. The magnificent facilities of the Pennsylvania railroad make this line the favorite route to the national capital on all occasions.

Anxious to Change Hunterdon's County Seat.

Public-spirited men of Clinton and of nearby towns are making a strong effort to have the county seat of Hunterdon moved to Clinton, and the developments of the last few days have aroused a great wave of enthusiasm among the people who favor the removal. The old court-house and jail in Flemington are literally *dropping apart, and the buildings are un*fit for use. The Board of Freeholders have from time to time repaired these structures, and they are tired of the work and expense, and a majority of the board want new buildings. Flemington will do nothing to help the county, and now Clinton has come forward and offered to get authority to bond the town in the sum of $50,000 and put up a new courthouse and jail, without expense to the taxpayers, if the people will vote to remove the county seat to that place. A public meeting will be called in a few days, and the citizens will take such action as will show that they are in earnest.

—Is the reason for the city clerk's exhibition of spite against the [illegible] that he got his salary reduced [illegible]?



PLAINFIELD'S Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

The plans for the proposed Y. M. C. A. building, an excellent picture of which is given above, contemplate a building about 150 feet long by 64 broad, which is to be placed on the lot so as to be on the building line of the proposed extension of Peace street when that is opened. The building has been designed in what is commonly called "American" Romanesque, a style much used for public buildings throughout the country, being well adapted for the purpose as it requires very little detail and admits of large bodies of plain wall surface and simple outline of form, and is a style which appeals to the masses more than the classic.

The front part of the building on the first floor is to be used for two stores, and for the vestibule and stairs to the association rooms, which are situated on the second floor.

Back of the stores is an assembly room capable of seating about 450 (including the gallery). In the rear of the assembly hall is situated the gymnasium, which is to be provided with two bowling alleys, shower and plunge baths, locker-room, etc. The floor of the gymnasium is 35.4x54.6.

Over the stores are situated the working rooms of the association, including the reception hall, reading rooms, library, lecture hall, and the secretary's offices. On the third floor are three class rooms, two boys' rooms, game room, committee room, and the apartments for the janitor.

The exterior of the building is to be of washed brick, with Maynard red sandstone trimmings. The roof is of slate. The interior will be finished in a very simple manner, oak being used for the reading room and reception hall, and Georgia pine for the balance of the building, which when completed will cost about $40,000.

In this building the young men of the town will have just what they long have desired. The gymnasium will be most complete, and the association will in every way be equipped for the best work in the line of physical, mental and moral training. The building will be a credit to the association, an honor to the town, and a glory to its architect, A. L. C. Marsh, whom all Plainfielders are proud to know as their fellow-townsman.

A DELIGHTFUL CONCERT.

Successful Termination of a Most Enjoyable Series.

The closing concert of the Philharmonic club, held on Tuesday in the Casino, was very gratifying. The soloists were Miss May Lyle Smith, flutist, and Wm. H. Rieger, tenor.

Miss Smith showed herself an artist of no mean ability. She produced a pure, sweet tone and showed that even here can woman successfully encroach upon what has heretofore been purely man's vocation. For her selection, the "Andantino" and "Bolero" from Wm. Popp's "Spanische Concert", she received an encore.

Mr. Rieger was pleasing, as usual, and received recalls after both his numbers, the Introduction and Aria from "Cavalleria Rusticana"—P. Mascagni, and the Romanza, "Fosca"—A. C. Gomez. The effect of the former, which was sung behind the scenes, was excellent.

The first selection by the club was a sextette composed by Chas. Kurth. All the movements were fine, the andante and intermezzo being especially enjoyable. The "Kaiser Quartette" by Haydn for two violins, viola and violoncello, and the "Nocturne" by Fr. Doppler with solos for flute, violin and 'cello, are especially worthy of mention. The other numbers were Bilder aus dem Osten—F. L. Nicode, and a Barcarolle by Fr. Brandeis.

TO CONNECT WITH PLAINFIELD.

Direct Steam Route to New Brunswick, and a General Electric System.

Surveyors for the Lehigh Valley railroad have been surveying for a line from South Plainfield to New Brunswick. The survey is being made over the same line as mapped out by the Port Reading railroad about a year ago, which project for some reason not apparent has been given up. It is understood that the Lehigh Valley railroad intends building a line to New Brunswick all the way from Plainfield, thus having a competing road with the Pennsylvania between New York and New Brunswick, using the Central's tracks between New York and Plainfield. It is said that New Brunswick capitalists are interested in the scheme, and that sufficient money to well start the extension has been subscribed.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen of New Brunswick, Monday night, an ordinance giving a charter to the City Railway company to operate an electric road in New Brunswick came up for the first reading. The measure provoked much discussion, but no action was taken, and the ordinance was passed over to the next meeting of the Board. There is a very general public sentiment in New Brunswick in favor of the measure. The proposed electric road will make a belt line around the city, and will connect with the station of the Raritan River railroad on Commercial avenue, and then run across town to French street.

The prospect for a series of electric roads in Middlesex county seems very promising. The road from Somerville and Raritan to Bound Brook and Plainfield is an assured improvement. When the road to Bound Brook is completed it is expected that the New Brunswick railroad people will extend their line to that place, thus making a circuit of Somerville, Bound Brook, Plainfield and New Brunswick. Right of way for many miles of the road has been already secured, it is understood.

PLAINFIELD PUSH DID IT.

It Remained for Mr. Runkle's Wealth and Energy to Accomplish a Great Result.

Harry G. Runkle of this city and his brother William are the chief capitalists in the new Havana water-works. For fifty-eight years the giant water-works scheme has been under way, but the work was hampered by lack of funds, and it remained for American capital and push to complete it and make the dream of the Havana inhabitants a successful reality. The water-works began operation Jan. 23, the occasion being one of general thanksgiving and rejoicing in the city. The day was a general holiday. The Runkle's and their wives were present at the grand celebration, and were given an ovation by the delighted populace. Harper's Weekly of Feb. 11 devotes much space to a fully illustrated description of the event. All praise is given to the Plainfield brains, energy and wealth that made the great water-works such a glorious success, and has become such a blessing to the Havana people.

Not Afraid, Only Disgusted.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Base-ball enthusiasts of Plainfield evidently fear Somerville. Perhaps the pace set last season by the Harkinsville management was too hot for them. At any rate it seems certain that these two teams will not meet in any league contests this coming season. Manager Mack has decided not to attach his team to any league, and though he will have a professional battery, local amateurs will compose the remainder of the nine. And as to Plainfield the intention is to have a team of some kind in the field, but whether the team will enter the league is unknown as yet. At any rate, should Somerville enter, Plainfield can be safely counted upon to stay out."

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Lent at the Scotch Plains Church.

The Rev. Edward H. True, officiating clergyman at All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, makes the following announcements for Lent:

ASH WEDNESDAY, FEB. 15—
7:45 p. m.—Evening prayer and sermon.
OTHER WEDNESDAYS IN LENT—
7:45 p. m.—Litany service and lectures on Bible characters, viz:
Feb. 22—Ezekiel.
March 1—Abraham.
" 8—Caleb.
" 15—Samuel.
" 22—Elisha.
" 29—Judas Iscariot.
Sundays, 9:30 a. m. Sunday-school.
" 10:30 a. m. Morning service and sermon.
Holy Communion on March 5 and April 2.
Holy Baptism after second lesson of any service.
Confirmation, by the appointment of the Bishop of the Diocese, May 5.
HOLY WEEK.
WEDNESDAY BEFORE EASTER, MARCH 29—
7:45 p.m.—Ante-Communion and lecture.
GOOD FRIDAY, MARCH 31—
11 a. m.—Full service and sermon.
EASTER DAY, APRIL 2—
10 a. m.—Morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon.
3:30 p. m.—Easter festival of the Sunday-school.

FANWOOD'S FIRE-BUG.

A Fellow-Townsman Arrested on the Charge of Burning Barns and Houses.

Larry Wallace, of Fanwood, was arrested Tuesday on complaint of Dr Frank Westcott, chief of the Scotch Plains fire department, on the charge of setting fire to C. W. Smith's lumber yard two weeks ago, John Marsh's barn a week ago, and Smith's barn Friday night. He was committed by justice Vincent W. Nash to the county jail to await the grand jury's action. All three of the fires mentioned were of incendiary origin, and the villagers believe that they have evidence sufficient to convict Wallace. Detective Keron, who made the arrest, has been working on the case assiduously. Wallace is a poor working-man.

The American Catarrh Cure is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is a positive cure for all those painful

Ailments of Women.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of Leucorrhoea than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That

Bearing-down Feeling

causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as water. It removes

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also

Dizziness, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or

Womb Troubles.

The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For and Backache of either sex the Vegetable Compound is unequaled.

Kidney Complaints

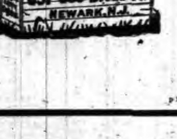
Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25c., cure Biliousness, Constipation, and Torpid Liver. By mail, or of druggists.

All druggists sell the Vegetable Compound, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. Correspondence freely answered.

You can address in strictest confidence,
LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., Lynn, Mass.



p 1 28 8m—a 1 28 8m

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS,

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St., NEWARK, N. J.

9 17 tf

WHAT CONGRESS IS.

Facts Not as Well Understood as They Should Be.

The Senate and House of Representatives Constitute the Congress of the United States—Functions and Life of the Two Bodies.

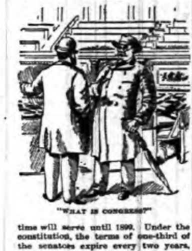
[Special Washington Letter.]

The general reader understands, of course, that a great many things are written for the information of people, who, although fully informed upon every subject within the range of their business experiences, are not wholly conversant with affairs at the national capitol. To the majority of general readers the facts contained in this letter will not be new; yet, to the younger patrons of the paper the facts presented will prove beneficial, and probably interesting.

During sessions of congress it is not an unusual thing for habitues of the capitol to have experiences similar to the following. An elderly gentleman entering the main door of the house of representatives to-day said: "What is this place?" Upon being informed that it is the house of representatives, that all the little desks with revolving chairs before them are occupied by the representatives, and that upon the platform opposite him is the chair and desk of Speaker Crisp, he inquired: "Where is congress?" This inquiry having been answered with the explanation that this is one part of the capitol set apart for congress, and that the other part is in the senate chamber, at the other end of the capitol, he said: "I have been there. I have seen the senate, and now I see the house, but won't you please tell me where congress is?"

This old gentleman was by no means an ignorant man. He looked like a well-to-do country merchant, and he is but a type of a certain respectable class who do not understand what congress is. There are two houses of congress, the house of representatives and the senate. Representatives are elected every two years. The members of the present house of representatives will serve until noontime on the 4th day of next March, when their terms of service will expire. They will no more be representatives in the house after that date than if they had never been sent there, unless they were recently re-elected for two years. They are each elected by direct vote of the people. Under the constitution the senate and house of representatives meet, in congress assembled, on the first Monday of December, every year. From this fact there has arisen a popular fallacy that members of congress commence their terms in December. Members of congress commence their terms, both in the senate and in the house, at noon the 4th day of March. The representatives hold their positions for two years, commencing and ending on March 4. You will understand this better when your attention is called to the fact that our presidents commence their terms in March. For example, Grover Cleveland will be inaugurated upon the 4th of March next. At the same day and at the same hour with the beginning of a new executive administration a new congress commences to exist. The representatives whose terms then begin are elected to serve their people until March 4, 1895. By that time another election will have been held, and representatives chosen to succeed those who constitute the house of representatives for the Fifty-third congress.

The senate, which is a co-ordinate branch of congress, does not altogether expire at any one time. The senators are not elected by a direct vote of the people, but by the legislatures of the several states, and each senator is elected for a term of six years. You will therefore understand that while the representatives whose terms commence on the 4th of next March, will serve only until March 4, 1895, the senators whose terms commence at the same time will serve until 1899. Under the constitution, the terms of one-third of the senators expire every two years, their successors having been chosen in the meantime. Two-thirds of the senators will therefore retain their places next March, while the terms of one-third will commence at that time. The terms of the entire membership of the house of representatives will expire, and the terms of an entire new house will begin, on March 4, next. The terms of only one-third of the senators will expire at that time, and one-third of the membership of the senate will commence at the same time. Congress consists of both the senate and the house of representatives, and neither one of those bodies can be called congress. Inasmuch as two-thirds of the members of the senate are always members of that body, regardless of the expiration of any administration, the senate has been properly termed "a continuous body;" and it can be called together at any time, and have a quorum to do business.



"WHAT IS CONGRESS?"

Sometimes the senate is called to Washington in extra session by the president when the house of representatives is not called. At any time when the president desires the advice and consent of the senate to the appointment of men to prominent offices, or for the consideration of treaties with foreign countries, he may issue a proclamation calling the senate in extra session. You will soon have an example of this relation of the executive with the legislative branch of the government. Some time in February President Harrison will issue a proclamation calling the senate to meet at noon on March 4, 1893, "to consider communications from the president of the United States." This is always customary whenever there is a change of administration. The outgoing president calls the senate to meet upon inauguration day in order that the incoming president may nominate his cabinet ministers and have them confirmed by the senate. For you must know that the president cannot appoint his cabinet ministers without the confirmation of the senate.

In accordance with the proclamation which will be issued by President Harrison, promptly at noon on the 4th of next March the senate will be called to order, and the new vice president will be sworn in. Vice President Morton will be presiding over the senate, and every seat will be filled, when Vice President-elect Stevenson will enter the chamber. Vice President Morton will administer to him the oath of office, and then announce: "The senate is adjourned sine die." Vice President Morton will then descend from his dais and Vice President Stevenson will immediately take the gavel, rap once, and say: "The senate will be in order." Thus quietly will the senate of the Fifty-second congress expire, and the senate of the Fifty-third congress begin its existence. Vice President Stevenson will then administer the oath of office to the one-third of the senators whose terms commence on that day, and they will take the seats which have already been chosen for them. Immediately after the ceremony of organizing the senate, some senator will move that the senate "take a recess of two hours." This motion will be declared carried, and the entire body will march out upon the east portico of the capitol, where the chief justice of the supreme court will administer the oath of office to the new president, who will then deliver his inaugural address. This will occupy about two hours, when the members of the senate will return to their places, Vice President Stevenson will call the senate to order, and then the senate will adjourn until noon on the following day, when they will receive a message from President Cleveland, announcing the names of the members of his cabinet. From that day on, for about a month, the senate will daily receive messages from the president nominating certain gentlemen for appointments to our most important foreign and domestic positions.

THE SENATE CHAMBER.

You will understand that at noon on inauguration day, although the terms of the new senators begin and they are sworn in, they are no more absolutely members of the Fifty-third congress than are the members of the house of representatives, who are not likely to be sworn in until December, 1893. The senate will be in "extra session," as it is called, but the house of representatives will not be in session, unless sooner called here by proclamation of the president, until the constitutional time, in December. There are very few people who understand these facts concerning the dates when the terms of senators and representatives begin and end.

After the president has sent to the senate all of the names of men whose appointments he desires to make thus early in his administration he will send a message to the senate announcing that he has no further communications to make. Then, in accordance with custom, the senate will fix a date for adjournment, after which, an adjournment having been declared, they cannot come together in session again until the following December unless called by proclamation of the president. However, when the senate is in session, as it will be next March, the body can remain in session, if it so desires, until the following December. No power is given to the president to adjourn congress, or either house of congress.

After these simple explanations concerning one branch of the machinery of our government it is not likely that any of my readers will ever come to Washington and ask the question: "Where is congress?" after they have seen but one of the two houses. They will understand that they have seen congress in its entirety only when they have seen both the senate and house of representatives.

SMITH D. FRY

The Origin of Sandwiches.

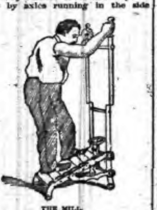
The everyday popular sandwich, without which no picnic party would be complete, is said to owe its name to a certain English Lord Sandwich, who was a devoted gambler. At one time when more than usually absorbed in the game, he had sat with the players for more than twenty-four hours, without even thinking of the necessity for food. During a momentary pause, his stomach asserted its rights, and he asked an attendant to bring him anything which might be obtainable in the way of food. This consisted of a piece of meat and two slices of bread. As a matter of convenience, to bring them into the compass of one hand while he played with the other, the meat was put between the slices of bread, and in that manner was devoured with great gusto. This peculiar method of taking a lunch immediately became popular, bearing the name of its originator, and is one of the few commendable heritages of a gaming table.

HYGIENIC TREADMILL.

An Apparatus Intended to Develop Muscular Force.

Gymnastics are much in vogue at the present time, and the apparatus illustrated herewith is intended to assist in the development of muscular force in a similar manner to that obtained by walking or running, without the necessity of leaving the house and of being exposed to the inclemency of the weather. The apparatus illustrated also gives relief to those troubled with obesity, as exercise with it tends to a reduction in weight without the fatigue attendant upon going to and from places where more scientific treatment is administered.

It is composed of an inclined plane formed by a series of rollers kept in place by axles running in the side pieces, which, with the pieces at the end uniting them, form the principal part of the apparatus. The rollers and their mountings rise and fall in a groove in the upright support, which is composed of two uprights fastened together by cross pieces at several places. These upright pieces form the points of support for the persons making use of the apparatus. The rollers are made of wood covered with cloth over stuffing, or covered with rubber, which gives greater purchase for the feet. The method of working is very simple. The person desiring to exercise mounts the rollers, which are set in motion by the weight of the body. By their motion they tend to carry the feet to the lower portion of the apparatus. This can only be counteracted by a brisk movement of the limbs and feet, similar to walking or running, and must be kept up continually or the feet will be thrown off the apparatus. The amount of the exercise can be regulated by raising or lowering with the screw. The higher the top of the inclined plane, the more violent the exercise. The effect produced by the rapid motion of the limbs is to produce a sensation of heat over the entire body, equivalent to that obtained by running or a long walk.—Les Inventions Nouvelles.

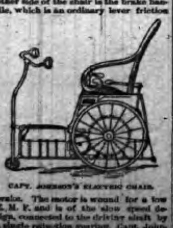


THE MILL.

AN ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Invented for the Benefit of Invalids Who Need Fresh Air.

Capt. Alexander Johnson, of Washington, who is now visiting his mother in Pittsburgh, says the Dispatch of that city, has invented an electric invalid chair, a model of which is now running in Baltimore. The chair is mounted upon a case which contains the motor and storage cells. The guiding apparatus is like that of an ordinary low seated tricycle, and at one side of the seat is a lever connected with a resistance box for controlling the motor. At the other side of the chair is the brake handle, which is an ordinary lever friction brake. The motor is wound for a low E. M. F. and is of the slow speed design, connected to the driving shaft by a single reduction gearing. Capt. Johnson gives the following details of this chair: "Five and one-half ampere hours to each pound of weight. Speed, eight miles an hour for five hours, by which at lower speed battery will last for fifty miles of travel. Total weight, one hundred and fifty-nine pounds."



CAPT. JOHNSON'S ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Cancer in Meat.

The attention of the French society for the advancement of science has recently been directed by certain physicians to the evil effects of an excessive meat diet, or of raw, overkept or bad meat. The ptomaines thus produced introduce poisonous principles into the system, which the kidneys cannot throw off. Inhabitants of cities indulge far too freely in meat often badly cooked and kept too long; the poor and country population do not often get their meat fresh. Prof. Verneuil considers something should be done to remedy this state of things. He points out that Reclus, the French geographer, has proved that cancer is most frequent among those branches of the human race where carnivorous habits prevail.—Scientific American.

Pipe Lines for Coal.

A plan to force coal by pipe line from the mines to the seaboard has been proposed. The coal will be ground to powder, mixed with water, sent through the pipes, the water then removed, the coal dried and pressed into bricks.

Measuring Heat.

The pyrometer measures heat in degrees and fractions and will give accurate figures even though the heat runs up to the unthinkable intensity of 7,000 degrees.

IN A DROP OF WATER.

A Lively Little Animal Built Like a Steamboat.

Under the Microscope It Appears a Ferocious Object—The Common Rotifer and Its Interesting Habits and Antics.

Of all the interesting microscopic objects contained in our everyday drinking water, I think the common rotifer is the most wonderful. The first view one gets of this interesting little animal, after the one drop of water is mounted in the microscope, is apt to be disappointing. The handling of the water and closing down of the cover glass seems to frighten the rotifer, when he will contract himself into an almost globular form and play 'possum for a time. A short interval of perfect quiet will generally restore confidence, and then the circus begins. First a sort of unsheathing of the body will begin. The globular body is drawn out, telescope fashion—first a forward section, then an after one, another one in front and another section is pushed out at the rear, the latter section disclosing two or more extensions, which serve as feet when propelling itself along the plate, by drawing the rear portion of its body forward, anchoring its feet to the surface of the plate, then by a considerable muscular effort shoving the whole body forward. This movement will sometimes be continued until the patience of the observer and the desire of the rotifer to travel are about exhausted. But the little animal seems to have an idea of just what he is looking for, if the observer does not.

Suddenly and without warning the body, except the feet, shot forward, drawing out the little animal into a form ten times as long as he is broad, showing for an instant only two bright red little eyes, exhibiting all the ferociousness of a tiger when seeking its prey. The next instant, quicker than thought, the head seems to split asunder or turn inside out, assuming the form of the hammer-headed shark, and carrying on each side of the head, apparently, two little propeller wheels which revolve so fast that the eye cannot follow their revolutions. The movement of these cilia or wheels causes a current of water to set in from the head and sides near the head, bearing on the flood such small animalcula as might be unfortunate enough to be caught in the neighborhood. Just inside of the head and below the wheels is situated a set of grinders working together like two segments of cog wheels, performing about one-eighth of a revolution back and forth and at a rate of about six or seven movements in a second. These grinders are occasionally given a little extra movement, and the food that has been masticated is dropped into the channel that carries it to the stomach. There is also a movement of cilia near the head which casts outside the radius of the wheel's influence any objectionable substance that does not exactly suit the taste of this little epicure. When startled by the near approach of danger, Mr. Rotifer contracts himself into the globular form so quickly that the human eye cannot even guess how he did it. I have also frequently seen him when he seemed to be in a hurry to get to some distant station stretch himself out to his full length, produce a little propeller wheel, directly on the end of his nose, and in the exact manner of a steamboat going backwards, pull himself forwards at an almost lightning speed. I have frequently shown the little fellow to visitors and cannot remember that anyone ever tired of watching him. Certainly of all of the wonderfully constructed microscopic objects the common rotifer is as interesting as any.—O. E. Cartwright, in Detroit Free Press.

1. At rest. 2. Going home in a hurry. 3. Feeding. 4. Rotifer's grinders.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

NO BIRD can fly backward without turning. The dragon fly, however, can do this and outstrip the swallow in speed.

THREE hundred and sixty different mountain peaks within the limits of the United States exceed 10,000 feet in height.

THE copper plating of sheet zinc has been successfully accomplished and the process is recommended where wear takes place. The zinc readily combines with copper either by ordinary electrolytic processes or by the ordinary means. The main thing to be considered is that the surface of the zinc shall be clean before being operated upon.

IN regard to the heat of the sun at the northern and southern hemispheres M. Tromelin contributes a memoir to the Paris academy of sciences in which he states that the true cause of the difference of annual mean temperatures is to be found in the difference of loss by radiation, which depends on the extremes of temperature. The southern hemisphere is nearer its sun in its summer, and further away in its winter than the northern; consequently, though the mean temperature is the same, the southern hemisphere loses the greater quantity of heat.

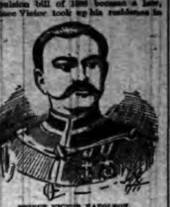
Rapid Traveling.

The motion of the earth around the sun is 68,305 miles an hour—over 1,000 miles a minute or nineteen miles a second.

VICTOR NAPOLEON.

How He Was Placed at the Head of a Party Opposing His Father.

Prince Victor Jerome Frederic Napoleon was born July 18, 1862, and is the elder son of Prince Napoleon and of the Princess Clotilde. He was educated at the Lycee Charlemagne in Paris, and after having done a twelve months' volunteer service in the Thirty-seventh regiment at Orleans returned to the paternal residence only to quarrel with his father and to head a Bonapartist party of his own. The occasion took place after the death of the prince imperial in 1879, when Prince Napoleon took the position of head of the house of Bonaparte. The claim was disputed by M. Paul de Cassagnac and other [illegible] Imperialists who put forward the young Prince Victor as his father's rival. It was understood at the time that Victor was nominated in the prince imperial's will as his successor. When the expulsion bill of 1886 became a law, Prince Victor took up his residence in Brussels, whence he occasionally issues manifestos. At Prince Napoleon's death in 1891 he left his entire fortune to his second son, Prince Louis, but at a family council, held at Moncalieri in April, Prince Louis declared that he would not accept the financial arrangements made by his father's will in his favor and to the detriment of his brother and sister (the duchess of Aosta), and formally acknowledged Prince Victor as head of the house of Bonaparte.



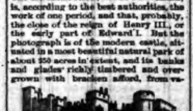
PRINCE VICTOR NAPOLEON.

What number would Prince Victor put after his name of Napoleon in the remote contingency of his ascending the throne? The great majority incline to the opinion that he could call himself Napoleon VI., the prince imperial and his father being the fourth and fifth, but it is also argued that his proper title would be Napoleon VIII., for the following reasons: The great Napoleon and his son, the King of Rome, were first and second, but, when the last emperor took the third place he overlooked the fact that his uncle and his own father, Louis, king of Holland, had respectively held the positions of heads of the Bonaparte family—so the emperor was really Napoleon V. This was the view taken by Prince Metternich, who contended that, if the emperor had been consistent, he would have assumed this title as a matter of fact. However, Prince Metternich contended that in accepting the presidency of the republic in 1848 Napoleon virtually admitted that his dynastic claims were worthless. The prince therefore argued that, instead of reviving the old empire in 1852, Napoleon founded a new one. Some time before Napoleon had issued his first proclamation, and there were three notes of exclamation after his name, which the people mistook for Roman figures. "Vive Napoleon Trois!!!" they began to cry, and the affair was regarded as being of such happy omen that the hint was taken and the emperor called himself the third Napoleon. But generally speaking, history in England, for instance, pays no attention to pretenders or claimants who have not actually occupied the throne.

HAWARDEN CASTLE.

Where and How Mr. Gladstone Keeps His Famous Library.

Hawarden castle is very historical. The old castle ruin, which still remains, is, according to the best authorities, the work of one period, and that, probably, the close of the reign of Henry III., or the early part of Edward I. But the photograph is of the modern castle, situated in a most beautiful natural park of about 250 acres in extent, and its banks and glades richly timbered and overgrown with bracken afford, from various points, most lovely views over the plains of Chester. The castle was built in 1752, originally a brick house; it was afterwards, 1809, extended by the addition of the library on the west side and the kitchen and other offices on the east, the whole being cased in stone and castellated. The steps on the shadow side in the photograph lead up to Mr. Gladstone's study, or, as he calls it, "The Temple of Peace." The most striking feature about this room is that it is built about with bookcases, and, instead of their being ranged along the wall, they stand out in the room at right angles, each to hold a double row facing either way. Intervals are left sufficient to give access to the books, and Mr. Gladstone prides himself upon the economy of space obtained by the arrangement. His library numbers nearly 20,000 volumes, many of which have overflowed into adjoining rooms, where they are similarly stored.



HAWARDEN CASTLE.

Taste in Ants.

H. Devaux has been making experiments with the sense of taste in ants, in course of which he found that while fond of sugar they disliked saccharin, and even refused sugar when mixed with saccharin.

EXTINCT MONSTERS.

Huge Creatures That Ruled the Primeval World.

Strange Reptiles of the Mesozoic Period—Flesh-Eating and Graminivorous Dinosaurs That Had the Faculty of Kangaroos.

Cuvier it was whose fine imaginative reasons invented the great science of comparative anatomy and paleontology. His vast and splendid knowledge of existing beasts and birds enabled him to reconstruct from a fossil skull or a vertebra, sometimes from nothing but a single tooth, the long extinct creature in its true semblance as it had lived, to clothe it with flesh and skin and show it in imagination in the haunts in which it lived and moved.

This, which Baron Cuvier did in graphic description of great scientific and literary beauty, Mr. H. N. Hutchinson, in his work on "Extinct Monsters," has now done popularly and yet learnedly, and with the accompaniment of many most admirable illustrations. Baron Cuvier showed how our planet was once inhabited by reptiles of enormous size and hideous aspect, the dinosaurs. The crocodiles and alligators are the degenerate descendants of these terrible primeval lizards that in size and in their ungainly shapes were liker to the dragons of our tales and legends than any beast that at present roams the earth.

It is now established by science that during the mesozoic period of the world's history evolution had proceeded so far as the development of life into the form of these strange reptiles. This was the "Age of Reptiles," but of such reptiles as the earth has not since held upon its surface. As yet mammalian quadrupeds did not exist. The horse, the ox, the elephant, the lion, the deer and the thousand genera of four-footed mammalian beasts which tenant the earth to-day had not been created or evolved. The seas, the estuaries, the marsh, the forest and the plain were lorded over by the dinosaurian reptiles [illegible] four-footed, but many of these walked the earth erect on their hind feet. Some were horned creatures of terrible aspect, feeding on vegetable food, while others were carnivorous animals with formidable teeth and claws. Most of the flesh-eating and many of the graminivorous dinosaurs were kangaroo-moving creatures with powerful hind quarters and the faculty of leaping as a kangaroo or jerboa leaps. In the case of the vegetable-feeding dinosaurs it is conjectured that the creature was enabled to stand upon its hinder legs and feed on the branches of trees—as is here shown in the case of the gigantic dinosaur known as Iguanodon Bernissartensis.

ARMORED DINOSAUR. LENGTH, 30 FEET.

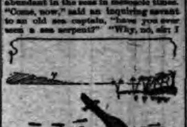
There is no scientific reason why the sea serpent should not have survived from the "Age of Reptiles," for creatures that exactly repeat in size and shape the fabled sea serpent of nautical men, incapacitated by fertility of imagination, or other more temporary causes, from observing scientifically, were abundant in the seas in mesozoic times. "Come, now," said an inquiring savant to an old sea captain, "have you ever seen a sea serpent?" "Why, no, sir; I never did. I'm a teetotaller." The sea serpents have, by best accounts, died out of our seas, with the toothed reptile birds that held the air before the kites and falcons, the eagles and the hawks became supreme in that element.



FISH LIZARDS.

One thing is apparent from a study of mesozoic life on the globe. Man may thank a kindly Providence that he only came on the scene in quieter times than mesozoic ones. He could hardly have lived comfortably with his neighbors. The earth was a huge zoological garden, or rather a huge reptile house. He could not have gone to sea, because the first mosasaurus that passed his ship would have lifted thirty feet of neck from the depths and picked the steersman from the rudder or the reefer from the yards. He could not have tilled the earth, for it would have been preposterous to yoke the mildest dinosaur to a plow. Flying ramphorynchuses would have pecked his eyes out. When he took his walks abroad the winged dimorphodon—a cross between a bat and an alligator—would have chopped his nose, perhaps his head, off with its cruel rat trap jaws.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Apr. 26, 1892, trains leave Elizabeth as follows:

9.35 A. M. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibule parlor and sleeping cars, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis, daily, except Saturday for Toledo.

7.00 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, dining car to Philadelphia daily for Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Toledo.

4.45 P. M. PACIFIC EXPRESS, [illegible]

[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

1.33 P. M. Through day coach, week-days. [illegible]

[illegible]

For further information, see time tables to be had at the ticket offices.
CHAS. E. PUGH, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.
(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)
Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect JAN. 22, 1893.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Newark [illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Somerville [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

Leave Easton [illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield [illegible]

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.
LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible]

For Atlantic City, [illegible]

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc.

[illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

[illegible]

TELEPHONE COMPANY!
SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS IN NEW YORK AND SUBURBS [illegible] PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Central Office—[illegible] North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Alpine Hotel, The	Park av and 5th st
Ames, C. J.	19 Crescent ave.
Alert Hose Co., No 1	Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. E.	32 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D C	46 Grove st
[illegible], F W	Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac W	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo E	8th and Union sts.
Bartshaw & Dean	10 North ave.
[illegible], W. C., M. D.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
[illegible], John	Central ave. and 3rd st.
Beerbower, J E	Park av and 3d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	10 E 5th st
Board of Education	6th st, 5th and Union sts
Booth, E H	59 Madison ave
	4th & Liberty, 6th & Monroe
Clark, E R	7 Waynwood place
Children's Home	Jackson ave.
[illegible], James T	Richmond and Front sts.
Constitutionalist Office	2 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves.
Cox, Rowland	[illegible]
Chapman, Mrs. F. A.	9 Third Place
Cruikshank, E A	130 Carlton avenue
[illegible], J H, M D	40 Somerset st
[illegible], P F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (J H Leggett, Mgr)	Park ave and Front st
Daily Press	2 Northside
Depew, Mrs. E. H	31 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	33 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 5th st & Park av
Day, R M	Rockview av
[illegible], P M	27 Park av
Dumont, John B	20 E 7th st
Decker, T—pay station	Westfield, N J
DeGraff, James	22 E 5th st
Doane, T O—Chief P F D	40 W 5th st
Dollner, S L	121 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park ave. and 4th st.
Evening News, T.W. Morrison, Editor	[illegible]
Engine No 1	West 2d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st.
Evans, Geo C	27 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J	32 West Seventh st
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR. Depot
French, P M & Sons	Somerset st.
Fritts, Dr J T	72 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard	20 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, C Frank	40 Somerset st
Grant, Geo W, Chief of Police	39 W 6th st
Goddard, C M	17 Third Place.
[illegible], A M	18 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F	5th and New sts
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
[illegible], L	21 & 23 Somerset street.
Hageman, R. A	107 Sycamore avenue.
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	43 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas	141 Front street.
[illegible], Albert	4th st. near Park ave.
Higgins, M. A	[illegible]—30 North ave
Hetfield, John H	[illegible]—31 Park av
Harder, Francis C	122 Madison av
Hermance, O	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	39 North av
Jenkins, Dr. C. L.	35 W. Front st.
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	6th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W F	38 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st.
Lovell, L N	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & Rice	The 49 Broadway
[illegible], J F & Co.	5 W Front st
Linke, Frank	43 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	[illegible]
Myers, J K	17 E 7th st
[illegible], Henry A	Willow ave
[illegible], James	Willow ave.
Miller, J G	19 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	30 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	South ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. H	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	40 Grove st
Milliken, E F	130 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	E Front st
Myers, Lawrence	E Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood.
Newhall, Henry B	16 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
[illegible], Jr., Thos B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	49 East Fourth st
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield Beef Co	3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	3 Park ave
Police Station	Park ave and RR.
Potter, C Jr	7th and Division sts.
Potter Press Works	South ave.
Probasco, Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave. and 4th st
Pope & Co. J. C	6 East Front st
Pittis Thomas	735 Central av
Pond Machine Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
Pierce Hardware Co	49 W Front st
Runyon, F W	[illegible]
Reed, [illegible] A	37 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry C	Broadway
[illegible], L. A	60 Broadway
Reynolds, H P	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H. P	Washington avenue
Roberts, D S	17 North avenue.
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	48 Madison ave.
Rushmore, Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st.
[illegible], Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
Runkle, H. G	4th st
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, R. W. & Co	7th cor. Emily and Duer sts
Randolph, L W	Front st
Rogers, D W	42 W 2d st
Rogers, E P Jr	24 Westervelt ave
Stover, E W	20 East 9th st
Serrell, Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield ave
Sequine, C. J.	60 Front street.
Shaw, E J	Front st. opp. Park ave.
[illegible], A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W P	Belvidere av, Netherwood
Shepherd, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	13 W Front st
Scott, Walter & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
Stelle, Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	[illegible]
Thompson, A. D	39-41 North av
Talmadge, Henry P (Res)	Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jno A	Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	20 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and E B'dwy
Tobin & Brander	31 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	8th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	27 Somerset st
Tweedy, O. B	31 Crescent Avenue
Townsend, Samuel	96 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Thorn, E	15 W Front st
United States Express Co	3 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J	10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
Woltman, C	West Seventh street
Wadsworth, W B	8th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
[illegible], J F	W 8th st., near Grand ave
Waters, E, Ass't Chief	3d st near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
Wotherspoon O G	144 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.
FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

[illegible]

TWENTY Years experience in the business.
SECOND STREET, [illegible]

[illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
[illegible]

OUR COTTAGE HOMES.

Story-and-a-Half House for Fourteen Hundred Dollars.

Artistic in Conception and Remarkably Neat in Appearance—Arrangement of the Rooms—Material to Be Used in Construction.

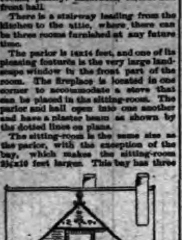
[Special Architectural Letter.]

This very complete story-and-a-half house will cost $1,400 built upon a stone foundation. It contains six rooms, pantry, bathroom, closets and front hall.

There is a stairway leading from the kitchen to the attic, where there can be three rooms furnished at any future time.

The parlor is 14x14 feet, and one of its pleasing features is the very large landscape window in the front part of the room. The fireplace is located in one corner to accommodate a stove that can be placed in the sitting-room. The parlor and hall open into one another and have a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on plans.

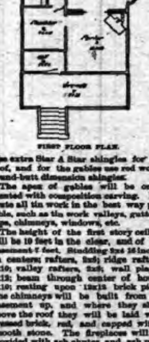
The sitting-room is the same size as the parlor, with the exception of the bay, which makes the sitting-room 2½x10 feet larger. This bay has three windows, the center being a large landscape window. Along the front of this bay there is a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on the plan. The sitting-room is separated from the parlor and from the dining-room by sliding doors. The dining-room is 10x14 and is provided with a fireplace and china-closet, the china-closet having drawers that push and pull both ways into the dining-room and into the pantry.



$1,400 RESIDENCE.

The front chamber off the parlor is 9½x10 feet, and the chamber off the sitting-room is 9½x10½ feet. Both chambers are provided with closets, and from the middle chamber one can go to the bathroom without passing through other rooms. The kitchen is 9½x13 feet and has doors leading to rear hall, cellar, attic, rear porch and to pantry, which is 4½x10 feet. The toilet room is 5½x7 feet, and will have fixtures as shown by plan. The rear porch is 4x7 feet, front hall 4x9½ and front veranda 8x23. The front hall floor will be red oak; kitchen floor, maple; pantry, maple; toilet and rear hall floors, red oak. The trim throughout the house will be of a neat block and plain 4-inch face casing. The wood will be Georgia pine, freed from defects of any kind. The veranda floor will be double, with tar paper between, using tongued and grooved flooring 4 inches face, leading all grooves before driving together. All doors will be solid. All glass used will be American, double strength, except in the front door, which will be beveled plate. Each closet will be provided with at least three shelves and strips for hooks. The sink in kitchen will be of gray enamel.

The entire exterior of this house will be sheathed with matched flooring, B quality, over which lay one thickness of tar paper lapping all joints at least 3 inches. For finishing the house use 4-inch O. G. siding. A No. 1 quality.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

Use extra Star A Star shingles for the roof, and for the gables use red wood, round-butt dimension shingles.

The apex of gables will be ornamented with composition carving. Execute all tin work in the best way possible, such as tin work valleys, gutters, hips, chimneys, windows, etc.

The height of the first story ceiling will be 10 feet in the clear, and of the basement 7 feet. Studding 2x4 16 inches on centers; rafters, 2x6; ridge rafters, 2x10; valley rafters, 2x8; wall plates, 2x12; beam through center of house, 8x10; resting upon 12x12 brick piers. The chimneys will be built from the basement up, and where they show above the roof they will be laid with pressed brick, red, and capped with a smooth stone. The fireplaces will be provided with ash chutes and ash pits. The entire first floor will be plastered two coats.

The first floor will be double with tar paper between. The attic floor will be single, five-inch matched face. The basement wall be of rubble sixteen inches thick, laid in good cement mortar, with joints raked and properly tuck pointed; and when mason work goes below the ground the exterior side of the wall must be cemented with good hard cement.

The hall and parlor ceilings will look well tinted or painted a light blue, above the picture molding to the ceiling a dark peacock blue, and below the picture molding down to the base the color should be at least six shades lighter and of the same color as the frieze.

This same treatment will hold good throughout the sitting and dining rooms with the exception of the color.

The parlor being blue, the sitting room should be a pink and mauve, while the dining room could be light yellow and old gold shades.

The exterior should be painted 3 coats, finishing coat for the body of the house white and the trimmings gray. It would be well for the owner to see that this last coat contained a certain amount of ordinary varnish as it will give the finish a luster not often seen and very desirable to look upon. The shingles will look well coated with creosote stain a dark red or a blue slate color.

This house will be piped for gas and will be wired for an electric bell leading from the front door to the kitchen.

The above price does not include the finishing of the attic or the basement, walks, fence, art glass, bathroom fixtures, shelf hardware, mantels, decorations or shade. GEORGE A. W. KERTE.

BOIT AND GAY-LUSSAC.

Curious Experiments in High Air Conducted a Century Ago.

Nearly 100 years ago, in 1804, M. Boit and Gay-Lussac, the pioneer balloonists, conducted the most remarkable series of high-air experiments ever known. Although ballooning was in its infancy at the time, the facts proven by these intrepid navigators of the air have been of inestimable value to all later investigation. They took domestic animals and birds of various kinds along with them for the purpose of taking notes on the [illegible] The first experimental ascension carried them and their cargo to a height of 18,000 feet. At 8,000 feet the animals and birds seemed to all be in normal condition; at 10,000 all were breathing very rapidly. When the barometer showed that a height of 11,000 feet had been attained a pigeon was liberated, or, rather, thrown from the basket, for it fell like a lump of lead, being utterly unable to flap a wing on account of the rarified state of the air at that altitude. Gay-Lussac had a normal pulse beat of 60 per minute; at 11,000 feet this had increased to 80. When on terra firma Boit's beat at 79 per minute and 111 when the 11,000-foot level was reached.

During the same season Gay-Lussac made an ascension alone, in which he reached a height twice that from which he dropped the pigeon, or about an even 23,000 feet. This ascension was made from one of the many pleasure resorts of Paris in the heat of summer. When he quitted the earth the Fahrenheit thermometer registered 86 degrees in the shade; within an hour he was in an atmosphere that only showed a pressure of 18 inches on his barometer, while the thermometer marked 18 degrees below zero! The lack of atmospheric pressure caused the blood to flow from his eyes, nose, mouth and ears, and the extreme cold gave him a rigor from which he never fully recovered.—St. Louis Republic.

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Aven:,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.
3-26-y

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

TO FIGHT A SNAKE.

The Way to Kill a Reptile Is to Strike Its Tail.

If any reader of this article should ever be so unfortunate as to experience the embrace of a boa-constrictor it is recommended that he try to release himself by taking hold of the creature's tail and unwinding it from the end. It can be easily unwound in that way, but otherwise it is not possible. The way to kill a snake is not to attempt to crush its head, the bones of which are very hard, but to strike the tail, where the spinal cord is but thinly covered by bone and suffers readily from injury. It is the same with an eel. Hit the tail two or three times against any hard substance and it quickly dies.

The boas are not venomous, but their fangs are sufficiently powerful to inflict serious wounds, and large specimens have been known to swallow men whole. The case is related by the traveler Gironiere of a criminal in the Philippine islands who hid from justice in a cavern. His father, who alone knew of his hiding place, went sometimes to see him and to take him rice for food. One day he found instead of his son an enormous boa asleep. He killed it and found his son's body in the snake's stomach. Serpents sometimes swallow prey so much too big for their digestion that they actually burst from repletion. The instance is recorded of a boa-constrictor which swallowed a goat, the horns of which pierced the belly of the monster and killed him.

An Australian Explosive.

Ripplene is the name of a new explosive compound that is being introduced in Australia. It is stated to be an Australian invention, and to possess many advantages over dynamite, prominent among which are greater strength, cheapness and safety. The ingredients are not stated, but it is said that they are not individually explosive and that some are not combustible, but that in combination they form a powder which will burn slightly in the open, but cannot be exploded except in close confinement and then simply with common fuse.

Bricks Made of Plate Glass.

Bricks made of plate glass are of very superior quality. A sand of iron and glass is forced into a mold under several thousand pounds' pressure; it is then subjected to extremely high heat, which causes glass and sand firmly to unite. The bricks are perfectly white and will stand both frost and acid.

Unintentionally Correct.

"If I were you, Jones, I wouldn't be a fool," said Robinson, during an argument.

"You are right; if you were I you wouldn't be a fool," replied the latter.—Life.

Two Strings to Their Bows.

"There's an editor down south who is also a plumber."

"That's nothing. Most all of the northern editors since the election have become cabinet makers."—Truth.

A Precautionary Measure.

"Dwiggins has an awfully fine revolver, hasn't he?"

"Yes. Why doesn't he carry it?"

"He's afraid somebody'll hold him up and take it."—Chicago News Record.

No Wonder She Refused.

"And, besides offering you his large fortune, he offered his whole heart, too, and you refused him?"

"Yes, dear, but you must know it was a whisky heart."—Banner of Gold.

A Relative Term.

"Is your parrot a bright bird?"

"Oh, yes, awfully bright. He's yellow and light green."—Harper's Young People.

In a Pastoral Country.

Isabel had spent the most of her five years on a cattle ranch, and while at her grandfather's home in the city she was taken to Sunday-school for the first time.

The teacher told the story of Lot's wife, and Isabel listened very attentively. The teacher ended the story by saying: "For all I know, the pillar of salt may be there now."

"Say, was that a cattle country?" asked Isabel.

"Yes; I think so," replied the teacher.

"Well, let me tell you," with an air of superior knowledge, "those cattle would have licked her up long ago."—Life.

There Are Rocks and Rocks.

"Dear father," wrote the son who had gone to the city, "since leaving the old New Hampshire farm I have been doing splendidly, and am just piling up the rocks."

"Dear Thomas," was the old man's reply, "if all you went to the city for was to pile up rocks, you might have stayed at home and helped me to build a stone wall around the six-acre field."—Texas Siftings.

Artful Dodging.

Billson—Hello, Jimson! I've caught you at last. I've been trying for three weeks to get hold of you, so as to pay you that ten dollars I owe you, but every time you suddenly disappeared.

Jimson—Eh? Have you been wanting to see me for that?

"Of course."

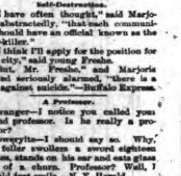
"Great snakes! I thought you wanted to borrow more."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Difference.

She (reflectively)—There ought not be such a difference between capital and labor. Can you explain it?

He (realizing his opportunity)—Certainly. To sit here like an unresponsive stick and watch you is labor, but (kissing her) this is capital.—Lippincott's Magazine.

A COLD SPELL.



—Truth.

Self-Destruction.

"I have often thought," said Marjorie, abstractedly, "that each community should have an official known as the fool-killer."

"I think I'll apply for the position for this city," said young Freshe.

"But, Mr. Freshe," and Marjorie looked seriously alarmed, "there is a law against suicide."—Buffalo Express.

A Professor.

Stranger—I notice you called your friend professor. Is he really a professor?

Boweryite—I should say so. Why, dat feller swollers a sword eighteen inches, stands on his ear and eats glass out of a churn. Professor? Well, I should just smile.—N. Y. Herald.

Village Theater Music.

Village Boy—We played theater to-day, an' it was great fun.

Father—What part did you play?

Boy—I wasn't in the act. I was one of the musicians. We had a drum, an' three horns, an' six combs, and some ropes stretched over a barrel for the big fiddle. It sounded just like a theater orchestra.—Good News.

Kismet.

Jack—You look despondent. Did she refuse you?

George—Yes.

Jack—But try again. A woman's "no" sometimes means "yes."

George—But she didn't say "no;" she said "naw!"

Jack—Then your name is "mud!"—Truth.

Delicate Flattery.

Rich Banker—I hope you appreciate the fact that my daughter is a noble, self-sacrificing creature and will make you an excellent wife!

Prospective Son-in-Law—I do, sir, and I assume that she inherited those very desirable qualities from her esteemed father.—Fliegende Blaetter.

All Settled.

Little Johnnie—I guess sis has accepted Mr. Newcomer.

Little Sister—Why?

Little Johnnie—He hasn't given me any money for a week, and yesterday he kicked the dog.—Good News.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1893. No 8.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

Rates of Advertising

Space	Weeks 1	Weeks 2	Weeks 3	Months 1	Months 2	Months 3	Months 6	Months 12
1 in.	$1.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 in.	3.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 in.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ col.	7.00	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 col.	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jo6tf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182 Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEISS,
Dentist.
10 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—ja6tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. [illegible] Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 100, or left at [illegible] will receive prompt attention. Residence [illegible] street. jlytd

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
[illegible]—Madison Avenue and Front [illegible] Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. aply

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. f17yl

GARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
[illegible] prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class manner and workmanship [illegible]
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers' Association of New York City, I employ [illegible] mechanics and [illegible]. I believe in every [illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 98.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St.

GEO. E. MOORE. GEO. M. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
[illegible] EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—[illegible] W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans or Trucks. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges reasonable. P. O. Box [illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The most [illegible] in the State, and made of the purest [illegible] from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
—SEGARS!!—
6 PARK AVE., [illegible] SECOND ST.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
of every description.
[illegible]

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from [illegible] Front street, to [illegible] West Front, two doors east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. R. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. [illegible] NORTH AVENUE

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N.J

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes, Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.
WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J.

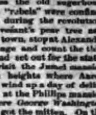
GOSSIP OF G[illegible]

Ring Out the Old Land[illegible], Ring in the New.

The Lament of a Retrospective [illegible]—Reporters' Tricks—If Hoop Skirts Come—As to Valentines—Fo[illegible]light Favorites.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The town's ancient landmarks are disappearing rapidly. When I came to New York—very few even of us old New Yorkers were actually born here—when I came to New York I could drink a glass of ale at Washington's headquarters at Broadway, nibble a cheese sandwich at Fraunce's tavern and view the old room in which the revolutionary generals sat in council, stop at the old Walton house on Franklin square, pass the old sugarhouse prison in which "rebels" were confined by the British during the revolution, glance at Stuyvesant's pear tree as I was whirled up town, stop at Alexander Hamilton's grange and count the thirteen trees he had set out for the states of the union, visit the Jumel mansion on the Harlem heights where Aaron Burr lived, and wind up a day of delicious sightseeing at the Phillips mansion in Yonkers, where George Washington is said to have got the mitten. On the way back I could visit two Poe houses—both of certified genuineness as the birthplace of "The Raven," view the Claremont mansion on the heights of Riverside park and the revolutionary ruins about there and in the northern end of Central park, where a chain of block houses and other defenses formerly stretched across the island.

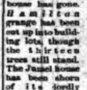


The town is bigger now, more beautiful architecturally, but in some respects less interesting. Cyrus Field's ten-story monstrosity stands at 1 Broadway. The Walton house has gone. Hamilton grange has been cut up into building lots, though the thirteen trees still stand. The Jumel house has been shorn of its lordly grounds. The old sugar-house prison has been pulled down within the year, and a ten or more story building is going up on the site sanctified by the sufferings of the patriots. Much of the revolutionary defenses outside of Central park has been wiped out and—

Now they are going to tear down the old City hall—relic less venerable than the others named, but dating back to the time when New York was scarcely more than a decent-sized country town. Perhaps Chicago will buy it for removal, like Anna Hathaway's cottage and Libby prison!

The Genesis of Society.

Once there was a young man who, as he lived in Brooklyn, was very wise. He was also a newspaper writer.



There was a charity in which this young man was interested, and a fair was given to give its treasury a more plump and pleasing appearance. The young man undertook to manage it. He took an elite directory and from it addressed letters to six hundred women of high standing, informing each that she had been elected a vice president, and inclosing some tickets, which she might be willing to sell on account of her well known charitable disposition. The fair was a success. Most of the six hundred bought the tickets and a good many of them attended.

There are some things which newspaper men know how to do. Running a newspaper is of course, not one of them; only outsiders know how to do that. But this bright young man of Brooklyn was only using a trick that is old among "space writers." Ordinary readers probably don't realize how many useful societies were started in this way.

Things are a little dull with A. B., let us say. A. B. therefore resolves to found a Society of ex-Whalers. That night he goes to all the newspaper offices and offers a report of the organization of the society, including the name of some retired captain as president. "I was the only reporter there, and they made me secretary," he guilelessly remarks to the city editor.

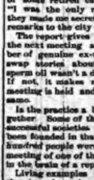
The report gives time and place of the next meeting and perhaps a number of genuine ex-whalers turn up to swap stories about the days when sperm oil wasn't a drug in the market. If not, it makes no difference. The meeting is held and reported just the same.

Is the practice a bad one? Not altogether. Some of the most sensible and successful societies in New York have been founded in that way. Over twelve hundred people were present at the last meeting of one of them which was born in the brain of a reporter two years ago.

Living examples I cannot give, but there's no harm in saying that the proposed "Francis Folsom Cleveland Influence clubs" were started in precisely that way by a New York reporter who hasn't yet stopped bemoaning his luck because Mrs. Cleveland stopped the thing so soon. "There were columns and columns in it for me," he says.

Neither is there any harm in saying that one of the active founders of the successful Southern club was a space hunter. In that instance, however, he had active aid from the start.

As to Valentines.



It is quite a common practice this year for stationers in poor parts of the city to sell two comic valentines for one cent. This looks like rather an unprofitable business, but it isn't. The output is simply enormous. The paper on which they are printed costs three and one-half cents a pound, and fully a hundred can be printed from that quantity of paper. The typesetting and wood cuts amount to little. The product is sold by tons. Left over stock is good for next year.

"What are the most popular subjects?" I asked one of the big printers.

"Boarding house keepers and policemen," he answered without a moment's hesitation. "The comic valentine is ill-natured every time. The boarding house keeper, poor soul, naturally wants her money. That is offensive to Smart Aleck, who sends her, in a disguised handwriting, a horrid picture of an ogress starving her captives. And the poor old girl's eyes are red for a week. The policeman doesn't mind it so much. Some young ninnies send off dozens of these things."

The sentimental valentine is quite another matter. "The [illegible] can get them up and they can put five cents' worth of Cupid's arrows spearing two hearts, or sixteen dollars' worth, whichever you like. And long may they wave!

If—

If hoopskirts come—

But let us not speak openly of a possibility so revolting. Paraphrase.

If there is a general return to the dress of 1856, what a stir there will be in the old furniture stores. For some years now the line of furniture most in demand has been the florid Empire styles, to match the dresses, with a sprinkling of Japanese, Persian and Russian accessories—kakemonos, prayer rugs, samovars and the like.

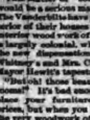
Now, in 1860 there wasn't any furniture, at least not a consistent style; in the Louis Seize period the styles were not so very distinctive. The hoop people will have to go back to old Tudor styles, seems to me. Solid old English furniture has not been in favor for some time. I've seen a magnificent black oak hall table, exquisitely carved, sold for sixty dollars at auction. If it were in style women would bid it up to five hundred dollars.

This matter of "consistent" furniture would be a serious matter to some folks. The Vanderbilts have partly built the interior of their houses from old bits. The interior wood work of the Villard houses is largely colonial, which would pass in the new dispensation. So would Mrs. Whitney's and Mrs. Cleveland's and ex-Mayor Hewitt's tapestries.

"But oh! those beautiful new Empire rooms!" It's bad enough to have to replace your furniture at extravagant prices, but when you have to tear down the very woodwork of your rooms—

Perhaps they won't come, though.

Dramatic Lights.



Times have changed in the theatrical business. Our popular stage women used to be Clara Morris, Fanny Davenport—not so very long ago, I mean—Mary Anderson and the opera queens. Who are the footlight queens most talked of in New York now? Maggie Cline, who "trows down" the stage traditions with her brawny arms; Marie Tempest, with her poetic legs; the four French dancers in the "Black Crook;" Blanche Walsh, an unformed girl, but pretty undeniably; Minnie Seligman, who married a society man—by the way, society whispers a most piquant and naughty reason for old Cutting's anger at his son's marriage—the Chinatown widow and the variety woman. As against this swarm of celebrities, give me Lillian Russell every time. She has one gift at least. If she can't act she can at least sing like a nightingale.

It seems to me—and I put the contemptible Vaudeville club in evidence—that public taste is degenerating. But probably I'm a confounded old fogy.

The Sandwich Islands.

Upon the policy of annexing the Sandwich islands the politicians are divided.

The islands are, physically, an earthly paradise, so I gather from a doctor who's just been telling me about them. Perhaps the doctor was prejudiced from the fact that he had a cold in the head, a bad eye where some fellow had punched him in the eye with an umbrella on the stairs of the elevated and had been out all night with a refractory baby case.

Anyhow, the islands are immense. Every prospect pleases, and even the Kanaka isn't so vile as he might be, the doctor says. Life can be supported by only the slightest amount of labor. The sky is always smiling, the Pacific cyclone is rare, the air is balmy and there is no word for zero in the native tongue. The people are naturally kind and gentle. Their taste for missionary steak has been eradicated and they love rum better now. The Japanese and Chinese coolies are the human interest in a landscape as fair as that of Capri. Mauna Loa is a nice companionable volcano and doesn't erupt very much. The doctor wants the islands annexed as a territory, and says that it will be, under Yankee rule, one of the greatest sanitary stations in the world.

The Artist Who Did It.

She wouldn't give me her photograph, so you'll have to be contented with this pen picture:

Five feet high, plump figure, weight about one hundred and twenty pounds, fine, pleasant, mobile features, dark hair and eyes, a black hat with thingumajigs on it sticking up in front, demure black office dress, age about—

That's Miss Georgina A. Davis, who sketched Baby Ruth so skillfully that the proud pa had to say it was unauthorized but very like her. Miss Davis says:

"I sympathize thoroughly with Mrs. Cleveland's desire to keep her baby to herself. I don't believe in publishing so much personal gossip. How did I get so good a picture? Oh, I simply waited till I saw the baby out of doors, dashed down a few notes for it and developed them afterward. Mrs. Cleveland's picture I worked in from her latest photograph. She looks much older than she used, but I suppose she is happy to go back to the white house again. Yes, I've been making drawings for public prints for a number of years, but if sketching Baby Ruth is to make notoriety for me I'm sorry I did it, that's all."

I've struck a good many people who didn't want to be pictured or interviewed, but, do you know, I think Miss Davis was really in earnest about it.

[illegible]

How about the Gulf stream? A year or two ago everybody was ready to swear that it had shifted about and turned in on the Atlantic coast line so as to knock out the old-fashioned winter. As Europe has had a hard winter too, is it possible that the Gulf stream is making a bee line for Spain and Liberia?

The inauguration ceremonies will beat anything that has yet been seen in Washington for impressiveness. Every new term sees a big increase in the number of the throng on Pennsylvania avenue.

The defeat of Harrison was the cruelest blow ever dealt at Depew's political prestige. And what fun democrats like Coudert poke at him in their after dinner speeches. But Chauncey is always good-natured; he will regain the proud position he has held.

Nightgowns at sixty dollars are said to promote the slumber of the exhausted dudes after the Vanderbilt club's variety show is over.

Blue goes—and stays—this spring. Blue we always have with us. A blue necktie is never a mistake.

The Christian science craze is almost over in New York, but we still hear of it in the "provinces," as we impudently term better places.

Don't be misled. New York isn't a bit afraid of typhus fever. But just wait until cholera strikes us. Then we'll think of our sins.

DAVID WECHSLER.

NOT MATCHED IN AGE.

[illegible] Instances Where the Husband Was Younger Than the Wife.

[illegible] married Kadyah, his first wife, who was fully forty.

Anne Hathaway was seven years older than Shakespeare. Dr. Johnson's wife was double his age. She was just sixty as he turned the rounding point of thirty. Howard, the philanthropist, had a wife who was fifty-two when her husband was but twenty-five.

At the time of Jenny Lind's marriage her age was given as ten years the senior of Herr Goldschmidt.

A singularly happy marriage was that of the late Rose Terry Cooke, who died last summer, deeply lamented by a comparatively young husband. Another charmingly felicitous marriage in the literary circle of talented New England women is that of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, who is idolized by her young husband, Rev. Herbert Ward, African missionary and writer.

George Eliot, late in life, chose Mr. Cross, then in the thirties, to accompany her down the shadowy path of old age.

Within the memory of everybody the widow of Mark Hopkins proposed to young Mr. Searles and afterward lived very harmoniously with him until her death. Baroness Burdett-Coutts makes no secret of the fact that Mr. Burdett-Coutts is much her junior. And so the list might go on multiplying in numbers until one might fancy that half the marriages were in reversal of the first line of the old couplet, which runs:

"Man for height; woman for youth;
Woman for beauty; both for truth."

And, when the list is closed, one must add the wonderful and historic record of the beautiful Mme. Recamier, who died at seventy-two, leaving a young husband of twenty-four to mourn her loss.—Chicago Times.

Music Lessons By Proxy.

A funny story is told of Felicien David. It was when David was a young man that he gave a very successful concert in Cairo. The khedive sent for him and asked him if he would give a few lessons to the ladies of the harem. Visions of rare oriental beauties were at once pictured to the mind's eye of the young man, and he consented with enthusiasm.

He went and was ushered into a large, empty room, in which was a piano. He sat down and waited. Shortly a burly negro appeared, and for several moments stood silent. At last he asked David when he was going to give the lesson.

"When my pupils come in," replied David.

"Oh," said the negro, "you are to give the lesson to me and I am to give it to the ladies."—The Indicator.

A Wonderful Atmosphere.

Eastern Man (in Chicago)—Why do you want a big telescope here? The smoke is so thick you can't half see.

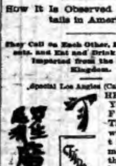
Chicago Man—That doesn't matter. Why, one night when I was going home I looked at the moon through an opera-glass and I could even see the snakes on it.—N. Y. Weekly.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.

How It Is Observed by the Pigtails in America.

They Call on Each Other, Exchange Presents, and Eat and Drink Rare Dishes Imported from the Flowery Kingdom.

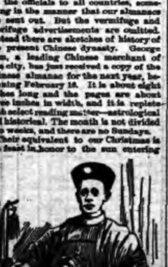
[Special Los Angeles (Cal.) Letter.]



THE Chinese New Year begins on February 16. The New Year will contain thirteen months; two of the months will be equivalent to our June. Ordinarily a year is twelve months, except "leap year," which has thirteen months. Every third year is leap year. The year has 365 days, but the different reckoning of the time makes the odd month. The Chinese month is shorter, each having either twenty-nine or thirty days—none longer nor shorter. For instance, February has 29, March 30, April 29, May 29, June 30, second June 29, July 30, August 30, September 29, October 30, November 30, December 30, January 29. The New Year begins with the first new moon in February.

The calendar months are so notated that the days of each month correspond with the moon—the first day of the new moon is the first day of the month, and the last day of the moon is the last day of the month. The calculation is made for three years and the "extra month," or interlactory month, is in the "leap year," as our extra day, "which gives February twenty-nine"—according to the schoolboy's rhyme. The notations are made in Pekin by the officials, and there printed and sent out by the officials to all countries, something in the manner that our almanacs are sent out. But the vermifuge and febrifuge advertisements are omitted. Instead there are sketches of history of the present Chinese dynasty. George Lem, a leading Chinese merchant of this city, has just received a copy of the Chinese almanac for the next year, beginning February 16. It is about eight inches long and the pages are about three inches in width, and it is replete with select reading matter—astrological and historical. The month is not divided into weeks, and there are no Sundays.

Their equivalent to our Christmas is the feast in honor to the sun entering the winter solstice, on December 22. It is observed by a feast on the previous evening, a general bursting of firecrackers, and an extra high service at the josshouse, at which the joss is bedecked in unusual finery, and numerous offerings are made.

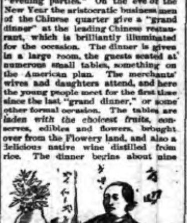


GEORGE LEM IN CALLING COSTUME.

The celebration of the New Year lasts from one or two days to a week, or longer—according to inclination and means. With the wealthy and high officials in China, it is a continual feast for about two weeks. The wealthy merchants of this city continue the feast about a week. Business is practically suspended so far as they are concerned, leaving their clerks in charge, who keep open shop merely to take in what comes along, something like the Caucasian who keeps his place of business open on Sunday from the force of habit.

"On the evening of the New Year, Chinatown is illuminated by Chinese lanterns of various sizes and all colors swinging from every door, in every window, and on the roofs of the joss house, theater and restaurant. The main joss is glittering with regalia, and the various other gods—even those of pestilence, famine and war—are dressed in the most gorgeous manner. During the holiday season every sinner visits the joss house, sprawls down upon all fours and prays in turn to each of the gods whom he has offended, which almost invariably includes all of them. He also prays for what he most wants for the coming year. He "forgives" everybody who has done him an injury during the past year—or, is supposed to—and in turn, is also forgiven his "trespasses." Every Chinaman pays his pecuniary liabilities, and begins the New Year free of debt, and with no enemies, or enmity toward others. This is the obligation: If a Chinese merchant does not pay his debts by the first of the year, his creditors are permitted to go to his store and post up on his door copies of their bills, or blacklisting statements of his refusal to pay, and under their ethics the merchant cannot open his store and begin business until he has paid his creditors. Other debtors, who cannot be thus reached by snap judgment, are ostracized by public opinion until their debts are paid. If they hold a position they are discharged, and no one will employ them—they are regarded as outcasts, or frauds, and any Chinaman who assists such a fraudulent debtor is himself ostracized and boycotted." It is a splendid example for the Caucasian to follow.

Their amusement during the New Year's celebration is feasting, praying, visiting each other and attending the theater. No "grand balls"—the Chinaman does not dance; and there are no "evening parties." On the eve of the New Year the aristocratic business men of the Chinese quarter give a "grand dinner" at the leading Chinese restaurant, which is brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. The dinner is given in a large room, the guests seated at numerous small tables, something on the American plan. The merchants' wives and daughters attend, and here the young people meet for the first time since the last "grand dinner," or some other formal occasion. The tables are laden with the choicest fruits, conserves, edibles and flowers, brought over from the Flowery land, and also a delicious native wine distilled from rice. The dinner begins about nine o'clock and lasts until after midnight, or the appearance of the New Year. On a dais in one end of the room are the musicians, who play at intervals during the feast.



CHINESE LADY AND CHILD.

Others give private dinners and invite their most intimate friends, and the poorer classes have their holiday dinner also—that being the main feature, as with the Caucasian. The restaurants make special "spreads" during the season, importing the choicest edibles from China, and lay in an extra supply of chickens and ducks from the local market. The Chinaman is especially fond of chicken and duck, roasted, also of fish.

On New Year's morning about daylight the New Year's calling begins among the men. The young men call upon the young men; the elder upon the elder; and then the young call upon the aged men.

The New Year's card is a small sheet of book paper about seven inches in length and about four inches in width. The side on which the name of the caller is printed, or marked, is blood red. The recipient of the card files it away for future reference, but usually pastes it on the wall, where it serves both as a reminder of friendship and as wall paper, and if the calls are numerous he can get along without a wall paper decorator. The initial to this article represents the New Year's card of George Lem, leader of the Celestial Four Hundred of this city.

The costume is of the richest silk, and the ends of the wide sleeves are beautifully embroidered. The fan is inlaid and hand-painted. To his right is his opium pipe, or "pipe of state," which he uses only on feast days.

The women are dressed in the richest silks and satins specially imported from China by their husbands, and there is the same rivalry of dress that exists between their Caucasian sisters. During the interchange of New Year's calls they indulge in social smokes. The opium pipes are beautifully decorated with silken strings, pendant, as seen to the right of the hostess. Her little children are also richly dressed, with prettily-decorated caps.

The ladies call upon each other in the afternoon. The young ladies upon those of their age and association; and the merchants' wives interchange calls. Then the young call upon the aged as a matter of respect and deference. But the men do not call upon the women. That would be scandalous. They only meet each other at public dinners. During these calls of each sex upon their kind, presents are interchanged, and in each instance they are of about equal value. The American artifice of giving a 75-cent present and receiving a $20 gift is not resorted to. The storekeepers are liberal, giving away choice cakes of soaps, packages of teas, bunches of firecrackers, etc., and naturally have many callers. The very wealthy Chinese usually take a vacation trip to China so as to have a royal festival in its native Oriental splendor, and combine additional pleasure with their New Year's festival celebration, in returning with two or three new wives.

J. M. SCANLAND.

No Novelty About It.

Friend—Doctor, did you ever fight a duel?

Doctor—A duel? No, indeed. What novelty would it be for me to kill a man?—Wasp.

The Indignant Nephew.

"Go to the Aunt, thou sluggard!"
He went—she'd give him no more;
So he had to go to his "uncle,"
Where often he'd been before.
—Brooklyn Life.

Not a Dress Reformer.

"Does your new dress fit you well, Clara?"

"Oh, splendidly! I can hardly move or breathe in it."—Boston Globe.

Well Fixed.

Upton—De Curb's failure is a pretty bad one, isn't it?

Downton—N-o, not so bad. He's got his winter coal in.—N. Y. Weekly.

Another Breed.

Wife—Is that one of the cigars I gave you?

Husband—Of course not. Don't you see I am going to smoke it?—Jury.

OLD-TIME STATESMEN.

Reminiscences of President Lincoln's Assassination.

Incidents of the Night of the Awful Crime—The Last Note Written by the Martyr President—Exciting Scenes on the Streets.

[Special Washington Letter.]

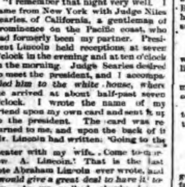
"At the close of every congress," says Hon. William E. Spencer, the journal clerk of the senate, "I frequently find myself in a reminiscent mood. To-day in looking over the senate I observed Senator Stewart, of Nevada, and Senator Sherman, of Ohio, in conversation near the cloak-room door, and I do not know why, but my memory ran back through the many intervening years, and I recalled the fact that those two men alone of all the members of the senate at the time of the assassination of Lincoln, in 1865, remain as members of this distinguished body.

"Senator Sherman took his seat in the senate on the 23d day of March, 1861. He had been a member of the house of representatives and was elected to the senate to take the place of Salmon P. Chase, whose election had but recently occurred, but who had accepted the position of secretary of the treasury by appointment of President Lincoln. With the exception of the few years when he was secretary of the treasury during the administration of President Hayes, Senator Sherman has been continually a member of the upper house. When the new state of Nevada was admitted to the union, Senator Stewart and Senator Nye were the first representatives of that state in the upper house, and they began their terms of service on February 1, 1865. Senator Stewart remained in the senate until March 4, 1875, and reappeared as a senator from the same state March 4, 1887.

"Previous to the civil war the sessions of the senate were held in the room which is now occupied by the supreme court. This is a very small room compared with the present senate chamber; but it was large enough at that time, because there were fewer states and consequently fewer senators. January 4, 1859, the new senate chamber and hall of the house were completed and occupied. I was in the treasury department at the time and heard of the assassination about half an hour after it occurred. I immediately went down to the theater and remember the thrilling scenes of that night as if they had occurred but yesterday. I knew many of the senators, as I was appointed to a clerkship in the senate a short time afterward. I was well acquainted with Vice President Andrew Johnson, who succeeded Mr. Lincoln in the white house. At that time suspicion of complicity in the plot for the wholesale assassination of Mr. Lincoln and his cabinet pointed to every man whose loyalty was suspected. Andrew Johnson was subjected to the unkindness and cruelty of suspicion, too. Of course there was absolutely no ground for that, and no one who knew the man entertained the idea for a moment. He was one of the ablest and most prominent men of his time. His subsequent political career became clouded, largely because of his consciousness of his own good intentions and his strong-willed determination to have his own way in carrying out a policy which he believed to be right.

"There is another member of the senate to-day who was prominent in executive life at that time, but was not a member of either house of congress. I refer to Senator William E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, who was at that time assistant secretary of the treasury. He has not been in continuous public life ever since, but has been in Washington a great deal of the time. There are other members of the senate to-day who were at that time members of the house of representatives. They are Senators Morrill, of Vermont; Dawes, of Massachusetts; Allison and Wilson, of Iowa; Sawyer, of Wisconsin, and Voorhees, of Indiana.

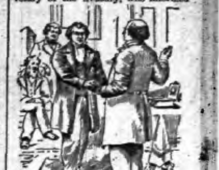
"I think that Congressman O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, who is now called the 'Father of the House,' is the only member of the house of representatives to-day who was a member of that body upon the occasion of the assassination. One by one they have all been retired from public service or have responded to the final summons of the grim destroyer."



PRESIDENT LINCOLN STARTING FOR THE THEATER.

While Mr. Spencer was narrating these facts and turning to official documents to give me names of prominent men whom he had known at the time, Senator Stewart entered the office of the secretary of the senate, and in response to my inquiry he said:

"I remember that night very well. I came from New York with Judge Niles Searles, of California, a gentleman of prominence on the Pacific coast, who had formerly been my partner. President Lincoln held receptions at seven o'clock in the evening and at ten o'clock in the morning. Judge Searles desired to meet the president, and I accompanied him to the white house, where we arrived at about half-past seven o'clock. I wrote the name of my friend upon my own card and sent it up to the president. The card was returned to me, and upon the back of it Mr. Lincoln had written: 'Going to the theater with my wife. Come to-morrow. A. Lincoln.' That is the last note Abraham Lincoln ever wrote, and I would give a great deal to have it to-day. As we walked slowly down-stairs I tore the card into little bits in a thoughtless manner, never dreaming of course that it would be the last word I would ever receive from Mr. Lincoln. We stood upon the great portico conversing for a few moments, when President and Mrs. Lincoln came out of the door and entered their carriage to be driven to the theater. Then and there I introduced Judge Searles to the president, detaining him but a moment. When the carriage drove away my friend said that inasmuch as he had seen the president he would not remain over night but would continue his journey. I accompanied him to the depot and he left on the next train. I walked along up C street to Pennsylvania avenue and then up Pennsylvania avenue to Tenth street, where I turned north intending to go to the theater, which was but a block away. Inasmuch as it was a warm night, and I had been traveling and walking and was very tired, I concluded that to go into a warm room would merely make me sleepy, so I walked up to Thirteenth street and called upon Senator Conness, of California. In a very short time, Senator Sumner, of Massachusetts, called, and we had been in conversation about half an hour when a page came in and announced that the secretary of state, William H. Seward, had been assassinated. We all three started immediately for Fifteenth street to the residence of the secretary of state, which was recently purchased and occupied by Secretary Blaine, and when we arrived there we were met at the door by Hugh McCulloch, the secretary of the treasury, who informed us that Mr. Seward was badly hurt and the surgeon in charge would permit no one to see him. We then walked over to the white house and had barely reached the door when a messenger came and announced that President Lincoln had been shot at the theater. Senator Conness turned to me and said: 'Stewart, there is a tremendous plot here to assassinate all the cabinet officers.' Then turning to two soldiers who were on guard there he directed them to go in a hurry to the residence of the secretary of war, Mr. Stanton, and they did so. When they arrived at Mr. Stanton's house a large man ran away from the door where he had been ringing the bell, and I have no doubt that the presence of those soldiers prevented the assassination of Mr. Stanton on that night. We three senators left the white house and walked down to Tenth street to the little building across from the theater into which Mr. Lincoln had been carried. Mr. Conness and I were informed that we might enter the house, but that it was very warm and that it would be better if fewer persons were there; so we turned and went away. Senator Sumner, who had been unable to keep up with us, then arrived and was admitted under protest. He remained there until the president died.



ADMINISTERING THE OATH.

"I did not go to sleep that night, but walked the streets, going from crowd to crowd to hear the utterances and ascertain the temper of the people. The war was over and there were about 30,000 ex-confederate soldiers in the city who had been surrendered, or were on parole. It is a singular thing, but it is a fact that wherever talk of violence originated, and there was a great deal of angry demand that every rebel in town should be killed, the quiet statement from some one in the crowd, myself on several occasions, that if Mr. Lincoln were alive he would counsel peace, quieted the angry people. His recent inaugural address containing the memorable words: 'With malice towards none, and charity for all' had endeared him to the people. They knew that he was a man of peace, and, while dying at the hand of an assassin the influence of his name was sufficient to maintain peace and order at the national capital at the most critical hour of its existence. I was standing in front of Willard's hotel when Senator Solomon Foote, of Vermont, drove up in a common, cheap hack which he had picked up on the street. He called me to him, saying that he was looking for some senator to accompany him to the residence of Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, whom he was going to get to administer the oath to Vice President Johnson. I got in with him and rode to the residence of Mr. Chase on the corner of Sixth and E streets, and he was speedily ready to accompany us. We three then drove to the Kirkwood house, on Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue, and proceeded to the room of Vice President Johnson. I hammered upon the door and awakened Mr. Johnson, who had but recently fallen into a slumber from exhaustion and nervous strain. He came to the door but partly clad and admitted us. In his little parlor, which was about twelve by fourteen feet in dimensions, adjoining the bedroom which he had just left, Mr. Johnson took the oath of president of the United States, which was administered to him by Chief Justice Chase, in the presence of Senator Foote and myself. There were no other witnesses. Some other people may have entered the room, as has been stated in the newspapers, but they were not noticed by us and were not men of prominence in public life."

SMITH D. FRY.

Trained Down.

Householder—I'm going to move to the suburbs next Monday, and I'd like you to do the job.

Mover—How many loads, sir?

"I don't know. You moved me once, you remember?"

"Yes, sir."

"I needed three vans then to get through, but that was some years ago."

"Have you moved since, sir?"

"Yes, indeed, half a dozen times."

"Hum! I should say one van will carry all you have left now, sir."—Boston Globe.

Subjected to a Great Strain.

"Yes, sir," said the tailor, "I'll guarantee that this material will not stretch out of shape, and will wear like iron."

"Then," said the anxious customer, "you may make me up a suit. But I want to be dead sure about it," he added, a slight quaver in his voice. "I am paying regular visits to a girl in Brooklyn who tips the scales at two hundred pounds, and I don't want that suit to give out on me."—Life.

About Kissing.

He—My dear cousin, I assure you I would never dare rob those sweet lips of a kiss.

She—O, you hypocrite! didn't you make an attempt of that character the other day?

He—Never. Far from having any intention of robbing you of a kiss. I was trying to give you one.—Texas Siftings.

Johnny's Scheme.

"Say, pa."

"Well, Johnny?"

"I see in this paper they say they're goin' to have a whaler at the world's fair."

"Well, what of that?"

"Nothin', only I thought you might apply for the place for ma. She'd make a good one."—Brooklyn Life.

A Hint.

"Have you got a collection of any kind," asked Uncle Mark, "that I can help you with?"

"Yes, sir," replied Ned; "I've got a collection of United States coins in my bank, but nothing larger than a dime."—Harper's Young People.

What She Needed.

The Parvenu—Ah, professor, won't you tell me what books you think I ought to get for a winter's course of reading?

The Professor—Certainly. A second reader and a spelling book.—Chicago News Record.

Willing to Oblige.

Jones (on his knees)—Oh, Maria, be considerate and put me out of my misery at once.

Maria—I will, Mr. Jones: you stay there till I get the shotgun.

Exit Jones through the window.—Texas Siftings.

One Exception.

Nippers—I tell you, revolutions never go backward!

Tuck—That's all bosh. The revolving years have brought this old dress coat of mine into fashion seven times since I first got it.—Chicago Tribune.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

FAST DIPLOMACY.

When certain difficulties with the Republic of Chili were fanned into public notoriety, it will be remembered what an absurd exhibit President Harrison made of himself by hastily sending to Congress a vain-glorious message, breathing fire and fury against poor little Chili, when official communications from the Chilian Government, making full and satisfactory restitution, were at the time actually in the State Department at Washington undergoing translation.

In regard to such hot haste on the part of the President, a Mississippi Congressman told the following pertinent story. He said—"In my State hands employed on a farm had been in the habit of running to a barn whenever it rained. On one occasion a shower came up and all started for shelter. One ran so fast that he almost lost his breath and threw himself on the floor of the building. Why did you run so fast? asked a comrade when he came up. I WAS AFRAID THE SHOWER WOULD BE OVER BEFORE I GOT THERE, he replied."

That pictured the action of President Harrison in the Chilian case to a dot. The shower was over before he reached coveted glory.

It would seem that the President has adopted similar rushing tactics relative to the Sandwich Island annexation scheme.

He holds conference with a clique of delegates assuming to speak in the name and on behalf of an imaginary Provisional Government, hoisted into skeleton form through the doubtful authority of an over-zealous American Minister.

Without waiting, as even common courtesy would have dictated, to hear personally from the other side, the Queen's Commissioners, then en-route for Washington, he has a treaty of annexation quickly drawn up, signed, sealed, and transmitted to the Senate under cover of a special-pleading message.

Then abandoning official duty he goes off duck shooting.

Did President Harrison fear another premature ending of the shower?

We will not deny that the annexation of the Sandwich Islands, if properly consummated, might ultimately be productive of mutual benefits, but we do contend, that the acquirement of sovereignty over foreign territory, and the varied national obligations such a step must entail, is a serious question and ought not to be settled until after the most thorough and statesmanlike investigation.

There remains a volume of wisdom in the saying of brusque old Davy Crockett—"Be sure you're right then go ahead."

A GOOD SIGN.

Recent developments on the part of those vested with the appointing power afford assurance that the salutary and much needed method of tendering official and judicial positions to men because of their spotless personal characters and superior abilities to discharge duty as a sacred trust, is growing in favor.

It is a change of the political programme which all right thinking citizens will approve, and furthermore, hope that it may become permanent.

The plan heretofore generally pursued of a wild and bickering scramble after office by professional politicians, and the frequent appointment of such to places of responsibility regardless of moral or mental fitness, has, to quote a homely phrase, "been run into the ground."

It is high time to apply the brakes and re-inaugurate the Jeffersonian inquiry—

Is he honest?
Is he capable?
Is he of good repute?

When those essential qualifications are rendered obligatory, and when public offices are made to seek worthy incumbents and to discard unworthy and plotting aspirants, the honor and efficiency of the public service will be enhanced and the prodigal waste of the peoples' money materially decreased.

The race track bills have been at last introduced into the Legislature and have passed both House. They provide that the managers of the track and the gamblers who choose to operate there shall do exactly as they please. Under the bills the race tracks can afford to conduct their business with or without the consent of the County Boards. If Freeholders come too high, the gambling concerns can pay the fines, scarcely feeling so small a draw on their enormous profits. The defeat in the Assembly of the motion to give a public hearing on the bills indicated the probability of their passage by the Senate. The bills are vicious in their nature. Their provisions tend to open the doors to wholesale bribery at our primary meetings and nominating conventions and at our election for local offices.

Any doubts that may have existed as to the political complexion of the Senate after March 4 have been dispelled, most unexpectedly, by Democratic aid from an unlooked-for source. North Dakota after a long wrangle has, on the sixty-first ballot, elected to the United States Senate William N. Roach, a leading Democrat of the State, a farmer, but one with no "Populist" leanings.

Reading's Coal Combine is dumped. So is Reading.

The standard cure for cold and cough, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, should be kept by every mother who loves her darlings.

THE CABINET SETTLED

Herbert for the Navy and Olney for Atttorney General.

EASTERN STATES REPRESENTED.

Mr. Cleveland Made the Announcement Late Last Night—The South is Honored by Having Three Members in the Cabinet—Mr. Olney is a Boston Lawyer and Well Known in His State.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 22.—Mr. Cleveland announced last evening that he had completed his Cabinet by the selection of Richard Olney of Boston for Attorney General and Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama for Secretary of the Navy.

The complete Cabinet is as follows:

Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, Secretary of State.

John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, Secretary of the Treasury.

Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, Secretary of War.

Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, Secretary of the Navy.

Hoke Smith, of Georgia, Secretary of the Interior.

J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, Secretary of Agriculture.

Wilson H. Bissell, of New York, Postmaster General.

Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, Attorney General.

The selection of Hilary A. Herbert for the Navy has been expected for several days, but Mr. Olney's name has not been mentioned in connection with the Cabinet, and his selection is a surprise to everybody, particular to the friends of George A. Jenks, of Philadelphia, who, it was stated on Tuesday, had been offered the position.

Hilary A. Herbert has been in Congress for many years and has acted as Chairman of the Naval Committee of the House. He is thoroughly familiar with the work that has been done toward placing the United States Navy on a proper footing, and his knowledge of the present condition of the vessels under construction, and which have been planned, makes him a most desirable man for the head of the department.

His selection is also practically a promotion.

Richard Olney is one of the leading practitioners of the Massachusetts bar. He has not held any political position or been prominent in political matters, but is known as one of the leading lawyers and substantial citizens of Boston.

Mr. Olney has at least twice refused a place on the bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, and when the last vacancy occurred in the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States he was very prominently mentioned in connection with that place. These offers he has refused and has devoted himself diligently to the practice of his profession.

At present he is general counsel for the Boston & Maine railroad, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy roads, succeeding in the latter position the late Sidney Bartlett.

Mr. Olney has always, so far as is known, affiliated with the Democratic party, except when the party in Massachusetts took Gen. Butler for its gubernatorial candidate. He then refused to support the nominee of the party.

Mr. Olney was born in Oxford, Mass., in 1835, graduated at Brown University, class of 1856, and at Harvard Law School in 1858.

This selection gives New England a representative in the Cabinet, and that of Herbert gives the South three positions.

Mr. Cleveland's callers yesterday were Daniel S. Lamont and Mrs. Lamont, who arrived from New York at 3:43 a. m. and left at 5 p. m., and Father Larkin and Capt. P. J. Cunningham, of Washington. Father Larkin is an ex-chaplain in the army, and Capt. Cunningham has a position in the War Department.

Their call was, they said, purely a patriotic visit to the President-elect on Washington's Birthday. Mr. Cleveland remained at home all day.

LICENSE AS USUAL.

PLAINFIELD REMAINS "WET".

Councilmen Decide to Keep the Liquor Traffic Under Municipal Control.

From The Press of February 21.

The anti-license delegation was on hand early last evening, to protest before the Plainfield Common Council against the legalizing of liquor-selling, but their efforts were fruitless, for the council granted the petitions of reputable applicants just as most people had anticipated.

Eight women, among others, were present in the interests of prohibition, and on motion of Mr. Case they were shown the courtesy of Council and given the right to speak if they desired.

Mrs. J. C. Fernald, representing the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, read a long protest signed by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson as president.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis presented a petition signed by all the city pastors, asking that no new applications be granted and that applicants be refused who had been convicted of violating the ordinances. Dr. Lewis accompanied the petition with a 20-minute speech.

Mr. Fernald made a 10-minute speech against license.

A petition was received signed by 200 workmen in the shops of the Pond Tool Works neighborhood, in opposition to licenses below Plainfield avenue.

The city clerk could n't decipher a temperance protest from Ethan Lanphear, and it was filed without reading.

Pastor F. G. Warnick and his deacons asked that J. J. Goff be not licensed as his place would be within 100 yards of the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

Hope chapel members also had a petition in.

All of these were filed.

W. H. Cawley withdrew his application for a wholesale liquor place on Broadway.

The various license applications when reported back to the council by the license committee were disposed of as follows:

GRANTED.

Frank Linke, wholesale, 43 West Front. To grant—Bird, Fisk, Franze, Ginna, Johnston, See, Weber, Millington, 8 Not to grant—Case, Marsh, 2. Absent—Erickson.

Fred Casper, hotel, 24 and 26 East Front street. All voted for inn and tavern; all but Case and Marsh for bar.

Jacob Blimm, hotel, 17 and 19 Somerset. Same vote.

John J. Goff, hotel, West Third and Liberty. For inn and tavern, all but Marsh. For bar, all but Marsh and Case.

John Rafferty, saloon, 29 Park avenue. To grant—all but Case and Marsh.

William J. Sullivan, saloon, 66 West Third street. To grant—all but Case and Marsh.

Charles Bock, saloon, 15 and 17 East Second street. Same vote.

Charles Smith, saloon, 2 and 4 West Front street. Same vote.

James Conneely, saloon, 34 Park avenue. Same vote.

Windham & Crowley, hotel, 11 East Front street. Same vote for both inn and tavern and bar.

E. P. Thorn, saloon, 17 Park avenue. Same vote.

REFUSED.

Wm. H. Lee, wholesale, 204 West Third street, Franze alone voting for it.

Michael F. Watson, saloon, Grant avenue. All except Franze against it, and he said "You might better license him and have him obey the law than not license him and have him violate it."

Alexander McGuiggian, saloon, 179 South Second street. Joseph B. Coward as owner of the building withdrew his signature to the petition. Unanimous vote for refusal.

James J. Day, saloon, 97 West Third street. To grant—Franze and Weber, only.

REFERRED BACK TO APPLICANTS FOR CORRECTION.

Wallace V. Miller, hotel, 7, 9 and 11 North avenue. Messrs. Weber and Millington of the license committee had reported the application as conforming to the ordinances. Mr. Case objected to it because there were five signatures as owners of land comprised in one 45-foot lot on Madison avenue below Ninth street. Mr. Franze alone voted against returning it for new signers.

John E. Beerbower, hotel, Park avenue and Second street. Same sort of report, but six signers found to be from only two lots of land, and one signer was reported as acknowledging he owned no property. Mr. Franze voted against returning the application.

WITHDRAWN.

Wm. H. Cawley, wholesale, 53 Broadway.

Mr. See moved to have the vote reconsidered on refusing Watson's, Day's, Lee's and McGuiggian's applications, but Mr. Franze was alone in voting to reconsider. The object of this move was to prevent their being brought up at any future meeting.

The innumerable testimonials in the possession of its proprietors show the good work Salvation Oil is doing. 25c.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

PLAINFIELD BUILT IT.

THE COOK BROTHERS AND THEIR BANK.

Burglars Can't Get at the Funds Except by Four Days' Work, and If "Held Up" the Cashier Can Summon the Whole Town in a Twinkling.

The appreciative and honest Westfield Standard quotes from and credits to THE PRESS its observations on the new Westfield bank, of which A. D. Cook of this city is president, R. H. Cook cashier, and Charles H. Endicott brother of Dr. George W. Endicott vice president. In this connection the Standard gives other interesting details of the origin and opening of the bank, and publishes cuts of the Cook brothers and other directors. The Standard says that the vaults in the bank are constructed of Fareloʼyn. This is an alloy harder and tougher than steel. It is the only metal now in use that offers resistance to the blow pipes as well as the drill. It will take four days uninterrupted constant work to force an entrance through it with the best of burglars' tools, by experts. This adamantine metal is protected by layers upon layers of welded steel and iron, backed up by Bessemer steel. It will thus be seen that the outer metals must first be removed before the Fareloʼyn. The manufacturer, the firm of F. O. Herring of Plainfield, challenge the world in the sum of one thousand dollars, to produce a safe or door of equal thickness to those in use in the Westfield bank that will resist the blow pipe and drill one-half the length of time that this secret combination of metals afford. The doors of these safes or vaults are packed air-tight with patent asbestos rubber, giving the only protection against the introduction of explosives by means of the air pump, the most powerful tool now in use by burglars.

[illegible] THE FIRST NATIONAL [illegible]

ALFRED D. COOK, PRESIDENT.

This packing can not be destroyed by heat or acids. The locks in use are fortified with a patent interceptive spindle which prevents the bolts from being forced from the doors. These locks can be arranged so that either dial will release the bolts but can be adjusted readily so that it will require the presence of two persons, or both dials operated to release the bolts. To show how thoroughly secure these doors are when locked it is only necessary to say that 38 revolving bolts, two inches in diameter, will secure them—six in front, six at the back, four at the top and four at the bottom checked by two Dexter combination bank locks, and a patent checking device; also by a Sargent seventy-two-hour triple movement time-lock. The inside face of each door is covered by a handsome figured brass plate producing by contrast with the finished bolt work a most artistic effect. The total cost of the vaults in which the money of the bank will be secured is $5,500. The technical specifications upon which the vaults were constructed cover twelve closely type-written fools cap pages. In addition to the protection we have named is a door resting upon electric attachments in front of the safe, the faintest jar of which will ring alarm bells in not less than four neighboring localities. Should cashier Cook be "held up" in the day time he can while making overtures as if to pass out the money touch an electric button that will signal the four localities already mentioned.

ROBERT H. COOK, CASHIER.

The bank will take care of the three-quarters of a million dollars that heretofore has been annually carried to Plainfield, Elizabeth, Newark and New York for deposit. On Wednesday, the day the bank commenced business, thirty-eight accounts were opened, deposits amounting to $9,420.25 and eight safe deposit boxes were rented. That's a good start. The bank will be open Washington's Birthday from 10 to 2 o'clock for inspection, and the officers will be pleased to receive visitors.

THE BANK'S OFFICIALS—PLAINFIELD ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE.

President Alfred D. Cook is a native of this State, his birthplace being Lawrenceville, near Trenton, Mercer county.

Mr. Cook engaged in the lumber and coal business at Princeton, N. J., when he was but eighteen years old having been previously with his father in Bound Brook while yet a mere lad.

An opportunity to sell out presented itself just as the course of the railroad was about to be changed, and taking prompt advantage of this, he united with his father, William B. Cook, and his brother, Robert H. Cook, in the lumber and coal trade in Plainfield, under the firm name of William B. Cook & Sons. The sons succeeded the father in the year 1870 and formed a copartnership under the firm name of A. D. Cook & Bro. They remained in business together for almost a quarter of a century, selling out in Plainfield December 28, 1892. Alfred D. Cook enjoys a reputation for upright dealing and business ability that any man would have a right to be proud of. He is a man of quiet tastes and domestic habits, avoiding public office, although frequently approached with a view to being placed in public life on account of the strong appeal he would make by his high character, for popular preferment. He is a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of Plainfield. Mr. Cook is extensively known, not only by reason of his wealth, but especially for his business ability and sterling character. "The Cooks" are well spoken of in business circles, and that is an eloquent statement.

Cashier Robert H. Cook, like his brother Alfred, was born in Lawrenceville, this State, and was born to business. He early developed the "trading instinct" and, impatient of school restraint, went to work for his father, whose partner in after years he was to become, while he was yet but fourteen years of age. He remained in business with his father until the retirement of the latter, and with his brother, Alfred D., continued to extend and expand the business until it grew to be one of the largest lumber and coal houses in the State. Like his father before him Robert H. Cook enjoys the reputation of being a square business man, and has earned the esteem and confidence and respect of a wide and influential circle in business and social life. Like his brother, Alfred D. Cook, he is connected with the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in Plainfield. The Cook brothers are regarded as a strong team, and their new and important relation to the business affairs of Westfield makes them and their career objects of deep interest. It runs in the Cook family to be good business men, a third brother, C. Scudder Cook, being president of the East Trenton Pottery company, one of the largest in the country. He is also treasurer and superintendent of the same company. Robert H. Cook as cashier of the First National bank of Westfield is personally an acquisition to Westfield's business outfit, distinguished looking, courtly and kind—an American gentleman.

CHARLES G. ENDICOTT, VICE-PRESIDENT.

Vice-president Charles G. Endicott has been an active business man for many years, his place of business being in Jersey City, where he has been engaged in ship chandlery since 1871. Mr. Endicott went to Westfield only eight years ago. But no name is better known now, nor stands higher than he in the people's estimation to-day. He served as town committeeman for the term 1889-92, and, from the start of the Building and Loan association, five years ago, he has been the president of that institution. He is regarded as being a man of executive ability and has a good deal of that uncommon article—common sense. He is a man looked up to for sound business judgment and good advice. An elder and trustee in the Presbyterian church, he has a host of friends, and by every measure he is one of Westfield's most substantial citizens.

HIS COUSIN THE CAPTAIN.

A Plainfielder Visited by a Kinsman Who Saved 200 Souls.

Captain Clarke Lanphear, of Waterford, Conn., made Ethan Lanphear a call, Sunday. Captain Lanphear has followed the water since he was ten years old; first as a cabin boy, rising to mate and then to captain of an ocean steamer, making many ocean trips, passing around Cape Horn to the Pacific coast many years ago. He finally accepted the position of captain of the Stonington line of steamers, over thirty-five years ago, and ran on that line and the Norwich line as captain up to five years ago, when he resigned. He is now about 68 years of age, weighs about 260 pounds; never has been sick enough to have a doctor but once; never had any serious accident to passengers or crew under his captaincy. He was on the Sound line several years ago when a line steamer was burned on the Sound, when all passengers and crew were driven overboard. He was two or three miles away when he discovered the calamity, and headed his steamer for the scene as fast as steam could drive, and arrived in time by his coolness of orders to pick up over two hundred souls and save them from a watery grave. Feeling that he had acquired sufficient competency to carry himself and family through this life, five years ago he resigned his position, leaving a salary of $3,500 a year, and purchased a farm in the town of Waterford, a few miles out from New London, where he can enjoy his happy disposition and live comfortably the remainder of his life. Captain Lanphear is a cousin of Ethan Lanphear, their fathers having been brothers.

$3.00 FOR ONLY 50 cts.

Money must be sent during February, before March 1st.

The Home Magazine

FOR ONE YEAR AND THE

WHITE HOUSE DINING ROOM CHART
FANCY WORK CHART
PROSE AND POETRY CHART
SPRING DRESSMAKING CHART
AND FLORAL CHART

For Only Fifty Cents

THE HOME MAGAZINE (Edited by Mrs. JOHN A. LOGAN) has a circulation of over 300,000 every month. We want a million; hence our great offer.

THE HOME MAGAZINE is handsomely Illustrated by Most Skillful Artists. The Best Story-writers contribute to its columns, and every one at home will find something of interest.

It contains interesting pages for the Mother and Children; all about Flowers, the Dining Room, Fashions, Fancy Work, Sunday Reading and many other home subjects.

Mrs. LOGAN continues her very interesting Personal Recollections. Everything of the best.

Now, THE HOME MAGAZINE for one year is only fifty cents, but we make you the following liberal offer:

The White House Dining Room Chart
New throughout from cover to cover; containing a Bill of Fare for every day in the whole year. No two alike, and plain, practical directions for preparing every dish from soup to dessert.

Fancy Work Chart
Containing over 300 illustrations of Plain and Ornamental Initials, Drawn Work, Netting, Embroidery, Tatting, Patchwork, Miscellaneous Fancy Work and Home Decoration.

The Home Magazine Poetry and Prose Chart
Especially adapted for selections for School Children.

Spring Dressmaking Chart
Just completed, with designs of all the latest Spring Fashions of 1893, with what to wear and how to make it.

Floral Chart
All about flowers and plants; what to plant, when to plant and how to plant. Invaluable to every lover of flowers.

We offer these Five Charts and THE HOME MAGAZINE for one year for only FIFTY CENTS, if the money is sent during February before March 1. Mention this paper. DON'T DELAY. Address:

The BRODIX PUBLISHING CO. 614 Eleventh St., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C.

DEATHS.

MILLER—Edward Miller, son of the late Lewis W. Miller. The funeral will take place from the Baptist church, Scotch Plains, N. J., on Wednesday Feb. 22, at 3 p. m.

FOR SALE—Lot on Park avenue, 100 feet front; very cheap. Inquire of owner, box 293, Plainfield, N. J. 2 16 6-ef

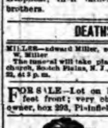
AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HERB DRINK

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

[illegible]

LANE'S MEDICINE

[illegible]



TALES FROM TOWN TOPICS.

2d year of the most successful Quarterly ever published.

More than 3,000 LEADING NEWSPAPERS in North America have complimented this publication during its first year, and universally concede that its numbers afford the brightest and most entertaining reading that can be had.

Published 1st day of September, December, March and June.

Ask Newsdealer for it, or send the price, 50 cents, in stamps or postal note to

TOWN TOPICS,
21 West 23d St., New York.

[illegible] MEN AND WOMEN the most interesting weekly ever issued.

Subscription Price:
Town Topics, per year, $4.00
Tales From Town Topics, per year, 2.00
The two clubbed, 5.00

Town Topics sent 3 months on trial for $1.00.

N. B.—Previous Nos. of "TALES" will be promptly forwarded, postpaid, on receipt of 50 cents each.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.—Between The Interfield Building and Loan association complainant and Thomas J. Clarkson et. al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey: [illegible]

W. R. HICKS, Sheriff.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON, Sol'rs.
C. R. & C. Fees $7.50
2 16 6

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given that the accounts of the subscribers [illegible] will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of April next. [illegible]

MARGARET E. GADMUS,
FREEMAN GADMUS.
2 16 6

NOTICE. JAN. 21, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hatfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, [illegible]

WILLIAM HETFIELD,
EDWARD [illegible]

SHERIFF'S SALE—In chancery of New Jersey—Between Jacob Welsh and Matthias T. Welsh, Administrators etc., complainant and James Craig et ux defendants. fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, commencing at a point where the center line of Dunellen avenue intersects the center line of Jefferson avenue; [illegible] to the point of beginning.

Being the same premises conveyed to James Craig by deed of William Craig and others, dated May 17th, 1888 and recorded in the Clerk's Office of Union County in Book 190 of Deeds on page 244 etc.

W. HICKS, Sheriff.
JOHN H. VAN WINKLE, Solicitor.
F. P. &O. Fees $6 80. 2 3 w3

WANTED AT ONCE. SALESMEN FOR THIS LOCALITY

Splendid Opportunity

for a live, energetic man. We offer BETTER FACILITIES and Better Terms than ever. Salary or commission. Write for our Special Offer

HOOKER, GROVER & CO.
Rochester Fruit Farm and Nurseries.
Established 1866. Rochester, N. Y.

SHERIFF'S SALE—New Jersey Supreme Court, Union County—Chas. A. Reed, plaintiff vs. John C. Moore, defendant, alias. Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. In debt.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, A. D., 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the right, title and interest of the above named defendant of, in, to and out of all that tract of land situate in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey. [illegible]

W. R. HICKS, Sheriff.
CHARLES A. REED, Attorney.
[illegible] Fees $10 80. 1 2 w5

THE PLAINFIELD PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,

it has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

All goods delivered free of charge.

C. M. ULRICH.

TOWNSEND'S Marble & Granite Works,

30 SOMERSET STREET.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

[illegible]

J. F. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Jane Swasey Carman [illegible] Hetfield and Mary E. Pound:

[illegible]

WILLIAM A. LEWIS,
Solicitor of Complainant,
[illegible] Montgomery st., Jersey City, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution

OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of [illegible], deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next. Dated November 30, 1892.

MARTIN E. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

[illegible]

Scientific American

[illegible]

NEWARK BEE HIVE

THINGS SOLD THERE THAT MAKE THE GREAT STORE IT IS!

REASONABLE PRICED SELLERS BEE HIVE OF RELIABLE MERCHANDISE.

CUT OUT AND SAVE FOR REFERENCE

STOCK LIST, No. 2.

Dry Goods Department

PLUSHES
In all widths and qualities, including seal plushes.

VELVETS AND VELVETEENS in black and colors. [illegible]

WASH FABRICS
[illegible]

WHITE GOODS
[illegible]

MUSLINS AND SHEETINGS
in all makes and widths, bleached and unbleached.

FLAGS AND BUNTING
[illegible]

COMFORTABLES AND BLANKETS
[illegible]

NO BRANCH STORES

L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad Street,
NEWARK, N. J.

SAVE TWENTY PER CENT.

AMOS H. VANHORN,

73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES.

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,

Newark Clothiers,

779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.

ELY'S CREAM BALM [illegible]

CATARRH

Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head. [illegible] ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,

Successors to [illegible] Hardware Co., 7 11 tf 48 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

—A new fire-alarm signal box is to be placed at Netherwood avenue and Front street.

—The anniversary day of the Monroe Avenue chapel has been set for Sunday, April 5.

—During Lent, visiting clergymen will preach occasionally in the Rev. Father Smyth's church.

—Four of the eight stitches taken in Jacob Fields's left hand, last week, have been removed, and the wound is healing rapidly.

—The south siding of the railroad at Netherwood has been removed since the new station has been completed on that side of the track.

—A lamp was upset on the breakfast table in a Madison avenue residence, Saturday morning. The lamp was promptly thrown into a snow bank, and serious fire averted.

—A horse said to be owned by a man named Munn got frightened on Front street Saturday. Both the coachman and a young lady were upset in the snow, but neither was injured.

—Wednesday ushered in the Lenten season, when all good Christians are supposed to bid a temporary adieu to the follies and frailties of a worldly life and spend some time in mortification of the spirit and self denial.

—The superintendent of the street railway company gives assurance that the work of laying the track along Somerset street will go forward as soon as the frost leaves the ground. It will require over a month's time to complete the North Plainfield branch.

—A farmer's sleigh was upset on Somerset street, Saturday afternoon, and the occupants, a woman and boy, were spilled in the roadway. Fortunately no one was injured, and the horse was captured before doing any damage. The rig came from Warrenville.

—Jacob Field, who nearly bled to death on Wednesday night after falling through a window on Park avenue and cutting an artery, was able to be out last evening. The wound is, however, of a serious nature, and Mr Field will have to give up business for a time, at least.

—Talk about people in glass houses throwing stones! The saloon-keepers were notified that if any of them were delinquent in paying taxes their license applications would be refused. Those who exercised this authority were themselves said to be notorious delinquents.

—The Knickerbocker Press of Albany says: "The Rev. Duncan McGregor's lectures are remarkable, effective, original and brilliant. The equal of Bishop Newman in eloquence and power." Tickets are now on sale at Central pharmacy for Wednesday evening, the 22d inst.

—Counselor C A Marsh has taken up the case of Lawrence Wallace accused of being the Fanwood firebug. Wallace is now out on bail of $1,000 furnished by his mother. It is every cent she possesses. The counselor says Wallace is the victim of circumstances and he will prove him innocent.

—A man named Wharton and two companions were upset from their sleigh on East Front street, during the blinding storm Sunday night, and dragged through the snow. Good-hearted Mrs. Woolley took them in, dried their clothing and attended to their hurts, and sent them on their way with grateful hearts.

—Jerry Dunham, of Dunellen, the engineer who was taken sick on his locomotive some time since, has so far recovered as to be able to go to work. At present he runs the stationary engine at the round house. He hopes soon to regain his former strength, when he will be given a position similar to his last one.

—Official notification has been received by the Recorder of the Plainfield order of Knights of Pythias, announcing the death of V E. Sir Elwood Conners, P. D G. C of the State of New Jersey. The document also announces the death of J C. Bennett at Trenton on Feb. 7. He was G. C. of C., State of New Jersey.

—Tramps tried to enter a house on West Front street near Grant avenue, Tuesday night at 11.30 but found it impossible to get it. Then out of general cussedness they went into the field back of the house and shot off a revolver two or three times. The occupants of the house were aroused and drove them away.

—Sixty thousand pounds of meat were sold to Plainfield consumers last week by one shop alone, that of the Plainfield Beef Co., of which that young hustler, "Dick" Haven, is manager. There were a few pounds in addition sold by the other shops, but ever since the establishment of a rival "box" by the Armour company, manager Haven has sold more meat than ever.

—William Taylor has purchased of Mr. Converse his interest and stock in the old-established livery business adjoining the Mansion House, Bound Brook, and solicits a share of public patronage, which he hopes to merit by strict attention to business. His stock is all first-class and he has had years of experience in the business. No doubt the citizens of Bound Brook will accord him their favors.

—Another writ of certiorari has been granted in the North Broadway project. The petitioning property-holders in this instance are Ira Mundy, H. B. Lounsbury, Adaline Brock and Firman Long, who think their assessments too heavy. The points raised were covered by the former writ granted on behalf of Jacob Miles, and the entire proceedings of the commissioners will be reviewed under each writ by the Supreme Court.

—The National Lead Company, the largest manufacturers of white lead and lead products in the world, begins in this number a series of advertisements that any, who contemplate painting during the coming season, will do well to read. They are not a new firm introducing a new article, but are the owners and manufacturers of the standard brands of white lead that have given white lead its character as the standard paint. Many of the brands were already old when our fathers were boys.

—It is not probable a more interesting and universally popular entertainment, will visit here this season than Joseph Arthur's "Still Alarm," which comes to Music Hall, Saturday evening. A strong, well told interesting story of real life, in which are people who are just as such people as we know and meet every day of our lives, who do and say just what the people we know would do and say under the circumstances. This holding nature up to the mirror, and reflecting it truthfully, always seems to please theatergoers. And "Little Tuesday" comes too.

Russell Sage.

The well-known financier, writes:

"506 FIFTH AVENUE,
NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 20, 1890.

"For the last twenty years I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They have repeatedly cured me of rheumatic pains and pains in my side and back. Whenever I have a cold, one on my chest and one on my back speedily relieves me. "My family are never without them."

RUSSELL SAGE.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known. Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front street, New York.

PERSONALIA.

Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek is in the South.

Benjamin F. Hoard of New York city is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. J. A. Blatz of Somerset street is confined to the house by severe illness.

Daniel Fulper, of Flemington, was recently a guest of relatives on North avenue.

Simon Wolff of Philadelphia is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz of Somerset street.

John Mentz of the firm of Mentz Bros. is traveling in New York State on a business tour.

Miss Jennie Munn of Newark is visiting the family of Albert Hedden, East Fifth street.

Andrew Lutkins of Somerset street has recovered from his recent illness, and is able to walk out.

F. W. Lewis and family, of Carleton avenue, will soon take up their permanent residence in New York.

James Patterson of the Potter press works is at his home on Craig place very ill with a severe cold

The engagement of Miss Genie Lewis, a teacher in the Bryant school, to George H. Babcock, is announced.

Edward Stephenson has returned from the West, and is now employed in a West Front street grocery store.

Cornelius Taylor, of Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, is out again after a ten days' stay in the house from sickness.

Julia D. Bruton, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. John Duncan, died Saturday at her residence, 15 West Sixth street, where funeral services will be held to-morrow.

James McGee has written a book "The March of Methodism", which gives a faithful and interesting history of that denomination, and as such is having great success.

Senator Keys is one of the active workers in the legislative halls at Trenton. He is always to be found at his desk, is affable and courteous to all, and ready to render his constituents all the favors possible.

George Moeton, a former employe at Pond's, and a popular cyclist, arrived home Saturday from a two months' trip to Crewe, England, his native home. He came by steamship City of Paris, and had a pleasant voyage.

The friends of Mrs. Eugene Hoerster, of Grove street, gave her a party, last Thursday evening, at Saengerbund hall. Fifty people enjoyed the dancing, and more than that partook of the supper, which was served in style.

Among the names of members of standing committees appointed at the business session of the Knights of Pythias held in Trenton Thursday, appear those of the following Plainfield Knights: Lewis B. Blackford, on printing and supplies, and John Neagle on law and supervision.

The many friends of Mrs. J. R. Marsh of Scotch Plains, who fell last Friday last, fracturing her hip, will be pleased to hear that she is getting along nicely. She slipped on the ice while crossing a piazza. The long confinement attendant upon her recovery cannot be other than tedious to one so active and energetic.

Harry Louis Dunn, son of L. A. Dunn, formerly of this city and now of Seattle, Wash., is visiting in Plainfield with his mother. Saturday evening at the home of ex-councilman Wilbur, his eighth birthday was celebrated by a party attended by a score of his young friends, at which all enjoyed themselves with games and a bountiful supper including a birthday cake with eight candles. Young Mr. Dunn was the recipient of a number of presents. Mrs. Dunn and her son return to Washington next Saturday.

A MODEST PLAINFIELD GENIUS.

How Dr. Field's Gifted Brother Turns His Hours of Amusement to Good Account.

Jacob Field, of Park avenue, a brother of Dr. C. M. Field, of this city, is not only a genius in other respects, but an artist of the first rank. During his leisure moments he devotes his time to scroll-sawing, turning, and artistic penmanship. In each and every instance his work equals that of professionals; and in many cases of designing, workmanship, etc., it far excels most of them.

Mr. Field has lately completed a history of the Field family, dating back to the year 1525. It has been artistically arranged and drawn with pen and ink on paper some six feet long and three feet wide. From this drawing fac-similes have been made for members and immediate relatives of the family. From a personal of the sheet, one wonders how even the highest human ingenuity could make such a sketch with the naked eye.

Mr. Field is also adept at carving, net-making, etc., and among his productions are many which would undoubtedly attract great attention at the World's Fair. But the owner of them simply makes these articles for his own amusement, and is too modest to place them on exhibition.

What Will Be Done at the Smoker.

The Crescent League smoker, to be given next Friday night, promises to be a great success. Nothing has been neglected to make the entertainment as attractive as possible.

The features of the evening will be the fencing bout between O'Keefe and Louis Tenelli, both of the Union Athletic club, the picaninnies, and the wrestling match in which Hugh Leonard, lately with Muldoon, will take part.

The sale of tickets is progressing, the admission being only 50 cents, and can be had at John J. Kenney's shoe store, corner of Park avenue and Front street. The programme will be:

PART I.

Crescent League Quartette.
Frank Tenelli, Union A. C., will say a few words.
O'Kiefe, Instructor Union A. C., Louis Tenelli in a fencing bout.
Al. Birch, comedian and vocalist.
Elmer P. Ranson, conjourer extraordinary.
The Picaninnies in their own specialty.

PART II.

M. C. Elmendorf, entertainer and humorist.
Hugh Leonard, Instructor Manhattan A. C., and The Unknown, in catch-as-catch-can wrestling.
Elmer P. Ranson, in his unique black-face legerdemain.
Crescent League Quartette.
Louis Tenelli, Union A. C., and Harry Brown Westside A. C., sparring bout.

They All Enjoyed This Birthday.

Abner Bartlett, jr., gave a birthday dinner party Sunday at his residence, 141 West Front street. The event was most enjoyable. The dinner was elaborate and sumptuously served; the decorations and menu cards were artistic and beautiful; the vocal and instrumental music was delightfully rendered. A sleighing party in the afternoon was a feature of the day's festivities. Among the guests were Joseph Feytel and his charming daughters, Misses Angie and Della Feytel of Plainfield; Miss Helene Sumbaloff of New York, a niece of the host; Miss Jessie Ward of Newark, Miss Van Courtlandt of Boston, Miss Vanderbilt of Staten Island, Arthur Cox, Edward Miller, Harry Fischer, of New York, Senor Manuel De Tetrnos of the Spanish Consulate, New York, John Janson of Montclair, and Chas. LeClair of Brooklyn. Mr. Bartlett also gave a theatre party last evening at Music Hall, to witness the great performance of Dockstader's minstrels.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. [illegible]

A GOOD BEGINNING.

Judging These Lectures by the First, Not One of Them Should Be Missed.

The first of the series of illustrated lectures on Egypt by Mr. Goodyear was given Thursday afternoon at All Souls' church. The building was well filled, and the audience thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the hour and a half that the lecturer spoke.

The first part of Thursday's lecture was devoted to a general introduction. Mr. Goodyear said:

"Some studies are taken up from necessity, others because they are interesting and instructive. Archaeology, or, in this special case, Egyptology, belongs to the latter class. There are three ways of access to information concerning this study; first, the monuments of Egypt of to-day; second, the collections of articles excavated from tombs and temples and to be found in the large museums of Europe and America; and third, books."

He then enumerated the various collections of Egyptian relics. Among these were the Abott collection in the museum of the Historical Society of New York, the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, the Hoy collection in the Boston museum, and collections in the British museum, at the Louvre in Paris, and at Berlin, Turin, Leyden, Florence, Athens, and Tizeh near Cairo.

After this the names of the great archaeologists and students of hieroglyphics, Mariette, Maspero, Lepsius and and others, were given, together with brief accounts of their special discoveries, all told in an exceedingly interesting style and accompanied by pictures that brought the scenes of the excavations vividly before the audience.

If one may judge the course of lectures by the first, which is usually the most dry, it may be said that they bid fair to be absorbingly interesting, and no one who can conveniently attend should miss hearing them all. The importance of archaeological investigation to history and even to the Christian religion can hardly be overestimated, and the spirit of advanced thought is characteristic of the church under whose auspices this series of lectures is given.

OH FOR A GOOD BALL TEAM!

Since the League Can't Afford It, Let Private Enterprise Provide It.

The best thing to be done in base-ball this year is for a dozen public-spirited citizens to put their hands into their pockets and generously contribute $25 to $50 apiece to meet the deficiency, that a season's work with a good team is bound to produce. The experience of the judicious managers of the past proves that money must be lost, and since the Crescent League is not in financial position to assume such a load again the league should yield its grounds to some such combination as THE PRESS suggests. THE PRESS is sure that the men can be found to assume the responsibility as proposed. Let the league heed this proposition, and Plainfield will have as good a ball team as ever, and the league's treasury won't have to suffer. A little individual enterprise will do it all.

NOT S. B. MONTGOMERY.

His Son Says He Isn't the Man Found Dead at Metuchen, With a White Silk Handkerchief.

A man found dead in Metuchen Thursday, who was identified by another as one who had three weeks ago asked that word be sent to the Montgomerys of Plainfield if anything happened to him, is not, as was at first thought possible by chief Grant, S. B. Montgomery for so many years a resident of this city at Central avenue and Fifth street, whose wife is the daughter of the late Peter Balen at one time one of Plainfield's wealthiest citizens.

There was found on the body of the dead man—who had shot himself through the head in the woods—a white silk handkerchief with the embroidered initials "S. M." All of S. B Montgomery's friends in this city, and also his niece, Mrs. Abraham Hooley, remembered that he always carried just such handkerchiefs.

But a PRESS reporter this morning interviewed his son, William, and learned that S. B. Montgomery is alive and well, and at home with his wife on Grand avenue, Brooklyn. The coroner of Middlesex county went to New York yesterday to William Montgomery's place of business and told of the case. The latter at once hurried to his father's house where he had his fears dispelled.

There are two other Montgomery families in this city but they can give no information as to who the man can be. He may never be identified as the body is so near decomposition it will have to be buried within a few hours.

Fulford Won This Match.

In the second shoot of a series of three arranged between E. D. Fulford, recognized leader of the professional wing-shots of America, and three members of the Larchmont club, which was contested yesterday at the club grounds, L. S. Thompson being the representative of the club, the former was the winner. Though defeated, Mr. Thompson suffered no disgrace. He killed 90 birds to Fulford's 92. Mr. Thompson killed two more than Geo. Work, the winner of last Tuesday's match. Considering, too, that the birds were even a better lot, his performance was especially creditable.

The final match between Fulford and the third member of the Larchmont club will be shot at Larchmont Saturday, and the club will likely select either Captain Money or Fred Hoey as its representative.

Plainfield was represented at the match yesterday by Charley Smith and Thomas Keller, and Fanwood by Jacob Pentz.

They'll Put Jake in the Box Again.

(Somerville Democrat.)

As stated some weeks ago in the DEMOCRAT, the base-ball team of the West End club will be composed this season of amateurs, with a professional battery. The season will open May 6 on the home grounds, but with what club is not yet decided. Manager L. C. Mack has already begun to hustle for dates, and has issued challenges to every team of the class in the State. There are as yet but five men signed to play on the team for the coming season. Harkins will do the twirling for the fifth consecutive year. Harry Francis, his side partner on the old Unions of New Brunswick, will play behind the bat. Lewis C. Mack will hold down the first bag with an increased weight of forty-five pounds. C. Pool will, in all probability, play at short, while W. W. Major will take care of the right garden. There are any number of candidates for the other positions, and it will require all the calm judgment of Manager Mack to pick out men who are best fitted to hold up the glory of the club.

All Rejoiced at Their Silver Wedding.

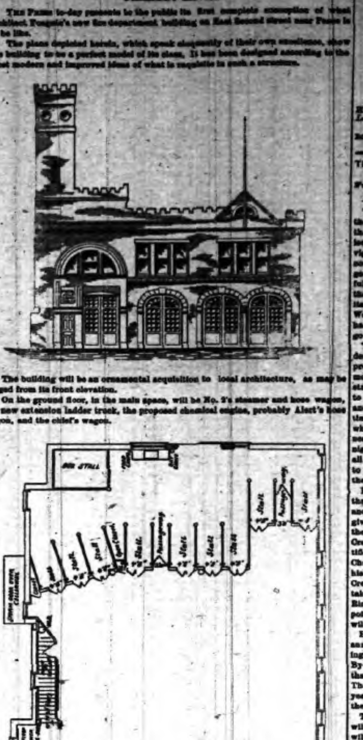
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Shearer celebrated their twenty-fifth marriage anniversary Thursday evening, when they entertained a congenial gathering of friends. The happy host and hostess were showered with handsome gifts. Those present included, among many others, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Runyon and daughters, Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Barnes, Dr. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Norbury, all of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Parker and daughter and Prof. Gonzer, of Harlem; Prof. Jones and wife, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Van-Slarcum and Mrs. Aymar and daughter, of Delaware, N. J., and Mr. Bole and daughter, of Newark.

'TWILL BE A MODEL FOR THE STATE.

Every Modern Convenience to be Provided in the Fine New Home of Plainfield's Firemen.

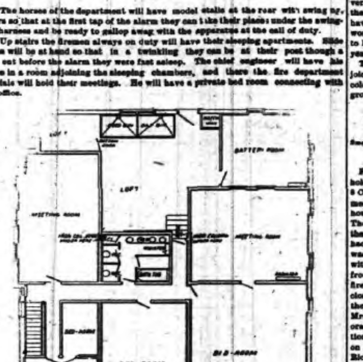
THE PRESS to-day presents to the public its first complete conception of what [illegible] new fire department building on East Second street near [illegible] is to be like.

The plans depicted herein, which speak eloquently of their own excellence, show the building to be a perfect model of its class. It has been designed according to the most modern and improved ideas of what is requisite in such a structure.



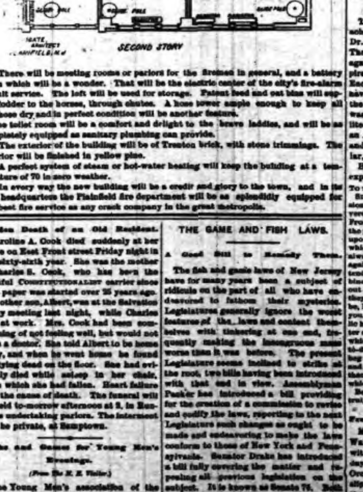
The building will be an ornamental acquisition to local architecture, as may be judged from its front elevation.

On the ground floor, in the main space, will be No. 2's steamer and hose wagon, the new extension ladder truck, the proposed chemical engine, probably Alert's hose wagon, and the chief's wagon.



The horses of the department will have model stalls at the rear with swing doors so that at the first tap of the alarm they can take their places under the swinging harness and be ready to gallop away with the apparatus at the call of duty.

Up stairs the firemen always on duty will have their sleeping apartments. Slide poles will be at hand so that in a twinkling they can be at their post though a [illegible] out before the alarm they were fast asleep. The chief engineer will have his office in a room adjoining the sleeping chambers, and there the fire department officials will hold their meetings. He will have a private bed room connecting with his office.



There will be meeting rooms or parlors for the firemen in general, and a battery room which will be a wonder. That will be the electric center of the city's fire-alarm circuit service. The loft will be used for storage. Patent feed and oat bins will supply fodder to the horses, through chutes. A hose tower ample enough to keep all the hose dry and in perfect condition will be another feature.

The toilet room will be a comfort and delight to the brave laddies, and will be as completely equipped as sanitary plumbing can provide.

The exterior of the building will be of Trenton brick, with stone trimmings. The interior will be finished in yellow pine.

A perfect system of steam or hot-water heating will keep the building at a temperature of 70 in zero weather.

In every way the new building will be a credit and glory to the town, and in the new headquarters the Plainfield fire department will be as splendidly equipped for the best fire service as any crack company in the great metropolis.

Sudden Death of an Old Resident.

Caroline A. Cook died suddenly at her home on East Front street Friday night in her sixty-sixth year. She was the mother of Charles S. Cook, who has been the faithful CONSTITUTIONALIST carrier since that paper was started over 25 years ago. Her other son, Albert, was at the Salvation Army meeting last night, while Charles was at work. Mrs. Cook had been complaining of not feeling well, but would not have a doctor. She told Albert to be home early, and when he went home he found her lying dead on the floor. She had evidently died while asleep in her chair, from which she had fallen. Heart failure was the cause of death. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2, in Runyon's undertaking parlors. The interment will be private, at Samptown.

Books and Games for Young Men's Evenings.

(From The M. E. Visitor.)

The Young Men's association of the Monroe Avenue chapel is getting into working trim. On February 1 the association spent a pleasant evening at the home of D. P. Hicks. It is contemplated having the chapel open one or two nights during the week for reading and games. We should be glad to welcome all young men in our vicinity. A donation to this association of some paper, periodical, books or proper game would be thankfully received. Anyone whose heart might be opened to make a money contribution can be assured that it will be well expended.

Almost Another Victim.

Frank Hart, of West Second street was hurt by the cars near Grant Avenue at 11 Thursday night. He attempted to jump on a freight train and was dragged fully 100 yards. Hart had a friend with him who succeeded in boarding the train. Hart was assisted on board the train and carried to Easton. The man was badly bruised about the body, but aside from this the injuries were slight.

—What has become of the firemen's coffee urn?

THE GAME AND FISH LAWS.

A Good Bill to Remedy Them.

The fish and game laws of New Jersey have for many years been a subject of ridicule on the part of all who have endeavored to fathom their mysteries. Legislatures generally ignore the worst features of the laws and content themselves with tinkering at one end, frequently making the incongruous mass worse than it was before. The present Legislature seems inclined to strike at the root, two bills having been introduced with that end in view. Assemblyman Packer has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a commission to revise and codify the laws, reporting to the next Legislature such changes as ought to be made and endeavoring to make the laws conform to those of New York and Pennsylvania. Senator Drake has introduced a bill fully covering the matter and repealing all previous legislation on the subject. It is known as Senate 75. Both bills are in the hands of the committee on fisheries and will probably be reported some day next week. No. 75 is a good bill, and with a few corrections would meet the wants of sportsmen. There is no job in the bill. It simply codifies all the good and necessary laws in a condensed form, and repeals all useless laws now on the statute books since 1867. All sportsmen should unite in securing its passage.

It Does Not Own or Represent Them.

(From The Somerset Messenger.)

Apropos of reorganizing the Central New Jersey Base Ball League the coming Summer, The Plainfield Courier says, "should Somerville enter, Plainfield can be safely counted upon to stay out." We doubt very much if The Courier owns the Crescent club or voices the sentiments of its members, but, if it does, that organization is surely in a deplorable condition, mentally as well as financially. When we see such an exhibition of spleen and lack of backbone, we can only say, "How have the mighty fallen!"

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

THE CRESCENT LEAGUE REVIVES.

Funds Solicited to Maintain the Society on a High-Class Basis.

The outcome of Wednesday's meeting of the Plainfield Crescent league proves that that institution is still alive, and promises to last longer, displaying a life and vigor which will make it a benefit to the community. After all the evil reports circulated by certain members and gleefully spread by the Somerville papers, that the Crescent League would not pay its debts, and was going to be sold by a West End sheriff, the Crescent League has pulled through, and reorganized with [illegible].

The league is largely indebted to president Chas. Leggett, the most popular president that the league ever had, to the good counsel of Mr. J. A. Hooker, faithful street commissioner, to Aaron Kline, and to all the subscribers who [illegible] the mark and helped the club. In two weeks' time, with these gentlemen as a committee who had the good of the league at heart, nearly $1,000 was raised, and at last night's meeting it was ordered to settle all the debts outside of the note and also to pay the amount of $300 on account of the note held by the trustees.

During that two weeks time, proofs that the league had still a good name and was still deserving of confidence were given by outsiders, and by merchants of the town who came forth and helped the Crescent League in subscribing for certificates. That enterprising builder, Charles Hand, has given the free use of his large hall on Broadway, and the Crescent League will give a grand entertainment on Feb. 24, in the Crescent Rink. A committee of five was appointed, and no doubt the entertainment will be a success.

President Charles Leggett also announced that at the next meeting he would advise that the By-Laws be amended and also that a new Constitution be made. The club decided also to stay one more year in the present location, and ordered the lease to be signed.

The trouble is over, and everything now will be settled. The Crescent League will go on as smoothly as if nothing had happened. Though the bowling team lost a great many games this winter, there is still time to show what they can do, and at to-night's game they should win. All the games lost this season were lost by very small margins, and there is no doubt that with more team practice they should have won most of them. Every game won will add fame to the league, and also to Plainfield, who was very proud last year of its [illegible].

The faithful members of the league rejoice that next season the Crescent league colors will float once more over their grounds.

FIRE IN MR. POND'S HOUSE.

Snow Drifts Do Not Daunt the Brave Fire Laddies.

Fire caused excitement in the household of David W. Pond on Saturday. [illegible] Chief Engineer T. O. Doane received message by telephone that Mr. Pond's house on West Seventh street was afire. The chief ordered No. 2's hose wagon to the scene, and went there himself in a hack. In spite of the snow, good time was made. Meanwhile workmen armed with extinguishers had been summoned from the Pond Machine Tool works. The fire was found to be in a dining-room closet. Extinguishers put it out. When the house had been cleared of smoke Mrs. Pond treated the men to coffee and oranges. They expressed their appreciation by saying they wished she had been on hand at the early morning fire at 93 Richmond street the day before. The goods in the closet were badly damaged. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A Plainfield Counselor Praises a New York Verdict.

The New York Evening Post has achieved a notable triumph in defeating Dr. Funk who sued for $100,000 damages. The Post had directed a fierce crusade against Funk for his publication of pirated editions of books, notably of the Encyclopedia Brittanica. He claimed to have been grossly libeled. The trial of the suit was a most interesting one. It was the first time the direct question of literary honesty had been submitted to an American jury. That jury vindicated and sustained the Post in every particular, and gave Mr. Funk not one cent.

Here is what one of Plainfield's most expert lawyers says of the verdict:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING POST:

SIR:—I beg to be permitted to give expression to the pleasure I have in hearing of the verdict in the case of the Evening Post vs. Funk. From my point of view, the Evening Post was the plaintiff seeking to justify, not an attack upon Mr. Funk, but upon the school of thought which he represented. The aggressive and always intelligent fight which you have made against literary piracy in every form has tended, more than all other influences combined, to lift the people of the United States out of the slough of misconception into which they early fell. This righteous verdict must be, I think, a source of great satisfaction to you. It may be said to indicate that the public have seen and understood the real character of your labors, and that the evil things which were yesterday of robust energy are to-day near their end. It is a distinction, I beg to say, to have been at the front of so good and genuine a reform. I hope unfeignedly that you find much compensation in a verdict which says: "Don't take down the flag".

Believe me, with great respect, yours very truly,

ROWLAND COX.

Fractured a Leg in Two Places.

Mrs. L. D. TenEyck, mother of Mrs. Wallace Miller of Hotel Grenada, met with a most distressing accident Thursday afternoon. She was walking along Orchard place shortly before 5, when she slipped on the snow and fell heavily to the pavement. She was unable to arise, and was carried into the house of her sister, Mrs. Putnam, at Second and New streets. Dr. Long was summoned, and found that she had sustained fracture of the leg in two places. She had but recently recovered from rheumatic trouble which confined her to the house, and her husband also has long been crippled by rheumatism. In such an extraordinary series of affliction, the family have the deepest sympathy of all.

Building a Chapel Library.

The Visitor reports that at the last teachers' meeting, of the Monroe Avenue chapel a very generous donation was made by Miss Georgie Beekman's class of young ladies towards the Sunday-school library, which, together with a donation from the Epworth League and James McGee, gives the chapel $40.00 to spend for additional library books.

—In order to remove a dwelling house from Seventh and Division streets to Sixth and Division, Charles Potter has had to cut down nearly all the shade trees on Division street.

A SELF-MADE MINISTER.

Rector Jennings, Who Has Set All Westfield Agog, Was a Wandering Wayfarer at 15.

(From Saturday's Newark News.)

WESTFIELD, Feb. 18.—The Rev. F. B. Jennings has appealed to the standing committee from the letter of Bishop Scarborough directing him to leave the parish last Wednesday upon receipt of his salary in full to that date. He declares his intention to conduct services as usual in Grace church to-morrow. The vestry declares that he is no longer rector and may attempt to prevent his conducting to-morrow's service.

Rector Jennings, who is making all this trouble, is what is generally termed by the world as a self-made man. His parents were poor and not able to give their son even an ordinary education. At the age of fifteen he set out with his wardrobe tied in a bundle on his back and $2 in his pocket, for a town eighty miles distant, where he expected to find work. He stopped two or three times along the way and cut cord wood to get money to enable him to continue his journey. He obtained employment in a drug store and devoted his spare time to study. He made money enough to enter college by going from house to house in the town he was living to saw wood. Later he acted as tutor. One year during vacation he went on the road as drummer for a cigar house and cleared $800. After he graduated he was private secretary for the Bishop in Baltimore two years and was held in the highest esteem. He has had several charges, and came from Cranford here. He had trouble with his vestry there, but they managed to obtain his resignation without calling public attention to the affair. It is said to have been accomplished in this wise:

At the vestry election there were two sets of candidates, one set bitterly opposed to the rector, the other set be supposed to be friendly to him. It was claimed that the election of his supposed friends as vestrymen would be assured if he would hand in his resignation to the old board just previous to the election. It was also implied that the new board, if the proper ones were elected, would call him back. On this plan he reluctantly handed in his resignation, and his avowed opponents were defeated at the vestry election, but to his surprise the new vestry promptly accepted the resignation, and he was out for good.

It is said that his troubles began with his marriage, which proved uncongenial. It was understood at one time that he was engaged to the daughter of a wealthy New York confectioner, and everybody looked upon the matter as a match, when the woman whom he married suddenly appeared and compelled him to break the engagement and marry her. She subsequently obtained a divorce, alleging cruelty. Her suit was not contested.

During all the scandal that has surged around the minister here, Mr. Jennings has preserved the strictest silence from the first, refusing to talk or say a single word for publication. No one who knows him will deny that he is learned and brilliant, and the way in which he has handled his case shows him well posted in canonical law. The charges made against him here are that he is a liar and a drunkard, and it does not appear that these charges have been sustained. He declares them false, and claims to have performed a rector's duties in a proper and conscientious manner over his parish. The trouble between him and his parish still seems to be far from settled.

(From this morning's N. Y. Sun.)

Yesterday was the first Sunday since the Rev. J. B. Jennings, the rector of the Grace Episcopal church in Westfield, N. J., was ordered by Bishop Scarborough to give up his charge on account of charges of lying and drunkenness preferred against him. All day long the village of Westfield was considerably agitated over the prospects of a collision between the rector and the vestry.

The vestry had given it out that they would take charge of the church yesterday, and would not allow Mr. Jennings to conduct services. Mr. Jennings had announced that services would be held both morning and evening under his supervision, and he carried out his programme.

Notwithstanding the announcement that they expected to take possession yesterday, no demonstration was made at either service by the vestrymen to dispossess the rector. Two of them talked freely with a SUN reporter, and said that they had decided to allow Mr. Jennings to remain in possession until he could be regularly dispossessed, notwithstanding, as they said, he was wrecking the church both financially and spiritually. Ninety-five per cent. of the parish, they said, believed the charges against the rector to be true, and declined to attend services at the church while he remained rector.

Mr. Jennings has appealed from the decision of Bishop Scarborough deposing him, to the General Committee of the Protestant Episcopal church. This appeal will be heard at Elizabeth next Monday, and the vestry decided to give up the fight with Jennings until after this trial.

The Society of Friends and the Liquor Traffic.

The Society of Friends, through the following memorial to the legislature, adopted by the temperance committee at a meeting held in Plainfield, protests against the continuance of the liquor license system:

To the Senate and Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The Temperance Committee of the Shrewsbury and Plainfield Half-Year's Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends records its deep conviction of the great evil of the liquor license system, and especially protests against the infamous County Commission Law, and hereby earnestly asks for the repeal of all license laws, and for the legal prohibition of the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors for drinking purposes.

In behalf of the Committee,
JOHN H. SHOTWELL,
PHEBE C. WRIGHT,
Clerks.

—S W. Beacon, an employee of Bingham & Fulper, of West Front street, has been placed in charge of their Westfield and Cranford route.

In Paint the best is the cheapest. Strictly Pure White Lead is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, chalk, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done. When buying it is important to obtain properly made. Time has proven that white lead made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion possesses qualities that cannot be obtained by any other method of manufacture. This process consumes four to six months time, and produces the brands that have given White Lead its character as the standard paint.

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" "Bradley" "Brooklyn" "Jewett" "Ulster"

are standard brands of strictly pure Lead made by the "Old Dutch" process. You get the best in buying them. You can produce any desired color by tinting these brands of white lead with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

For sale by the most reliable dealers in Paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

NATIONAL LEAD CO.,
1 Broadway, New York.

"NO. 5" KILLED BY A FLYER

Just as He Received the Wages He Was Saving to Send for His Wife.

The Central railroad employs several gangs of Hungarians who by reason of their unpronounceable names are designated on the pay-rolls by numbers. Saturday afternoon about 4, construction train No. 1 was working at Dunellen station, when the paymaster stopped there. The laborers and other employes crowded into the car to get their money, and among them was "Hungarian, No. 5" who received his month's wages, $22, in a tag and a twenty dollar bill, and two silver dollars.

Just as he left the car he was struck and instantly killed by the fast Blue Line flyer bound south, which leaves New York at 3:30. The man was hurled a distance of forty feet, and when picked up every bone in his body was found to be broken. His money was missing having been knocked from his hand. An hour afterward the two bills were found in the snow but the silver pieces could not be discovered. The man was removed to his home in Raritan late Saturday evening. The deceased leaves a wife in Hungary and has been trying to save money to pay her passage over.

BEDLOW'S WILL IS GOOD.

His Wife and Children Get Just Their Dollar Apiece.

The decision of Surrogate Ransom admitting to probate the will of Alfred Bedlow, after whose ancestors Bedlow's Island was named, has been affirmed by the Supreme Court, General Term. Bedlow left almost all his estate, estimated at $80,000, to Miss Sarah A. Stillwell, daughter of his boarding-house mistress, with whom he lived after leaving this city. He gave his wife and three children $1 each, for these reasons:

As my wife, Fanny M. Bedlow; my daughter, Florence B. Townsend; my son, Alfred Bedlow, jr., and my daughter, Julia A. Frothingham, have, to the best of their respective abilities, endeavored to prevent me, and have prevented me, from possessing and enjoying my property, and have otherwise treated me with gross disrespect and ingratitude; and as my said wife has unjustly commenced and is prosecuting a suit against me for a divorce, now, in order to show to them and to others my appreciation of such disrespect and ingratitude, I do hereby bequeath the sum of $1 to each of said persons.

Bedlow married his wife in 1855, and after living with her in Plainfield for over a score of years and raising a large family at the corner of Fifth street and Park avenue, he separated from her in 1887. The will was drawn by Lawyer Charles C. Keeler, uncle of Miss Stillwell. It was contested by the wife and children. The General Term says it does not follow because a man is weak and easily influenced that undue influence has been exercised. It is declared that Bedlow seems to have exercised his will and that it was the result of a pertinacity of purpose.

A Plainfield Clergyman Sees His Congregation at the Theater.

(Dr. Hurlbut in The Visitor.)

The VISITOR was present at a Choral concert in the Music Hall a few evenings ago. It was one of the most disagreeable evenings of the winter; sleet above and slush below; but the concert was well attended, notwithstanding the weather. We noticed a goodly number of our congregation, some of whom we always see at prayer-meeting, others of whom have given good excuses of "bad weather!" "poor health", "can't go out evenings", etc., as reasons for not being present. We thought that—well, no matter what we thought.

Rector Smyth Makes 'Em Take It Back.

The out-of-town papers are now busy denying what they swallowed from the Courier shop, in the following style:

THE PLAINFIELD PAROCHIAL SCHOOL NOT TO BE DISCONTINUED.

Father P. E. Smyth, rector of St. Mary's R.C. church, Plainfield, N.J., says that his parochial school is not going to be discontinued, as has been reported. In place of losing pupils it is gaining them, and the attendance has increased so much that he has applied for an additional teacher.

Borough Property Changes Hands.

Recently recorded real-estate transfers in Somerset county include the following of property in North Plainfield:

Carrie C. Boice to Jos. A. Blatz, $1.
Bernhardt B. Gray to Annie Cashion, $800.
Wm. Kean to Charles Keyritz, $800.
Heirs of Ann Verlon to Nannie M. McElroy, $2,000.
Henrietta B. Berry to Wm. A. Young, $2,500.

—Frank L C. Martin, Captain of the Plainfield Bicycle club, is a hustler. The other morning he received by express 20 bicycles, all of which were sold to his customers before the shipment was made.

UNION COUNTY AGRICULTURISTS.

In Annual Session at Elizabeth Yesterday With Interesting Addresses on Various Subjects.

The Union county board of agriculture Thursday held its annual session in the board of freeholders' chamber in the court-house at Elizabeth, for the purpose of discussing farming topics. Well-known farmers from all parts of Union and Essex counties were in attendance. Several ladies were among the gathering.

John O. Magie, president of the board, presided at the meeting. The feature of the morning session was an interesting address by Professor A. J. Devoe, the Hackensack weather prophet, who illustrated his subject by means of large charts which were fastened on the wall. The professor was given a vote of thanks by the farmers at the conclusion of his remarks. Other interesting addresses were made on various topics.

A fine exhibition of different varieties of corn, potatoes, apples and other agricultural products from the Plainfield farmers and others, in the county, was displayed on the long table in the room.

How the Teams Stand.

The majority of the battles in the Elizabeth Journal bowling league have been won and lost, and the work done by the several teams can be used as a base for figuring on the results of the race, but not with any certainty, for the leaders have no lead but what might be easily overtaken. Two games lost by the Y. M. C. L. A. might change the result as it appears now. The Arthur Kulls are but one game behind the Field Club, and are but one victory ahead of the Alcyones. Four games mark the gap between the Alcyones and C. Y. M. L., while the Crescents and Pioneers are tied for sixth but one game behind. The Crescents while now sixth in percentage stand third in pin average, and the Roselles eighth in the race stand sixth in average pins. Here are the figures.

	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.	Average Pins.
Y. M. C. L. A.	9	0	1000	1521
R. F. C.	8	2	800	1509
Arthur Kull	8	3	727	1469
Alcyone	7	4	636	1439
C. Y. M. L.	3	7	300	1391
Crescent	3	8	273	1472
Pioneer	3	8	273	1389
Roselle	2	7	222	1429
Average pins per team				1451.4
Average strikes per team				19.3
Average spares per team				36.3

The Grand Officer Praised Their Work.

Eminent Sir, James McCain, Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of New Jersey, made his official visit to Trinity Commandery of this city last evening. The commandery was opened for inspection, rehearsal and review. Representatives were present from Palestine Commandery of New York city, Poughkeepsie Commandery, and also a large number of Sir Knights of this city. Remarks were made by Eminent Sirs James McCain and W. H. Sebring of the Grand Commandery, Eminent Sir, J. Cummings of Palestine Commandery, and the Eminent Commander, B. F. Coriell.

After the closing of the commandery, the Sir Knights repaired to the banquet room, where Sirs Miller and Smith had prepared an elegant repast for the occasion. The officers of Trinity commandery were highly complimented on the manner in which they performed their duties, by the visiting grand officers.

A Mother's Letter:—

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Last winter I did not think my little ones would have a mother long. I suffered terribly with female troubles.

MRS. VAN BUREN

"I could keep nothing on my stomach, and got so 'poor' my friends hardly knew me. I suffered with severe headaches, dizziness, faintness, backache, and 'the blues.'

"Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am now as fat as ever, and have no female troubles.

"If you use my letter I hope it may be the means of saving some other poor mother's life as it did mine."—Mrs. Ella Van Buren, Brazil, Ind.

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS. Liver Pills, 25 cents.

BUY
PIANOS
AND ORGANS
FROM
S.D.Lauter Co.
657-659 Broad St.
NEWARK, N.J.

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOYS SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS,

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Compare our prices. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our stores will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday night 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St. NEWARK, N. J.

TO THE NORTH POLE.

Whalers Which Jam Through Ice Packs After Big Game.

The Royal Sport of Whaling Is Not What It Used to Be—When Blubber Is Boiled There Are Lively Doings on Board.

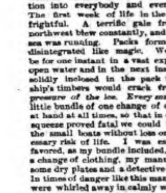
[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Life on a whaleship is unique and picturesque. During a voyage of many months beyond the touch of civilization there must of necessity be many days of dreary monotony; yet the queer characters of the sailors, the striking oddity of the life, its entire difference from any other calling and the indescribable fascination of being on the sea made a whaling cruise one of the most interesting and thrilling of my experiences.

Many changes have come into whaling and its methods during the past quarter of a century. As an industry it has dropped from an important place to almost the bottom of the list. The objects of the voyage also have changed. Formerly, oil was the one great object of the voyage and whalebone was of little or no consequence; now the whalebone is very valuable, being worth about five dollars a pound, while the oil is worth so little that many whales are killed for their whalebone and the carcasses are cut adrift without saving any of the blubber. Modern invention, with its powerful explosives, has made whaling a mere game of slaughter, where formerly it was royalty among sports. To-day the industry, except so far as the master of the vessel and a few officers are concerned, is mostly a novel money earning routine.

When, after many days at sea we entered the ice, we seemed to have come into an entirely new existence. The ship and whaling gear had long been all ready for service. The men were nerved up to the excitement of "raising" the first whale, and the brisk weather infused new life and animation into everybody and everything. The first week of life in the ice was frightful. A terrific gale from the northwest blew constantly, and a wild sea was running. Packs formed and disintegrated like magic. We would be for one instant in a vast expanse of open water and in the next instant so solidly inclosed in the pack that the ship's timbers would crack from the pressure of the ice. Every man had a little bundle of one change of clothing at hand at all times, so that in case the squeeze proved fatal we could take to the small boats without loss or unnecessary risk of life. I was especially favored, as my bundle included, besides a change of clothing, my manuscripts, some dry plates and a detective camera. In times of danger like this many hours were whirled away in calmly watching the pack, and planning what we should do in case we were nipped. No one was terror-stricken, for this was a danger that threatened us almost every day for six months.

The sight of these whaleships' maneuvers in the ice is a grand one. Most seamanship of the pure type in the marine world of to-day is in the whaling service, for in these vessels brawn and muscle, not steam, do most of the work. Every officer prides himself on his seamanship. In fact he must be a thorough sailor before he can be an officer. A slight miscalculation in giving the command or an instant's delay in executing it when told to "haul" may send the ship crashing into the ice pack. Yet with a man aloft to survey the ice for miles and pick out the "leads" of open water, a second on the bowsprit to guide the ship around and among the the cakes of ice, a third on the tryworks to carry the commands and two men at the wheel to execute them, these whaleships squirm about in the ice, guided by such rare skill and judgment that the paint on the side of the vessel is hardly scratched except in times of stress of weather.

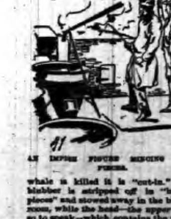


CUTTING UP BLUBBER.

We had been in the ice about two weeks, with a double lookout in the "crow's nest," and one or two men on deck watching for spouts, in addition to most of the green hands. The lookout aloft sighted a genuine spout. The mate was having his watch below. "All hands!" was shouted from one end of the ship to the other, and two boats lowered away. The second mate's boat was quickly on the spot waiting for the whale to rise again, and the four other boats scattered up and down the edge of the pack. They were from half a mile to a mile and a half from the vessel, but with the long glass every move could be distinctly observed. Minutes seemed hours, when, most unexpectedly, the monster rose and spouted almost within a ship's length from the second mate's boat. In an instant there was a grand spectacle. Jose's great physique loomed up in the stern of the boat as he manipulated the long steering oar, while in the head of the boat was equally as fine a physique in the person of the Scandinavian boat steerer, harpoon in hand, watching his chance. The boat made a beautiful spurt, such a spurt as only a whaleboat can make in an emergency like this, and in an instant the harpoon had been sent on its deadly errand. The excitement, splashing and shouting which followed cannot be described. The whale—an immense one of perhaps one hundred and twenty barrels in size—was in the agonies of death, churning up the ocean most vigorously. Amidst all the din stood Mr. Jose, with his feet on the thwarts of the boat, working for dear life to escape the lashings of the whale's flukes. His deep, penetrating voice rolled in volumes over the water: "Kill him dead!" "Kill him dead!" "Kill him dead!" They did "kill him dead," but not until after the whale was lost far into the pack where the boats could not reach him.

Jolly, independent and irresponsible as sailors are, there are times when they are exceedingly thoughtful. Shortly before we sailed from San Francisco a sister whaler had passed through the Golden Gate, encountered a head wind and opposing tides, and had been swept irresistibly to destruction, with twenty-two lives lost. We passed through the Golden Gate under somewhat similar circumstances. Head winds delayed us until the incoming of the tide, but by skillful seamanship we kept off, and on the third day passed out of sight of land.

But a whaleship is a lively, bustling, excited community when a whale has just been caught. Immediately after a whale is killed it is "cut-in." The blubber is stripped off in "blanket pieces" and stowed away in the blubber room, while the head—the upper jaws, so to speak—which contains the whalebone is hoisted on deck, and the whalebone is carefully removed. Unless whaling is so brisk that the services of the whole crew are required, trypots are fired up and trying out begun. The [illegible] of this process is beyond the conception of one who has not smelled it. One or two men are tolled off into the blubber room to cut the blanket pieces into the more conveniently-handled "horse pieces." Oil oozes out of the blubber, smearing the men from head to foot, until they wallow about in several inches of grease. In stress of weather, when the ship is pitching and rolling, the men in the blubber room are frequently thrown over on their greasy foothold and rolled about in the horrible stuff.

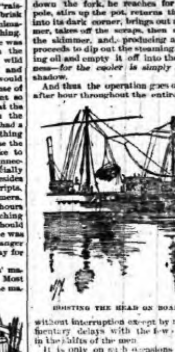


AN IMPISH FIGURE MINCING HORSE PIECES.

On deck other men "mince" the horse pieces, still others tend the trypots, the oil press and the coolers, while the cooper sets up and "flags" the casks ready to stow the oil down in the hold. And so the work in all its phases goes merrily on in a sea of grease everywhere. From one end of the ship to the other there is grease. But, the boiling once over, the ship is washed with strong lye, and made as clean as when her keel first cut the water. During the daytime trying out is dirty and disgusting work. But at night time there is an entire change. Hanging near the trypots is the "bug-light," a wire basket of about a bushel capacity. This is filled with the "scraps," that have been skimmed from the pots and squeezed in the press, but which still contain considerable oil, and which burn with a vigor that would discount a torch of pitch. This is the only light. Not unfrequently the "bug-light" of another whaler will be seen glimmering brightly through the darkness, while not an outline of the vessel is visible.

As we watch operations under this light we see the men moving about the deck like dark characterless phantoms. In the foreground are two seething pots, each with its roaring fire of scraps. A figure—made impish by the contending glows of the fire and the bug-light and by the steaming, seething oil—tends each fire. With a long-handled fork he reaches out into the empty darkness, picks up a shapeless mass and drops it into the pot. Laying down the fork, he reaches for a long pole, stirs up the pot, returns the pole into its dark corner, brings out a skimmer, takes off the scraps, then returns the skimmer, and, producing a ladle, proceeds to dip out the steaming, seething oil and empty it off into the darkness—for the cooler is simply a deep shadow.

And thus the operation goes on hour after hour throughout the entire night without interruption except by the momentary delays with the few changes in the shifts of the men.



HOISTING THE HEAD ON BOARD.

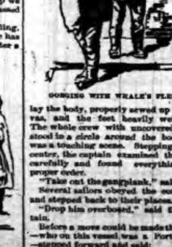
It is only on such occasions as this that the full charm and fascination of whaling can be appreciated. More stories may be "swapped" and more yarns spun during "the first dog-watch" when the starboard and port watches are together and all hands are on deck. But under the glow of the bug-light with the excitement of the successful chase fresh in mind, or every incident at hand to recall past experiences, there is an interchange of yarns that brings out all the picturesqueness of the whaleman's life. The bug-light casts a spell over everything. It gives marvelous elasticity to stories that have already been told during the dog-watch. It extends the imagination and lubricates the yarn-spinning tendencies of the sailors. It obliterates the lines between the possible and the impossible. And, most of all, it breeds good nature. All hands talk for the sake of talking rather than in the expectation of being listened to.

No mention of whaling in the Arctic regions is complete without touching upon the part the Esquimaux play in it. Many vessels ship two or three natives for the season as sailors and pay them partially in blubber. Many of these men have come to expect the flukes of a whale as a perquisite, and such a perquisite is of great value, since it represents food enough for one family for a considerable portion of the winter. Returning from the Arctic we stopped in Behring straits to land our three men. Each one had his perquisite, and the whole settlement turned out to help land them. Our vessel was "full." Not a gallon of oil-carrying capacity was left, and in the blubber room were two tons or more of blubber that had not been boiled out. This, too, we gave to the natives, and a God-send it was, for they were about entering upon the winter season with a short supply of food. The blubber was already in horse pieces. Two natives went down into the blubber room to heave the pieces on deck. Two men on deck threw the pieces over the rails into canoes; and a man in each canoe stowed them away to the best advantage.

As the first canoe load approached shore it was received with a shout of joy from the whole settlement. Men, women and children rushed to relieve the canoe of its load. Several of them dashed into the water up to their waists, seized the canoe and, with a shout and a heave, landed it high and dry on the beach. With the landing of the first canoe load the natives seized the blubber food and the following loads were permitted to land as best they could.

Six hours later, when we hove anchor, part of the people were still gorging themselves, while the rest, already gorged, were sleeping stupidly.

On long whaling cruises one or more deaths are liable to occur. We lost a man while at anchor under East Cape, Siberia. He was a Scandinavian and could scarcely understand a word of English. The mate announced his death as the captain and I were sitting in the cabin one afternoon. Orders were given to remove all the man's things from the forecastle and prepare him for burial. When everything was in readiness we went on deck. There lay the body, properly sewed up in canvas, and the feet heavily weighted. The whole crew with uncovered heads stood in a circle around the body. It was a touching scene. Stepping to the center, the captain examined the body carefully and found everything in proper order.



GORGING WITH WHALE'S FLESH.

"Take out the gangplank," said he.

Several sailors obeyed the command and stepped back to their places.

"Drop him overboard," said the captain.

Before a move could be made the mate—who on this vessel was a Portuguese—stepped forward and said:

"Capt. Sherman, you no read Bible?"

"No, I guess not," replied the captain. "He's dead and couldn't hear what I read. Besides, he was Dutch and couldn't understand English."

"Oh," said the mate, "me think you ought read Bible." And with the captain's permission he went to his stateroom, got his Bible and read a chapter in Portuguese over the dead Scandinavian.

One of the [illegible] of life at sea has been the use of grog. Formerly liquor was thought to be necessary for men in the Arctic, but experience has proved it to be harmful instead of beneficial, and only in cases of great distress is it now used. Strong coffee has taken its place, and in every whaler during times of great exposure or unusual fatigue, strong, hot coffee is always at hand, grog never. HERBERT L. ALDRICH.

The Shopping Instinct.

The Young Lady (in the confectioner's store)—And your caramels are forty cents a pound?

The Clerk—Yessum.

The Young Lady—That's eighty cents for two pounds?

Clerk—Yessum.

The Young Lady—And about two dollars for a five-pound box?

Clerk—Yessum.

The Young Lady—Well, let me have five cents' worth, in a hurry, please.—Chicago News Record.

A Good Little Boy.

Mr. Nicefello—You are the best little boy I ever saw.

Little Boy—Am I?

Mr. Nicefello—Yes. As long as I've been calling to see your sister you have never tried to play any mean tricks on us.

Little Boy—No, indeedy. Sister 'ud half kill me if I did.—Good News.

Of One Mind.

Young De Bore (hunting for something to say)—I wish I had lived in the knightly days of old.

Weary Beauty—So do I.—N. Y. Weekly.

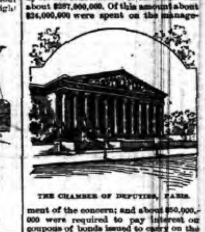
THE PANAMA SUSPECTS.

Some of the Men Indicted by the French Courts.

Interesting Figures Submitted by the Government Accountant — Dr. Cornelius Herz, the Bete Noire of French Politicians—M. Eiffel's Bad Showing.

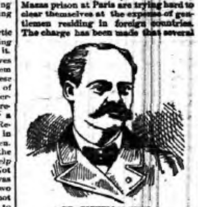
[Special Letter.]

M. Flory, the expert accountant employed by the French government to examine the books of the ill-fated Panama Canal company, has just submitted a report to the parliamentary committee in charge of the scandal. From his statement it appears that the total amount subscribed and paid the company for the construction of the canal was about $287,000,000. Of this amount about $24,000,000 were spent on the management of the concern; and about $50,000,000 were required to pay interest on coupons of bonds issued to carry on the work of construction. The amount actually expended on the canal itself was not more than $110,000,000. The balance of the money paid in by the shopkeepers and small capitalists of France was pocketed by the directors or spent for the purpose of securing the support of the venal press of Paris and buying up members of the chamber of deputies and the senate. The total amount paid to the workmen engaged in the actual construction of the canal was, according to M. Flory, about $21,400,000. One-fifth of the work as originally contemplated was completed when the bubble exploded, and it is therefore safe to say that, had the canal company's affairs been managed honestly, the waterway would now be open to vessels of all nations. Certainly the sum paid in by the stockholders would have been sufficient to make old de Lesseps' project a complete success.



THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES, PARIS.

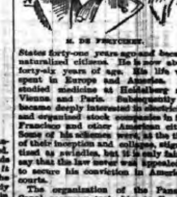
Some of the French legislators and ex-ministers now imprisoned in the Mazas prison at Paris are trying hard to clear themselves at the expense of gentlemen residing in foreign countries. The charge has been made that several millions of the Panama corruption fund found their way to the United States. The accusation was made in so sensational a manner that congress had to notice it, and upon motion of a New York representative in the house a committee has already been appointed to investigate the American end of the French sensation.



DR. CORNELIUS HERZ.

But if the statements of M. Baihut, ex-minister of public works, are to be believed, the arch-conspirator in the Panama frauds was Dr. Cornelius Herz, a cosmopolitan adventurer known in all parts of the civilized world. The doctor was promptly indicted by the Parisian courts when his connection with the score or more of discredited French statesmen became known, and he will no doubt make a fierce fight against the extradition proceedings instituted by the French government. When the air began to be heavy with rumors of official dishonesty the clever doctor left Paris and sought refuge in England, where he is now living with his family.

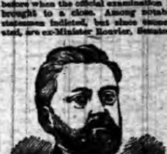
Dr. Herz is one of the unique characters of the nineteenth century. He was born at Besancon, in eastern France, of German parents. His father and mother established themselves in the United States forty-one years ago and became naturalized citizens. He is now about forty-six years of age. His life was spent in Europe and America. He studied medicine at Heidelberg and Vienna and Paris. Subsequently he became deeply interested in electricity, and organized stock companies in San Francisco and other American cities. Some of his schemes were, at the time of their inception and collapse, stigmatized as swindles, but it is only fair to say that the law never was appealed to to secure his conviction in American courts.



M. DE FREYCINET.

The organization of the Panama Canal company took him to France. He became the confidential adviser of Baron de Reinach, the famous financier whose sudden death a few months ago startled the world. When the canal company stood in need of government support Dr. Herz became the chief briber of the enterprise. His mission, according to fairly good authority, was to win over to the schemes proposed by Reinach and his colleagues cabinet ministers, senators, deputies and persons of large influence in every walk of life. He is supposed to have handled enormous sums of money and to have saved no less than $2,000,000 out of the corruption fund for private purposes. The indictment returned against him in Paris, under which he was arrested in England, specified [illegible] obtained by him from Charles de Lesseps and [illegible] from Baron de Reinach. His [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] by the latest [illegible] inflicted on him by the angry Parisians.

When the average Frenchman becomes suspicious he is hardly to be endured. Popular sentiment—the most uncertain thing in the world—was turned in a single hour against anything and anybody connected with Dr. Herz in the remotest way. Statesmen who labored for years to make the French republic respected at home and abroad were dethroned and vilified. Even so eminent a man as M. de Freycinet, who had served his country with almost incredible devotion since the overthrow of the Napoleonic dynasty, was swept aside by the senseless thirst for revenge and sensation. The only charge against him was a superficial acquaintance with Dr. Herz, the bete noire of French politics. Others shared a similar fate, but it is to be presumed that they, as well as M. de Freycinet, will stand in a brighter light than ever before when the official examination is brought to a close. Among notable statesmen indicted, but since exonerated, are ex-Minister Rouvier, Senators Grevy, Beral, Dives, Renault and Deputies Fanconnis and Proust.



M. ALEXANDRE GUSTAVE EIFFEL.

Americans were pained to hear that M. Alexandre Gustave Eiffel, the famous French engineer with a German name, could not face the juge d' instruction without compromising himself. If the cable is to be trusted, M. Eiffel has made the admission that his connection with the Panama company's affairs netted him the enormous amount of $6,000,000. M. Eiffel, who is known everywhere as the designer of the famed iron tower bearing his name, was born in Dijon in 1832. He has long been regarded as one of the most skillful of living engineers, and has performed many tasks more important than the tower whose construction gave him international fame. He was the first to introduce into France caissons worked with compressed air. Among his principal works are the large iron bridge over the Garonne, at Bordeaux; the bridge over the Douro, at Oporto; the great viaduct at Garabit, in Cantal; that over the Tardes, near Montluçon, and the wonderful revolving cupola of the Nice observatory. M. Eiffel has always been considered a bon vivant, and his sense of honor seems to have become blighted by constant association with men without principle.

THE MAZAS PRISON.

Charles de Lesseps is the squealer of the Panama conspiracy. Upon his testimony a number of eminent men have been arrested and incarcerated with him in the Mazas prison, an institution familiar to all readers of French detective literature.

The Mazas prison is a house of detention. In it are located the offices of the judge d' instruction, an official who is a mixture of prosecuting attorney and grand inquisitor. The examining magistrate in the Panama investigation is M. Franqueville, one of the shrewdest handlers of high-toned criminals in Europe. The powers of this officer are almost unlimited. He can cite persons suspected of crimes to appear before him at all hours of the day and night. He can harass prisoners without fear of comment or criticism, confront them with evidences of their guilt, fatigue and frighten them, and wring from them admissions of guilt which can be used in the jury trial against the suspect. M. Franqueville has treated the Panama suspects with great rigor. Social and political influences have had no effect on the incorruptible magistrate, whose sole ambition seems to be the ultimate conviction of the guilty parties.

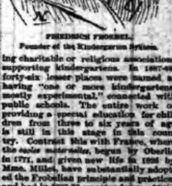
No one can tell where and when the Panama exposure will end. President Carnot and his cabinet seem determined to let no one escape. It has been insinuated by anti-republican leaders that the president himself is implicated in the corruption, but his prompt actions have given the lie to the flimsy charge.

G. W. WEIPPIERT.

THE KINDERGARTEN.

A Movement Unrivaled in the History of National Education.

Of the sixteen American cities with a population of over 200,000 in 1890, only four—Philadelphia, Boston, Milwaukee and St. Louis—have incorporated the kindergarten on any large scale in their public-school systems, writes Talcott Williams in the Century. Four more—New York, Chicago, Brooklyn and Buffalo—have kindergarten associations organized to introduce the new method as a part of free public education. In San Francisco kindergartens are maintained with no apparent expectation of uniting them to the free school system. Only Baltimore, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit, among the seven cities left—the other three being Pittsburgh, Washington and New Orleans—are returned as having charitable or religious associations supporting kindergartens. In 1887-88, forty-six lesser places were named as having "one or more kindergartens, mostly experimental," connected with public schools. The entire work of providing a special education for children from three to six years of age is still in this stage in this country. Contrast this with France, where the ecoles maternelles, begun by Oberlin in 1771, and given new life in 1826 by Mme. Millet, have substantially adopted the Frobelian principle and practice, and had in 1887-88 an attendance of 741,224 between the ages of three and six in a population only two-thirds that of the United States, and having a far smaller proportion of young children.



FRIEDRICH FROEBEL.

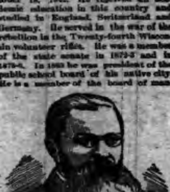
Founder of the Kindergarten System.

Compared, however, with like movements to secure the education of a class, or the adoption of a new system of teaching, the kindergarten movement may fairly be considered unrivaled in the history of national education. "The good Lord could not be everywhere, therefore He made mothers," said the Jewish rabbi, familiar with the type of Jewish motherhood which in its supreme manifestation at Nazareth has transfigured the office, estimate and influence of womanhood throughout the civilized world. The cause of these schools, rounding out the work and supplementing the responsibility of mothers, rich or poor, has appealed to the maternal instinct of women, whose [illegible] has [illegible]. [illegible] have led it, supported its schools, officered its associations and urged its agitation. The same work remains to be done throughout the land. There is not a city, a village or a hamlet which will not be the better for a kindergarten association. Experience has amply proved that these schools will never be introduced or established save by self-sacrificing pressure. Difficulties have vanished. Teachers have multiplied. Expenses have been reduced. There is needed only the personal effort indispensable for general success and universal adoption.

VILAS' COLLEAGUE.

Hon. John L. Mitchell, Wisconsin's Senator-Elect.

John Lendrum Mitchell, recently elected senator by the legislature of Wisconsin, was born in Milwaukee October 19, 1842. He received an academic education in this country and studied in England, Switzerland and Germany. He served in the war of the rebellion in the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin volunteer rifles. He was a member of the state senate in 1872-3 and in 1875-6. In 1880 he was president of the public school board of his native city. He is a member of the board of managers of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers, president of the Wisconsin Fire and Marine bank, of Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Gas company. He is also interested in agricultural pursuits. Mr. Mitchell was elected to the Fifty-second congress as a democrat. He has been twice married and has five children. His fortune, chiefly inherited from his father, Alexander Mitchell, is estimated at more than $5,000,000.



HON. JOHN L. MITCHELL.

House Heated by Sunshine.

Prof. Morse, of Salem, Mass., has solved the problem of house heating in a curious fashion. He has built a house with all its rooms fronting southward, and only a passage on the north. Almost the whole southern front of the house is made of glass, and by means of reflectors Prof. Morse is enabled on sunny days to heat his whole house with sunshine alone. At night and on cloudy days he has hearth fires going. He believes that by this contrivance he has the most wholesome heat that is attainable.

He Was Pushing On.

Fond Mother—Well, Harold, how are you succeeding at college?

Harold—The professor says I'm getting up in figures.

"Indeed?"

"Yes; I used to be seventh in my class, and now I stand sixteenth. I'm pushing on."—Texas Siftings.

Quite a Relief.

Husband—What do you do when you hit your thumb with a hammer? You can't swear.

Wife—No, but I can think, with all my might and main, what a perfectly horrid, mean, inconsiderate, selfish brute you are not to drive the nails yourself.—N. Y. Weekly.

He Had Several.

The Voice from the Telephone—Is this Mr. Titters?

Titters—Yes; who are you?

The Voice from the Telephone (sweetly)—Your fiancee, love.

Titters—Er—can't you be a little more explicit?—Chicago News Record.

Realism.

Little Ethel—Mamma, Mrs. Nexdoor's children are playin' house in their yard. Mayn't we play house in ours?

Mamma—Certainly.

Little Ethel—That'll be just lovely. Then we can quarrel over the back fence, just like real neighbors.—Good News.

[illegible] Again.

Station-master—What are you sitting here for? You've been around the station for three days.

Uncle Silas—I loaned a man four dollars in here las' Tuesday an' he tol' me to sit here until he brought it back.—Judge.

A List of Calamities.

"This bell," said a well-meaning sexton, when showing the belfry of an interesting village church to a party of visitors, "is only rung in case of a visit from the lord bishop of the diocese, a fire, a flood, or any other such calamities."—Demorest's Magazine.

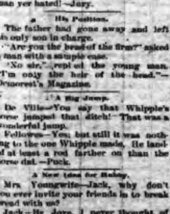
What Hurt Him.

Doctor—You mustn't stay out late at night.

Patient (a married man)—Is the night air bad for me?

Doctor—No, it's the excitement after getting home that hurts you.—Town Topics.

GOOD REASON WHY.



Stout Party—Why, why, I'm astonished to see a young man of your size crying like that!

Young Man—I guess you'd cry too, if you'd a' loved as I have, and then a' had your best girl took from you by a man yer hated!—Jury.

His Position.

The father had gone away and left his only son in charge.

"Are you the head of the firm?" asked a man with a sample case.

"No sir," replied the young man. "I'm only the heir of the head."—Demorest's Magazine.

A Big Jump.

De Ville—You say that Whipple's horse jumped that ditch! That was a wonderful jump.

Fellowes—Yes; but still it was nothing to the one Whipple made. He landed at least a rod farther on than the horse did.—Puck.

A New Idea for Hubby.

Mrs. Youngwife—Jack, why don't you ever invite your friends in to break bread with us?

Jack—By Jove, I never thought of getting rid of it that way.—N. Y. [illegible]

Conscientiously Correct.

"If I were you, Jones, I wouldn't be a fool," said Robinson, during an argument.

"You are right; if you were I you wouldn't be a fool," replied the latter.—Life.

Two Strings to Their Bows.

"There's an editor down south who is also a plumber."

"That's nothing. Most all of the northern editors since the election have become cabinet makers."—Truth.

A Chance to Rise.

Butcher—I need a boy about your size, and will give you three dollars a week.

Applicant—Will I have a chance to rise?

"Yes. I want you to be here at four o'clock every morning."—Life.

Not Unheralded.

First [illegible]—Did the town authorities take any appropriate action on the death of Scruggs the millionaire?

Second [illegible]—Yes, they had the fire bell rung while the funeral was going on.—Judge.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTI[illegible] [illegible]TH OVER 12,00[illegible] SUBSCRIBERS—P[illegible] [illegible] FIRE AND BUNGLA[illegible] [illegible]INFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—40 North Avenue.

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Albion Hotel, The	Park av and 4th st
Ames, C J	22 Crescent ave.
Al[illegible] Hose Co. No 1	Madison ave.
Ackerman, Mrs. J. R.	20 West 7th street
Adams, Dr D C	16 Grove st
Berkeley, F W	Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac H	Bound Brook
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts.
Bartholow & Dunn	12 North ave.
Boone, W. C., M. D.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 8th st.
Bonhower J E	Park av and 3d st
Berg, Jos F, M D	10 E 6th st
Board of Education—6th st, 5th and Union sts
Booth, B H	28 Madison ave
	8th & Liberty, 8th & Monroe
Clark, E B	3 Waywood place
Children's Home	Jackson ave.
Clawson, Joseph T	Richmond and Front sts.
Constitutionalist Office	1 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves.
Cox, Rowland	Seventh st
[illegible], Mrs F A	9 Third Place
Cruikshank, E A	132 Carlton avenue
[illegible], J H, M D	40 Somerset st
Chase, B F M	Somerset st
Central Pharmacy, (J H Leggett, Mgr)	Park ave and Front st
Daily Press	3 North ave.
Depew, Mrs. E H	10 Crescent ave.
Day, Frank	66 W. Fourth st.
Davis, Dr T S	Cor 5th st & Park av
Day, B M	Rockview ave
[illegible], P M	27 Park av
Dumont, John B	[illegible] E 7th st
Decker, T—pay station	Westfield, N J
DeGraff, James	22 E 9th st
Doane, T O—Chief P F D	40 W 8th st
Dollner, S L	131 Madison av
Davis & Stevens, coal and wood	Office W Front
Endicott, Dr Geo W	Park av. and 4th st.
Evening News, T.W. Morrison, Editor	7 Som't st.
Engine No 1	West 3d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Somerset st.
Evans, Geo C	27 Washington ave
Fisk, Chas. J	28 West Seventh St
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Freight House	C. RR. Depot
French, F M & Sons	Somerset st.
Fritts, Dr J T	72 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard	20 Park avenue
Fisk, Pliny	4 W 7th st
French, O Frank	66 Somerset st
Grant Geo W, Chief of Police	26 W 6th st
Goddard, C M	17 Third Place.
[illegible], A W	12 E Front st.
Gaston, M. D., W F	8th and New sts
Gilbert, A	Cor Central av & 8th st
Howell & Hardy	North Avenue
Heyniger, L	21 & 23 Somerset street.
Hegeman, B. A	107 Sycamore avenue.
Hedges, Dr. Ellis W	49 East Front st.
Hyde, Chas.	141 Front street.
Hedden Albert	4th st. near Park ave.
Higgins, M. A.	76 East 4th st—26 North ave
Hatfield, John H	204 South 2d st—21 Park av
Harder, Francis C.	123 Madison av
[illegible], C	Netherwood
Hoagland's City Express	39 North av
Jenkins, Dr. C. L	56 W. Front st.
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Kirkner, J	8th and Division sts.
Kaufman, W T	44 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 9th st,
Lovell, L. N.	Crescent ave
Lord, Wm A	Belvidere av
Loomis & [illegible]	[illegible] Broadway
Laire, J P & Co	3 W Front st
Linke, Frank	43 W Front st
Lounsberry, F C	[illegible]
Myers, J K	[illegible] 7th st
[illegible], Henry A	Willow ave
[illegible], James	Willow ave.
Miller, J G	10 E. Front st.
Moore, Geo. A	30 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	South ave.
Murray, Dr. Wm. B.	107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas	49 Grove st
Milliken, B F	120 Central av
Morrison, T W	11 Somerset st
MacDonald, J F	46 E Front st
Myers, Lawrence	E. Front st
Netherwood Hotel	Netherwood.
[illegible], Henry B	10 E 7th st.
N J Postal Tel Co	4 Park ave
Penton, Jr., Thos B	Rockview ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co	49 East Fourth St
Plainfield Electric Light Co	Madison avenue
Plainfield Beef Co	3d and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office	3 Park ave
Police Station	Park ave and RR.
Potter C Jr	7th and Division sts.
Potter Press Works	South ave
[illegible], Dr J B	41 Front st.
Perkins, Edward C	Central ave. and 9th st
Pope & Co. J. C	4 East Front st
[illegible] Thomas	136 Central av
Pond Mach Tool Co	Boulevard below Grant av
[illegible] Hardware Co	42 W Front st
Runyon, F W	1 Front st—Central [illegible]
[illegible]	27 Myrtle ave
Randolph, Henry C	Broadway
[illegible], L A	30 Broadway
Reynolds, H F	Park and North ave.
Reynolds, H F	Washington avenue
Roberts, D S	11 North avenue.
Rockfellow, Geo W	Park and North ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	Park ave.
Runyon, A M & Son	46 Madison ave
Rushmore, Dr Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st
Roome, Mrs J	Cor. Mercer & Sycamore aves.
[illegible], H. G	[illegible] st
Runyon, Chas W	Park ave
Rice, E. W. & Co	7th cor. Emily and Duer sts.
Randolph, L W	Front st
[illegible], D W	42 W 4th st
Rogers, S F Jr	39 Westervelt ave
Stover, H W	20 East 5th st
Serrell, Lemuel W	Front st. and Plainfield ave
[illegible], C J	40 Front street.
Shaw, E J	Front st. opp. Park ave.
Streuli, A S	Prospect ave.
Smith, W P	Belvidere av., Netherwood
Shephard, A D	Fanwood
Smith, Jas A	13 W Front st
Scott, Wolcott & Co	South ave
Smith, Chas A	Spring st., Westfield, N J
Stelle, Irving G	Sixth st
Terrill & Cole	16 E F[illegible] st
Thompson, A. D.	29-31 North av
Talmage, Henry P (Res)	Netherwood.
Thickstun, Jno A	Madison av
Titsworth, Jos M	39 W. 7th st.
Tomlinson, Dr T H	La Grande and E B'dwy
Tolles & [illegible]	51 North av
Tracy, J Evarts	8th and Division st
Thorn, Alex	27 Somerset st
Tweedy, O. B.	11 Crescent avenue
Townsend, Samuel	92 Rockview av
Thompson, A D	Prospect ave
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Thorn, E	16 W Front st
United States Express Co	5 North ave
Union Co Country Club	Cor 7th st & Arlington
Van Sickle W. J	10 North ave
Wharton, Clifton	17 Central av
[illegible], G	West Seventh street
Wadsworth, W B	8th and Liberty sts
Western Union Telegraph Company	at Depot
[illegible], J F	W 8th st., near Grand ave
[illegible], E, Ass't Chief	3d st near Washington
Westfield, pay station	Westfield, N J
[illegible] O B	145 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J	[illegible]	Hempstead N Y	[illegible]
Astoria, N Y	[illegible]	Hoboken N J	[illegible]
Babylon, N Y	[illegible]	Hunter's Point N Y	[illegible]
Bath, N Y	[illegible]	Irvington N J	[illegible]
Bayonne N J	[illegible]	Islip N Y	[illegible]
Bergen Point N J	[illegible]	Jamaica N Y	[illegible]
Bayside N Y	[illegible]	Jersey City N J	[illegible]
Bay Shore N Y	[illegible]	Keyport N J	[illegible]
[illegible] N Y	[illegible]	Kingston N J	[illegible]
Belleville N J	[illegible]	Laurel Hill N Y	[illegible]
Blauvelt N Y	[illegible]	Leonia N J	[illegible]
Bloomfield N J	[illegible]	Little Neck N Y	[illegible]
Bloomingdale N J	[illegible]	Little Silver N J	[illegible]
Boonton N J	[illegible]	Long Branch N J	[illegible]
Brooklyn N Y	[illegible]	Madison N J	[illegible]
Caldwell N J	[illegible]	Matawan N J	[illegible]
Carlstadt N J	[illegible]	Millburn N J	[illegible]
Centreville N J	[illegible]	Montclair N J	[illegible]
Chatham N J	[illegible]	Morristown N J	[illegible]
Chester N J	[illegible]	Newark N J	[illegible]
Colt's Neck N J	[illegible]	New Brunswick N J	[illegible]
Coney Island N Y	[illegible]	Newtown N Y	[illegible]
Cranford N J	[illegible]	New York N Y	[illegible]
Dover N J	[illegible]	Orange N J	[illegible]
East Norwich N Y	[illegible]	Paramus N J	[illegible]
[illegible] N J	[illegible]	Passaic N J	[illegible]
Elizabeth N J	[illegible]	Paterson N J	[illegible]
Englewood N J	[illegible]	Perth Amboy N J	[illegible]
Fairview N J	[illegible]	Rahway N J	[illegible]
Fanwood N J	[illegible]	Red Bank N J	[illegible]
Far Rockaway N Y	[illegible]	Seabright N J	[illegible]
Flatbush N Y	[illegible]	Short Hills N J	[illegible]
Flushing N Y	[illegible]	South Amboy N J	[illegible]
Fort Lee N J	[illegible]	South River N J	[illegible]
Franklin Park N J	[illegible]	Staten Island N Y	[illegible]
Freehold N J	[illegible]	Westfield N J	[illegible]
German Settlem't N Y	[illegible]	Woodbridge N J	[illegible]
Glen Cove N Y	[illegible]	Yonkers N Y	[illegible]
Gravesend N Y	[illegible]	Trenton N J	[illegible]
Hackensack N J	[illegible]	Tarrytown N Y	[illegible]

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, 3 doors above [illegible]

MR. JOHN E. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to shoeing Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredible short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Park Avenue and Park avenue.
First-Class Livery.
[illegible] Furnished for Weddings or [illegible]
[illegible]

OUR COTTAGE HOMES.

Story-and-a-Half House for Fourteen Hundred Dollars.

Artistic in Conception and Remarkably Neat in Appearance—Arrangement of the Rooms—Material to Be Used in Construction.

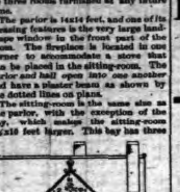
[Special Architectural Letter.]

This very complete story-and-a-half house will cost $1,400 built upon a stone foundation. It contains six rooms, pantry, bathroom, closets and front hall.

There is a stairway leading from the kitchen to the attic, where there can be three rooms furnished at any future time.

The parlor is 14x14 feet, and one of its pleasing features is the very large landscape window in the front part of the room. The fireplace is located in one corner to accommodate a stove that can be placed in the sitting-room. The parlor and hall open into one another and have a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on plans.

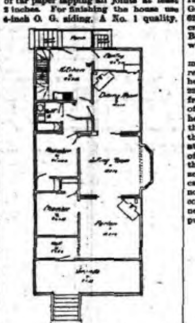
The sitting-room is the same size as the parlor, with the exception of the bay, which makes the sitting-room 3½x10 feet larger. This bay has three windows, the center being a large landscape window. Along the front of this bay there is a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on the plan. The sitting-room is separated from the parlor and from the dining-room by sliding doors. The dining-room is 10x14 and is provided with a fireplace and china-closet, the china-closet having drawers that push and pull both ways into the dining-room and into the pantry.



$1,400 RESIDENCE.

The front chamber off the parlor is 9½x10 feet, and the chamber off the sitting-room is 9½x10½ feet. Both chambers are provided with closets, and from the middle chamber one can go to the bathroom without passing through other rooms. The kitchen is 9½x12 feet and has doors leading to rear hall, cellar, attic, rear porch and to pantry, which is 4½x10 feet. The toilet room is 5½x7 feet, and will have fixtures as shown by plan. The rear porch is 4x7 feet, front hall 4x9½ and front veranda 8x23. The front hall floor will be red oak; kitchen floor, maple; pantry, maple; toilet and rear hall floors, red oak. The trim throughout the house will be of a neat block and plain 4-inch face casing. The wood will be Georgia pine, freed from defects of any kind. The veranda floor will be double, with tar paper between, using tongued and grooved flooring 4 inches face, leading all grooves before driving together. All doors will be solid. All glass used will be American, double strength, except in the front door, which will be beveled plate. Each closet will be provided with at least three shelves and strips for hooks. The sink in kitchen will be of gray enamel.

The entire exterior of this house will be sheathed with matched flooring, B quality, over which lay one thickness of tar paper lapping all joints at least 2 inches. For finishing the house use 4-inch O. G. siding, A No. 1 quality.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN

Use extra Star A Star shingles for the roof, and for the gables use red wood, round-butt dimension shingles.

The apex of gables will be ornamented with composition carving. Execute all tin work in the best way possible, such as tin work valleys, gutters, hips, chimneys, windows, etc.

The height of the first story ceiling will be 10 feet in the clear, and of the basement 7 feet. Studding 2x4 16 inches on centers; rafters, 2x6; ridge rafters, 2x10; valley rafters, 2x8; wall plates, 2x12; beam through center of house, 8x10; resting upon 12x12 brick piers. The chimneys will be built from the basement up, and where they show above the roof they will be laid with pressed brick, red, and capped with a smooth stone. The fireplaces will be provided with ash chutes and ash pits. The entire first floor will be plastered two coats.

The first floor will be double with tar paper between. The attic floor will be single, five-inch matched face. The basement wall be of rubble sixteen inches thick, laid in good cement mortar, with joints raked and properly tuck pointed; and when mason work goes below the ground the exterior side of the wall must be cemented with good hard cement.

The hall and parlor ceilings will look well tinted or painted a light blue, above the picture molding to the ceiling a dark peacock blue, and below the picture molding down to the base the color should be at least six shades lighter and of the same color as the frieze.

This same treatment will hold good throughout the sitting and dining rooms with the exception of the color.

The parlor being blue, the sitting room should be a pink and mauve, while the dining room could be light yellow and old gold shades.

The exterior should be painted 3 coats, finishing coat for the body of the house white and for trimmings gray. It would be well for the owner to see that this last coat contained a certain amount of ordinary varnish as it will give the finish a luster not often seen and very desirable to look upon. The shingles will look well coated with creosote stain a dark red or a blue slate color.

This house will be piped for gas and will be wired for an electric bell leading from the front door to the kitchen.

The above price does not include the finishing of the attic or the basement, walks, fence, art glass, bathroom fixtures, shelf hardware, mantels, decorations or shades. GEORGE A. W. KINTZ.

BOIT AND GAY-LUSSAC.

Curious Experiments in High Air Conducted a Century Ago.

Nearly 100 years ago, in 1804, M. Boit and Gay-Lussac, the pioneer balloonists, conducted the most remarkable series of high-air experiments ever known. Although ballooning was in its infancy at the time, the facts proven by those intrepid navigators of the air have been of inestimable value to all later investigators. They took domestic animals and birds of various kinds along with them for the purpose of taking notes on the effect which the extreme cold and rarified air would have on such creatures. They were also well [illegible] with various scientific [illegible] and other suitable paraphernalia. The first experimental ascension carried them and their cargo to a height of 13,000 feet. At 8,000 feet the animals and birds seemed to all be in normal condition; at 10,000 all were breathing very rapidly. When the barometer showed that a height of 11,000 feet had been attained a pigeon was liberated, or, rather, thrown from the basket, for it fell like a lump of lead, being utterly unable to flap a wing on account of the rarified state of the air at that altitude. Gay-Lussac had a normal pulse beat of 62 per minute; at 11,000 feet this had increased to 80. When on terra firma Boit's beat at 79 per minute and 111 when the 11,000-foot level was reached.

During the same season Gay-Lussac made an ascension alone, in which he reached a height twice that from which he dropped the pigeon, or about an even 22,000 feet. This ascension was made from one of the many pleasure resorts of Paris in the heat of summer. When he quitted the earth the Fahrenheit thermometer registered 86 degrees in the shade; within an hour he was in an atmosphere that only showed a pressure of 12 inches on his barometer, while the thermometer marked 18 degrees below zero! The lack of atmospheric pressure caused the blood to flow from his eyes, nose, mouth and ears, and the extreme cold gave him a rigor from which he never fully recovered.—St. Louis Republic.

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Pure Wines and Liquors,
For Family and Medicinal Use,
A SPECIALTY.
3-26-3

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kinchelog, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

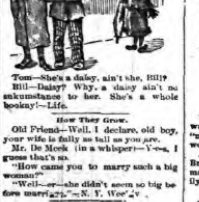
"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary, Boston, Mass.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Undesirable.

They met beneath the mistletoe,
And yet no kiss was taken then.
The reason you would like to know?
It was because they both were men!
—Judge.

ELEGANCE AND FORCE.



Tom—She's a daisy, ain't she, Bill?

Bill—Daisy? Why, a daisy ain't no sukumstance to her. She's a whole booky!—Life.

How They Grow.

Old Friend—Well, I declare, old boy, your wife is fully as tall as you are.

Mr. De Meek (in a whisper)—Y-e-s, I guess that's so.

"How came you to marry such a big woman?"

"Well—er—she didn't seem so big before marriage."—N. Y. Weekly.

Unselfish.

Sweet Girl—Is your love for me absolutely unselfish?

Adorer—Absolutely.

Sweet Girl—Then I wish you'd go somewhere else to-night. Jack Hansom promised to call.—N. Y. Weekly.

Even More Necessary.

Indulgent Papa—Why, my dear, you had a party last month. How often do you wish to entertain your friends?

She—This one is not to entertain my friends, papa, but to snub my enemies.—Brooklyn Life.

A Reasonable Objection.

Boarder—We are raising a subscription to get a rocking chair for that poor boarder. Won't you give something?

Landlady—Not much. His room is right over mine.—Texas Siftings.

Fountain of Youth.

Lady—Is that blind woman really so old? Why, she hasn't a wrinkle.

Asylum Attendant—No, mum. She's never been able to see what fine clothes other women has.—N. Y. Weekly.

Had Him There.

A rather seedy-looking individual, one of the large army who live on their wits, was working the smaller towns of the Fort Worth and Denver city railway as a phrenologist and was waiting at the depot for his train to come. He was walking up and down the platform with his plaster cast head in a bag under his arm. A young farmer who had been making fun of him said sotto voce:

"I don't have to make my living by carrying a plaster head under my arm."

"No," replied the seedy phrenologist; "you carry your plaster head on your shoulders."—Judge.

Not Up to the Standard.

Visitor in Town (talking in concert)—What a magnificent tenor! A truly marvelous voice, and cultivated, too!

Miss Residente—Yes, he sings well enough; but he is awfully uninteresting.

Visitor in Town—Not a lion, eh?

Miss Residente—A lion! Well, I should say not. Why, he lives with his wife.—Detroit Tribune.

A Friendly Call.

Little Tommy—Mamma, may I go over and play with Mrs. Nexdoor's children?

Mother—You have never cared to play with them.

Little Tommy—But my ball went over into their yard and they threw it back to me, and it was all sticky. I guess they've got some candy.—Good News.

Accounted For.

In a company of novel writers the conversation turned upon Z., a brother novelist.

"A very decent fellow," said one of the party, "I never heard him say a bad word about anyone."

"Parbleu!" replied S., "he never talks about anybody—but himself."—La France.

Too Late.

He—And so you refuse me?

She—I do.

He—Then, proud beauty, know the truth. I am the inventor of a successful dishwashing machine. Only one will ever be made, and the woman who marries me will have it. Ah, ha! Farewell!—N. Y. Weekly.

A Superstition Confirmed.

"I was born on Friday," said Mrs. Witherup.

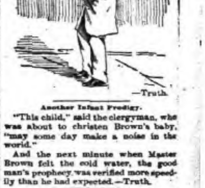
"Friday always was my unlucky day," said Mr. Witherup.—Jury.

Extreme Poverty.

"How poor is the family next door?"

"Well, they keep six dogs and the man of the house writes poetry."—Judge.

TAKING THE CAR HOME.



—Truth.

Another Infant Prodigy.

"This child," said the clergyman, who was about to christen Brown's baby, "may some day make a noise in the world."

And the next minute when Master Brown felt the cold water, the good man's prophecy was verified more speedily than he had expected.—Truth.

The Reason Was Plain.

Traveler—This umbrella belonged to Tennyson.

Goggle Eyes—You don't say so! How did you come to get it?

Traveler—I was having a lunch in London one day, and he dropped in to get a bite too. I left before he did.—Texas Siftings.

A Question of Eyesight.

Mrs. McGinnis—Oi b'lave Oi saw six pair av shtockin's hangin' on Mrs. Murphy's line yisterday.

Mrs. Reilley—It must be cross-oiyed you're gittin', Mrs. McGinnis. She hain't got six pair in her whole repertwire.—Judge.

Another Genius Discouraged.

"So you wrote her a poem?"

"Yes," replied the young man, sadly.

"What did she say?"

"She said she admired my letter; but she didn't quite understand why every line began with a capital letter."—Boston Globe.

The City of Quick Marriages.

Visitor (in Chicago)—And are you lost, little man?

Small Boy—Yes, ma'am.

Visitor—What's your mamma's name?

Small Boy—I dunno. I've been away from home since ten o'clock this morning.—Judge.

A Considerate Cook.

"You always have a policeman in the kitchen whenever I come in," complained Mrs. Gazzam to her cook.

"Yes'm," replied that considerate domestic, "but I thought you wouldn't like me to take my company into the parlor."—Brooklyn Life.

Know the Tribe.

Little Dick—See that young man? He's awfully in love with my sister, an' he wants to marry her.

Little Johnny—How do you know?

Little Dick—Oh! he always puts on such a lavender voice w'en he talks to mamma.—Good News.

Fashion Notes.

A young man was recently sued by a young lady because he broke one of her ribs squeezing her. The young man was not quite ready for trial and asked for a stay of proceedings. Of course it was granted.—Des Moines Argonaut.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1893. No 9.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

Rates of Advertising

Space	—WEEKS.— 1	2	3	—MONTHS.— 1	3	6	12
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All Electros must be solid metal.
[illegible]

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jan1

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 161, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEISS,
Dentist.
25 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jo-91

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 166, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 91 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 36 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap19

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. 12jy1

CARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

[illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 Todd Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.
6-21-y

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather, Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-tf

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 34.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar20tf

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 Somerset St. 3-19-tf

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
10 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to E. J. Coley.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—21 W. FRONT ST.
[illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5-cent cigar in the State, and made of the purest tobacco from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
SEGARS!!
No. 22 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from Big W. Front street, to 41 West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. S. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 10 NORTH AVENUE

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N. J.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J

NOTHING TO HANG IT ON.

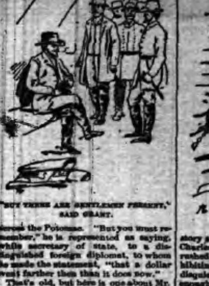
Just a Lot of Stories Without Any Excuse at All.

Evarts Crushing a Boston Bore—Grant's Opinion of Sumner—The Depew Joke That Failed—A Tale of Earthquake Times.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

The grim American humor crops out in the most unlikely places, like the granite rocks seaming the scanty soil in New Hampshire.

It isn't true in this country, as in England, that the man who never makes a joke gets the reputation of being a master mind. Pretty nearly all our statesmen have been clever at repartee.



"BUT THERE ARE GENTLEMEN PRESENT," SAID GRANT.

To William M. Evarts is commonly ascribed the very familiar story about Washington throwing a silver dollar across the Potomac. "But you must remember," he is represented as saying, while secretary of state, to a distinguished foreign diplomat, to whom he made the statement, "that a dollar went farther then than it does now."

That's old, but here is one about Mr. Evarts which has never been in print. He was invited at one time to a dinner at the house of a rich manufacturer in Boston, who proved at dinner to be a pompous old bore. Whenever any of the distinguished gentry ventured a remark, this man would break in with his exasperating drawl: "As I once said to Daniel Webster—" or "when I was with Charles Sumner at—"

Evarts stood it as long as he could. After dinner in the smoking-room, he turned upon his tormentor with the remark: "You do yourself a great injustice, sir."

"How so?" demanded the man, taken aback.

"Why," said Mr. Evarts, deliberately, twiddling his eyeglass, as was his custom, "you have been modestly relating to us these interesting reminiscences of our great departed when everyone knows that there have been in your experience events of far more historical weight—as that, for instance, when Columbus neared our coast it was the voice of Mr. —— that guided him on his course with these immortal words: 'Neow, Mr. Columbus (imitating the old man's drawl), if you'll on'y p'int her head right over that way, you'll make land all right.'"

This was not humor. It was wit—the caustic kind that stings. Probably there was provocation. It was this same Boston merchant whose peculiarities were the butt of many a merry tale. A boy was seen crying on Washington street one day.

"What's the matter?" said a good-natured man.

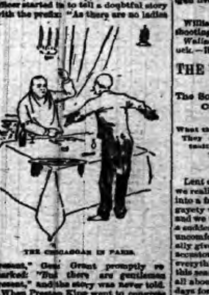
"My cent's fallen down there," said the sniveling boy, pointing through a grating.

"Oh, that's nothing. Just run in and tell Mr. ——. He'll climb down and get it."

"Yes, he will," sobbed the boy, with a fresh outburst of grief. "B-b-but he'd keep it for himself."

Gen. Grant was not usually credited with quickness of repartee, but when a man said to him one day: "Charles Sumner doesn't believe in the Bible," Grant's quiet rejoinder was: "Of course not; he didn't write it."

And once in camp, when a "fresh" officer started in to tell a doubtful story with the prefix: "As there are no ladies present," Gen. Grant promptly remarked: "But there are gentlemen present," and the story was never told.



THE CHICAGOAN IN PARIS.

When Preston King went to congress he couldn't take a vestibule train, but had to ride on horseback, coach, canal-boat and the like. So he told with feeling this touching tale:

"One day when I was riding along a muddy road in northern New York I observed a little distance away a riding whip apparently sticking up in the mud. I stooped to pick it up, but, meeting with unexpected resistance, discovered that it was tightly clasped in a human hand. I summoned assistance and we soon had the mud-plastered gentleman dug out of the bottomless abyss. 'Gentlemen,' said he, as he stood there in his mud-plastered raiment, 'I thank you all for your kind assistance, but for which I must inevitably have lost my life. Now if you will add to your good labors by assisting me to recover my horse, I will—'"

"Hold on," said a Louisiana man (this was in a congressional cloak-room). "Your story is all right, King, only it happened in my own town, Louisiana."

"Pshaw!" said a Virginian. "It was right out here on the Richmond road not a dozen miles from Washington."

As a matter of fact, the story is several thousand years old and still in comparatively good health.

There is a Chicago story which is told about Eugene Field, Philip D. Armour, Dr. Gunsaulus and half a dozen other victims. The hero couldn't have been Field, for he is an accomplished linguist. The tale runs that a Chicago man visiting Paris sat down one day in a restaurant. Utterly ignorant of the language, he ran his thumb down the bill of fare a little way and said: "Here! Bring me some o' that." The waiter complied, shrugging his shoulders as one who disclaims responsibility and presently returned with a dish of pickled pig's feet.

"H—h!" muttered the pork packer, [illegible] "how did he know [illegible] Chicago?"

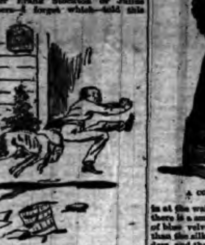
[illegible] H. Depew, Robert G. Ingersoll, [illegible] Wolcott, of Colorado, [illegible] of the wittiest speakers [illegible]. One of Depew's best jokes fell [illegible] famous next day. It was at the [illegible] meeting during the Minneapolis convention. Depew was holding his audience in great shape when he compared somebody or something with "the inebriated chamois which, in its Alpine fastness, leaps from jag to jag." Probably because Depew's accurate pronunciation of the word "chamois" wasn't the one taught in the district schools, there was hardly a ripple of laughter. Next day, when folks saw the joke in type, they roared.

Speaker Capron, of Rhode Island, tells with gusto a story of a tax collector who, after an exciting experience outside, burst into an Irish woman's cabin with the remark: "I'll have to tax you for that goat, Mrs. Maloney."

"An' why, thin, darlint?"

"Because the law distinctly says I must tax all property bounding and abutting on this street, and that goat has been a-bounding and a-butting on that street for the last half hour."

Either Frank Stockton or Julian Chambers—I forget which—told this story at a literary club: "During the Charleston earthquake an old negro rushed out upon the public square, exhibiting every sign of marked fear and disquietude. Those who were near enough heard this petition offered up at the throne of grace: 'Oh! Lord, dese am de times ob terror. De yearth am a quakin' an' de fires ob hell is aburnin' fo' de ourightus. Oh! Lord, sabe us. Come right down to us. If yo' cayn't come yo'se'f, sen' down de Lawd Jesus, but if yo' can come yo'se'f, yo'd bettah do it, kase dis yer's mighty ser'us mattah, an' 'taint no time fo' to sen' chillun.'"



ABUTTING PROPERTY.

When Ben Butler was in college he became tired of hash at his boarding-house and "put up a job" on the landlady. Next time the dish appeared all the young men groaned in concert: "Oh! hash for breakfast! Hebrews, xiii, 8."

You don't remember that verse? Here it is: "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to-day, and forever." But Bold Ben didn't mean it to be punctuated that way.

And it was another Massachusetts man who was asked by a friend what he was thinking of as he knelt at the altar to be married. "I was thinking how confoundedly funny the soles of my feet must look from behind," was the instant and unstudied response.

Artificial India Rubber.

Dr. W. A. Tilden discovered some months ago that isoprene, which can be prepared from turpentine, under certain circumstances changes into what appears to be genuine India rubber. Bouchardat had also found that the same change could be brought about by heat. The material so produced resembles pure Para rubber in every way, and, whether it is genuine rubber or not, it may be equally good for all practical purposes. It is said to be capable of vulcanization.

The Food of Hummingbirds.

Dr. Morris Gibbs contributes to Science an interesting paper on the food of hummingbirds. He has carefully dissected many hummingbirds, both old and young, but has never found anything to convince him that the birds live on insects. It may be that at times, when flowers are scarce, some species of insects are captured, but Dr. Gibbs is satisfied that in season, when flowers are abundant, the ruby-throat of Michigan lives on honey.

Not a Great Shot.

Willie—Did you have any luck out shooting?

Wallace—No; the birds had all the luck.—Brooklyn Life.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

The Society Girl Has Changed the Current of Her Thought.

What the Lenten Days Allow and What They Forbid—The Delightful Opportunities Afforded by the Afternoon Tea—New Spring Goods.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

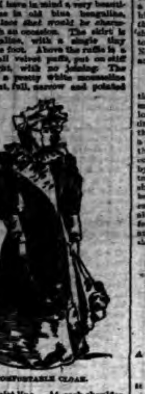
Lent came upon us this year before we realized it. We had just gotten well into a fascinating, bewitching round of gayety when somebody called a halt, and we were obliged to stop with such a sudden jerk that it has made us feel uncomfortable ever since. We are usually given an opportunity to gradually accustom ourselves to the change, but everything is about two weeks ahead this season, and we accordingly forgot all about the fact that the sober, quiet days for meditation were right upon us.

But we Americans are so very adaptable that it has taken us precisely three days to get over our surprise, and to send our thoughts in quite a different direction, and now the girls have stopped talking about the possibilities of the hoopskirt, and are giving all their attention instead to the cutting of aprons and dresses and petticoats for the poor. You would never guess, could you see them gathered around the table piled high with coarse stuffs, that they had not touched such things for months. They are just as particular about the cut and the seams and the neat stitch as if they had no other interest in the world, and they will accomplish a wonderful amount in these seven busy weeks.

But it isn't the only thing they do. There is a loophole, not a very small one, either, by which they can edge in considerable gayety in a very harmless manner. The afternoon tea is such a very inoffensive means of entertainment that it has not been placed beneath the ban, and you may go to a tea every day without provoking adverse criticism. Here you may retire into a secluded corner, if there happens to be one, and converse more confidentially in the fading afternoon light with your most particular male friend than in the crowded ballroom. And if the tea is given in your own home, or if you be one of the favored few selected to assist your hostess in pouring tea, you may even, with perfect propriety, wear a pretty house gown, cut rather low, with elbow sleeves. Then you will get such opportunity to display all your sweet graces as has been afforded you at no swagger evening affair of the winter past. Therefore, take heart, my pretty maid, and make the most of your opportunities.

Would you look particularly fascinating at one of these affairs, so different now from the tea that once was, with [illegible] plain colors? Then find out, if you can, just what sort of a tea your hostess will give. If it is to be a color tea, discover the tint and gown accordingly.

By all means [illegible] blend of effectively contrast with your surroundings. For instance, does the tea assume a pale, old rose tint? Then wear a dull blue. Is it gold? Get out your purple costume. Is it delicate green? Wear darker greens or soft browns. I have in mind a very beautiful costume in old blue bengaline, velvet and lace that would be charming for such an occasion. The skirt is bengaline, with a single tiny ruffle at the foot. Above the ruffle is a row of small velvet puffs, put on stiff and straight, with no joining. The bodice has a pretty white mousseline de soie front, full, narrow and pointed in at the waist line. At each shoulder there is a small plaited semi-collarette of blue velvet, a few shades darker than the silk, lying only on the shoulders, and then sloping down the front in narrow pieces to edge the full front. Then the velvet shoulder plaits are edged with rare old lace, that falls over the big sleeve proper, and that also edges, but more narrowly, the velvet down the front. The lace finishes at the waist in a pretty little knot.



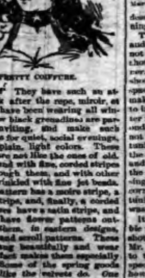
A COMFORTABLE CLOAK.

Another gown for calling, a trifle more sedate in cut, though not in combination of color, is made of dark rich green. The skirt has nothing but four or five folds of the material at the edge, and all thought is bestowed upon the bodice. Here there is a lavishness of color that can scarcely be reconciled with the unassuming skirt. Commencing in front, we find a small, full guimpe of very pale gold shade. It is edged by gallon, embroidered in pearls of all the pretty light shades. Next comes a second vest, full, of green grenadine, necessarily divided by the center one and coming down below it in the center. This is also edged by the pearl trimming. Then the bodice, of ribbed velvet, takes up its part, and continues on around the back. The sleeves start with big puffs, it is quite needless to remark, and end with cuffs that are alternate velvet and pearl stripes. Finally there's a beautifully-embroidered belt added.

A lovely old lady, with hair of true silver, gives a tea next week and wears the following: Silver gray crepon, exact shade of hair, with white crepe front from neck to feet. At the neck it is smocked to form a pointed yoke and then falls plain, with a tiny embroidered edge at the feet. A silver girdle clasps the looseness of the gown and deep lace ruffles fall over the delicate hands of the old lady, who has the fairest, freshest complexion in the world.

If we're are not wealthy enough to order a complete change of garments for the Lenten season, at least we can remodel the ones we have to some extent. We can take that very startling red or green wing from our hat and substitute a quiet bow or flower. We can replace the brilliant lining in our cape or coat by black, or some dark shade that will go with it. We can substitute some modest-colored glove for our glowing red one, and by these methods convert ourselves into very demure, unassuming damsels.

If you really intend to get a new costume for Lent, however, select one of the pretty new camel's hair or soft cloth materials, which come out in numerous light shades of dull blue, fawn and brown. They have such an attractive look after the rope, mirror, et al., that we have been wearing all winter. The new black grenadines are particularly inviting, and make such pretty gowns for quiet, social evenings, made over plain, light colors. These grenadines are not like the ones of old. They are found with fine, corded stripes running through them, and with other stripes besprinkled with fine jet beads. Then one pattern has a moire stripe, a grenadine stripe, and, finally, a corded stripe. Others have a satin stripe, and still others have flower patterns outlined over them, in eastern designs, palm leaves and scroll patterns. These materials hang beautifully and wear well, which fact makes them especially desirable. Some of the spring goods shade, just like the velvets do. One pretty one starts with a very faint blue and deepens into a dark, dull shade.



A PRETTY COIFFURE.

I saw a woman this week that wore such a sensible shopping costume that I couldn't help admiring it. She seemed to be sensible all around, and to purchase what she wanted in a quiet, business-like way, for even the gentleman that accompanied her didn't look a trifle bored, but seemed quite content to follow her from counter to counter and from shop to shop. She wore a plain, dark-brown skirt of cheviot, of new cut, with but slight flare, and a perfectly plain tight-fitting coat of the same. The bodice stopped exactly at the waist, fitting so closely that it needed no belt. It was simply turned in, with no addition whatsoever. [illegible] collar, particularly high on the shoulders, but coming down to a point at the waist, both back and front. [illegible] point, finished the costume. Her hat was dark brown velvet, with [illegible] and a few graceful wings at one side. There wasn't [illegible] saw her so simply dressed, [illegible] another one, either, [illegible] as the busy surroundings.

EVA A. SCRIVENER.

[illegible]

Burton tells us in "Anatomy of Melancholy," part 2, section 3, [illegible]

[illegible] half times around the earth. Late entomological experiments have given us opinions equally as curious concerning the strength of this obnoxious little Hercules. To be brief and to the point: it has been proven that a flea can carry a weight 250 times greater than that of his own body. At this rate a man of the average weight of 150 pounds could "shoulder" a "mogul" locomotive of 40 tons and run across the country from New York to San Francisco in less than an hour and a half.

New Dresses Disperse the Bacilli.

Prof. E. G. Dixon, the English scientist, has been experimenting upon the manner in which the germs of tuberculosis are spread abroad by ladies' dresses. He had a dress dragged over the ground two or three times, and on a plate slide was able to show no fewer than seven tubercle bacilli, obtained, of course, from the dust and dirt swept up by the dress. The practical lesson taught by this fact seems to be that in showing how, when trailing skirts are brushed in our homes, the germs of disease or these spores get dissipated in the air, and thus placed in a position to infect those who are well. This is another and powerful argument against trailing skirts.

It Was.

Purchaser—You are sure the cheese is moldy?

Grocer (cutting off a slice)—Yes, sir. Here, come hold this bit of cheese while I get a piece of paper to wrap it in.

BILLIARD NOVELTY.

A Fascinating Game Recently Imported from Paris.

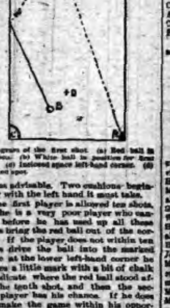
It Interests Amateurs as Well as Professionals—[illegible] There Is Much Uncertainty About Doing It.

Those who have fondness for the game of billiards and who play it both as amateurs and professionals, are greatly interested now in a new development of the game. It has become a genuine craze in New York city, and before long, writes John Mitchie in the Chicago News, will probably extend throughout the country. The game was brought here from Paris by one of the greater professionals, who says that it is a veritable craze in that city, and that thousands gather in the reputable billiard parlors of Paris every evening to see it played.

The merit of the game lies in its simplicity, and yet its extraordinary difficulties. It can be understood by a person who knows but little of billiards, while the more delicate shots and the more exact calculations which skill in it require are keenly appreciated by such experts as Shaefer, Ives, Slosson, Sexton and others.

It is called a corner game, and it is comparatively easy to describe in cold type. Only two balls are employed, a white and a red one. The balls are placed upon the table as indicated by the accompanying diagram. The red ball is put into the lower right-hand corner so that it touches both cushions at the angle. A chalk mark is drawn so as to bring the left-hand lower corner within three or four inches distance from it, and the mark is made in the form of the segment of a circle. The white ball may be placed anywhere upon a table below the lower spot point.

The purpose of the game is to drive the red ball from the lower right-hand corner across the table within the segment of a circle indicated by a chalk line around the lower left-hand corner. To do this, however, it is a rule of the game that the white ball must first take two cushions before it strikes the red ball. It must first take the left-hand cushion and then the upper cushion, and may take as many cushions as the player deems advisable. Two cushions beginning with the left hand it must take.



(Diagram of the first shot: (a) Red ball in position; (b) White ball in position for first shot; (c) Inclosed space left-hand corner; (d) Marked spot.)

The first player is allowed ten shots, and he is a very poor player who cannot before he has used up all the shots bring the red ball out of the corner. If the player does not within ten shots drive the ball into the marked space at the lower left-hand corner he makes a little mark with a bit of chalk to indicate where the red ball stood after the tenth shot, and then the second player has his chance. If he does not make the game within his opportunity he marks upon the billiard-table the point where the red ball was left, and then the first puts the red ball upon the mark which he made and has a single shot. If he does not make the corner the second player has his opportunity, placing the red ball where it was left by him on his previous play.

It has been discovered that it is possible to drive the red ball in with one shot. It was done once in Paris, and Mr. Dorry, the professional, did it once, to the amazement of a large throng of spectators, in New York city. His shot, however, was a scratch shot, and he afterward spent much time in analyzing it and discovered that if the white ball, after taking two cushions, is brought with sufficient force to the lower right-hand corner to strike the lower cushion an inappreciable fraction of time before it strikes the red ball, that it would give a motion to the red ball which would carry it along the lower cushion to the left-hand cushion. The shot, however, is an extraordinarily difficult one. The left-hand cushion must be struck by the white ball at exactly the point which will give the exact angle to the upper cushion. The variation of a hair's breadth will cause the shot to fail. Then there must be given to the white ball exactly the degree of force, and that is difficult thing to determine. If the stroke is too heavy the red ball will enter the fatal corner, but it will rebound when its force has been spent; and if too light, there will not be sufficient force imparted to it to carry it to the corner.

[illegible]

[illegible]—Judge.

Asked a Gentleman's Part.

"How did you come to break off your engagement with Twilliger?"

"He told me he wanted to get married."—Jury.

[illegible]

Clara—What do you think of my new party?

Maude—Lovely. But where do you get your color ideas from?—N. Y. Herald.

A Test of Credulity.

[illegible]

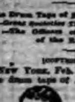
DAUGHTERS OF 1776.

A Notable Gathering at the National Capital.

The Drum Taps of History Will Be Heard—Great Societies That Meet This Week—The Officers of the Daughters of the Revolution.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

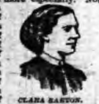
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—You can hear the drum taps of American wars this week if you listen closely enough. At Washington the continental congress will be in session. In Philadelphia the Society of the War of 1812, the heroes of our second war, with possibly a veteran to tell the tale, will meet. At Washington the men who fought in 1846 will meet again in annual session. At Syracuse and elsewhere in the nation the boys of the "sixties" will bivouac again and recall the dread times of the civil war. So the week in which occurs the anniversary of Washington's birth will again be an eventful one with us. We recall history on that day and very often we make it.



MRS. FLORA ADAMS DARLING.

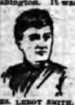
Of the old societies that of the war of 1812 is to me the most interesting, as the body contains a few at least of those who fought at New Orleans and on Lake Erie. The society celebrates each year the actual date of the close of the war; the date on which the treaty of peace was proclaimed by the executive of the nation.

But it is of the continental congress I desire to speak more especially. Not of stately John Hancock, of learned Thomas Jefferson, of John Carroll, of Carrollton, of Robert Morris, of Benjamin Franklin; of those great men from the soil of the Puritan colony, John and Samuel Adams; not of the men who wrote their names "so that the king could see them," not of the heroes of the revolution who fought while the congress thought, but of the descendants of those heroes, of "the daughters of the American revolution," who since 1890, have been holding an annual continental congress, near to the spot where liberty was born and cradled.



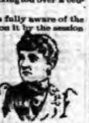
CLARA BARTON.

In 1890 five of these daughters met in Washington. It was on October 11, not an eventful date in our history, but to be made so by their work. From that day to this the organization has increased from five to two thousand, from a single chapter to one in almost every state in the union. From all points of the compass these daughters answered the call, just as our forefathers rushed to Lexington over a century ago.



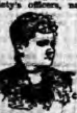
MRS. LEROY SMITH.

But Washington is fully aware of the honor conferred upon it by the session of these American women. The Sons of the American Revolution will meet at the Arlington on the afternoon of the 22d, and here is the reception committee appointed by them to do honors of the day upon the arrival of their guests, the Daughters of the Revolution: M. M. Parker, Admiral J. E. Jouett, Gen. H. V. Boynton, Gen. William Smith, Congressman Manser, Gen. Horatio G. Gibson, Col. Charles E. Greenleaf, Capt. Calvin D. Cowles, Commander F. W. Dickins, Alexander F. Morse, Capt. Robert Clark, Prof. O. T. Mason, R. G. Ogden, Francis E. Leupp.



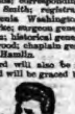
MRS. JOHN W. FOSTER.

Here, to begin with, is a list of the society's officers, names that recall others famous in American history: Vice president presiding, Mrs. William D. Cabell; vice president general in charge of the organization of chapters, Mrs. H. V. Boynton; honorary vice presidents general, Mrs. Thomas A. Hendricks, Mrs. David A. Porter, Mrs. Margaret Hetzel; vice presidents general, Mrs. T. H. Alexander, Mrs. A. W. Greely, Miss Mary Desha, Mrs. Ellen H. Walworth, Mrs. Hugh Hogan, Mrs. Henry Blount, Mrs. Marshall MacDonald, Mrs. Stephen J. Field, Mrs. G. Brown Goode, Mrs. F. O. St. Clair, Mrs. John W. Foster, Mrs. John R. Putnam, Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, Mrs. W. G. Devereux; treasurer general, Mrs. H. O. Tittmann; secretaries, general recording, Mrs. George H. Shields; corresponding, Mrs. Rose Wright Smith; registrars general, Miss Eugenia Washington, Mrs. A. Howard Clarke; surgeon general, Miss Clara Barton; historical general, Mrs. E. M. L. Lockwood; chaplain general, Mrs. Teunis S. Hamlin.



EUGENIA WASHINGTON.

The advisory board will also be in session this week and will be graced by the presence and probably be honored with addresses by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Hon. Marshall MacDonald, Gen. H. V. Boynton and George H. Shields.

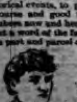


ALICE M. CLARKE.

There is an addition to the continental congress and advisory board a national board of management, and this consists of twenty-two state regents, all of whom have promised to attend. It is to this board which carries out to the letter that portion of the constitution which provides for the preservation of the old records and documents dating back to the troublous times of 1776. And, by the way, this constitution is interesting reading. Here is the purpose of the society carefully outlined and defined:

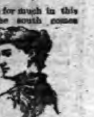
"The purpose of this society is to keep alive among ourselves and our descendants the patriotic spirit of the men who, in military, naval or civil service, by their acts or counsels, achieved American independence in 1776. To collect and secure for preservation all records and documents relating to the war of the revolution, to assist in the commemorative celebration of our great historical events, to promote social intercourse and good feeling among its members now and hereafter."

But a word of the famous women who form part and parcel of the continental congress. Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, widow of Gen. E. I. Darling, is known as the founder general of the national society and is [illegible] of Puritan stock, [illegible] asked to read a paper to the society this year, and her name will recall one stamped with the great seal of American nobility.



MRS. G. C. CASEY.

But ancestry counts for much in this gathering. From the south comes daughters whose Huguenot family ties go deep into history. From New York come the descendants of the Dutch, although here and there a Huguenot strain will be found, for Mrs. Edward Paulet Steers, regent of the New York society, claims no vans as ancestors. From New England comes Mrs. Leroy Sunderland Smith, also an Adams, and Mrs. G. V. R. Wickham, Springfield, Mass., who traces her ancestry back into Puritan history. From Virginia, "the mother of presidents," come a host of noble women. Mrs. Roger A. Pryor represents both the New York and the Virginia society, although it is to Virginia she owes the debt of birth. Mrs. G. Martin Casey goes as a delegate from New York, but she is a typical F. F. V. Her great-grandfather, Robert Martin, the founder of Methodism in Virginia, was born in 1736. On her mother's side she traces her ancestry back to the venerables who went over to England with William the Conqueror.



MRS. ROGER A. PRYOR.

It will be a famous gathering of famous women and history will undoubtedly record its acts of importance.

HOW WATER FREEZES.

The Interesting Process as Carried On in Nature's Alchemy.

A scientific paper describes how the process of freezing is carried on in nature's alchemy. By means of two thermometers it is first ascertained that the temperature of the water at the surface and at the bottom is respectively 48 degrees and 45 degrees. A cold wind sweeps over the surface of the water, so that the temperature is suddenly reduced to, say, 44 degrees. By this reduction in temperature it contracts and becomes specifically heavier, sinking and displacing the comparatively light and warm water below, which rises to the surface, becomes cooled below 44 degrees, and immediately falls, displacing the warmer water at the bottom, which in turn rises, gets cooled and falls, its place being again supplied by lighter and warmer water. And so the cooling and sinking processes go on, the upper thermometer always indicating the higher temperature, when suddenly the magic point, 39 degrees, is reached, when all movement at once ceases. The upper layer of water is still exposed to the cooling influence of the wind, and speedily falls in temperature, but still retains its place. The upper thermometer now shows that the water which surrounds it is being rapidly reduced in temperature, but the lower one remains stationary at 39 degrees. At this temperature water is heavier than at any other, and there, like a stone, it remains at the bottom, and as it is fully protected from outward influences by the mass of superincumbent water, its temperature remains very much at the same point. The water on top, however, having nothing to protect it, gets cooler and lighter every moment. Down the thermometer goes to 37, 35 and 32 degrees, and then a slight breeze ripples the surface, and the next moment a thin sheet of ice spreads itself over all. The ice, however, is colder and lighter than the water, so that it floats on the surface and acts as a blanket, protecting the comparatively warm and heavy water below from being cooled. So that even during the severest winter only a comparatively thin superficial layer of ice is usually formed, and the greater part of the water remains unfrozen at the bottom.

Tunis Brides.

A girl in Tunis, after she is betrothed, is cooped up in a small room, with shackles of gold and silver upon her ankles and wrists. If she is to be married to a man who has discharged, dispatched or lost a former wife, the shackles which the former bride wore are put upon the new bride's limbs, and she is fed till they are filled up to the proper thickness. The food used for this custom, worthy of barbarism, is a seed called drough, which is of an extraordinary fattening quality. With this seed and their national dish, couscous, the bride is literally crammed, and many actually die under the spoon.—Eastern Age.

At Harvard.

Miss Gigglegirl—So you teach at Harvard? That must be so nice! And you teach the students all sorts of languages. I suppose they never speak English at all.

Professor—Very seldom speak it.

Miss G.—There, I was sure of it! What language do they speak most, Greek or Latin, or—

Professor—Slang.—Boston Transcript.

Positive Objections.

Sister—Jack, I don't want you to buy that horse of McCurdy.

Brother—Why not? He's a fine looking animal.

Sister—Yes, I know; but isn't he the one that ran off with Mrs. Cuttafellow?

Brother—Yes, but—

Sister—Well, all I have to say, a horse that will run off with that woman can't be any good.—Brooklyn Life.

Risky.

Irate Father—Young man! I am enraged, sir, that you should seek to marry my daughter on so short an acquaintance. You are almost a stranger to her.

Stubbs (firmly)—Well, she doesn't take any more chances than I do. She's almost a stranger to me, too.—Texas Siftings.

In Fine Teeth.

DeGarry—I'm going to have a little game of draw with Tom.

Merritt—Don't you do it. He must be one of the most expert players in town by this time. You see, his wife was away in the country all summer.—Judge.

Sudden.

Sally—Ethel and I are so interested in you.

Jim—Kind, certainly; but why?

Ethel—We had our fortunes told. One is to marry you, and the other is to be bridesmaid.—Life.

The Prodigy, These Days.

"That is a wonderful boy of Mupop's."

"So? What does he do?"

"That's just it. He has no clever little tricks."—Puck.

A Logical Answer.

Miss Bleaker—Don't you think my new hat is simply out of sight?

Miss Emerson (of Boston, after adjusting her spectacles)—Not at all. I can see it quite distinctly.—Judge.

A Severe Trial.

Belle Weatherbee—How sheepish you looked when you proposed to me!

Jack de Rhim—That's because you pulled the wool over my eyes from the first.—Puck.

Not Surprising.

Wife—Why do you keep such a close watch on your gas?

Husband—Didn't you know sausage was forty cents a pound?—Brooklyn Life.

Another Name for It.

Mrs. Fredick (reading the newspaper)—An optimist, [illegible] appears to be abroad in the land.

Fredick—Yes, a regular bridal wave, as it were.—Puck.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

POPULARITY.

It is an interesting inquiry to ascertain what makes a public man really popular, not alone with political bosses, cliques or caucuses, but with the people at large, the honest voting masses.

President-elect Cleveland is a living illustration of spontaneous and well directed popularity.

Why was it so generously bestowed upon him?

Plotting politicians were at heart adverse to his candidacy, and subsidized monopolists did all they could to defeat him.

Yet he was triumphantly elected.

He never electioneered for himself, never countenanced any cunningly devised scheme to forestall opposition, never for a moment compromised dignity and integrity for the procurement of political support.

He stood honestly undisguised before the people.

All principle swayed Democrats enthusiastically gave him their voices and votes, the great body of Independents, men not linked to any particular party, did likewise, while thousands of partisan Republicans gladly followed suit.

Why such wide-reaching popularity? The answer is as clear as sunshine.

It was—

Because of his proven statesman ability and reliable executive judgment, because he is a man who has the courage of his own convictions and dares to do what he believes to be right and proper under any and every contingency, and who, throughout his entire official career, never faltered in the discharge of duty as a binding trust conferred by the people, and ever blended personal ambition with the advancement of the general public welfare.

Popular confidence made Grover Cleveland popular, and no higher honor can any man receive than that.

PATRIOTISM.

We have just passed another national anniversary day, that designed to commemorate the birth of George Washington, and its truthful meaning is not of secondary importance.

Such anniversary signifies patriotism, practical and unadulterated patriotism, the earnest love of country and popular rights.

Washington was the embodiment of that sterling virtue and left it as a priceless legacy to coming generations. Patriotism shed lustre over his whole life from youth to mature age. As Commander in the military struggle for nationality and as Chief Magistrate of the newly organized free government, unselfish devotion to the public service absorbed his entire personality.

To imitate the example set by Washington is to keep alive loyalty to the cause of freedom he so nobly upheld, and in these days of sordid gain and political intrigue pure patriotism is as greatly needed as it ever was in the history of our country.

THE CABINET.

The selection of official advisers by President Cleveland furnishes additional evidence of his sound judgment. The gentlemen named for Cabinet positions are unexceptionable in every particular. Each one of them was chosen after mature deliberation, and with especial regard to personal good character and thorough qualification for the faithful performance of assigned duty.

It is a source of gratification to know that we are on the eve of the inauguration of a practical and intelligent business administration of national affairs, under whose supervision the honor of country will be vigilantly guarded and the interests of all the people justly cared for.

The Summit Record, published by Assemblyman Thomas F. Lane, justly scores the race-track legislation as follows: "It is impossible in cold type to give adequate expression to the burning indignation that must fill the breast of every citizen of New Jersey at the ineffable disgrace of the crowning infamy of legislative achievement witnessed during the past week at the State Capitol. Those who engaged in that deliberately planned outrage on the forms of popular government as well as those who manipulated the machinery for the enactment of the race-track laws have dealt a blow to this commonwealth from which it will not soon recover. Whatever differences of opinion might have existed between the people of any section of the State as to the propriety of extending some privileges to properly conducted race-tracks, there is no man in the State so bold as to utter a word of defence for the shamelessness of the passage of measures so sweeping in their provisions and so devoid of restrictive features that they deliver the State bound hand and foot to the lowest class of gamblers on the continent. We hope the Democratic party will recover from the injury that has been inflicted on it and we have faith that the future will afford it an opportunity to purge itself of the disgrace that to-day causes every man who loves his party as well as every man who loves his State to hang his head in shame.

Gov. Werts has nominated ex-Gov. Leon Abbett to succeed Supreme Court Justice Scudder, which is a deserved compliment to Mr. Abbett, who made one of the best Governor's the State ever had.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without [illegible]. I have used it [illegible] a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have [illegible] ever since I was a little boy and I [illegible] for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do [illegible]. Many of my acquaintances have used it [illegible]. [illegible], Chicago, Ill.

HARRIS HIMSELF PLEADS

He Tells Recorder Smyth That He Is Innocent.

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL ARGUED.

The Question Seems to Hinge on Whether or Not Helen Potts Was Addicted to the Use of Morphine, and the Affidavits of Each Are Directly Contradictory—Harris Creates Sympathy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—After hearing arguments in favor of granting a new trial to Carlyle W. Harris yesterday, the court adjourned until to-day, and District-Attorney Nicoll was given a week to produce other rebutting evidence. Mr. Howe will by that time have his Pennsylvania and New Jersey affidavits certified.

The court room was crowded, and when at the close of the District-Attorney's remarks Harris asked the privilege of speaking in his own behalf the spectators evinced the deepest and most intense interest.

The Recorder granted his request. Harris spoke in a low voice, and said that he had never defamed his wife's name, and that he was not instrumental in securing the affidavits that his counsel had submitted.

"I am innocent," he continued, "and if so, I should walk the streets a free citizen, and not be sent to prison until I die."

When he resumed his seat his mother fell upon his breast, threw her arms about his neck, and wept bitterly.

Harris was brought from the Tombs handcuffed to Michael F. Fallon, the park policeman, on trial for perjury before the Recorder.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Lawyer William F. Howe began his argument in support of the action for a new trial. Harris, who sat near his counsel, rested his mother's head upon his breast.

District Attorney Nicoll asked his Honor not to allow the affidavits to be read as they were not authenticated. Those swearing to them were all in Pennsylvania, he said, and, therefore, he objected. The court, however, allowed Mr. Howe to read the affidavits.

Counsel began argument by a touching appeal. He dwelt upon the testimony of several witnesses at the trial of Harris. He said that Harris desired to go upon the stand at his trial, but his counsel refused to allow him to testify.

Mr. Howe said he had affidavits to show that the morphine was self-administered, and not by the hand of the defendant.

Mrs. Jackson, principal of the school the deceased attended, will testify, if a new trial be granted, that Helen's conduct was not of the best and that she told her she would have to go home. Helen, in turn, said that she would not as her home was a perfect hell, and she would kill herself first.

The first affidavit was that of Mrs. Mary Frosst, formerly a Mrs. Harris. It is stated that in 1889 she resided at 126 West 28th street. Helen Potts often called there on a visit to her daughter, Ethel. That in January, 1889, she visited her daughter's room and found her asleep and breathing heavily. When she had awakened, she at first refused to state the cause of her second sleep but afterwards admitted taking a pill that Helen Potts had given her.

Ethel M. Harris, 19 years old, of 412 Lexington Avenue, swears to an affidavit in which she says that in 1889 she complained to Helen Potts of passing sleepless nights and that Helen gave her a pill which she told her to take before retiring. She cautioned her against speaking of the pill. She further states that Helen told her she was in the habit of taking these pills. Miss Harris says that she took the pill and slept for twenty-three hours. In July, 1889, she says she went to visit Helen at Asbury Park and when she complained of a headache Helen offered her another pill.

Mrs. F. R. Jackson, principal of the seminary which the deceased attended, says that Helen told her she was in the habit of taking morphine which was prescribed by her physician.

Dr. William S. Searl, of Brooklyn, deposes that at various times he prescribed for Helen Potts morphine in small quantities.

Mary A. Lewis of Scranton, Pa., in an affidavit, swears that she worked for Dr. Treverton of Scranton, and that she saw Helen Potts there almost daily and conversed with her, and that Helen told her she used morphine.

Other affidavits allege that the actions of the deceased indicated that she was addicted to the morphine habit.

A deposition from Joseph H. Laffert, a druggist of Asbury Park, N. J., states that on several occasions he sold Helen Potts a gram of morphine.

With the reading of an affidavit from the defendant, in which he prayed the Recorder to grant him a new trial, Mr. Howe closed his argument.

After a brief speech by District-Attorney Nicoll, in which he opposed the application of counsel, he said that while the case was one that occasioned much sympathy, the requests for a new trial should be denied from a point of law.

Affidavits from the mother and father of the deceased were read in which they denied that their child was in the habit of using morphine.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts swear that during the last three years there have been two families of the name of George Potts. They contend that the effort now being made by Harris to escape the consequences of his alleged crime by imputing to their daughter the habit of eating morphine is a dastardly attack upon her character.

Both counsel made their closing arguments. Harris kissed his mother two or three times, and was then handcuffed and taken to the Tombs.

CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE

The Cabinet is Being Consulted in Regard to It.

HAWAIIAN QUESTION NEEDS TIME

Ex-Senator Carlisle and Col. Lamont at Lakewood—Hoke Smith Expected but Did Not Come—The Next President Wants to Talk Up Pension Legislation With Him.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 28.—Mr. Carlisle and Col. Lamont were at Mr. Cleveland's cottage yesterday to talk over matters which must be attended to at the opening of the new administration. It is said that much of the time was spent in going over Mr. Cleveland's inaugural address and Mr. Cleveland's special message to Congress.

The inaugural address is said to be ready for the printers. It contains about 1,800 words, and will touch in a general way on the more important public questions. The main part of the address is said to be in reference to the tariff, on which subject Mr. Cleveland makes no specific recommendations.

On account of the Silver Compromise bill now before Congress this matter is left to itself. It is said that the silver question was gone over at great length at this conference and also at Saturday's meeting of the Cabinet-elect. Mr. Cleveland favors the cessation of silver coinage, but in his address he does not say this in so many words. The financial situation will be treated in a separate message should an extra session be called.

Mr. Cleveland devotes some space in his address to the annexation of Hawaii. He is very emphatic here and says that time and investigation should be had before doing anything in this direction. He does not approve of doing anything rashly. He advises annexation only after careful inquiry has been made. Mr. Cleveland is in favor of annexation only in case an examination of both sides of the question shows that such a course is desirable and expedient. The address, however, is said to have a leaning toward annexation.

The Pension Office gets a share of Mr. Cleveland's attention. The pension system as it now exists is denounced, and a radical reform is recommended without further delay.

Mr. Cleveland expected Hoke Smith, who, as Secretary of the Interior, will have charge of the Pension Bureau, to arrive yesterday so as to go over this matter, but as he did not show up the matter had to go without his approval.

While Mr. Cleveland was busy with Col. Lamont, Senator Carlisle joined Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth in an hour's drive through the pines.

Yesterday was Mrs. Cleveland's regular at home, so she was kept quite busy the early forenoon receiving many callers who came to bid her good-bye.

DID NOT SEE GRESHAM.

The Hawaiian Commissioners Are Doing Nothing Here for Annexation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Hon. C. L. Carter, one of the Hawaiian annexation commissioners, has returned to Washington from New York, where he spent Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Carter said that he had not been in conference with Judge Gresham while in New York and had not expected to."

Mr. Carter and his fellow commissioners, Messrs. Castle and Thurston, will remain in Washington until the annexation treaty is disposed of by adjournment of the Senate if not otherwise, but say they will do nothing to further its consideration or ratification.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

House Non-Concurs in the Senate Amendments—Coupler Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—There was a good deal of interest manifested when the House yesterday entered upon the last legislative week of the 52d Congress. Many important measures were yet awaiting action.

Mr. Peel, of Arkansas, was the first gentleman to catch the Speaker's eye, and he moved the passage of the Indian Appropriation bill under suspension of the rules.

There was no objection to the measure, but it was made a pivot around which circled a general discussion of the Anti-Option bill.

Mr. Peel's motion having been agreed to, a discussion of the Sherman bond amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was carried on with some warmth, but finally all the Senate amendments to the measure were non-concurred in, and the bill was sent to conference.

When the Speaker of the House even indirectly refers to that body as a "bear garden" as Speaker Crisp did yesterday, the provocation must be very great; and it was. A dozen members were on their feet speaking at the top of their voices which were rendered shrill through their efforts to outvie each other.

The trouble occurred over the motion made by Mr. Wise of Virginia to suspend the rules and concur in Senate amendment to the Car Coupler bill, which amendment was finally concurred in—yeas, 184; nays, 65. The friends of the measure burst into hearty applause.

The Pension Appropriation bill was passed by the Senate without any amendment. It appropriates for army and navy pensions, including widows and orphan children, $165,000,000 and about a million and a half dollars, in addition, for fees of examining surgeons, clerk hire at pension agencies and some small items. Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.) commented upon the magnitude of pension appropriations and gave it as his opinion that it would be necessary to appropriate $200,000,000 for next session.

Senator Colquitt of Georgia made his appearance in the Senate Chamber for the first time this session and he was the object of sympathetic attention on the part of his fellow Senators. The day closed with the delivery of eulogies upon the late Senator Kenna of West Virginia.

OUR BIGGEST CRUISER

The Newly Launched Ship Able to Fight Anything.

INDIANA STATE TO GIVE HER A FLAG

Thousands of People Present to See the Noble Vessel Slip Into the Water—Distinguished Visitors Present—Description of the Battleship—President Harrison Says He Has Been Complimented.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—The launching of the great battleship Indiana at the Cramp yards yesterday, although occurring in the midst of a pelting rain storm, was a grand sight, and will long be remembered by the thousands who witnessed the ceremony.

From early morning crowds began to gather around the works and as day advanced the multitude increased.

The anxiety of the gathering to catch a glimpse of the President and the other distinguished members of the visiting party from Washington was so much greater than the desire to see the launch that the entrances to the main office of the Cramps were blocked for hours before the arrival of the honored guests.

The non-issuance of formal invitations, however, gave the thousands of sightseers an opportunity to be present at the launch and points of vantage were numerous. The river abounded with crafts of every description.

The interior of the shipyard presented a scene of activity. Flags were flying from dozens of poles; the cruiser New York and cruiser No. 13, the Columbia, which was launched last July, and other ships were gaily bedecked with flags and bunting, while flags innumerable and other decorations were stretched from the stem to the stern of the Indiana.

The arrival of the Presidential party was the signal for loud and continued cheering. The party came from Washington on a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Among the visitors were Secretary of the Navy Tracy, Postmaster General Wanamaker, Attorney General Miller and his daughter, Miss Jessie, the fair christener; Senators Voorhees and Turpie of Indiana (in honor of which State the vessel is named) and others.

The guests were received in the offices of the company by Chas. H. Cramp, president; Henry W. Cramp, treasurer and other officials. The line was then formed and the christening party proceeded to where the battle ship lay and took positions on a raised platform at the bow.

The noise of five hundred workmen making the final preparations reverberated between the Indiana's sister ship Massachusetts, on the south and cruiser No. 13, the Minneapolis, to the north for a quarter of an hour and then the order was given to "saw the ways."

Just as the 4,300 tons of steel started down the incline, Miss Miller broke the customary bottle of champagne, it being encased in a beautifully hand-painted and embroidered satin cover, across the bow and firmly said: "I christen thee 'Indiana.'"

Whistles shrieked, bells rang and people cheered and waved handkerchiefs and flags. This demonstration continued until the ship reached mid stream, where anchors were dropped. Later the anchors were raised and the vessel was towed to the shipyard.

The "Indiana" is the eighth warship that the Cramps have launched and is the largest ever sent from their ways. Up to this time the "New York," with a tonnage of 2,000, was the largest.

She is the most formidable of the vessels built or building for the new American navy. The armament is four 13-inch breech loading rifles, eight 8-inch breech loading rifles, nine 6-inch breech loading rifles, 20 6 pounder rapid fire guns, four 1-pounder rapid fire guns, four Gatling guns and six torpedo tubes. Her armor is the heaviest that was ever placed on an American warship.

President Harrison Much Pleased.

"This day will ever be a most pleasant memory to me," said President Harrison, "coming as it does at the close of my administration. I take it in part as a personal compliment that the ship should be christened after my native State, and it is a pride to the State to give its name to this, the first real warship of our navy."

Indiana Contributes a Flag.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 1.—A bill passed the Legislature yesterday appropriating $250 for a flag for the Indiana.

A Desirable Domestic.

"How do you like your new cook?"

"Oh, so so. She is very dirty, she has no idea of cooking and she smashes everything around her, but still she has one good and rare quality."

"What is that?"

"She stays with us."—Fliegende Blaetter.

Very True.

Maud—And aren't you a good deal of a spendthrift, Mr. Skillits?

Mr. Skillits (whose income is nine dollars a week)—I assure you that it would be quite impossible for me to be anything so weak and foolish.—Chicago News Record.

Looking for Work.

Farmer's Wife—Why don't you go to work?

Tramp—I would if I had the tools.

Farmer's Wife—What sort of tools do you want?

Tramp—Knife and fork.—Texas Siftings.

Shew Light on It.

The conversation had drifted to the where-am-I-at episode.

"Naow, dy'e knaow," said the Englishman, slightly perplexed, "that sounds quite odd to me. We should say: 'Where is my 'at?'"—Chicago Tribune.

A Correction.

"Hold up them hands," hoarsely whispered the highwayman to the [illegible] at midnight.

"Say 'those hands,' please," [illegible] the [illegible], as he [illegible].—[illegible]

NORTH PLAINFIELD POLITICS.

Prospects and Probabilities of the Approaching Borough Election.

The North Plainfield Republicans seem to be having a hard time striving to find anyone to run against Mayor Saunders in the coming borough election. That Mr. Saunders will be renominated goes without saying. His administration of public affairs has been so notably wise, discreet and judicious that the voters of both parties are anxious to have him re-elected. He is just the man to handle most capably the affairs of the borough the coming year, especially as matters of unusual import, requiring a broad grasp of intellect as well as great depth of practical knowledge, are coming up for adjustment.

It is understood that Peter Emmons, who has been councilman, is anxious for nomination for the mayoralty, believing that he could control enough votes for election; but it is further understood that Mr. Emmons stands no chance whatever of getting the nomination. He might run on a little ticket of his own.

Candidates such as the Republicans desire, seem to be scarce. George P. Dupee was approached. He thanked the committee for their courtesy, but said "What! Run against my good friend and neighbor Mr. Saunders! I guess he's a good enough mayor. Some other time I'd be glad to run, but not this year, thank you."

Dr. J. H. Carman is now talked of, but he too is unwilling to enter the arena against Mr. Saunders, and positively won't accept.

Two councilmen are to be elected. Those whose terms expire are Messrs. Hageman and Sebring. Both want to be re-elected. By both of the old factions are still spitefully opposed to one another, and one or the other may be turned down at the primary to-morrow evening. That primary is likely to be quite exciting. A candidate, and a good one, against Mr. Hageman, is Capt. George F. Edwards. He's modest, and trying to keep in the background, but his friends insist on working for him.

The Democratic candidates for councilmen are not as yet very conspicuous, and who will be chosen is a matter of doubt. The race in Mr. Sebring's district seems to be between Dr. Charles Rodolph Thiers and Jules Bovey.

If Charles Sebring isn't renominated by the Republicans, he may run independently.

WON'T GRANT THOSE LICENSES.

The Council Insists on Genuine Freehold Indorsement.

The special meeting of the Plainfield common council Tuesday night to consider again the license applications of John E. Boerhower and Wallace V. Miller, was attended by all the councilmen except president Ginna and Mr. Johnston.

Mr. Weber of the license committee presented explanations of Messrs. Boerhower and Miller concerning the signatures which had been objected to. They told just how much land they owned. In each case it was a small fraction interest, recently acquired. Certificates were shown from the county clerk that deeds for the property had been recorded, but it was stated that there was reason for belief that deeds were already held by the former owners re-transferring the property back. The sentiment or belief was that the signers were "manufactured freeholders" for the time being, made for the purpose of technically complying with the law.

Mr. See quoted a similar case in Elizabeth where the matter had been tested in the courts and where it was decided that "made" signers were not bona fide freeholders and should not be considered as meeting the requirements of the law.

All voted to return the applications again to Messrs. Miller and Boerhower, to secure bona fide freehold signatures — all except Mr. Frazee, who took the ground that the law did n't stipulate how much a man should own or how long he should own it to be a legal freeholder and eligible signer. The others acted on the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh.

During the evening a fuse in the electric light circuit burned out, and the lights were extinguished. The janitor was absent, so owner Coward gave an exhibition in the way of gas-jet lighting, climbing upon a shaky stepladder to reach the chandeliers. Later a new fuse was put in to replace the burned-out one.

The result of last night's meeting degenerates the Hotels Grenada and City into temperance boarding-houses till other signers can be procured.

PLAINFIELD WOMEN THEIR LEADERS.

After the Day's Work, They Will Go Through the Aaronic Parting.

The Union County School of Methods, of which Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of this city, is president, will meet in the Presbyterian chapel at Cranford, Thursday, March 23. The programme will be:

MORNING.

10:00—Devotions...Mrs. T. C. Bodine, Dunellen
Welcome.... Mrs. N. Hughes, Cranford
Roll Call. Minutes of Executive Committee, Appointment of Committees, Resolution, Courtesy, Pages.
10:30—Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. J. Hatfield, Westfield
10:45—Soldiers, Sailors, Firemen and Railroad Men..........Miss Mamie Titus, Westfield
11:00—Report of National Convention, at Denver...............Mrs. S. Wilson, Rahway
11:15—Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss S. J. Kerva, Elizabeth
11:30—Consecration Service, Mrs. M. F. Francess, Elizabeth Offering.
12:00—Noontide Prayer.
Collation.
1:00—Executive Committee Meeting.

AFTERNOON.

1:30—Praise Service, Miss C. B. Eaton, Plainfield
2:00—How does the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Benefit its Members, Miss Clara Peck, Dunellen
2:15—Free Parliament.
President's Duties, Mrs. G. S. Mosher, Westfield
Recording Secretary Duties, Mrs. H. C. VanDyke, Elizabeth
Corresponding Secretary Duties, Mrs. S. F. Carpenter, Roselle
Treasurer's Duties, Mrs. S. B. Kross, Plainfield
3:45—Question Box, Mrs. E. Bourne, State President W. C. T. U.
4:15—Mothers' Meetings, Mrs. J. C. Fernald, Plainfield
4:30—Poem.........Miss Celia Gardner, Rahway
Offering.
Aaronic Benediction.

EVENING.

Devotions.
Address—Deborah in Battle, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Vice-President New York State W. C. T. U.

MRS. MUMFORD WILL SPEAK.

Other Plainfield Liberal Women Will Take Part in the Day's Doings.

The New York League of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women, of which there is a branch in Plainfield, will hold their regular monthly meeting at the Lenox Avenue church, New York, corner of Lenox avenue and 121st street, Friday, March 3, at 11 a. m. The programme will include: "Organized Work of the Unitarian Body"; Miss Lilian Freeman Clarke, of Boston, a daughter of the late Rev. James Freeman Clarke, will speak of the American Unitarian association; Mrs. Emily A. Fifield, of Boston, will speak of the National Conference and Woman's Alliance, a branch of which was organized in Plainfield in 1890.

"The Western Conference will be represented by the Rev. [illegible], of [illegible] Ill.; the Middle States Conference by Mrs. Anna W. Longstreet, of Philadelphia, President of the New Century Club; the Unitarian Sunday-school society by Mrs. Thomas J. Mumford, of Plainfield; the Southern Alliance by Mrs. George L. Chaney, of Richmond, Va.; Miss Everett, of Boston, and Mrs. F. B. Skinner of Philadelphia, will speak of the work of the post office mission at 1:30 p. m. All women are invited.

H. P. T. FINCH KNOWS HIM,

And Says Secretary Smith Will be One of President Cleveland's Brainiest Advisers.

H. P. T. Finch, formerly editor of the Atlanta Constitution, and now a resident of this city, was very indignant about the attack upon President Cleveland's new Secretary of the Interior, in an interview given by congressman Barnes Compton, of Maryland.

"The congressman asks, apparently with a sneer," said Mr. Finch, "'Who is Hoke Smith?' If he had asked any of his colleagues below the Virginia line he would have quickly gained the information he claims to lack. Not a man is better nor more favorably known in the South. Smith is a man of untiring industry and capacity.

"He possesses more force of character than any man I know in the State of Georgia. He commands a larger law practice than many of those who so unjustly criticise him. As a politician he has by clean, conscientious work succeeded where many another has failed. He is a newspaper editor in the same sense that Singerly, of Philadelphia, is.

"Smith is a man of culture and clear convictions. The educational system of Georgia owes much to him and his father, who is still living. His only brother, Burton, married senator John B. Gordon's daughter.

"I can not explain congressman Compton's attack. Four years ago Mr. Smith participated very actively in the movement to overthrow protection in Georgia, and drove its disciples out of the party. He repeated the process two years later, and last year, when Protectionism joined hands with Hillism and demagogism in general, he led the old Jacksonian Democracy and scattered its enemies. Perhaps this may explain why Compton does not like Smith. The next Secretary of the Interior will prove one of the brainiest and most courageous advisers Mr Cleveland has called to his side. The country will soon know and appreciate the brave tariff-reform leader of Georgia."

It's the Unions This Year.

The opening shoot of the series of matches of the New Jersey Trap Shooters' League was held Tuesday at Springfield under the auspices of the Union Gun club. The entries for the sweepstakes were unusually large, but only eight teams competed in the main event, which was won by the Union Gun club by a score of 100 out of a possible 125 blue rocks. Just as the team contest commenced a blinding snow storm set in which prevented any remarkable scores being made.

The conditions of the team match were five men to a team, each to shoot at 25 blue rocks under American Shooting Association rules. The referee was Edward Reeves of the Maplewood Gun club. The team scores were:

Union Gun Club—Pudney, 18; "Dutchy" Smith, 20; J. L. Smith, 17; Miller, 24; Sigler, 21. Total, 100.

Maplewood Gun Club—J. W. Smith, 20; Dean, 18; Drake, 19; Sickler, 22; VanDyke, 19. Total, 98.

South Side Gun Club—Hobden, 18; Geoffrey, 19; Hobart, 17; Whitehead, 20; Breintnall, 21. Total, 95.

Independent Gun Club—Terry, 21; Keller, 16; Apgar, 16; Brastingham, 20; Soper, 17. Total, 90.

Boiling Springs Fishing and Gun Club—Hauck, 14; J. Apgar, 20; Killam, 16; Collins, 18; Pond, 18. Total, 86.

Endeavor Gun Club—Collins, 20; Mehl, 18; Heritage, 18; Creveling, 18; McPeel, 23. Total, 87.

Myrtle Gun Club—Allen, 18; Putnam, 17; Smith, 13; Compton, 17; Young, 15. Total, 80.

Passaic City Gun Club—Wise, 16; Shaw, 20; Cosmos, 15; Kent, 11; Abbott, 16. Total, 78.

An Evening of Choice Music.

The audience in the First Baptist church Tuesday night was a highly appreciative one, and testified by frequent and vociferous applause its enjoyment of the musical feast provided. The organist was W. E. MacClymont, and the vocalists were Miss Florence A. Underwood, soprano, and the Dresden Trio, consisting of Alfred Norbury, alto, Frederick A. Lewis, tenor, and Frederick J. Pope, baritone. The programme was as follows:

1. J. S. Bach;
Toccata, C major...................Organ
2. Dr. Callcott:
Peace to the Soul of the Heroes....Trio
3. {a. Dudley Buck:—At Evening, Idyll
{b. G. F. Handel:—Largo, Arr. Whitney} Organ
4. C. Gounod:
"Lend me your aid," Queen of Sheba, Soprano
5. A. Guilmant:
Grand Choeur..........................Organ
6. Dudley Buck:
The Last Rose of Summer, Var...Organ
7. Dr. Callcott:
Who comes so dark......................Trio
8. F. De La Tombelle:
March Pontifical........................Organ
9. Henry Lincoln Case:
Cradle Song...........................Soprano
10. Oscar Kreutzer:
Overture—"Night in Granada,"..Organ

Though Mr. MacClymont is always a favorite, and Miss Underwood sang very sweetly, the Dresden Trio were given an especially gratifying reception. Their first selection was well received, at their second an encore was insisted on and they sang "A Little Farm Well Tilled", and at a second re all more acknowledgement was not sufficient but they had to sing "Dame Durden".

Exactly Our Sentiments.

(Trenton True American.)

The nomination of Senator Marsh to be Prosecutor of the Pleas of Union county is in every way creditable. There are few brighter or more honorable men than Senator Marsh, and his retention in the public service is a public advantage.

Stimulate the Blood.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the great blood purifier. They are a purgative and blood tonic, they act equally on the bowels, the kidneys and the skin, thus cleansing the system by the natural outlet of the body—they may be called the purgative sudorific and diuretic medicine. They stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cure disease no matter by what name it may be called. One or two of them taken every night will prove an infallible remedy.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm: It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease catarrh, and used every available medicine which was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. S. Jones, M. D., No. 1253 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

[illegible] Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

TO L T—House with barn, shed and grounds, Washington valley near gristmill. Mrs. D Bartell, p. o. box 316 3 2 2

Special Master's Sale.

The Subscriber, one of the Special Masters of the Court of Chancery of the State of New Jersey, by virtue of an order made by the Chancellor of this State, bearing date on the 2d day of February, 1893, in a cause pending in said Court, on a bill filed for partition of certain lands, wherein William [illegible] is complainant and Cyrus [illegible] et. al. are defendants, will expose for sale at public vendue at the [illegible], in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, on

MONDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF APRIL, 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon, all the following described property, to wit:

All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the Township of Westfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a stake in the [illegible] and forks of the roads near a house now or lately occupied by [illegible]; thence [illegible] [illegible]

CHARLES A. REED,
Special Master.
Dated February 2nd, 1893.
NELSON RUNYON, Solicitor Plainfield, N. J.
2 3 w 6

SHERIFF'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.—Between The Plainfield Building and Loan Association complainant and Thomas J. Clarkson et. al. defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J. on

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF MARCH, A. D 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the southeasterly line of Orchard place, in the northwesterly line of John [illegible] land; thence running south westerly along said southeasterly line of Orchard place thirty feet; thence [illegible] [illegible]

W. H. HICKS, Sheriff.
J. CRAIG & COODINGTON, Sol'rs.
C. E. & C. Fees $7.50
2 16 6

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the accounts of the subscriber, executors of [illegible], deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of April next.

Dated February 13, 1893.
MARGARET S CADMUS,
FREEMAN C DAMUS.
2 16 9

NOTICE. JAN. 25, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hatfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, administrators of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from this date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WILLIAM HETFIELD,
EDWARD TERRY,
Administrators.
1 26 9

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In chancery of New Jersey.—Between Jacob Welsh and Matthias T. Welsh, Administrators etc., complainants and James Craig et ux defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey commencing at a point where the easterly line of Duncan avenue intersects the center line of Jefferson avenue; thence running north fifty-seven degrees and [illegible] [illegible]

Being the same premises conveyed to James Craig by deed of William Craig and others, dated May 17th, 1888 and recorded in the Clerk's Office of Union County in Book 209 of Deeds on page 254, etc.

W. HICKS, Sheriff.
JOHN H. VAN WINKLE, Solicitor.
F. F. & C. Fees $8.82. 2 2w5

WANTED AT ONCE. SALESMEN FOR THIS LOCALITY
Splendid Opportunity
for a live, energetic man. We offer BETTER FACILITIES and Better Terms than ever. Salary or commission. Write for our Special Offer.
HOOKER, GROVER & CO.
Rochester Fruit Farm and Nurseries, Established 1869. Rochester, N. Y.
2 4 9—3 16 3m

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE
25 West Front Street,
Would respectfully inform the public that in addition to its usual stock of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,
It has added a full line of
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at
Reasonable Prices!
[illegible]
C. E. [illegible]

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey—Between Jacob H. Van Deventer, complainant, and Jane Titsworth, et. al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF APRIL, A. D., 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a [illegible] [illegible]

W. H. HICKS, Sheriff.
WM. M. STILLMAN, Solicitor.
C&AC Fees $9.70 3-2 w6

TOWNSEND'S
Marble & Granite Works,
30 SOMERSET STREET,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the consumer, of the commission usually paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,
Manager. 8 11 tf
Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
6 8tf

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of James G. Cadmus, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 29, 1-92.
12 1 16 MARVIN E. WOODEN.

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun
Is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year
Daily, by mail, $6 a year
Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year
Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for
PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

NEWARK
BEE HIVE
THINGS SOLD THERE THAT MAKE THE GREAT STORE IT IS REASONABLE PRICED SELLERS
BEE HIVE
OF RELIABLE MERCHANDISE.
CUT OUT AND SAVE FOR REFERENCE
STOCK LIST, No. 3.
Dry Goods Department

LINENS
German, Scotch and Irish Table Linens.
Huck and Damask Towels.
Table Scarfs, Runners and Splashers.
Towelings, in the various widths.
Lunch, Dinner and Tea Sets.
Turkey Red and Cardinal Table Covers.
Napkins and Doilies, in all sizes.
Plain and Colored Pattern Table Covers.
Linen Sheets and Pillow Cases.
Plain Sheeting and Blouse Linens.
Turkish Towels.
Traveling and Bath Robes.
Table Felt and Wash Cloths.
Linen and Cotton Bird's Eye.

FLANNELS
Blue, White and Scarlet, in plain and twilled.
German and French Wrapper Flannel.
Skirts and Skirtings.
Plain and Fancy Eiderdown.
Crepes, in evening shades.
Bedford Cords, in evening shades.
Cheese and Danish Cloths.
Canton Flannels, in colored bleached and unbleached.

LININGS
Cambrics Silicias
Crinolines Elastic Canvas
Printed Sateens Plain Sateens
Percalines (plain) Percalines (fancy)
Jeans Linen Waist Linings
Farmers' Satins Mohairs
Hair Cloths Silk Curtains
Shirtings

NO BRANCH STORES
L. S. PLAUT & CO.
707 to 721 Broad Street,
NEWARK, N. J.
[illegible]

SAVE
TWENTY PER CENT.
AMOS H. VANHORN,
73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.
25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10.
25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.
25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.
25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,
Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.
NO BRANCH STORES.
10-4-1y

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,
Newark Clothiers,
779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street.
10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM [illegible]
CATARRH
Gives Relief at once for Cold in Head. [illegible]

STOVES. STOVES

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,
Successors to Plainfield Hardware Co. [illegible] West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Mr. Wilcox, of Westfield, sent 11 dogs to the bench show, and five of them took first prize.

—A cock fight took place between Fanwood and Westfield Saturday night. Fanwood won 9 out of 11 battles.

—Merchants report eggs higher at this season of this season of the year, than for many years past.

—Two of the windows in judge L. F. Wadsworth's abiding place were blown out by the recent gale.

—Between here and Warrenville, Wednesday, milkmen had to shovel their way through the snow in order to reach town

—Somerville is about to extend her gas mains to light Bound Brook. They always did have gas to spare in Somerville.

—The Ladies' Aid society of the Dunellen Presbyterian church have selected Tuesday evening, March 7, for a "Sale of Sweets".

—Terry's sea-food market at 23½ North avenue is a popular headquarters for both scale and shell fish. His early shad is especially fine.

—It is understood that Andrew Lutkins has purchased a plot of ground on Park avenue with a frontage of 250 feet and a depth of 200 feet.

—Sportsmen are fearful that the last snow fall will finish up the extermination of quail, in consequence of the thick crust forming during the night.

—Conductor William E. Haynes has been elected general chairman of the grievance committee of the Central road, with headquarters in Jersey City.

—On Sunday afternoon the Sunday-school of the Park Place chapel will celebrate its first anniversary. There will be interesting exercises by the children.

—The Western Union night operator at the North avenue station wears a beautifully ornamented eye. Usher Ed Martin punched him for trying to keep his broom —Farmers are complaining of the scarcity of good help and find it almost impossible to hire good farm hands notwithstanding the fact that wages are good.

—A party of Plainfielders, four in number, met with an accident on East Front street Wednesday morning. No one was injured, but all were thrown out and badly shaken up.

—A sleighing party of 16 young people, from Fanwood, en route to this city, tried to turn around near Netherwood, Thursday evening, and the entire party went into a snow bank.

—Five girls, whose ages range from 14 to 18 years, stood in front of Vanderbeek's sporting house Thursday evening and prevailed upon an unsuspecting youth to take them to the ball.

—S. T. Champion, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., has leased the Crescent rink for the months of March, April and May. He will supply merry-go-round and skating pleasures.

—Building movers have succeeded in placing safely upon its foundation the house of C. Potter, jr., which he moved from Seventh and Division streets to Sixth and Division.

—Alred Norbury and John Naylor, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, have the gratitude of Charles and Albert Cook for the prompt and full settlement of the death claim of their mother.

—Theodore Dunlap, who has been reported as ill, is a pretty healthy specimen of a sick man. He says people have been confusing him with someone else. He hasn't been away, he isn't ill, and outsiders are caring for him.

—"Nick" VanWinkle of Mt. Bethel has gone in partnership, it is understood, with George Conover on North avenue. Van Winkle has recently traded a house he owned on Summit avenue for a farm at Mt. Bethel, and his brother John will work the farm.

—The office of city treasurer Alexander Titsworth will soon be removed to what may be termed the "City Hall", in the Coward building on Park avenue. He will give up the tailoring business, and the United State Express company will occupy his vacant store.

—The second dance of the Independent Fife and Drum corps was held Tuesday evening in Hulett's hall, West Front street. Fully 80 people attended. All had such a good time that they want the committee to give another one soon. The music was of the finest kind, for O'Riley furnished it.

—The horizontal bar is used in the class in gymnastics at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. There will in the future be piano accompaniment to its exercise. An opportunity is still afforded to young men to join the class, which meets every Saturday evening under the leadership of E. L. Walz, jr.

—The male aspirants for the postmastership of Roselle have done a graceful deed in withdrawing from rivalry against Miss Emma Lora Kingsland, a charming young orphan fresh from school, who will be a lovely ornament to the office. The rush for stamps at Roselle is bound to be tremendous with so fair a creature as Miss Lora dispensing the little stickers.

—The second number of Current Topics, that most admirable publication of which Prof. Edwin H. Lewis of this city is literary editor, is published, and shows improvement over even the excellent initial issue. Mr. Lewis's novelette "The Wolfsbane" grows in interest. The scenes are laid in New Jersey, and the story has strong local coloring as well as high literary merit.

—Fulper & Bingham, the proprietors of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association, have secured for Plainfield and vicinity the exclusive continuous control of the premiums and punch card system issued by the Manufacturers' Book company, of Philadelphia. They say that the merchants of this city can only receive these books through their firm.

—A disreputable scene was that on Park avenue, near the Baptist church, Saturday afternoon. A number of young men ranging around 14 years of age, belonging to the best families of the city, "amused" themselves snowballing the turnouts of the ladies who drove by, frightening their horses and greatly alarming them. These young "gentlemen" were not choice in their language, either.

—The recent severe snow storm has been hard upon the few surviving quail from last fall's gunning. One gentleman from Chester, N. J., writes THE PRESS that quail were never before so plentiful in that section as they were last fall, but he fears the hard winter has killed the most of them. He himself has found several bevies containing from ten to fifteen birds that were frozen to death. He proposes liberating some 200 live quail for re-stocking purposes in the spring.

—The borough sidewalks have been kept in unusually good condition, and comparatively free from snow and ice, this winter, but there are still some walks about which complaint is made. Mayor Saunders, when spoken to this morning on the subject, said that the walks east of Somerset street were in charge of Councilman Connolly of the committee on streets, and those west of Somerset in charge of Councilman Hegeman. To them, all complaints should be made, and they will have the street commissioner attend to each walk.

—The Y. M. C. A. lectures will be given in the First Baptist church.

—S. H. Pour of West Front street, shot a wild turkey in West Virginia recently, which weighed 25 pounds. He had it mounted.

—The Plainfield Water Supply company has rented as an office of ex-judge Ulrich, the premises formerly occupied by pharmacist Mailinson.

—A farmer near Mt. Pleasant has 750 heads of cabbage buried in the ground, and the snow has drifted so high that he cannot get to them and transfer them to market.

—The Democrats of North Plainfield will hold their primary for the nomination of borough and township candidates at Democratic headquarters, 85 Somerset street, Friday evening.

—It may not be generally known, but a city ordinance prohibits the running of sleighs or other vehicles on runners, unless there are bells attached. This law is daily violated, to the danger of pedestrians.

—Cholera seems to be epidemic among poultry. Within the past two weeks Wm. D. Muckey of Dog Corners has lost over 150 chickens from this disease. Ten or twelve of his fowls have been buried each day, and they are still dying off. Other farmers in that locality report large losses.

—The amount of appropriation for borough board of health work this year should be increased. The possibility of cholera makes the need of a larger appropriation imperative. The borough board has always been short of funds, and should not be financially crippled in case a crisis occurs.

—An oyster supper was recently held at the residence of J. M. Rowley, near the Jackson school-house, between Plainfield and Rahway, for the purpose of creating a fund to start the foundation of a new chapel there. The weather was bad, and the net proceeds only amounted to something like $25.

—Experiments to show the nature of fire will be made at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening by Franklin S. Smith, of the High school. Phosphorous will be made to burn under water. Iron will be made to burn, and many other illustrations of combustion will be shown. The admission will be free to all men.

—The residents at the western part of the city feel very grateful to Thomas Hoonan, one of the faithful employes at the Pond Tool Works, for the manner in which he has cleared the sidewalk of snow from the shop to Grant avenue. People have been complaining very much about the condition it had been left for the previous three weeks, when it was almost impossible to walk, pedestrians having to take to the roadway.

—The council has granted all the saloons the privilege to sell liquor another year no matter what kind of property owners signed their applications, but has refused the hotels a license on a purely technical point which, however, will close them up unless there are some property owners in the First ward who are willing for the sake of the credit and business interests of the city to step up and sign to keep Messrs. Miller and Beerbower's hotels open. Who'll do it?

PERSONALIA.

J. Brittian Martin is ill at his home.

Cashier Frank H. Gardner of the City bank is very ill.

Mrs. Chas. Francisco is seriously ill at her home, 79 West Second street.

Miss A. DeCamp of Chester, Morris county, is a guest of Miss Force of Duer street.

Miss Minnie Lindabury of High Bridge is visiting her uncle, David N. Force, of Summit avenue.

A. Vanderbeek received a large box of beautiful flowers from his wife in the South Saturday.

A. Vegiard, of Rochester, is visiting his son, J. T. Vegiard, and will remain for a few weeks.

Mrs. David McMurtree has returned to her Sycamore avenue home from her winter residence in New York.

Attorney DeMeza has been appointed a notary public by Governor Werts, through the courtesy of Assemblyman Lane.

D. S. Dunavan is able to be out again after being confined to his home for two weeks with diphtheretic sore throat.

Lieutenant Shano, of the Salvation Army, is confined to the house by a severe attack of ulcerated sore throat.

The friends of Peter Weaver, and the people whom he serves so faithfully as letter carrier, are rejoiced to see him out again after his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray are registered at the Ponce De Leon, St. Augustine, Florida. They are looking well and feeling first class.

All honor to senator Marsh of "our" county, and senator Keys of North Plainfield's county, who voted Wednesday against all the race-track bills.

Adam Mantz, who had all four of his hands and feet amputated, some ten days ago, is fast recovering, and there is every reason to believe that he will be entirely well again.

W. B. Arnold with the "Still Alarm" Co., spent Saturday and Sunday with his niece, Mrs. J. T. Vegiard, of 49 North avenue, leaving yesterday for Baltimore to join his company.

A party on the eve of Washington's Birthday, that lasted until the dawn of the next day, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Barr, LaGrande avenue, Tuesday night.

Bishop Adams, of the Diocese of Easton, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kosfoed, 21 Putnam avenue, during the meeting of the House of Bishops, which begins March 1.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Muckey of Dog Corners will celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary on the 10th of May. It will be a china wedding, and about seventy-five people will be present.

The Rev. James Walker, who met with so horrible a death in the Pennsylvania Railroad accident at Philadelphia Wednesday, was a classmate of the Rev. T. Logan Murphy of North Plainfield.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has been eloquently representing the Seventh-Day Baptists of Pennsylvania before the Keystone State Legislature, asking for the total repeal of the Sunday law of 1794.

The Senate on Tuesday confirmed the nomination of the Hon. Thomas F. McCormick as lay judge of Union county. This re-appointment is a good one and meets with the approval of all good citizens.

The New Jersey Woman's Suffrage association, of which Mrs. David P. Hall of this city is president, will listen to a lecture by Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman of Missouri, in Union Hall, Orange, March 4, at 11 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. French of West Fourth street are the latest who rejoice over an addition to their household. A little girl was born to them on Tuesday morning. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says that among the gifts to the bride at the Belmer-Coddington wedding, was a gift of $400 from Plainfield's judge W. A. Coddington, brother of the bride, and a handsome parlor clock from the judge's wife.

The Rev. L. E. Livermore has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of New Market. He will leave about May 1, for Alfred Centre, N. Y., where he has accepted the position of editor of the Sabbath Recorder. His [illegible]

Miss Byrdee Randolph of 18 Westervelt avenue is home from a two years' tour abroad.

Mrs. E. D. Titsworth of West Sixth street is slowly recovering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Miss Beatrice Craig of West Fourth street returned home on Monday from a visit among friends at Bordentown.

Daniel VanWinkle, of Duer street, who has been ill for the past three weeks, is convalescent and hopes soon to be out again.

M. C. VanArsdale has bought a shoe business at Greenwich, Conn., and will be joined there by his wife and family April 1.

The many friends of Mr. Dean, the popular employe of the Potter Press works, will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his severe illness, and has again resumed charge of the roller mould department. He received the congratulations of his fellow-workmen on his first appearance.

Miss Mabel Force of Bound Brook on Tuesday evening gave a peanut party to friends from Plainfield, New Brunswick and Finderne. The first prizes were won by Miss Myra Smith and Bert Henry, and the booby prizes by Miss Giles and Mr. Honeyman. Dancing was indulged in, and abundant refreshments were served.

Paderewski, who was at one time a pupil of Leschetitsky, who also numbered among his scholars Mr. Venino of this city, has become so interested in the latter's book on Pedal Methods that he asked Mr. Venino to grant him a personal interview on March 10. Mr. Venino has signified to Mr. Paderewski his sincere appreciation of the honor and his cordial acceptance of the favor accorded him.

Miss Phoebe Mills and Miss Emma Gillam gave a progressive euchre party Tuesday afternoon. The prizes were won by Miss Lizzie Smalley and Miss Jennie VanWinkle. Chocolate and cake were served in the tea set which had belonged to Miss Gillam's grandmother. Among the guests were Miss Ernie Smith, Miss Jennie VanWinkle, Miss Lillian Force, Miss May Stelle, Mrs. B. Vail, Miss Mabel Woodruff, Miss Maude Benton of Dunellen, Miss Minnie Force of Bound Brook and Miss Lizzie DeCamp of Chester.

Among the recent arrivals in Westfield is Miss Erma L. Gregory a clever and talented elocutionist. She is a native of South Norwalk, Conn., and studied with the celebrated Siebel. Miss Gregory recited last week at the entertainment given by the Union County band, and was warmly received. She possesses a pleasing presence, a well modulated voice, which coupled with rare dramatic ability perfected by long and conscientious training has placed her name well up on the list of popular entertainers. Her delineations of Irish and German characters have won for her the enthusiastic plaudits of many New York audiences. The band will repeat its entertainment March 9, and Miss Gregory will again appear.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard of East Front street were present in New York when their brother and wife, Colonel and Mrs. Shepard, on Saturday night of last week, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage by giving a family dinner party, at which were present the various members of the W. H. Vanderbilt family now in New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Shepard's immediate family. The table was decorated with bride roses, many hundreds of these blossoms being used and placed in silver vases. For each woman there was as a souvenir of the occasion a silver vase inscribed with the date of the anniversary, and each with monogram of the person receiving it. There were clusters of bride roses in each vase.

Mr. Ham, who is to give a most interesting lecture on "Manual Training" in All Souls' church March 16, will be entertained at luncheon that afternoon by Mrs. Edward D. McCarthy of 202 Park avenue. Others at the luncheon will be Mrs. Ham and daughters, who are popularly known in Plainfield's social circles, where they have frequently attended receptions and similar events. Prof. Goodyear, who that afternoon delivers his final lecture in the Egyptian course, will also be entertained by Mrs. McCarthy, and Mr. Ham and family will attend the Goodyear lecture. Mr. Ham is an intimate friend of Mrs. Charles S. Munn, and he and his family will be guests of Mrs. Munn during their stay here, except during the hours of the luncheon given by Mrs. McCarthy. The ushers at the Ham lecture will be Messrs. J. P. Munn, Howard Huntington, Irving West and Orville Waring.

THE POWER OF THE TRAINED HAND.

The Legend of Adam and the Stick, the Symbol of Power.

The Hon. Charles H. Ham, who is to lecture on Manual Training in All Souls' church, the eve of March 16, tells the following interesting story, illustrative of the stick as the symbol of power, which only the hand can wield—that hand which imprisons streams and electricity and keeps them applied at hard labor:

"It has been remarked that man is the wisest of animals because he has hands. It is equally true that he is the most powerful of animals because he has hands. It is with the hand that man has subdued all the animals. There is a legend to the effect that on the day when Adam revolted against his Maker, the animals in their turn revolted against him and ceased to obey him. Adam called on the Lord for help, and the Lord commanded him to take a branch from the nearest tree and make of it a weapon, and strike with it the first animal that should refuse to obey him. Adam seized the branch, the leaves fell from it of their own accord, and he found himself furnished with a stick proportioned to his weight. When the animals saw this weapon in the hands of the man they were seized with an instinctive fear mingled with wonder, and they did not dare to attack him. A lion alone, bolder than the rest, leaped upon him to down him, but Adam, who stood upon his guard, swift as lightning whirled his stick and felled him to the earth with a single blow! At this sight the terror of the other animals was so great that they approached him trembling and in token of their submission licked the stick that he held in his hand."

"The hand no longer grasps the stick; it no longer menaces mankind. It wields the mechanical powers. It makes ploughs, planters, harvesters, sewing machines, locomotives and steamship. It digs canals, opens mines, builds bridges, makes roads, erects mills and factories, constructs harbors and docks, reclaims waste lands, and covers the globe with tracks of steel over which the commerce of the world is borne."

Forged a Check and Skipped.

A young man, seventeen years old, and the son of respectable parents living in North Plainfield, is alleged to have forged a $5 check upon a reputable citizen of the borough, Monday, and passed the same on Sigmund Frucht of East Front street, receiving in return a $3 revolver and the balance in money.

Frucht presented the check to one of the banks for payment, but it was not honored, and ever since he has been looking for the maker of it.

The [illegible] Nick Again.

Marshal Pangborn is on the warpath after Nick Kelly, who once was a Plainfield policeman. The marshal says that last night Kelly went to the home of his deserted and hard-working wife on Emily street, abused her with vile language, and struck and choked her. A warrant is out.

[illegible]

A WOMAN ROBS A WAR VETERAN.

Said She Was a Soldier's Widow, and Made Herself Useful in the House.

Some weeks ago a woman called at the residence on the county road between Plainfield and Linden, of Clement Schwartz, an old soldier, and told him she was destitute. She gave him a letter which recommended her as the widow of a veteran of the war and worthy of aid.

Schwartz is 72 years old, and gets a pension of $12 a month. His only companion is his wife, aged 65, who is blind and lame. He took a fancy to the widow, and invited her to call again after entertaining her in a hospitable manner. Friday she made another visit, and offered to do some mending for the aged couple, and Schwartz gladly accepted her services. She sent him to Roselle to get some spools of thread, and when he got back he found the woman had disappeared, taking with her all his savings, $600, which was kept in a pocketbook in his trunk. The lid of the trunk was smashed.

The thief had ransacked the entire house in his absence. She took the letter of recommendation she gave him on her first visit. He implored the police of this city and Elizabeth to help him recover his money. The only one clue to work on was that the thief had said she knew a woman named Annie Wright, who lived in Rahway. The latter was found to be finishing a 90-day term for vagrancy in the Essex county jail. She was brought to Elizabeth Saturday evening, but denied any acquaintance with the thief.

ANOTHER DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.

That Egyptian Series Becoming Very Popular.

The second of Prof. Goodyear's lectures at All Souls' church on Egyptian Art and Civilization, Thursday afternoon, had, if anything, a larger audience than the initial one given last week.

The lecturer began by emphasizing the importance of Egypt as the key to the route to India and the natural wealth and advantages of the country agriculturally. These statements were all given a clearer meaning by the numerous illustrations of modern Egypt and of the types of the various inhabitants. Mr. Goodyear then traced back the different races through the changes of fortune of the country—the Copts back to the ancient Egyptians—the Arabs to the followers of Mahomet, etc., showing that the present people of Egypt are in reality descendants, with very slight mixture of foreign blood, of the races that have inhabited the country for thousands of years. He then gave a brief history of the country from the beginning of the Christian era through the crusades and to the present day. The most interesting feature of the lecture was the collection of views of the specimens of sculpture and paintings belonging to the most remote period of Egyptian history; about 4,000 years before Christ. These specimens are of a much higher artistic excellence than those of later periods. The few remaining examples of this early epoch point to the fact that inhabitants of Egypt were then far more advanced in the arts than they have been in any subsequent age, and that the zenith of her civilization came before the records of hieroglyphics, or more than 6,000 years ago.

The lecture was concluded by an explanation of the nature of some of the hieroglyphics—the evolution of purely pictorial writing down to the alphabetical inscriptions of the monuments of later date. Illustrations were given of many of the inscriptions.

There will be three more of these most interesting lectures on the successive Thursdays of March 2, 9 and 16.

HOW CAN WHAT'S RIGHT, BE CORRECTED?

Councilman Case Himself Has Indorsed the Hotel Applications.

The license applications of the proprietors of the City Hotel and the Hotel Grenada, are each indorsed as follows:

THE APPLICATION CONFORMS TO THE ORDINANCE. R. K. CASE.

But at councilman Case's suggestion the applications have been returned to Mr. Beerbower and Mr. Miller for "correction".

And, as the city clerk gleefully remarks in his paper, "This action will prevent these hotels from carrying on their bar business for fully a month's time", while the saloons will continue to florish uninterruptedly.

It seems as if Mr. Miller and Mr. Beerbower have good ground for a suit against the city for damages.

Plainfield's Loss North Plainfield's Gain.

William H. Cawley, of Somerville, has sold his bottling business to Charles Voorhees for $20,000. This includes the bottling establishment and a dwelling house and lot. Mr. Voorhees formerly kept the Mansion House at Bound Brook. Cawley contemplated engaging in the bottling business in this city, and to purchase property for the purpose, but a remonstrance against granting him a license in the Second Ward being circulated, he withdrew his application, and now contemplates purchasing property in North Plainfield for his business.

You Can't Beat the Democrats.

The political teams of the Park club did great bowling Saturday night. The Democrats won again, by the score of 1509 to 1432. This is better than the average in the Journal race. Mr. Brooks was umpire.

Lots of Work, and He's the Man to Do It.

(From The Engineering News.)

William L. Saunders, M. Am. Soc. C. E., engineer and secretary of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Co., of New York, will in all probability be re-elected to his present position of mayor of North Plainfield, N. J., as the unanimous choice of both political parties. By his engineering knowledge he has already well served the citizens of North Plainfield in many ways, notably in prescribing the rail section of the new electric railway, before a franchise was granted, and as the subject of sewerage is now a prominent issue there is evidently more good work to be done by the engineer mayor.

Plainfield Society Set the Style.

(Dunellen Weekly Call.)

The West End circle gave a delightful social at the residence of Isaac T. Giddis. More than the usual number of invitations were given out to this entertainment, and about thirty couple were present. Prof. O'Reilly, of Plainfield, furnished the music. Among the out of town guests were Misses Force, DeCamp, Garretson, Fisher and Loomis, Mrs. Canfield, and Messrs. VanEmburgh, Huff, McIntyre, Crawford, Rainsford and Canfield, all of Plainfield.

These Honest Papers Always Give Credit.

(From The Westfield Standard.)

The Plainfield Press and the Constitutionalist know a good thing when they see it. They copied our bank story almost entirely, pictures and all. It is not necessary to add that they gave the Standard full credit.

Jealous Rahway!

(From The Rahway Advocate.)

"Oh for a good ball team!" exclaims the Plainfield Press. [illegible]

WOULDNT THANK WERTS

UNPLEASANT FEATURE OF THE ANTI-RACE-TRACK MEETING.

Everyone Unanimous That the Jockey Legislation Was an Outrage, But Republican Plainfield Would Not Give Credit to the Stalwart Democrat Who Did All in His Power to Stop It.

From The Press of February 27.

The indignation meeting in Music Hall yesterday broke up in disorder over the question whether or not Governor Werts should be given credit by the citizens assembled for his courageous veto of the race-track bills which were subsequently passed over his veto

The hall contained a large number of representative citizens, such as noted in the following list:

F. H. Andrews,
C. F. Abbott,
H. B. Newhall,
Morgan Taylor,
A. B. Hearn,
W. R. Codington,
Andrew Vanderbeek,
Charles Horn,
Townsend Rushmore,
Henry Howland,
Charles Fisk,
Frank Marsh,
J. H. Brown,
John Demes,
W. E. Lowe,
T. S. Armstrong,
Roger Murray,
Henry Squires,
H. K. Newell,
W. H. Sampson,
G. H. K. Smith,
Ephraim Miller,
Col. R. K. Case,
C. W. McCutchen,
John Ross,
C. M. Field,
M. S. Ackerman,
Andrew Gavett,
Martin L. Cooley,
L. N. Lovell,
Charles Schermerhorn,
Dr. Kimball,
Charles Wadsworth,
George Cornwall,
E. C. Perkins,
B. A. Hegeman, sr.,
B. A. Hegeman, jr.,
John Ulrich,
Dr. H. H. Lowrie,
Stephen Coboune,
E. B. Pope,
B. F. Day,
H. E. Bowen,
Frank Curtis,
George A. Frost,
Prof. Frank Smith,
A. M. Runyon,
Dr. Tomlinson,
Robert Mosher,
T. O. Doane,
A. Slauson,
Major D. W. Miller,
J. R. Burnett,
Lemuel Serrell,
Deane VanVliet,
J. Gavett,
George Grant.

The stage was occupied by Mayor Gilbert, who presided, Mayor Saunders, who was overlooked in the call for speeches because he had lost his mustache and wasn't recognized, and various of the local clergy.

The speech-makers besides Mayor Gilbert were the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, the Rev. W. E. Honeyman, School Superintendent Henry Maxson, the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, and Editor A. M. Powell of The Philanthropist. They all emphatically denounced the legislators who rushed the race-track bills through. Mr. Randolph was especially bitter, and denounced the bills as designed in the interests of criminal and vagabonds. Mr. Maxson said he was tempted to revise his school definition of a State capital as a place where the people's representatives met to enact good laws, and call it a place where the people were misrepresented and gamblers' interests were conserved.

All agreed that a strong and discouraging fight should be begun, the race-track legislators black-listed and turned down at the polls, and the race-track business made a paramount issue at the polls. Politics, it was urged, should be cast aside. The primaries should be attended and only such men nominated as were pledged in advance for law, order and good government. A letter in this same strain was read from Corporation Counsel Marsh, and supplication for Divine help and guidance was made by the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

When the speechmaking was ended, Mayor Gilbert presented the following resolutions, which he said had been prepared by "the committee":

Be it resolved, By citizens of Plainfield, in mass meeting assembled, on this Sunday, February 26, 1893.

First. That we denounce the said statutes to which our Legislators have sought to commit us as indecent recognitions of the worst influences and elements of our society. By the enactment of said statutes, the State of New Jersey has been humiliated and disgraced, and made to be a promoter of crime to the profit of the criminal classes.

Second. That the said statutes have been passed in violation of the undivided protest of all right minded citizens in defiance of a unanimous expression of disapproval by the respectable classes of society, and at the direct solicitation and procurement of men whose business is a system of cheating and false pretenses. The people who pay the taxes and support the State have been made to stand aside and the racetrack "sport" and book-maker led up into the Capitol and commanded over the great seal of the State.

Third. That the said statutes are boldly immoral and indecent, not only because they are based upon a recognition of the criminal classes, but because they serve to foster gambling in pool-rooms and places of resort outside of the State whereby New Jersey is made to first plant the miserable wrong, and then to spread it like a contagious disease. The corruption of her own people is not more to be deplored than that of the people of her sister States into which the telegraph carries each day the results of her moral turpitude.

Fourth. That we desire to express our sense of gratitude and obligation to those members of the legislature who resisted the passage of the said statutes. They will return to their constituents to receive assurances that they have earned the grateful commendation of the men and women whose lives and labors make their commendation of the largest place and value.

Fifth. That we believe it to be true that while debasing influences have again prevailed, the moral sense of the State has been so greatly wronged and outraged that the repeal of the obnoxious statutes cannot be permanently delayed. And we call on all good citizens to do whatever may be done to rescue the State from the great shame that has fallen upon her. Let this race-track abomination be made an issue at the polls—there is nothing more important to the State—and let all good men who deprecate the corruption of our youth, and of what Abraham Lincoln called "the common people" vote and work for the candidate who is for an unqualified reform.

Sixth. That we demand the repeal of these infamous laws. We demand their repeal in the name of all that is of good repute in the past and present of the State of New Jersey; in the name of her churches, her schools and the homes of her people; in the name of the duty she owes to herself; in the name of the purity of her institutions and the preservation of her fair fame before mankind. We demand the repeal of these laws because we have the right as tax-payers and voters to demand that the real voice of the people, speaking always for what is right and honorable before God and man, shall be respected and observed.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted without discussion. Then Dr. Yerkes suggested an amendment to thank Gov. Werts for his veto of the measures before they were adopted over his veto. Ex-Mayor Randolph seconded the amendment. Henry E. Bowen, editor of the Brooklyn edition of The Mail and Express, called for a rising vote. He is a red-hot Republican, and his evident object was to defeat the amendment. But John Ulrich from a box accomplished such defeat by moving to adjourn. Mr. Gilbert put the motion for adjournment, and though the vote seemed fairly divided declared it carried. The people began to leave the hall, while various angry voices were heard above the confusion.

"It's a shame"—exclaimed Mr. Randolph emphatically.—"The act of Gov. Werts was a fearless one, honestly performed; it should have the commendation of all honest men, and the Governor's motives should not be impugned."

But Republican Plainfield could not be sincere enough to give praise to Democratic Governor Werts, though he had by his brave action imperilled his future chances of political preferment at the hands of the powerful race-track schemers.

All this unjust partisan feeling, following so closely after the appeals for a casting aside of politics, showed how little effect those appeals had made.

The resolutions as adopted were ordered presented to Senator Marsh and Assemblyman Kyte with the request that they be read before the Legislature.

The newspaper reporters present were made the official secretaries. At the suggestion of Mr. Gilbert, a hearty vote of thanks was given to [illegible]

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

OBITUARY.

Edward Miller.

Edward Miller, a prominent citizen of Fanwood township and brother of Lewis W. Miller, for some years past the treasurer of the township of Fanwood, died at his residence on the old Miller farm at Scotch Plains on Sunday evening last after a short illness, leaving a widow and a son about nine years old. It is seldom that we are called upon to record the death of anyone whose place will be so difficult to fill in the affections of his townspeople.

Residing in Scotch Plains for more than 25 years, and during a large part of that time filling various township offices to which he was elected by the votes of friends in both parties, his extreme amiability, affectionate disposition, absolute unselfishness and unswerving honesty and integrity contributed to endear Mr. Miller to all with whom he had business or social relations. To no one could Halleck's beautiful lines be more appropriately applied:

"None knew thee but to love thee,
None named thee but to praise."

The funeral obsequies were held at the Baptist church at Scotch Plains Thursday afternoon at 3. The sermon was preached by the pastor, the Rev. J. H. Parks, D. D., and bore strong testimony to the virtues of the deceased.

DR. FIELD'S A SURGEON.

He Took a Useless Crippled Hand and Made a Perfect Member of It.

A wonderful surgical operation was performed by Dr. C. M. Field, assisted by Dr Genton, of this city, last Saturday, on the arm, wrist and hand of Mrs. A. B. Warner, of West Second street.

Mrs Warner on the morning of January 2, fell on the icy boardwalk in her yard and broke her arm and dislocated and fractured the bones of the wrist. A physician set the fractured arm and wrist, and in five weeks the splints were removed. It was found that the wrist and knuckles and all the joints of the hand were knotted firmly together. Dr. Field was called, and made an examination, and with the assistance of Dr. Genton, after putting Mrs. Warner in an etherized state, performed the operation, and after the most extraordinary exertions succeeded in breaking up every joint. Dr. Field says she will with care have a good and useful hand. He also said in her case it was the worst dislocation and fracture of the hand that has ever come to his notice.

A VOICE FROM THE WEST.

Faribault Citizens Say that the Adoption of Parochial by Public Schools Is a Failure.

FARIBAULT, RICE CO., Minn., Feb. 20, '93.
To the Editor of The Press:

DEAR SIR:—The following was seen in some Minnesota paper, and supposed to have been copied from a Plainfield, N. J., paper:

CAN'T ADOPT THE FARIBAULT PLAN.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Feb. 14, 1893.—A member of the Plainfield board of education said today that the proposed adoption of the Faribault plan of education at this place would not take place during the incumbency of the present board.

He said that one feature of the plan would utterly prevent its adoption and that is the argument that all teachers in the Parochial school must be Catholics.

Those favoring and engineering the Faribault plan have taken especial pains to publish to the world that no opposition existed in this city or county to the present arrangements with the parochial school. But you will probably hear less of the Faribault plan in due time. The present system was carried through by the old school board, assisted by the county and city school superintendent. But since that much talked of departure Rice county and the city of Faribault have held elections, and the verdict by hundreds of votes against the present plan has been recorded.

And when the newly-elected officers came to make arrangements for the coming year's school, it is believed by the citizens of Rice county who are truly loyal to our free school system, that the verdict of the people will be respected, and that our grand free schools—free for all alike, Catholic or Protestant—shall not be run in the interests of any church.

MANY CITIZENS.

Plenty of Peaches in Hunterdon.

Even if the Delaware peach crop is a failure this year there will be plenty of the luscious fruit for all. Hunterdon county will send a phenomenal crop to market. There are at least a million peach trees of the choicest varities, in the county and Stacy B. Bray is authority for the statement that after a careful test he found but about one per cent. of the buds damaged by the cold. He also says the season is now too far advanced for the buds to be destroyed. Other peach growers report that there is nothing yet to indicate that the trees are damaged.

New York Envies Plainfield's Healthfulness.

Suburban New Jersey has at last a most devoted organ, in the Land Buyer and Building News published monthly at 5 Beekman street, New York. A copy of the first issue has just come to hand, and everyone in the sanctum is eagerly awaiting his turn for perusal. The Land Buyer is brimful with news of what the vast army of commuters is doing to improve the many cities of homes like Plainfield. The typography is excellently clear, the illustrating fine, the general appearance stylish. The February issue gives pictures of two of Plainfield's churches as models for the State. The Land Buyer's good sense is shown in the paragraph: "A rich mine of wealth is found in Plainfield's health-giving atmosphere. The city has well been called the 'Colorado of the East'."

Plainfield Red Men Honored.

At the session of the Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men, held in Trenton Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the veteran Past Sachem, Norman C. Magee, of this city, was elected as Great Representative to the Supreme Council of the United States by a very flattering vote. At the same session, Miantonomo Tribe of this city was again highly honored by Great Sachem-elect Abram A. Cunningham, who conferred the honor on Miantonomo by appointing that popular Past Sachem, Andrew J. Stiglitz, as District Deputy Great Sachem of District 22. The appointment meets the entire approval of the district. The high esteem in which Mr. Stiglitz is held by the order is a [illegible]

FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE PEOPLE OF PLAINFIELD.

The Law the Mayor and Common Council Propose as a Safeguard Against the Board of Education's Autocratic Authority.

Following is the full text of the bill now before the New Jersey legislature, intended to deprive the Plainfield Board of Education of the power it recently abused:

An Act concerning the purchase of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

1. BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal board of any city other than the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or to erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city. Provided that this section shall not take effect in any city until this act shall have been accepted in such city as hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, that the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of any city may by resolution submit the question of the acceptance or rejection of this act to the voters of said city at any annual charter or general election held after the approval of this act, or said resolution may provide for the holding of a special election which is hereby authorized to be held for the purpose. Notice of any election to be held under the provisions of this act shall be published at least once in each week for two weeks next preceding such election in the official newspapers of the city in which said election is to be held; all such elections shall be held under the same regulations as now are or may be prescribed by law for holding the elections for members of the general assembly of this State, except as herein otherwise provided; and if a majority of those who shall vote for the acceptance or rejection of the act, shall vote for its acceptance, then this act shall go into effect immediately in said city, and shall be deemed to be accepted by said city, and said city shall be bound by the terms of this act; persons entitled to vote at such election shall express their acceptance or rejection of this act by depositing their ballots in a separate box which shall be provided for depositing such ballots at such election in the election precincts or wards of such city; and those who are in favor of the acceptance of this act shall each deposit a ballot containing the words, "In favor of the act limiting expenditures for school-houses" written or printed thereon, and those who are opposed shall each deposit a ballot with the words "Against the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", written or printed thereon. Said ballots shall contain no party designation or any other words than those specified above, and together with official envelopes which shall be indorsed with the words "school question" in addition to the other necessary indorsements on said envelopes, shall be supplied by the city clerk of said city, who is hereby directed to furnish the same without further prerequisite, in case the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city shall by resolution order such election as aforesaid; there shall be a canvass on the return of the votes upon this question of such acceptance or rejection made by the election officers in the same way and manner as for officers voted for at any general or charter election; and if a majority of the ballots on which there shall be found the words "In favor of the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", or "Against the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", shall be found for the acceptance of this act, it shall immediately go into effect, and be binding upon said city wherein said vote shall have been taken.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

A Worthy Institution.

St. Joseph's Home for "living-out" girls, under the protection of St. Joseph's church, Manning avenue, has been opened this week in the old rectory near the church. It will be supported by public contributions; its object is to provide a home for worthy young women when sick or out of situation. Those ladies needing help will find it convenient and reliable for obtaining the help desired. Many—even non-Catholic ladies—have expressed their wish to contribute to the support of the Home, and have expressed their satisfaction at its establishment. It will be conducted under the general management of Mrs. Mary Reilly. A board of visitors composed of Mrs. R. A. Boyce, Mrs. R. H. McCullough, and Mrs. Shotwell, will have charge of its supervision. Ladies desiring help may apply at the home, 57 Manning avenue, or to the Rev. clergy of St. Joseph's church.

Appreciate Their Worthy Marshal.

The North Plainfield Borough Council met Tuesday night and closed up a well-managed year's work by auditing the accounts and receiving the reports of the officers and committees. All the labors and enterprises of the borough were reviewed as chronicled in these columns from time to time of their occurrence. Felicitous speeches were made by Mayor Saunders and the councilmen, who congratulated and thanked one another for the mutual co-operation that has existed. Especial praise was given in a speech of Mr. Neal on the record of marshal Pangborn, that highly efficient officer, whose commendable career is an honor to himself and to the borough. Not only has Mr. Pangborn been most zealous in maintaining peace and good order, but he has been of material aid to all of the councilmanic committees in their various departments.

Your Painter

has often wasted time and material in trying to obtain a shade of color, and has even resorted to the use of ready mixed paints, the ingredients of which he knew nothing, because of the difficulty in making a shade of color with white lead. This waste can be avoided by the use of National Lead Company's

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors

These tints are a combination of perfectly pure colors, put up in small cans, and prepared so that one pound will tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead to the shade shown on the can. By this means you will have the best paint in the world, because made of the best materials—and pure colors. Insist on having one of the brands of white lead that are standard, manufactured by the "Old Dutch" process, and known to be strictly pure:

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" "Bradley"
"Brooklyn" "Jewett"
"Ulster"

[illegible]

NATIONAL LEAD CO.

RECTOR JENNINGS'S CASE.

The Church Committee Takes Testimony and Reserves Decision.

The trouble between the Rev. J. B. Jennings, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, at Westfield, and his vestry and congregation was discussed Monday in Elizabeth, in the lecture room of Christ church. The general standing committee of the Episcopal church in New Jersey had been appealed to by the Rev. Mr. Jennings for a final hearing when Bishop Scarborough informed the rector he would have to go, and the hearing was fixed for yesterday.

Bishop Scarborough was present. Rector Jennings and the vestrymen with whom he is at sword's point were also there. The committee, composed of ministers from different parts of the State, was likewise prompt in arriving.

Seven members of the committee were present. The Rev. A. B. Baker, of Princeton, was in the chair. Vestrymen Elliott, Forster and Gale represented the Westfield church.

The hearing was secret says the New York World. Several witnesses were examined and Rector Jennings was heard in his own defense, while Bishop Scarborough related the complaints lodged with him against the rector, whose alleged drinking habits seem to be his greatest fault.

The session lasted nearly two hours. The committee reserved its decision.

One of the clergymen told the World reporter afterwards that the question of deposing the Rev. Mr. Jennings was not discussed. There were unfortunate differences existing between the pastor and the vestry of Grace church which, he said, was the subject under consideration. The committee had heard all the testimony and would advise the Bishop on what action to take. The Bishop would announce his decision publicly in due time.

Others who were at the meeting are confident the committee will decide against Rector Jennings, and will advise the Bishop to remove him from Grace church. The feeling, it is said, is too bitter against Mr. Jennings among his flock for any hope of reconciliation, and the only way peace can be restored and the church saved, it is claimed, is by removing Mr. Jennings as soon as possible.

If the decision is adverse to the rector it is said he will appeal to the General Conference, which convenes in May.

The rector's wife, who is divorced from him, is in Elizabeth, at her sister's in Murray street. She is pleased at the turn affairs have taken.

TOOK LAUDANUM TO DIE.

The Scapegrace of a Good Borough Family Causes His Friends No End of Trouble.

Charles Bartling, age 17, attempted suicide Tuesday afternoon at the home of his brother, Harry Bartling, 28 Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield.

Harry Bartling is a broker in New York, and one of the borough's most highly respected residents. Charles has been living with him for some time, and has caused his good relatives much anxiety because of his waywardness.

THE PRESS told yesterday how Bartling had forged a check for $5 and passed it on Sigmund Frucht. This was only one of his many misdeeds. What capped the climax was his breaking into his niece's room, and grossly insulting her. He was to be sent away in disgrace, and rather than face his widowed mother and sister determined on suicide.

He came to town and bought some laudanum, stopped in Heidsloff's store and told his friends there that he was going to kill himself, and went home and drank the poison.

Drs. Jenkins and Probasco were both summoned, when the family learned that the youth had drunk the laudanum. Charles locked himself in the bath room and at first refused to let the physicians enter. Finally, however, he weakened, and by hard work the doctors saved him from death.

Marshal Pangborn was sent for to place the rash youth under arrest, but later it was decided to leave the matter of punishment for his mother and sister to decide. He was sent to their home in New York yesterday.

Fell From a Barn.

John Tracy, of South Plainfield, was at work tearing down M. Higgins's barn and outsheds on East Fourth street, Saturday, when he slipped and fell about twenty feet. He was cut on the face and nose, and after the wounds were dressed was taken home in a carriage.

It is too bad to spend half of a short life distressed with neuralgia, when a 25 cent bottle of Salvation Oil will cure it quickly.

FOR PEACE AND GOOD WORK.

More Gospel Work and Less Discussion Desirable, Say Plainfield Clergymen.

A circular issued and signed by nearly 250 ministers of the Presbyterian church, and which has been spread broadcast over the land, cannot fail to have a good effect. It is a plea for peace and work in the church, and declares that the first duty of the ministry is the bringing of the simple Gospel home to the hearts and lives of men. This, the circular declares, is the great work of the church to which everything else must give way.

The circular further says:

"As ministers of Jesus Christ and working pastors in the Presbyterian church, we are filled with the gravest fears lest the usefulness of the church should be hindered, her peace disturbed and her honor diminished by the prevalence of the theological controversy and strife over doctrines which are not essential. We remember that there have been two sad periods in the history of the church in which this has happened and we dread the possibility of having such a painful experience repeated in our own times. For this reason we deprecate any attempt to impose new tests of orthodoxy or restriction of liberty by those who sincerely subscribe to the essential articles of the Presbyterian church."

The appeal bears the signature of nearly all the prominent Presbyterian ministers in the county, including the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and the Rev. Charles E. Herring of Plainfield.

Death of Charles Potter's Brother, and Postponement of a Plainfield Meeting.

The wires brought news, Tuesday night of the death at Belmont, N. Y., from apoplexy, of Dr. C. D. Potter, of Adams Centre, N. Y., brother of Charles Potter, of this city. Dr. Potter was a retired physician who has been associated with the Rev. Dr. Lewis, of this city, in editorial work for the last ten years. He was specially given to original research, and had essentially completed a history of "Oriental Christianity", which his friends hoped would be published at an early day. Dr. Potter was about 66 years old.

On account of this bereavement, the Y. P. S. C. E. sociable of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, which had been announced for this evening, at the residence of Charles Potter, will be postponed. Dr. Potter visited Plainfield about two weeks ago.

He Wasn't in the Samaritan Business.

Hackman Flynn reports that when he was returning from South Plainfield with two passengers, about 11 Sunday evening, a serious runaway accident occurred on Plainfield avenue, on the hill a short distance southwest of ex-mayor J. H. Evans's late residence.

He says that while driving along he discovered a runaway horse and sleigh approaching him at a furious speed. Flynn whipped up his horse, and succeeded in safely passing the runaway. The driver of the latter rig was thrown out and badly injured about the head and body. Flynn says he was in a hurry to catch a train, and did not stop to ascertain the man's name.

Woman's Influence.

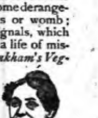
Delicate women may exert much influence, but little in camparison with what it would be with abundant health.

The wife wants health that she may be the companion of her husband and her family.

Beware of dizziness, sudden faintness, irritability, backache, nervousness, extreme lassitude, depression, exhaustion, excitability, and sick headache.

These are sure indications of female weakness, some derangement of the uterus or womb; they are danger signals, which warn you to avoid a life of misery. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound goes to the root of the trouble, and drives disease from your body.

All druggists sell it.
Address in confidence,
LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, 25 cents.



PIANOS
AND ORGANS
FROM
S.D.Lauter Co.
657-659 Broad St.
NEWARK, N.J.

p 1 20 9 m—c 1 26 8m

A Fall in Prices

OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every gaoment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and use your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday nigh 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S
NEWARK, N. J.

FINEST IN AMERICA.

Dr. Rudolph Siemering's Statue of Washington.

Grand in Conception and Perfect in Execution—It Will Soon Grace the Entrance to Fairmount Park, Philadelphia.

Berlin has had a magnificent exhibition of modern paintings and sculpture during the past year. It has been held in the Austellungs park, and a vast building covering several acres in the midst of this park devoted to it. A leading idea connected with it was the popularization of art, and concerts have been held every night in the buildings connected with it, and the Germans have turned out by the thousands with their families to enjoy the paintings, and then go to another part of the grounds and listen to some of the finest military music in the world. The paintings in the exposition are by the most famous of the modern German artists, and the rooms devoted to sculpture are full of magnificent pieces. The work which has attracted the greatest attention is the memorial statue of Washington, which Prof. Rudolph Siemering is making for the city of Philadelphia. Some of the figures of this have been completed in bronze, and a life-size model of the whole monument takes up one of the largest rooms in the whole building. This room is always crowded, and the statue is considered one of the finest of modern times. It has a base which is fully thirty feet in diameter, and this base octagonal in shape, and you rise from it by easy steps to the bottom of the pedestal upon which the monument stands.

The whole structure is fully fifty feet high, or about the height of a four story house. A great glass roof had to be built up above it in order to allow it to be erected in the exposition hall, and this roof slopes up to an apex at the center, in the top of which the head of Washington almost touches. The statue itself is an equestrian one, and it represents Gen. Washington in his Continental uniform as he marched at the head of his troops. The figure is several times life size; and the horse, which stands with the right foot raised, is an immense stallion. Washington's cloak is thrown back from his body as though blown back by the wind, and the whole statue is full of action.

WASHINGTON STATUE FOR PHILADELPHIA.

The figures about the pedestal and the base of the monument are even more artistic than the statue itself. Ascending the first steps, you reach a second platform, around which lie great figures emblematic of American life and America. There are two of these figures at each corner of the monument, and some of them are already finished in bronze. Ascending one set of steps, you pass between reclining statues of an Indian hunter and an Indian maiden who is repairing her nets for fishing. These lie on their elbows. They are about twice life size, and they are magnificent pieces of sculpture. The fisher girl is entirely nude, and the brave has only a breechcloth of feathers. Below them are magnificent bronze statues of buffaloes and deer, and on other parts of the base you find other animals emblematic of America. At another corner Columbia, in the shape of a beautiful woman with a horn of plenty in her hand, reclines on the pedestal of the monument, and there is a magnificent statue of America with the famous officers of the revolution offering her the laurels of their victories. Under this is the American eagle on a shield.

To give you some idea of the size of these figures, those lying on the first base must be fifteen feet long, and the thighs of the nude fisherwoman are as big around as the ordinary maiden's waist, and her forearm is as large around as the thigh of a man. Her head is beautiful in all its proportions, but you could hardly put it into a peck measure. The statues on the base are more than life size.

This monument, writes Frank G. Carpenter in Harper's Weekly, was begun by Dr. Siemering more than twelve years ago, and he has been working almost incessantly upon it. Dr. Siemering is one of the most famous of German sculptors, and all Germany is proud of the work he has turned out for America. It is the largest and most artistic statue of Washington in existence.

Some Wonderful Miniatures.

A prominent Hungarian will send for exhibition a collection of exceedingly novel paintings which will, doubtless, attract much attention. There are twenty-five of the pictures, and all are miniatures almost to the microscopic degree. One of them, representing the landing of Columbus, with seventeen human figures in it is about the size of the nail of the little finger. Another is a portrait of Emperor Francis Joseph and is the size of the head of a match. The work of these pictures is said to be exquisite.

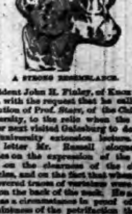
Napoleon's Toy.

A broken toy which amused the great Napoleon when he was in swaddling clothes was sold in France recently for $200.

STRONG RESEMBLANCE.

A Remarkable Stone Discovered in Knox County, Ill.

The scientists of Victoria, Knox county, Ill., are considerably excited over the discovery of a strangely formed stone. This relic is now owned by S. B. Russell, a merchant of Victoria and quite a collector of relics. Mr. Russell says that the relic was found in the bed of a creek in his township, and he is firm in his opinion that the stone is the petrified head of a man. The material is rather soft, but the resemblance is remarkable. Others were inclined to scoff, until finally to decide the controversy the stone was forwarded to



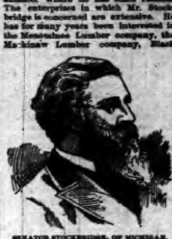
A STRONG RESEMBLANCE.

President John H. Finley, of Knox college, with the request that he call the attention of Prof. Starr, of the Chicago university, to the relic when the professor next visited Galesburg to deliver his university extension lecture. In this letter Mr. Russell eloquently dilates on the expression of the left eye, on the clearness of the cheek muscles, and on the fact that when first discovered traces of vertebræ were visible on the back of the neck. He added also as a circumstance in proof of the genuineness of the petrifaction that a petrified foot inclosed in a petrified moccasin was found near the place where the head was picked up. Prof. Starr, who is a learned archæologist and is curator of the museum of the Chicago university, examined the relic with great interest. He pronounced [illegible] but was simply the result of nature's operations. The stone is about eight inches long and five wide. Mr. Russell is not yet convinced, but writes that, "though geologists may differ," he is more firmly convinced than ever that the head is a petrifaction.

MICHIGAN'S CHOICE.

Francis B. Stockbridge Reelected United States Senator.

Francis B. Stockbridge was born in Bath, Me., April 9, 1826. His father was a physician. His mother was a daughter of Ben Russell, of the Boston Sentinel. At the age of sixteen Mr. Stockbridge went to Boston as a clerk, remaining until 1847, when he went to Chicago and opened a lumber yard, having mills at Saugatuck, Mich. In 1856 he moved to Saugatuck and took personal charge of the mills, remaining there until 1874, when he moved to Kalamazoo, where he has since resided. The enterprises in which Mr. Stockbridge is concerned are extensive. He has for many years been interested in the Menominee Lumber company, the Mackinaw Lumber company, Black



SENATOR STOCKBRIDGE, OF MICHIGAN.

River Lumber company and the Kalamazoo Spring & Axle company. He has large interests in the pine lands of Mississippi, in the Redwood Lumber company of California and in one of the principal iron mines of the upper peninsula. He has been a member of both branches of the legislature. In 1875 he was nominated by Gen. Grant for minister to The Hague, but did not accept the appointment. Six years ago he was elected to the United States senate to succeed Omar D. Conger.

There Are No "Fixed" Stars.

The term "fixed," as applied to the stars, is now known to be a misnomer, for it has been proven that there is not a stationary or "fixed" star in the whole heavens, and no such thing as absolute rest in any of God's monstrous machinery. It is hardly necessary to say that all the stars are constantly in motion, some of them whizzing through space at the rate of 250,000 miles an hour, more than thrice the velocity of our earth on its orbital track. This constant motion brings about some startling changes in our stellar relations in the course of scores of centuries. However, the visual effect on a generation or half a dozen generations presents the planets in a seeming unchanged aspect.

A Long Train.

It is computed that all the locomotives in the United States would, if coupled together, make a train 300 miles long. The passenger cars would make another train of about the same length, and if all the cars of every variety in the country were coupled behind the engines the result would be a train about 7,600 miles long.

American Apples.

Of American apples, nearly 1,300,000 barrels are imported to England every season, about a fourth of these finding their way to Covent garden. The barrels weigh from 140 to 150 pounds, and are excellently packed.

AN ILLINOIS TROPHY.

National Guard Rifle Teams to Compete for It.

Crack Shots from the Commands of the First Brigade, I. N. G., Meet in Competition—First Regiment the Winner.

A competition of interest to militia enthusiasts in all parts of the country occurred at Chicago recently. The crack shots of the First and Second regiments, Illinois national guard, met to win the Armstrong trophy. The spirited contest ended in a victory for the First regiment.

According to Wright A. Patterson, the authority on national guard matters, the rules governing the contest for the Armstrong prize provide that any command in the first brigade may enter a team to consist of ten men and four alternates, all of whom must be named before twelve o'clock of the day before the match. Each of the ten men selected is to fire one string of ten shots in each competition; the trophy to be held by the regiment first winning it twice, not necessarily in succession. The second competition will take place the last Thursday in February, and the third, if needed, the last Thursday in March. The regiment that wins it in the brigade competition will hold it until next fall, when it will be put up for competition between the companies of that regiment, the first one winning it to hold it not subject to challenge.

The trophy is made of silver, with gold trimmings, and stands twenty-seven inches high without the case, which will be of glass and add three inches to its height. It is thirteen and one-half inches in diameter in the center and eleven inches at the base. At the top is a golden wreath, in the center of which is a miniature of the target used in the match. The work is beautifully engraved with scroll-work. Leaning against the neck, with the butt resting on the body of the cup, are two golden rifles of the regulation Springfield type, the barrels of which pass through a silver wreath. On the body of the cup is an engraved scene showing a 200-yard rifle range, with a group of officers and men at the firing point and the targets in the distance. This is as near an illustration of the exact range as could be shown, for on an indoor range nothing can be seen from the firing point except the slots in the partition through which the men fire. Then, too, the competition is practically on a 200-yard range, the targets and ammunition being reduced so that the sights of the gun are gauged the same way as on a range of that kind.

THE ARMSTRONG TROPHY.

The two statuettes at the base are four and one-half inches high. They show soldiers in light marching order, one at the position of "load," the other at the position of "ready." Across the bottom of the base will be the words "Illinois National Guard." The place on the reverse side of the cup, and directly in the rear of the range scene, will be left blank until after the brigade competition closes, when the names of the winning regiment's team will be engraved on it. The place directly to the rear of the [illegible] trophy is strikingly military in all its details, and was selected from a number of designs submitted by officers and men intimately connected with the Illinois guard.

Wives of Presidents.

Three of the first four presidents of the United States married widows. The wife of John Quincy Adams, who received her education in England, created a great sensation in the nation's capital. The wife of Martin Van Buren, Hannah Hoes, lived but a short time after her marriage, dying about seventeen years before her husband's election to the presidency. President Tyler's second wife was an ardent Roman Catholic, and Mrs. Polk was a calm-mannered Presbyterian. Mrs. Millard Fillmore had been a school-teacher, and the courtship was carried on under difficulties, as the lover could rarely afford the expense of a journey to visit his fiancee. Mrs. Franklin Pierce was the devout daughter of a clergyman and made the white house a center for charitable and religious enterprises.

Curious Death Customs of Fiji.

The Fijians believe that in case a marriageable youth or maiden dies without having gone through with the elaborate nuptial knot-tying ceremony of the islands his or her soul is doomed to wander about forever in an intermediate region between Heaven and hell. When anyone dies, man, woman or child, a whale's tooth is placed in the hand of the corpse, the missile to be thrown at the tree which stands as a guide post to point out the road that leads to Heaven and the one that leads to hell.

IROQUOIS CLUB HOUSE.

The Elegant Structure to Be Erected by Chicago Democrats.

An illustration is presented herewith of the new building to be erected for the Iroquois club at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Dearborn street, Chicago. John Addison is the architect. Work will not be commenced until December of the present year, as the club cannot get possession of the ground, now occupied by the Brunswick hotel, until that time.

The structure will front 110 feet on Adams street and 54 feet on Michigan avenue. It will be ten stories high and will cost $450,000.

IROQUOIS CLUB HOUSE.

The walls will be of red or brown granite for a portion of their height, but will be continued to the cornice in terra cotta, leading to a tiled roof, broken artistically into gables.

The main entrance will be from Adams street, leading over mosaic flooring to the interior of the structure. An open court will extend upward from the level of the second floor. At the eighth floor there will be a balcony around this court. A marble staircase will lead to the second floor, on which will be located the principal rooms of the club. On the third floor will be a large reception room, which is to be elaborately decorated and used on formal occasions. On the fourth and fifth floors will be rooms for members. Fronting Michigan avenue on the sixth floor will be a large ball-room. The dining-rooms will be on the eighth and ninth floors on the Michigan avenue frontage. The kitchen and servants' quarters will be on the tenth floor.

HENRY CABOT LODGE.

Elected to the United States Senate from Massachusetts.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, the noted author of the force bill, has been elected to the United States senate from Massachusetts. The new senator is well known in literary as well as political circles. He will be one of the youngest members ever sent to the upper house of congress. He was, says the Congressional Directory, born in Boston, May 12, 1850; received a private school and collegiate education; was graduated from Harvard college in 1871; studied law at the Harvard law school, and graduated in 1875, receiving the degree of L. S. 73; was admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1876; profession that of literature; served two terms as member of the house of representatives in the Massachusetts legislature; was elected to the Fiftieth and Fifty-first congresses, and reelected to the Fifty-second congress as a republican, receiving 14,579 votes, against 12,559 votes for William Everett, democrat, 1,035 votes for Charles E. Kimball and 9 votes scattering.

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE.

Mr. Riley and His Features.

Said James Whitcomb Riley the other day to a group of reporters: "I wish you newspaper men wouldn't be quite so careless in your remarks about my looks. I was served with a notice several years ago that I wasn't very handsome, but the reporters take a kind of delight in reminding me of it. It seems to me that you might at least be as considerate as the old auntie who went to the menagerie and saw the hippopotamus. She was staggered for a moment, but her breeding got the better of her impulses. She didn't want to say the animal was ugly, so she turned to one of her friends with the exclamation: 'Sakes a' massy, but ain't he plain!'"

English Centenarians.

The deaths of forty-five centenarians were reported in England last year, twenty-two men and twenty-three women. In 1891, according to this record, forty-eight centenarians died, and thirty-six in each of the three preceding years.

Great Wedding Cakes.

A London confectioner says that he is sometimes called on to furnish wedding cakes weighing 1,000 pounds each, and puddings of a size sufficient for 500 hearty appetites.

London Public Houses.

There are over 11,000 public houses and beer shops within the area of the Metropolitan police district.

Wonderful Blast.

A blast fired in a quarry at Graniteville, Mo., recently dislodged 100,000 cubic feet of stone, all in one solid mass.

ZELIE DE LUSSAN.

Success of a Young American Singer in the Old World.

The splendid success lately attained by a certain young American singer in England must start a lively train of thought in the minds of some persons of consideration in the world of criticism and of the theater in this country.

Zelie de Lussan was quite without honor in this, the land of her nativity, says the Illustrated American. The [illegible]

The "solid" and heavy-witted English instantly discovered talents and charms in one whom the critics of the American metropolis declared impudent and presumptuous in daring to proclaim herself an operatic star.

Miss de Lussan first came prominently before the public in America as a member of the Boston Ideal Opera company. During the tour of that organization in the provincial towns she met with so much popular favor that she excited the jealousy of her elderly, though still capable colleagues.

ZELIE DE LUSSAN.

So bitter became the ill-feeling in the company that disintegration resulted, and the young woman who had really come to be the chief attraction of the Ideals began her stage career as a star.

For a season or two she prospered fairly well "on the road," but thought it best to defer her appearance in New York city until ample experience had developed her art to a degree calculated to command success as well as to deserve it.

Finally Miss de Lussan ventured to the metropolis. On the stage of the Fifth Avenue theater she presented herself in a role that tries the talents of the most gifted lyric artist—that of Bizet's "Carmen."

It is a part in whose effective portrayal Miss de Lussan is peculiarly adapted by reason of her physical attributes, her temper, her personality. She has the coal black eyes, the raven hair, the crimson lips, the firm, lissome figure of a Spanish gypsy. There is an abandon in her movements, a wild grace in her gestures, a fire and deviltry in her presence that gave her impersonation of Carmen the life-like complexion of reality.

The music of the role, warm, colorful, impassioned, she rendered with a sympathy that showed her complete accord with all the features of the character.

WILLIAM B. BATE.

Reelected to the United States Senate from Tennessee.

William B. Bate, of Nashville, who has just been reelected to serve another term in the United States senate, was born near Castilian Spring, Tenn.; received an academic education; when quite a youth served as second clerk on a steamboat between Nashville and New Orleans; served as a private throughout the Mexican war in Louisiana and Tennessee regiments; a year after returning from the Mexican war was elected to the Tennessee legislature; graduated from the Lebanon law-school in 1852, and entered upon the practice of his profession at Gallatin, Tenn.; in 1854 was elected attorney general for the Nashville district for six years; during his term of office was nominated for congress, but declined; was a presidential elector in 1860 on the Breckinridge-Lane ticket; was private, captain, colonel, brigadier and major general in confederate service, surrendering with the Army of the Tennessee in 1865; was three times dangerously wounded; after the close of the war returned to Tennessee and resumed the practice of law; was a delegate to the democratic national convention in 1868; served on the national democratic executive committee for Tennessee twelve years; was an elector for the state at large on the Tilden and Hendricks ticket in 1876; in 1882 was elected governor of Tennessee, and reelected without opposition in 1884; in January, 1887, was elected to the United States senate as a democrat to succeed Washington C. Whitthorne and took his seat March 4, 1887. His term of service will expire March 3, 1893.

SENATOR BATE, OF TENNESSEE.

Dexterous Workman.

The emperor of Germany recently visited a needle factory where a workman begged a hair of his head, bored an eye in it, threaded it and handed it back to the monarch, who had expressed surprise that eyes could be bored in the smallest sized needles.

Breaking It Gently.

Quarryman (commissioned to break the news gently)—Did ye hear that foine blast, mum?

Woman—Indade I did. It frightened me.

"Would Oi had been near ye to protect ye, mum. It's just such a foine lookin' woman as you Oi loik to protect, mum. It's me yez ought to marry."

"It's you ought to be kilt entoirely for talkin' that way an' me married to a foine mon like Micky Finnegan."

"Och, ye nadn't moind about him, mum. He was kilt by th' blast."—N. Y. Weekly.

A Coming Quandary.

Teacher (of class in physics)—Of what is paper now chiefly made?

Pupil—Of wood.

Teacher—Is the world's supply of wood inexhaustible?

Next Pupil—It is not. It is consumed in the arts and manufactures many times faster than it grows.

Teacher—Then what will the world use for a substitute when the wood is all gone?

Third Pupil—Paper.—Chicago Tribune.

ECONOMY.

Daisy—When I get big like you, mamma, I'm going to marry a doctor or a minister.

Mamma—Why, my dear?

Daisy—'Cause, if I marry a doctor I can get well for nothing; if I marry a minister I can be good for nothing.—Judge.

Never Satisfied.

Wife—Thomas, I wish you would let me have $50.

Husband—All right, my dear; here is a hundred-dollar bill for you.

Wife—Oh, thank you, Thomas, but you forgot to pay me the fifty cents you borrowed of me the other day because you were short of change.—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

Many Thanks.

Young Wife—My dear, I've been putting down everything I spend in my account book, just as you said, but I think I'll [illegible] thing for [illegible].—[illegible] Weekly.

[illegible]

A Vast Difference.

"There is some difference between nature and the stage, isn't there?"

"Of course; but what do you mean particularly?"

"Why, in nature the frost brings the chestnuts; but on the stage chestnuts bring on a frost."—Puck.

Sorry He Spoke.

He—Did you know that a diamond will exhibit phosphorescence when it is rubbed in the dark?

She—Indeed I did not. But if you have brought the ring with you we can try it.—Boston Globe.

References Cheerfully Supplied.

He—Irene, I love you.

She—How do I know that you are sincere?

He—Ask any other girl I ever told the same thing if I didn't mean what I said.—Chicago News Record.

A Tender Soul.

Constance—Miss Plaice is very active in charitable work.

Clara—Is she, indeed?

Constance—Yes. She has just established a society for sending flowers to criminals.—Truth.

He'll Try Them All Next Time.

Old Doctor—You have cured your patient. Now what are you worrying about?

Young Doctor—I—I don't know which one of the medicines cured him.—Boston Globe.

The Hard Part.

Proprietor—Did you let the lady know it was no trouble to show your wares?

New Clerk—Yes, sir. I told her that selling them was where the rub came in.—Life.

A Columbian Conclusion.

"After seeing the various pictures of Columbus I could reach but one conclusion."

"What was that?"

"He didn't look much like himself."—Puck.

A Profitable Investment.

Mrs. Van Voordt—Why do you always marry a lawyer?

Mrs. Wabash—Because he'll tend to getting the divorces himself.—Chicago News Record.

Cheerful Reminder.

Jinks—Old Soak reminds me of a haunted house.

Blinks—How so?

Jinks—Almost every night he is full of spirits.—Des Moines Argonaut.

How He Acquired It.

Mrs. Fussy—How did you get into that horrible habit of picking your teeth, John?

Fussy—Through having something to eat, principally.—Truth.

Better Yet.

Fred Dix—When I grow up I'm going to be a pirate.

Dick Hicks—Put 'er there; I'm going to be a sleeping car porter.—Jury.

A Warning.

He—If you were not so tall, I'd propose to you.

She—If you did, you'd see how short I could be.—Harper's Bazar.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE

Interlocking Switch and Block Signal System.

On and after Apr. 2?, 189?, trains leave Elizabeth as follows:

[illegible]

FOR ATLANTIC CITY

[illegible]

CHARLES E. PUGH, General Manager.

J. R. WOOD, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(Anthracite coal used exclusively insuring cleanliness and comfort.)

Station in New York foot of Liberty Street. Time Table in Effect JAN. 22, 1893

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

[illegible]

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

[illegible]

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 7 15, a m 11 27, 4 19 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

[illegible]

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

[illegible]

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

[illegible]

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES.

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

[illegible]

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, [illegible]

Mr. JOHN [illegible]

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET.

TOO SLOW FOR EDISON.

A Story Illustrating the Wizard's Skill with the Key.

Tommy Wore a Hickory Shirt, But the "Lightning Slinger" at St. Louis Hardly Gave Him Any—ment—A Fish Story.

A gentleman who was himself an operator in Memphis when Thomas A. Edison was first employed there describes the future wonder-worker as he then appeared: "He came walking into the office one morning looking like a veritable hayseed. He wore a hickory shirt, a pair of butternut pants tucked into the tops of boots a size too large and guiltless of blacking. 'Where's the boss?' was his query, as he glanced around the office. No one replied at once and he repeated the question. The manager asked him what he could do for him, and the future great proceeded to strike him for a job. Business was rushing, and the office was two men short, so almost any kind of a lightning slinger was welcome. He was assigned to a desk and a fusillade of winks went the rounds of the office, for the 'jay' was put on the St. Louis wire, the hardest in the office.

"At this end of the line was an operator who was chain lightning and who knew it. Edison had hardly got seated before St. Louis called. The newcomer responded and St. Louis started in on a long report, and he pumped it in like a house afire. Edison threw his leg over the arm of his chair, leisurely transferred a wad of spruce gum from his pocket to his mouth, picked up a pen, examined it critically and started in, about two hundred words behind. He didn't stay there long, though. St. Louis let out another link of speed, and still another, and the instrument on Edison's table hummed like an old-style sewing machine. Every man in the office left his desk and gathered around the 'jay' to see what he was doing with that electric cyclone. Well, sir, he was right on the word and was putting it down in the prettiest copperplate hand you ever saw, even crossing his t's and dotting his i's and punctuating with as much care as a man editing telegraph for printers. St. Louis got tired by and by and began to slow down. Edison opened the key and said: 'Here, here! This is no primer class! Get a hustle on you!' Well, sir," said the gentleman, in conclusion, "that broke St. Louis all up. He had been 'rawhiding' Memphis for a long time, and we were terribly sore, and to have a man in our office that could walk all over him made us feel like a man whose horse had won the Derby. I saw the 'Wizard' not long ago. He doesn't wear a hickory shirt nor put his pants in his boots, but he is very far from being a dude yet." When a boy Edison had an especial fondness for constructing crude telegraph instruments with which to keep up constant communication with his chum, who lived in the immediate vicinity. After an enormous amount of work the little fellows succeeded in making two instruments, which were carefully placed in their respective bedrooms, so that early and late, unknown to the rest of the household, they could communicate that flow of thought always on top between two youthful friends. The intervening wires were arranged to escape the entangling influence of shrubbery and fences by means of small poles. For awhile everything went on smoothly. The thrilling experiences of fishing trips were enjoyed in retrospect over the wires, similar exciting plans were evolved for future use, and the barnyard statistics were transmitted with unwavering exactness. One morning, however, the boys awakened to find all this changed and where order had prevailed was only chaos. During the night a cow had strayed into the inclosure and after knocking down the poles succeeded in so entangling the wires about her legs that her astonishment and distress were voiced to the neighborhood in mournful bellows which made the night hideous. The greatest damage, however, was to the delicately-adjusted instruments, which had been so injured by the cow's novel wire-pulling as to be utterly spoiled for future usefulness.

THOMAS EDISON.

Tommy Edison, who, during his boyhood, was always called "Al," was also very fond of pigeons, which he raised in great numbers and taught to come at his call, fluttering about on his head, shoulders and arms while he fed them.

Nature's Water Cannon.

In Ireland, near Horn Head, in County Donegal, there is a remarkable natural hole in the rocks of the sea-coast, which is known all over Britain as "McSwiney's Gun." It is believed to be connected with a sea cavern. When the sea "runs full" the "gun" sends up jets of water to the height of more than 100 feet, each spouting being followed and preceded by loud explosions. The "gun" is a perfectly smooth hole about 10 inches in diameter, and its history can be traced to the first settling of the country. No one seems to know, however, how it got the name of "McSwiney's Gun."

How Vanilla Grows.

Vanilla is an orchid, which, in the West Indies, creeps over trees and walls like ivy. A substance called "salep," somewhat resembling arrowroot or sago, is obtained from the tubers of a variety that grows in Turkey and Persia, where it is highly esteemed.

THE KANSAS CONTEST.

Something About the Man Elected by Democrats and Populists.

No senatorial contest for some time past has attracted such wide attention as the great battle in Kansas which resulted in the selection of Hon. John Martin, the favorite of the combined democrats and populists. The contest even surpassed in interest the case of Edward Murphy, Jr., in New York, where President-elect Cleveland openly but in vain opposed the election of Murphy.

The battle in Kansas, however, was to decide whether the democrats or republicans were to control the United States senate, and although Martin was declared elected by the fusionists the republican state senators of Kansas and the separate house organized by the republicans will probably send a republican United States senator—J. W. Ady—to Washington to contest the seat of Martin, who was elected by the votes of 77 populists and democrats holding regular certificates of election from the state board and 9 fusionists arbitrarily seated by the populists in the house.

HON. JOHN MARTIN, OF KANSAS.

Martin is a native of Tennessee. He made his debut in life's arena sixty years ago, studied law in Lebanon, Tenn., and 1858 accompanied Rush Elmore, United States district judge, to Kansas, where he has since resided, most of the time at Topeka. He was clerk of the territorial legislature which met in Shawnee county in 18[illegible] 1860, member of the legislature in 18[illegible] and judge of the district court of Shawnee county in 1883.

At Washington, Senator Gorman, of Maryland, declares that the election of Judge Martin gives the democrats control of the senate, even if the republicans should carry all the other states in which contests are pending. At present there are 39 democrats in the senate. New York, California and Wisconsin, having elected democrats, increase the number to 42. It is said Senator Kyle will surely vote with the democrats to organize the senate, which will give them a total of 44. Vice President Stevenson will have the casting vote, even if Wyoming, Montana and Nebraska should return republican senators. But Senator Gorman does not concede all of these states to the republicans.

HERR ADOLF WERMUTH.

The Imperial German Commissioner to the World's Fair.

Adolf Wermuth, the imperial German commissioner to the Columbian exposition, is a man of great ability, who holds high place in his native country. He is privy councilor of the German empire and a valued adviser in the councils of the government. He was selected to look after Germany's interests at the Columbian fair because of his former experience in exposition work. He represented his government at Melbourne and has also been connected with German national expositions. Mr. Wermuth has superintended all the work of getting up the exhibits Germany will send to Chicago. He recognized, when he first came here nearly two years ago, the possibilities of the Columbian exposition, and was so satisfied of its ultimate success that he urged his government to make the best possible showing. Mr. Wermuth came to Chicago in the first party of foreign commissioners that arrived. He examined the plans and prospects of the fair and then went back to Germany to work up the exhibit. In this way he traveled from one end of the empire to the other, making addresses to boards of trade, art and industrial societies and conventions of manufacturers and urging the best of them to prepare displays of their products for the Columbian show. His success in this work is readily seen when it is stated that over five thousand Germans will exhibit at the fair.

HERR ADOLF WERMUTH.

Mr. Wermuth has established a legation headquarters for the gentlemen who are associated with him in his work. There are five besides himself, and they all live at 3171 Groveland avenue, Chicago. The others of the German commission are: Franz Berg, assistant commissioner; George Franke, secretary; Johannes Radke, architect; Carl Haller, engineer, and Carl Haffacker, architect.

From Romance to Real Life.

The famous Oaks plantation in South Carolina has been sold for the phosphate deposits on it. The plantation played a conspicuous part in several of Simms' novels, and Marion and his men were often encamped there.

Ready to Compromise.

"Your case," said the police magistrate, "perplexes me. You are an old offender. You have been brought before this court dozens of times for being drunk and disorderly, and it doesn't seem to do any good either to fine you or send you to the workhouse. Yet you don't seem to be a bad man at heart."

"I'm not, judge," sniveled the contrite old vagabond, drawing the back of his hand across his nose; "and I'm willin' to drop these proceedin's right now if you are."—Chicago Tribune.

Feminine Contrariness.

Old Rooster—What have you stopped laying for?

Old Hen—It's too cold.

Old Rooster—Huh! Just like you females. Quick as it gets cool enough for us to crow without getting into a perspiration, you quit laying.—Good News.

Came for Admiration.

She—Well, dear, how did you like me in the tableaux vivants?

He—I was astounded—

She (delighted)—Really?

He—That you should have been able [illegible]

That Big Feller.

A middle-aged man whose business keeps him away from home on all days except Sunday had occasion to chastise his eldest son one Sabbath, about three weeks ago. So soon as the shingle seance was over the child ran crying into the house.

"Why, Johnnie, what is the matter?" asked the mother in alarm.

"That big feller's been licking me," whimpered the boy.

"What fellow do you mean, Johnnie?"

"Why, that feller what stays here every Sunday," replied the urchin, with a gulp.—Texas Siftings.

Mr. Swackhammer Well Hooked.

Fond Mamma—Mabel, my dear, have you any reason to think—pardon me, my daughter, but it is to me a matter of the highest concern—have you any reason to think that Algernon Swackhammer, the wealthy and highly-connected young professional man, regards you with more than ordinary interest?

Queenly Daughter (with a yawn)—Yes, ma, I've got a dead cinch on him if I want him.—Chicago Tribune.

His Pronunciation All Right.

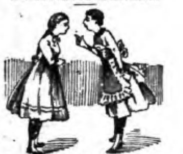
Justice—What is the charge, Mr. McGobb?

Officer McGobb—Congealed weapons, y'r anner.

"Wha-at?"

"Congealed weapons, sor—y'r anner. He slugged a man wid a chunk o' ice."—Indianapolis Journal.

A REAL JOKE FROM ENGLAND.



Maud (aged thirteen, with withering scorn)—I pity the man you'll get for a husband, Ethel Smith.

Ethel (aged fourteen, with lofty contempt)—And I'd do as much for you, Maud Jones, only it would be absurd to waste pity on what you'll never get.—London Judy.

Discounting Fate.

Willie Nolan—I wish you would give me a good lickin' right now.

Teacher—Why, Willie; what have you done?

Willie Nolan—Nothin'; but there's goin' to be a circus in town to-morrow an' I want to enjoy it without any disturbing thought.—Judge.

Just Like a Man.

Dealer—This is the best parrot we have; but I wouldn't sell him without letting you know his one fault; he'll grumble terribly if his food doesn't suit him.

Miss Fitz—I'll take him; it will seem quite like having a man in the house.—Boston Globe.

Made Him Weak.

Little Sister (who opened the door)—Sister told me to say she was very sorry, but she couldn't see you to-night.

Gentleman (alarmed)—Is she sick?

Little Sister—I fink she feels weak. W'en I passed the parlor Mr. Getther was helpin' her to stand up.—Good News.

Matrimonial Item.

Mabel—Did you hear that Bessie Wills was married yesterday to Tom Guzzler?

Maud—Really? I thought she would be the last person to marry him.

Mabel—Well, she was, wasn't she?—Texas Siftings.

Force of Habit.

"Emma," said her mamma, rushing from the library into her daughter's boudoir, "Cholly wants to talk to you at the telephone."

"Horrors!" exclaimed the dear girl. "And I look like a fright in this old wrapper."—Chicago News Record.

A Modern Romance.

Fanny—Mr. Heath said in some respects you reminded him of the ladies for whom knights used to contend.

Amy—Oh, he only meant to flatter me.

Fanny—No; he said you really did have a middle-aged look.—Judge.

Had Never Heard It.

He—Oh, I have a splendid story to tell you. I don't think I ever told it to you before.

She—Is it really a good story?

He—Indeed it is.

She (wearily)—Then you haven't told it to me before.—Life.

A Hardening.

Resident—Think of opening an office in this neighborhood, eh? Seems to me you are rather young for a family physician.

Young Doctor—Yes, but—er—I shall [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS | MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,

No. 17 Park Avenue,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,

For Family and Medicinal Use,

A SPECIALTY.

3-26-)

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

United Hospital and Dispensary, Boston, Mass.

Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXVI.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1893.

No 10.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

The Constitutionalist,

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jedf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 122 Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEBUS,
Dentist,
30 West Front street. A new local anaesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—je6f

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 149, or left at Williams' music store, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 91 E. Front street, corner Elm street. jly19d

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

John Chandler,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
Plainfield, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 31 East Third street.
Jobbing promptly attended to. aply

E. B. MAYNARD,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 28 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, etc. satisfactorily performed. f17yl

GARNEY BROTHERS, Agents,
7 West Front St.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 8. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
[illegible]
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 7 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 18 6.
C. E. & J. W. RROWN,
(Successors to O. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-tf

LIVERY.

REMOVAL.
A. M. SEGUINE,
Has removed his office to
No. 8 West Second Street,
(Salvation Army building)
Where all orders left for carriages will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 98.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
A. M. SEGUINE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasolene Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 15 Somerset St.

GEO. A. MOORE. GEO. H. COOK.
Moore & Cook,
Dealers in
Fruits and Vegetables.
Game and Poultry
At wholesale. Terms cash.
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Carey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—21 W. FRONT ST.
[illegible]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5-cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FIRE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!!
6. 33 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's materials, of every description.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Smokers' articles, has removed from [illegible] West Front street, to 42 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. S. WOOLSTON, J. V. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 36 NORTH AVENUE

G. Dickinson
Optician
13 Park Ave
Plainfield N.J.

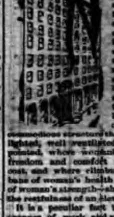
WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be
Letter Heading,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation,
Specialties.
WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

IN SWELL APARTMENTS.

An Immense Hotel to Be Erected for Maiden Ladies.

Money Ready and Plans Made—No Ridiculous Rules and Restrictions or Offensive Espionage to Be Tolerated—Ready Next Fall.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]



New York is going to have an apartment house for women, and, considering the five thousand women artists, musicians, journalists, bookkeepers, stenographers and students scattered around in dingy boarding houses and dark flats, there is certainly great need of at least one commodious structure that shall be well lighted, well ventilated and well appointed, where womankind can have freedom and comfort at a moderate cost, and where climbing stairs—that bane of woman's health and consumer of woman's strength—shall give way to the restfulness of an elevator.

It is a peculiar fact that, while all avenues of work and study have been opened up to woman and she has demonstrated her ability to earn her own living and take care of herself, there has never been any cognizance of her individuality, no place provided for her to live.

Bachelor apartments, with elegant entrances suggesting the luxuries within, display their aggravating signs in every quarter; old-time mansions, in convenient locations, have been thoroughly renovated and rearranged in suites and single rooms, for "gentlemen only," and even the high-toned boarding-houses imagine it adds to their dignity to advertise "gentlemen preferred."

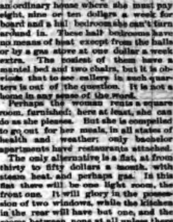
What, then, is the business woman to do? A single woman looking for desirable quarters in New York at present will have some very amusing as well as annoying experiences. She will find it hard to get into a first-class house unless it is so late in the season that the landlady has no hope of securing another man, and she will not seldom find that she is paying a dollar or two more by the week than did the man occupying the room before her—to cover gas used in crimping her hair, extra service required of servants, etc. A woman asking accommodation for two will be met with the utmost graciousness until the landlady discovers that the second party is not a husband, but another woman; then there is crawfishing and finally a flat statement that she makes it a rule to take in "only families and gentlemen."

This sort of thing leaves the woman little choice and usually drives her into an ordinary house where she must pay eight, nine or ten dollars a week for board and a hall bedroom she can't turn around in. These hall bedrooms have no means of heat except from the halls or by a gas stove at one dollar a week extra. The cosiest of them have a mantel bed and two chairs, but it is obvious that to see callers in such quarters is out of the question. It is not a home in any sense of the word.

Perhaps the woman rents a square room, furnished; here at least, she can do as she pleases. But she is compelled to go out for her meals, in all states of health and weather; only bachelor apartments have restaurants attached.

The only alternative is a flat, at from thirty to fifty dollars a month, with steam heat and perhaps gas. In this flat there will be one light room, the front one. It will glory in the possession of two windows, while the kitchen in the rear will have but one, and the rooms between none at all unless there happens to be an air shaft or a skylight. And, by the way, these makeshifts are advertised as "light" rooms, New York being built up so solidly that every inch of light space is valuable in proportion to the ground space.

Mrs. Wheeler and Miss Lewis between them evolved by degrees and much deliberation a practical plan for a woman's apartment house in all its details, and then submitted it to a number of women of influence and wealth. It was decided to organize a stock company at twenty-five dollars a share, each share entitling the holder to a vote in the management of the company and the building. Stanford White, the well-known architect, was called into council, and drew up plans for a nine-story fireproof building, of artistic but not elaborate design in stone and pressed brick, to be erected on a corner lot, with an open court in the middle, for as many light rooms as possible. The site selected was on Fourth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, convenient to car lines and elevated stations, but the owner of the middle lot, supposing his land indispensable to the scheme, promptly went up ten thousand dollars in his price, and the committee as promptly dropped that location. They are now hesitating between two others equally good, and if anything more reasonable, so the greedy landowner did not serve them so mean a trick after all.

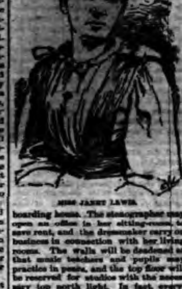


MRS. CANDACE WHEELER.

The building will accommodate five hundred women, in single rooms or suites, according to their incomes. The architect has made out a scale of prices which are fairly accurate, and which he predicts will be an inducement to occupants and pay stockholders a reasonable per cent. on their investment.

Single rooms, furnished with heat and light, three or four dollars a week, according to location; one room and bath, five dollars; parlor, sleeping room and bath, seven dollars; parlor, two sleeping rooms and baths, ten dollars. For those desiring to "keep house" there will be unfurnished apartments with kitchens, to be leased by the year, while the others will be let from month to month, so that parties away for the summer, and who cannot afford to pay for their rooms during vacation, will not be obliged to do so. There will be two elevators in the building, and the services of a porter and a chambermaid at nominal rates.

The management of the entire house will be as in any first-class apartments. Ironclad references as to respectability and reliability will be required and will be thoroughly looked into, but once a woman is admitted there will be no espionage. Of course, if an occupant annoys a neighbor she will be asked to desist or go, or if compromising rumors [illegible] the manager of the house they will be investigated, but not to the extent of a [illegible] and spying without cause, as has been the lot of the [illegible] women from the beginning of their independence. It may be that an occasional undesirable tenant may be taken in, but it may safely be predicted that she won't stay long, and the women in general are not to be treated with any the less consideration on that account. Their friends, both men and women, may be entertained in their rooms as in their own homes—something that is not permitted in the average New York boarding house. The stenographer may open an office in her sitting-room, to save rent, and the dressmaker carry on business in connection with her living rooms. The walls will be deadened so that music teachers and pupils may practice in peace, and the top floor will be reserved for studios with the necessary top north light. In fact, everything will be done with the welfare of the workingwomen in view—something that seems too good to be true to the woman who has battled with circumstances in New York for the past ten years.



MISS JANET LEWIS.

It will be essentially a woman's building, and it is to be hoped that the different clubs, schools and branches of business peculiar to women will gather under one roof, to be easily found when wanted. There will be a telegraph and telephone office with women operators and a book and news stand with women clerks. The ground floor will be divided into stores, and here should be installed manicures, hairdressers, gloves and notions, fancy work—every branch of business that a woman carries on successfully.

The restaurant in connection will be under the management of a woman, on salary if possible, so there will be no idea of gain, but merely of supplying the very best that can be afforded at moderate prices, and it will be a public restaurant, open to both men and women, avoiding the forlornness of an old maids' lunch room.

There will be a fine opening for Turkish baths, as there is but one place in New York, where a woman can have a bath after one o'clock, and that is a dingy place which is practically out of the busy woman's reach, because it is not open evenings, Sundays or holidays, as the men's baths are. In a building where women live there will be the added luxury of a bath and bed directly afterward, instead of dressing and going into the outdoor air, risking one's death of cold.

The open court has already been spoken for the sale of potted plants and cut flowers by a woman florist on Long Island, and a [illegible] will be. A library will probably be donated as a memorial by a philanthropic woman, and the Associated Artists—an association composed mainly of women—will give their services in the interior decoration.

A large assembly room will be a decided feature of the building. Sorosis pays Sherry one hundred dollars a month for the occasional use of certain rooms; the Woman's Press club and the Twelfth Night girls are awfully crowded for space when they undertake to entertain their friends, and the various other women's clubs greatly need suitable quarters for public meetings, receptions, dinners, etc. This assembly room in a woman's building will fill a long felt want.

Anyway, next September or October will find the building ready for occupancy, just in time to get settled for the winter, and if the building proves to have been established on a satisfactory basis capitalists will see the advantage of such an investment and with other buildings will rush in where before they feared to tread.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

Will Mrs. Cleveland Adopt the Inflated Skirt?

Spring Materials Carefully Dissected—Their Peculiarities and Marks of Beauty—The Spring Cape—Points on the Lenten Hat—A Lace Dress.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

Are you going to get a Cleveland dress? It will be quite the thing now, for a good long time to come, to follow the doings at the white house, and particularly those of its beloved mistress. Then, just as soon as Mrs. Grover appears in new gown, coat or bonnet, it will be ours to secure one like it in color, shape or size. It would not be good taste to have it reproduced in every particular, but would be a delicate acknowledgment of our appreciation of her taste in gowning to appropriate some portion of it in our adornment.

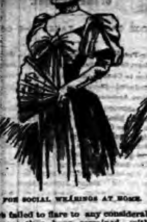
Let us hope devoutly that she will never don the inflated skirt. For if she forever disdains it, then may we, too, feel quite serene in our slightly flaring ones.

But we need not wait for a hint from the white house before buying our early spring gown, for all of the spring goods have something in common, and we can scarcely stray very far from what she chooses. The spring goods are alike after a fashion, and yet, after another fashion, are surprisingly unlike. As we cast one careless look over a large number of fabrics we decide that it makes very little difference which one we select, as they all look so much alike. And then, when we come to examine more closely, we wonder what gave us this first impression. For we find that there is scarcely any actual resemblance. They are, it is true, all of some dull, old shade, but, on the other hand, of almost every shade imaginable. They have, also, almost every one of them, some thread running over in a foreign color. But we discover, also, that these threads are rarely alike in shade or texture. In addition to this, we make up our minds first that the queer, crazy designs formed by these threads are rather similar, when suddenly it dawns upon us that no two of them are alike. This arouses our interest, and we begin to think them worthy of closer attention after all. Then begins the absorbing question of which one of all these bewildering fabrics we shall select for our own.

Shall it be this thin, sheer goods that has a fine silk stripe running through it, and, besides, a sort of spider pattern all over it? Or this dark blue with dull pink fleur-de-lis closely covering it? Perhaps this gauzy black stuff would be better with the fine gold thread so closely woven that it almost conceals the groundwork; and yet this dull pink with funny irregular dots of paler and duller pink over would be prettier yet, and those plaided materials with the silky stripes are very attractive. Dear, it is so hard to make up one's mind.

But it really matters little which one [illegible] get one of them home and see it apart from the dozen other materials you are bound to like it, and it is almost sure to be becoming. For that is the beauty of them all. They are all soft, and yet there is something about each that makes it stand out. In a word, they're awfully pretty if you consider each alone. But take my advice, and don't look at too many at one time or you'll never in this world be satisfied with one. The very finest of them, with the patterns run over in silk threads, costs three dollars a yard. But numbers of them are much less expensive.

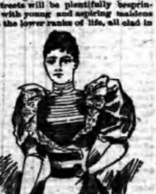
The puzzling question is, how to have these made. If it is really decided that we are not to have the hoopskirt, what, then, are we to have? And if it is not yet quite decided, how soon will it be? While the world is hovering in a state of uncomfortable suspense, wondering what will happen next, it is safe to observe the rules laid down during the last few months. At least there is one comfort for all of us; that as far the skirts have failed to flare to any considerable degree; they have remained within strictly proper bounds, so that we shall be quite safe in having the modestly flaring skirt, even on the new costume. A very pretty way to make your coming gown is to cut your plain skirt open at the left side, just enough to show an embroidered petticoat below in some plain, harmonizing or contrasting color. Make your bodice empire, have a V embroidered just like petticoat, then the corselet plaited in fine folds at the shoulder seam, drawn down both sides of the V in front, and disappearing under a wide belt embroidered like the petticoat and the vest. Have your under sleeves embroidered also.



FOR SOCIAL WEARINGS AT HOME.

I have just seen a most stunning spring coat. It is extremely striking with its perfectly straight lines. It has nothing but a plain velvet yoke, edged by a bit of fanciful passementerie, from which falls the cloak proper, straight, without a fold, to the feet, front and sides. The front is of plain cloth, the sides of velvet to match, the back of cloth. The sleeves are of cloth, very slightly fulled and drooping at the shoulders very noticeably. It sounds most ordinary, but looks quite the opposite.

Then there is also the new cape. The cape will grow more and more puffed up, for it will receive even more attention this coming season than it has done all winter. Now that it will soon be too warm for the velvet and fur cape, the plain cloth one will begin to assert itself. And no sooner will this transpire than all womankind, even to the very lowest, will be able to ape the society woman and produce a garment that will by courtesy bear this name. For it will be such a simple matter to imitate the mantles of the high dames. In winter it was not so easy, for although a makeshift for both fur and velvet was to be had at very little cost, it was still at too high a cost to come within the reach of all. And so the poor, envious creatures were obliged to cling to their coats. But the cloth cape is quite another thing. It will not be long before the streets will be plentifully besprinkled with young and aspiring maidens from the lower ranks of life, all clad in garments of exactly the same cut and quality of material, feeling extremely smart and proud of themselves as they consider how stylish they look, how easily they might be taken for real swells. Then will society shed her cape in sheer disgust and wonder whether any of its pet garments will escape the contaminating touch of the people.



NEW SPRING STYLE.

But the new cape will scarcely be appropriated by everyone, for it is far too dainty and expensive a thing. I saw it all in brown, the cape proper, made of a soft, fawny brown cloth, falling very slightly full, just below the hips. At the neck there was a very high collar of brown velvet, several shades deeper than the cloth, which lengthened itself into a small collarette, plaited over the shoulders. Around the high collar was a broad band of fine jet, and from the jet band, all around, fell loose pendants of jet, quite long, reaching half way down the cape, and finishing in narrow points and jet fringes. It looked very pretty.

If you have not yet trimmed your Lenten hat, by all means purchase some palm of rich, dark green—not the genuine, unless you wish to replace it daily—and weave it in and around your ribbons, plumes or aigrettes. It looks very well, indeed, and you may put it on to suit yourself. Some new hats are out that have small, flat crowns and perfectly flat brims. The crowns are always covered with velvet, which adds richness to the effect. With all the ready-made ornaments, fancy straw edges, jeweled pins, aigrettes and plumes just ready to tack on with a few stitches, ribbon bows made with just the necessary piquant air about them, fancy crowns and all the rest, almost anyone can trim a hat like a genuine milliner. In fact, the milliner has been at it before us, getting things into shape, and all we need to do is to bring the different elements into a harmonious whole. All we need is some slight taste in selecting the shades and deciding upon the dozen or more different objects which shall adorn the hat.

Have you a quantity of rare old lace that you wish to make use of? If you have enough of it, by all means make a lace gown, or partly lace gown. Make the skirt of three flounces of it, and the front very scant and with plain silk or satin material at the back. The [illegible] side. Where four inch ruffles end at each side of the skirt, you must have pretty ribbon rosettes. Your sleeve puffs may be of plain material, with lace cuffs or none, and over your puf may fall pretty lace epaulets, which run around the back in a berthe.

EVA A. SCHUBERT.

Hard to Please.

Binks—Did you hear about Watson's whiskers?

Jinks—No; what was it?

"Why, they looked so homely that all the neighbors signed a petition asking Watson, as a matter of public policy, to shave them off."

"Well, did he do it?"

"Yes, he did."

"Well, what then?"

"Why, the very next day the neighbors signed a petition asking Watson, as a matter of public policy, to let them grow again."—Somerville Journal.

SOME NEW IDEAS.

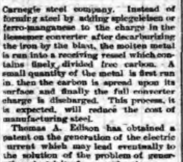
Late Inventions Designed to Save Labor and Time.

Queer Electrical Devices—Pocket Flasks for "Prohibition States," Folding Bath Tubs and "Cyclone Resisters"—The Work of Many Ingenious Minds.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

It is hard to believe that an article which has a purely religious use would be patentable or that the cost of obtaining a patent would be considered a profitable investment. Yet an Ohio inventor has taken out letters patent on a folding confessional, embodying all the comforts of home.

A newly patented process of manufacturing steel has been purchased by the Carnegie steel company. Instead of forming steel by adding spiegeleisen or ferro-manganese to the charge in the Bessemer converter after decarburizing the iron by the blast, the molten metal is run into a receiving vessel which contains finely divided free carbon. A small quantity of the metal is first run in, then the carbon is spread upon its surface and finally the full converter charge is discharged. This process, it is expected, will reduce the cost of manufacturing steel.



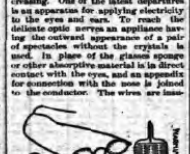
Thomas A. Edison has obtained a patent on the generation of the electric current which may lead eventually to the solution of the problem of generating electricity from combustion.

Edison's method consists substantially in generating electricity in a heated chamber, exhausted of air, from the reaction of carbon with a chemical compound, the nature of which is not yet disclosed. The walls of the chamber form one electrode and a carbon rod the other. Much may be expected from this latest invention of the "Wizard of Menlo Park" if his chemical is a cheap one. The discovery certainly embodies new principles.

The Japanese bury their dead sitting in tubs in a cramped and uncomfortable position, and the New York dwellers in flats take their baths in a similar manner. It is doubtful which of the two fates is preferable. Bath tubs in modern flats are of the size of a generous soup tureen and it is necessary to bathe by the installment plan.

A Chicago fiend, not satisfied with the present almost microscopical proportions of these tubs, has invented a folding one which may save an inch or so more of space, and, which, according to him, "satisfies the most critical and artistic lover of household art." This new tub, when folded together, is about three feet six inches in height, something less than two feet thick, and slightly wider than its depth. Let down, a water reservoir, heated by a gas or gasoline jet, with a cock opening into the tub, is disclosed. The tub is made of any metal, lined or unlined with porcelain. Its appearance is claimed to be "neat, ornate and chaste," especially when the surrounding case is in the verisimilitude of a piano. It is made also in a cabinet form, with beveled looking glasses. For anyone who desires to bathe in his parlor it will be a decided acquisition.

A few years since the market was flooded with electric hairbrushes, toothbrushes, bathbrushes and belts, all warranted to cure various ailments. Whether electricity can exercise any therapeutic action more than a stimulus to the nerves and muscles is doubtful, but the medical applications of the galvanic current are constantly increasing. One of the latest departures is an apparatus for applying electricity to the eyes and ears. To reach the delicate optic nerves an appliance having the outward appearance of a pair of spectacles without the crystals is used. In place of the glasses sponge or other absorptive material is in direct contact with the eyes, and an appendix for connection with the nose is joined to the conductor. The wires are insulated and the current does not affect any part save at the points of contact of the absorptive material with the flesh. The body itself serves as a return conductor for the current.



FOR TREATING EYES AND EARS ELECTRICALLY

For the ears the apparatus is shaped something like a skeleton of an ear muff, wires passing around the lobes holding the device in position. These wires are insulated conductors of the current, and from them branches an arm terminating in a small piece of sponge, which rests against the tympanum and acts as the electrode. For both of the devices a single cell battery of low potentiality is used. Too high a current might destroy either sight or hearing, and the strength must be carefully graduated.

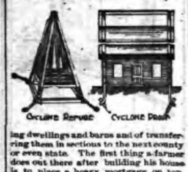
While ministers and metaphysicians have wrestled vainly with the divorce problem, an Ottawa (Canada) genius, in inventing an electric hot water bottle, has done much toward alleviating, if not obviating, one of the principal contributory causes. There is no more necessity now for cold, anaemic feet, in comparison with which icicles are cheerful and comforting, nor need any wife or husband be now tortured by glacial spinal applications. This Canadian philanthropist has devised an india rubber bottle which can be fastened to any incandescent electric light wire and which can be heated almost instantaneously by pressing the button. In size the bottle is about one foot long and some six inches in diameter, both long and broad enough to heat the sole of any foot east of Chicago. Inside, the wire, which enters through a lead cylinder forming the neck of the bottle, connects with a resistance coil. This resistance coil, like all such coils which are used in electric heaters, is formed of wire too small to carry the current, so that the electrical energy not finding [illegible] is transformed into heat. In a few moments, if the current is strong enough, water can be brought to the boiling point, but this temperature is never required, save in Borean climates and in the case of unusually recalcitrant feet.

There is a man down in Virginia with an idea—not that ideas are rare in Virginia, nor that a Virginian with one is a curiosity—but this man's idea is novel. He is persuaded that the tippling habit will in all likelihood continue until the millennium comes and that until humanity in the concrete experiences a change of heart and gets religion there will be always a number of good brethren who will do their bibbing away from the profane gaze of the public. Yet there are occasions, as the observant Virginian probably knew, when a drink is necessary in a throng, even at the risk of a reputation for abstinence. It was to fill this aching void that he employed his inventive genius. He knew that canes had been converted into drinking flasks and that opera glasses had been made the receptacles of spirituous liquors; but opera glasses and canes are considered outre in Virginia, and a man developing an infatuation for either would be regarded with suspicion by strangers and with anxiety by his friends.

What is more innocent in appearance than a clothesbrush with a heavy wooden back and stiff bristles? Who would think that it contained a pint of good bourbon? Yet this combination of good and evil was the culmination of the Machiavelian Virginian's concentration upon the liquor question.

His brush, patented a few days ago, has a thick hollow back which contains a glass flask securely concealed from view, with a drinking cup fitted snugly to the reduced neck of the bottle. Either end of the brush can be easily removed and the flask taken out and refilled.

Out in the land of the tornado and cyclone some restraint is necessary to hold houses in position. These high winds have a distressing habit of elevating dwellings and barns and of transferring them in sections to the next county or even state. The first thing a farmer does out there after building his house is to place a heavy mortgage on top, with the possible object of disheartening the cyclone; but the tornado is no respecter of persons or of farm mortgage trusts, and when one comes along the mortgage, however weighty, is pretty sure to be lifted together with the farmer and the house. The uncertain and unheralded approach of these terrific gales does not tend to tranquillity or a sense of security.



At the first apprehension of a visit from a cyclone the farmer, tumultuously followed by his wife and family, packs off to his cellar or lowers himself down a well. Here he waits until all has quieted, not knowing whether he will rest in his bed or study astronomy all night. If the house has stood—but it rarely does—all is well and good, but if it is gone, then all he can do is to build another for the fat and [illegible] to roost upon.

A man out in Denver has patented an idea which he thinks will materially change this condition of affairs. He is intimate with cyclones, having met several in Kansas, and from his acute observation of their characteristics he is persuaded that he can knock out the strongest of them. In the piquant language of the unsophisticated west he is willing to bet dollars to doughnuts that he can stop a tornado in one round.

His plan is simple enough. A strong iron band passes over the gables and roof of the house, to which it is firmly bolted; the ends of the rod terminate in loops which are buried in the ground and carefully tacked down by large wooden stakes, a mallet and the hired man. As a sort of additional precaution a small pyramidal house of refuge is attached, also a terrifying combination of heavy anchors, sills and beams, which the inventor believes will stand eternally. In addition this amateur reformatory institution has infinite possibilities as a summer house, hencoop or salle a manger for the pigs, which will commend it at once to the intelligent agriculturist.

Rouge Et Noir.

"Miss De Rigeur gave a pink tea that evening. I was there."

"Everything at a pink tea should have been couleur de rose, but you somehow don't look as if you enjoyed it very much."

"Well, the fact is I took the opportunity of proposing to Miss De Rigeur."

"And"—

"And she gave me a black eye."—Texas Siftings.

Used in the Arts.

The amount of the precious metals that go into the gold and silversmiths' arts is enormous. Europe consumes upward of $34,000,000 worth of gold and silver annually for plate, jewelry and ornaments.

TOLSTOI'S SAD TALE.

He Reports on His Famine Work to a Russian Paper.

Heartrending Scenes Among the Starving—The Eccentric Count, Although Weary of Well-Doing, Continues His Work.

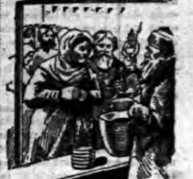
Count Leo Tolstoi, the champion benefactor of the Russian peasantry, has just finished his report of the distribution of relief funds sent to him. The Ruskija Vjedomosti, which publishes this report, has nothing but praise for this great man. The report is a very interesting one, though it deals with a gruesome subject. Count Tolstoi complains that the harvest of last year was almost as bad as that of the year before, this especially being the case in the provinces where he and his family are engaged in their work of charity.

"How are matters going to shape themselves this winter?" asks the count. "Shall we again be compelled to erect places for the distribution of food both right and left? It is scandalous to say so, but nevertheless the plain truth, that the terrible misery all about us has tired us out so completely that we regard the starving wretches as if they were our enemies."

The count embodies in his report this characteristic little sketch of an incident of his latest famine campaign:

"I rise very early in the morning; it is cold, the first sunbeams just flush the sky with a pale roseate tinge, the snow creaks under foot. I go out in the hope that at this early hour I may not find any famished sufferers congregated in my yard so that I may take my morning walk undisturbed. I have scarcely opened the door before I see two poor wretches. One tall, broad-shouldered peasant dressed in a short fur coat which hangs in tatters and with a pair of dilapidated straw sandals on his feet; his face is a deep yellow, and at his side hangs an empty bag. It is a true type of the famished, emaciated peasant; almost all of them look like this. He has a fourteen-year-old boy with him who has no fur coat to protect him against the bitter cold, nothing but a coarse jacket; he also has worn-out straw sandals, a bag and a walking stick.

"I try to pass them, but they stop me with their salutations while addressing a few words to me. There is nothing to be done and I return to my anteroom, while they follow.



COUNT TOLSTOI.
[Feeding Starving Peasants.]

"'What is the matter?' I ask them.

"'We come to you.'

"'But why?'

"'We are in need of help.'

"'What kind of help do you need?'

"'We must have help or we starve to death.'

"'Where do you come from?'

"'From Satvori.'

"'I thought, as much.' This is a village in the Skopin district where we as yet have not had time or means to erect a soup kitchen. Dozens of beggars come from that direction every day, and I take this peasant for a professional beggar, get angry with him because he teaches the boy to beg like himself.

"'What do you want, anyway?' I ask him in an angry tone.

"'Do not say no to us.'

"'But what can I do for you?'

"The man does not seem to hear what I have said, but repeats what he has already told me. It is the same old story: 'The crop has failed; the family counts eight souls; I am the only one who can work; the old woman died awhile ago; last summer we ate up the cow; at Christmas time the last horse dropped, and for the last three days no food has passed our lips.'

"Always this sad melody. I expect that he will stop, but he continues to speak.

"'Yes, yes,' I interrupt, to get a chance to leave, 'I will see what can be done.'

"And now I will try to take my morning walk * * * but then my eyes fall upon the lad. He looks at me with his handsome black eyes in which the tear of hope is shimmering.

"To me the father's recital was an old, old story, but the boy had been touched by hearing it and of the reminder of all the misery he had suffered just now when he hoped to have reached a harbor of life giving rest.

"How dreary it is to listen—yes, we are weary and exhausted—but they continue to starve, they continue to cling to life, continue to hope for pitying compassion * * *."

Water Isn't in It.

Electric light baths are among the latest inventions. The necessary parts of such a bath are a cabinet which will inclose the entire body except the head, and fifty electric lamps of sixteen-candle power, or 110 volts, arranged about the body in groups, with a separate switch for each group. The light is thrown on a [illegible] at a time, making the patient frisky and browning the skin like an ocean bath.

Pearls of Great Price.

Pope Leo XIII. owns a pearl left to him by his predecessor on the throne of St. Peter which is worth £20,000, and the chain of 32 pearls owned by Empress Frederick is estimated at £35,000.

Suspicion.

"Is your father in?" said the man who rang the bell with one hand while he held a bunch of accounts behind him with the other.

"I don't know," said the boy who opened the door. "Got one of your photographs with ye?"

"Why—yes. I believe I have."

"Well, let me take it a minute and I'll find out."—Washington Star.

A Complete Giveaway.

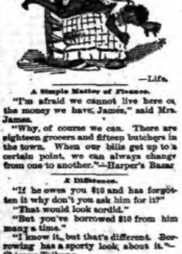
Judge Duffy—You are accused of having stolen a coat from Mr. Smith's room.

Crook—No, your honor, I know nothing at all about the coat.

"It appears that it was worth about twenty dollars."

"Now, your honor, you can see for yourself what the testimony is worth. This is the very coat that I have on."—Texas Siftings.

A STRIKING BRUNETTE.



—Life.

A Simple Matter of Finance.

"I'm afraid we cannot live here on the money we have, James," said Mrs. James.

"Why, of course we can. There are eighteen grocers and fifteen butchers in the town. When our bills get up to a certain point, we can always change from one to another."—Harper's Bazar.

A Difference.

"If he owes you $10 and has forgotten it why don't you ask him for it?"

"That would look sordid."

"But you've borrowed $10 from him many a time."

"I know it, but that's different. Borrowing has a sporty look about it."—Chicago Tribune.

A Dissatisfied Man.

Prison Visitor—You seem an honest fellow, and I feel an interest in you. Could anything be done to make you more comfortable?

"You bet!"

"What?"

"Let me out!"—Texas Siftings.

An Aggregation of Talent.

Billy Frontrow—Then you think you have a good company, this season?

Enthusiastic Manager—A good company! Why, they're all stars, sir! Every lady in the cast is a celebrated divorcee, and every man has won his prize fight.—Puck.

A Surprising Procedure.

Tommy Cubbage (at the Sunday dinner table)—Mrs. Tillinghast had her knitting at church this morning.

Mrs. Cubbage (shocked)—What on earth was she knitting in church?

Tommy—Her brows.—Judge.

Not a Literary Man.

Skidds—You don't know her very well, then?

Spatts—I said I could read her like a book.

Skidds—That's what made me infer you didn't know her very well.—Truth.

Very Thorough.

Mother—Is your Uncle John's wife a thorough housekeeper?

Small Son (just back from a visit)—I guess so. I was just as uncomfortable with her as I am with you.—Good News.

Rates of Advertising

[illegible]

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Double cols. 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE

Editors and Proprietors.

THE ESSENCE OF LOYALTY.

In a country like the United States where by virtue of the Declaration of Independence, the foundation wall of the Republic, all persons were legally made free and equal, any law that operates, either directly or indirectly, to curtail civil freedom or confer special class privileges, is hostile to the avowed principles of 1776 which were consolidated as a governing system into the Constitution of 1787 and the amendments thereto.

In other lands personal exactions and class legislation may be consistent with ruling authority. The will of the Czar of Russia is despotic supremacy, and the Parliament of England only carries into effect monarchal designs by ennobling princely and aristocratic blood and wealth, but throughout the American Union all such acts and customs are as alien to established freedom as wrong is to right.

Here, thanks be to wise and patriotic forefathers, every person, rich or poor, stands upon an equality before the law and amenable to it, but if, through political degeneracy or mercenary craft, laws are unequally drafted or unjustly administered, professed equality becomes hypocritical.

Our governmental edifice was reared for definite purposes, the conferring of freedom of effort and equal opportunities upon all the people to attain and enjoy prosperity and happiness, being foremost among its promised blessings.

No man here has the right to claim superior public advantages one over another, nor to say—"I am more entitled to protection than you?"

Equal and exact justice at all times and under all circumstances is the very essence of American loyalty, and the corner-stone of the party of Democracy.

CABINET BEGINS WORK

The President Calls His Official Family Together.

POLITICIANS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Republicans as Well as Democrats Call on the Chief Executive—The Senate Probably a Tie, but the Populists May be Depended on to Vote With the Democrats—Composition of the House.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The first meeting of the new Cabinet, held yesterday afternoon, lasted something more than two hours. All the members were in attendance.

Just prior to the assembling of the new officers in the Cabinet room Secretary Carlisle had a talk with the President concerning the bond question, and was the first member of the Cabinet to arrive at the White House.

Postmaster-General Bissell came early, with Secretaries Herbert and Gresham close behind him.

The others came stringing in, with the exception of Secretary Morton, who did not make his appearance before 10 minutes before 4 o'clock.

There was no formality or ceremony observed at the opening of the first official meeting.

Mr. Cleveland, sitting at the head of the table, started business in a simple, direct manner.

The session was devoted to the discussion of matters of current importance, including Hawaiian annexation and the financial situation, which were touched upon slightly.

The greater part of the time was taken up, however, with a consideration of the question of appointments, particularly those of assistants to the various Cabinet officers. The necessity for filling these positions without delay was taken as a self-evident fact, but Mr. Cleveland impressed upon his official family the necessity of going slowly, in making selections. The Cabinet adjourned at 5:10 o'clock.

Secretary Carlisle, who was the first to arrive, was the first to leave.

Messrs. Lamont, Bissell and Smith remained for some time after the others had gone, discussing matters of a confidential character.

CANDIDATES HAUNT CLEVELAND.

Officeseekers Marching Up to the White House Door.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The steady tramp, tramp of the officeseeker sounded through the White House all day.

There was practically no cessation in the line of people who ascended the stairway leading to the President's room and nearly all who came saw Mr. Cleveland. They found him in a jovial humor and he cracked jokes with old acquaintances whom he had not seen since his departure from Washington four years ago.

While a large number of those who saw the President are candidates for office, few of them attempted to press their claims and Congressmen with long lists of constituents who are willing to work for Uncle Sam were discreet enough not to ask for favors but to simply pay their respects.

The great bulk of the visitors were Democrats, of course, but there were a number of Republicans in the throng, among these Senator Mitchell with a party of gentlemen from Oregon; Senator Manderson with several ladies and gentlemen from Nebraska; and Congressmen O'Neill and Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

THE COMPOSITION OF CONGRESS.

The Senate Probably a Tie and the House Democratic By 80 Majority.

WASHINGTON, March .—The present roll call of the Senate shows 44 Democrats, 38 Republicans, one Populist, one Independent and one Farmers Alliance, and three vacancies.

The vacancies are one each in Montana, Washington and Wyoming.

Two of these vacancies have been temporarily filled by appointment. Beckwith (Dem.), from Wyoming, and Lee Mantle (Rep.), from Montana, but should all three vacancies be eventually filled by the election of Republicans which is barely possible, the Senate (even with the combined force of the Populists) would still be a tie with Vice-President Stevenson holding the controlling vote.

The composition of the House as shown by official returns, is Democrats, 217; Republicans, 128; third party 8, and vacancies, 3. The Democrats thus have a majority of 80 over all.

Gresham's Successor Not Appointed.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The story published in the West that Judge Jenkins of Wisconsin, has been selected as successor of Judge Gresham as United States circuit judge is, at least, premature. It is ascertained at the White House that no appointment for the vacant position has yet been made, or even considered.

Rosecrans Not to Resign.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A private letter has been received here from Gen. Rosecrans, Register of the Treasury, now in California, stating that his health has improved very much of late. The General [illegible] states that he does not contemplate resigning his position as Register of the Treasury.

Encouraging.

"I suppose you know," said the indulgent parent to the anxious suitor, "that my daughter has been reared in the lap of luxury?"

"Yes, sir, I know that. Still, I am glad you mentioned it, for it convinces me that you realize the importance of making me a liberal allowance to [illegible] you."—Detroit Free Press.

CLEVELAND INAUGURATED A SECOND TIME

Ceremonies Incident to His Induction Into Office as the Chief Executive of the Nation.

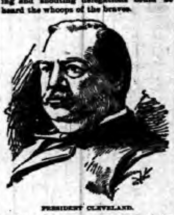
BUT LITTLE TROUBLE EXPERIENCED IN GETTING THE GREAT PROCESSION IN MOTION.

One Slight Change in the Programme to Gratify Mrs. Cleveland—The Incoming and Outgoing Presidents Occupy the Same Carriage in the March to the Reviewing Stand—Governors of Many States Participate in the Parade—Fine Appearance of the Military and Civic Organizations—Full Programme of the Order of March—Incidents of the Day at the Capitol—Mr. Cleveland's Numerous Visitors Last Night.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—From daybreak this morning the city has been in an uproar. The thousands of visitors seem to completely swallow up the permanent residents, and, although they are used to exciting times during changes of administration, they seem bewildered by the intense excitement of the visiting delegations of Democrats, each apparently endeavoring to outdo the other in the art of making noise.

Column upon column of men, from East, West, North and South, paraded through the streets long before the President-elect had arisen, arousing the Washingtonians from their peaceful, though brief, slumbers, many being happy to have caught even two hours' sleep during the night, for far into the "wee, sma' hours" of this morning the Democrats continued the jubilee.

The members of the Tammany Society of New York seemed to be ubiquitous. Tammany badges were everywhere, and above the din and confusion of the parading and shouting delegations could be heard the whoops of the braves.



PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

As the time for the formation of the inaugural procession approached, Pennsylvania avenue, along the entire line of march, began to fill up, slowly at first but with increasing swiftness as the thousands of latecomers pushed and jostled each other in the endeavor to reach some coign of vantage.

An hour or more before the time appointed for the start of the parade arrived, the great thoroughfare of Washington was a solid mass of humanity too tightly wedged together to move, with scarcely room enough to breathe.

It was almost a matter of impossibility to make progress on the sidewalks, and those who wished to move from one point to another were glad to take the middle of the street, although it was still ankle-deep with the slush churned into mud from yesterday's storm.

That strange sound, almost indescribable, which always precedes an expected event pervaded the air like the low and indistinct murmur of the sea upon a pebbly beach on a calm day in the lazy summer time. What it signifies is also hard to tell. It seems to be a mixture of impatience, annoyance and excitement. The great crowds, however, were orderly, contrary to expectation, and the large bodies of police had little to do in the matter of arrests, but were very busy in keeping the lines of people on either side of the avenue from closing together in a solid phalanx.

VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON.

At the reviewing stand the crowds were packed more closely and were more demonstrative than at any other point.

One slight change in the programme was adopted by the inaugural committee at the last moment at the suggestion of Mr. Cleveland.

It was intended to have had the President leave the procession at the southeast entrance to the White House grounds, situated at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street, so that he might reach the reviewing stand in time to see the head of the procession pass.

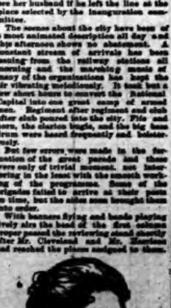
By Mr. Cleveland's plan, however, he passed the reviewing stand in his carriage and left the line at Executive avenue, half a block further on, and marking the western entrance.

It is understood that Mr. Cleveland secured this change to gratify Mrs. Cleveland, whose position in a building on Fifteenth street, facing the northern part of the avenue, would not allow her to see her husband if he left the line at the place selected by the inauguration committee.

The scenes about the city have been of a most animated description all day and this afternoon shows no abatement. A constant stream of arrivals has been issuing from the railway stations all morning and the marching music of many of the organizations has kept the air vibrating melodiously. It took but a few short hours to convert the National Capital into one great camp of armed men. Regiment after regiment and club after club poured into the city. Fife and horn, the clarion bugle, and the big bass drum were heard frequently and boisterously.

But few errors were made in the formation of the great parade and these were only of trivial moment, not interfering in the least with the smooth working of the programme. Some of the brigades failed to arrive at their posts on time, but the aides soon brought them into order.

With banners flying and bands playing lively airs the head of the first column proper passed the reviewing stand shortly after Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Harrison had reached the places assigned to them.



MRS. CLEVELAND.

The military presented a fine appearance, their marching was in splendid form, and they received the plaudits of all Washington as they passed [illegible] in the glorious [illegible] [illegible].

Many of the G. A. R. men remembered well the time, and, while speaking of those glorious days their marching became brisk and their bearing more soldierly. They had also something to say in low tones of their well beloved commanders—Grant, Sheridan, Sherman—who have passed away since then, waiting for the last roll call.

The column was composed of two grand divisions, the first grand division being divided into four sub-divisions, and the second into six sub-divisions, and each sub-division consisting of two or more brigades.

The organization and the order of the parade was as follows:

FIRST GRAND DIVISION.

General Martin T. McMahon, grand marshal, Col. W. L. Whipple, A. A. G. U. S. A., chief of staff, Col. H. C. Cooper, A. A. G., U. S. A., adjutant general; and special aides. Then came the incoming and the outgoing presidents, seated together in Mr. Harrison's carriage, followed by the members of the cabinet also in carriages. These were followed by a delegation of the New York business men's Cleveland and Stevenson Club representing the different business exchanges in New York City.

Then came the first sub-division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Brook, U. S. A., followed by his staff. The first brigade of this sub-division was composed of United States troops under the immediate command of Col. Livingston and staff. The artillery with their gorgeous red horse-hair plumes and clanking of steel introduced the soldiers, the First Artillery battalion consisting of four batteries; Fort Monroe battalion, six batteries. Then came representatives of the Navy in the persons of the marines, headed by the senior admiral. The battalion was commanded by Maj. R. W. Huntingdon, U. S. M. C.

Light battery C of the third artillery, separated these from the squadron of United States Cavalry, consisting of Troop A, first cavalry; troop F, seventh; troop H, eighth; troop K, ninth. These soldiers of the yellow stripe and the prancing steeds formed quite a contrast to the Hospital Corps of the United States Army which followed directly after them.

The second brigade of this same first sub-division which followed next was composed of the District of Columbia organizations under command of Brigadier General Ordway and staff. Under him were the First Regiment of Infantry; the Second Regiment of Infantry; the First Separate Company of Infantry; the High School Cadet Regiment of Infantry, and the Colored High School Company. Besides these were battery A, light artillery; troop A, District Cavalry; the District Ambulance Corps, and the Second Second Separate Company Cycles.

The second sub-division, which consisted of the National Guard of the different states was led by the Pennsylvania troops with Gov. Pattison and staff at their head, under the command of Major Gen. Snowden.

The third brigade consisted, in this order of marching, of the Sixth, Eighth, Thirteenth, Twelfth, Fourth, battery D, light artillery and the Governors' troop.

The second brigade, which followed, Brig.-Gen. Wiley commanding, was made up of, in the marching order, the Tenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, Fifth, Sixteenth, Fourteenth regiments, Battery B, light infantry and Sheridan troop, cavalry.

The first brigade, under Brigadier Gen. Dechert made up of the Ninth, First, Second and Third regiments and the State Fencibles, the Gray Invincibles, Naval battalion A, light artillery.

The Third sub-division under General Fitzhugh Lee contained portions of the national guard of several of the States. It was divided into two brigades.

The first brigade commanded by Brigadier-General Stewart Brown contained the following:

Gov. Werts, of New Jersey, and staff leading the Third Regiment N. J. N. G. Gov. Northern, of Georgia, with the Georgia Hussars; Gov. Morris and staff of Connecticut; Gov. Russell and staff, of Massachusetts; Gov. Frank Brown and staff, of Maryland, conducting the First, Fourth and Fifteenth regiments of Infantry; the Fifth Infantry Veteran Corps, Baltimore Rifles, Monumental City Guards and the Allegheny Guards.

Gen. C. A. Anderson led the second brigade. In it were: Gov. Tillman and staff, of South Carolina, with the Palmetto (the Second S. C. N. G.) and the Lee light infantry; the Second and Fourth regiments, Battery B, Company B, first regiment, Company E third regiment, Richmond light infantry blues, and the First battalion of Virginia volunteers; Gov. Flower and staff, of New York, with the Seventh regiment, Company A, [illegible] separate company; Gov. Carr and staff, of North Carolina, with the Winston Rifles (Company A, Third N. C. S. G.) and Company E, First regiment; the Second regiment; Gov. Murphy J. Foster and staff, Louisiana; Gov. Peck and staff, of Wisconsin; the National Rifles (D. C.); the Montgomery Guards, the Fort Worth (Tex.) Fencibles, Gonzaga Cadets and the Capital City Guards.

The Fourth Division consisted of Grand Army Posts marshalled by department commander S. E. Faunce.

SECOND GRAND DIVISION.

Civic Procession.

Col. Wm. Dickson, chief marshal.

Special Aides and Aides.

First Division.

Gen. Horace Porter, New York, division marshal and staff.

Jackson Democratic Association, District of Columbia.

Tammany Society of New York and other political organizations of the State.

Second Division.

Col. Levi Marsh, division marshal and staff.

Samuel J. Randall Association, of Philadelphia and others.

Pennsylvania Clubs.

Third Division.

Gen. R. A. Donnelly, of New Jersey, division marshal, and staff.

Clubs from New Jersey, Massachusetts and Delaware.

Fourth Division.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, of Maryland, division marshal, and staff.

Clubs from Maryland, with the Prince George mounted Battalion, accompanied by a battalion of ladies mounted.

Fifth Division.

John P. Hopkins, of Illinois, division marshal, with clubs from Illinois, Ohio and Iowa.

Sixth Division.

Gen. Young, of Georgia, division marshal, with clubs from Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina, West Virginia and Virginia.

Among the civic organizations which composed the second grand division Tammany attracted the largest share of attention. The delegation from the New York wigwam, 3,000 strong, presented a very imposing appearance and were heartily applauded as they marched by in well-formed lines.

It is estimated that 40,000 men took part in the parade.

All the members of President-elect Cleveland's cabinet, with the exception of Judge Gresham were in the city and participated in the inaugural ceremonies.

After Mr. Harrison and Mr. Cleveland met they drove together to the Capitol, where they visited the Senate Chamber and saw Gen. Stevenson take the oath of office.

The crowd then in the Senate over, Mr. Cleveland went to the platform at the east end of the Capitol, where the inauguration took place.

The Bible used in swearing the new President in was the same one which was used eight years ago and was also the very one which he was made Governor of New York, presented by his mother to be used especially on that occasion.

Mr. Cleveland was sworn in by Chief Justice Fuller, whom he had appointed.

The inaugural address was one of the shortest, perhaps the shortest of all inaugural addresses delivered by incoming Presidents of the United States. Its delivery occupied about 15 minutes. It was not read, but, with the exception of a reference now and then to notes, was spoken to the great audience that was assembled at the east end of the Capitol.

Mr. Cleveland dwelt largely on the monetary question and deplored the present financial situation. He said that so far as the executive power was concerned everything that was possible within the constitution and laws would be done to prevent a depreciation of the currency, and that the whole power of the administration would be put forth to bring about the restoration of soundness in the money of the country. He said nothing about the prospects of an extra session of Congress beyond what was implied in his declaration that [illegible] not be permitted, so far as the executive branch of the Government had the power to prevent, a depreciation of any form of the currency.

He also said that the people had placed the Democratic party in power in both the executive and legislative branches of the government and that it was the duty of the administration and of the Democratic majorities in the Senate and the House of Representatives to do their utmost to fulfil the promises and pledges that the party had given to the country.

The inauguration ball opens at [illegible] o'clock. Mr. Cleveland is expected to appear about [illegible].

The ball will be given in the Pension Building. The floor and [illegible] [illegible] to Lafayette [illegible] Gladstone, who is known in Greater Cleveland's [illegible]. The Marine Band and a [illegible] orchestra will furnish the music. The floor has been divided into twelve dancing sections, so that twelve different sets can dance at the same time. There is not likely to be much dancing, because 12,000 tickets have been sold at $5 a ticket, and at least 11,000 persons are expected.

The illumination and fireworks in Pennsylvania avenue begin at 7:15 o'clock and the display in the Monument grounds begins at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Cleveland's Callers.

Col. and Mrs. Lamont, Miss Lamont and their guest, Miss Sanders, took an hour's drive about the city in the afternoon.

After Mr. Harrison's call Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland remained in their apartments until about 3 o'clock, when they also took a brisk drive about town. Mrs. Cleveland, in passing along the corridor, met little Ruth, with her nurse.

"Good-bye, little sweetheart," she said, as she kissed her little daughter and then hurried on to overtake her husband. There were many calls during the afternoon on the President-elect and Mrs. Cleveland; among them were Secretary Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Harrity, Gov. Flower, Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan, Richard Croker, W. Bourke Cockran, Police Commissioner Martin, Corporation Counsel Clarke, all of New York; J. Sterling Morton, the in-coming Secretary of the Department of Agriculture; Hoke Smith who is to be Secretary of the Interior and Mr. Henry Villard.

The United States Marine Band, following a custom that has long been in vogue, serenaded the outgoing Secretary of the Navy last night.

THE PRESIDENT PLEASED

At the Speedy Confirmation of the Cabinet.

JUDGE GRESHAM TAKES THE OATH

Vice-President Stevenson's Senate Holds a Short Session—Senator Sherman's Resolution to Change the Presidential Term Introduced—Secretary of State Gresham's First Assistant.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Mr. Cleveland is much pleased with the speedy confirmation of the Cabinet. He desired to have Judge Gresham sworn in at once, while the swearing in of the other Cabinet officers could go over another day.

The haste concerning Judge Gresham was due to the fact that next in importance to the Cabinet appointments are the first class foreign missions, which will probably be filled this week.

Private Secretary Thurber called at the Arlington and informed Judge Gresham of his confirmation and of the President's desire to have him take the oath of office at once.

The Judge repaired to the State Department about 2 o'clock.

The officials had not expected him, and there was considerable agitation over his informal arrival, because this act upsets all the ancient ceremony that was gone through with on the occasion of swearing in a new Secretary.

Mr. Gresham walked into the Secretary's office, recently vacated by Mr. Foster, and temporarily occupied by Assistant Secretary Wharton.

Assistant Secretary Adee happened to be near and dropped in. But there was not time for assembling the heads of bureaus and bringing forth the venerable Bible and venerable swearer in.

"Oh, any ordinary Notary will do to administer the oath," said Judge Gresham. "He is just as fully qualified as any other officer."

Col. Crook, one of the White House executive staff, who happened to be present, was a notary public, so the ceremony proceeded without any further formality. Judge Gresham raised his right hand and repeated the oath after the notary public. It was quite undramatic, and the Judge recalled the words of the oath with the same composure that he would deliver a decision in an ordinary law case.

When the oath had been taken Judge Gresham, now Secretary Gresham, smiled and accepted the proffer of Mr. Wharton, no longer Acting Secretary Wharton, to take the large, easy, leathern chair which Bayard, Blaine and Foster had used. Mr. Wharton had already prepared the commission [illegible] written on parchment and sealed with the Seal of State.

After talking for ten minutes on various minor routine matters of the Department Judge Gresham withdrew and returned to the Arlington.

According to custom, the Senate met yesterday to attend to the business which always devolves upon it after the inauguration of a new President, viz., to confirm necessary nominations, and, in this case, to ratify or reject the Hawaiian treaty.

When Vice-President Stevenson made his appearance in company with the Rev. Mr. Butler, chaplain of the Senate, the spectators in the galleries could not restrain their impatient enthusiasm and broke into a round of hand clapping. This ceased only when the prayer began, and was renewed when the Vice-President, at the close of prayer, took his place as presiding officer.

When order was restored, Senators Blackburn (Dem., Ky.) and Allison (Rep., Ia.) reported that as the committee which had been appointed to wait upon the President of the United States, they had performed that duty and had been requested by the President to inform the Senate that he would communicate immediately in writing.

At once Major Pruden, the President's executive clerk, appeared upon the floor of the Senate bearing the nominations of the officers of President Cleveland's cabinet as follows:

Walter Q. Gresham, of Illinois, to be Secretary of State.

John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, to be Secretary of the Treasury.

Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, to be Secretary of War.

Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, to be Attorney-General.

Wilson S. Bissell, of New York, to be Postmaster-General.

Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, to be Secretary of the Navy.

Hoke Smith, of Georgia, to be Secretary of the Interior.

Julius Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, to be Secretary of Agriculture.

After the journal of Saturday's session was read, Mr. Pruden presented his message, and on motion of Senator Harris (Dem., Tenn.) the Senate went into executive session.

The doors had been closed about fifteen minutes and then they were reopened, the Cabinet having been in the meantime unanimously confirmed.

Mr. Sherman (Rep., Ohio) said that he desired to introduce a joint resolution to amend the constitution.

The joint resolution was read. It proposes that the terms of office of the President and Vice-President and of the 54th Congress shall continue until noon of the 30th of April, 1897; that the Senators whose terms would expire on the 4th of March, 1897, shall continue in office until noon of the 30th of April; and that thereafter the 30th of April shall be substituted for the 4th of March as the commencement and termination of the official terms of the President, Vice-President, Senators and Representatives of Congress.

Mr. Harris—Let the joint resolution lie on the table for the present.

The joint resolution was laid on the table, and then, at 12:35, the Senate adjourned until Thursday next at noon.

First Assistant to Secretary Gresham.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Hon. Josiah Quincy, of Massachusetts, has been formally tendered the position of Assistant Secretary of State by Secretary Gresham, and has accepted. Mr. Quincy is a member of the National committee, and in the last campaign had charge of the campaign literature. He is a graduate of Harvard and a lawyer by profession. There is much satisfaction expressed by the administration that Mr. Quincy has accepted, and by the young Democrats who are here that so able and sincere a Democrat has been appointed.

Fell to Death from the Fire Escape.

NEW YORK, March 7.—George Richardson, aged 27, while trying to get into his apartments, 143 West 18th street, yesterday afternoon by way of the fire-escape, fell to the yard and was instantly killed.

Exhausting Yield.

Willie Nolan—I wish you would give me a good [illegible] right now.

[illegible]—Why, Willie, what have you done?

Willie Nolan—Nothing; but there's going to be a change in town tomorrow [illegible] I want to enjoy it without any disturbing thoughts.—Judge.

Just Like a Man.

Husband—This is the last parrot we have, but I wonder [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible]

MAYOR GILBERT WELCOMED.

He Tells the Charities' Aid People About Plainfield Paupers, and Is Chosen Right Into Membership.

The meeting of the Union County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association of New Jersey held Monday evening in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, was well attended and interesting. The president, the Hon. Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, was obliged to attend a meeting in Linden to oppose the race-track legislation, but the Rev. Dr. McAllister made a very acceptable chairman.

A vacancy in the executive committee was filled by the unanimous election of Anthony Comstock, whose home is in Summit.

The committee on jails and alms-houses reported that the new warden of the Elizabeth jail seemed capable, and willing to co-operate with the committee in their efforts to elevate the prisoners. He had agreed to put up some book-shelves which had been purchased by the association, and donations of books suitable for the prisoners to read were solicited.

The committee on exhibit at the World's fair reported that the State association had arranged to send a handsomely bound volume of the society's annual reports.

Mayor Gilbert being asked by the chairman whether any improvement had been made in the condition of the Plainfield poor, said that the conditions were at present the same as ever in Bottle Row, but that it had come to be regarded as a nuisance by the alms committee, the common council and citizens, and was likely to be soon done away with. Better accommodations would probably be provided for the paupers within a few months.

Mrs. Williamson, of Elizabeth, the general secretary, gave a short account of the work of the State association, saying that its chief attention had of late been devoted to bringing about measures to prevent the keeping of children and insane persons in alms-houses. She spoke of the wise provisions of the parole bill introduced by the association, by which prisoners were released before their term of sentence had expired, upon their promise of good behavior, to be re-imprisoned if this promise should be broken. She told also of the special work of Union County Branch, and made an earnest appeal that some of the visitors present would become members. The Rev. Mr. Nourse and the Rev. Hobart Clark spoke on the same subject. Mayor and Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. H. B. Newhall were elected members by acclamation, and at the close of the meeting Isaac Miller and George H. Goddard gave their names to the secretary. The next meeting of the association will be held in Elizabeth, May 1.

THE SABBATH QUESTION AGAIN.

How It Has Cropped Out in the Matter of Gunning and Fishing.

The bill introduced by Senator Drake in reference to the game laws of the State, merits a great deal of favor. It is a clear and comprehensive statement of the laws on that subject which are more or less contradictory and confused. There is one proviso in the bill that is open to criticism. The proviso in question reads as follows:

"That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to hunt with a gun, or with a dog and gun, with any fire-arms or weapons, or to fish with hook and line, or in any manner whatsoever on the Sabbath day (commonly called Sunday), except those who observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath, hunting upon their own property, under a penalty of twenty dollars for each and every offence."

This part of the bill is bad for two reasons. First place it opens the door to the desecration of the Christian Sabbath. In the second place anybody who wishes to evade the law, by shooting on Sunday, could tell the officials intrusted with its enforcement that he observed Saturday as his Sabbath. There are still other persons who would claim that the law ought to be extended so as to apply to those who observe Friday as the Sabbath instead of Saturday or Sunday. The reason the law protects the observance of Sunday, is due to the fact that the overwhelming majority of people of this country wish that day observed. The law does not require that any one shall be devout on one day of the week, but merely requires that the great mass of people who wish to observe Sunday as a day of rest shall not be disturbed. The provisions of the bill in question would seem to imply that if you will consent to be pious one day of the week you can have your opinion in respect to observing Sunday. The spirit of legislation has been quite the contrary up to the present time. The law practically says that you can be as impious as you please all seven days of the week only you must not interfere with those who wish one day set apart for religious service.

If persons who observe Saturday as the Sabbath have the privilege, for example, of having a pigeon shoot on Sunday within a stone throw of some church where religious services are being conducted, it would somewhat mar the ceremony. Of course it would be pleasant to know that the parties enjoying the sport had attended religious services on Saturday. We would respectfully call the attention of our Legislature to the objectional proviso which probably has crept into an otherwise excellent bill through inadvertence.

Hope Chapelites Interested.

The seating capacity of Hope chapel was well occupied Monday evening, when it was learned that Jerry Johnson would speak. The meeting began with the singing of a few spirited hymns, after which Mr. Hoople consented to sing a solo, "Give me thy heart", which he sang very sweetly, and with ease and ability. Then Mr. Hoople was called out again, to say a few words. His text he took from Eph. II:1. This he dwelt on for a few minutes, showing many illustrations how a man should lead a Christian life. After this Jerry Johnson responded and kept the people interested. Jerry is a capital speaker, and he told some very fine instances of the benefits of a Christian life. He told the audience of some of his work in Philadelphia, how he and his followers go to some of the worst dives and there rescue the perishing. Mr. Johnson closed with a song entitled "By and By". Then ten minutes were given for a few testimonials, a goodly number responding.

The Easter Vacation.

The public schools will close March 31 and reopen April 11.

All our city fathers say: Use Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain, for rheumatism and neuralgia. 25c.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, administrator of [illegible] [illegible]

Dated March 1, 1893. [illegible]

NO ACIDS OPIATES ADULTERATION

Byram's Balsam of Honey,

During its Fifty Years or more of public service, has earned the distinction of being

The Standard Remedy

for Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, etc. May be given to the weakest infant.

25 Cents.—TWO SIZES.—75 Cents. AT DRUGGISTS AND GENERAL STORES.

YES It's PALATABLE EFFECTIVE SAFE

89 y

AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HERB DRINK

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

[illegible]

LANE'S MEDICINE

[illegible]

WANTED—A furnished house for 3 months, from June 15 to Sept. 15, in the vicinity of Plainfield, N. J. Must have six or seven sleeping rooms and stable for four horses. Address H. D. Brewster, 24 Fourth avenue New York City.

FOR SALE OR RENT—140 acre farm situated in Hunterdon county; or will exchange for Plainfield property. Address D. D. Kline, Stanton, N. J. 3 8 2-o 1

COLORED man and wife wish situation; man as coachman and gardener, woman to do general housework; can furnish best of city reference. Call or address 264 Somerset st. 2 7 3-o 2 9 1

TO LET—House, barn, shed and grounds, Washington valley near gristmill. Mrs. D. Bartell, p. o. box 310. 3 2 2

Special Master's Sale.

The subscriber, one of the Special Masters of the Court of Chancery of the State of New Jersey, by virtue of an order made by the Chancellor of this State, bearing date on the 24 day of February, 1893, in a cause pending in said Court, on a bill filed for partition of certain lands, wherein William Schomaker is complainant and [illegible] Schomaker, et. al. are defendants, will expose for sale at public vendue at the Court Grounds in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, on

MONDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF APRIL, 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon, all the following described property, to wit:

All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the Township of Westfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, bounded and described as follows:

[illegible]

CHARLES A. REED, Special Master.

Dated February 23d 1893.

NELSON RUNYON, Solicitor Plainfield, N. J. 3 1 0 8

SHERIFF'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY—Between The Plainfield Building and Loan Association, complainant and Thomas J. Clarkson et. al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE TWENTY-SECOND DAY OF MARCH, A. D. 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

Beginning at a point in the southeasterly line of Orchard place, in the southwesterly line of John H. Clark's land; thence running southwesterly along said southeasterly line of Orchard place thirty feet; thence southeasterly and parallel with said John H. Clark's line ninety feet to a point for a corner in line of Isabella Lee, [illegible]; thence northeasterly thirty feet to said John H. Clark's southwesterly line; thence northwesterly along his line ninety feet to the place of beginning; also conveying the land in front of said premises to the middle of Orchard place subject to the easement of the public to use the same as a public street.

W. H. HICKS, Sheriff.

JACKSON & CODINGTON, Sol'rs.

C. H. & C. 3 1 6 8 Fees $7.50

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the accounts of the subscribers, executors of John Simpson, dec'd will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the nineteenth day of April next.

Dated February 13, 1893.

MARGARET S. CADMUS, FREEMA CADMUS.

2 1 8 9

NOTICE. JAN. 21, 1893.

Estate of Daniel Hatfield, Deceased.

Pursuant to the order of George T. Parrot, Surrogate of the county of Union, this day made, on the application of the undersigned, administrators of said deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the subscribers under oath or affirmation their claims and demands against the estate of said deceased within nine months from this date, or they will be forever barred from prosecuting or recovering the same against the subscribers.

WILLIAM HATFIELD, EDWARD EVERY, Administrators.

2 5 9

WANTED AT ONCE. SALESMEN FOR THIS LOCALITY

Splendid Opportunity

for a live, energetic man. We offer BETTER FACILITIES and Better Terms than ever. Salary or commission. Write for our Special Offer.

HOOKER, GROVER & CO.

Rochester Fruit Farm and Nurseries, Established 1869. Rochester, N. Y.

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform his patrons that in addition to the usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

[illegible]

G. M. [illegible]

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey—Between Ralph H. Van Deventer, complainant, and Jane Travers, et. al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF APRIL, A. D., 1893,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

[illegible]

W. H. HICKS, Sheriff.

WM. M. STILLMAN, Solicitor.

CH&C Fees $8 10. 2-8 wd

TOWNSEND'S

Marble & Granite Works,

30 SOMERSET STREET,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

If you have not engaged your work, I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

[illegible]

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND,

Manager. 8 11 tf

Branch Yard Westfield, N. J.

Dime Savings Institution

OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, executor of Jasper C. Colman, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the county of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of February next.

Dated November 28, 1892.

MARVIN M. WOODEN.

12 1 10

THE SUN.

During 1893 THE SUN will be of surpassed excellence and will print more news and more pure literature than ever before in its history.

The Sunday Sun

is the greatest Sunday Newspaper in the world.

Price 5c. a copy. By mail $2 a year

Daily, by mail, - - $6 a year

Daily and Sunday by mail, $8 a year

Address THE SUN, New York.

Scientific American Agency for

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

[illegible]

Scientific American

[illegible]

NEWARK

BEE HIVE!

THINGS SOLD THERE THAT MAKE IT THE GREAT STORE IT IS

THE SHOPPING CENTRE BEE HIVE OF NEW JERSEY

CUT OUT AND SAVE FOR REFERENCE

STOCK LIST, No. 4.

UPHOLSTERY

DEPARTMENT

CURTAINS

[illegible]

TABLE AND PIANO COVERS

[illegible]

Curtaining and Drapery Stuffs

[illegible]

FURNITURE COVERINGS

[illegible]

RUGS AND SQUARES

[illegible]

OILCLOTHS, MATTINGS, ETC.

[illegible]

NO BRANCH STORES

L. S. PLAUT & CO.

[illegible] Broad St., Newark, N. J.

SAVE

TWENTY PER CENT.

AMOS H. VANHORN,

73 Market street,

Wishes to call attention of new beginners and purchasers to select their goods now and save 20 per cent. I will take orders for goods now and hold them till spring without a deposit at the following reduced prices:

CARPETS.

25 pieces tapestry Brussels carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

25 pieces body Brussels carpet, regular price $1.25, reduced to $1.10

25 pieces all-wool ingrain carpet, regular price per yard 75c., reduced to 60 cents.

BEDROOM SUITS.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $22, reduced to $15.

25 Antique Oak bedroom suits, regular price $27, reduced to $17.50.

PARLOR SUITS.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in plush coverings, regular price $40, reduced to $27.50.

25 Parlor Suits, mahogany finished frames, in rug coverings, regular price $50, reduced to $42.50.

Parlor Stoves and Ranges.

Parlor stoves at cost. Portland ranges are coming in by the carload to supply the demand.

To protect customers and reap the benefits of my own advertising, please notice the first name, AMOS and No. 73, before entering the store.

BOOK ACCOUNT OPENED IF DESIRED.

Telephone 580! Elevator to Every Floor!

Goods Delivered FREE OF CHARGE to All Parts of the State!

FULL NAME

AMOS H. VAN HORN.

My only place of Business is at

73 Market Street,

Near Plane St., Newark, N. J.

NO BRANCH STORES. 10-4-1y

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49 tf

IT PAYS TO KNOW

That we are the makers of all the goods we sell. Good workmanship costs more and we know it. Also know that it shows in the superiority of the styles, the sewing, the whole make-up of the goods. To us you pay the manufacturer's profit only, so there's no extra charge for the superior excellence of our garments.

The men and boys who we are clothing are likely to be thought extravagant, it is so handsomely finished, so nobby made, so merchant-tailor like.

We believe we beat the town on Overcoats. The greatest value for men at 10, 12, 15, 18 and 20 dollars, and for boys at 3, 3.50, 4, 5, 6 and 8 dollars that we ever had.

Stoutenburgh & Co.,

Newark Clothiers,

779, 801, 803 and 805 Broad Street. 10 13 3m

ELY'S CREAM BALM [illegible]

CATARRH

[illegible]

STOVES. STOVES.

The finest line of Heating and Cook Stoves in the city. Parlor Stoves from $4.50 up; Cook Stoves from $12 up.

Agents for the celebrated "Palace King" furnace, conceded by everyone to be the best furnace in the market.

Also all kinds of Hardware, Housefurnishings, Paints, &c

ZIMMERMAN & RUMPF'S,

[illegible] 7 11 tf 40 West Front Street.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The enterprising local manager of the Sherman Outfitting company is having a neat advertising novelty—a shamrock for St. Patrick's day.

—The Democratic primary at Scotch Plains to nominate candidates for the offices to be voted for next Tuesday, will be held on Friday, the 10th inst., at 8 p. m., at Pfaff's Hotel.

—The Salvation Army enlisted nine new recruits at the meeting Sunday evening, and the Captain and Lieutenant are well pleased with their efforts to do good and to save the fallen.

—A large force of men has been engaged to begin work Saturday morning at 7:30 setting the scenery for the production of "The Devil's Auction", at Music Hall, that evening.

—Some of the web perfecting presses built by the Walter Scott company of this city will be shipped to Chicago, next week to be placed on exhibition at the World's Fair. The presses are nearly ready.

—Comment is made on the matter of liquor-selling at Dunellen on Sunday. Between the Grove street crossing and Bound Brook, it is alleged, there are five unlicensed places, which are frequented by Plainfielders.

—The Central railroad authorities are after the coal stealers at Dunellen. While the loaded cars were continually standing on the siding between this city and Dunellen, several tons of coal were carried away. Detectives are at work.

—Henry Drake is planning to enlarge his building on North avenue. His intention is to extend the building back to the railroad and put flats overhead. Mr. Drake has recently been granted an increase of pension for his services in the late war.

—Geo. Albert, who was burned out on Somerset street two weeks ago, has agreed on a settlement by the insurance company. He got $250. The appraisers were out Thursday and looked over Mantz Brothers' stock, but they came to no agreement.

—It's a shame for the Republicans to try to make so good a man as A. V. D. Honeyman a scapegoat. They can't elect the best candidate they can name, and a good man should not be sacrificed. The graceful thing to do is to make no opposition to Mr. Saunders.

—"Prince", the dog owned by the Central Hotel proprietors, got loose the other day and started on a rampage through the house. The first object the dog seized was a meerschaum pipe nicely colored, and in a case. After playing with the pipe for a time, he succeeded in demolishing it, and the owner is out.

—Saturday afternoon a woman gave her pet dog on North avenue a basket to carry. The basket contained some cake that she had bought to take home. The dog carried it a little way, and then got out of sight of its owner and began to eat the cake. After this the woman was seen going into a bakery for more cake, which she carried herself.

—A horse driven by Chas. Bowden became unmanageable on Somerset street Saturday afternoon. The animal was frightened at some furniture that was on a passing sleigh, and ran down Somerset street at a breakneck speed, almost causing a serious wreck. But by the plucky efforts of the driver, who held fast to the reins, the horse was stopped before much damage was done.

—The solitary Republican who told Mr. Saunders that he could n't possibly be re-elected was Tom Morrison! When did the borough voters make him their confidential mouth-piece? Yet Tom visited the Mayor in his New York office and tried to scare him out of running! No wonder the Mayor took heart! He's dead sure of election, with Tom agin him!

—The longer the Netherwood station is open the louder the commuters and others on the south side of the track are in praise of its location there. In case tunneling under the tracks should become necessary there at any time, it will be easy to begin from the north side, where there is a slope into North avenue, and have steps descending a well at the other side.

—Announcement has already been made in these columns of the course of lectures to be delivered under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Attention is now directed to the dates. Major-Gen. Wager Swayne, March 16; Major-Gen. O. O. Howard, March 23; Sergeant Charles E. Sprague, April 4. The lectures will be delivered in the First Baptist church, and tickets for the course will be $1.

Bishop Vincent Decides that Liquor Selling is a Legitimate Business.

Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal church has handed down a decision in the case of Frank W. Palmeter and William C. Briggs, druggists, of Jamestown, Chautauqua county, New York, who were charged with violating the discipline of the church in doing business under a storekeeper's license.

The Bishop finds that the accused have not violated the rules of the church. He holds that as the church recognizes the propriety, under certain conditions, of the sacramental and medicinal use of wine and other alcoholic liquors, it would be unreasonable to refuse to a Christian druggist the right to conduct a legitimate business, so held by State and church. He says that the fact that the State has enacted license laws, liable to abuse by unprincipled men, is not a sufficient reason for refusing a Christian the right to conduct a legitimate business.

Gone with the Sheriff.

John K. VanNess, of the Allen farm, through his counsel, Charles B. VanWinkle, has been negotiating a settlement of the lawsuit pending in New York, and brought by one Waldron, whereby VanNess was arrested for alleged forgery of a check. Mr. VanNess has been laid up for two weeks with a sprained ankle, which resulted from his slipping on the ice in New York. On that account, Dr. J. A. Allis appeared before the court and obtained an adjournment of the case. Through the efforts of his counsel, VanNess feels confident of making a just settlement. Just the same, however, the sheriff came to town to-day and took him away.

Mrs. Herlich Gets $1,000.

Mrs. Herlich, widow of Peter Herlich, who recently committed suicide at Dunellen, has received $1,000 from the life insurance company in which she held a policy on his life, and will also receive $500 from W. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of that place, of which order her husband was a member.

To Buy a Pest-house.

The councilmanic committee on finance has been given authority to secure options on a building far from civilization to be used as a pest-house. The cost will be $1,000. The borough will not be able to join with the city in the enterprise, but will have a pest-house of its own.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease.—Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Ag'y, Washington, D. C.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreaded disease, catarrh, and used every available remedy which was recommended to me. I [illegible]

PERSONALIA.

David Bowden has gone to Pittsburgh on road-building business.

Mrs. Bartley Cahill, of New York, is visiting her parents in this city.

David [illegible] is confined to his home at 31 West Second street by illness.

Charles H. Lyman is confined to his home with a severe attack of squinancy.

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and the Rev. C. E. Herring will exchange pulpits next Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Lowry, son of Dr. Robert Lowry, has been called to the Rahway Baptist church.

Dr. Richards is to be invited to deliver the address to the High school graduating class this year.

Thomas Cahill, the well-known insurance agent, is recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Jacob Combs, a Pond employe, is happy over the advent of a baby girl. The little one arrived on Monday.

David Angerbauer of East Third street is well enough to be out again, after a week's illness with tonsilitis.

A. Venino will give a concert in the Casino April 4, assisted by the Beethoven String Quartette of New York.

Fred Huff, formerly with Smalley Bros. the butchers, has gone to Pottsville, Pa., to visit his sister for a few weeks.

Miss Annie M. Angerbauer of East Third street has gone to spend a week with her brothers and sister in New York.

Andrew Love, sr., will in a few days begin the erection of a three-story brick building, situated at 19 East Front street.

Miss Florence M. Randolph of West Front street, left Thursday for Washington where she will remain two or three weeks.

Mrs. Crottsburg, of Philadelphia, a very dear friend of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Berkalew, is visiting at their home, 38 Emily street.

Mrs. G. W. Squier and daughter, of 38 Harmony street, North Plainfield, are spending a few weeks with relatives in Philadelphia.

Choirmaster Miner will conduct an Old Folks' Concert in Vincent chapel, some time in April, for the benefit of the chapel new carpet fund.

Peter Fullenbach, of West Front street, and Miss Julia Dorrer of Cranford, will be married at the bride's residence during the first week in June.

Mr. Venino's concert, at which he was to be assisted by the Beethoven String Quartette, now definitely fixed for April 13 at the Casino.

George Bingham of New South Wales, and a relative of "Mac" Bingham of this city, is on his way to this country, and will make his residence here.

The ablest contribution to the symposium on electrical machinery, in last week's Independent, was from the pen of the engineer-Mayor, W. L. Saunders.

J. W. Jackson and W. D. Murray represented Plainfield at the Y. M. C. A. anti-race-track meeting at New Brunswick, Saturday. Mr. Murray introduced the resolutions which were adopted.

Dr. Francis C. Hussey, the aged physician who died in New York a day or two ago, was formerly a resident of this city, and his remains will be interred by undertaker Casey in St. Mary's cemetery.

Ferdinand G. Lisignolo, son of George Lisignolo of this city, has been promoted to the position of corporal in the Nazareth Hall cadets, a military organization of scholars in the Nazareth, Penn., academy.

F. A. Dunham has received notice of his unanimous re-election to the office of city engineer of Sewickley, Pa. Considerable work is in progress, mainly brick paving and a complete system of sewerage.

Ex-assemblyman John Vollerlein of this city has recently been granted a patent for an improvement in pneumatic tires for bicycles. It consists of a woven-wire tube within the rubber, making a collapse impossible in case of a puncture.

Charles L. McBride will sever his long connection with Reynolds's pharmacy, the first of next month, to enter in business for himself again at his old home, Kingston, N. Y. The host of friends that he and his charming wife have drawn closely to them, will part from them with sincere regret.

In response to many requests, Dr. J. L. Hurlbut will give another course of "stereopticon sermons" in the Methodist Episcopal church. The subjects will be as follows: March 12, "A Composite Character"; March 19 and 26, "An Apostle of the Eighteenth Century"; April 2 (Easter Sunday), "The Empty Tomb".

Mr. and Mrs. "Jack" Barnard, of New York, with a party composed of Miss Wotherspoon and David Wotherspoon, of this city, Miss Lorillard, J. Lee Tailer and T. Suffern Tailer, left for Washington last Thursday, and are stopping at the Arlington Hotel, where they expect to remain a week or ten days.

George F. Randolph, of 49 Grandview avenue, who was a student of Charles Schermerhorn, and night operator at the North avenue station in 1874, enters the fast telegraphers' tournament, in New York city, March 19, using a special improved Caligraph typewriter. He claims it to be very easy to copy 80 messages an hour on a machine, and thinks the speed will reach from 75 to 90 messages in this tournament. Men have already left San Francisco and other points to contest for the prizes offered.

Frank E. Miller, proprietor of Hotel Netherwood and The Albion, and for the past winter in charge of the Hotel Renaissance, Fifth avenue and Forty-third street, New York, has gone South as the guest of vice-president Thomas C. Purdy, of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. Mrs. Miller is also of the party, who are traveling in the vice-president's private car. The three weeks change of scene and absence from business cares and vexations, will undoubtedly thoroughly restore to Mr. Miller the good health he has sacrificed in a too ardent personal attention to the success and prosperity of those in whose service he was engaged.

William Parmley Demarest, father of the managing editor of THE PRESS, died at his home, East Fifth street, Sunday night, of heart failure, in the 71st year of his age. Although he had not been well for a few days, death came suddenly but very peacefully. He had been much interested all day in reading of the inauguration proceedings. Shortly after eating his supper he called one of his daughters and told her he was tired and would go to bed. He said: "We've got a good man for president now." After his daughter had fixed his pillow comfortably under his head, he said: "You can't do anything more for me. Good night." He closed his eyes, seemed to fall asleep immediately, and was dead in a few moments.

Robert F. R. Huntsman, the newspaperman who left the local field about a year ago and became connected with the estate of Samuel J. Tilden in Gramercy Park, New York, has just entered the New York advertising business. He is connected with Charles K. Haswell at 391 Broadway. Mr. Haswell is one of the brightest and best-posted advertising men of the day, with an experience of 30 years in New York city. He handles the elevated railway and surface car advertising in New York city and Brooklyn, and in addition cares for an extensive list of representative daily, weekly and monthly journals. Mr. Huntsman is particularly interested in the trade journal line, and will represent New York for a [illegible]

OVATION TO THE MAYOR.

ENTHUSIASTIC RENOMINATION OF THE HON. W. L. SAUNDERS.

His Courageous and Manly Speech of Acceptance—Flanked by His Withdrawing Opponents—Joseph H. Howell and John L. Blackford for Councilmen.

The renomination of Mayor W. L. Saunders by the North Plainfield Democrats, at the primary Friday night, amounted to a genuine ovation. When the business of nominating a candidate for mayor was reached, there was a rush and scramble to be the first to utter Mr. Saunders's name, and unanimous vote for him was made immediately. Mr. Saunders, who was present, was visibly gratified by this testimonial of esteem and regard, and voiced his feelings in a manly speech, in which he defined very clearly his position. He said in part:

"I thank you, gentlemen, most sincerely, for this compliment. My gratitude to you, who seem to be so earnest and so unanimous, is in no sense lessened by the fact that it is against all my personal, pecuniary and private interests to remain longer in public office. As I stated in my letter to the secretary of the Democratic association, some weeks ago, my only ambition is to be promoted to private life.

"If anyone thinks that the duties of mayor of this borough are merely perfunctory, he is very much mistaken. The people who elect a man to this office place upon his shoulders cares, responsibilities and duties, and they expect him to carry them without a murmur, and in a manner conducive to the health, protection and prosperity of the people. They hold him responsible for results. If the commissions and the several borough officers do not do their duty, the people blame the mayor, because on him centres all responsibility.

"The members of my family beg me not to stand again. My business associates tell me that it is to my interest and theirs not to accept a renomination. I received a visit this afternoon from a prominent Republican in the borough, and a personal friend, who told me that there was strong opposition to me in the Park and elsewhere, and his advice to me as a friend was not to stand for reelection, because I would surely be defeated.

"But in spite of all this, I accept this renomination, and will stand again before the people. I cannot do otherwise and be faithful to you who have placed me under obligations to you. I can not do otherwise and be true to myself, for I have started certain measures which I believe to be in the interest of the people, and it would be cowardly to stop now. One year is too short a time for one to accomplish much in the office of mayor. It takes from six to eight months to get well in harness. If the people determine that certain reforms with which I am identified are worthy, they will ask me to complete them; if not, they will reject me at the polls. As I told my Republican friend this afternoon, I would rather suffer defeat than run away from my record and my friends in the face of opposition."

But if one Republican was fearful that Mr. Saunders would be defeated, there are many who hope and will work and vote to see him re-elected. Even councilman B. A. Hegeman, jr., who refused to accept the Republican nomination to run against him, was warm in his praise last evening, when at the borough council meeting he paid open tribute to his personal worth and admirable administration.

Both township and borough primary were presided over by John Bodine, with his son David as secretary. The nominations were:

TOWNSHIP.

For Town Clerk—Frank [illegible].
For Town Committeeman—John [illegible].
For Overseer of the Poor—John [illegible].
For Commissioners of Appeal—John [illegible], John A. [illegible], [illegible].
For Constables—[illegible], William N. Pangborn.

BOROUGH.

For Mayor—W. L. Saunders.
For Councilmen—Joseph H. Howell, John L. Blackford.
Appropriation for Board of Health—$200.
For Roads—$2,500 ($300 on Somerset street).
For Borough purposes—$1,500.

The other offices were left open. In the township David Carney, Andrew Kenney and John T. Case were appointed a committee to fill vacancies; in the borough, Elston French, William H. Ludlow and Joseph A. Blair.

Candidate Blackford was called on for a speech and urged a campaign of harmony and energy.

OF ABSORBING INTEREST.

Plainfielders Continue Their Scholarly Research of Egypt's Wonders.

Mr. Goodyear gave the third of his series of Egyptian lectures Thursday afternoon in All Souls' church. In this lecture he dwelt at some length on the mural paintings of the tombs, in connection with the hieroglyphics and pictured "book of the dead", which was an account of the occupations, stations in life, etc., of the person whose mummy occupied the tomb. In these paintings the meaning is made clearer by the fact that the inscriptions explain the pictures, while the latter are always found corresponding to the writings. The lecturer explained the nature of the papyrus, the paper of the Egyptians, on which the "book of the dead" found in the mummy cases was written. This material was formed of strips of the stalk of the papyrus plant placed in parallel rows with other parallel rows laid on at right angles to the first. The mat thus formed was pressed, and formed a very good paper, held together by the glutinous juice of the plant. This plant is now extinct in Egypt, but some specimens are still to be seen in botanical collections.

The subject of the pyramids was next taken up and illustrations were given of many of the more important piles. These pyramids lie on the west bank of the Nile, near the delta, and extend for a distance of about 35 miles. These monumental tombs ante-date all of the other ruins of Egypt by several thousand years, the period of the great pyramid of Cheops being placed by various authorities from 4000 to 5000 B. C. Diagrams of the chambers in the great pyramid were shown, and Mr. Goodyear gave an extremely interesting account of the discovery of the entrance and the difficulties encountered by those who forced their way into this huge pile of masonry.

The next lecture will take up the subject of the temple ruins further up the Nile, and their architecture.

Librarian's Report for February.

Volumes in accession-book Jan. 31	11,7[illegible]
Volumes added by purchase	[illegible]
" " " gift	[illegible]
Volumes now in the library	[illegible]
Number of card-holders	[illegible]
Cash received from fines and sales	[illegible]
" " " non-resident subscriptions	[illegible]
Home Circulation.
Fiction	[illegible]
Juvenile	[illegible]
Biography	[illegible]
Philosophy	[illegible]
Religion	[illegible]
Sociology	[illegible]
Philology	[illegible]
Natural Science	[illegible]
Useful arts	[illegible]
Fine arts	[illegible]
Literature	[illegible]
Travel	[illegible]
History	[illegible]
Bound magazines	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]

THE BOARD SPEAKS!

AN EFFORT TO JUSTIFY ITS WADSWORTH PURCHASE.

President Babcock Writes a Letter Which His Fellow-Members Agree to—The Method of the Affair Not So Flagrant as Was the City's Purchase of the New Engine-house Site—No Deception Practised by Mr. Finch, Nor on the Respectability of the Neighborhood, and a Slap at the Council.

[Publication of the following is authorized by the board of education.]

A few weeks ago, in the performance of the duties devolved upon it by the laws of the State, and the trust conferred upon it by the citizens of Plainfield, the board of education purchased a piece of property looking to a further increase in the school accommodations of the city, rendered necessary by the enlarged attendance. This act of the board has been made the occasion of much criticism in certain quarters, and also, professedly because of this purchase, the mayor and common council have taken it upon them to attempt a change in the laws of the State, taking away certain powers and trusts granted by law and the citizens to the board of education in order that the same might be transferred to them. In view of these facts, and also because of misrepresentations arising from ignorance, which have been made regarding the powers of the board and of the necessities of the case, the members of the board have thought best to make the following statement to the public, that the people may judge as to the propriety of the actions of the board, and also of that of the city authorities.

1—AS TO THE NEED OF ANOTHER SCHOOL HOUSE.

Notwithstanding the recent enlargement of the Bryant school and the cutting off of two extra class rooms from the Assembly hall in the Stillman building the present season, there is not now a single vacant class room in the city, except in the Irving building, while many of the rooms are overcrowded already. The Irving school was built three years ago in a rapidly growing section of the city, with provision for the supposed necessities of five years growth. The wisdom of this is now evident, as it bids fair to be crowded by the time the five years are up. Two additional class rooms were occupied in that building at the beginning of this school year. But the now vacant rooms in that building are not available to relieve, even temporarily, the overcrowding in the other buildings because of its distance. Scholars can not be sent two miles from their homes.

Another year will see the demand for more room greatly increased—for instance, the second grammar class in the Franklin school, which now is crowded into two rooms, will next year number 160 pupils, and can not be accommodated with less than three rooms. It is true that there are vacant desks in some of the rooms, but these can not be utilized by scholars in other classes, nor can other pupils be transferred to these classes without doing violence to the system of grading, and injury to the pupils themselves; and extra seats are always necessary to provide for changes in grades as they occur. In the High school the classes are necessarily smaller, and for this reason there is room for the admission of pupils from outside the city limits, by means of which a large part of the expense of maintaining the High school is provided for without taxation.

By reason of the above facts it is patent to the board that another building must be provided at as early a day as practicable.

2—SHALL IT BE A HIGH SCHOOL?

The needed building might be either a primary, a grammar or high school, and by relieving the present buildings, supply practically to the same extent, the demand. The cost of the building would also be about the same whichever grade it was built for, and it therefore became a question for the board to settle, which would be of the most benefit to the schools and the city. In the matured opinion of the board, and of both the former and the present superintendents, it was thought better to give up the rooms in the Stillman building now used for the High school, to the grammar grades, for which they are better adapted, thus massing the grammar classes mainly in the Stillman and Franklin buildings, and devote the new building to the High school, where its needs could be better provided for.

The board is aware that there long has been, and to a less extent now exists an idea that the public funds should not be used to furnish a higher education than could be obtained in what was known as the "common schools", but the majority of our citizens realize that the exalted reputation of the Plainfield High school, known far and near as one of the best in the land, has done very much to render Plainfield a desirable place of residence, and so has doubtless added far more than its cost to the taxable valuation of the city. In addition to this is the fact that this same reputation has drawn so many scholars here from other places to share its benefits, that the tuition received from them is sufficient to pay all the extra expense necessary to maintain this High school at its level; that is to say, that if our High school was degraded to the level of those of many other cities and boroughs, the saving would not be as much as the loss of tuition. The amount of tuition for the present year will be about $3,300, the most of which comes from High school pupils.

3—THE SELECTION OF THE SITE.

Having this end in view, the board have for some time been looking for a suitable site for such a High school building. It was desirable that it should be centrally located, not too near, and yet not far from the grammar schools, for the sake of easy supervision, in a healthy and respectable part of the town, away from the distraction of business and the noise of the railroad. Several sites were considered but when the Wadsworth property was found to be obtainable at a very reasonable figure, the board unanimously decided that it was the most desirable for the purpose, and it was therefore purchased.

4—THE OBJECTIONS RAISED.

Immediately the purchase was made there arose a curiously mingled hue and cry against the board and its individual members, and against this particular purchase. The first one passed unnoticed. The objections to the site seem to have been two-fold—its cost and its location. As to its cost, which was said to be extravagant, etc., no one seems to have given the board credit for ordinary business sagacity. It was assumed that the present buildings on the property would be torn down and the entire plot used for the school. While in the opinion of many of the friends of the schools that, even, would have been wise, the board planned to move the dwelling on to one edge of the lot, and after the sale of that have left a large lot for the school, at a very low figure. In the opinion of many good judges so desirable a lot for so little money could not have been purchased elsewhere in the city.

The objection to the locality has mainly arisen from a few of the property-holders in the vicinity, under the impression that property near a public school would depreciate. As the proposed school will be a high school, with scholars who [illegible] have themselves as much, with no out-buildings or play-grounds, it is difficult to see how it could prove itself a nuisance to any neighborhood. In fact, others of the neighbors have expressed their preference for such a school-house over the numerous small houses and shanties which in the greater probability would have been built on the property had it fallen into other hands. The former owner parted with the property at a sacrifice because the house was not good enough to warrant keeping up so large and expensive grounds, and the locality was not good enough to warrant the erection of another dwelling house in keeping with the grounds. All the conditions seemed to point to this particular site as the best possible for the purpose the board had in view.

In regard to the criticisms on the method of purchasing the property through an individual member of the board, it is sufficient to call attention to the fact that the common council employed precisely the same method in the recent purchase of a site for an engine house, only that in that case an agent was permitted to earn a commission, which in the case of the board was saved to the city. The board made even less effort to keep the real purchaser in the background; it bought through its secretary, the council through an agent. In the negotiations no misrepresentations were made by the secretary of the board.

5—THE POWERS OF THE BOARD.

The powers of the board of education have been strangely misrepresented. In common with most boards elected by the people and entrusted with specific duties and responsibilities, the Plainfield board of education is given sufficient power to carry out its trusts, and no more. The same as many other boards of education, trustees of public libraries, etc., it is given the power to determine within a given limit the amount of money necessary to be raised for the use of the particular interest in its charge, the city authorities are charged with the duty of assessing and collecting the same, and when collected the board has the exclusive right to dispense it. In the case of this board the citizens at an election held for that purpose Dec. 7, 1887, by a two-thirds majority vote fixed the amount to be raised annually for the running expenses of the schools at fifty cents on one hundred dollars of taxable valuation. In addition to this the people and the State law empower the board to build school houses from time to time as it may become necessary, but not more than one in any year; and for this purpose the board is authorized to raise money by mortgaging the school property in its possession. The board has no power to issue bonds. The only bonds which have been issued for school purposes in Plainfield were voted directly by the people, of which bonds there are now outstanding only $2,500. The board of education can put no lien on a dollar's worth of taxable property, nor can it ask the city to raise by taxation more than one thousand dollars in any year in payment of the indebtedness of any school building. It will be seen how quickly it must reach a limit to the amount of money it can spend for school houses—because as soon as the property in its possession is mortgaged as highly as it will stand, no more can be borrowed, but the board must await the slow process of paying off the indebtedness at the rate of $1,000 each year on each mortgaged school, until enough is paid off to permit of borrowing again for building another.

This is a very different thing from the statement of his honor the mayor to the common council, that:—"This law as seemingly interpreted by the board gives to it the power to expend for the current expenses of the public school system each year an amount not to exceed one-half of one per cent. of the taxable valuation, and in addition such further sum as the board may consider necessary for the purchase of lands and erection of buildings for school purposes. This amount the board is authorized to have added to the tax levy and assessed against the taxpayers without regard to public opinion on the subject." It need not be said that had his honor interviewed the board before writing the above, he would have found that not only such was not the interpretation which the board put upon the law, but that the law is incapable of such an interpretation.

6—HOW HAS THE BOARD EXERCISED ITS TRUST?

But once in its history namely in 1885, has the board called for the whole of the one-half of one per cent which the people have voted to put within its power. On the contrary, every effort has been made to keep the expenditure as low as possible consistent with maintaining the quality of the schools where public opinion requires it to be. Last year the school tax was reduced below that of the previous year, notwithstanding an increase in the number of teachers; and it is a notable fact that this was the only item of the tax levy which was reduced, notwithstanding the common council was elected with the express purpose of correcting the extravagant expenditures of the previous "combine".

It had been claimed that the cost of the schools is too high in comparison with others, and very unfair parallels have been drawn between Plainfield and some other places where very little money is spent, and the quality of the schools is in proportion to their cost. The last State report published is for 1891, and its statistics are somewhat out of date, though it is from them that all such comparisons have been drawn. It shows that the cost per head of average attendance in all the cities of the State—ranging from $12 94 in Phillipsburg to $30.56 in Bloomfield—averaged $20 82, while Plainfield was $25 12, Bordentown was $21.15, Camden $20 90, and Montclair $29.79. Thus it will be seen that in Plainfield's very superior schools the cost is less than half that of the highest, and only twenty per cent. above the average.

In the matter of school houses also the action of the board will stand the closest scrutiny. Even its bitterest enemies have not had the hardihood to impugn its acts in this respect. A witness taken to Trenton to testify in favor of the mayor's bill could only say that the board had built the best of school houses and with the utmost economy. The deputy State superintendent of public instruction has stated that nowhere in the State has fewer school houses or more economically built. Even the mayor has expressed himself as fully satisfied with the board in this respect, though, for an unexplained reason, he has influenced the common council to pass a resolution without discussion, and sought to rush through the legislature a law to prevent the board doing anything more in this line, which law was "to take effect immediately".

7.—WHAT WOULD BE THE GAIN BY THE PROPOSED LAW?

The plan of the mayor to transfer to the common council the trust which the people have confided in the board of education, would [illegible] a divided responsibility, whereby neither party would be held accountable to public opinion. It would place the question of when, where and how a school house should be built in the hands of a body generally selected by ward "bosses", elected by political pull, swayed by political reasons, and frequently managed by political rings, unfamiliar with the needs of the schools, and [illegible] rather than in a body selected by the people at large because of their adaptability to the specific purpose, [illegible]

Royal Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

limit the expenditures for schools". Would it limit them? As stated above, the board is closely limited in the amount that it can spend, and has no power to place a lien on any taxable property. The common council, however, by a law passed March 21, 1892, has the power, without asking leave of the people, to issue bonds for the purchase of lands and the erection of school houses to an extent not exceeding ten per cent. of the assessed valuation of the city, which bonds will be a lien on every dollar of taxable property in the city. This means for Plainfield a limit of $650,000 of school bonds, if the mayor's bill becomes a law! And as the same law also provides for the taxation of one-third of this amount in one year, under the mayor's little innocent bill, the taxpayers might be called upon to pay on bonds and interest the snug sum of $236,000 in one year's taxes, instead of a possible $11,000 to $12,000 at the utmost under the present conditions. That might be a gain to some councils, but hardly to the tax-payer.

The people of Plainfield are respectfully requested to consider the above facts before deciding that there should be an upheaval of the foundations of their public school system, which has so long been the pride of the city. Plainfield has always led the State in educational matters. The first common school in New Jersey was in Plainfield, and all the legislation in the State for public instruction has been based upon what has been done in this city. To-day, as in the past, no school system in the State surpasses, if it equals this; no more competent, devoted and enthusiastic corps of teachers can be found in the United States than we have in Plainfield; the work of the schools is equal to any, and in the recent examinations in Yale the students of our High school outranked those from the most famous academies of the land. All this has been largely the result of the system under which the board of education is elected and empowered. The change which has been proposed would be seriously for the worse. Are the citizens of Plainfield ready and willing to see their fairest structure undermined?

GEO. H. BABCOCK,
JESSE LYMAN HURLBUT,
J. B. PROBASCO,
E. L. FINCH,
FRED. C. LOUNSBURY.

March 7, 1893.

HONEYMAN FOR MAYOR.

After Much Casting About, the Newspaper Man Is Nominated.

The North Plainfield Republicans are in sore straits. They can't possibly elect any man for mayor against the universally esteemed Wm. L. Saunders, who will be renominated by the Democrats to-morrow night. Mr. Saunders has conducted so admirable an administration that he can't now be spared in view of the problems that are to be decided this year, in which his practical knowledge and executive ability are needed. Yet in spite of all this, the Republicans insist on putting up a man to be knocked down.

At their primary in the basement of the school-house, Wednesday, B. A. Hegeman, jr., was first named, by F. A. Emmons, for mayor. He was absent, but his father said for him that he positively would not accept. L. S. Woolston suggested striking off the jr. Dr. Carman was named, but as THE PRESS had predicted he positively declined. H. M. Spencer's active mind decided that some dark horse who was not present to decline would be the only one likely to stay on the ticket over night. He therefore nominated A. V. D. Honeyman, owner of the Trenton Times, stockholder in the Somerville Unionist-Gazette, and editor of the New Jersey Law Journal. Mr. Spencer's encomium was: "He is a sterling Republican and a first-class man." Mr. Honeyman was unanimously nominated, and everyone breathed a sigh of relief.

The efficient officers of the evening, for both township and borough meetings were: Justus H. Cooley, chairman; Horace J. Martin, secretary. The nominations were all unanimous. There was no opposition to anything. Most of the candidates are re-nominees. Here's the list:

TOWNSHIP.

For Town Clerk—Horace J. Martin.
For Town Committeeman—Elias Allen.
For Overseer of the Poor—J. W. A. [illegible].
For Justices of the Peace—Thomas B. Crosby, Daniel Acker.
For Commissioners of Highways—Michael Powers, Joseph P. Humble.
For Commissioners of Appeal—James S. [illegible], D. R. Weaver, Johnathan Clawson.
For Constables—John W. VanHorn, Thomas McDonald, Job Coddington.
For Pound Keepers—Patrick Egan, Godfrey Reich, Samuel Taynor, John Stein.
For repair of roads outside of the borough—$1,000, ($400 to remain in hands of township committee).
For support of poor—$1,500 ($500 to remain in committee's hands).
Salary town committeemen, $50 year.

BOROUGH.

For Mayor—A. V. D. Honeyman.
For Councilmen—George F. Edwards, Robert Fountain. (Charles P. Sebring, George Hallock, J. B. Joseph and T. W. Morrison all were suggested, but declined.)
For roads—$2,500 ($300 on Somerset street.)
For borough purposes—$1,500.
For board of health—$200 (a very commendable innovation, as suggested by THE PRESS).

F. A. Emmons, H. E. Needham and H. M. Spencer were appointed a committee to fill vacancies.

HYMENEAL.

Milliken—Bennett.

A pleasant home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. I. Bennett, Prospect avenue, Dunellen, Thursday evening, March 2, when their daughter Mollie was married to E. Edgar Milliken by the Rev. A. I. Martine of the Dunellen First Presbyterian church. The bridal couple, preceded by the bridesmaid, Miss Maggie Bennett, sister of the bride, escorted by Wm. Milliken, brother of the groom, marched into the front parlor to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Buckley of Plainfield.

The bride was dressed in a charming gown of white, and carried a bouquet of white roses.

There were 75 guests from Plainfield, Rahway, New York and Dunellen, who wished the happy couple much joy, after which all partook of a sumptuous repast, and dancing was indulged in by the young people. The gifts were both numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the newly-married couple were held.

Mr. and Mrs. Milliken will board at 230 West Front street until the completion of the house which is in course of erection for them on Seventh street, Plainfield.

DISGRACEFUL WATER STREET.

Is the Council Waiting a Lawsuit, Before It Remedies the Evil?

The condition of Elm place is a standing disgrace to the city. THE PRESS has for months been calling attention to the wretchedness of the thoroughfare, and the citizens have long been petitioning for its betterment. Elm place is a surface sewer for Front street extending both ways. All the Front street water drainage from both directions empties into Elm place. Yet the street is in no condition to carry this water to the brook, and even in summer time the roadway and sidewalks are continually a mass of mud-puddles, through which pedestrians have to pick their way over planks floating about. In winter time the water accumulates and freezes and accumulates and freezes, till one passing through from Front street to the brook can readily imagine himself fording a glacier. Last night and to-day the condition was particularly bad. At the Front street crossing there was and is a mass of puddles a foot deep, with only a narrow ice-covered flagstone to pass by. More than one pedestrian fell last night and was hurt in trying to pick his way past the pitfall, which was in darkness, as the rays of the nearest electric lamp were hidden by a tree trunk. One man found himself wading through a pool as broad and deep as Green brook, and another slipped on the glare of ice on the crossing and fell heavily, seriously bruising and cutting himself and getting thoroughly wet in floundering trying to gather himself into shape. The result is that to-day he is painfully stiff and sore and suffering from a severe cold and chill as the effect of his icy bath. Elm place should have its name changed back to Water street again. It is almost always submerged. What is wanted is to have the walks flagged, gutters formed and curbed, and a steady down-grade established from Front street to the brook, so that these pools of water can no longer accumulate. Let the walks be put in condition and the gutters kept clear, and a great and necessary public improvement will have been accomplished. Why do n't the councilmen of the district do something in the premises? In other parts of the city when a cowpath in the "City Park", or some other trivial or important matter occurs to the councilman of the district to mention, he generally succeeds in pushing the scheme through promptly. Why can't Messrs. Bird and See be as considerate of and faithful to their constituents? These constituents are complaining that these representatives do nothing in council but audit bills and vote for the other councilmen's motions. Let them redeem themselves by making a stir for Elm place and putting it in respectable shape. It has been a dangerous pit fall long enough.

SHOT AT HIS DAUGHTER.

But Subsequently Captured and Held to Await the Action of the Grand Jury.

Henry Wendel of South avenue, Dunellen, is accused of making a desperate effort to shoot his daughter yesterday morning.

Wendel keeps a boarding house. During Tuesday night he was attacked with some sort of a spell. Early in the morning, it is alleged, he shot twice at his daughter. The first shot grazed her forehead, and the second punctured her coat on the left shoulder. The girl and all the other inmates of the house then ran out and escaped.

Constable Warden was notified. He went to the house, but found it barricaded and Wendel stood at a front window threatening to shoot anyone who ventured to enter.

Finally he was coaxed to accompany the officer to justice Peter Huff's office, where the revolver was taken away and the accused was held to await the action of the Middlesex county grand jury.

WHO IS HE!

So Far, for Decent Plainfield's Sake, This "Crank" Is Utterly Unknown Here.

The following correspondence speaks for itself. If it should also serve the purpose of identifying "Mr. Hickson"—whom everyone who has been questioned, takes satisfaction of denying any knowledge of—steps may be taken to have him examined and sent to the Morris Plains asylum for the insane:

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 28, '93.

To Station Agent, Lakewood, N. J.:

Will you please, for the benefit of the citizens of Plainfield, ask the conductor of the train that is to rid Lakewood of Grover Cleveland if he won't have the train go through Plainfield at the greatest speed possible on Thursday as we do not want Grover in our Place one second longer than is possible—we do not want the fair name of our city tainted.

J. G. HICKSON.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 2.

What "Crank" is this who writes me?

C. J. PARMENTER, Agt.

Plainfield's Players in Paterson Hands.

It is understood that manager Ramsey of the Paterson base-ball team will put a professional team in the field next season, and that he will send a semi-professional team here to enter the Central New Jersey League. Murphy, Bonner and Leidy are spoken of as three of the team. Ramsey, it is said, has been boasting that he has signed all of the Crescent League players except Murphy and Leidy. The latter, especially, played good ball last season, and is worthy of a good place in the base-ball world during the coming summer.

Novel Test of a Plainfield Preacher.

(Dunellen Weekly Call.)

The Rev. C. E. Herring of Plainfield was present and conducted the service in the Presbyterian chapel Tuesday evening. He spoke with a great deal of force from the passage, "Who shall withstand His cold?" The lessons he deduced from those words were pointed and as well practicable. A large number were out to hear him notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather.

The best builders use only the best materials—lumber, brick, lime, cement, sand—whatever goes into the construction of a building; they employ only the best workmen and pay the best wages; they get better prices for their work than their less careful competitors, and always get the best contracts; they paint their work with manufactured by the "Old Dutch Process" of slow corrosion, and with one of the following standard brands:

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" "Bradley"
"Brooklyn" "Jewett"
"Ulster"

For colors they use the National Lead Company's Pure White Lead Tinting Colors. These colors are sold in small cans, each being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade. [illegible]

NATIONAL LEAD CO.

MR. HONEYMAN ACCEPTS

Frank and Open Letter of the Republican Nominee to the Republican Committee.

Messrs. F. A. Emmons, H. M. Spencer and H. E. Needham, Committee.

GENTLEMEN: Your notification that the Republicans of the Borough of North Plainfield, at a primary meeting held on Wednesday evening, March 1, unanimously tendered me the nomination of Mayor to be voted for at the ensuing election has been thoughtfully and earnestly considered.

My private wishes, as you are aware, are averse to an acceptance; and especially since it is well known, not only that the office has responsibilities not conjoined with any salary, but that the holder of it usually finds his task thankless and without the hope of convincing all his constituents that his own views on leading Borough questions are upright and regardful only of the public welfare. This latter fact, probably, has in other years induced many, whose long residence in the Borough and peculiar business fitness had pointed them out conspicuously as the most proper persons to hold this office, to decline even suggestions of a nomination to it; and I must frankly say it has made me seriously consider whether I am called upon to make the sacrifice necessarily involved in a campaign, which invariably has some disagreeable elements thrust into it.

But I have come to the conclusion, as aided thereto by your kindly personal sentiments and assurances of party harmony, that the objections named constitute all the stronger reasons why I, as a citizen, should respond to a nomination made with spontaneity of feeling and from right motives, as to a call to duty; and that no man, whose private business does not absolutely preclude his attention to borough affairs, or who has not other equally strong reasons, has a right to decline the use of his name for so honorable a public purpose.

It is because of indifference to such calls that New Jersey is to-day, as a State, in the hands of men who have succeeded in overthrowing the long-established laws hedging about our public virtue.

With this view of my duty as a citizen, a view I have always urged by pen and speech, I am obliged to place my name and services at your disposal in the matter of the hoped-for election of a Republican Mayor and Council for your borough.

I have resided in your county now for the past twenty-three years and have of late made your borough, which for beauty, prosperity and the intelligence of your citizens is second to none in this State, my home. You have great advantages both of location and of a good name, (which is better than wealth), and magnificent opportunities for the future. Be assured then, that, whether elected to this office by the suffrages of your voters or not, I stand ready to be counted with you in assisting in every effort put forth, public or private, to enhance the material and moral advantages of a residence among you; to uphold law and order; to sustain all proper reforms and improvements; in a word, to promote whatever is useful, wholesome and good. With all our citizens acting, regardless of party affiliations, toward these common ends, what may the future of North Plainfield not be?

Yours faithfully,
A. V. D. HONEYMAN.

North Plainfield, N. J., March 4, 1893.

JUDGE WADSWORTH RIGHT.

The Verdict of the Jury Which Disregarded His Charge, Is Set Aside on Appeal.

Last November, a Plainfield jury disregarded the instructions given to them by justice L. F. Wadsworth in his charge. The case was that of Newhall vs. Moore. The jury found a verdict in favor of Moore. The justice told them that Mr. Newhall would undoubtedly appeal to a higher court and the verdict would be set aside in a jiffy. The jury, however, thought they knew more law than did the justice. It has turned out that the justice was right, and the jury was wrong. Judge McCormick and a jury yesterday heard the trial on appeal. Craig A. Marsh appeared for Newhall, and Wm. K. McClure for Moore. Newhall won. Judge McCormick charged the same as justice Wadsworth. Newhall will get $140, besides costs of suit, being the amount he demanded with interest besides.

—Six hundred dollars is the amount of money appropriated for street work at Dunellen. Most of the money is this year being used to macadamize side streets.

MR. McCLURE ON SNOW DRIFTS.

An Opinion from the County Attorney, and an Application from the Plainfield Electric Railway.

The meeting of the Union county board of freeholders, Thursday afternoon, was short, the only matter over which there was any debate being the question of the responsibility of the freeholders to make the county roads passable when blocked by snow drifts, or whether it was the duty of the townships.

Mr. Kyte and Mr. Scudder in their townships put men at work, cleared away the drifts, and submitted the bills to the county road inspector, who refused to certify them until the board had ordered him to.

County attorney McClure gave an opinion that the freeholders were obliged to keep the roads passable in winter as well as summer, and the bills were justified as cases of emergency.

The board voted to pay the bills, but Mr. Sauer, of the road committee, said that in the future he would not, as one, audit such bills unless the county road inspector was notified and the work done under his supervision.

The Elizabeth and Plainfield Electric Street Railway company made application to lay tracks over the South avenue bridge in Westfield township. The petition was referred to the county road committee.

THE PLAINFIELDER WON.

Ex-President Smith Secures an Important Contract in Spite of Fierce Opposition.

Seymour G. Smith, ex-president of the Plainfield common council, has after six months hard fighting against almost crushing competition secured the contract to build a garbage cremator for the city of Scranton, Pa. Mr. Smith already operates a big garbage crematory just outside New York city. The board of health of Scranton awarded the contract for that town to Mr. Smith unanimously, over all competitors. In the furnace which Mr. Smith now will build and operate, all the kitchen refuse, night soil and other garbage will be entirely consumed, without disagreeable odors, and at a cost of only eight cents each cubic yard. The furnace burns only two tons of coal every 24 hours. The cost of construction will be $6,500. The system of cremation is known as the Vivarttas method, with which Mr. Smith has been highly successful in various parts of the country.

Mr. Finch Proud of His Achievement.

The board of education is still satisfied with its Wadsworth "investment". Mr. Finch announced last night that the city's revenue from it was $80 a month as long as the present tenants remain. Of course real-estate speculation and renting business is what the school trustees are elected for!

The People Will Be Grateful.

Everyone will be glad to know that the High school graduating class of '93 purpose reducing the time of the commencement exercises to two hours. There will be fewer essays and more frequent music, and in every way the exercises will be less tiresome and dreary. They have always been too long and monotonous for hot weather.

Two Women Speak

For the benefit of others.

Miss Helen Smith,

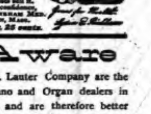
43 22d Place, Chicago, Ill., says:—

"I was troubled with irregularity and leucorrhœa. I followed Mrs. Pinkham's advice, took her Vegetable Compound, and used her Sanative Wash. I now feel like a new woman, and am perfectly healthy."

Mrs. E. Fox,

Woodstown, N. J., writes:—

"I had been sick 10 years with womb trouble and leucorrhœa. I could do no work. Doctors could not help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Now I can do all my work, and stand nearly all day, and not feel tired. I cannot thank you enough. I recommend it to every woman who has any weakness."



All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. Co., LYNN, MASS. Liver Pills, 25 cents.

Are You Aware

That S. D. Lauter Company are the largest Piano and Organ dealers in this state, and are therefore better able to show you the best and highest grade instruments at the lowest possible price?

We sell Pianos and Organs for cash or on such easy payments that it puts them within the reach of all. New Pianos rented.

S. D. LAUTER COMPANY,
657 and 659 Broad Street, Newark, N. J

A Fall in Prices
OF FINE CLOTHING.

NO BOGUS AUCTION OR FIRE SALE IN THIS.

From now until Jan. 1, 1893, we will offer values in fine clothing for men, youths, boys and children, such as we or no other house in this city ever approached.

Our clothing at ordinary prices is cheap, but as at present marked the word cheap does not half express the situation. We mean to break the record this year and we take the present method of a

General Sweeping Reduction

To attract an unusual amount of trade.

THOUSANDS OF OVERCOATS,
THOUSANDS OF SUITS,
THOUSANDS OF PAIRS OF PANTS,
THOUSANDS OF BOY'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S SUITS,
HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS.

Correct in style,
Perfect in fit,
Well made and trimmed.

Each and every garment of which was made right here in Newark under our own supervision, offered at lower prices than trash at the fake sales so often advertised.

Come and see your eyes. Come and save money.

N. B.—Our store will be open evenings next week until 9 p. m. Saturday nigh 11 p. m.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad S, NEWARK, N. J.

HOMES FOR THE PEOPLE.

Plans and Specifications for a Handsome House.

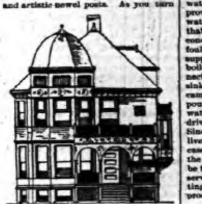
How Twenty-Five Hundred Dollars Can Be Invested to Excellent Advantage—Practical Hints for Those Intending to Build.

[Special Architectural Letter.]

This very artistic home, containing ten rooms, including the reception hall, and built upon a stone foundation, can be erected for $2,500.

This house has very many pleasing features, as shown by the plans.

You enter over a veranda, 7x10 feet, through a vestibule, 4½x5½ feet, which contains a tile floor and a very beautiful vestibule door with one large piece of bevel plate glass extending from top rail of door to the bottom rail. When you find yourself in the reception hall, which is 8½x11½ feet, and look to the right you will see a den, 4x8½ feet, which can be treated with draperies, seat, sconce, etc. The stairway leading to the second floor will be of red oak with a very neat balustrade and artistic newel posts. As you turn to your left and walk over the red oak polished floor of the reception hall you enter the parlor through one of four large sliding doors, which all open from one center column and close against the same. The parlor is 12x20½ feet, and at one end you find a bay window formed by the shape of the tower that continues up to the third story or attic.

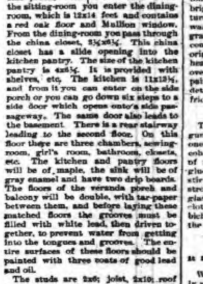


A $2,500 HOUSE

This parlor bay has three windows—one looking onto the veranda. The gas-lights shown are arranged for a piano. From the parlor you get a very impressive view of the interior arrangement of the house. Practically speaking, the rooms all become one when the four sliding doors are thrown open. The sitting-room is 14x15½ and has a bay with three windows, one being the Mullion landscape window. From the sitting-room there is a door leading to the side porch, which is 5x14 feet. From the sitting-room you enter the dining-room, which is 12x14 feet and contains a red oak floor and Mullion window. From the dining-room you pass through the china closet, 3½x6½. This china closet has a slide opening into the kitchen pantry. The size of the kitchen pantry is 4x8½. It is provided with shelves, etc. The kitchen is 11x13½, and from it you can enter on the side porch or you can go down six steps to a side door which opens onto a side passageway. The same door also leads to the basement. There is a rear stairway leading to the second floor. On this floor there are three chambers, sewing-room, girl's room, bathroom, closets, etc. The kitchen and pantry floors will be of maple, the sink will be of gray enamel and have two drip boards. The floors of the veranda porch and balcony will be double, with tar-paper between them, and before laying these matched floors the grooves must be filled with white lead, then driven together, to prevent water from getting into the tongues and grooves. The entire surfaces of these floors should be painted with three coats of good lead and oil.

The studs are 2x6; joist, 2x10; roof rafters, 2x6; valley rafters, 2x8; ridge rafters, 2x10; wall plates, 2x16, and beam, 8x10 inches.

The basement wall will be of rubble, sixteen inches thick. The chimney will start from the ground, and where shown above the roof will have pressed brick, capped with smooth sandstone.



FLOOR PLANS.

The trim will be of a neat kind, having a square corner block and a smooth plain oblong plinth, with 4-inch face plain casing eased off at corners. The wood in all rooms on the first floor is to be Georgia pine and all the woodwork on the second floor clear pine, to admit of oiling or painting, as owner may see fit. All must be free from defects of any kind and perfectly kiln-dried. All the floors will be double, with paper between, and in no case must the finished floor be laid until all plastering is done. The first and second floors will be plastered two coat work. All principal rooms will be provided with neat centers. The corners of all the principal rooms will have coves without moldings. The picture molding will be placed 18 inches below the ceiling so that when the ceilings are tinted the tinting will extend from tops to the picture molding. All space above the molding (where the frieze would be if there were one) must be treated as a ceiling.

The vestibule, reception hall and den will have colors representing amber, light for the ceiling and dark for the walls. The parlor ceiling is to be tinted a light lilac and the walls of the same mauve color. The sitting-room will look well with some warm tint and the dining-room will look very pretty with a light yellow ceiling and ochre colored walls. The house is piped for gas and furnace. There are electric push buttons from the four doors to an annunciator in the kitchen, and also a buzz from the center of the dining-room floor to the kitchen. There will be speaking tubes from the front chamber to the kitchen and laundry. The entire house is sheathed with matched flooring, with tar paper over it, and over the tar paper the shingles and siding are laid. The siding will be 4 inch o. g., laid 3 inches to the weather and to be of A No. 1 quality. All shingles for the roof will be extra Star A Star, and all shingles used on belt course will be round, butt dimension, California red wood.

The ornamental work shown is of composition carving. The exterior would look well painted a tuscan red for anyone who prefers a dark colored house, and to one that desires a light attractive house a light emerald green with white trimmings would be very acceptable. The first story is 10 feet in the clear; the second story is 9½ in the clear; basement, 7 feet. All glass will be American, double strength, except where plate, art or beveled is mentioned. The owner will furnish all shelf hardware, art glass, bathroom fixtures, walks, sheds and fence. The basement contains furnace-room, laundry, coal bins, vegetable rooms, etc.

GEORGE A. W. KINTZ.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

SILICATE of soda united with ground glass makes an acid-proof cement.

THERE are 175,000 incandescent lamps used in Paris. They require a horse power of 17,500.

THE soldering of aluminium is said to be easily and cheaply effected by sprinkling the surfaces to be joined with chloride of silver and melting down.

IT has been found that the average life of a ship built in the United States is 28 years; in France, 29; in Holland, 28; in Germany, 28; in England, 26; in Italy, 27, and in Norway, 40. The average [illegible] a per cent., and the term rear a per cent.

A NEW hot-box alarm consists of a cylinder connected with the journal, a solid that easily liquefies under heat filling the cylindrical space. A plunger operating a hammer rests upon this solid, and when the latter melts by the heating of the journal a bell is thus rung automatically.

MR. OLIVET, of Geneva, has brought out a system of electric heating for conservatories. A dynamo worked by a motor sends the current into receivers of special metallic composition, which become rapidly heated up to a certain temperature. This naturally sets up a heated air current sufficient to warm the conservatories.

VEGETABLE GROWTH.

It Caused Some Trouble in the Water Mains at St. Paul.

A vegetable growth in the water mains at St. Paul, Minn., has lately, according to the Engineering Record, been the cause of some trouble. The first case was discovered by the superintendent, in one of two service pipes in a single trench supplying a double house. A complaint was made of bad water, which flushing failed to improve. One of the pipes delivered pure water and one supplied a muddy liquid that was of no use. This fact led to the conclusion that one of the services was foul; and the remedy applied on this supposition proved effective. The boiler of a portable engine was connected with the faucet of the kitchen sink from which the muddy water came, and a steam pressure of 70 pounds forced against the 35 pounds water pressure for 30 minutes—thereby driving the water out of the pipe. Since that time the pipe has always delivered clear water, and twelve similar cases have been successfully treated in the same manner. Great care has to be taken that there are no leaks in the service pipes, and that none of the fittings are open during the steaming process.

The Nervous System.

